I expect more goodness from Kate, my wife, from Philip Melanethon, and from other friends, than from my sweet and blessed Saviour, Jesus Christ: and yet I know for certain that neither she nor any other person on earth will or can suffer for me what He has suffered; why, then, should I be afraid of Him? This, my foolish weakness, grieves me very much. We plainly see in the gospel how mild and gentle He showed Himself toward His disciples; how kindly He passed over their weakness, their presumption, yea their foolishness. He checked their unbelief, and in all gentleness admonished them. Moreover, the Scripture, which is most sure, says: "Well are all they that put their trust in Him." Fie on our unbelieving hearts that we should be afraid of this man, who is more loving, friendly, gentle, and compassionate toward us than our kindred, our brethren and sisters; than parents themselves are toward their own children.—Luther.

The Bible.

Who composed the following description of the Bible we may never know. It was found in Westminster Abbey, nameless: but nevertheless it is invaluable for its wise and wholesome counsels:

A nation would be truly happy if it were governed by no other laws than those of this blessed book.

It contains everything needful to be known or done.

It gives instruction to the Senate, authority and directions to a magistrate.

It cautions a witness, requires an impartial verdict of a jury and furnish es a judge with his sentence.

It sets the husband as the lord of the household, and the wife as the mistress by the table: tells him how to rule, and her as well how to manage.

It entails honor to parents, and enjoins obedience to the children.

It prescribes and limits the sway of the sovereign, the rule of the ruler, and the authority of the master, commands the subject to honor, and the servants to obey; and the blessings and protection of the Almighty to all who walk by its rule.

Waiting for Invitation.

THERE are a great multitude of people just outside the church railing who would like to come in. They are not quite certain whether we ecclesiasties want them inside. Let us drop our exquisite essays, and come down and give them a warm-hearted exhortation, and they will step in at the first call. The people have no idea that a sermon is intended to save them. It is a work of fine art that they come to look at on Sundays, as they look at Church's "Cotopaxi." They sit admiring the colors and the perspective. They want to know whether the sermon is according to the best rules; whether the introduction leads naturally into the main subject; whether the heads of discourse are rightly proportioned; whether the illustrations are classical; whether the sermon is over thirty five minutes long. Bosh! When will ministers and laymen find out that a sermon is good in proportion to the number of souls it saves? Let us next Sunday go to our people with a red-hot talk, and urge them to come in to the Gospel banquet. They are waiting for an invitation.—Talmage, in Christian at Work.

Smooth Things.

Flatterers are ever false. Yet flattery in one form or another is grateful to nearly all. Many people like to have their qualities appreciated, but more like to have them over-estimated. Self-conceit invites the language of adulation, and in turn exaggerates the meaning of merely complimentary words. It is always dangerous to place a proper self-respect at the mercy of those who will flatter for their own ends:

"True dignity resides with him alone,
Who in the secret hour of sober thought
Can still suspect and still revere himself
As man."

When [illegible] flattery rules the pulpit, and preachers of the Gospel prophesy smooth things because the people like to have it so, then the beguilement of words is Satanic in spirit and in effect.

The Gospel is a discovery of man to himself. It is intended to let him see the plague of his own soul. It holds up the mirror to nature as it is. But is there not much of socalled preaching in our day which ignores human depravity, apologizes for wrong doing as an infirmity, and makes small account of the deceitfulness of sin while it prates of the dignity and capability of human nature?

We believe that a successful pulpit will tell the truth plainly in love. It will not handle the Word of God deceitfully. It will not keep back the hard "sayings" lest they should prove distasteful. The Gospel is gentle, but it is also honest. It is the word of salvation; but if man is not lost, how can he be in want of the great physican? There are times when preachers should have great boldness in the faith.

There are sins of Pharisaic impiety in the church to be denounced. There are crimes in high places to be held up for abhorrence. There are Balaams and Iscariots and followers of Simon Magus even now making merchandise of the things of the kingdom, No dulcet pipings, but trumpet blasts are needed on the walls of Zion.

A Church Incident.

A religious paper published in New Orleans, the Southern Presbyterian, says: "Several years ago a devoted minister was conducting a prayer meeting in a quiet and pleasant town in Mississippi. The leader of the meeting chose as the subject of his remarks a portion of the fifth chapter of Matthew. As he proceeded to the twenty-third and twenty-fourth verses of that chapter, his heart caught the spirit of the Master's words and was enlarged with the importance of the direction contained in them. As he looked over the audience his eye caught the presence of two Christian ladies, who were well known to be on terms with each other not altogether friendly. The minister himself knew that their grievances were such as not to allow them to speak to each other. Feeling the force of the scripture on which he was speaking in its direct application to them, and not wishing to seem personal in his remarks, the minister turned his eye away from them and appeared to ignore their presence. As he proceeded, in order to turn attention away from the two sisters in question, he selected a good Christian lady, sitting in the nearest pew immediately on his left hand, and apparently directed his address to her. His eye rested on her because he supposed, in the goodness of her heart, not an unkind feeling could ever be indulged toward any one, and toward whom an unfriendly feeling could not possibly be cherished by another. In this way the minister supposed he would prevent the appearance of being personal. But who can imagine the surprise of both speaker and audience, when this lady, thus directly addressed, arose to her feet under the power and the influence of the truth, and in the presence of the audience, walked quietly to the opposite side of the house and cordially embraced a lady to whom she was not before willing to speak, and with tears of emotion, besought her pardon and reconciliation. The effect thus produced was so melting in its influence on the hearts of the other two sisters that they could no longer retain their seats, but both simultaneously arose and likewise in the presence of the audience embraced each other."

When Lacondamine, in the year 1745, visited the region of the Andes, the height of the city of Quito was determined at 9,596 feet above the level of the sea. In 1803 this had decreased, according to Humboldt, to 9,570. In 1831, Bonssingault found it to be 9,567, while Orton, in 1867 reduced it to 9,520; and, finally, Reiss and Stubel, in 1870, found it to be but 9,356 feet above the sea-level. Assuming the correctness of these measurements, Quito must be approaching sea-level at the rate of 240 feet in 125 years.

Newspapers.

Small is the sum that is required to patronize a newspaper, and most amply remunerated is the patron. I care not how humble or unpretending the gazette which he takes, it is next to impossible to fill a sheet fifty times a year without putting into it something worth the subscription price.

Every person whose son is off away from home at school, should be supplied with a newspaper. I well remember what a difference there was between those of my school mates who had, and those who had not access to newspapers. Others being equal, the first were always decidedly superior to the last, in debate and composition, at least. The reason is plain, they had command of more facts.—Youth will peruse a newspaper with delight when they will read nothing else.—Judge Longstreet.

The Bible Prohibited.

Dr. Franklin, in his own life, has preserved the following singular anecdote of the Bible being prohibited in England, in the time of Mary the Catholic. His family had then early embraced the Reformation. "They had an English Bible, and to conceal it the more securely they conceived the project of fastening it open, with pack-threads across the leaves, on the inside of the lid of a stool. When my grandfather wished to read to his family, he reversed the lid of the stool upon his knee, and passed the leaves from one side to another, which were held down on each by the packthread. One of the children was placed at the door to give notice if he saw an officer of the spiritual court make his appearance; in that case the lid was restored to its place, with the Bible concealed under it as before."

Development of Intellect.

Chatterton wrote all his beautiful things, exhausted all his hopes of life, and saw nothing but death at the age of eighteen. Burns and Byron died in their thirty-seventh year, and doubtless, the strength of their genius was over. Raphael, after filling the world with wonder, perished also at thirty seven: Mozart earlier. These might have produced still brighter works. On the other hand, Handel was forty eight before he gave the world "assurance of a man." Dryden came up to London from the provinces, dressed in Norwich drugget, somewhat above the age of thirty, and did not even then know that he could write a single line of poetry; yet what towering vigor and swinging ease appeared all at once in "Glorious John." Milton had, indeed, written "Comus" at twenty eight; but he was upwards of fifty when he began his great work. Cowper knew not his own might till he was far beyond thirty, and his "Task" was not written till about his fiftieth year. Sir Walter Scott was also upwards of thirty before he published his "Minstrelsy," and all his greatness was yet to come.

HOW TO SPELL SHAKESPEARE'S NAME.—For one hundred and fifty years critics have disputed over the correct way to spell the name of Shakespeare. The Troy Times thinks that the reason that the Bard of Avon induced Juliet to enquire, What's in a name?" was for the purpose of discovering the correct orthography of his own name, and says that in some of the earlier editions of Shakespeare it reads "What's in his name!' or, in plain language, "How many letters are in his (Shakespeare's) name?" The spelling of Shakespeare's name has been an orthographical puzzle that critics for a century and a half have labored over. Stevens, Drake, Dr. Johnson, Rood, Hazlitt, Chateaubriand, Lamartine, Ulrich and Bodenstedt spell the name with ten letters, thus - Shakspeare. Chidworth, Mason, Heath, Lord Campbell, White, Gnizot and Horn insist on eleven letters, thus—Shakespeare; while still others, though less in number and ability, declare for only nine letters, thus—Shakspere.

SCIENCE.

The King of Siam has given great satisfaction to the scientists of England, by offering the English Royal and Astronomical Societies a very liberal opportunity for observing the total eclipse of the sun in April next in his kingdom. He promises to consider them as his private guests during their visit, and will take on himself their entertainment, and provide them with transport for themselves and their instruments from Bangkok to the station selected by them and back again, and will erect such temporary buildings as are required for them and their assistants. This is a very generous offer, and will doubtless be accepted.

Mr. Henry S. Parmelee, of New Haven, Conn., has invented an automatic fire extinguisher, which has been satisfactorily tested. It consists of sprinklers attached to the water pipes in a building in such a manner that the water from them will entirely cover the ceiling and floor. Over each sprinkler is placed a metallic cap, which is fastened in position by solder, fusible at 155 degrees of heat.—The theory is that in case of fire, as soon as the heat reaches that height at the cap, the solder will melt, when the force of the water will throw off the cap and let nearly two hundred fine streams on the fire, and exactly where the fire is, and nowhere else, as no sprinkler can be opened except by fire. There is attached to the supply pipe a valve which opens as the water rushes through the pipe and sounds an alarm by a steam-whistle, if there be a boiler on the premises, or by striking a bell.

Many experiments have been tried in France to test the effects of cold on railway axles. Many engineers suppose that accidents to wheels do not result from any diminution of tenacity of the metal, but merely from its losing all its elasticity owing to the frost hardening the surface of the earth. A fact which can be adduced as a strong argument in favor of that theory was observed by the inhabitants of Montmartre during the last period of frost. The passing of the trains which run so frequently through the Batignolles tunnel at a distance of half a mile was heard by them day and night, which is never the case in ordinary circumstances. As soon as the thaw set in the trains ceased to be heard; the earth having resumed its former elasticity, the sounds were dissipated as before. It has been observed by French railway engineers that thaws are apt to lead to the breaking of axles and chains. The elasticity being only partially recovered, many shocks affect the trains when running at a fast rate, and are apt to lead to catastrophes.

Humorous.

A LIBERAL ALLOWANCE.—"Can't you make any allowance for a man's being drunk?" "Certainly!" said the Judge, "I'll allow you thirty days in the workhouse."

TOO CHEAP TO BE GOOD.—"What'll you ask to warrant these horses good?" asked a buyer of a horse dealer. "O, don't trouble yourself, I'll warrant them good for nothing," was the equivocal reply.

THE VENGEFUL HEN.—"What's the matter with you, my pet?" "O, anny! I just went to touch a little chickey, and the old hen growled at me and bit me with her nose."

Josh Billings says: "If you are going to give a man anything, give it to him cheerfully and quick, don't make him get down on his knees in front of you and listen to the ten commandments and then give him five cents."

A would-be school teacher in Toledo recently replied to a question by one of the examiners: "Do you think the world is round or flat?" by saying, "Well, some people think one way and some another, and I'll teach them round or flat just as the parents please."

In the Rondout Methodist church on a recent Sunday morning the usual donning of overcoats was proceeding amid considerable confusion, but had not been completed when the pastor, Rev. J. J. Dean, arose to pronounce the benediction. He paused a moment and said: "Brethren, I guess I will put on my overcoat hereafter during the benediction, so as not to lose any time."

"Eat your bread, Charles - do not fling it away," said a learned and good Judge to one of his family, adding, "for who knows, in the vicissitudes of this life, if you may not some day want it." The old gentlemen had to cough, look learned and go away, when the youngster answered more logically, "If I eat it, how can I have it when I want it?" This is the result of a learned Judge having children.

One of the boys just before returning to Cornell, the other day, sent a young lady friend of his a cake of Lubin's finest variety of toilet soap, with the request that she would draw no inference on receiving such a gift. The next day the young man was somewhat astonished when he received a letter from the young lady containing the present of a fine-tooth comb, with the request that he would draw no inferences therefrom.

Bishop Ames tells a story of a slave master in Missouri, in the olden time of negro vassalage, who said to his chattel: "Pompey, I hear you are a great preacher." "Yes, massa, de Lord do help me powerful sometimes." "Well, Pompey, don't you think the negroes steal little things on the plantation?" "I'se mighty frail they does, massa." "Then, Pompey, I want you to preach a sermon to the negroes against stealing." After a brief reflection, Pompey replied: "You see massa, dat wouldn't never do, cause 'twould trow such a col'ness over de meetin'."

An old lady in Lockport recently achieved eminence by carrying a quart of popped corn to a donation party, and eating two dozen fried oysters, a pound of crackers, three slices of fruit cake, half a mince pie, and some apples, after which she was threatened with a "spasm," and in the effort to prevent it she sacrificed all the wine there was in the house. She attends donations regularly, and does a good deal for the church in that way.

Ir buds must be buds just so long in order to make fit leaves and flowers, and fruits, so our tender buds, the children, in order to make strong men and women, ought to stay children just so long, and not "come out" before their proper time. There is no advantage in trying to be men and women too soon. It spoils them for being true men women at all. We should not push children into studies, duties, feelings, or enjoyments, beyond their years They must grow to them. That is God's way.

Let young people remember that their good temper will gain them more esteem and happiness, than the genius and talent of all the bad men that ever existed.

Farm, Garden & Household.

When to Cut Timber.

An Arkansas correspondent of the Scientific American says. "I came here 30 years since, and began clearing land and building houses with hewn logs and boards split from the trees. After several years' residence I noticed that very often pieces of the same kind of timber decayed more quickly than others; and after much thought and observation I came to the conclusion that timber felled when the leaf first commenced to grow rotted the sap off very quickly, but the heart remained sound; that timber felled after the fall of the leaf rotted in the heart, even when apparently sound on the outside. When firewood cut in the winter was put on the fire the sap came out of the heart, but when cut in the summer the sap came out of the sap wood, and next the bark. I notice also that all our lasting wood has but little sap at any time in the heart—such as cedar, mulberry, sassafras, and cypress. A cypress post cut in the summer of 1838 is still sound, although exposed to all weathers, while one of the same kind of timber, cut in the winter of 1856, and painted, has rotted in the heart. I saw yesterday a piece of gum plank which I sawed in the summer of 1856, that has lain ever since, and is perfectly sound: while oak timber that was felled in the winter before is now entirely rotten. My conclusion then is: Cut timber after full leaf, say in July and August, to get the most last from it. The sap goes into the heart of the tree after leaf-fall and causes decay.

Vegetable Seeds to the Acre.

It is often a question how many seeds to procure for sowing. The following table gives the quantity of the leading articles usually sown to the acre. Of course, it is important to get good seeds. Some few seedsmen mix bad seed with the good, excusing themselves on the ground that people always sow too thick. Few of good character do this of course, It is always best to examine seeds carefully before sowing. The tables are intended for good new seed:

Beans, dwarf in drills	1 to 1½ bush.
Beans, Pole in hills	10 to 12 qts.
Beets, in drills	5 to 6 lbs.
Cabbage, in beds to transplant	½ lb.
Carrot, in drills	3 to 4 lbs.
Corn, in hills 3x3	8 to 10 qts.
Corn, for Soiling 4x4	3 bush.
Cucumber, in hills	2 lbs.
Mustard, broadcast	½ bush.
Melon Musk in hills	2 lbs.
Melon, Water, in hills	3 to 4 lbs.
Onion, in drills	4 lbs.
Onion, for Sets, in drills	6 to 12 bush.
Parsnip, in drills	3 to 6 lbs.
Peas, in drills	1½ bush.
Peas, broadcast	3 bush.
Potato, (cut tubers)	4 to 10 bush.
Pumpkin, (in hills)	4 to 6 lbs.
Radish, in drills	8 to 10 lbs.
Sage in drills	8 to 10 lbs.
Salsity, in drills	8 to 10 bush.
Spinach, in drills	10 to 12 lbs.
Squash, (running varieties,) in hills	3 lbs.
Squash, (bush varietnes,) in hills	4 lbs.
Tomato, to transplant	½ lb.
Turnip, in drills	1 to 2 lbs.
Turnip, broadcast	3 to 4 lbs.
Barley, broadcast	2 to 3 bush.
Broom Corn, in hills	8 to 10 qts.
Clover, Red, alone	10 to 15 lbs.
Clover, White alone	10 to 12 lbs.
Clover, Alsike, alone	8 lbs.
Clover, Lucerne, alone	20 lbs.
Grass Mixed Lawn	2 bush.
Oats, broadcast	2 to 3 bush.
Rye, broadcast	1½ to 2 bush.
Vetches, broadcast	2 to 3 bush.
Wheat, broadcast	1 to 1½ bush.
Timothy, alone	½ bush.
Millet	½ to 1 bush.

The Christian Advocate.

OFFICE- Corner of Dawson & Hargett Sts

THE ORGAN
OF THE
NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE
OF THE
M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

Rev. J. B. Babbitt, R. T. Gray, Esq., } Editors.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

FOR ONE YEAR, IN ADVANCE, POSTAGE PAID,	$2.20
SIX MONTHS, " "	1.35
If payment be delayed six months,	2.70

All letters on business with this office should be addressed to the Editors of the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

RALEIGH, N. C., MARCH 10, 1875.

The Cross (X) Mark is to remind you that your subscription has expired. Let all renew promptly.

Daily Preaching.

It is impossible to estimate the true value of a holy life Men are impressed and drawn to Christ by the conduct and example of the really good. It is said that action speaks louder than words. A life controlled by the teachings of God's word and all radiant with the love of Christ is a powerful sermon against sin and unrighteousness. Professing Christians should be "living epistles known and read of all men." The most faithful and eloquent preaching in the pulpit fails to win those who are disgusted and repelled by the unholy, inconsistent conduct of those who claim to be Christ's representatives. If all the gospel sermons preached on the Sabbath were re-enforced by the eloquence of beautiful, exemplary, useful and holy lives, the number of conversions to Christ would be multiplied ten fold. God intends that every professor of Christianity and member of His church shall be a preacher of righteousness. Every life is a sermon. Some church members, we fear, find their text in the shop—in trade—and they preach (by practice) that the chief end of life is to make money. They make more converts to mammon than to Christ. Others preach (by their example) fashion and self-indulgence. They attract more to the pleasure party and to the places of gaity and mirth than they do to the prayer and class meeting. The minister may solemnly and faithfully enforce the eighth commandment from the pulpit on the Lord's Day, and yet if those who should represent Christ to the world, over-reach their unconverted neighbors in business during the week, the force of the Sabbath instruction is lost. It is the combined weight of the sermon through the week that carries more influence than the one or two sermons on the Sabbath. What professing Christians do when outside of the sanctuary, influences more characters and moulds more eternal destinies than what any one Christian minister can say when inside of the sanctuary, even though he were a Paul in eloquence. The secret of Paul's success in winning souls to the Gospel of the Cross was the blessed truth so prominently set forth in his life that "Christ liveth in me." His own heroic and holy life was the grandest epistle he ever produced to the world. A Christ like life is the mightiest human influence to attract human souls to God.—Truthfully it may be said that the most unanswerable argument against the subtile scepticism of the day is the living active Christian. Every true Christian is specially commissioned to win souls to Christ. "He that converteth a sinner from the error of his way shall save a soul from death and hide a multitude of sins." O what a gift—what a boon, what a power to be made the humble instruments in the hands of God in saving sinners!—It is more to be desired than the eloquence of a seraph! Let the church pray for that grace which will cause their light to shine forth to the world that others may see their good works and be constrained to glorify the Father in Heaven. Be like the "city set upon a hill," for "ye are," says Christ, "the light of the world."

PRESS THE CANVASS.—We trust all our preachers and layman will interest themselves in circulating the Advocate. With a little attention and insisting, the paper can be placed in the hands of thousands of our people. Surely no one can object to the price, since it is published at lower rates than any other paper in our church.—Now is the time to press the canvass.

Rev. Dr. Kennedy, the able and popular president of Asheville Female College favored us with a visit the past week. We are glad to learn that the College, under his management, is prosperous. He brought us the gratifying intelligence of a general revival of God's work in many portions of the Holston Conference. Hundreds have been converted and added to the church.

We were pleased to receive a visit the past week from Rev. V. A. Sharpe, agent for Trinity College, and Rev. H. H. Gibbons, of the Tar River circuit. They were both in excellent health and spirits, and fully enlisted in the Master's work.

Rev. R. L. Abernethy writes that there are 160 or more students at Rutherford College at present, with a small increase every week. The lumber for the new college is on the grounds and the workman ready to begin the building.

The Duty of Education.

Not the least important duty that rests upon a State or community, is the education of the children within its bounds, and the money appropriated to such a purpose by parents or the government, yields greater and better returns than any other expenditures. It is false and foolish economy that would cause a father to withhold the advantages of education from a child because of the expense incurred—nay, it is injustice and cruelty for which punishment, in some form or other, will be meted out to the recreant father. So, too, is it a false and foolish policy that communities and States adopt when they refrain from taxing themselves liberally for the support of schools and colleges in their bounds. No taxation for educational purposes can be called heavy and burdensome. Taxes levied upon a people for building school houses, endowing institutions of learning and throwing open their doors for the diffusion of intellectual light and morality is not money taken from them to be retained at their expense, but only to be restored to them in a different and more valuable shape—in increased intelligence, brighter refinement, stronger morality and enhanced value of property in the community.

The first duty, as it is the best policy, of government is to crush out the ignorance and enlighten the mind of its citizens. Idleness, pauperism, contempt of law and crime, the outgrowths and parasites of ignorance, flourish in proportion to the prevailing ignorance in a State. Intelligent men are apt to be good and law abiding citizens, while all forms of law are continually transgressed by those whose moral sense has never been quickened by mental culture.

Rev. Dr. Rosser, whose labors in this city we have repeatedly alluded to, took leave of us last week to spend some time in Wilson, where he will hold a series of meetings in the Methodist Church of that place. The Doctor has greatly endeared himself to the people of Raleigh, by his visit to us and by his able, faithful ministry and zeal for the salvation of souls.—His preaching is of a high order, and his power of endurance in the performance of ministerial labor is wonderful. For three weeks and more he remained with us preaching every night, except two or three, (when prevented by the inclemency of the weather) and twice for four Sabbaths, and was as fresh and vigorous in thought and physical strength apparently, when the meeting closed, as he was at its commencement. We have the promise of an occasional article from the Doctor for publication in this paper. He will give an account of his visit to and labors in Raleigh and Wilson.

A Terrible Disaster.

While a congregation of 1,200 persons was worshiping in St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Church in New York, last week, a prevailing wind-storm threw the upper high wall of an adjoining building upon the Church, crushing in the roof upon the heads of the people. A fearful panic ensued and in the excitement the danger was enhanced. Five persons were killed outright and many wounded, both by the falling of the roof and by being crushed in the effort to escape from the building. Large contributions have been made for the relief of the sufferers.

We are glad to know that the Legislature has passed a bill incorporating the Widows' and Orphans' Benefit Society of the North Carolina Conference M. E. Church, South. The officers of the Society are preparing for active operations. Agents are wanted in every circuit and station in the Conference. Address T. C. Williams, Esq., Warrenton, N. C.

The Civil Rights bill has passed both houses of Congress and is now the law of the land. As a matter of information to our readers we give the bill as passed by Congress in our news department of this issue. It is regarded by lovers of civil liberty as unwise and unnecessary legislation.—Time will tell. We advise patience and forbearance.

The sales of the Methodist Book Concerns at New York and Cincinnati, during the year ending November 30th, 1874, aggregated the sum of $1,552,048.50. At the Methodist Book Concern, New York, the increase of sales over those of the previous year was $8,040.78, a total increase for the year of $92,639 69. The Agents say in their report, after giving the figures: "In view of the fact that the year was one of great depression generally, we think this is a very favorable result.

Bishop Whittingham, of the Episcopal Diocese of Maryland, refused to participate in the consecration of Rev. Dr. Dudley, as Assistant Bishop of Kentucky, on the ground that a bishop shall be the husband of one wife. Dr. Dudley having been twice married.

The United Presbyterian Presbytery of Edinburgh have had under consideration the draft of the new hymn book. Various hymns were omitted and emendations made in others.

The Southern Methodist Book Concern has just issued a Spanish Hymn-book, for the use of the Mexican mission. The Discipline has already been published in that language.

Civil Rights

We publish in another column the text of the Civil Rights bill which received the President's signature last week and is now a law of the land—a permanent law, most probably, which may be enlarged in the future to give greater privileges to the colored man, but which is not apt to be restricted in its provisions. We think it an unwise law and have always deprecated its enactment. Evil may result from it, but we trust that the Southern people will possess themselves in patience and offer no resistance to its operation. The church, cemetery and school clauses which were contained in the Senate Bill last year, are omitted in the one which has just passed into a law, and this omission makes the enactment less obnoxious than it would otherwise be. While we condemn the motives which evidently influenced the passage of the bill, we do not think that its practical operations will be of much account. There will, of course be some colored people whose impudence will cause them to insist upon the largest privileges guaranteed them by the law, and to render themselves disagreeable and obnoxious to the whites, at hotels and in railway cars and places of amusement, but they will be few in number. The average negro knows his place and will keep it. Society will regulate itself—legislation may force some associations but they will not last long. An inferior feels more of uneasiness and nervousness in the presence of a superior than the superior does of disgust at the proximity of the inferior, and will not court such presence. A bear placed among gentlemen will do no more of elbowing than is necessary to get on the outskirts of the crowd. Oil and water will not mix, nor will the negro hope or attempt to enjoy an association which is wrung from the whites by overhanging fines and penalties.

The Theater Controversy.

Dr Talmage thus responds to the effort of Vandenhoff to destroy the force of his sermons against the modern theater:

"Professor Vandenhoff covered up this city with advertisements: "Vandenhoff versus Talmage." He first demolished me in Brooklyn in the Academy of Music, and two nights after he demolished me in Steinway Hall, New York In the audience room of our beautiful Academy of Music, which holds three thousand people, he had on a clear night a beggarly attendance of two hundred and fifty! That was his first demolishing. Then he went to New York, and in a vast hall, that holds between two and three thousand people, had another audience of two hundred and fifty. That was the second time he demolished me. He is out of pocket some five or six hundred dollars, I am told. Poor man! I am sorry for him If he will come to me I will help pay the deficit. But he has shown to all this country that in our great cluster of cities, with more than a million population, there can be got together only five hundred people on the side of immorality and against the Church of the Son of God! Be encouraged, all Christian people. The brothels will go down. The grog shops will go down The theaters will go down. You and I may not live to see the consummation of all our wishes, but the cause of God is marching on in the world, and organized iniquity shall perish, and the throne of righteousness shall be established in all the earth. Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, from everlasting, and let the whole earth be filled with his glory. Amen and amen!"

The Revival in England.

There is no question that the work of grace under the preaching of Messrs Moody & Sankey is one of the most remarkable in these times, or, indeed, in any period of the world, A writer in the Methodist (London) Recorder says of the scenes in Shelfield:

"Day by day and night after night immense crowds are assembled. The Albert Hall, it is said, has had more people in it at one of these services than have ever come together for any other object. At the noon prayer-meeting the attendance is upwards of three thousand. In the afternoon at three o'clock—the Bible-lesson—it is packed in every available place, and in the evening another hall is occupied in addition. Some who knew the town well, and the habits of the hundred thousand who go to no place of worship, predicted but a limited success, but now skeptics are saying, 'The town has gone mad over two revivalists.' In the evening of the 6th a meeting, for the men only, was announced in the hall, after the large concourse had been dismissed. Shortly after nine o'clock, we looked on the faces of from 3,000 to 4,000 hard-headed workingmen. It was a sight never to be forgotten. The attention as Mr. Moody discoursed on 'taking the water of life freely' was most marked. Since then a separate meeting has been held every night for men. On Sunday morning last a meeting for Christian workers was held at eight o'clock, and notwithstanding the rain, that must have kept numbers at home, it is supposed there were not less than 3,000 present."

Dean Stanley has been making another sensation by preaching a sermon on the subject of "sacrifice," in which he plainly intimated that the laity have just as much right as the clergy to offer up the Christian sacrifice of the Eucharist.

The Churches North and South.

The following first appeared in the Union and Advertiser of New York. It was written, says the editor of that paper, by one of the most prominent and esteemed members of the Methodist Church in Western New York:

"The beginning of strife is as when one letteth out water; therefore leave off contention before it be meddled with. * * * As a roaring lion, and a raging bear, so is a wicked ruler over the poor people. The prince that wanteth understanding is also a great oppressor."—Solomon. Proverbs.

The recent overwhelming Mill River disaster was preceded by little leaks and lettings out of water that led to the sudden and unlooked-for catastrophe. In all ages the blundering, folly and wickedness of unwise and reckless rulers have been the occasion of disturbances, wars and social anarchy of States and kingdoms. The Israelites, in their forty years' wanderings under the wise and skillful leadership of Moses and Aaron, were trained and disciplined to become a united and powerful people in the land of promise. Their subsequent history under princes wanting understanding is written for our instruction and admonition. The long struggle of our Revolutionary period, under Washington and the great patriots and statesmen who laid the foundations of our government, consolidated us into a prosperous and united people. Our subsequent brilliant career until our recent disastrous civil war is well known. The war ended in the discomfiture and humiliation of the people of the South. The relation of master and slave was broken up at once and forever, and both were left almost equally poor and helpless. And, what is more, both were almost equally objects of the greatest charity and commiseration. The condition of the South at the close of the war invited and demanded the largest exercise of Christian philanthropy and liberality, and the wisest and most sagacious legislation and statesmanship. But what have we seen? On the part of Congress the lowest and most malignant partisanship in order to secure the ascendancy of the blacks and the Republican party in the South. On the part of the church—excepting the Catholics and Episcopalians—a hard faced, unrelenting proscriptive policy which opposed all efforts for fraternity and reunion, with the satanic demand for "disintegration and absorption of the churches South. The great Methodist Episcopal Church—built up by the heroic and united labors of the fathers—under a mutual Plan of Separation, divided mainly upon the question of slavery in 1844 The war crushed out the institution, and the churches stood at its close almost one in doctrine and discipline. Why not now, O victorious Northern Church, reach out the hand of amity and Christian fellowship to thy poor, humiliated Southern brother? Why adopt the policy of antagonism to the Southern Methodist Episcopal Church by organizing another Methodist Episcopal Church in the South? Why levy heavy contributions on the people of the Northern Church to sustain and maintain such a violent, unchristian conflict? Why prostitute the honored Missionary Society of the church to the infamous work of "disintegration and absorption?"

Notwithstanding the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in 1852, maintaining the Plan of Separation and the property rights of the Methodist Episcopal Church South under it, a demand is made by some that the present Supreme Court shall review that decision—a review that will transfer the entire property of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, held at the adoption of the plan in 1844, to the Northern Church. In opposition to the editor of the Methodist, a correspondent of that paper in a recent article strongly urges such a review on the ground of the unconstitutional action of the General Conference of 1844. No wonder that Bishop Bowman complains of ungenerous treatment in the South, and that Bishop Haven shuns and shirks his designated residence at Atlanta. No wonder that the excessively loyal and Radical leaders who manned the press and committed the Methodist Episcopal Church to the infernal policy of destroying the Methodist Episcopal Church South, have backed up Congress and Grant in every step they have taken to despoil and crush the whites and the Democracy of the South.

Against this insane policy Conservative and Democratic members of the Methodist Episcopal Church have uttered but feeble protests. If Bishops, preachers' meetings and the whole family of Christian Advocates have formed an unholy alliance with Grant and the Republican party to crush out the Democracy by a repetition of the Louisiana outrage throughout the Southern States, the interests and the peace of the church demand that the compact should be exposed and broken. When the halls of the Boston Theological Seminary are opened to the wicked and insane ravings of Ives, the "great dedicator," and when those incendiary ravings are set forth and trumpeted as Northern Methodist opinions of the people South, the madness and malignity of such speeches should be disowned and repudiated by every honest member of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Lest the roots of bitterness should be forgotten between Northern and Southern Methodists, the New York Christian Advocate is giving its readers a long serial history of "Methodism and Abolitionism"—a rehash of the quarrels of the past on that delectable question.

NOTICE.

The Sunday school Society of the North Carolina Annual Conference, will convene in the Methodist Church in Greensboro, Friday April 30th, 1875, at 9 o'clock, A. M.

The Committee of Arrangements will publish the programme of exercises in due time.

L. S. BURKHEAD,
President.

A negro was last week admitted into the senior class of boys in the high school in New Orleans. Twenty out of twenty-two in the class left the school immediately. There was no disturbance.

Rev. E A. Yates.

DEAR SIR AND BRO: I am very sorry to see you so much exercised over the few remarks submitted by "Layman" relative to the "Curse of Blood" and as none others have taken exceptions, the reader may draw his own inference. You very positively disclaim personalities; would it not have been as well to wait until you were charged with it? I simply asked the question must go to it or he will never "reach" it; it will not come to him to be reached. Our Lord calls us to be carriers of his message to men. We have the Word of God in our hands, the word which is the Spirit, and yet we are more like the warrior youth who complained that his spear was too short. Our business is to "add a pace to it." It is "quick and powerful" both to hurt and to heal the wicked heart, but it must be thrust into that heart. And for this work of thrusting men our Lord commissions his disciples.

He himself lived and worked among the masses. They heard him gladly. He reached them, and we may reach them. Of the average Christian he spoke, probably, when he said, "Greater works than these which I do shall he do also, who believeth on me," and this is why he shall be able so to do because he shall have a risen, reigning Christ to preach, who is himself according to promise, with his disciple "even unto the end of the world," and, because the Spirit accompanies him on his mission.

This going to the masses is not the work of ministers alone Indeed they can be only leaders in it. But of what avail are a few generals, however skilful, without an army. The hosts of sin are great. They are aggressive in spirit. They yield only to an overpowering force. As in the conflict of the soul the whole energy of man the help of the divine Spirit are needed to secure a victory, so in the field of battle which is the world, the united forces of the Christian name inspired by the Christian spirit and reinforced by the conscious presence of the Lord of Hosts are needed for a conquest. But how do we find the Christian army, on inspection?

Is not the wonder that it has done so much, rather than that it has done so little? What divisions in the rank! What negligence and desertion even, in front of the enemy. What quarreling with each other and fighting each other rather than the common foe. What reason have we to expect great victories or permanent triumphs by such an army, when we see that the opposing force is thoroughly united in spirit and purpose at least to resist an invasion of their territory. Verily God has done great things for his church whereof she ought to be glad, as she doubtless is. But she has done very little herself; little absolutely, and still less comparatively, than she might have done. And if she is ever to do more, it must be by an increase of faith in God, and by a more nearly universal obedience to his commission to go out into the world and work for his glory in the salvation of men.

Recent Publications.

THE LIFE OF CHRIST, by Frederic W. Farrar, D. D., F. R. S.; Late Fellow of Trinity College. Mast of Marlborough College and Chaplain in ordinary to the Queen. E. P. Dutton & Co. New York, Publishers, Retail price $2.50.

We have received the above book from the publishers and rank it among the most valuable in our library. Dr. Farrar is a man of eminent ability in England and by his studies and calling was qualified for the work which he has accomplished. But few books have met with such cordial and complimentary reception at the hands of the Press as this latest "Life of Christ" and few deserve so justly the encomiums which it has received.

OUR CHURCH IN SANDBURG, by Rev. S. W. Moore, D. D., of the Memphis Conference, with an introduction by Thos. O. Summers, D. D., Southern Methodist Publishing House, Nashville, Tenn.

We acknowledge the receipt of the above entitled book from our excellent friend and brother Rev. V. A. Sharpe, who is making earnest efforts to circulated the publications of our Publishing House.

The book is something after the style of "Post Oak Circuit," so well known to Southern Methodists. We cannot describe it better than in the words of Dr. Summers who says, concerning it: "The fluctuating fortunes of a small station are truthfully depicted—pastors are individualized—there were twenty six in "Our Church in Sandburg," during the thirty years over which this history extends—Presiding Elders are photographed—local preachers are brought into favorable notice—the inevitable contention about instrumental music, with the usual victory on the side of those who advocated its use-suppers, concerts, etc., to raise supplies—development in the Sunday School-attainment of a respectable social status and settled prosperity—all these, and other matters, are presented with striking verisimilitude, as if the author, as will be suspected, had been quorum pars. * * * * Those who wish a pleasing and correct concrete view of Methodism in this region—the system in its actual working will find it in this charming volume."

We are under obligations to John N. Staples, Esq., of Guilford, for a copy of his speech delivered on the Usury Question in the House of Representatives. The speech of Mr. Staples is regarded as the best and most exhaustive argument made in favor of the Bill, and while we cannot endorse his position, we are nevertheless rejoiced that Mr. Staples, our personal friend, has taken so prominent a rank during the first session of his legislative experience.

We have received a copy of the speech delivered in the House of Representatives of the U. S. congress by Hon. W. M. Robbins, the Representative from the Salisbury District. We have not had time to peruse it as yet, but feel assured that Mr. Robbins sustained his reputation as an able and eloquent defender of his native section.

We acknowledge the receipt from Senator A. S. Merrimon of a copy of his able speech delivered in the U. S. Senate in defense of the South Its delivery occupied six hours and it, together with other speeches that he has made in the Senate, reflected credit upon him and the State of which he is so able a representative.

Preaching the Masses

The Christian Era, of Boston, a prominent Baptist paper, has an excellent article upon this subject, from which we make the following extract:

"Can the masses be reached at all? Of course they can. But we must go where they are since it is quite certain that they will not come to us. It is the old story of Mahomet and the mountain over again. The prophet must go to it or he will never "reach" it; it will not come to him to be reached. Our Lord calls us to be carriers of his message to men. We have the Word of God in our hands, the word which is the Spirit, and yet we are more like the warrior youth who complained that his spear was too short. Our business is to "add a pace to it." It is "quick and powerful" both to hurt and to heal the wicked heart, but it must be thrust into that heart. And for this work of thrusting men our Lord commissions his disciples.

He himself lived and worked among the masses. They heard him gladly. He reached them, and we may reach them. Of the average Christian he spoke, probably, when he said, "Greater works than these which I do shall he do also, who believeth on me," and this is why he shall be able so to do because he shall have a risen, reigning Christ to preach, who is himself according to promise, with his disciple "even unto the end of the world," and, because the Spirit accompanies him on his mission.

This going to the masses is not the work of ministers alone Indeed they can be only leaders in it. But of what avail are a few generals, however skilful, without an army. The hosts of sin are great. They are aggressive in spirit. They yield only to an overpowering force. As in the conflict of the soul the whole energy of man the help of the divine Spirit are needed to secure a victory, so in the field of battle which is the world, the united forces of the Christian name inspired by the Christian spirit and reinforced by the conscious presence of the Lord of Hosts are needed for a conquest. But how do we find the Christian army, on inspection?

Is not the wonder that it has done so much, rather than that it has done so little? What divisions in the rank! What negligence and desertion even, in front of the enemy. What quarreling with each other and fighting each other rather than the common foe. What reason have we to expect great victories or permanent triumphs by such an army, when we see that the opposing force is thoroughly united in spirit and purpose at least to resist an invasion of their territory. Verily God has done great things for his church whereof she ought to be glad, as she doubtless is. But she has done very little herself; little absolutely, and still less comparatively, than she might have done. And if she is ever to do more, it must be by an increase of faith in God, and by a more nearly universal obedience to his commission to go out into the world and work for his glory in the salvation of men.

"Perhaps"

Just think of it! Of what Why of "Perhaps." It is most highly esteemed by writers, and speakers too, if we may form a judgment from the great use that is made of it, by them. There is a big book lying on my table, of more than 700 pages—it is a sort of religious book—but it has "perhaps" "probability," and "seems," together, more than 350 times on its pages. Some great writers make such frequent use of "Perhaps" as to destroy all the good their writings otherwise would accomplish. Some of the able writers of the long articles now in course of publication in the Advocate, use "perhaps" to their damage. Every body knows that "perhaps" expresses doubt, and some other "perhaps" may be as near the correct position. One 'perhaps' is always a good off set to another 'perhaps.'

It most certainly is of doubtful propriety to use "perhaps" in religious faith. It is altogether too expressive of uncertainty.

March 1875. BEN ELLETT.

MESSRS. EDITORS: The Agent of Trinity College, Rev. V. A Sharpe, has honored Hillsboro Station and Flat River Circuit with his presence and labors during the last ten days—five of which it has been raining, and all the time the roads in some places almost impassable. But in these ten days he has preached six sermons—earnest, plain, practical gospel sermons—in the demonstration and power of the Holy Ghost, delivered five lectures on education in general, and Trinity College in particular; made one temperance speech, and in addition several shorter talks on subjects which came up in two of our Church Conferences held while he was present. He has kindled in the minds and hearts of my people a deeper interest in Trinity College than they ever felt before, and caused them to give it more material aid than ever before. He has helped me in almost every department of my work. By his well directed zeal, warm hearted practical piety, deep interest in the different enterprises of the church, and in the welfare of the people, he has won the hearts of all.—We pray for his success everywhere, and in conclusion assure him that people and preacher will always give him a cordial welcome to any part of Flat River Circuit.

T. J. GARRIS.

Hillsboro, N. C., March 2nd, 1875.

OUR LIVING AND OUR DEAD.—Published at Raleigh N. C., S. D. Pool Esq. Editor.

We have received the March number of this excellent publication. The contents of the present number are interesting and highly creditable to the literary taste, industry and enterprise of its editor. It is published in book form and consists of about 130 pages of reading matter. Miss Fisher, the distinguished Carolina authoress, and Mrs Cicero W. Harris, (nee Miss Carrie Jenkins) a writer of growing reputation, are contributing serial articles There are also articles from Rev. A. W. Mangum, T. B. Kingsbury Esq, and others. We are glad to see the evidences of prosperity which mark the publication of this magazine.

Religious Brevities.

The Religious Telescope, published at Dayton, O., has in its issue of the 17th ult, three columns and a half of revival intelligence.

According to a recent statement there are in this country 7 Catholic archbishops, 53 bishops, 4,873 priests, and 6,920 churches, and stations.

A granddaughter of Dr. Paley has beaten all the boys at Cambridge, England, in moral science.

The Irish Sustentation Fund receipts up to the present time, (embracing three quarters,) amount to £14,361 as against £13,594 at the corresponding period of 1874.

There are two things about which you should never grumble: The first is that which you cannot help, and the other that which you can help.

A deputation of French priests have presented to the Pope addresses from 160 foreign bishops and 3,000,000 Roman Catholics begging him to consecrate the Universal Church to the Sacred Heart of Jesus. The petitions are enclosed in thirty magnificently bound volumes.

The Archbishop of Canterbury has prepared a form of service to be used at the launching of any vessel belonging to the British navy. The service begins with Psalm 107, beginning at verse 23, "They that go down to the sea in ships."

An influential meeting of ministers and elders has been held in the Assembly's offices, Belfast, for the purpose of organizing an association for preserving the purity and simplicity of the worship of the Presbyterian Church.

The Baltimore Conference of the M. E. Church, South, met in annual session at Mt. Vernon Place Washington city, March 3, Bishop Marvin presiding.

In the City

C. H. Belvin, Esq, has been appointed Pension agent at Raleigh.

The cotton receipts in the Raleigh market for February were 4,356 bales, against 2,555 bales for the same month of last year.

The name of J. D. Cameron Esq., Editor of the Hillsboro, RECORDER, appears over the Editorial columns of the Daily NEWS, of this city, Mr. Cameron is one of the most accomplished and scholarly writers in the State and the columns of the NEWS are greatly improved by the products of his pen.

It is said that a Bill will be filed in the Equity side of the Federal court to determine whether the act recently passed by the Legislature amending the charter of the city of Raleigh, is in conflict with the laws of the United States.

The Lee-Dunn Sheriff case, the trial of which occupied much of the time of the Superior court for Wake county, was decided last week. The Jury found that T. F. Lee received a majority of the votes cast for Sheriff at the election last Summer, but that he did not comply with the requirements of the law concerning his induction into office. Mr. Dunn remains Sheriff until September 1876.

Hickory, Morganton, Statesville and Asheville had representatives at Raleigh last week urging the respective claims of those places for the Branch Lunatic Asylumn proposed to be established.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY.—The State Grange of this order met in Raleigh last week, and was attended by a large number of delegates from various parts of the State. Much business of importance to the order was transacted. The following are the officers elected for the ensuing year:

Master—Dr. Columbus Mills, Cabarrus county.
Overseer—F M Fitts, Warren.
Lecturer—John B Smith, Caswell
Steward—D H Armstrong, Pender.
Assistant Steward, Hill E King, Onslow.
Chaplain—Rev M J Hunt, Franklin.
Treasurer—P C Carlton, Iredell.
Secretary—G W Lawrence, Cumberland.
Gate Keeper—J B Clark, Watauga.
Ceres—Mrs S A Mills, Cabarrus.
Pomona—Mrs A S Fitts, Warren.
Flora—Mrs P C Carlton, Iredell.
Lady Assistant Steward—Miss Ella Boyd, Cabarrus.
Executive Committe—G Z French, New Hanover; Azariah Graves, Caswell; A T Mial, Wake.
Proxy to represent N. C. State Grange at next meeting of National Grange—James F Johnston, Mecklenburg.

The Legislature is still in session and will adjourn perhaps on the 22nd inst. But little business of general importance is being transacted. The Supplemental act postponing the operation of the Usury Bill until 15th October next, has passed the Senate, but will probably fail in the House.

A joint caucus of the Conservative members of the two Houses, determined to call a convention and a committee was appointed to prepare a bill for that purpose.

The Republicans of Wilmington claim that the recent amendment of the charter of that city practically destroys the rights of suffrage of a large majority of its citizens, and applied for an injunction from Judge Bond, of the U. S Court, to prevent an election being held under such amendment. The case was argued before Judge B. in this city last Saturday, but up to the time of going to press we have not heard of his decision. The case excited much interest.

NORTH CAROLINA.

A NEW SHOE HOUSE. J. A. Leach, Esq., of Thomasville, N. C., has established in Raleigh a wholesale and retail shoe house, one door from Citizens National Bank, on Martin street. His shoes leave a deservedly high reputation in this market, and throughout the State, for durability and neatness of finish.—We trust our merchants will buy of Mr. Leach instead of going North for their supplies. Home industry should be encouraged. Mr. Leach is prepared to fill orders on short notice, and to compete with the Northern market. Give him a trial.

Miss Louisa A. Leete, for some months a teacher in the Orphan Asylum at Oxford, left last Saturday, expecting to join the Presbyterian Mission in Japan. She is a faithful teacher and an exemplary christian lady. We parted with her with sincere regret; but she is needed and may be more useful in the foreign field. Miss Bettie L. Graves succeeds her as teacher of the Second Form.—CHILDREN'S FRIEND.

PROLIFIC COTTON.—The most beautiful specimen of cotton we have ever seen was exhibited in Raleigh last week by professor O. W. Carr of Trinity College. It was grown by Mr. John T. Cheatham of Barton, Jefferson county, Ga., and is known as the "Cheatham Champion Prolific Cotton." Prof. Carr is the State Agent for North Carolina. Seeds are put up in small packages, each containing 200, 700 and 1500 seeds at $1, and $3. No deduction made except for the $5 packages. Six of these will be sold for $25. All orders from the State should be addressed to O W. Carr, Agent, Trinity College, N. C.

Messrs D. S. Waitt & Bro. are having their store repainted and thoroughly arranged, preparatory to the reception of their Spring stock. Mr. D. S. Waitt, the Senior member of the firm, is now North, laying in a large and complete assortment of goods adapted to this market. His stock of ready made clothing will compete with any in the city. We most cheerfully commend this house to our readers.

Mr John C. Bowden, an esteemed citizen of Wilmington, died in that city on March 2nd.

Rev. C. H. Wiley, Bible Agent of North Carolina, was elected one of the Trustees of the University.

An election for Register of Deeds for Halifax county resulted in one Bob Lewis being declared the successor of Mr. B H. Franklin, says the NEWS.

A Pullman Palace Car has been placed on the Seaboard & Roanoke and Wilmington and Weldon Railroads.

The recent rains were very destructive to property on the Roanoke River. The trestle work at the bridge of the P. & W Railroad at Weldon was disarranged, but soon put to rights.

There is a man at Mt. Airy, says the Visitor, who drinks sixteen cups full of coffee at a sitting.

The flood in the French Broad, Swannanoa, and other Western rivers last week was excessive, the French Broad at Asheville being higher than it has been in twenty years.

Says the Oxford Torch Light: "The latest news from the reported new county of Gilliam is that they propose to cut off Henderson from Granville and attach it to Warren.

The mail train on the North Carolina Railroad was fired into at Little River bridge, near Goldsboro, on Saturday last, the ball entering the car through a window. Nobody was hurt.

Hon. A. W. Venable, despite the infirmities of age, is occasionally seen on the streets of Oxford, mingling freely in social conversation with his friends. The Leader says his treasuries of wit, anecdote and wisdom are as yet full and inexhaustible.

A gentleman near Fayettville recently shot a large bald eagle as it was in the act of eating a lamb.

According to a recent census taken by the town constable, Winston has increased its population in four years from 500 to 1300.

Lucien H. Sanders Esq. a prominent citizen of Johnston county, met with a sad death last week. Early in the morning he went to a piece of new ground where his hands were felling trees. One of the trees in falling struck against a sapling which rebounding threw a piece of limb from the fallen tree striking Mr. Sanders on the forehead and causing instant death. He was about 50 years of age and leaves a large family to mourn his sad fate His life was insured to the amount of $10,000.

Sawyer Bryant, colored, was convicted of the murder of Michael F. Langley, in Onslow co. last April, and escaped from jail soon after, but was re-captured.

The Winston SENTINEL says that more than a dozen mills in Forsythe and Stokes counties, were washed away or seriously injured by the recent freshet.

The Shelby BANNER under the proprietorship and editorship of Messrs Durham and Webb, has been revived and is greatly improved in appearance and matter.

A new house for a sewing machine factory at Shelby is being erected. The erection of a cotton factory, also, is contemplated.

Judge Cloud, on account of sickness, was not able to attend at the first week of Surry Court.

The recent excessive rains destroyed most of the tobacco plants in the tobacco growing sections and that fact will materially affect the year's crop.

The wagon driver of B. Y. Kirkman of Forsythe co., in attempting to cross a swollen creek, drove out of the main track into a deep hole and barely escaped with his life, the horses being drowned.

A bill chartering a Rail-road from Fayetteville to Goldsboro has passed the Legislature.

About one fifth of the Fayetteville and Florence Railroad has been graded. The laying of iron will soon commence, says the GAZETTE.

The store of Mr. John Buie, six miles from Fayetteville, was entered and robbed of almost all its contents, on the night of the 2nd inst.

The Grangers of Cumberland have applied for the incorporation of the Grange Bank of Cumberland.

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF RALEIGH EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING.---TERMS $2.20 POSTAGE PAID.

Our Agents.

All the travelling and local preachers in the bounds of the North Carolina Conference are our authorized agents. Any person sending us ten subscribers, ten new, and receive the paper free.

Our Correspondents.

[illegible] should be carefully written, and on one side of the paper. All communications should be addressed to the Editor.

How to Remit.

In ordering money, on remittals should be sent in registered letter, post office order or check. The cost of registration or post office order can be deducted from the amount sent. If money is sent otherwise they do so at their own risk.

INDEX TO NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

EUREKA WASHING MACHINE.—We invite attention to the advertisement of this excellent Washing Machine. Having used it for many years, with entire satisfaction, we do not hesitate to commend it to our friends generally. If you wish a machine, and want a good one, write to J. B. Farrar, Esq., Manufacturer and Patentee, at Cary, N. C., who will promptly fill your orders.

— W. H. & R. S. Tucker advertise a splendid stock of goods at extremely low prices for cash. Call and see them.

— We direct the attention of our readers to the advertisement of R. F. Jones & Co. They keep an excellent stock of groceries, and will sell them cheap for cash.

—Leopold's Cigar Store is growing in popularity. He strikes the best cigars in the city and at lowest prices.

The Civil Rights Bill

The following is the full text of the Civil Rights Bill as it passed the House of Representatives on the 5th inst.:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That all persons within the jurisdiction of the United States shall be entitled to the full and equal enjoyment of the accommodations, advantages, facilities and privileges of inns, public conveyances on land or water, theaters and other places of public amusement, subject only to the conditions and limitations established by law and applicable alike to citizens of every race and color, regardless of any previous condition of servitude. That any person who shall violate the foregoing provision by refusing to any person entitled to its benefits the full enjoyment of any of the accommodations, advantages, facilities or privileges in said section enumerated, or by aiding or inciting such refusal, shall, for every such offense, forfeit and pay the sum of five hundred dollars to the person aggrieved thereby, to be recovered in an action of debt, with full costs; and shall also, for every such offense, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not more than five thousand dollars, and imprisoned not more than one year.

[illegible] arising under the provisions of this act shall, upon the request of either party, be tried and determined in the Circuit Court of the United States [illegible] person charged with the commission of any such offense shall have been arrested under the process issued by the said Circuit Court, or any commissioner thereof, such commissioner shall proceed to hear and determine the case upon the testimony to be produced before him, and if it shall appear that a crime has been committed, and that there is probable cause to believe the accused guilty thereof, he shall hold him to bail in such sum as he may deem proper, and shall cause him to be committed to the proper jail for safe keeping, until the action shall be tried before the said Circuit Court, or such bail be given. And it shall be the duty of the said commissioner to issue such writs of subpœna, and to cause such witnesses to be brought before him, as he may deem necessary for the purposes of such hearing or trial.

[illegible] That the district attorney, the several commissioners appointed by the Circuit Court to take bail and affidavits in civil cases, and the clerk of said court, shall severally have power and are required to exercise the same powers in relation to any of the offenses described in this act as are conferred upon them by law in relation to any other offenses cognizable by the said courts; and the said courts shall have power to appoint any number of additional commissioners to execute warrants and other writs and processes issued under this act.

[illegible] That the district courts of the United States shall have, exclusively of the courts of the several States, cognizance of all crimes and offenses committed against this act, and of all causes, civil and criminal, arising under the provisions thereof, and concurrent jurisdiction with the circuit courts of the United States of all causes, civil and criminal, arising under the provisions of this act, without regard to the sum or value of the matter in controversy, or the character of the parties to any such cause.

[illegible] That all persons within the jurisdiction of the United States shall be entitled to the full and equal benefit of all laws and proceedings for the security of person and property, as is enjoyed by white citizens, and shall be subject to like punishment, pains and penalties, and to none other, any law, statute, ordinance, regulation or custom to the contrary notwithstanding.

Marriages.

[illegible] the 10th of February, by Rev. [illegible] Gibbons, Mr. John N. Ellis to Miss Ann W. [illegible] daughter of J. J. Jones, Esq., [illegible] N. C.

[illegible] ton N. C. on the 7th of [illegible] by Rev. H. H. Gibbons, Mr. A. Porter and Miss Theresa Debnam, [illegible] County N. C.

Deaths.

Notices of twenty lines are inserted free of charge. The excess over twenty lines, at the rate of ten words to a line. In this way [illegible] per line. Count the lines and [illegible] to the line. In this way [illegible] know the amount to enclose. [illegible] are subject to the same [illegible]

[illegible] Letters and Funds.

Rev F L Reid, Rev J P Moore paper continued, T E Hines, H C Edwards, Miss Katie M Cox, Rev W M Jordan, E E Jurney, D J Sheets, Rev C C Dodson for J F Mann 2.20, J R Atkins sell 2.20, J C Farmer H T Jordan, one dues 2.5, Miss Rosa Lee Jordan, Rev H P Cole, Miss Nannie A Woodburn, Rev T L Triplett, papers sent and continued, C A Wood, Rev W H Moore, Rev L E Story papers continued and sent, Mrs M L Fowler sell 2, Rev J Johnson for W H Harrell 2.20, E D Hewell 2.20, Mrs R E Weatherspoon 2.20, W H Carstarphen 2.72, Rev J Sandford, no charge, E Barwell Rev C C Dodson for A Thomas 1.10, M R Harrington sell 2.20, Rev B F Dixon for L J Hickson 2.25, Rev S Lea for Mrs Nancy Shanks 2.20, James Williams 2.20, A B Newman 2.20, Mrs B D Taylor 2.20, S Y Brown for L J Anderson 2.20, P H Walker & Co. B I Powell, Rev I Johnson for J C Gorham 2.20, Mrs R Barnes sell 2.20, Rev W H Bobbitt, Rev T J Gattis—Rev C H Phillips for Mrs P J Lewis 2.20,—R S Young 2.20, Miss Perry 20 cts, J J Zellin, Rev Ira T Wyche for R T Pitman 2.20, Mrs A M Norment 2.20, M L Wriston John F Chapeson sell 2.20, Rev I F Keerans for J A Reynolds 2.20, Miss Rozier McRae 2.20 Cora V Lyon, J B Goodell sell 2.20, W F Churchwell 2.20, Rev W J Rollin, Miss L Webster, Rev W P Gilliam, E P Allen for P W Dail 2.20, Rev L H Gibbons, paper cont, N W Ayer & Son T V Tyson paper continued, J R Reid, Rev J B Alford paper sent, Rev A R Raven for A Forbes 2.20, B W Brown 2.20, B Joyner 2.20, O Harris 2.20, Mrs S V Forbes 2.20, Miss M E Chessom 2.25, Mc E Gregory 2.20, Hostetter & Smith for advertisement $25, Rev T P Atkinson for Rev V F Atkinson 2.20, Rev W F Forrest 2.20, J Kirk 2.20, Wm A Kirk 2.20, E A Forrest 2.20, J Lassiter 2.20, Rev Ira T Allen 2.20, F A Lassiter 2.20, Rev Ira T Wyche for H Umstead sell 2.20, Rev M J Hunt for Mrs Fannie Sikes 2.20, S H Smith sell 2, N Cross sell 2, 20 Miss Margaret Garrett Mrs L Ballard 2, J A Shine paper has been going, W J Parker for J B Elwell 2.20, Rev R L Abernethy R Roberts self 2.20, Rev Dr Wilson Rev W M Robey Rev D R Bruton Rev Dr Burkhead Rev R S Webb for R Teer 2.20, J W Thomson 2.20, G W Anthony 2.20, S S Webb 1, S A Webb 2.20, Rev Z Rush for Mrs E Fields 2.20 Mrs F Troy 2.20 Rev M Foy for J Spencer 2.20, Rev H H Gibbons paper sent Miss L D Hays Miss Bettie Featherston Geo P Rowell & Co Rev J J Renn paper sent Mrs S A Eppes paper has been going regularly Rev J C Smith for Whiteside 2.00, Rev P F W Stamey for R G Rutledge 2.20.

Appointments.

SALISBURY DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND—IN PART.

Statesville station,	March	20-21
Salisbury "	"	27-28
Mooresville ct. at Salem,	April	3-4
Statesville ct. at Trinity,	"	10-11
Mocksville ct. at Olive Branch,	"	17-18

D. R. BRUTON, P. E.
Statesville, N. C.

GREENSBORO DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND—IN PART.

South Guilford at Friendship,	March	20-21
Thomasville, H. Point, and Trinity station	Fair Grove	" 27-28
Wentworth Carmel,	April	3-4
Winston sta.	"	10-11
Greensboro,	"	17-18
South Guilford, Bethany.	"	24-25
Randolph, Ashboro,	May	1-2

N. H. D. WILSON, P. E.
Greensboro, N. C.

CHARLOTTE DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND.

Monroe Sta	March	20-21
Monroe ct	"	27-28
Pleasant Grove ct	April	3-4
South Charlotte at Fair View,	"	10-11
Concord sta. and Concord ct	"	17-18
Madesboro sta	"	24-25
Pineville ct,	May	1-2
Madesboro, and Lilesville, Tryon st. and Cary ty Miss	at Pleasant Hill,	" 8-9
Albemarle and Stanley Mt Pleasant,		" 15-16
Ansonville.		" 22-23
		" 29-30
	June	5-6

J. S. NELSON, P. E
Monroe, N. C.

WILMINGTON DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND.

Magnolia at Bryant,	March	20-21
Wilming on 5th St.,	"	27-28
Lukesbury at Averasboro,	April	3-4
Wilm on at Andrew Chapel,	"	10-11
Kenansville at Richlands,	"	17-18
Smithville at Bethel,	"	24-25
Wilmington Front Street.	May	1-2
Bladen		" 8-9
Cape Fear Miss.	at Downs Chp'l	" 8-9
Elizabeth,		" 15-16
Whiteville, Fair Bluff,		" 29-30
Topsail,		June 5-6
Onslow,		12-13

W. S. BLACK, P. E.
Magnolia N. C

FAYETTEVILLE DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

Carthage, Farmpromise,	March	20-21
Jonesboro, Cool Spring,	"	27-28
Cumberland, Camp Ground,	April	3-4
Pee Dee, Sardis,	"	10-11
Beckham, Hoy Springs,	"	17-18
Fayetteville,	"	24-25
Lumberton, St John,	May	1-2
Rowson, Pegan's,	"	8-9
Rockingham,	"	15-16
Montgomery,	"	22-23
Cheraw,	"	29-30

S. D. ADAMS, P. E.
Carthage, N. C

WASHINGTON DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

Warrenton,	March	27-28
Roanoke at Enfield,	April	3-4
Tarboro at White's,	"	10-11
Williamston,	"	17-18
Plymouth and Jamesville,	"	24-25
Columbia,	May	1-2
Bath,	"	8-9
Mattamuskeet,	"	15-16
Washington,	"	22-23

Wm. CLOSS, P. E.

SHELBY DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND.

Shelby circuit,	March	13-14
Double Shoals and South Mt. Miss.	at Palm-tree, "	20-21
Cherry Mountain at Salem.		" 27-28
Rutherford } and Miss.	at Kiefer's April	3-4
Dallas at Dallasdia,		" 10-11
Lincoln, at Zion,		" 17-18
Rock Spring at Hill's Chapel,		" 24-25
Newton,	April 30 and May	1-2
South Fork at Pleasant Grove,		" 8-9
Happy Home at Rutherf'd College		" 15-16
Lenoir at Littlejohn's.		" 22-23
Morganton,		" 29-30
Marion,		June 5-6
Shelby Station,		" 9-10

Dear brethren, let us work pray and trust in God.

L. S. BURKHEAD, P. E.
Shelby, N. C.

RALEIGH DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND, Q. M.

Granville at Tabor	March	20-21
Louisburg Station	"	27-28
Sail'sb Edenton St.	April	3-4
" Person St.	"	10-11
Tar River at Plank Chapel	"	17-18
Hunter on at Twitty's	"	24-25
Roxesville at Andrew Chapel	May	1-2
Derry,	"	8-9
Nashville and Rocky Mount	"	15-16
Smithfield	"	22-23
Youngsville	"	29-30

J. P. MOORE, P. E.
Warrenton, N. C,

CHARLOTTE DISTRICT.

1ST. ROUND.

Albemarle, and Stanley,	March	6-7
Ansonville ct.	"	13-14

J. S. NELSON, P. E.

HILLSBORO DISTRICT.

1ST. ROUND.

Leasburg,	March	6-7
Yanceyville,	"	13-14

L. L. HENDREN, P. E.
Chapel Hill N. C.

NEWBERN DISTRICT.

1ST. ROUND.

Neuse, Swift Creek, }	Orchard Creek, March	6-7
Wilson Station,	"	13-14
Goldsboro,	"	20-21
Craven, Lane's Chapel,	"	27-28

E. A. YATES, P. E.
Beaufort N. C.

COMMERCIAL REPORT.

WHOLESALE CASH PRICES.

Office of CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, March 9, 1875

REMARKS.

Business continues quiet. Meats and sugars are very firm and quiet.

COTTON.

Transactions in the staple yesterday very light Low middlings 15¼

General Market.

BAGGING, Domestic 2¼ ₰ yd. 13-12@14.
COTTON TIES, 80.
FLOUR, North Carolina $6.50 @7.
CORN $1.00
CORN MEAL—$1.00
BACON, N. C. hog round, 11 to 13.
" " hams 18.
BULK C. R sides, 11 1-2.
" shoulders, 9
LARD, north carolina, none.
" Western Cheese, 14.
" " Kegs, 17
COFFEE, Prime Rio, 27 1-2
" Fair Rio, 22 1-2.
SYRUP, common, 60.
MOLASSES, Cuba, 50.
SALT $2.25.
CHEESE, Cream, 18 1-2.
" Factory, 17
" Dairy, none.
NAILS, on basis for 10d, $4.00
SUGAR A, 11 1-2.

New Advertisements.

PROGRESS THE WATCHWORD.

Merit and Success, Hand in Hand.

The Eureka
WASHING MACHINE.
Patented Oct. 13th, 1874.

This machine operates on the same principle as the hand—does the work complete without the hand—works with great ease to the operator and washes rapidly, doing the work in about one fourth the time of the ordinary way, with less injury to fabrics.

Factory price $15 00, with wringer attached $23 00. State and county rights for sale

J. B. FARRAR,
Manufacturer and Patentee.
mch 10-5ms.

R. F. JONES & CO.,
RALEIGH, N. C.
COMMISSION MERCHANTS, COTTON FACTORS

Wholesale and Retail Grocers,
Wilmington Street, opposite Market House,

In their wholesale department they offer to the trade a large stock of first-class groceries at prices that have and will continue to attract the trade

SUGARS. SUGARS. SUGARS.
50 Barrels Standard A. B. C. Sugars for sale by R. F. JONES & CO.

COFFEE. COFFEE. COFFEE.
25 Sacks Rio, prime and good. For sale by R. F. JONES & CO.

MOLASSES—NEW CROP OF CUBA.
One Car load just received and for sale by R. F. JONES & CO.

BACON.
10,000 Pounds Clear Rib Side and Shoulders for sale by R. F. JONES & CO.

LARD.
2,000 Pounds Leaf Lard in Tierces and Tubs.—For Sale by R. F. JONES & CO.

FLOUR. FLOUR. FLOUR.
200 Barrels Family and Extra favorite Brands, fully guaranteed. For sale by R. F. JONES & CO.

CASE GOODS.
Two car loads of Case Goods, consisting of Canned Oysters, Pickles, Crackers, Cakes, Candy, Concentrated Lye, Soaps, Starch, Sardines, &c., &c., for sale by R. F. JONES & CO.

Bulk Meat and Breakfast Strips, and a full assortment of other goods generally sold in grocery stores. Call and examine the quality of their goods and price. Consignment of produce solicited.
mar 3-1

JUST ARRIVED.
25 0 yds. White Striped Piqué, soft finish at 18c. worth 25 to 30c.
W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

50 pieces Black Alpaca, double face, Raven black, at 40c. former price 60c
W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

CARPETINGS, CARPETINGS
The largest stock of Carpetings, Rugs, &c. in the city, at lowest cash prices.
All new and handsome shade damask.
W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

Everybody has come to the conclusion that it is a fact, beyond doubt, that "the place" to get good goods, and cheap bargains is at the "cash" store of W. H. & R. S. TUCKER & CO.

$3,000 worth of a celebrated Philadelphia make of Ladies, Misses and Children shoes in
KID, CLOTH AND GOAT.
Buttoned and Laced—to which we invite special attention
W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

HOSIERY! HOSIERY!!
SPECIALTY;
50 doz Ladies White Iron Frame Cotton Hose, superior make, excellent finish, best quality, and at a fabulous low price. Misses and Children's fancy striped Cotton Hose, to be had at
TUCKER'S.

HAMBURG EDGINGS AND INSERTIONS.
Ladies Linen Collars and Cuffs.
Ladies H S. Hdkfs a full line,
at
TUCKER'S.

LADIES SCARFS AND NECKTIES in all colors.—Ladies Neck Riblit, the "knobbest" novelty of the season. Rockings and Rudlings at
TUCKER'S.

MOSQUITO AND FAMILY Irish Linens, cheaper than ever offered. Yellow Linen, Linen Sheetings, Linen Druggets, Table Linen in every quality and at any price, at
TUCKER'S.

GENTS BURT GAITERS and Gents BURT BOOTS in latest styles and patterns, at
TUCKER'S.

THIRD Arrival of that beautiful Silk Hat for Gentlemen, latest spring style at
W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.
mar 10-tf.

—AGENTS WANTED FOR—
CROSS & CROWN
THE SPIRIT AND POWER of the religion of Jesus Christ as shown in the suffering and triumphs of His followers. A richer, sweeter and more thrilling story is not to be found in the whole range of history. Magnificently illustrated on steel with the best engravings of Scenes and Illustrations, and splendidly bound in the life-like and latest style of the art. The most beautiful and attractive book ever offered to Agents. Send circulars, with full description, address NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Atlanta, Ga., or Memphis, Tenn
March 10-6m

BOOK AGENTS
WANTED FOR THE
ILLUSTRATED FAMILY BIBLE.
Including the Apocrypha, a Concordance, Dr. Wm Smith's complete Bible Dictionary, a History of the Religious Denominations of the world, Chronological and other valuable Tables, the History of the Books of the Bible and of their translation, a Family Album a Family Record, Marriage Certificate, Marginal References, Illumin ted pages of the Lord's Prayer and the Ten Commandments, etc.,
Embellished with over 200 fine Scripture Illustrations on Steel and Wood from Gustave Doré and other celebrated artists. Printed from large clear new type, on fine white paper, and bound in the most substantial manner, it is the most elegant and comprehensive Family Bible ever published. Address NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Atlanta Ga., or Memphis Tenn.
March 10 6-m.

JUST READY.—ENTIRELY NEW—AUTHENTIC—COMPLETE
LIFE AND LABORS OF
LIVINGSTONE,
By Rev. J. E. CHAMBERLISS. This gifted author having free access to the personal writings of Livingstone, unfolds clearly the magnitude of his life-work, the thrilling ADVENTURES he met, the grand ACHIEVEMENTS he won, as also the SUFFERINGS, WANDERINGS and WEALTH of that marvelous country. Wide Awake Agents Wanted Everywhere at Once for the ONLY cheap COMPLETE WORK Over 500 pages, (includes his "LAST JOURNALS") 100 SPLENDID Illustrations, &c &c., only $2.50. It will SELL. Millions want it For terms and terms, address RICHARD BROS., Pubs. 723 Sansom St., Phila., Pa.
Sept 30 12-m

"A REMARKABLE BOOK,"
Arthur's latest and greatest,
DANGER!! Or, Wounded in the House of a Friend.
It's crowning work of his veteran of American life creature, has for its topic a subject affecting the social life of our whole people, and gives a terrible view of the evil it exposes. Extremely fascinating and sensational it will be read with avidity by all. Illustrated and beautifully bound. We are determined to introduce it into every family in the land, and offer extraordinary inducements to male and female canvassers. We want agents in every place, will send free on application, terms and descriptive circulars.
J. M. STODDART & CO., 626 Chestnut St., Phila.
feb 24-4w

MEDICAL COLLEGE
OF VIRGINIA RICHMOND.
The Spring and Summer Session, 1875, will begin TUESDAY, MAY 11 next.
For Annual Announcement, or further information, add ress
M. L. JAMES, M. D.,
Registrar Adj. Faculty,
No 312 E. Grace Street.
Mar. 3 6 w.

WANTED.

A young lady, of successful experience, desires a situation as teacher in a family or a school. Is qualified to teach English Mathematics and Latin. Address immediately, "M." Marion C. H., S. C.
March 3-1t pd.

Important Sale
OF
Personal and Real Estate.

We offer for sale on private terms one fine Stallion, YOUNG CANTON," a very superior and vigorous horse.
One "OW.
Some Plows Hoes and Gear.
One excellent Magnolia Light Draft Gin and Ball Press, both good as new.
Eleven or twelve hundred Acres of Land, part in wood (oak, hickory, &c.) and part freshly cleared and in cultivation. Will cut it up into small tracts to suit purchasers.
Young CANTON will be sold to the HIGHEST BIDDER on Tuesday of the next term of Court a Pittsboro, unless previously sold.

T. W. HARRIS,
J. B. HARRIS.
Executors of T. B. Harris, Deceased.
March 3-tf

PREMIUM CHESTER WHITE PIGS—$15 each, $25 a pair, Chester County MAMMOTH CORN, and imported BELGIAN OATS. 4 lbs by mail, $1; peck $2, ½ Bushel $3, bushel $5. Circulars and Sample Packages of 8 cts free for 2 stamps. Address.
N. P. BOYER, Parkesburg, Chester, co Pa.
march 3 8-wks

A. G. LEE. ED. H. LEE. GLEN R. LEE.
A STRICTLY COMMISSION HOUSE.
A. G. LEE & SONS.
RALEIGH, N. C.

We give our entire attention to handling goods on COMMISSION, and therefore can handle to advantage consignments of

Corn,	Corn Meal.	Chickens,
Hay,	N. C. Flour,	Eggs,
Fodder,	" Bacon,	and all the
Stock,	or Green Pork,	products of
Oats,	Beef,	the farm
Peas,	N. C. Hams,	or garden.

All of which we sell for cash, and are therefore able to make prompt returns. We solicit consignments from Western North Carolina, and the State generally.

We call attention to our friends in the city and neighboring country to the fact that we have made arrangements with shippers to have a constant supply of CORN on hand, and almost always have consignments of the other articles mentioned above. We have to sell for cash but will give you good goods—Try us.

Cotton is our Specialty.

We can always obtain the highest market price, and ask our friends who find it inconvenient to accompany their lots to the market to try us. We can beat New York in the nett proceeds of your cotton.

When you bring your cotton to market yourself give us a chance at it. We have orders to fill and can pay the VERY HIGHEST market price for it. Be sure to call and see us before you sell.

We are the Agents for

The ORCHILLA GUANO and The SOUTH SEA GUANO

The SCHOFIELD COTTON PRESS, the best invented.

The DIAMOND COTTON CHOPPER—Every one warranted.

A. G. LEE & SONS.
P. O. Box 222, Raleigh, N. C.
march 3-tf

WELLONS' FAMILY PRAYERS.
Seventy morning and Evening Prayers, running through 5 weeks; 38 Prayers for Special occasions; 5 for Children, Graces before and after meals, with Benedictions. Prepared by various authors of the different Evangelical denominations. Type large and clear, suited to aged eyes and the forms of Prayer new and fresh. Book well bound, paper white and heavy and price low. Bound in full gilt $2.50, in Roane leather $1.50; in Muslin $1.25. When sent by mail, 15 cents additional for postage. Ask your Bookseller for it.
Agents wanted to canvass for the book.—Second edition just out. Apply to
J. W. WELLONS,
feb 17-4w Franklinton, N. C.

OLD NORTH STATE
Excelsior Cotton Food.

Having been appointed Agents for the sale of the above valuable fertilizer we take pleasure in recommending it to our planting friends as one of the and best adapted cotton and corn manures known to the farming fraternity.

PUREST

It has been fully tested for several years with the most satisfactory results. It has been carefully analyzed by eminent Chemists, and found to contain a large per centage of concentrated vegetable matter, combined richly with which constituted its component parts. It is particularly adapted to thin or exhausted lands, and with its judicious application will give the desired vigor to the growing plants, Regreat value will be realized in the quality of fruit produced.

AMMONIA, SOLUBLE PHOSPHATES & POTASH,

We can only offer a limited amount of this pure and valuable ticle to our friends this season.

NORRIS & MYATT agents,
Raleigh, N. C.
feb 7-tf.

M. T. NORRIS, W. A. MYATT.

NORRIS & MYATT,
GROCERS, COTTON FACTORS
—AND—
Commission Merchants.
No. 3 Exchange Place and No. 5 Martin Street,

Consignments Solicited and Prompt Returns Guaranteed.

PLOWS, PLOWS, PLOWS,
Anticipating the Spring season, we now have in stock the following large and varied assortment of Plows, viz: Paine & Rogers, No 0 Farm Plow, The celebrated Wilson Cotton Plow and the Bobo Cotton Plow. We offer all of these Plows at very lowest figures Call and examine their merits for yourself.
NORRIS & MYATT.

FLOUR, FLOUR, FLOUR.
We are constantly receiving, and will keep on hand a large lot of Flour, which we guarantee to give perfect satisfaction.
We also keep White Bolted Meal.
NORRIS & MYATT.

MEAT, MEAT, MEAT.
Our stock of Meat, Clear Rib Sides and Shoulders, is complete. We guarantee to MEET the demands of the trade both in quality and prices.
We always have on hand Marshall's Factory Sliked salt, only $2.25 per sack.
NORRIS & MYATT.

IRISH POTATOES.
10 bbls. Early Goodrich.
10 bbls. Early Rose
These forward brands of Potatoes we offer very low. Send in your orders to NORRIS & MYATT.
feb 17. tf.

VINEGAR for only five cents a gallon. Best process in existence. Receipt for $1.
J. A. STEWART.
feb 24-3m eow. Henderson, N. C.

A.

B.

C.

D.

E.

F.

MONEY SAVED BY Buying the Comfort Heating Stove.

EVERYBODY SHOULD Buy the ROBERT E. LEE Cook Stove, made in Richmond, Va.

IT IS A FULL SIZED Cook Stove, having immense ovens.

BEST ASSORTMENT and largest stock of Buggy Whips in the city.

BUY A BOX OF WAX Tapers, large stock, low price.

WAGON AND BUGGY material of all kind.—Call and buy of
T. H. BRIGGS & SONS,
dec 16-tf RALEIGH, N. C.

Thompson & Whitaker,
Martin St., Raleigh, N. C.
Grocers
AND
Commission Merchants,
Agents for the NAVASSA GUANO COMPANY,
Of Wilmington, N. C.

Their SOLUBLE NAVASSA GUANO has no superior for Cotton, Corn, Wheat and other crops.

NAVASSA TOBACCO FERTILIZER
Unsurpassed for this crop.
DISSOLVED BONE PHOSPHATE
for compositing with cotton seed and other vegetable matter.

We refer to the following gentlemen, who, among many others, have used our Fertilizers, viz:
Daniel Stewart, Harnett county; Dr. R. K. Smith Chatham county; W. R. Mellville, Wake county; Cornelius Stephenson, Johnston county; W. R. Perry, Wake county; A. J. Eliggbee, Orange county.
feb 3-tf

Williams & Haywood,
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN
Drugs, Medicines, Paints, Oils, Dye Stuffs, Perfumery,
Fancy Articles, Garden Seeds, Fine Teas, Spices, Flavoring Extracts
CIGARS, CHEWING TOBACCO &C.
Keep constantly on hand, at lowest market prices, White Lead, Putty, Kerosene Oil, Linseed Oil, Lamp Oil, Tanner's Oil, Window Glass, Varnish, &c., &c.
Dec. 23 1-1

$100 A Month. Agents Wanted Everywhere for the new book "Success in Business," or MONEY AND HOW TO MAKE IT. This country has money for everybody; for Workingmen, Business Men, Farmers, Young Men, Boys, Women, and all; and this book shows how to get it. Just the book for the times, and will sell fast. Send for circular and terms to agents.
P. W. ZIEGLER & CO.,
feb 17-3m 518 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

NEW ARRIVALS FOR
1875. SPRING. 1875.
A large lot ZEIGLER'S Shoes and Gaiters for Ladies and Misses. CANFIELD'S and Burt's popular hand-made
BOOTS and GAITERS,
for Gentlemen. A splendid assortment of both.
A beautiful lot of FOX GAITERS, for Ladies and Misses.
25,000 yards
Bleached and Unbleached Shirting, Sheating and Drilling, all widths, bought at lowest prices before the advance and will be sold low.
A beautiful lot of
SPRING PRINTS.
The handsomest line of Black Silks, Mohairs and Alpacas in the city and at lowest prices.
We are now offering the remainder of our Winter Goods at greatly reduced prices to make room for our Spring stock We have a good variety of Carpets,
Druggets,
Drugget Cloth,
Floral Oil Cloth, different widths,
Coco Matting,
Rugs, &c., at
PETTY & JONES,
No. 20 FAYETTEVILLE ST.
feb 24-tf

SHELBY SEMINARY
For Young Ladies.
SHELBY, CLEVELAND Co., N. C.,
The Spring Term will begin Jan 15th 1875, and continue 20 weeks—Competent Teachers. Instruction extensive and thorough. Young Ladies well cared for and made comfortable in the institution.
Entire English course. Music and Board per term not more than $100. Extra studies and ornamentals low. For particulars apply for circular.
Rev. S. R. TRAWICK, A. M., Principal.
Dec 16-3m.

ESTABLISHED 1816.
CHAS. SIMON & SONS,
68 NORTH HOWARD ST., BALTIMORE, MD.
Dealers in FOREIGN & DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,
would call special attention to their splendid stock of Dress Goods, Linen Goods, Embroideries, Laces, and Hosiery; the best assortment of Mourning Goods in the city.
SAMPLES SENT FREE!
All orders amounting to $20.00 or over, will be sent free of freight charges by Express, but parties whose orders are not accompanied by the money, and having their goods sent C. O. D., must pay for return of the money.

WANTED. A competent BOOK KEEPER.
To keep the books of a Miscellaneous Store, and when necessary, to sell good. None but a single man of good habits need apply. Address, with terms and reference,
MERCHANT,
feb 10-4w Tarboro, N. C.

CASH Price $50 00 per ton of 2,000 pounds.

TIME Price $58 00 per 2,000 lbs. Payable Nov. 1.

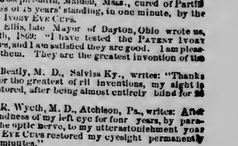
THE HIGH STANDARD OF QUALITY HAS BEEN FULLY MAINTAINED, AND IT IS CONSIDERED BY THOSE WHO HAVE GIVEN IT A FAIR TRIAL THE

BEST AND CHEAPEST FERTILIZER MANUFACTURED.

LIBERAL AND ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS
FOR LARGE LOTS, GIVEN ON APPLICATION.

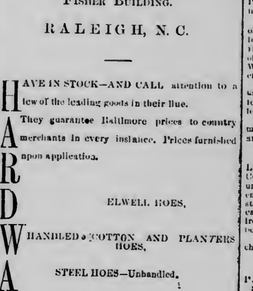
LOCAL AGENTS
At all the Principal Depots.
DeROSSET & Co.,
GENERAL AGENTS
For North Carolina and Virginia,
—AT—
WILMINGTON.
Williamson, Upchurch & Thomas, Agents, - - - Raleigh, N. C.
John C. Haigh, " - - - Fayetteville.
jan 27 4m.

CAROLINA COTTON GIN,
McCALLUM, WYCKOFF & HOPE,
SUCCESSORS TO
SEPARKS, HICKS & CO.,
Engineers, Iron Founders and Machinists,
RALEIGH, N. C.,
We are manufacturing
The Carolina Cotton Gin.



This Gin combines every quality that constitutes a FIRST-CLASS GIN. Every Gin is warranted to gin as FAST or FASTER and as WELL or BETTER, than any other Gin.
For full description and Price List, of both Engines and Gins, address
McCALLUM, WYCKOFF & HOPE,
RALEIGH, N. C.

PHILO ALCOTT. WAYNE ALCOTT.



Excelsior Grocery
AND
COMMISSION HOUSE.
LOOK TO YOUR INTERESTS! MONEY SAVED IS MONEY MADE!
We buy our Goods for CASH!
We are now prepared to fill orders for any goods usually found in a First Class Family Grocery. For price and quality we defy competition.
Having increased capital and facilities, we intend to make our House second to none. We guarantee satisfaction in price, quality and promptness.
We have made the necessary arrangements with our friends in the Western part of the State, so that we are almost daily receiving on consignment, Chickens, Turkeys, Ducks, Geese, Eggs, Butter, North Carolina Hams, Shoulders and Sides, Beef Hams, Venison Hams, Onions, Corn, Irish Potatoes, Dried Fruit, Meal, Oats, Shucks, Hay, Fodder, White, Black-eye, Stock and Black Peas, White and Mixed Beans, &c.
Will make FINE MOUNTAIN BEEF a specialty, to be received daily as soon as the weather will permit.—We have made the necessary arrangements with our Norfolk house to furnish the BEST OYSTERS that market can supply.
Again thanking you most heartily for the liberal patronage heretofore extended, we are determined, by adopting the experience of those that have been successful in business, and knowing that "Success is Merit," to deserve your increased patronage.
oct 7-12m

SEND FOR ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE OF COTTON TOOLS. MY NEW A SPECIALTY.

march 3-1m.

JULIUS LEWIS, N. W. WEST.
JULIUS LEWIS & CO.,
FISHER BUILDING.
RALEIGH, N. C.

HAVE IN STOCK—AND CALL attention to a few of the leading goods in their line.
They guarantee Baltimore prices to country merchants in every instance. Prices furnished upon application.

HARDWARE & STOVES & C.

ELWELL HOES,
HANDLED COTTON AND PLANTERS HOES,
STEEL HOES—Unhandled, IRON HOES, MANURE FORKS,
SHOVELS AND SPADES, PLOW TRACES,
TOP LINKS,
LEWIS & CO., CELEBRATED Axes and Edge Tools.
Horse and Mule Shoes, Cut Nails, Horse Nails, &c.
Sole Agent in North Carolina for sale of The Ladies & Rand Co.'s Powder, Pantts Astral Oil, Averell's Chemical Paints, Rock Lime,
The All Right Cook Stoves, &c.
Feb 6-1y.

RESTORE YOUR SIGHT.
Spectacles Rendered Useless.
Save Your Eyes,
RESTORE YOUR SIGHT,
THROW AWAY YOUR SPECTACLES.
Old Eyes Made New.
—:o:—
All diseases of the Eye successfully treated by
Dr. J. BALL & CO.'S
NEW PATENT IMPROVED IVORY EYE CUPS.
Read for yourself and Restore your Sight.
Spectacles and Surgical Operations rendered useless. The inestimable Blessing of Sight is made perpetual by the use of the new PATENT IMPROVED IVORY EYE CUPS.
Many of our most eminent physicians, oculists, students and divines have had their sights permanently Restored for life, and cured of the following diseases:
1. Impaired Vision; 2. Presbyopia, or Far-sightedness, or Dimness of Vision, commonly called Blurring, 3. Asthenopia, or Weak Eyes; 4. Epiphora, Exuding or Watery Eyes; 5. Sore Eyes—especially treated with the Eye Cups—cure guaranteed; 6. Weakness of the Retina, or Optic Nerve; 7. Ophthalmia, or Inflammation of the Eye and its appendages, or imperfect vision from the effects of Inflammation; 8. Photophobia, or Intolerance of Light; 9. Overworked Eyes; 10. Myderopia—moving specks or floating bodies before the eyes; 11. Amaurosis, or Obscurity of Vision; 12. Cataracts, Partial Blindness, or loss of Sight.
Any one can use the Ivory Eye C

Children's Column.

The setting apart of a column in the Advocate to the use of its little readers, seems to have met with great favor from old and young. We have received many letters thanking us for the privilege extended to little correspondents of "holding sweet converse" with one another through the medium of questions and answers. We desire to enlist the good will and affections of children, for we know that the Advocate will benefit them and that their affections once entwined about it will not easily be withdrawn in the coming years. It pleases the Advocate to know that its appearance in the family circle is anxiously awaited—that bright eyes "grow brighter as it comes" and that it is read with interest amusement and profit.

In answer to the questions that have been propounded we have received numerous letters and regret that we cannot publish them in full To do that, however, would be to occupy too much space without resulting in any especial good. We will give the names of those who have answered questions propounded, together with the answers given by them.

The following in addition to those whose names appeared last week, have answered that the word "Advocate" appears in 1st John, 2nd chap. 1st verse: to wit: Misses Mollie W. Norman, Lukettie Mitchell, Bettie C. Reynolds, Maggie J. Thompson, Lula V. Bibb, Mollie Woods, Mary V. Pugh, (daughter of Rev. M. M. Pugh, of the S. W. Mo. Conf.) Maggie L. Wade and Lillie F Hardy, and Master H. C. Edwards.

The following say that the word "calle" is found in Matthew 5th chap. 41st verse: to wit: Misses Katie M. Cox. S. A. Parker, Rosa Lee Jordan and Masters C. A. Woods and Geo H. Ray.

The following answer that the word "reverend" is found in 111th Psalm, 9th verse: to wit: Misses Nannie C. Woodburn, Rosa Lee Jordan, S. A. Parker, Cora V. Lyon, and Masters George H. Ray, Mack Hays, H. C. Edwards, and C. A. Woods.

The word "Theatre" occurs in Acts 19th chap. 29th and 31st verses; so say Misses Laura M. Wood, S. A. Parker, Cora V. Lyon, and Masters C. A. Wood, Mack Hays, C. W. Hunt, George H. Ray and E. E. Jurney. Misses S. A. Parker, Cora V. Lyon, and Masters Mack Hays and Geo H. Ray, say that the word, "belief," is to be found in 2nd Thess. 2nd chap and 13th verse.

Misses Rosa Lee Jordan, S. A. Parker, Mollie Joyce, Anna C. Woodburn, write that the word 'God' is not to be found in the Book of Esther.

Miss Rosa Lee Jordan says she has no means of ascertaining the names of the wives of Noah's sons, and asks that if the question is not answered by some one else, Mack Hayes, the propounder, will tell where they are.

QUESTIONS.

Master E. E. Jurney asks how many times the word "Philadelphia" occurs in the Bible.

Walter B. Steele asks where the Disciples were first called Christians.

Miss Katie M. Cox asks for the only place where the word "melons" occurs in the Bible.

Johnnie Cox asks for the two places where the word "satyrs" occurs.

Mack Hayes wants the children to find how many times the word "ink" occurs in the Bible.

Miss Bettie C. Reynolds says the word "celestial" occurs only once in the Bible and wishes to know where it is.

George H. Ray asks, who made iron swim and where the account of it is given?

Miss Nannie A. Woodburn wants her little friends to tell her the chapter in the Bible that has 12 verses exactly alike, 10 words in each of the 12 verses alike, 9 words in each of the 12 verses alike, 15 words in each of 10 verses alike, 41 words in each, all in the same chapter:

C. A. Woods wants to know what two chapters in the Bible are alike.

Eddie W. Pugh, (son of Rev. M. M. Pugh of the S. W. Mo. Conf.) asks the little readers what king of Judah broke the brazen serpent which Moses made in the wilderness and what he called it. Also where the account is given.

Bro. Eli Shankle asks for the name of the jailer whom St. Paul baptized in the prison.

Questions for Children under 15.

"Partners." Who, when, where, and in what were they Partners?"

How long before these "Partners" began another business?

Let a thousand children write out the answers and show them to their Parents.

If any send the answers to the Advocate, let them be in less than forty words.

A. D. B.

There is a verse in one of the five books of Moses, which contains 57 words. Five of those words are mentioned four times each.

They begin with the letters C. O. S. and T. The article the is mentioned nine times, and the word and five times. The letter T is used thirty-three times; more times I suppose them in any other verse in the Bible.

The words East, West, North, and South occur in this verse. Will some of the little folks, who love the Bible, please tell me through the Advocate, where this verse is found.

P. F. W. STAMEY.

Dallas N. C

MESSRS EDITORS—Dear Brethren: If there is room in the "Children's Column," please let me say to them, my heart did fervently say "Amen," the other day, when the Editors expressed the hope that the Advocate might lead the Children to Jesus.

One way to lead people to Jesus, is to lead them to the Scriptures. "They are they which testify of" Jesus. God bless the Children!

A. D. BETTS.

MESSRS EDITORS: I am very much pleased with your giving one column of your paper to the little folks: so much pleased indeed that I should be glad if you would give them two. Let me tell you the grown people enjoy that column almost as much as the little ones do. But my little cousin Rosa Lee says she lives so far from the railroad that she never can get her answers to you in time. I expect shortly to become familiar with the names of a host of little North Carolina Methodists through that column. Is it not delightful to witness the delight of the dear little people in their new treasure?

Now let me give them some work. Attention, Little Methodists! I suppose you have noticed that the rulers of Egypt are generally called by the name Pharaoh in the Bible And yet that was not the name of of a single one of them. That was only the title, like King in England, Emperor in France or President in this country. But the Bible gives the names of some of them. Find out and let us know through your column how many of those names are mentioned in the Bible. Give each name, and a place where it is found. Some of them are mentioned more than once; but one place for each will do.

What did Pharoah change Joseph's name to, and why did he change it? Now for the race! who will answer first and report the most names?

Yours in love of Methodism and of Children!

WOODSDALE.

Wee Willie Winkie

ONE day Wee Willie Winkie went to visit his grandmother She lived in a queer old stone house, just round the corner. She was a very queer old lady. She had five cats, and a poll parrot, and a monkey; and she wore a black bonnet and a black shawl, and great black-rimmed spectacles on her high hooked nose, and three wrinkles over her left eye, and five over her right; and her nose twitched all the time as if she smelt toasted cheese somewhere and she was a very queer old lady!

But she was good, too. She always kept a great stone jar on the shelf, full of doughnuts, for anybody to help themselves: and she made lovely puddings with no end of raisins in them; and she told delightful stories to Wee Willie Winkie of the man in the moon who was made of green cheese, and gave penknives away to little boys; which information made this little boy's eyes grow as round as an owl's with longing; for no one on earth would ever give him a penknife, beg as hard as he would or could, for fear he might cut his fingers off.

Wee Willie Winkie's visit came this time to a very sudden end What do you think was the reason? Just look at him in the picture, and then you will believe that it was early in the evening; that his nurse had undressed him and had just lifted him up in her arms to put him in bed, when the waiter came into the room and told her that her cousin Paddy, from Cork, had come to see her. Down she dropped the poor child, as if he had been a hot potato, and out of the room she rushed, all in a flutter; upon which the little boy thought it would be a fine chance to slip down stairs, and call upon his grandmother. Quickly he ran out of the house and round the corner, and here you see him knocking at the door, for the house door had a knocker, instead of a bell, which I suppose you will think as queer as the rest.

The door was opened by Maggie, the maid, and when she saw Wee Willie Winkie in his nightgown she screamed so, that the very windows rattled, and his grandmother rushed out to see what was the matter.

"Has the child gone crazy?" she exclaimed.

"No, I don't want to, grandma," he answered; "but oh! do take me to see the man in the moon, so I can ask him for one—just one little penknife! please do, grandma."

She caught him up and ran home with him, without her black bonnet, and she went up the stairs and put him in his bed, and told him to stay there. Which he did.

So only you and I and Wee Willie Winkie's grandmother know the true meaning of this picture.—St. Nicholas.

PLEASANT GARDEN ACADEMY

Male and Female.

The Spring session will begin Dec. 29th 1874, and continue six months.

Board per month	$9.00
Tuition from	$1,50 to $3,00

One half in advance.

ADVANTAGES

Low prices of board and tuition, healthy and quiet location, Sabbath school and religious services every Sunday.

Conveyance from Greensboro furnished if notice is given.

For particulars Address

R. P. TROY A. M. Principal,
Greensboro N. C.

REFERENCES.

Rev. B. CRAVEN D. D., Trinity College.
" W. H. ROBERT, Raleigh.
" N. H. D. WILSON, D. D. Greensboro.

Dec 2-3m

Died Suddenly of Heart Disease.

How common is the sudden ement Thousands are hurried into eternity by this fatal malady, suddenly swept into eternity by this fatal malady, suddenly swept into eternity by this fatal malady. This disease generally has its origin in impure blood filled with fat and gelatinous materials, which, circulating through the heart, irritates its delicate tissues. Though the irritation may at first be only slight, producing a little palpitation or irregular action, or quill fancy or sharp darting pains, yet by and by the disease becomes firmly seated, and inflammation, or enlargement, or thickening of the lining membrane or valves is produced. How wise to give early attention to the first symptoms of this kind. Exagerated throbbing or pain in the region of the heart should admonish one that all is not right, and if you would preserve it from its further disease, you must help it to beat rightly by the use of such a remedy as will remove the cause of the trouble. Use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery before the disease has become too seated, and it will, by its great blood purifying wonderful regulating properties, effect a perfect cure. It contains no poisonous properties which act specifically upon the tissues of the heart, bringing about a healthy action. Sold by all first class Druggists.

HEART DISEASE CURED.

EDGEPORT, Spencer Co., Ind., February 1st, 1874.
Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

About two years ago I was afflicted with a disease of the heart which at times created a pressure around it, almost causing suffocation. I saw an advertisement of your Golden Medical Discovery, recommending the same as a specific for disease in the heart. I then bought half a dozen bottles of it, and after using three bottles I was entirely relieved and am now enjoying good health. Very truly yours,

VITUS KILLIAN.

march 19 1 1

A MAN OF A THOUSAND.

A Consumptive Cured

When doctors were nearly exhausted from Consumption, all remedies having failed, pestilent fad in discovery whereby Dr. H. James cured his only child with a preparation of Broncous ladies. He now gives this recipe free on receipt of two stamps to pay expenses. Posts is a single symptom of consumption. Coughs, Incipient Night Sweats, Irritations the Throat, Difficult Expectoration, Sharp Pains in the Lungs, Soreness at the Stomach Inaction of the Bowels and Wasting of the Muscles Address 1724 Lombard Street, Philadelphia Pa.

oct 2 8 3 m o w

TAKE SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR

THE FAVORITE HOME REMEDY.

Is offered to the Family Medicine, and by being kept ready for immediate resort will save many an hour of sickness and many a dollar in time and doctors' bill.

After over Forty Years trial it is still receiving the most unqualified testimonials to its virtues from persons of the highest character and responsibility, Scarcely a neighborhood in the land but has some one in it who will testify to its benefits.

SPECIFIC

For all diseases of the Liver, Stomach and Spleen Such as DYSPEPSIA or Indigestion, Biliousness, Jaundice, Sick Headache, Colic, Depression of Spirits, Sour Eructations, Sick Headache, Heartburn, Nausea, Vomiting, Heartburn, Disgust for Food, Fullness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried and Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a lying posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Fever and Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limbs, &c., Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Constant Imaginings of Evil, and Great Depression of Spirits, can be effectually cured by taking

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR.

Nothing else has ever been discovered that will so quickly and surely restore the sufferer to perfect health. No one can take it according to the directions and remain long unwell, if the thing be possible, and a trial will only cost the trifle of one dollar, small in comparison with the immediate relief and ultimate benefit that will surely follow.

Prepared only by J. H. ZEILIN & CO., Macon, Ga., and Philadelphia. Price $1 00. Sold by all Druggists.

Feb 18-1m

DR. C. M'LANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS,

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder-blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for a rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, feels as if in a cold or burning, and has frequent attacks of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is unable to exercise with the least energy, he feels as if he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he dreads every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. M'LANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them A FAIR TRIAL.

Address all orders to

FLEMING BROS., PITTSBURGH, PA.

P. S. Dealers and Physicians will find it to their interest to handle these Pills, as they are daily performing wonderful cures, and are universally recommended by all who have used them. Being purely vegetable, they can be given to the most delicate child or aged person with perfect safety. Explicit directions accompany each box. As we pay the freight on all orders accompanied by the cash, or will send C. O. D. for twelve three-cent postage stamps, or one dollar, we hope for a liberal share of your patronage. All orders from Canada must be accompanied by twenty cents extra.

Sold by all first-class Druggists and Country Store Keepers generally.

Dr. C. M'Lane's Vermifuge

Should be kept in every nursery. If you would have your children grow up to be healthy, strong, and vigorous, see that Worms, in some of their forms, do not destroy their existence.

M'LANE'S VERMIFUGE,

IS SURE TO DESTROY WORMS.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

A NEW BOOK.

Life, Sermons, and Speeches

OF

Rev. N. B. Reid, D. D.

LATE OF THE

NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

BY HIS SONS

James W. and Frank L. Reid,

A handsome volume of 536 pages.

A fine Steel Engraving of Dr. Reid in each copy.

NOW READY FOR DELIVERY.

BE SURE TO GET A COPY.

Price in Morocco, gilt edge,	$3.50.
" Cloth,	2 00.

Agents wanted to whom liberal commissions will be made. Single copies sent by mail, postage paid, on receipt of retail price.

Address, REV. F. L. REID, Louisburg, N. C. or JAS. W. REID, Wentworth N. C.

JOHN SAUL'S

Catalogue of

New, Rare and Beautiful Plants

FOR SPRING OF 1875.

Will be ready in February with a colored plate free to all my customers, to others price 25 cents. A plain copy to all applicants free.

Feb 10-3w WASHINGTON, D. C.

OLD NORTH STATE FIRE Insurance Company.

OF

WARRENTON, - - - N. C.

Capital Stock, $107.600.00

ASSETTS:

Mortgages on Real Estate	$ 45 050.10
National Bank Stock	1 100.00
Solvent Stock Notes	51,500 15
Cash and Loans on Call	2 Jog 98
Due from Agents	2 609.62
Agents Pupplies	626 89
Office furniture (Safe, &c.)	796.16
Accrued Interest	800.00
	$ 122,990.63

LIABILITIES.

Amount necessary to reinsure all unexpired risks on the basis of the New York law, 100 per.

$1 229 Assets to Every $100 of Tentative Liabilities.

According to the past experience of the Company we have

$2.458 Assets to Every $100 of Actual Liabilities

OFFICERS:

Col. W. S. DAVIS, President.
N. B. JONES, Vice President.
B. F. LONG, Secretary.
WM. J. NORWOOD, Treasurer
T. C. WILLIAMS, Supervisor.

1874. FALL STOCK. 1874.

NEW GOODS! GOOD QUALITY!!

LOW PRICES!!!

—o—

JOS. P. GULLEY,

RETAILER AND JOBBER OF

Dry Goods, Notions, Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Trunks, Valises, White Goods, &c., &c.,

RALEIGH, N. C.

My large and carefully selected stock for the Fall and Winter is now in store, and I respectfully invite all in search of good goods and low prices, to call and examine for themselves.

BURT'S GAITERS and BOOTS FOR GENTS.

To those who have bought and used these goods we need only to say that we have a full line of them.—For durability and neatness of fit they are unexcelled.

Also M it's and Graff's hand made shoes for the Ladies.

PRINTS! PRINTS! PRINTS!

A large stock of the latest patterns, at prices that cannot be excelled

Respectfully,

JOSEPH P. GULLEY.

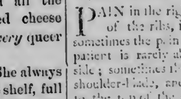
Corner Fayetteville and Market Square.

oct 7-1y

FROM HENRY J. BROWN,

Opposite Masonic Hall,

RALEIGH, N. C.,



UNDERTAKER,

Keeps on hand Fisk's Metallic Burial Cases Self Sealing Metallic Burial Cases, and Walnut and other Wood Coffins BRASS FURNITURE.

Also Dealer in Furniture. Repairing and Varnishing Promptly Executed

ap 10-tf

1874. FALL AND WINTER GOODS. 1874.

D. S. WAITT & BRO.

are offering a LARGE and ATTRACTIVE stock of

FINE AND CHEAP CLOTHING,

GENTS FURNISHING GOODS AND NECK WEAR

Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps.

OVERCOATS, SHAWLS AND RUBBER GOODS.

Manhatten Fine White Shirts.

MARINO SHIRTS, DRAWERS AND HOSIERY,

PAPER AND LINEN COLLARS,

Suspenders, Handerchiefs and Yankee Notions,

Fancy and Domestic Dry Goods,

Black Alpaca's, Corded Alpaca's, Plaid Worsted,

Figured and Plain Delaines,

Red, White and Figured Flannels, Opera Flannels,

WHITE AND BROWN BLANKETS,

Counterpins, Comforters, Bed Quilts & Spreads

LADIES STRIPED AND PLAID SHAWLS,

Breakfast Shawls, Knit Sacks, Jackets and Hoods,

GINGHAMS, PLAID HOMESPUNS AND TICKINGS,

Brown and Bleached Sheetings and Shirtings,

CORSETS, JEANS, CAMBRICS, AND LININGS,

Trunks, Valises, Umbrellas, Traveling Bags, &c.

I have this day associated with me my brother, Capt. GEO. N. WAITT, formerly Conductor on the North Carolina Railroad, and the firm of D. S. Waitt will hereafter be known as

D. S. WAITT & BROTHER.

To my friends and the public generally, I return my thanks for the liberal patronage bestowed, and respectfully solicit a continuation of the same for the future. Country merchants who buy in the city would do well to examine our stock which is now complete in every department.

D. S. WAITT.

Jan 13-tf

POPULAR AND USEFUL BOOKS

Royal Diadem,	(S. S. Note)	$2
Emeraud,	" "	2
Bright Jewels,	" "	2
Happy Voices.	"	2
The Charm	"	2
The Morning Star	"	2
Pure Gold,	"	2
Songs of Salvation."	"	2
Wesleyan Chrestomes No. 1,		1.00
Wesleyan " No. 2,		75
Wesleyan " No. 3,		75
Wesleyan " No. 4,		1.00
Bibles, (pocket size) from 75 to		5.00
Bibles, Pocket, from 1.00 to		5.00
Children of the Abbey 12mo cloth,		1.50
Robinson Crusoe, 12mo cloth,		1.50
Shakespeare, 12mo cloth		1.50
Pilgrims Progress, 12mo cloth, pictorial,		1.50
Methodist Hymn and Tune Books, 12mo cloth,		75
Ready Reckoners, from 50 cts to		60
Little Writers, (board covers) 50 to		60
Life of Daniel Boon, 12mo cloth,		1.50
Bible Dictionary, (the best)		1.75
Picture Books (highly illustrated) from 50cts to		2.00
Methodist Hymn books from 50 cts to		4.00
Baptist Hymn Books, from 75 to		2.50
Presbyterian Hymn Books, from 50 cts		2.50
Episcopal Prayer Books, from 75 cts to		5.00
Photograph Albums, from 75 cts to		6.00
Minor Jones Courtship, paper cover,		75
Abbotts Mary Queen of Scotts.		1.50
Abbotts Queen Elizabeth,		1.50
Abbotts Marie Antoinette,		1.50
Aesop's Fables,		1.50
Arabian Knights Entertainment,		1.50

Send cash and add 10 cents on the dollar, and I will mail any of the above.

☞ Order any other book you want.

L. BRANSON,
Raleigh, N. C.

april 8-12m

TRINITY COLLEGE.

The next half-session will commence Jan. 15th 1875, and end June 10th.

Whole expense for all items, books and clothing excepted, from $90 to $100. In addition to the best collegiate advantages, many inducements are offered to students of the Bible, or Preparatory course.

B. CRAVEN,
Pres.

Jan 6 3m.

SCHEDULES.

PIEDMONT & AIR-LINE RAILWAY.

RICHMOND & DANVILLE, RICHMOND & DANVILLE R. W., N. C. DIVISION, and NORTH WESTERN N. C. R. W.

CONDENSED TIME-TABLE.

In effect on and after Sunday, Dec. 27th, 1874

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	MAIL.	EXPRESS.
Leave Charlotte	10.00 P. M	8.35 A. M.
" Air-Line Junction	10.18 "	8.56 "
" Salisbury	12.50 A M	10.54 "
" Greensboro'	3.41 "	1.15 P. M.
" Danville	6.18 "	3.36 "
" Burkeville	6.51 "	3.48 "
" Barksville	11.05 "	8.20 "
Arrive at Richmond	2.22 P. M.	11.40 P. M.

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS	MAIL.	EXPRESS.
Leave Richmond	1.38 P. M	5.05 A. M.
" Burkeville	4.41 "
" Danville	9.25 "	1.12 P. M.
" Greensboro	12.35 A. M.	4.10 "
" Salisbury	3.27 "	6.50 "
" Air Line Junction	6.15 "	8.32 "
Arrive at Charlotte	6.32 A M	8.49 "

GOING EAST	GOING WEST
STATIONS.	MAIL.
Leave Greensboro'	5.35 A M
" Gen. Shops	6.05 "
" Raleigh	8.45 "
Arrive at Galdsboro	11.35 A M
	Arrive 11.20 P. M
	Leave 11.45 "
	Arrive 2.35 P. M.
	Leave 2.55 "

NORTH WESTERN N. C. R. R.

(SALEM BRANCH.)

Leave Greensboro'	4.25 P. M.
Arrive at Salem	8.15 "
Leave Salem	9.20 A. M.
Arrive at Greensboro	1.15 "

Passenger train leaving Raleigh at 8.38 P. M. connects at Greensboro' with the Northern bound train, making the quickest time to all Northern cities Price of Tickets same as via other routes.

Trains to and from points East of Greensboro connect at Greensboro with Mail Trains to or from points North or South.

Two trains only, both ways.

On Sunday a Lynchburg Accommodation leave Richmond 9.00 A. M., arrive at Burkeville 12.43 P. M., leave Burkeville 4.55 A. M., arrive at Richmond 8.38 A. M.

Pullman Palace Cars on all night trains between Charlotte and Richmond, (without change.)

Passengers had have arrangements to advertise the schedule of this company will please print as above.

For further information address

S. E. ALLEN,
Gen'l Ticket Agent,
Greensboro, N. C.

T. M. R. TALCOTT,
Engineer & Gen'l. Superintendent.

—o—

CHANGE OF SCHEDULE.

RALEIGH & GASTON RAILROAD CO.

On and after Friday, May 22nd, 1874, trains of the Raleigh & Gaston Railroad, will run daily (Sunday excepted) as follows:

MAIL TRAIN.

Leave Raleigh	9.35 A. M.
Arrives at Weldon,	3.30 P. M.
Leaves Weldon,	5.50 A. M.
Arrives at Raleigh	2.45 P. M.

ACCOMMODATION TRAIN.

Leaves Raleigh,	5.15 A. M.
Arrives at Weldon,	5.15 P. M.
Leaves Weldon,	7.45 A. M.
Arrives at Raleigh	2.45 P. M.

Mail train makes close connection at Weldon, with the Seaboard and Roanoke Railroad and Bay Line Steamers via Baltimore, to and from all points North, West and Northwest, and with Petersburg Railroad via Petersburg, Richmond and Washington City, to and from all points North and Northwest.

And at Raleigh with the North Carolina Railroad to and from all points Southeast, Southwest, and with the Raleigh & Augusta Air Line to Hayw ood and Fayetteville.

A. B. ANDREWS,
Gen. Sup't.

RALEIGH & AUGUSTA AIR-LINE RAILROAD.

SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE,
RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 27th, 1873.

On and after Monday, Oct 27th, 1873, trains on Road A. & A. L. will run daily, (Sunday excepted,) as follows:

MAIL TRAIN.

Leaves Raleigh,	4.00 P. M.
Arrives at Sanford,	6.25 "
Train leaves Sanford,	6.30 A. M
Arrives at Raleigh,	9.20 "

FREIGHT TRAIN.

Leaves Raleigh,	5.15 A. M.
Arrives at Sanford	10.35 A. M.
Leaves Sanford,	12.01 A. M
Arrives at Raleigh	5.40 P. M.

Mail Train makes close connection at Raleigh with the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad, to and from all points North.

And at Sanford with the Western Railroad, to and from Fayetteville and points on Western Railroad.

A. B. ANDREWS,
Superintendent.

—o—

DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION,
Seaboard & Roanoke R. R. Co.,
Portsmouth, Va., Jan. 1st, 1875.

On and after this date, trains of this Road will leave Weldon daily, Sundays excepted, as follows:

Mail train at	4 P. M.
No. 1 Freight train at	4 A. M.
No. 2 Freight train at	8 A. M.

ARRIVE AT PORTSMOUTH.

Mail train at	7 15 P. M.
No. 1 Freight at	12 00 NOON
No 2 Freight at	4 00 P M

Freight trains have a passenger car attached.

Passenger for Edenton, Pipers with and Lumbertings on Blackwater and Chowan Rivers leave Franklin at 7.40 A. M. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays

E. G. GHIO,
Supt. Trans ortation.

S. COLLINS & CO.,

Manufacturers of

PRINTING INK,

26 Frankfort St., New York.

Agent in North Carolina, W. H. BERNARD, Stag, Wilmington, of whom these inks can be obtained.

jan 27-2m

STIEFF

GRAND, SQUARE, AND UPRIGHT

PIANOS

Have received upwards of FIFTY FIRST PREMIUMS and are among the largest manufacturers. Every instrument fully warranted for five years. Prices as low as the excellent use of the very best materials and the most thorough workmanship will permit. The principal pianists and composers, and the piano-purchasing public of the south especially, unite in the unanimous verdict of the superiority of the STIEFF PIANO The DURABILITY of our instruments is fully established by over sixty school and colleges in the South, using over 200 of our Pianos.

Sole Wholesale Agents for several of the principal manufacturers of Cabinet and Parlor Organs, prices from $50 to $600. A liberal discount to Clergymen and Sabbath schools.

A large assortment of second-hand Pianos at prices ranging from $150 to $250, always on hand.

Send for illustrated Catalogue, containing names of over 600 Southerners, who have bought and are using the Stieff Piano.

CHARLES M. STIEFF,
Warerooms, No. 9 North Liberty street,
Baltimore, Md.

Factories, 84 & 86 Camden st. and 45 & 47 Perry st.

Dec 16-12m

FURNITURE

W. H. Morriss & Co.

No. 3 Fayetteville Street,

RALEIGH, N. C.

Dealer in all kinds of furniture, such as Walnut Chamber Sets, Cottage Chamber Sets, Parlor Sets, Dining Room Sets, Bedsteads, Bureaus, Wardrobes, Washstands, Tables, Chairs, Sofas, Lounges, Spring Beds of various patterns, Cribs and Cradles in great variety of styles, patterns and prices. Wood and Marble top centre tables &c.

ALSO

keeps constantly on hand and make to order all kind of Mattresses, such as pure Curled Hair, Cotton and Shuck, Excelsior and Shuck Mattress. Old Hair Mattress renovated and made as good as new.

No trouble to show goods. Call and examine before purchasing elsewhere.

W. H. MORRIS & CO.

nov 20-tf

READ THIS

I will give any one an opportunity to make from $2 to $3 per day to work for me. Work easy and light. A boy 10 years old can all the bill. Send stamp for particulars. Apply to

B. L. POWELL, Warrenton N. C.

nov. 25 12 m.

WIRE RAILING & ORNAMENTAL Wire Works. DUNNE & CO.,

36 North Howard Street, Baltimore, Md

Manufacture WIRE RAILING for Cemeteries, Balconies, &c., SHUTTERS, FENCE, GUARDS, ARCH AND COAL SCREENS, WOVEN WIRE, &c. Also, IRON BEDSTEADS CHAIRS, SETTEES, &c., &c

Feb 10-12m

SCHEDULES.

A. H. TEMPLE,

(Successor to Lynn Adams,)

Grocer, Cotton Factor

AND

Commission Merchant.

Nos. 5 Martin St. and 5 Exchange Place.

Having succeeded to the business of Mr. Lynn Adams, I am respectfully to the public the best information in my power and respectfully ask a continuance of the trade. Gilmerite given. Mr. Adams, pounding to give satisfaction to all cases

In addition to my regular line of goods, I have on hand a full line of

STETSON WOOL HATS,

made in Wake county, and adapted especially to the farmer's use

I have just returned from the North where I purchased a full line of choice groceries and am now daily adding to my stock. I provide them who may favor me with their custom to give them as good bargains as they can get elsewhere

A. H. TEMPLE.

I most respectfully ask my former patrons and friends to patronize Mr. Temple my successor, who will, I am assured, give satisfaction to

I will still keep my office, as usual in the same building.

LYNN ADAMS.

Sept 9-tf

C. WEST & SONS,

ALADDIN SECURITY OIL.

The best Oil in use.

Warranted 150 Degrees Fire Test.

Water White in Color.

Fully Deodorized.

AND IT WILL NOT EXPLODE.

It burns in all Coal Oil and Kerosene Lamps.

TRY IT Ask for "Aladdin Security" and take no other.

C. WEST & SONS,

113 and 115 W. Lombard St., Baltimore, Md.

Nov 18-6m

G. W. LEACH, N. Y. M. T. LEACH

Leach Brothers,

WHOLESALE GROCERS

AND

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

SOUTH-EAST CORNER MARKET, SQUARE, Raleigh, N. C

Again we take great pleasure in presenting our card and returning our thanks to the readers of the ADVOCATE for their very liberal patronage during the past few years, and offer to the large and best assorted stock of Groceries ever offered in any market south of Baltimore, and while just now Beans, Sugars and Lard are very scarce and high, we have made extra effort and feel sure we have succeeded in bringing other goods equally low and intend giving our friends all the advantages gained by us, hoping to counter balance any advance in the few goods named

We wish to invite especial attention to our select stock of Canned Goods and Spices, bought direct from the Factories and offered here AT FIRST PROFITS.

We keep on hand in store

Lemons, Rice, Cheese,

In Mats old Gov. Java,

20 Bbls. A. Sugar,

In Bbls Ex C Sugar,

In bbls. B & Yellow Sugar,

2 Bbls Brunette,

In bbls. C. D and Sole Leather,

1 80 Sides Upper Leather,

" " Harness Leather,

250 Cases O'steen,

50 " Brandy Peaches,

Assd Yds. Bagging,

6 000 lbs. Ties,

100 Bbls. Super Flour,

200 Bales Assorted Salt,

50 Bbls Extra Flour,

5 Cases Forrester's Crackers,

" " Soda Crackers,

Boxes Factory and Dairy Cheese,

1000 W. P. and G. B. Corn Chips,

1 Kegs Burden Horse and Mule Shoes,

2 000 lbs Horse Shoe Nails,

2 Boxes Bed Axles,

50 Boxes Adamantine Candles,

100 Boxes Laundry and Toilet Soaps,

We solicit cop ondi ndments to country and near-by merchants, and invite an examination of our stock daily completion

Dec 1 74 2m

LEACH BROS

J. C. S. LUMSDEN,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

TIN AND SHEET IRON WARE,

Stoves, &c., in Great Variety.

THE STONEWALL is the Largest, Heaviest and Best Cook Stove in the Market.

Tin Roofing, Guttering & Piping a Specialty,

Fayetteville St., opposite the Market Pump,

oct 14-12m RALEIGH, N. C.

SPECULATORS IN SMOKE.

NEW CIGAR PALACE.

LEOPOLD BROS.,

Manufacturers of Fine Cigars Only.

The Only Legitimate and Straightout Cigar House in Raleigh.

PATRONIZE HOME INDUSTRY.

12 Fine Brands manufactured in all conceivable styles.

The very best IMPORTED and DOMESTIC STOCK used in our cigars.

Our Brands of Cigars are as follows:

THE ROSE (Copyrighted.)
FLOR DE CUBA.
THE FIG AND TWIST. (Jobbers.)
GOLDEN EAGLES. (Imported Stock.)
THE PRINCESS.
THE OPERA ROSE.
FLOR DEL FUMAR
OLD PLANTATION.
LITTLE MAIMEE.
THE PARLOR

All Orders Punctually Attended to.

In course of manufacture, a great brand of Cigar, entitled the

"RALEIGH GEM."

Call and sample at

No. 57 Fayetteville Street,

Opposite Market,

feb 14-3m RALEIGH, N. C.

R. R. WYATT. R. L. BINGHAM.

Wyatt, Bingham & Co.

Wholesale and Retail Grocers,

COTTON FACTORS

AND GENERAL

Commission Merchants,

No. 4 Market St. and No. 5 Market Exchange,

RALEIGH, N. C.

We tender our many thanks to our several customers and friends for their liberal patronage, and hope to merit a continuance of the same by our strict personal and prompt attention to our business, and by offering to them our large and well selected stock of

BOOTS, SHOES, HATS and CAPS,

Staple Dry Goods,

Cotton Yarns,

Sheetings,

Alamance Plaids, and

General Merchandise,

all of which we guarantee to be as recommended, and to sell at the lowest prices.

OUR GROCERY DEPARTMENT

is complete, and we make FLOUR a specialty and guarantee the lowest prices at retail and wholesale also the quality to be equal or superior to any offered in the market for the price.

BAGGING and TIES, SALT and NAILS always on hand and offered at the lowest market prices.

Consignments solicited, which will receive our prompt and personal attention, and the best prices obtained.

Jan 20-tf

METHODISM IN VIRGINIA.

A copy sent post paid to any address on the receipt of $1 50.

It is a book of interest to every Methodist, as gives the history of our Church in Virginia from 1772 to 1829. Address,

W. W. BENNETT.

Jan 27 6w

PROGRESS THE WATCHWORD

Merit and Success Hand in Hand.

BROOKLYN LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY,

NO. 141 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

Assets---$1,500,000.00!!

CHRISTIAN W. BOUCK, President.
D. P. FACKLER, Actuary.

WM. M. COLE, Secretary
DANIEL AYRES, M.D., L.L.D., Medical Director.

POLICIES VALUABLE IN LIFE, AS WELL AS AT DEATH.

The BROOKLYN LIFE is the only Company in America which guarantees

DEFINITE CASH SURRENDER VALUES

In case a Policy is forfeited for nonpayment of Premium.

THE BROOKLYN LIFE enjoys the highest reputation for JUDGMENT OF INVESTMENT, ECONOMY OF MANAGEMENT, AND CARE IN THE SELECTION OF RISKS.—Upon which elements of administration the security of a Life Insurance Corporation depends.

The laws of New York compel Companies in that State to maintain the cash value of their Policies, each and every year, and in a certain legal standard of reserve and accumulation must be held by the Companies to meet all their liabilities.

Insurers in looking around for Companies in which to insure, should carefully see for the important safeguard. IT W

Raleigh Christian Advocate.

Bobbitt & Gray, Publishers. | Published in the Interests of Methodism in North Carolina. | $2.20 Per Annum, in Advance.

Vol. XXI.---No. 11. | Raleigh, N. C., Wednesday, March 17, 1875. | Whole No. 1,049.

Selected Poetry.

I WILL ENDURE

"No I will weep no more:
Nor murmur I will endure." Iliad.

Spring hath its flowers—its hour of bloom,
Its balmy air of odorous sighs;
Awhile they shed their sweet perfume—
A little while—and fade, and die;
And when as o'er, such hour hath fled,
And wintry storms the sky obscure,
When raged the tempest, still I've said,
"Courage, I will endure."

Youth hath its pleasures—bright beam
On every side, their rays of joy;
And love and hope with fairy gleam,
Each ardent throw o'er distant days;
Yet sweet even these prospects hide,
Though youth had seemed the promise sure,
And 'midst the wreck of feeling said
"Pour on, I will endure."

Man may be happy—I have known
When joy's pure cup I freely quaffed;
When joy's bright sunshine round me shone—
Until each sorrow's blot had caught;
But deadly poison in the spell
Had power to strike—with them too sure.
My heart had wish'd—yet I said,
"Pour on, I will endure."

Life is a shadow, soon the sun
That cast it to the earth shall set,
And man, a few brief glasses run,
His joys and sorrows shall forget.
Yet there is hope, when life is fled,
Of blissful realms and pleasures pure,
And in the hope, through life I've said,
"Pour on, I will endure."

—Old Manuscript.

Communicated.

For the Advocate.

"THE CURSE OF BLOOD." No. 5.

Our Standards and our Reviewers.

BY REV. W. M. ROBEY.

It has been assumed with the great est confidence, and reiterated again and again with emphasis, that our views of the condition of the heathen world are in conflict with the teachings of our standard authors, especially Watson and Wesley. In order to correct this idea, we propose now to lay before our readers what these authors do say on this subject. But before doing so we desire, for the sake of perspicuity, to state the real issue. It is not whether there is an abstract possibility of a heathen being saved; this is a fruitless question which we have not raised. The question we raise is the practical one:—Are the heathen saved? It is not whether, provided a heathen should "live up to the light he has," he could be saved; but, Is any heathen saved that way? Assuming on the testimony of St. Paul that no heathen is saved that way, we then maintain that their only chance for salvation lies in their compliance with the terms of the gospel, which compliance they cannot yield without a knowledge of that gospel; and that it is for this reason that the church is commanded to preach the gospel to all nations, and held to a fearful account if she fails to do it.

Having furnished in the preceding articles the scripture proofs of these positions, and answered the main objections against them, we propose now to conclude the discussion with a few extracts from our "standard authors," Watson and Wesley.

We begin with a passage from Wesley, which one who writes "hurriedly" would doubtless consider as bearing very strongly against us, and perfectly conclusive for the "standard theory;" and why our adversaries have not quoted it we cannot tell, unless it is because they knew that it really proved nothing to their purpose, or that nothing would be gained by quoting Wesley too freely. Here is the passage.

"But it is equally certain, that all morality, all justice, mercy and truth which can possibly exist without Christianity profiteth nothing at all; is of no value in the sight of God to those that are under the Christian dispensation. Let it be observed I purposely add to those that are under the christian dispensation; because I have no authority from the word of God "to judge those that are without," nor do I conceive that any man living has a right to sentence all the heathen and Mohammedan world to damnation. It is far better to leave them to him that made them, and who is the Father of the spirits of all flesh; who is the God of the heathens as well as the christians, and who hateth nothing which he hath made." Sermon cxxii.

There is nothing in the writings of Mr. Wesley which more strongly favors the views of our adversaries than the passage, and yet they have never quoted it. Of course they were not ignorant of its existence. Why then have they not brought it forward?—For the simple reason that they know that it avails nothing to their purpose. It teaches nothing about the damnation of the heathen by "another law." It is true that in this place Mr. Wesley hesitates to draw the conclusion that we have drawn, but he does not draw the opposite conclusion, which, with his large charity, he would have done if he could. He therefore comes to no conclusion, but leaves the heathen and Mohammedan with Him that made them"—a very doubtful disposition indeed. But the main force of his language is leveled, evidently, at the Calvinist, as the next expression—"who hateth nothing that he hath made"—indicates. What he clearly teaches is this: that practical unbelief will avail nothing before God where Christ is neglected. What it would do for those who have not neglected Christ, never having known him at all, as the heathen and Mohammedans, he does not venture to say. In Christian lands those who reject Christ, however virtuous, will "certainly" be lost. But he does not teach us that in heathen lands those who know nothing of Christ, but are partially virtuous, will "certainly" be saved. That is the doctrine of Yates, Brooks & Co. For this very reason their quotations have been very sparing, though for effect they have been free enough in the use of Mr. Wesley's name. That we have fairly interpreted Mr. Wesley, the following extract clearly shows:

"St. Paul having in the beginning of this Epistle laid down his general proposition, namely, that the gospel of Christ is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; the powerful means whereby God makes every believer a partaker of present and eternal salvation;—goes on to show that there is no other way under heaven whereby men can be saved. He speaks particularly of salvation from the guilt of sin which he commonly terms justification. And that all men stood in need of this, that none could plead their own innocence, he proves at large by various arguments addressed to the Jews as well as the heathens. Hence he infers 'that every mouth,' whether of Jew or heathen, must be 'stopped' from excusing or justifying himself, 'and all the world become guilty before God.' 'Therefore,' saith he, by his own obedience, 'by the works of the law, shall no flesh be justified in his sight.'—But now the righteousness of God without the law,' without our previous obedience thereto, —is manifested, 'even the righteousness of God which is by faith of Jesus Christ unto all and upon all that believe.' 'For there is no difference' as to their need of justification, or the manner wherein they attain it; 'for all have sinned and come short of the glory of God.'—Ser. xxxv.

Just here, for the lively contrast, we insert a few lines from Bro. Brooks.—"It is clear that if the heathen are saved at all they must be saved either, first, unconditionally, or, secondly, by faith in Christ, or, thirdly, on some other condition. Bro. Robey and myself agree that those of them who have any light on the way of duty are not saved either unconditionally or by faith in Christ. It follows then, it seems to me, that if they are saved at all it must be on some other condition than this faith." "God does not require of the heathen faith in Christ as a condition of their salvation." "From this reasoning we conclude that God has given the heathen another, and, in some respects, a different condition of salvation from the one he has given us." (2nd Letter.)

St. Paul and Mr. Wesley agree that there is "no other way under heaven," and that there is no "difference" between the Jew and the heathen "as to their need of justification, or the manner wherein they attain it." But Bro. Brooks has reasoned till he has found "another" and a "different" condition, and he has arrived at this conclusion by the infallible process, that if the heathen are saved at all and are not saved in one of two ways, they must be saved in some other way.

This, indeed, is demonstration, and "before publishing in the organ of our church views that are contrary" to this, "we ought to be very certain that they are scriptural."

But this logical fact—this startling discovery—that if a thing is done, and is not done in one of two ways, it must be done in some other way—is only eclipsed by another discovery which he afterward makes:—that that other and different condition is not another, and not different, but one and the same. For after telling us that "God does not require of the heathen faith in Christ as a condition of their salvation," but has given them "another" and "different" condition, he then tells us that God has given the heathen the "gospel law of pardon":—that he has revealed to them "the condition of salvation: and then 'arguing from analogy' he concludes that the "condition of pardon is revealed to them as clearly as the condition of guilt:"—that "the gospel is as plain to them as the law,"—that the "heathen are saved on condition of faith—Faith in God—the sacred kind of faith by which we are saved." Nor does the performance end here. Having made it "clear" that if the heathen are saved at all they must be saved on one of three conditions:—(1) unconditionally. (2) by faith in Christ. (3) on some other condition, and having set aside the first two as out of the question, and then shown that that other and different condition is not another and different one, but one and the same with the second, our critic suddenly discovers another condition of pardon which he says is "referred to in the Bible," namely, "Works," which is evidently the fourth condition in his harmonious system.—The first is the "unconditional" condition; the second, faith in Christ; the third, that "other" and "different" condition; the fourth, "works." Now we christians are saved by faith in Christ. The "poor heathen" are saved on that other and different condition. Yet "so far as he remembers there are only two general conditions of pardon or salvation referred to in the Bible, faith and works." Now we christians are saved by the first—"faith." The heathens are not loved by the second, but by that other and different condition, which, according to Bro. Brooks' memory, is not "referred to in the Bible."

But we do not mean to turn critic. Take another passage from Mr. Wesley.

"But, in the mean time, let it be carefully observed (for eternity depends upon it) that neither the faith of a Roman Catholic, nor that of a Protestant, if it contains no more than this, no more than the embracing such and such truths, will avail any more before God than the faith of a Mohammedan or a heathen; yea, of a deist or materialist. For can this faith save him? Can it save any man either from sin or from hell?" Ser. cv.

The faith of a "heathen!" "Can this faith save him? Can it save any man either from sin or from hell?"—Is this that other and different condition?

Again Mr. Wesley says: "What faith is it through which we are saved? It may be answered, first, in general, it is a faith in Christ: Christ, and God through Christ, are the proper objects of it, (not God ont of Christ.) Herein, therefore, it is sufficiently, absolutely distinguished from the faith either of ancient or modern heathens." Ser. i.

The faith of the heathen then which does not take in Christ is not, according to Mr. Wesley, saving faith. Who is in conflict with the standards?—On the meagreness of human knowledge Mr. Wesley says: "Who can explain why Christianity is not spread as far as sin? Why is not the medicine sent to every place where the disease is found? But alas! it is not. The sound of it is not now gone forth into all lands. The poison is diffused over the whole globe; the antidote is not known in a sixth part of it." Ser. lxix.

Has God given the heathen the "gospel law of pardon?" Is "the gospel as plain to them as the law?"—Who is in conflict with the "standard authors?"

We turn now to Mr. Watson. Without pausing to examine the misapplications which have been made of this author's language, we will allow him to speak at length for himself. As to the Divine will in connection with human salvation, Mr. Watson says: "It is a natural question, 'If God willeth all men to be saved why is it that any perish?' The answer is: If God willed to save men by overcoming their wills by his omnipotent influence, all men must be saved; but he wills to save them according to the nature which he has given them; and we have the evidence of his word, and of our own consciousness that his will is a resistible will, and that his willing us to be saved does not affect our salvation without a corresponding determination of our own will." Sermon lxx.

Speaking of christian missions he says: "They unquestionably accord with the standing rule of the divine government, to help man by man.—The rule is universal. We see children dependent on parents, man on man. Society is a system of mutual dependence, a large portion of it is poor and wretched, and the poor are relieved and the wretched comforted, by man. Is religion, then, an exception? Is this altogether a matter between man and his Savior, without the intervention of human agency?—We know it is not. The establishment of the ministry proves this; the assistance which all christians render to each other, and to the world around them proves this. If then the world immediately around us is made dependent upon us for instruction, reproof, and help, where is the authority for supposing that the more distant parts do not fall under the same rule? There is none. The human race is one family." Who is in conflict with the standards?

And again: —"Missions are therefore the means appointed by God, and it lies with us to send them: they must go out from the church of Christ; they must be sent forth by the prayers and liberality of the saints. Deep then as are the wants of the world, the supply is with us. We have all the Scriptures, the ministry, the ordinances. The instruments are prepared by God; the youth of our churches present themselves. And what is wanting to provide a glorious, a large, an increasing supply for millions ready to perish." And yet again:—"No nation lapsed from the light and knowledge of religion has ever regained it, while left to itself.—On the contrary we see a constant sinking; the darkening of their heaven with every age; no instance of steps retraced to the simplicity and purity of the patriarchal religion; no moral teacher raised with sufficient command to chase the darkness and banish the superstition of his country.—They appear to have sunk into a state which the first revelations, if they could be recovered by some, would not reach. Nothing but the gospel in its full and perfect form, with the accompanying influence of the Holy Spirit, is adequate to the desperate degradation of their state. Hence it is that the Apostle represents the gospel as absolutely necessary, and the only means left. 'Whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved; but how shall they call upon him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher?' We must apply the remedy, or there is no hope." Ser. xxvi.

We commend the last extract to our beloved Bro. Yates especially.—Has Mr. Watson made the right application of the Apostle's language? Or is this mere "sensation?" "We must apply the REMEDY, or there is NO HOPE." Does that sound like "another way?" Who is in "difficulties?"

Most affectionately do we commend to our brethren Yates, Brooks & Co., the following language of Mr. Watson: "Is idolatry the 'abominable thing that God hateth?' Is his word full of awful denunciations against it? Do both Testaments flame with the vengeance of the God of purity and justice? Does the one declare that he will pour his fury upon the heathen that know him not, and upon the families that call not upon his name? and the other that they that do such things as those to which the heathen are universally addicted, shall not inherit the kingdom of God? What is the meaning of all these words? Will any man dare to adopt a theory which shall take away all their meaning, and reduce them to empty menaces?—They are the words of truth; they show us the 'regions beyond' under the most emphatic maledictions of Heaven. They show us millions of men attainted of high treason against the Divine Majesty, and exposed in life to his displeasure, in death to despair, and in eternity to everlasting punishment." Ser. lxxvii.

And this: "True religion, indeed, there is none, nor indeed can be.—Idolatry and superstition are not, therefore, as they have sometimes been represented, only different means of accomplishing the same end, giving men the control and benefits of religion, though by a different process.—This I fear has been a too common notion; the same principles of piety have been supposed to be expressed by the worship of God and of idols; and he who has returned from an idol temple has been regarded as bearing away with him to his home and to his business, a conscience as satisfied, a spirit as refreshed and comforted as he who departs from beholding the glory of God in the sanctuary. O when shall we reason as exactly and carefully on these subjects as upon others? Ser. xxvi.

(To be Concluded in our next.)

The Evils of Pulpit Notoriety.

A secular journal moralizes over the confession of a prominent witness, in a certain trial, that in his younger days he worshiped great men, but that since he had come to know them better he was "sick" of them. The journalist seems in his moralizing to make no distinction between the varieties of great men, but puts them all into one catalogue. As Macbeth says: Hounds and greyhounds, mongrels, spaniels, curs, shoughs, water rugs and demi-wolves, are cleped all by the name of dogs." He mentions Alexander, Cæsar, Washington and Hamilton in connection with the particular "great men" by whom this witness in his youthful and immature years had been dazzled, as if such a juxtaposition were not ridiculous.

And yet this journalist is only repeating the vulgar error of confounding notoriety with fame. Because an individual happens to be the town talk, unthinking persons suppose that he thereby goes into history, and becomes the theme of admiration for a nation or for mankind. Nothing is easier than to get notoriety, and nothing is more difficult than to acquire fame. The arts that promote the former defeat the latter. He who would gain a lasting reputation in any department of human effort must cultivate his powers so highly and exert them so conscientiously as to preclude the indiscriminating and noisy applause of a narrow circle of relatives, friends and dependents. Notoriety always supposes more or less of personal acquaintance and relationship; fame supposes none at all. A noted politician, or a noted actor, or a noted preacher, derives his reputation from the crowd that gathers about him when he makes a public appearance, and the celebrity which he enjoys is due to individual traits and peculiarities, more that to those solid excellencies that remain the same for all time and under all circumstances.

It here that the evil influence of mere pulpit notoriety upon the church and society is apparent. The declamatory and sensational preacher gathers around him only a particular class. It is a class marked by defects that require to be removed rather than strengthened. They are commonly the very same defects which the preacher has himself. Like priest, like people. He abhors doctrine, and they abhor it. He talks metaphors, relates anecdotes and raises laughter, and they like metaphors, anecdotes and easy going ethics, and they enjoy the same. In this way the preacher speedily becomes the "great man" of his congregation, and then,

"Like Cæsar, gives his little senate laws,
And sits alternative to his own applause."

The injurious effect of notoriety upon the individual himself who is so unfortunate as to have it is manifold. It is almost fatal to personal piety. The devout and saintly men in the history of the church have not been local celebrities. No deep and pure character is formed under the intoxicating stimulus of a crowd of partisans. On the contrary, infirm virtue, sad lapses and great scandals are apt to come in connection with such influences. The effect upon the preacher in puffing him up with self-conceit is remarkable. It is very difficult for him to think others better than himself, and to condescend to men of low estate. The story is told of a popular member of a French parliament who, being overcome by his own eloquence, was overheard after his speech muttering devoutly to himself: "Lord now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace, for mine eyes have seen thy salvation." This extravagance in secular oratory can be matched in the records of ecclesiastical. Some preachers have had as absurd notions of their own superiority as this French deputy had, and some congregations have been as crazy about their idol.

It is a dark day for a church, and it protokens great spiritual decline, when the people cease to be content with thoughtful, devout and scriptural teaching, and clamor for celebrated preachers. The demand will create the supply, and the church will be filled with declaimers and ecclesiastical charlatans. There will be no truly great men produced; and, what is far worse, no truly good men. There will be abundance of notoriety, but no fame; and, what is worse, no piety. In thus foolishly and wickedly trying to find their life, both the preachers and the people will have lost it.—Christian Intelligencer.

THE PRACTICAL SPEED OF TELEGRAPHY.—The velocity of the electric current is not the measure of the actual rate of communication by means of it. The time required by the operators in adjusting and manipulating their instruments, and in transferring messages from one circuit to another, is the controlling element in the case. A few weeks ago, it is reported, a telegram was sent from New York to London and an answer received in thirty minutes, actual time. The distances traversed were: From New York to Heart's Content, Newfoundland, 1,300 miles; by cable to Valencia, 2,000 miles; Valencia to London, 300 miles. Each of the telegrams, therefore, traveled 3,600 miles, and passed through the hands of 18 persons.

Lot's Wife.

"Remember Lot's wife." Remember her fate. With the destruction of Sodom she was destroyed. Suddenly, in the instant of her looking back—awfully, eternally—her sin found her out.

And now, my brethren, I ask—are any of you still in the devoted city? in and of the world which God hath cursed, and concerning which He hath said: Go forth—tarry not! Oh, let me beseech you, escape for your lives Let nothing keep you. Even now the merciful Saviour may be calling in His appliances of grace—even now the flame may be casting its crest over your devoted heads, and you must dwell within its everlasting burnings. The time draws on when you must either be in Christ, or lost to Him forever. This is your day of grace. God grant you may not wail endlessly, over its remembrance. Hasten, brethren—flee to the sinner's only refuge—flee to that side, wounded, pierced, cleft, to take you in. If you live and die rejecting Christ, He says your guilt is greater than that of Sodom and Gomorrah, and your destruction will be a more fearful and awful one.

And you who have come out, and are making your way to the city of refuge, persevere, seek this last, best grace;—the perseverance that God crowns. Onward—forward—upward—waver not—tamper not with the smallest sin. You have begun in the spirit—remember, you may end in the flesh. You may find it hard to keep pressing onward—into a higher, keener, lonelier region—hard to be crucifying the flesh with all its affections and lusts, and all this for a reward unseen—hard to bear up when doubts and fears are many and trials heavy, and the memory of sin harrowing and consolations small; but still onward. To go back is perdition. Remember that Christ's finger points to this pillar of salt, hard by the gate of Zoar. The devil will follow you up to the gate—the flesh will rebel. You have need to watch, and fast, and pray—pray that God will not suffer you to fall from Him—for any desires of your own—for any revilings of men—for any fear of death—to fall from Him. Remember that, not angels only, but He speedeth you on your way. He goeth with you—before you—in you. Onward still, and you shall come up to the mountain in the strength of Him who fasted and was tempted, and was more than conqueror. Simon, Simon—Satan hath desired to have thee, that he may sift thee as wheat; but I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not. Here is our peril and our safeguard. And if ever your hearts faint, and your resolves waver, and your eyes wander, and your feet go near to falling, then, when you are dejected and tempted, and scarce able to stand, appeal to His human sympathy. And to sustain the vigor of your appeal, think on this Lenten lesson:

"Once gain the mountain top, and thou art free. Till then, who rest, presume; who turn to look are lost."

Remember Lot's wife—how, after all those years of God's leadings, she perished at the very door of safety—how she looked back once, and never looked forward again.—From a Sermon in the Literary Churchman.

Good Readers.

At a late meeting of the Massachusetts Teachers' Association, Joseph White, LL. D., speaking of the qualifications of teachers, said he had never known more than two or three good readers—at most not more than ten or a dozen. To be a good reader he thought to be more difficult than to be an acceptable speaker. Dr. White in this statement, emphasizes a deplorable fact. The most elegant and the most durable accomplishment that a lady or gentleman can possess is that of reading well. Nor is it an accomplishment only, but it is an acquirement that will prove of the highest practical value to the family and to society. Why it is so rare is perhaps due to the fact that of all the studies at school that of reading is the one most neglected, and of all the methods of amusement or instruction in the family or social circle, that of reading aloud is the least practiced. If reading aloud were esteemed as it ought to be in the school and in the family, we would not merit such a stinging reproach as that uttered by Dr. White. Nor only this, but, in addition thereto, many a home that is now periodically invaded by dullness or ennui would be wonderfully brightened and refined, and its inmates be made incomparably more happy, by this gracious and winning accomplishment. At the same time, while all are entertained and made cheerful, the young in especial would be improved and kept out of the way of the temptations incident to long and tiresome evenings.—Christian Intelligencer.

A WONDERFUL FLOWER.—One of the most exquisite wonders of the sea is the opelet, a flower resembling very much the German China aster. It has the appearance of a double aster, with a quantity of petals of a light green color, glossy as silk, each petal tipped with rose color. These lovely petals are never still, but wave about in the water, while the flower clings to the rock. So innocent and lovely-looking, no one could suspect it of eating anything; certainly if it did, only a bit of rainbow or a drop of dew. But those beautiful waving petals have other and more material work to do—to provide food for a large mouth, which is cunningly hid deep down among them. They do their duty famously, for as soon as a silly little fish comes in contact with those rosy tips he is struck with a poison fatal and quick as lightning. He dies instantly, and the beautiful arms wrap themselves about him and drag him into the greedy mouth. Then those lovely petals unclose and float innocently on the water, just like our water lily. This flower was long ago talked of, but its existence doubted until the last century. Now the opelet is known to be a thing that really exists.

Universalism.

It has been lately said that if Universalist churches do not grow as rapidly and as largely as the wide-spread belief of the Universalist doctrines would lead one to expect, the reason probably is that Universalists find their doctrines quite well enough preached in orthodox pulpits. Hence they do not need to change their church relations, and betake themselves to churches which openly profess the Universalist faith.

It would seem from this that in some so-called orthodox pulpits sinners in Zion are allowed to remain at ease. The evil day is attempted to be put far away by silence about the everlasting punishment of sinners, and hell is too harsh a word to be uttered before a refined audience. For our part we desire to hear the whole truth of God. And as Christ has told us what shall be the sentence on transgressors we want to have it preached in all its fullness, that sinners may flee from the wrath to come.—Christian Intelligencer.

God's Cure for Darkness.

Our way is often dark in this dark world. Evil and sorrow surround us like so many thick clouds that shut out the light. What, then, shall we do, when we are thus on the point of losing our way? Take hold of God's hand, as the little child does of its father's in the dark night, and keep close to his side.

This is God's cure for darkness—simple confidence in himself. The want of this confidence puts us all wrong.—The possession of it keeps us all right.

But am I warranted in trusting God at all times, whatever may be the evil that I feel to be in me? Of course you are, just as you are bound to obey the command which says, "Thou shalt love him with all thy heart." You would not say, "I am so bad that I am not warranted in loving God." That would be adding sin to sin. So you ought never to say, "I am so bad that I am not entitled to trust God." God commands you to trust him; and not to do so would just be adding sin to sin.—Trust him at all times, for he is worthy to be trusted. Stay upon him, for his arm is strong enough to bear the whole weight both of your self and your sins. Do not hesitate or delay. Trust him at once and as you are. Trust him now.—H. Bonar.

The Righteous Shining Out

In making a sermon on Matthew 13: 43, I have had occasion to notice the words "shine forth." They mean shine out. I suppose the imagery is derived from the shining out of the sun from clouds. We all know how glorious the sun appears, when after his bright face has been obscured by clouds, he shines out and fills all beholders with joy. The righteous will shine out in the kingdom of their Father. Many a good man will shine out from the obscurities of earth, from the murky atmosphere of slander, from the mists of suspicion, from clouds of reproach, &c, &c. What a place to shine in! "The kingdom of their Father." How paltry are all the honors of earth as compared with the distinction and conspicuity in reserve for the saints! How effectually will they be vindicated from all the aspirations of men and demons! They will shine out as the sun in the kingdom of their Father. Their Father will take infinite delight in blessing and glorifying his children. What a grent thing to be a Christian! Selected.

THE EXCAVATIONS AT POMPEII.—The diggings at Pompeii, says the Pall Mall Guzette, are just now going on with vigor. What has been brought to light in the course of so many years is really, after all, only a small part of the city, and every search below the ground adds something to the stock. It is certainly startling, as the spade and basket are busily at work, to come suddenly on a large painting of Orpheus with the beasts listening to his music, fresh-brought to light after his lucky imprisonment of eighteen hundred years. The charm is perhaps a little broken when we find that the columns of the newly discovered houses are, like those of so many of the houses of Pompeii, no real columns at all, but masses of brick covered with plaster. But the picture is certainly one of the most striking among the moral paintings in the buried city. It is to be hoped that nothing will induce those who have the management of these works ever to fall back on the old, bad way of carrying everything off to the museum at Naples. A painting or anything else loses more than half its value if it is carried off from the place for which it is meant. In a museum it is simply a specimen; in its own place it is part of a whole. For objects which, for any cause, cannot be left on the spots where they are found the museum which is forming in Pompeii itself, not that at Naples, is clearly the right place. For the rest, the simple course is that which is now followed: that of roofing in the buildings where perishable objects, like paintings, are found. Leda snowing her children to Tyndareus is worth ten times more in her own place, on the wall where she was first painted, than if she had been carried off to keep company with Brises and Iphigenia among a crowd of other objects which were never meant to be seen altogether.

The First Steamboats.

The most important invention made in America during Jefferson's administration was that of the steamboat. The first person to propose it was Thomas Paine, in 1788, during the Revolution. James Ramsey in 1784 built a vessel which reached a speed of three or four miles an hour, against the stream, on the Potomac. John Fitch built one soon after that was employed on the Delaware; and he predicted, moreover, that steamships would one day cross the Atlantic. But these steamboats were not at all like those now built, their engines being made upon a different principle. The first boat constructed on the present plan was lauched upon the Hudson, by Robert Fulton, in 1807. While the vessel was being built it was called "Fulton's Folly," and every one laughed at it. He himself wrote that no one had ever made to him a single encouraging remark about it. But before his boat had gone a quarter of a mile, unbelievers were converted; and the people who had collected to see the experiment began to shout with applause. The vessel was named the "Clermont," and made the trip from New York to Albany, at the rate of five miles an hour, against the wind and tide. As it moved, it sent showers of sparks into the air. The noise of machinery and paddles was very great; and when it passed other vessels, their sailors sometimes hid themselves below the deck, and knelt, praying for protection from this horrible monster. From this time forward steamboats rapidly multiplied, were greatly improved, and were soon in general use; though it was not generally supposed, for along time after, that they could safely cross the ocean.—Higginson's "Young Folks' History of the United States."

Trifles and Treasures.

MARRIAGES are best of dissimilar material.—THEODORE PARKER

WHAT is poetry? A smile, a tear, a glory, a longing after the things of eternity.—PRENTICE.

A LADY, in instructing her daughter in the use of the needle, said: "As I tell you to sew, so sew; but do not merely sew-so-so."

"She is a perfect Amazon," remarked a pupil of his teacher to a companion. "Yes," said the other, who was better versed in geography than history. "I noticed she had an awful big mouth.

BIOGRAPHY has been called the picture gallery in the halls of history. History properly is only the record of the result on society and the world of the doings of men. Biography introduces us into the house of the interpreter, and explains the springs by which the operations are carried on and their consequences evolved.

ENJOY life, and be not melancholy and wish thyself in heaven. If a king should give you the keeping of a castle and grounds, and you use them, promising in twenty years' time to make you a privy counselor, do not neglect the castle, refuse the fruits, and sit down, whine and wish yourself a privy counselor. —JOHN SELDEN.

Whitter being asked for his autograph wrote:

"The name is but the shadow, which we find,
Too often, larger than the man behind."

A spanish woman's mantilla, under the laws of Spain, is sacred, and cannot be sold. When a Spanish gentleman is "embarrassed," he buys a hundred thousand dollars' worth of mantillas for his wife, and then fails honorably.

THE eccentric revivalist, Lorenzo Dow, once preached a sermon on the text from St. Paul: "I can do all things." "No, Paul," he said, "you are wrong for once. I'll bet you $5 you can't," and he laid down a $5 bill on the desk. He continued to read: "Through Jesus Christ our Lord." "Ah, Paul," he said, "that's a very different thing. The bet's off."

Apropos of the Tyndall-Darwin theories comes in one of Gen. Schenck's latest stories that he told to the wife of a British Cabinet officer, who assured him that "England made America all that she is." "Pardon, madam," said the General; "you remind me of an answer of the Ohio lad in his teens, who, attending Sunday school for the first time, was asked by his teacher, 'Who made you?' Made me?' 'Yes.' Why God made me about so long" (holding his hands about ten inches apart), but I growed the rest."

EVEN dull boys would take an interest in mathematics if it could help them make good bargains. A bright boy puzzled a dull dealer by strict mathematical inferences:

"How much is your stick candy?" inquired a boy of a candy dealer.

"Six sticks for five cents."

"Six sticks for five cents, eh? Now lem me see. Six sticks for five cents, five for four cents, four for three cents, three for two cents, two for one cent, one for nothin.' I'll take one." And he held out his hand to the bewildered candy dealer.

HOW TO MAKE BOYS GENTLEMEN.—How many mothers complain that their boys are not gentlemanly, without ever considering whether the boys are treated in anywise like gentlemen. The "boys room" is too often a cheerless, unattractive place, with no toilet conveniences, and scarcely such as are necessary. Do not say it is of no use to put nice things in so untidy a place. If you want to interest a boy in keeping himself and his room in gentlemanly order, provide a little something luxurious and ornamental.

God has placed some people in a very easy place to love and serve Him. And yet how many there are knowing this, feeling it, who yet do nothing. If such did their duty, the circumstances of others would not make it as hard to become Christians, and live up to the highest professions.

SCIENCE.

A MEDICAL journal says that if a few drops of carbolic acid be added to the tincture of iodine, the iodine will not stain the human skin.

A FOUNDER, in Venice, named Giordani, has discovered a process of bronze-casting by which the cast is made in a single operation, however large its size may be.

PROFESSOR BUCKLEY, State Geologist Texas, announces that the deposits of iron and coal in that State, are much greater than has been supposed heretofore, and that both are of a firstrate quality.

A CHARACTERISTIC effect of snake-poison is rapid decomposition of muscular tissue. From Dr. Weir Mitchel's experiments it appears that, after a few hours, the wounded muscle becomes almost diffluent, and assumes a dark color and somewhat jelly-like appearance; under the microscope is the appearance of a mass of minute granules.

THE use of the spectroscope in the testing of metals is extending, and is regarded as of especial value where purity is essential, for which reason it is employed in the coining establishments of Europe, and has recently been introduced into the United States Mint. The way in which the instrument detects even the most minute quantity of impurity, is marvellous.

DR. HAGAR, of Berlin, believes that aniline colors are, as a rule, poisonous in their action upon the human skin. He recommends, therefore, that woollen garments colored with the aniline dyes should not be worn next the skin, and suggests, as a test, that part of the wool be heated to the boiling point in a test tube, with 90 per cent of alcohol, and if the latter acquire a red, violet, or violet-blue tint, the coloring matter is suspicious.

THE pottery-tree is one of the remarkable vegetable growths of Brazil. Its botanical name is MOQUILEA UTILIS. It grows to a great height, its stem being slender. The wood is very hard, and contains a very large amount of silica—not so much, however, as the bark, which is largely employed as a source of silica in the manufacture of pottery. In preparing the bark for the potter's use, it is first burned, and the residue is then pulverized and mixed with clay in varying proportions. With an equal quantity of the two ingredients, a superior quality of ware is produced. It is very durable, and will bear almost any amount of heat. The natives employ it for all manner of culinary purposes. When fresh, the bark cuts like soft sand stone, and the presence of the silex may be readily ascertained by grinding a piece of the bark between the teeth. When dry it is generally brittle, though sometimes hard to break. After being burned, if of good quality, it cannot be broken up between the fingers, pestle and mortar being required to crush it.

We learn from the Popular Science Monthly, that in his lecture at Belfast, on "Common Flowers in Relation to Insects," Sir John Lubbock inquired into the causes of flowers closing their petals during rain, and of some flowers remaining open for a longer or shorter period than others. The habit of closing the petals during rain is obviously an advantage, since it prevents the honey being spoilt or washed away. Everybody, however, has observed that even in fine weather certain flowers close at particular hours. This habit of going to sleep is surely very curious; why should flowers do so; and why should some flowers close at the approach of night, and others not? Moreover, flowers keep different hours. The daisy opens at sunrise and closes at sunset, whence its name days' eye; the dandelion opens at seven and closes at five; ear hawkweed is said to wake at eight and go to sleep at two; the scarlet pimpernel wakes at seven and closes after two; while Tropogon pratensis opens at four in the morning and closes just before twelve, whence its English name "John-go-to-bed-at-noon." Other flowers, on the contrary, open in the evening.—Now, it is obvious that flowers which are fertilized by night flying insects would derive no advantage from being open by day; nay, it would be a distinct disadvantage, as rendering them liable to be robbed of their honey and pollen by insects not capable of fertilizing them. Hence the lecturer believed that the closing of flowers has reference to the habits of insects. In support of this, he observed that the wind-fertilized flowers never sleep, and that some of those flowers which attract insects by smell emit their scent at particular hours.

A theological fight of considerable vigor and acrimony has been raging in Australia, the combatants being the Rev. P. Bermingham, D. D., a Roman Catholic priest, of Albury, and the Wesleyan minister stationed at Wodonga, the Rev. B. Buthers, B. A. After some hard hand to hand tussling in the local lecture hall and press, both have betaken themselves to pamphlets and these have attracted much attention.

Spelling schools are becoming as popular in Indiana as they once were in the New England and Middle States. They are held not only for social but for benevolent purposes, in places of hairs, &c.

The divorce business seems to be pretty good in Maine. Last year four hundred and eight-seven bills were granted, of which two hundred and thirty-eight were for desertion.

The Christian Advocate.

OFFICE - Corner of Dawson & Hargett Sts

THE ORGAN
OF THE
NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE
OF THE
M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

Rev. J. B. Babbitt, R. T. Gray, Esq. } Editors.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

FOR ONE YEAR, IN ADVANCE, POSTAGE PAID,	$2.25
IN MONTHS, " "	1.35
If payment be delayed six months,	2.70

All letters on business with this office should be addressed to the Editors of the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

RALEIGH, N. C., MARCH 17, 1875.

The Cross (X) Mark is to remind you that your subscription has expired. Let all renew promptly.

Trials, a Means of Grace.

The good man Job, in the midst of all his trials and afflictions, maintained his integrity. He understood the ministry of trial and accepted every visitation as needed discipline. If we could always view them in this light and bear them patiently 'they' would, as we are plainly taught in the word of God, "work out for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory." The example of Job is full of comfort to the Christian. His patient endurance and wonderful deliverance, strikingly sets forth the blessed truth of the sufficiency of Divine Grace for the worst of life's ills and trials. But trials do not come to us in great numbers, and so severely as they did to Job. They are scattered along according to our need and ability to bear them. What encouragement have we, to endure with fortitude the annoyances, from which no life is exempt? Some who seem to bear great griefs and trials, with heroism, allow the daily fret and worry of small insignificant ills to consume their patience,—they are unbearable. How often have christians felt that if it were not for the little trials that irritate the temper, the harassing and vexatious cares that surround them in their life pilgrimage, great progress might be made in the divine life. Paul was never heard to complain of his "great weight of affliction," his "labors more abundant, stripes above measure, prisons more frequent, death oft;" but after he had reached such heights of christian attainment, that he had been admitted for a season to the paradise of God, and heard unutterable words; even then, perhaps, to show one last trace of human frailty, linking him to us, when the "thorn in the flesh" was sent, that he might not be exalted above measure in his own estimation or ours, then he besought the Lord thrice that it might depart from him. But the answer came, "my grace is sufficient for thee, for strength is made perfect in weakness." Gladly then was the trial endured, "that the power of Christ might rest upon him." The sting was taken away, it was no longer a messenger of Satan to buffet him, but one more perfecting stroke from the hand of the Master he so fervently loved. Thus shall it be to the true disciples. Trials will be sent to them in every period of life.—Christians are disciplined for heaven through the law of suffering, and they will continue until the last blood-washed spirit, changed and saved by grace divine, shall with rejoicing be gathered to the promised land.

How it is Done.

The New York Christian Advocate says:

"Rev. John Thomas, of Saratoga Springs, has forwarded to us sixty-two renewals, and sixteen new subscriptions for The Christian Advocate for the year 1875."

This is the way the papers North obtain such extensive circulation. It is not uncommon for the preachers to secure in a few weeks 100 subscribers and renewals to their Conference organ. They regard the circulation of their church paper a plain duty incumbent upon them—as much so perhaps as any other connected with their pastoral work. Would that the same spirit would get hold of our Southern brethren.

Rev. J. A. Cunninggim, agent of Greensboro Female College, gave us a call last week. We are pleased to know that his health has been restored and that he is again prosecuting his agency with vigor. His success in Goldsboro the past week was decidedly encouraging. He is now in Wilson, from which point he proposes to take a trip with Dr. Closs on the Washington District. He will likely make one full round with the Doctor on his District.

COMING OVER.—Our Baptist brethren are beginning to see their error in adhering to their close communion views. A Baptist paper states that 36,000 Baptist members adopted open communion ground the last year. At this rate they will soon all become open communionists. Let them come—we are glad to see them forsaking the wrong and pursuing the right.

Rev. N. M. Jurney is conducting a series of meetings at Person Street Church, of which he is the efficient and laborious Pastor. Indications are favorable for a gracious revival of religion.

We are pained to hear of the extreme illness of Sister Boshamer, wife of Rev. A. A. Boshamer of our Conference. We trust a kind providence may preserve her life and speedily restore her to health.

System.

"Order is Heaven's first law." At the first fiat which came from the mouth of creative power, that law was impressed upon the chaotic mass out of which the world was evolved, and ruled and directed every succeeding phase of creation The world obeys it still and knows that the penalty of disobedience is its total crash and wreck. The "music of the spheres" of which poets talk, is not simply a child of poetic fancy, but is realized in the strict obedience which nature pays to that law of order—in the harmonious relations which its parts preserve toward each other.

Order is harmony and harmony is music—the music to which nature sets its ceaseless song of praise to its Creator. The order of the Universe—of its correllated parts and its varied operations—as seen in the recurrence of night and day, the changing seasons, marching in file and arrayed in their varying garbs—the regularity with which growth follows decay and life springs again from decay, is both striking and pleasing. It is a strict and unbending law—tyrrannous, it may seem—but the reward of its obsevance is safety, ease and happiness. Should the most insignificant star, lying on the outposts of infinite space, (pardon the contradiction in terms) become unruly and rebel against the law imposed upon it, its toppling fall would crush the pillars of every system and make creation desolate.

As in the physical so in the moral and intellectual world, there is a law of order which must be obeyed before human thought and endeavor can be successful and produce pleasure and profit. In the systematic use of means there is pleasure and apt to be success—in the irregular and disorderly array of forces there is discord, confusion and failure. Success that follows the disregard of system is accidental and not permanent, and the enormous number of life failures that we see might be ascribed to the persistent avoidance of order and system in laying and executing plans. Some of the most industrious and untiring workers we have ever known are the most uniformly unsuccessful in their work, and though brain and muscle are strong and willing, produce nothing but failure. The reason is, they think without any definite system, and pursue their work with less. Confusion follows, and out of confusion comes miscarriage of plans and aims.

In a family where all things are done 'in order' they are apt to be 'decently' done. The children are apt to be obedient to their parents, affectionate to one another, industrious and moral. In the Sunday School, the Superintendent who enforces system, will be blessed in the prosperity of the school and the attainment of its ends. And in the church the pastor will discover that his work is facilitated and the good of the church, in its temporal and spiritual features, promoted by enforcing the rule of performing duties in "due form and apt time"

Methodist Exhorters.

The Wilmington Star of the seventh instant, referring to the evangelical labors of Messrs. Moody and Sankey, the revivalists, whose work in Great Britain has been followed by results most gratifying to the christian world, says, in substance, 'their style is no better than that of the Methodist Exhorters, to whom we are used in North Carolina'—thus, as we take it, applying the term 'exhorters' in a contemptuous way, to the Methodist ministry of our State. We preferred to think that the writer was trying to be funny and failed, rather than that he wished to make a gratuitous fling at our miuistry; but the sneer was too apparent to justify any such charitable construction. We do not criticise the propriety of the appellation, and say that it was in bad taste, even if it were deserved.—The question of taste is always an open one. But is it just to our ministry to apply to them a generic name which denotes the humblest order of preachers? An "exhorter" is a valued colaborer with the minister, but makes no claim to the learning, ability and eloquence of the higher rank of the ministry. Nothing is expected of him in the way of great abilities and while he is respected for piety and worth, he is not regarded as the exponent or representative of the Methodist ministry. And to call our ministers 'exhorters' is to deny them the dignity of ministerial rank and to imply humble abilities. We do not regard the opinion, good or bad, of an anti-Methodist, as the measure of the Methodist ministry's right to respect and veneration, no more than we lose sight of the architectural beauty and sacredness of an elegant Methodist church building when an arrogant churchman calls it a "meeting house." But the sneer we can't help regarding as unjust, uncalled for and altogether out of place.

We have had and still have in the South, and in North Carolina, as illustrious and able a ministry as any church can boast. While they may not have received their commission through the "laying on of hands" of those who claim to succeed the apostles in an unbroken line, they have shown the apostolic zeal and fire and shed upon their own church, and the christian religion at large, the lustre of their learning, eloquence and piety.

We would be glad to know that the Star did not intend a contemptuous reflection upon the Methodist ministry, and feel assured that its remark was not tasteful to its Methodist readers, of whom it has many.

The Baltimore Conference.

The last Baltimore Methodist gives an interesting account of the Baltimore Conference recently held in Washington city, from which we make the following extract:

"The collections for the superannuated preachers and the widows and orphans of those who have died in the work, are very cheering. It was announced to the Conference that the deficiency in this fund was some $1,300, when the whole amount was promptly contributed, thus enabling the Joint Board of Finance to pay the claimants 100 cents on the dollar! This is a most gratifying result. Thanks to our lay brethren, Messrs. Milnes, Parker, Magruder, Shipley, Leitz, Hough, Jesse B. Wilson, Peyton Conway, and others. Never was an offering to the Lord's cause made with a more hearty good will.

The two Conference holding their annual sessions at the same time present a striking illustration of practical and cordial fraternity. In Winchester the Conference of the M. E. Church is mainly entertained by our own people, and in Washington the brethren of our Conference are warmly welcomed to the homes and hearts of both Methodisms

All the pulpits of the Methodist churches, and a number of other churches in the Metropolis, were occupied by the members of the Conference on Sunday. Bishop Marvin preached at Mt. Vernon Place and ordained the Elders in the morning and the deacons at night.

An interesting feature of the day was the transfer of the Israel M. E. Church (colored) in a body to the M E. Church, South, on Sunday afternoon. Dr. A. W. Wilson officiated, assisted by Bishop Marvin! Bishop Miles, of the African M. E. Church in America, was also present, having preached to the congregation in the morning. Altogether it was an occasion of unusual interest.

Bishop Mavin has won all hearts by his simple, unostentatious manners, and truly eloquent and evangelical preaching. Whilst he is deeply religous, he is entirely free from cant. His reception of the clergymen of the city was eminently characteristic. Dr Tiffany, of the Metropolitan Church; Dr. Pitzer, of the Presbyterian; Dr. Meador, of the Baptist, and Rev. Mr. Hammond, of the M. P. Church, being introduced, he invited them to take seats within the bar, and make themselves perfectly at home, pleasantly remarking that he hoped they would be as good Southern Methodists as possible while they remained among us! This little episode produced a fine effect, while the faces of the gentlemen were wreathed with a pleasant smile.

Dr. Haygood preached for Dr Tiffany at the Metropolitan Church on Sunday night. We need hardly say that Dr. Haygood's presence at our Conference, and at all times, is a benediction. The session will probably continue until Wednesday. By that time the appointments will have had ample time to settle.'

Simple Faith.

The London News gives the following as a sample of Rev. Dr. Moody's preaching on faith:

"His purpose was to make it clear that men were saved, not by any action of their own: but simply by faith. This he illustrated, among other ways, by introducing a domestic scene from the life of the children of Israel in the wilderness at the time the brazen serpent was lifted up. The dramatis personæ were a young convert, a skeptic, and the skeptic's mother.—The convert who has been bitten by the serpent, and, having followed Moses' injunction, is cured, 'comes along,' and finds the skeptic lying down badly bitten.' He entreats him to look upon the brazen serpent which Moses has lifted up; but the skeptic has no faith in the alleged cure, and refuses. 'Do you think,' he says, 'I am going to be saved by looking at a brass serpent away off on a pole? No, no.—'Well, I dunno,' says the young convert; 'but I was saved that way myself. Don't you think you'd better try it?' The skeptic refuses, and his mother comes along, and observes? 'Had n't you better look at it, my boy?' 'Well, mother, the fact is, if I could understand the flosophy of it I would look up right off; but I do n't see how a brass serpent away off on a pole can cure me.' And so he dies in his unbelief. It seemed odd to hear this conversation from the wilderness recited word for word, in the American vernacular, and with a local coloring that suggested that both the skeptic and the young convert wore tailcoats, and that the mother had to 'come along' in a stuff dress. But when the preacher turned aside, and in a very few words spoke of sons who would not hear the counsel of Christian mothers, and refused to 'look up and live,' the silent tears that coursed down many a face in the congregation, showed that his homely picture had been clear to the eyes before which it was held up."

A Valuable Lesson Learned.

An afflicted, Christian lady, of deep religious experience, remarked, not long since, that she had learned that religion was "bearing all things," giving no heed to the hasty word, or excited temper, but quietly bearing these, and patiently waiting; for, if the transgressor should be reproved, in his excited state, it only increased the evil. Much need is there for all of us to learn and practice this lesson, amidst life's exciting scenes. M.

Souls Converted - Seek - Work.

MESSRS EDITORS: There are probably, persons in every community who intend to be Christians, who would like to be such now; but, are waiting for a protracted meeting; or for something more than the ordinary means of grace to aid them in coming to Jesus. With your permission, I would give such persons a word of encouragement to seek and expect the blessings of salvation at any service of the Sanctuary, yea, at any time, by informing them of the gradual progress of the Coming Kingdom, amidst the ordinary means of grace, at Pleasant Garden Church, Guilford co., N. C. Since the establishment of the prosperous school of Capt. R. P. Troy, near that church, regular Sabbath services have been held, whether or not there has been a minister to officiate. At different hours of worship, one has been converted, and added to the number of believers. A few Sabbaths since, at the usual morning service, Bro King preached, the Principal of the school exhorted, and requested all who desired salvation to approach the altar of prayer. Several bowed, and four were happily converted, before they left the church. Others were deeply affected.

The importance of early enlisting for Jesus, is personally impressed there, on student and neighbor; and when one is discovered to be under conviction, an opportunity is given him to bow at the altar. Praying ones gather around to encourage and point them to the Lamb of God, and to plead, with great earnestness, at the throne of grace, "where Jesus answers prayer."

The consequence is, a large portion of the students, and many of the young people of the vicinity, are Christians.

A. VISITOR.

MESSRS EDITORS: It is not my intention in this communication to enter the discussion on "the curse of blood," from the simple fact that I presume many of your readers are not interested in the discussion and many who take no other paper have doubtless thought that most too much of your columns have been devoted to its discussion. I have been fearful however that as the clergy who have been engaged in the controversy have occupied different stand points and each sustaining his peculiar views by the word of God, that it might have a tendency to encourage some in disbelieving God's word or of encouraging some to yield to the temptation of the evil one that almost any doctrine could be sanctioned by scripture. This however is a crude suggestion merely thrown out as a hint and not for the purpose of engaging in the discussion as the contestants will know best.

The object of my communication is to suggest some plan for the raising of funds to relieve the demands of our missionary board, for all christians, I suppose, are united in the belief that it is their bomden duty to do all they can for the amelioration of the condition of fallen maukind everywhere

I suggest, therefore, that putting off lifting collections until the end of the conference year, when several calls have to be made and when stewards are straining every nerve to pay the preacher, is an unwise one and to it may to some extent be referred for the meagre collections made. I would therefore suggest a new plan (not however original with myself) as I have seen it successfully practiced in another denomination. It is one, however, that will employ the hands and hearts of the children and train them in early life to deeds of love and charity.

It is this: in each Sabbath school or neighborhood let some prominent member of the church offer a prize to the scholar who shall raise the largest sum for missionary purposes in a specified time, and a lower prize to the next highest. Where the party can not afford to give the prizes they can be paid for out of the sum thus raised. Then place in each scholar's hand a small savings bank, which is nothing less than a small square paste board box with a hole cut in its top for the reception of contributions, and on its side is pasted or printed some suitable scriptural text. The children then go out and solicit small subscriptions or deposits from friends and relatives. At a specified time each scholar brings in his or her box, the contents of which are removed by an aperture made in the bottom, the amount counted and placed to the credit of the scholar and a piece of paper pasted over the aperture so the box can be again used. At the expiration of the time the scholars' names, with the amount raised by each, are read and the prizes awarded in public. I would like to see the experiment fairly tested when I think all would be surprised at the result.

PHILO.

Wilmington District, March 4th, '75.

MESSRS EDITORS: Let me ask brethren, who at the late session of our Conference subscribed for the Southern Review, and St. Louis Advocate, to be patient. I have learned to day that the names of subscribers have never reached St. Louis. They were properly mailed, with the money the next day after Conference closed. All however, will be right, as a check was forwarded from the State National Bank, payable to Mr. Dameron, Manager of the concern.

V. A. SHARPE.

March 10th 1875.

"Layman."

MESS S. EDITORS: Please say to "Layman," that I started to write to him, but stopped, looked at his name, and was afraid he might "lay" again. He lays on so hard, that one more layer might hurt the heathen; and I am set for their defence. I trust that's his "last lay." Personalities, eh? Please ask him to excuse me—I lack time and taste. Tell him I forgive him. I do not know his name, and probably never shall, unless he will write me a private letter. I did not intend to squelch "Layman."—Didn't know he could be squelched. Grace forbid that I should ever squelch anything, but sin. Tell 'Layman" it is dangerous for a man to write with a pen knife; and let us remember that we are brethren. For the sake of the "heathen," let us have peace. If they should hear of these things it would put them again us.

Briefly yours,

E. A. YATES.

MESSRS. EDITORS: I notice, in a recent issue of the Advocate, a letter signed "Layman" expressing much weariness at the continuance of the able disensssion now being conducted through the columns of the Advocate on the "curse of blood."

I must confess I am surprised. I have never looked more anxiously for the arrival of the Advocate—not that I am specially fond of controversy—but I have really felt that the Church needs to be enlightened on this subject—needs to be aroused from her apathy. The present condition of our Missionary treasury is appalling.—How can this be remedied? Let this discussion be continued—its leaven is working. I heard a good brother say, a few days since, a man of amiable intelligence and deep piety, that he has been a member of the church for many years, has heard the missionary cause presented time and again; but never before reading this highly interesting discussion did he fully appreciate the importance of the missionary work.

I am heartily glad to see the subject being so fully, freely and ably discussed, feeling, as I do, that it must result in awakening our people to a sense of their responsibility, individually and collectively, which will, inevitably, lead to a speedy replenishing of our depleted missionary treasury.

As to "Layman's" objection on account of the "drifting into personalities"—while I am free to admit there has been a little "skirmishing" and some "sharp shooting," yet, I think, nothing offensive or unkind or more than is allowable. So, Bro. Layman, let them go on. E. A. T.

Letter from Bishop Pierce.

Mr. Editor: I am behind time with my letters but as you insist, I resume:

It would be tedious and impossible to attempt description of the scenery on the route from Ogden to Sacramento. Here we have the great Nevada desert with its alkaline sands and sage brush - a lonely desolation; then the Sierra Nevada mountains, and the Truckee river with its shoals and falls and bridges and the road ascending and descending—doubling on its track—a magnificent triumph of engineering skill and human labor. Here too we have the famous snow-sheds—supernacan tunnels—a necessity of the climate but an annoying obstruction to the vision of the traveler anxious to see the wonders about him. Here too we round Cape Horn—a curve in the road about one of the enormous altitudes—from which as you rush along—you may look down a thousand feet. To get a roadbed here (and they have economized space) I was told the workmen were let down from the summit by ropes and held while they pecked the rocks to find foothold—standing ground. Physical difficulties which would paralyze an Eastern man, disappear before the vim and will of the dwellers on the Pacific coast. Saw mill towns dot the line of the Railroad, and they are denuding the mountains of their timber with great rapidity. On the Western slope we enter upon the mining regions, and it is curious to see the mounds and pit-falls where Mammon held his carnivals at an early day. The washings from the mines have filled up the streams, and now in the rainy season, they flood the farming lands and well nigh ruin them.

Dr. McFerrin and myself were waylaid by a set of preachers and laymen, and were carried off to a camp-meeting, before we could wash away the dust of the desert. He preached at night and I next morning, and one bright conversion inaugurated our service in that far off land. We accepted it as a token for good—the promise and pledge of the Divine presence. I left in the afternoon for Yuba City where I had promised to dedicate a church on Sabbath. The Dr. remained and preached and baptized. On Monday we met and started for Oregon. On Tuesday night about 1 A. M., we took the stage—crammed with mail bags and passengers. For sixty hours we were tossed and tumbled, jolted and jarred—through mountain gorges—over mountains—down mountains—through the grandest forests in the world—over rivers—along the brink of precipices—on the edge of yawning chasms—amid scenes of grandeur and gloom—among savages and awful solitudes. Such a ride! such a ride! It was a new chapter in my diversified travels. My old friend stood it like a hero. We reached Roseburg about daybreak—the end of the stage route, Which was happier, he or I, I do not know. It was a good time with both of us, when we entered the cars and felt the soft gliding motion—we smiled our gratification. The change was too great, too good, for expression. Neither of us could do justice to the subject, But we enjoyed it. It was rest.

Our road runs through the famous Willamette valley—sixty miles wide, two hundred in length, with the Coast range of mountains on the West. and the Cascade mountains on the East. This is a wonderful country. Forests, streams, fruits, soil, and climate—all marvellous. If Southern people will move, let them go to Oregon or southern California.

The Conference was held on a campground twelve miles from Salem. We had a pleasant time. Here the Dr., and I planned a preaching campaign—which took us to every important point. We began at Portland. While there, an opportunity offered for a trip up the Columbia river as high as the cascades. I never enjoyed a jaunt as I did this. The weather was beautiful—the boat was fine—the scenery awe inspiring—the river the grandest on the continent—the objects of interest innumerable. When I was a boy, I read Washington Irving's "Astoria" and it seemed like a legend of some far off mythical region, wild and weird, where nature dwelt alone with her birds and fish and furred animals, and a solitary trapper here and there—the only human inhabitant; and now, as the illusions of fancy fled away and I, a pilgrim from the East, stood in the presence of this river and these mountains, I was hardly conscious of my own identity. It seemed as though the magical wand of imagination was still playing fantastic tricks with my memories and ideas. Ah me! this Methodist itinerant system tosses men about very strangely. But for this, I never should have seen the natural wonders that ravished my vision as the proud steamer plonghed the bosom of the grand Columbia river.

At night I preached, by courteous invitation, in the Methodist Episcopal Church. Portland did not impress me favorbly as a place of residence. I prefer Salem. We returned to the latter place—spent a day and night. Here the Dr. and I parted for a season, to fill our respective appointment—arranging to meet at certain places. To tell the whole truth, we were never long apart, and our meetings were occasions of—well, mutual gratulation. He was a great comfort to me, and I have thanked his wife for a three months loan of him.

We preached day and night, right through the heart of the country for two hundred and seventy-five miles—Portland to Ashland. We had many incidents, rare and racy, to freshen our spirits and beguile our weariness, but I have no time to write them now.

With the memory of that stage ride in our hearts (and as to that, in other parts as well) and with its fear before our eyes—how we should get back to California was a very serious question. The Dr. was strongly inclined to the boat and the ocean; I favored the stage. So we took counsel. We advised with every new comer we met, with this result. If he came by steamer, he advised us to take the stage; if he came by stage, he advised us to take the steamer. This was uniform. There was no help to either side. To kick the beam, I plead the chance to stop and preach. So we took the stage again, but relieved ourselves by stopping to preach. We took the stage by instalments, and made the trip with comparative comfort. The last night I shall never forget. It was raining—the heavens were black as ink—the air dense with fog and darkness—the road the most perilous on the whole trip—but on we go with six large horses—two feeble lamps to light our way—sweeping in a gallop, in curves around mountain summits, whirling—whizzing on the very edge of abysmal depths. The Dr. was solemn—I kept silence—and in the midst of it all—nature asserted her rights and we slept. About two hours after midnight, we landed at Redding—the terminus of the railroad from Sacramento I never felt a livelier gratitude for my health and safety.

I have said nothing of Mt. Hood or Mt. Shasta—these monarchs among mountains. The first stands up, like Saul, a head and shoulders above his brethren—him I saw at a distance. But Shasta I was near both going and coming, and the sight was and is an inspiration. From base to top is 14,450 feet, his head is heavy with perpetual snow, and the atmosphere for thirty miles around attests his icy dominion. On our return, as we stopped at his foot to change, his head and breast were wrapped in dense clouds, rolling in fearful convolutions; but as we started the clouds were rifted by a gust of wind, the sun beamed full upon his white locks, and his shining face, all unveiled, was turned upon us like a benediction. At a turn in the road the Dr. got another glorious glimpse and was rapt in poetic frenzy. He begged me to look. I declined—telling him the image of my last view was photographed in my mind, and I wished it to remain unmarred and unmixed forever. It lingers yet, a glory and a blessing.

G. F. PIERCE.

— Southern Christian Advocate.

The French Ministry has recently given a decision in favor of female doctors, and one Mlle. Domerque, of Montpellier, has received due authorization to pass her examination preliminary to taking a degree.

Religious Brevities

Rev. W. W. Walker, of Trinity M. E. Church, South, Baltimore, has accepted the invitation of the Faculty of Washington and Lee University to preach the Bacalaureate sermon at the commencement of that Institution in June next.

Ravenscroft's tables give the following as to the religious state of the world: Heathen, 816,915,200; Mohmmedans, 105, 688,000; Jews, 6,216,700; Christians, 334,772,960.

Archbishop Manning of London hrs received a summons from the Pope to come to Rome. It is author itatively stated that he is to be made Cardinal.

A missionary meeting of the M. E. Church, South, in Louisville, Ky., will open on Sunday, April 11. Bishop M Tyeire, Bishop Wightman, Dr. R. A. Young, and Dr. M'Ferrin, Secretary of the Board of Missions, are expected to be present,

The Reformed Episcopal Church grows slowly. A fourth church has been organized in Chicago, and a third in Philadelphia. A provisional organization has been effected of a Church in Baltimore.

From fifteen to twenty of the middle class in Yale Seminary are expecting to spend the summer vacation, four months, in preaching on the frontier, probably in Kansas.

Rev. L. H. Bngbee, D. D., President of the Wesleyan College, Cincinnati, was on Monday, Feb. 15th, unanimously elected President of Alleghany College, Meadville, Pennsylvania.

The New York Advocate says: "There are in the United States about fifty missionary associations, whose annual receipts and expenditures amount to $6,000,000. Of this the Episcopal and Congregational Churches each contribute about $300,000; the Presbyterian, $500,000; and the Methodist Episcopal about $700,000, or nearly one-ninth of the whole amount."

The Southern Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions has twenty-seven ordained missionaries laboring in China, in South America, Mexico, and among the American Indians.

The Presbyterian Committee who have charge of the proposed monument to Dr. Witherspoon have issued an appeal for funds. The statue is expected to cost about $20,000.

Rev. Dr. Boardman and wife, of the Presbyterian Church in this country, have been holding meetings for the promotion of the "higher Christian life" among the Quakers in Stoke Newington, London.

Rev. Edward Eggleston, the well-known author of "The Circuit Rider," "End of the World," etc., has accepted an invitation from the Lee Avenue Congregational Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., to preach two sermons each Sabbath in that church, at an annual salary of $6,000.

Rev. Mr. Howard, the Presbyterian revivalist, who had just ended his meetings at Salem, Va., has had two hemorrhages and is very ill,

Twenty three ladies from the United States are in foreign missionary fields, under the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church

Rev Horace Bushnell, D. D, the well known theological writer, is now in his seventy-second year, and is quite feeble. He has been compelled to abandon all literary labor.

NORTH CAROLINA.

The fence law does not seem popular in Mecklenburg county, three townships, Charlotte, Crab Orchard and Morning Star, having all voted against it.

W. R. Myers, Esq., President of the A. T. & O. Railroad has taken charge of it, the Receivership being vacated by order of Judge Schenck.

Mr. James P. Erwin, living in the suburbs of Charlotte, met with a serious loss recently, by the burning of his barn, together with all the forage stored therein, and one horse and a carriage.

Messrs Adrian and Vollers of Wilmington, as we see from the JOURNAL, are importing natural guano in bulk from the Gnanahani Island.

The young ladies and gentlemen of the Methodist Church at Washington, propose to give a concert at an early day for the purpose of raising funds to finish their church at that place.

The next annual meeting of the State Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, will be held in Greensboro.

Mr. Ralph Gorrell, the venerable lawyer of Greensboro', has been confined to his bed with a severe attack of pneumonia.

Just before the adjournment of Congress, the appropriation for the improvement of the Cape Fear harbors, was increased to $150,000.

A bill to incorporate a Bank in Durham has passed the Legislature.

The injunction to prevent an election under the recently amended charter of Wilmington, was refused by Judge Bond, on the ground that the remedy sought was an improper one.

James N. Robinson, the junior editor of the Oxford Torch Light, has retired from that paper.

The Postoffices at Cuba, Rutherford county; Mica, Mitchell county, and Wolf Knob, McDowell county, have been discontinued.

Several Boston families are still at Asheville where they have been spending the winter.

The travel over the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad is said to be larger than at any time since the war.

The supposed remains of an Indian burying ground were discovered near Salisbury, after the recent flood.

Samuel Jackson, a prominent citizen and lawyer of Randolph county, and son in-law of the late Gov Worth, aged about 43 years died on the 5th instant, of Paralysis, at the residence of his brother, at Whiteville, N. C.

Mr. William Dulin, of Clear Creek Township, in Mecklenburg co., was killed recently by being thrown from his horse.

Rev. J. C. Hiden has resigned the pastorate of the First Baptist Church in this city, for the purpose of accepting a call to Greenville, S. C.

REMOVAL.—The Daily News office has been removed from its old quarters to the new building erected by Gen. J. Stronach, Esq. on Martin Street near Fayetteville St. The editorial sanctum, composing and job office, press room and mailing department are all on one and the same floor, the convenience of the publishers being thus greatly enhanced. The business office is on the second floor which those having business with the News cannot fail to find. We congratulate our neighbors on their happy change.

The Wilson Plain Dealer is informed that at the recent term of the Superior Court of Nash county the aggregate of fines imposed upon people of that county for failure to have their weights and measures sealed amounted to about $9,000.

The Washington Echo says: The plea that "the man was drunk" will have no influence with Judge Eure in mitigation of sentence for offenses against the law.—Says he: "I desire it to be understood that I shall make it a rule to add to, rather than take from the severity of the sentence in all such cases!"

The Newbern Journal of Commerce learns that the Sheriff of Cartaret, John D. Davis, Esq., and three of the County Commissioners have resigned. The reason assigned is unwillingness to levy and collect the railroad tax for which mandamuses have issued from the U. S. District Court.

The Elizabeth City Register says:—Superintendent of Life Saving Stations, Col. Charles Guirkin, has recently made a tour of inspection, and informs us that every department of his service is perfect As an instance, he says that crews of the life boats, all along the line, have clearly demonstrated that in five and a half minutes they can be outside the breakers, ready to assist those in distress.

Lawyers visit Durham on Wednesday's for the transaction of business. Our young friend S. H. Webb Esq. of Oaks, Orange co. has located permanently in Durham for the practice of his profession and deserves patronage.

In Wilmington, Judge McKoy granted a restraining order commanding the Carolina Central Railway to show cause why it should not be enjoined from passing through the lots of DeLeon Fillyaw and others, to reach its freight depot.

Peter P. Holt has commenced working his gold mines within a couple of miles of Graham, Alamance county. The Alamance Gleaner says with his imperfect facilities he has succeeded in getting an ounce of gold from ten bushels of pounded rock and dirt.

The Roanoke News men have "put a new head on" their paper—not doing it the injury that that popular slang phrase implies, but benefiting the appearance of that wide awake journal.

E. R. Stanley, of Newberne, has arranged for a permanent residence in New Jersey.

The telegraph office at Hillsboro' has been reopened.

A negro entered a bar room in Wilmington, demanded a drink of liquor but was refused. He applied to the U. S. Commissioner for a warrant against the bar-keeper for a violation of the Civil Rights law, but the defendant was released, the act not applying to saloons detached from an inn or hotel.

The Purcell House and National Hotel in Wilmington have surrendered their license as public houses and have closed in view of the recent passage of the civil rights bill. Persons visiting Wilmington, however, will not find any difficulty in obtaining the usual accommodations at those places. The same policy has been adopted in Washington N. C.

A dead seal was cast upon the shore a few miles below Washington recently.

Aaron Banner, colored, convicted of of the heinous crime of rape, was hung at Washington on the 5th of March. This was the first case of hanging in Washington since 1843.

The Statesville Landmark says: Mr. Cornelius Kestler, of Fallstown Township, in this county, has placed on our table 10 ears of corn which were matured from one shoot, and are still attached to each other.

General Assembly.

Mr. Morehead, from the Committee on Constitutional Reform, reported a bill providing for the call of a Convention to meet in Raleigh on the 6th of September, 1875, for the purpose of considering and adopting such amendments to the Constitution as they may deem necessary and expedient, subject only to the restrictions hereinafter provided. The bill provides that the election for delegates to said Convention shall be held on the first Thursday in August, 1875, and that it shall consist of one hundred and one and twenty delegates. The Convention shall have no power to consider, debate, adopt or propose any amendment to the existing constitution or ordinance upon the following subjects: Homestead and personal property exemptions, mechanic's and laborer's lien and rights of married women as now secured by law, nor to alter or amend section 3 or 5 of article 5 of said Constitution, nor change the ratio between poll and property tax as therein established. Nor shall it have power to propose or adopt any amendment or ordinance vacating any office or term of office now existing and filled or held by virtue of any election or appointment under the existing Constitution and laws until the same shall be vacated or expired under existing laws, but it may recommend the abolishment of any offices when the present term shall expire or vacancies occur, and may provide for the filling of such vacancies other than as now and limiting the terms thereof. Nor shall it adopt or propose any plan or amendment or scheme of compensation to owners of emancipated slaves, nor for payment of any liability or debt incurred wholly or in part in aid of the late war between the States, nor for the restoration of the law of imprisonment for debt; nor shall it require or propose any educational or property qualifications for office or voting; nor shall said Convention pass any ordinances, legislative in their character, except such as are necessary to submit the amended Constitution to the people for their ratification or rejection, or to convene the General Assembly. The whole when amended to be submitted to the people for their ratification or rejection.

The bill passed the Senate last Friday by a vote of 37 to 12. Its fate in the House is doubtful.

INDEX TO NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

We invite attention to the advertisement of J. C. Palmer, which appears in this paper. His assortment of Watches, Gold and Silverware, and, indeed, every thing usually kept in a first class jewelry establishment, is perhaps the largest and most complete in the State. Be sure to give him a call.

We direct the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Mr. J. H. Whitaker.

Thompson and Whitaker, it will be seen, have dissolved, but the business will be conducted by Mr. Whitaker at the old stand. He is a young and active business man, is well supplied with a varied stock of goods, is a safe commission merchant and deserves patronage.

We commend to our readers all the houses advertised in this paper They are all reliable, and we trust they will receive the patronage of our friends who buy in Raleigh,

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF RALEIGH EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING.---TERMS $2.20 POSTAGE PAID.

Our Agents.

All the travelling and local preachers in the bounds of the North Carolina Conference are our authorized Agents. Any person sending us ten subscribers, for one year, will receive the paper free.

Our Correspondents.

Communications for publication should be carefully written, and on but one side of the sheet. All letters on business should be addressed to the Editor.

How to Remit.

In sending money, all amounts should be sent in registered letter, post office order or check. The cost of registering, or Post Office order can be deducted from the amount to hand. If money is sent otherwise than herein specified it will be at the sender's risk.

DR. S. VAN METER.

Dr. S. Van Meter, founder of the famous Infirmary at Charleston, Illinois, is able to tell just to the curative value of any diseased person, and give his symptoms better than the patient himself. This he does no one by Witchcraft or spiritualism, but as the legitimate result of patient careful study of the effects of Disease and long experience in their treatment.

The Charleston Infirmary known over the whole country has for near 30 years past been the resort of the afflicted, and men of the highest standing both South and North endorse it from a personal knowledge of its merits.

After constant confinement for years, Dr. Van Meter will, as a matter of recreation, take a tour through the South Eastern States, and will stop at various points that the afflicted may consult him.

He will be along in two or three weeks.—Send at once for the Journal EXTRA, containing full particulars of towns, dates, hours, &c.

D. S. VAN METER & Co.

mar 17 2-

Marriages.

Married on February the 4th, 1875, by the Rev. J. H. Gaines, Mr. B. D. Henry and Miss Ann E. Liles.

By the same, at the residence of the bride's mother, on the 11th of Feb., Mr. Henry Covington and Miss Margaret Beauman, all of Anson county, N. C.

Married in Hyde county, N. C., Feb. 24th, at the residence of Mr. Joseph D. Simmons, by Rev. Jas. M. Watson, Mr. Lewis C. Mann and Miss Indiana V. Young.

Married March 11th, 1875, by Rev. J. W. Jenkins, Mr. J. M. Covington and Miss Emma J. Pointer, all of Caswell co., N. C.

Married March 11th, 1875, by Rev. S. Lea, Mr. William Murphy of Caswell co. and Miss Bettie Tally of Person co., N. C.

Zion's Landmark please copy.

Married, near Magnolia, March 10th 1875, by Rev. J. N. Stallings, Mr. Thos. Jones, and Miss Ellen Rivenbark, all of Duplin co., N. C.

Deaths.

Obituary notices of twenty lines are inserted without charge. For excess over twenty lines of ninety words is charged for at the rate of 10 cents per line. Send the lines and allow about one week for the time. In this way you may always know the time to expect. Account has a respect possible to the same rate.

Died in Aurora Beaufort county N. C. at the residence of his father-in-law, Dr. Rosco Hooker, Mr. John Y. Bonner on the 25th February 1875. His illness was very short and severe, but his death, quiet and peaceful. Strong hope is entertained that he has passed to a better land. He leaves a fond young wife, to whom he was married only 10 months ago, a mother, sisters, brothers and a large circle of relatives to weep over his departure. Blessed be the Lord, who has promised to be a husband to the widow! Hillsboro Recorder please copy.

Thomas H. Holmes, son of Aaron and Elizabeth Holmes, of Back town, Harnett county N. C., departed this life, in great peace, on the 22nd day of February, aged about 81 years.

He apparently enjoyed religion for about 18 years before the death of his father, and was the first boy of his age who professed and possessed religion was of that class of persons mentioned in all his sufferings, labors and sacrifices, the father and mother as well as little children, arrive before. Several sorrowing they left him away to rest the peace and rejoicing of the children of God, in the graves. He was raised to love Methodism and to live in its loved communion all the days of his life, and now, has gone to realize the cheering hope it inspired in his heart.

May the parents of the six remain their son while the purely gates of Paradise.

W. S. CHERRY.

The subject of this memoir dr. Lucien H. Sanders was born on the 21st of February 1838, and was accidentally killed on the 1st of March 1875, thirteen days after he had attained the legal age of twenty-one. He was a child of many promises, and was the first born of his parents. He was of a large, strong and well built frame, and was active, and when he was a boy threw a broken limb of a tree with great force, so that it would look like a thunderbolt on the devoted head of the good man and killed him instantly. It also struck and slightly wounded one of his sons who was standing by his side. In the fatal day, Bro. Sanders, having just completed his 82nd year, was in unusually vigorous health, still busy at work with his characteristic energy and cheerfulness. Thus his exemplary career on earth was terminated without the shadows and infirmities of declining old age. His life must be pronounced an eminently successful one. When twenty-one years of age, on Nov. 29th 1846, he was married to Miss Martitia March, of Ashboro, N. C., who, possessed of a character in which strength and amiability and piety were blended in beautiful harmony, was indeed a help meet to him through all the long years to the end of his days. In the affecting relations of home, he was devoted, tender and loving—such a husband and father as makes home a place of sweetness and pleasure—in the labor of which he was industrious, persevering and spirited. In business transactions he was a model of consistency and honesty—establishing and maintaining a truly honorable character. He was highly esteemed by a large circle of acquaintances and none could but to praise."

At the first camp-meeting in Smithfield, he was the subject of awakening grace and arose to the altar, but was converted instantly—probably being one of those who stood but one step—the step of confession—of the song of pardon and peace. He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in communion 1867. From that time to the day of his translation he held fast to his profession—he was an active member. He delighted in the worship. His home was a generous and happy home for the weary itinerant—as many who will see these lines will well and gratefully remember. He was a Steward of the Raleigh or Cary circuit for many years—continuing to his death. He was repeatedly sent by the Quarterly Conference as a delegate to the District Conference, where he always heard faithful interest in the welfare of the Church. It was a favorite pleasure with him to attend either District or Annual Conference. Who can calculate the value of such a man to our beloved Methodism—to religion in general—to all true interests of society?

He frequently said he was not afraid to die and expressed the desire to die suddenly.

He passed away without feeling a fear or a pang of death. He died on the first day of spring—beautiful emblem of the saints entrance into the Eden of eternal bloom. On the 3rd of March, I preached his funeral sermon in his bereaved home, to relatives and neighbors, from the 23rd verse of the 118th Psalm: "This is the Lord's doing; it is marvellous in our eyes;" connecting also the 26th and 27th verses of the 109th Psalm.—Notwithstanding the dark, rainy, chilly day, a long procession followed the cherished remains to their resting place in the old church-yard. He has gone to his rest and his reward. May God comfort his disconsolate wife and children and bear them at last to the new home of the husband and father in Heaven!

A. W. MANGUM.

Mrs. Jane Boyd, was born August 12th 1795, and died Feb. the 16th 1875, in Concord in the residence of her son. She had been a member of the Methodist E. Church, South, for about thirty years, and at all times bore the name of a devoted Christian in all the relations and vicissitudes of life.

She lived beyond the allotted years of life and the latter part of her days was indeed labor and sorrow from the infirmity of age. The evidence of her acceptance through Christ was clear and cheerful, and in this happy state she passed to the realms above where old age will be changed into the freshness of immortal youth. She leaves children, grand and great grand children to mourn their loss, but to her it is a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory.

D. J. R.

Sister Eliza H. Bryant, wife of Rev. S. S. Bryant, died in Varcennes, Mo., Jan. 30, 1875, after lingering long and suffering much in the last years. She was born in Virginia, was a Methodist from early life and consequently the Christian profession which she sustained to the end of her days. She died, she lived. Never up till that did not consult with tenderness to Christ and well used her means in the line of benevolence, pleased when to do so and sacrifice. The writer knew her personally during the last years of her life. During these years she was a constant sufferer and as constantly exemplified the love and patience of the saints. Her disease was consumption, which slowly exhausted the vital forces till at her home in the town before mentioned, and the kind attentions and many friends who loved her for her virtues sake, and for her husband's work among them, she fell asleep. The day of storms was close by a night of serenity and peace. Her countenance assumed an expression of holy trust and hope, and then relaxed to the attitude of a gentle slumber, and her spirit had passed away to the land where they die no more. She retained her faculties perfectly until the last moment of existence, and waited for death as for a messenger that would conduct her into the presence of her children, of whom but one had preceded her to the beautiful world. She was buried in the cemetery at Independence Mo., close by the last resting place of a beloved son. Her husband had formerly been the pastor of the flock in the place, and the funeral was amid the demonstrations of many friends who came to share with him and the daughter in their grief. It was affecting to see a gray-haired man whose repeated bereavements had left him but one member of his house, coming, after sermon, to the companions in the kingdom and patience of Jesus, and saying, "after them did to the children of Ruth, 'Give me olive that I bury my dead out of my sight.' But God gave him wonderful strength, he buried and blessed the band that gave and loves away. His daughter goes to Carolina, himself remains with us to fulfill the work of his ministry, in the service of a people who love him as children love their father.

W. C. DOWNEY.

Letters and Funds

Miss R E Clayton, Dr Y O Thompson for Bro T 82 20, Rev J R Griffith for F J Tilly 2 20, M C Parton 2 20 L W Pigg 1, Miss A L King 2 A Tarone 2 Alden for and 17. Miss L Leard, Miss S J Thompson, W M Poisson, Hollister & Co. for ad 55, Rev R P Bibbs Rev W A Hoyle, all right. Rev J J Carden, Jas F Mercer "Principal" 1. Dr R D Pierce for ad 15. Rev J H Caine for subscribers 17 60. Rev W W Bennett, Johnnie Crow, Lidia A Wade, Misses Nannie and Anna Woodham, J T Patterson, Miss L L Fowler, Rev J Cottingill jr, Co B F Collins, Rev Bro Winn Witte paper changed Cora Lee Stewart, J T Usher, paper sent. Rev J B Carpenter self 1 25, Harry Leard, Miss M E Turrentine, Rev I W Avent or E Worrell 2 20 N E Holmes 2 20, A L Harrington 2 20, E S Sanders for Mrs S E Halsey 2 20, A Young not Jan. 15th. R Bingham for ad 6. R Linney self 2 10, Alfred Jones self 2. Wm T Lyon, Mrs L Williams self 2 20, Miss S E Jorney, Jas R Robinson A B Culbreth, Rev W S Black for A Williams 2 Wm Jas Wilson, Mrs E M Bumpass F B Jones, Rev W T Norman paper sent James Frank Ware T C Smith all right, Miss S W Harris, Rev S H Hendstock for J E Helsabeck 2 20 Miss Hettie Sullivan 2 20, Dr A Hoover 2 20 W G Sr 2 20, Rev Thos Regan 2 20, Rev S D Ingram for M S Phillips 2 20, A G Hedden paper regularly sent, Rev L J Holden changed, Rev J M Lundy paper changed, Walter B Steele, Anna D Woodburn, A J Edwards J Barnes Leon A Rowell & Co. W A Gordon Rev S V Hoyle paper continued, Cridel A Bro. J M Watson, Rev J R Brooks, regularly sent N J Barnes paper sent Rev T W Jenkins, Rev D J Brent Rev J T Harris paper sent Coe Wetherill & Co Rev G S Kay for R F Banks 2 20 P G Moore 2 20 R M Beattie 2 20, Rev H G Lewis 1 20, A J Dula 1 J F Browne 1, other papers renewed, Amos E Webb, Estella Albright M M Hunter Rev V A Sharpe, M L Hargrave, Rev W H Perkins for W R Upchurch 2. R L Powell for ad 4 14. Leon D Boger, H H Chandler & Co. Miss Garris Bizzell Rev E A Yates, Rev R O Hooker, paper has been going and is not stopped. Rev E Culbreth, papers sent. Rev W N Cooney, Rev A G Story, Thos W Smith, papers sent. Rev J P Moore for J R Williams 2 20.

Appointments.

NEWBERN DISTRICT.

2ND. ROUND.

Straits,	April	3- 4
Beaufort, Wednesday,	"	7
Kinston,	"	10-11
Jones, Shady Grove, Tuesday,	"	13
Carteret, Adam's Creek,	"	17-18
Wayne,	"	24-25
Newbern,	May	1- 2
Lenoir, Piney Grove, Tuesday,	"	4
Mt. Olive, (Dist Conf.)	"	6.. 9
Snow Hill, Ormond's Chapel.	"	15-16
Goldsboro,	"	22-23
Nense and Swift Creek, Bay River,	"	29-30
Craven, Tues. & Wed.	June	1- 2
Wilson,	"	3-6

E. A. YATES, P. E.
Beaufort N. C.

SALISBURY DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND—IN PART.

Statesville station,	March	20-21
Salisbury "	"	27-28
Mooresville ct. at Salem,	April	3- 4
Statesville ct. at Trinity,	"	10-11
Mocksville ct. at Olive Branch,	"	17-18

D R. BRITON, P. E.
Statesville, N. C.

CHARLOTTE DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND.

Monroe Sta.	March	20 21
Monroe ct.	"	27 28
Pleasant Grove ct	April	3 4
South Charlotte at Fair View.	"	10-11
Concord sta. and Concord ct	"	17-18
Wadesboro sta	"	24 25
Pineville ct.	May	1- 2
Wadesboro and Lilesville,	at Pleasant Hill, "	8.. 9
Tryon st and Calvary Miss	"	15-16
A bemarle and Stanley	"	22 23
Mt Pleasant.	"	29 30
Ansonville,	June	5- 6

J. S. NELSON, P. E
Monroe, N. C.

GREENSBORO DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND—IN PART.

North Guilford at Friendship,	March	20-21
Thomasville, H. Point, and Trinity station	Fair Grove "	27-28
Wentworth, Carmel,	April	3- 4
Winston sta.	"	10-11
Greensboro,	"	17-18
South Guilford, Bethany.	"	24- 25
Randolph, Ashboro.	May	1-- 2

N. H. D. WILSON, P. E.
Greensboro, N. C.

WILMINGTON DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND.

Magnolia at Bryant,	March	20 21
Wilmington, 5th St.,	"	27-28
Cokesbury at Averasboro,	April	3- 4
Clinton at Andrew Chapel,	"	10 11
Kenansville at Richlands,	"	17-18
Smithville at Bethel,	"	24 25
Wilmington Front Street,	May	1- 2
Bladen, Cape Fear Miss. Elizabeth,	at Deems Chp'l "	8- 9
Whiteville, Fair Bluff,	"	15-16
Topsail,	"	29-30
Onslow,	June	5- 6
	"	12-13

W. S. BLACK, P. E.
Magnolia N. C

FAYETTEVILLE DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

Carthage, Fairpromise,	March	20-21
Jonesboro, Cool Spring,	"	27-28
Cumberland, Camp Ground,	April	3- 4
Pee Dee, Sardis,	"	10-11
Buckhorn, Holy Springs,	"	17-18
Fayetteville,	"	24-25
Laurinburg, St. John,	May	1- 2
Roteson, Pegan's,	"	8- 9
Rockingham,	"	15 16
Montgomery,	"	22-23
Uwharrie,	"	29-30

S. D. ADAMS, P. E.
Carthage, N. C.

WASHINGTON DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

Warrenton,	March	27-28
Roanoke at Enfield,	April	3- 4
Tarboro at White's,	"	10 11
Williamston,	"	17 18
Plymouth at Jamesville,	"	24 25
Colerain,	May	1- 2
Bath,	"	8- 9
Matamuskeet,	"	15-16
Washington,	"	22-23

Wm. CLOSE, P. E.

SHELBY DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND.

Shelby circuit,	March	13-14
Double Shoals and South Mt. Miss..	at Edmundtown. "	20-21
Cherry Mountain at Salem,	"	27-28
Rutherford C and Miss.	at Kistler's April	3- 4
Dallas at Bethesda.	"	10-11
Lincoln, s. Zion,	"	17-18
Rock Spring at Hill's Chapel,	"	24-25
Newton,	April 30 and	May
South Fork at Pleasant Grove,	"	8- 9
Happy Home at Rutherf'd College	"	15-16
Lenoir at Little John's.	"	22 23
Morganton.	"	29-30
Hudson,	June	5- 6
Shelby Station.	"	9- 10

Dear brethren, let us work pray and trust in God.

L S BURKHEAD, P. E.
Shelby, N. C.

HILLSBORO DISTRICT.

1ST. ROUND.

Leasburg,	March	6- 7
Yanceyville,	"	13-14

L. L. HENDREN, P. E.
Chapel Hill N. C.

COMMERCIAL REPORT.

WHOLESALE CASH PRICES.

Office of CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.
March 16 1875

REMARKS.

Business continues quiet. Meats and sugars are very firm and quiet.

COTTON.

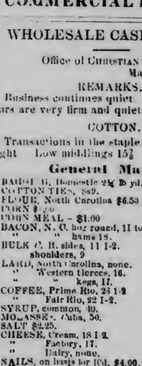
Transactions in the staple yesterday very light Low middlings 15¾

General Market.

BAGGING 1½, Domestic 2¼ @ yd. 13 @14.
BACON, North Carolina $6.50 @7
CORN $ @
CORN MEAL — $1.00
BACON, N. C. hog round, 11 to 12.
" hams 18.
HULK C. R. sides, 11 1-2.
" shoulders, 9
LARD, South Carolina, none.
" Western tierces, 16.
" Kegs, 17.
COFFEE, Prime Rio, 21 1-2
" Fair Rio, 22 1-2.
SYRUP, common, 30.
MOLASSES, Cuba, 50.
SALT $2.25.
CHEESE, Cream, 18 1-2.
" Factory, 17.
" Dairy, none.
NAILS, on basis for 10d, $4.00.
SUGAR A, 11 1-2.
" Extra C, 11 1-4
" Yellow, 10 @10½.
LEATHER, Sole 27 1-2 @30
HIDES, green, 7@8.
dry, 13.
TALLOW, 9@10
POTATOES, sweet 75 @1.00
" Irish, $1.00@$1.25.
OATS, shelled, 60.
" sheaf, $1.25.
FODDER, old, $1.50 @1.75
HAY, N. C. baled, prime, $1.25.
CHICKENS, grown, 25 @30
EGGS, 25.
BUTTER, country, 22 1-2@25.
FISH, Mullets, $7.00.
" Cut Herrings, none.
" Mackerel, new family, $12.00
BEESWAX, 25.
RAGS, 2½ @
BEEF, on foot, 6@8.
" dressed prime, $@10.

New Advertisements.

JOHN C. PALMER



Dealer in Watches and Jewelry, Raleigh, N. C.

I have a large stock of Watches, Jewelry, Silver and Plated Ware, Clocks, Weddng presents, &c.

My assortment of Gold, Silver and Steel Spectacles is very large I can suit all.

mar 17-3w. J. C. PALMER.

WANTED.

A thorough Indy Teacher of Music, Latin, Higher Mathematics and French. Salary $15 per month and board. Address "PRINCIPAL" mar 17 2t White Plains, S. C.

SAVE YOUR MONEY.

THE PURCHASING AGENCY OF
CLARK & MOLLMANN,
71 BROADWAY, NEW YORK,

Will buy for you on Commission any article of Merchandise you want, new, old, regular, or second-hand, in any quantity, large or small. Send for Circular of particulars and references.

mar 17-4t

ELECTION NOTICE!

By virtue of the powers conferred on us by act of the General Assembly entitled "An act concerning the city of Raleigh," we do hereby give notice that Books of Registration will be opened for the electors of the city of Raleigh to register therein, by the following Registrars and at the following places in the respective Wards, to-wit:

FIRST WARD:

J. J. CHRISTOPHERS, Registrar, at A. Upchurch's Coach Shop on Harget Street,

SECOND WARD:

L. C. MANLY, Registrar, at Grange Hotel corner Wil. and Davie Streets.

THIRD WARD:

J. J. LEWIS, Registrar, at Court House.

FOURTH WARD:

E. O. MACEY, Registrar, at the office of the Gas Company, corner of Dawson and Cabarrus Streets.

FIFTH WARD:

GEORGE H. WILLIAMS, Registrar, at John Brown's store opposite Masonic Hall, Morgan Street

These books will be opened on the 2d day of March 1875, and will close April 2d, 1875.

BOARD OF COUNTY OF WAKE CO.

March 17 2- c.

DISSOLUTION.

By mutual consent, the firm of THOMPSON & WHITAKER is this day dissolved All persons indebted, will please come forward at once and settle their account.

A. A. THOMPSON.
J. D. WHITAKER.

Raleigh, N. C., Feb 22, 1875

TO THE PUBLIC.

Having purchased Mr. Thompson's interest in the business I shall continue to keep a

LARGE AND FULL STORE

of Goods belonging to a first-class Grocery Store, at the old Stand,

NO. 4 MARTIN STREET, where I shall be pleased to see my many friends and patrons, promising them goods always as cheap as they can be had in this market.

Grateful for past patronage, and hoping to merit a continuance of the same,

I am, respectfully,

J. D. WHITAKER.
mar 17-3t. Raleigh, F b 22, 75.

WANTED.

A good Shoe and Boot Maker, with a capital of from $2000 to $500 to take a half interest in a shop and conduct the business in a good locality. None need apply but those who can give satisfactory reference.

J. F. LEVY & SON.
Mar 17-3m. Norristown, N. C.

PROGRESS THE WATCHWORD.

Merit and Success. Hand in Hand.

The Eureka
WASHING MACHINE.
Patented Oct 13th, 1874.

This machine operates on the same principle as the hand—does the work complete without the hand-works with great ease to the operator and washes rapidly, doing the work in about one fourth the time of the ordinary way, with less injury to fabrics.

Factory price $15.00, with wringer attached $23.10. State and county rights for sale

J. B. FARRAR.
Manufacturer and Patentee.

mch 10-5ms.

JUST ARRIVED.

25'0 yds. White Striped Pique, soft finish at 18c, worth 25 to 30c.

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

84 pieces Black Alpaca, double face, Raven black, at 40c. former price 60.

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

CARPETINGS,
CARPETINGS
The largest stock of Carpetings, Rugs, &c. in the city, at lowest cash prices.
All new and bought since January.

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

Everybody has come to the conclusion that it is a fact, beyond doubt, that "the place" to get good goods, and cheap bargains is at the "cash" store of W. H. & R. S. TUCKER & CO.

$8,000 worth of a celebrated Philadelphia make of Ladies, Misses and Children shoes in

KID, CLOTH AND GOAT.

Buttoned and Laced—to which we invite special attention

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

HOSIERY! HOSIERY!!

SPECIALTY;

50 doz Ladies White Iron Frame Cotton Hose, superior make, excellent finish, best quality, and at a fabulous low price. Misses and Children's fancy striped Cotton Hose, to be had at

TUCKER'S.

HAMBURG EDGINGS AND INSERTINGS.

Ladies Linen Collars and Cuffs,
Ladies H. S. H.d'fs a full line,
" as
" Dalsy, same,

TUCKER'S.

LADIES SCARFS AND NECKTIES in all colors.—Ladies Neck Ribbs, the "Prettiest" cavelty of the season. Rockings and Bindings at TUCKER'S.

MEDIUM AND FAMILY Irish Linens, cheaper than ever offered. Damask Linen Table Linen, Sheetings, Linen Druggets, Table Linen in every quality and at any price at

TUCKER'S.

GENTS HURT GAITERS and Gents BEST BOOTS in latest styles and patterns, at TUCKER'S

THIRD Arrival of that beautiful Silk Hat for Gentlemen, latest spring style at

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

AGENTS WANTED FOR
CROSS & CROWN

THE SPIRIT AND POWER of the religion of Jesus Christ as shown in the sufferings and triumphs of His followers. A noble, wonderful, and more thrilling story is not to be found in the whole range of history. Magnificently illustrated on steel with the best engravings of Sartain and Tilman, and splendidly bound in the richest and latest style of the art. The most beautiful and attractive book ever offered to Agents. For circulars, with full description, address NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Atlanta, Ga., or Memphis, Tenn

March 10-6m

BOOK AGENTS
WANTED FOR THE
ILLUSTRATED FAMILY BIBLE.

Including the Apocrypha, a Concordance, Dr. Wm. Smith's complete Bible Dictionary, a History of the Religious Denominations of the world, Chronological and other valuable Tables, the History of the Books of the Bible and of their translation, a Family Album a Family Record, Marriage Certificate, Metrical References, Illustrated pages of the Lord's Prayer and the Ten Commandments, etc.

Embellished with over 200 fine Scripture Illustrations on Steel and Wood from Gustave Dore and other celebrated artists. Printed from large clear new type, on fine white paper, and bound in the most substantial manner, it is the most elegant and comprehensive Family Bible ever published. Address NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Atlanta Ga., or Memphis Tenn.

March 10 6-m.

JUST READY.—ENTIRELY NEW—AUTHENTIC—COMPLETE
LIFE AND LABORS OF
LIVINGSTONE,

By Rev. J. E. CHAMBLISS. This gifted author having free access to the personal writings of Livingstone, unfolds clearly the magnitude of his life-work, the THRILLING ADVENTURES he met, the grand ACHIEVEMENTS he won, as also the CURIOSITIES, WONDERS and WEALTH of that marvelous country. Wide Awake Agents Wanted Everywhere at Once for the ONLY cheap COMPLETE WORK Over 500 pages, (includes his "LAST JOURNALS") 100 SPLENDID Illustrations, &c. &c., only $3.50. It will sell. Millions want it. For proof and terms, address HUBBARD BROS., Pubs., 139 Sansom St., Phila., Pa.

Sept 30 12-m

"A REMARKABLE BOOK,"
Arthur's latest and greatest.
DANGER!! Or, Wounded in the House of a Friend.

The crowning work of this veteran of American lit erature, has for its topic a subject affecting the social life of our whole people, and gives a terrible view of the evil it exposes. Extremely fascinating and sensational. It will be read with avidity by all. Illustrated and beautifully bound. We are determined to introduce it into every family in the land, and offer unparalled inducements to male and female canvassers. We want agents everywhere, will send free on application, terms and descriptive circulars.

J. M. S FODDART & CO., 723 Chestnut St., Phila.

feb 24-4w

MEDICAL COLLEGE
OF VIRGINIA RICHMOND.

The Spring and Summer Session, 1875, will begin TUESDAY, MARCH 16th.

For Annual Announcement, or further information, add ss:

M. L. JAMES, M. D.,
Registrar Ad. Faculty,
No 312 E. Grace Street

Mar. 3 6 w.

WANTED.

A young lady, of successful experience, desires a situation as teacher in a family or a school. Is qualified to teach English, Mathematics and Latin. Address immediately, "M." Marion C. H., S. C.

March 3-1w pd.

Important Sale
OF
Personal and Real Estate.

We offer for sale on private terms one fine Stallion, "YOUNG CANTON," a very superior and vigorous horse.
One COW.
Some Plows, Hoes and Gear.
One excellent Magnolia Light Draft Glu and Ball Press, both good as new.
Eleven or twelve hundred Acres of Land, part in wood took, hickory, &c.) and part freshly cl ared and in cultivation. Will cut it up into small tracts to suit purchasers.
Young CANTON will be sold to the HIGHEST BIDDER on Tuesday of the next term of Court a Pittsboro, unless previously sold.

T. W. HARRIS,
J. R. HARRIS.
Executors of T. B. Harris, Deceased.
March 3-11

PREMIUM CHESTER WHITE PIGS.—$15 each, $25 a pair, Chester County MAMMOTH CORN, and Imported BELGIAN OATS. 4 lbs by mail, $1; peck $2; ½ bushel $3, bushel $5. Circulars and Sample Packages of 3 sds Free for 2 stamps Address.
N. F. BOYER, Parkesburg, Chester, co Pa.
march 3 8-wks

A. G. LEE. ED. H. LEE. GUS R. LEE.

A STRICTLY COMMISSION HOUSE.

A. G. LEE & SONS.

RALEIGH, N. C.

We give our entire attention to handling goods on COMMISSION, and therefore can handle to advantage consignments of

Corn,	Corn Meal,	Chickens,
Hay,	N. C. Flour,	Eggs,
Fodder,	" Bacon,	and all the
Stock,	or Green Pork,	products of
Oats,	Beef,	the farm
Peas,	N. C. Hams,	or garden.

All of which we sell for cash, and are therefore able to make prompt returns. We solicit consignments from Western North Carolina, and the State generally.

We call attention to our friends in the city and neighboring country to the fact that we have made arrangements with shippers to have a constant supply of CORN on hand, and almost always have convenient some of the other articles mentioned above. We have to sell her c ash but will give to a good people—Try us.

Cotton is our Specialty.

We can always obtain the highest market price, and ask our friends who find it inconvenient to accompany their lots to the market to try us. We can beat New York in the nett proceeds of your cotton.

When you bring your cotton to market yourself give us a chance at it. We have orders to fill and can pay the VERY HIGHEST market price for it. Be sure to call and see us before you sell.

We are the Agents for

The ORCHILLA GUANO and The SOUTH SEA GUANO

The SCHOFIELD COTTON PRESS, the best invented.

The DIAMOND COTTON CHOPPER—Every one warranted.

A. G. LEE & SONS.
P. O. Box 222, Raleigh, N. C.

march 3-tf

WELLONS' FAMILY PRAYERS.

Seventy morning and Evening Prayers, running through 4 weeks; 38 Prayers for Special occasions; 5 for Children, Graces before and after meals, with Benedictions. Prepared by various authors of the different Evangelical denominations. Type large and clear, suited to aged eyes and the forms of Prayer new and fresh. Book well bound, paper white and heavy and price low. Bound in full gilt $2 50, in Roane leather $1.50; in Muslin $1.25. When sent by mail, 15 cents additional for postage. Ask your Bookseller for it.

Agents wanted to canvass for the book.—Second edition just out. Apply to

J. W. WELLONS,
feb 17-4w Franklinton, N. C.

OLD NORTH STATE

Excelsior Cotton Food.

Having been appointed Agents for the sale of the above valuable fertilizer we take pleasure in recommending it to our planting friends as one of the and best adapted cotton and corn manures known to the farming interests.

PUREST

It has been fully tested for several years with the most satisfactory results. It has been carefully analyzed by eminent Chemists, and found to contain a large per centage of concentrated vegetable matter, combined richly with which constituted its component parts. It is particularly adapted to thin or exhausted lands, and while its judicious application will give the desired vigor to the growing plants, its great value will be realized in the quality of fruit produced.

AMMONIA, SOLUBLE PHOSPHATES & POTASH,

We can only offer a limited amount of this pure and valuable ticle to our friends this season.

NORRIS & MYATT Agents,
Raleigh, N. C.

feb 17-tf

M. T. NORRIS, W. A. MYATT

NORRIS & MYATT,

GROCERS, COTTON FACTORS

—AND—

Commission Merchants.

No. 3 Exchange Place and No, 5 Martin Street,

Consignments Solicited and Prompt Returns Guaranteed.

PLOWS, PLOWS, PLOWS,

Anticipating the Spring season, we now have in stock the following large and varied assortment of Plows, viz: Dunn & Biggan, No. 0 Farm Plow, The celebrated Wilson Cotton Plow and the Role's Cotton Plow. We offer all of these Plows at very lowest figures. Call and examine their merits for yourself,

NORRIS & MYATT.

FLOUR, FLOUR, FLOUR.

We are constantly receiving, and will keep on hand a large lot of Flour, which we guarantee to give perfect satisfaction.

We also keep White Bolted Meal.

NORRIS & MYATT.

MEAT, MEAT, MEAT.

Our stock of Meat, Clear Rib Sides and Shoulders, is complete We guarantee to MEET the demands of the trade both in quality and prices.

We always have on hand Marshall's Factory Filled Salt, only $2.25 per sack.

NORRIS & MYATT.

IRISH POTATOES.

10 bbls. Early Goodrich.
10 bbls, Early Rose.
These forward brands of Potatoes we offer very low. Send in your orders to

NORRIS & MYATT.

feb 17.-tf.

VINEGAR for only five cents a gallon. Best process in existence. Receipt for $1.

J. A. STEWART,
feb 24-3m eow. Henderson, N. C.

A.

MONEY SAVED BY Buying the Comfort Heating Stove.

B.

EVERYBODY SHOULD Buy the ROBERT E. LEE Cook Stove, made in Richmond, Va.

C.

IT IS A FULL SIZED Cook Stove, having immense ovens.

D.

BEST ASSORTMENT and largest stock of Buggy Whips in the city.

E.

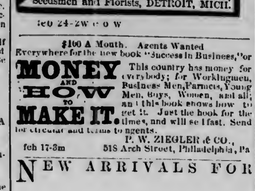
BUY A BOX OF WAX Tapers, large stock, low price.

F.

WAGON AND BUGGY material of all kind.—Call and buy of

T. H. BRIGGS & SONS.
dec 16-tf RALEIGH, N. C.

D. M. FERRY & CO'S NEW ILLUSTRATED DESCRIPTIVE AND PRICED SEED ANNUAL 1875



Will be MAILED FREE to all applicants.—This is one of the largest and most comprehensive Catalogues published; contains 216 pages, over 300 fine engravings, and gives full descriptions, prices, and directions for planting about 1200 varieties of Vegetable and Flower Seeds, Bedding Plants, Roses, &c., and is invaluable to Farmer, Gardener, and Florist. Address, D. M. FERRY & CO., Seedsmen and Florists, DETROIT, MICH.

feb 24-2w c o w

$100 a Month. Agents Wanted Everywhere for our new book "Success in Business," or MONEY AND HOW TO MAKE IT. This country has money for everybody; for Workingmen, Business Men, Farmers, Young Men, Boys, Women, and all; and this book shows how to get it. Just the book for the times, and will sell fast. Send for circular and terms to agents.

P. W. ZIEGLER & CO.,
feb 17-3m 518 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa

NEW ARRIVALS FOR

1875 SPRING. 1875.

A large lot ZEIGLER'S Shoes and Gaiters for Ladies and Misses. CANFIELD'S and Burt's popular hand-made

BOOTS and GAITERS,

for Gentlemen. A splendid assortment of both.

A beautiful lot of FOX GAITERS, for Ladies and Misses.

25,000 yards

Bleached and Unbleached Shirting, Sheating and Drilling, all widths, bought at lowest prices before the advance and will be sold low.

A beautiful lot of

SPRING PRINTS.

The handsomest line of Black Silks, Mohairs and Alpaccas in the city and at lowest prices.

We are now offering the remainder of our Winter Goods at greatly reduced prices to make room for our Spring Stock. We have a good variety of

Carpets,
Druggets,
Drugget Cloth,
Floral Oil Cloth, different widths,
Canton Matting,
Rugs, &c., at

PETTY & JONES,
No. 20 FAYETTEVILLE ST.

feb 24-tf

SHELBY SEMINARY
For Young Ladies.

SHELBY, CLEVELAND Co., N. C.,

The Spring Term will begin Jan 15th 1875, and continue 20 weeks—Competent Teachers. Instruction extensive and thorough. Young Ladies well cared for and made comfortable in the Institution.

Entire English course. Music and Board per term not more than $100. Extra studies and ornamentals low. For particulars apply for circular.

REV. S. R. TRAWICK, A. M., Principal.
Dec 16-3m

ESTABLISHED 1816.

CHAS. SIMON & SONS,
63 NORTH HOWARD ST., BALTIMORE, MD.
Dealers in
FOREIGN & DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,

would call special attention to their splendid stock of Dress Goods, Linen Goods, Embroideries, Laces, and Hosiery; the best assortment of Mourning Goods in the city.

SAMPLES SENT FREE!

All orders amounting to $20.00 or over, will be sent free of freight charges by Express, but parties whose orders are not accompanied by the money, and having their goods sent C. O. D., must pay for return of the money.

WANTED. A competent BOOK KEEPER.

To keep the books of a Miscellaneous Store, and when necessary, to sell good. None but a single man of good habits need apply. Address, with terms and reference,

MERCHANT,
feb 10-4w Tarboro, N. C.

A. H. TEMPLE,

(Successor to Lynn Adams,)

Grocer, Cotton Factor

AND

Commission Merchant.

Nos. 5 Martin St. and 5 Exchange Place.

Having succeeded to the business of Mr. Lynn Adams, I am prepared to offer to the public the best inducements in my line and respectfully ask a continuance of the trade hitherto given Mr. Adams, promising to give satisfaction in all cases.

In addition to my regular line of goods, I have on hand a full lock of the

STINSON WOOL HATS,

made in Wake county, and adapted especially to the farmer's use.

I have just returned from the North where I purchased a full line of choice groceries and am now daily adding to my stock. I promise those who may favor me with their custom to give them as good bargains as they can get elsewhere.

A. H. TEMPLE,

I most respectfully ask my former patrons and friends to patronize Mr. Temple my successor, who will, I am assured, give satisfaction to all who deal with him.

I will still keep my office, as Cotton Factor in the same building.

LYNN ADAMS.

march17 6- m

CASH Price $50 00

Children's Column.

Miss Florence Mercer writes that she found the word Advocate in 1st John 2nd chapter 1st verse. Lillia Wade found "smile" in Matthew, 5th chapter 41st verse. Heath Crow picked up "theatre" in Acts 19th chapter 29th verse, and Johnnie Crow found "reverend" in 111th Psalm 9th verse.

Misses Lizzie J. Thompson and Annie L. King Sallie L. Journey and A. B. Potter write that "headband" is found in Isaiah 3rd chapter 20th verse.

Perley E. Parker finds the verse repeated three times, in Numbers 7th chapter; also that Job shaved his head, as appears by 20th verse 1st chapter of Job.

The following write that the long, hard name which Pharaoh gave to Joseph, was "Zaphnathpaaneah," to wit: Misses M. E. Turrentine L. L. Fowler, Rachel E. Clayton, Annie L. King, Anna C. Woodburn Lizzie J. Thompson and Perley E. Parker.

James Frank Ware finds the same and says that its meaning in our language is "a discoverer of hidden things, in the Egyptian language, "saviour of the world"

The following, to wit; Lizzie J. Thompson, Rachel E. Clayton, Nannie A. Woodburn, Annie L. King, Queen Esther Betts, Cora Lee Stewart and Perley E. Parker, write that Candace, the name of the Queen of the Ethiopians, is found in Acts 8th chapter 27th verse.

DEAR ADVOCATE: I crept off to myself this morning and found the word "Wife" in Genesis 11th chapter 29th verse: also in Genesis 20th chapter 3rd verse. I find "Headbands" in Isaiah 3rd chapter 20th verse. I am a little girl and have written this without help.

Your little reader,
LUCY DUFFY HAYS,
Oxford, N. C. 1875.

DEAR ADVOCATE: I have been a reader of the Advocate for some time, and I am so glad that you have open for us what Katie's Mamma, calls, a "home nursery," where we can assemble once a week, and talk of the good things of the Bible.

I have found out the answers to six of the questions asked in your last.

1st. The word "God," does not occur in Esther, at all.

2nd. The word "Belief," occurs in 2nd Thess. 2nd chapter 13th verse.

3rd. The blessing our Saviour, conferred on little children, when He took them in His arms, was,—"Whosoever receiveth one of such little children in my name receiveth me."—

4th The word "Reverend" occurs in the 111th Psalms and 9th verse.

5th The word "Theatre" is found in the 19th chapter of Acts, and 29th and 31st verse.

6th. Who divided the Bible into chapters and verses?

The chapters, as now used, were arranged by Cardinal Hugo. The verses, by Robert Stephens.

I hope we will not worry you with our letters, for we children enjoy these talks so much.

Truly,
MARGARET GABRETT.
Tarboro, March 2nd 1875.

BIBLE ENIGMA.

My 1st Begins the name of the son of king Asa.
My 2nd Begins the name of the father of Methuselah.
My 3rd Begins the name of the fourth son of Cush.
My 4th Begins the name of the eldest son of Aram.
My 5th Begins the name of the Mother of James and John.
My 6th Begins the name of the father of Esther.
My 7th Begins the name of a famous mountain North of Canaan.
My 8th Begins the name of the mother of John the Baptist.
My 9th Begins the name of the sixth son of Japheth.
My whole is the most noted city in Canaan.

F. B. J.

QUESTIONS.

Misses Bettie O. A. Fearington Linna Leard and Rachel E. Clayton all ask what verse in the Bible, contains all the letters of the alphabet except one.

Miss Sallie L. Webster asks what person, mentioned in the Bible, owned an iron bedstead, the size of the bed stead and where mention of it is made.

Harry Leard wishes to know where and how often the word "concord" appears in the Bible.

"Ben Ellett" asks where and under what circumstances the Bible connects "children and idiots."

Sue White Harris asks where and how often the word lady occurs in the Bible; and in what chapter in the New Testament do the words love, beloved and beloveth occur thirty times.

For the Advocate.

"Does you love it."

Thus inquired a little prattler, recently, of her loving Aunt, who was caressing her, and often manifesting her love by kind attentions. The fond heart of the wee one was not fully satisfied with all these evidences of affection, without words of love. When her Aunt expressed her love, the warm embraces of the child showed the value of words, as well as acts of love.

Shall not we, who are older, practice the lesson enforced by this prattler's query, and more frequently add words of love to deeds of kindness?

How often, when a student has tried to please his teacher, a child its parent, a wife or a husband the other half of the twain, does a word of fault finding, (it may be for some imaginary error,) cause the heart to sink in discouragement! I know a teacher who is so fearful of wounding the sensitive spirit, and causing discouragement or sinful tempers, that when an error has to be corrected, commendation for some good is given; consequently reproofs are kindly received, in that school, and prove effectual.

M.

Saturday Afternoon.

"Birdie, birdie, come play with us," pleaded little Amy, holding down a branch of white lilies to a bird flitting by.

"How I do wish he would!" said Fanny, who stood by Amy, looking so wistfully, that the bird seemed to hesitate for a moment; but the next, he went singing by them, as much as to say, "Thank you, little girls; I'd rather play with my companions high up in the trees," and away he flew.

All this time, Gertrude, and Kate were marching up and down, their cheeks puffed out like balloons, blowing through some pipes made of rolled paper; while May, the smallest of them all, followed behind with a branch of lilies, wishing that she too could play on a lovely paper pipe.

But her face grew bright with pleasure when Amy and Fanny proposed that they make believe that they were soldiers, and march together, one after the other; two playing pipes for the band, and the rest singing as hard as they could. This was a most delightful plan, and the soldier play began at once, with this beautiful song, and a tremendous tooting on the pipes:

"March! march! March!
With a cheer, and a marching salute:
All in a train, through the shady green lane,
[Pipes] Toot-a-toot; toot-a-toot; toot-a-toot."

"March! March! March!
And give a loud stamp with each boot;
Girls are like boys, and must make a noise,
[Pipes] Toot-a-toot; toot-a-toot; toot-a-toot."

"March! March! March!
All around the old maple tree's root;
Then through the green lane, we'll march back again.
[Pipes] Toot-a-toot; toot-a-toot; toot-a-toot."

How delightful it was! I am sure any one, except, perhaps, a cross old bachelor with the toothache, would like such a pleasant racket. I do; and I hope all the dear little poppets have permission, at least on Saturdays, to make all the noise they wish.—St. Nicholas.

Farm, Garden & Household.

The Value of Manure and the Price of Land.

A correspondent of one of our exchanges makes a novel proposition, that the price of manure is usually in a ratio with the price of land: and that knowing one we may be able to form an estimate of the other. He puts it this way: If land is one hundred dollars an acre, we may be tolerably sure we cannot buy manure for a dollar a horse load, as we generally can when the price of land is below that figure. And he goes on to show that when land goes to two hundred dollars an acre the price of manure is pretty sure to be two dollars a horse load.

As we have said, this is a novel way of putting things: but it is a proposition which the experience of everyone teaches is true in enough of instances to lead us to accept it as correct. Being true, it gives us a new idea of the value of the manure heap, much as we may have appreciated it before.

The manure question, as it is put to us at the east, is seldom met properly. Many good farmers, it is true, take in fully what it means. We know of some who if they have not made a cent in cash by one year's operations, but can show a large heap of manure in the barnyard, regard themselves as fully paid for all their labors; yet these excellent persons when they go to rent or buy a farm, often quite overlook the difficulties or facilities of procuring manure.

It is a question whether the success of many men at farming or gardening, supposed to depend on their unusual industry or skill, is not rather the result of a lucky accident of convenience as regards manure. Certainly it is a question of the utmost importance and should never be lost sight of, and especially by those, of whom there are many every year, who go into farming without much previous experience. We have known many fail just here. All know that crops will not grow without manure: but if we have to pay $1.50 or $2 a load for it, when the land is not worth one hundred dollars an acre, it is like paying twenty per cent for money. We cannot do it long. And yet it is a singular statement that the more land is worth the more we can afford to pay for manure to fertilize it, but there is no doubt of its truth. Of course there is a time when land is worth so much that it does not pay to crop it at all; it is only of value for building purposes. This is another matter. But when it pays to crop high priced land at all, it will pay to manure it at almost any cost; which it will not do in low priced land.—Germantown Telegraph.

A Royal Organ.

The stomach has been well named a "royal organ's place it sways and controls the entire system, every gland, tissue and nerve sympathizing with it as the servants of a prince sympathize with their master. Each one of them is fed and sustained by it—upon the brain itself, the centre of sensation, is absolutely dependent upon it for sustenance. Consequently, when the stomach fails to perform its all-important office, the subordinate organs also falter in their duty. The reason why Hostetter's Stomach Bitters have such a wondrously beneficial effect upon the general health and are such a reliable preventive of disease, is that they speedily overcome weakness or disorders of the stomach, and thus insure complete nourishment of the entire system and a healthful performance of its various functions. Unlike those stimulants whose alcoholic principle is unmodified by judicious medication, the spurious basis of these bitters, which is of the purest description, holds in solution herbal alteratives and tonics in which a foremost rank has been assigned in materia medica. But it is not alone the medicinal these sovereign botanic elements enter into the composition of the bitters that constitutes them such a benign tonic and corrective, but also that they are so happily combined that the full effect of each is exerted upon the disordered or debilitated system. The digestive and secretive organs are the first to experience their beneficent operation, which extends, by sympathy, to the brain, the nerves and the circulation. The influence thus exerted is fruitful of those great sanitary results which have built up the reputation of this truly national medicine.

march 17 1y

For All Female Complaints,

In young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or the change of life, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription manifests such a positively remedial influence as to call forth the loudest praise from all who use it.

Mr. John A. Kimsey, druggist, of Knob Noster, Mo., writes as follows:

"Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., Dear Sir—Your medicines sell better than any other I keep, and give universal satisfaction. The people are especially delighted with your Favorite Prescription, and it seems to be a favorite among all that have ever used it." It is sold by druggists and dealers in medicines.

march 10 1-4

HOME MUSICAL LIBRARY.

Collections of Instrumental Music.

Musical Treasure, (also vocal). 225 pages. Piano at Home 14 Rand pieces. New? Useful! Gems of Strauss. Most brilliant collection extant. Pianist's Album. Popular and easy music. Pianoforte Gems. Popular, brilliant, easy pieces. Home Circle. Vol. I. Easy music. Home Circle. Vol. II. Popular 2 and 4 h'nd pieces. Organ at Home. 220 good pieces for Reed Organ.

Collections of Vocal Music.

Operatic Pearls. The chief songs of 50 operas. Gems of German Song. Songs that will never die. Gems of Scottish Song. Sweetest of all ballads. Shower of Pearls. Nearly all the good vocal duets. Gems of Sacred Song. Pure, devout and beautiful. Silver Chord. Wreath of Gems. Large collections of the best popular songs.

Price of each book in Bds. $2.50 Cloth, $3.00. Gilt, $4.00.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., C. H. DITSON & CO.
Boston. 711 B'dway, New York.
March 8-1f

EAST INDIA HEMP.

And What We Know About It.

Instead of devoting a column to the merits of this strange and wanderful plant, we remain silent and let it speak for itself through other lips than ours believing that those who have suffered most can better tell the world here quote word for word from letters just received, simply adding our testimony to the test in saying, that when this remedy is properly prepared, we know that it positively cures consumption, and will break up a fresh cold in twenty four hours.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH, Allegheny City, Pa., Nov. 16, 1874.

The East India Hemp has been taken by Rev. Matthias Bruder, O. S. B., and Rev. Sebastian Arnold, O. S. B., both assistant pastors of this church, and so far has given relief to both. They suffered from affections of the lungs and bronchial organs. We have recommended, through charity to sufferers, the remedy, his indices to different persons, and continue the same in good conscience, knowing the effects by experience. Please find enclosed check for twelve bottles of syrup, pills and ointment. We shall inform you in due time what further success the medicine shall meet with.

Yours truly,
REV. FERDINAND WOLF, O. S. B.
87 Washington Street.

CHINA GROVE, Rowan Co., N. C., Oct. 21, 1874.

Send one dozen Ointment and one of Pain Pills. When Mr. J. W. Fisher brought his wife to me for examination I found her in the incipient stage of interstitial consumption. Then it was I concluded to make a fair trial of Indin Hemp, and now there is a general demand for those remedies. The Ointment excels everything and any thing of the kind I ever saw or tried; in many cases it acts like a charm.

Fraternally your,
P. A. SIFFORD M. D.

KNOXVILLE, Caswell, N. C., Sept. 13, 1874.

Inclosed is $10 for more of the Indian Hemp. I can truly say that this medicine has done me more good than all the doctors, and I had several of the best in the country. My cough is a great deal better, and my chills and night sweats are gone. You may look for several orders soon, as many have seen the effect of this medicine on me.

W. A. FELLER.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct 30 1874

Your treatment for consumption has so improved my condition, that inquiry comes every day from my friends, what are you taking? Several are talking of sending for some of your medicine, and James Huff desires me to order for him $2 worth of the Hemp.

WM. BUSH, North High Street.

P. S.—Its my opinion that an agent at this place would sell considerable for you.

W. H.

DECATUR, Franklin, Tenn., Sept. 12, 1874.

Send three more bottles of your consumption and bronchitis cure. My son began taking the Hemp last night three weeks ago, and he is improving rapidly. The last ten days have made him look of not like another person. I have great hopes.

J. M. BRAXTON

DEER CREEK, Pottawattamie, Iowa, Jan. 3, 18-5.

I have just seen your advertisement in my paper. I know all about the Cannabis Indica. Fifteen years ago it cured my daughter of Tic Asthma. She had it very bad for several years but was perfectly cured.

JACOB TROUT.

N. B.—This Remedy speaks for itself. A single bottle will satisfy the most skeptical. $2.50 per bottle or three bottles for $6.50. Pills and Ointment $1 25 each. Sent at our risk.

Address
CRAWCOUR & Co., 1032 Race street, Philadelphia.

DR. M'LANE'S

Celebrated American

WORM SPECIFIC,

OR

VERMIFUGE.

SYMPTOMS OF WORMS.

THE countenance is pale and leaden-colored, with occasional flushes, or a circumscribed spot on one or both cheeks; the eyes become dull; the pupils dilate; an azure semicircle runs along the lower eyelid; the nose is irritated, swells, and sometimes bleeds; a swelling of the upper lip; occasional headache, with humming or throbbing of the ears; an unusual secretion of saliva; slimy or furred tongue; breath very foul, particularly in the morning; appetite variable, sometimes voracious, with a gnawing sensation of the stomach, at others, entirely gone; fleeting pains in the stomach; occasional nausea and vomiting; violent pains throughout the abdomen; bowels irregular, at times costive; stools slimy; not unfrequently tinged with blood; belly swollen and hard; urine turbid; respiration occasionally difficult, and accompanied by hiccough; cough sometimes dry and convulsive; uneasy and disturbed sleep, with grinding of the teeth; temper variable, but generally irritable, &c.

Whenever the above symptoms are found to exist,

DR. M'LANE'S VERMIFUGE

Will certainly effect a cure.

The universal success which has attended the administration of this preparation has been such as to warrant us in pledging ourselves to the public to

RETURN THE MONEY

in every instance where it should prove ineffectual: "providing the symptoms attending the sickness of the child or adult should warrant the supposition of worms being the cause." In all cases the Medicine to be given IN STRICT ACCORDANCE WITH THE DIRECTIONS.

We pledge ourselves to the public, that

Dr. M'Lane's Vermifuge

DOES NOT CONTAIN MERCURY

in any form; and that it is an innocent preparation, not capable of doing the slightest injury to the most tender infant.

Address all orders to

FLEMING BROS., PITTSBURGH, PA.

P. S. Dealers and Physicians ordering from others than Fleming Bros., will do well to write their orders distinctly, and take none but Dr. M'Lane's, prepared by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa. To those wishing to give them a trial, we will forward per mail, post-paid, to any part of the United States, one box of Pills for twelve three-cent postage stamps, or one vial of Vermifuge for fourteen three-cent stamps. All orders from Canada must be accompanied by twenty cents extra.

☞ For sale by Druggists, and Country Storekeepers generally.

TAKE

SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR

THE FAVORITE HOME REMEDY.

Is eminently a Family Medicine; and by being kept ready for immediate resort will save many an hour of suffering and many a dollar in time and doctors' bill.

After over Forty Years' trial it is still receiving the most unqualified testimonials to its virtues from persons of the highest character and responsibility. Eminent physicians commend it as the most

EFFECTUAL SPECIFIC

For all diseases of the Liver, Stomach and Spleen

The SYMPTOMS of Liver Complaint are a bitter or bad taste in the mouth; Pain in the Back, Sides or Joints, often mistaken for Rheumatism; Sour Stomach; Loss of Appetite; Bowels alternately costive and loose; Headache; Loss of memory, with a painful sensation of having failed to do something which ought to have been done; Debility, Low Spirits, a thick yellow appearance of the Skin and Eyes, a dry Cough often mistaken for Consumption.

Sometimes many of these symptoms attend the disease, at others very few; but the LIVER, the largest organ in the body, is generally the seat of the disease and if not Regulated in time, great sufferings, wretchedness and DEATH will ensue.

For DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, Jaundice, Bilious attacks, SICK HEADACHE, Colic, Depression of Spirits, SOUR STOMACH, Heart Burn, &c &c.

The Cheapest, Purest and Best Family Medicine in use.

MANUFACTURED ONLY BY
J. H. ZEILIN & CO.
MACON, GA., and PHILADELPHIA
Price, $1 00. Sold by all Druggists,
Feb 18-13m

OLD NORTH STATE FIRE Insurance Company.

OF

WARRENTON, - - - N. C.

Capital Stock, $107.600.00

ASSETTS:

Mortgages on Real Estate	$ 45 050.00
National Bank Stock	1 000 00
Solvent Stock Notes	51, 550 12
Cash and Loans on Call	2 2o2 98
Due from Agents	2 669.62
Agents Supplies	226 80
Office furniture (Safe, &c)	794 16
Accrued Interest	840,00
	$ 112,993.63

LIABILITIES.

Amount necessary to reinsure all unexpired risks on the basis of the New York law, $10,000.

$1 229 Assets to Every $100 of Technical Liabilities.

According to the past experience of the Company we have
$2,458 Assets to Every $100 of Actual Liabilities

OFFICERS:

Col. W. S. DAVIS President.
N. B. JONES, Vice-President.
H. F. LONG, Secretary.
WM J. NORWOOD, Treasurer
T. O. WILLIAMS, Supervisor.

1874. FALL STOCK. 1874.

NEW GOODS! GOOD QUALITY!!

LOW PRICES!!!

JOS. P. GULLEY,

RETAILER AND JOBBER OF

Dry Goods, Notions, Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Trunks, Valises, White Goods, &c., &c.,

RALEIGH, N. C.

My large and carefully selected stock for the Fall and Winter is now in store, and I respectfully invite all in search of good goods and low prices, to call and examine for themselves.

BURT'S GAITERS and BOOTS FOR GENTS.

To those who have bought and used these goods we need only to say that we have a full line of them.—For durability and neatness of fit they are unexcelled.

Also M'le's and Graff's hand made shoes for the Ladies.

PRINTS! PRINTS! PRINTS!

A large stock of the latest patterns, at prices that cannot be excelled.

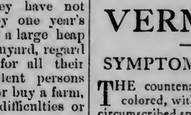
Respectfully,
JOSEPH P. GULLEY,
Corner Fayetteville and Market Square.

FROM

HENRY J. BROWN,

Opposite Masonic Hall.

RALEIGH, N. C.,



UNDERTAKER,

Keeps on hand Fisk's Metallic Burial Cases Self sealing Metallic Burial Cases, and Walnut and other Wood Coffins BURIAL ROBES.

Also Dealer in Furniture. Repairing and Varnishing Promptly Executed
ap 19-tf

1874. FALL AND WINTER GOODS. 1874.

D. S. WAITT & BRO.

are offering a LARGE and ATTRACTIVE stock of

FINE AND CHEAP CLOTHING,

GENTS FURNISHING GOODS AND NECK WEAR

Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps,

OVERCOATS, SHAWLS AND RUBBER GOODS.

Manhatten Fine White Shirts.

MARINO SHIRTS, DRAWERS AND HOSIERY.

PAPER AND LINEN COLLARS.

Suspenders, Handerchiefs and Yankee Notions,

Fancy and Domestic Dry Goods,

Black Alpacca's, Corded Alpacca's, Plaid Worsted,

Figured and Plain Delaines,

Red, White and Figured Flannels, Opera Flannels,

WHITE AND BROWN BLANKETS,

Counterpins, Comforters, Bed Quilts & Spreads

LADIES STRIPED AND PLAID SHAWLS,

Breakfast Shawls, Knit Sacks, Jacketsand Hoods,

GINGHAMS, PLAID HOMESPUNS AND TICKINGS,

Brown and Bleached Sheetings and Shirtings,

CORSETS, JEANS, CAMBRICS AND LININGS,

Trucks, Valeses, Umbrellas, Travelling Bags, &c.

I have this day associated with me my brother, Capt. GEO. S. WAITT, formerly Conductor on the North Carolina Railroad, and the firm of D. S. Waitt will hereafter be known as

D. S. WAITT & BROTHER.

To my friends and the public generally, I return my thanks for the liberal patronage with which you respectfully solicit a continuation of the same for the future. Country merchants who buy in the city would do well to examine our stock which is now complete in every department.

D. S. WAITT,
jan 13-tf

POPULAR AND USEFUL BOOKS

Royal Diadem, (S. S. Note)	$2
Amaranth, " "	38
Bright Jewels, "	30
Happy Voices, "	35
The Church "	40
The Morning Star "	25
Pure Gold, "	25
Songs of Salvation, " "	35
Wesleyan Catechisms No. 1,	40
Wesleyan " No. 2,	75
Wesleyan " No. 3,	1.00
Bibles, (pocket size) from 75
Bibles, Family, from 3.00 to	5 00
Children of the Abbey 12mo cloth,	1.50
Robinson Crusoe, 12mo cloth,	1.50
Shakespeare, 12mo cloth	1.50
Pilgrims Progress, 12mo cloth, pictorial,	75
Methodist Hymn and Tune Books, 12mo cloth,	60
Ready Reckoners, from 5c etc to	60
Little Writers, (board covers) 50 to	1.50
Life of Daniel Boon, 12mo cloth,	1.75
Bible Dictionary, (the best)	2.00
Picture Books (highly illustrated) from 50c to	4.00
Methodist Hymn Books from 70 cts to	2.50
Baptist Hymn Books, from 75 to	2.50
Presbyterian Hymn Books, from 80 cts	6.00
Episcopal Prayer Books, from 75 cts to	75
Photograph Albums, from 75 cts to	1.20
Major Jones Courtship, paper cover,	1.50
Abbotts Mary Queen of Scotts,	1.50
Abbotts Queen Elizabeth,	1.50
Abbotts Maria Antoinette,	1.50
Aesop's Fables,	1.00
Arabian Knights Entertainment,

Send cash and add 10 cents on the dollar, and I will mail any of the above.

☞ Order any other book you want.

L. BRANSON,
Raleigh, N. C.
april 8-12m

TRINITY COLLEGE.

The next half-session will commence Jan. 15th 1875, and end June 10th.

Whole expense for all items, books and clothing excepted, from $90 to $150. In addition to the best collegiate advantages, many inducements are offered to students of the Select, or Preparatory course.

B. CRAVE,
Jan 6 6m. Pres.

SCHEDULES.

PIEDMONT & AIR-LINE RAILWAY.

RICHMOND & DANVILLE, RICHMOND & DANVILLE R. W., N. C. DIVISION, and NORTH WESTERN N. C. R. W.

CONDENSED TIME-TABLE.
In effect on and after Sunday, Dec. 27th, 1874.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	MAIL.	EXPRESS.
Leave Charlotte	10.00 P. M	8.35 A. M.
" Air-Line Depot	10 08 "	8.56 "
" Salisbury	12.20 A. M	10.54 "
" Greensboro'	3.41 "	1.15 P. M.
" Danville	6.13 "	3.36 "
" Dundee	6.25 "	3.48 "
" Burkville	11.35 "	8.20 "
Arrive at Richmond	2.22 P. M.	11.10 P. M.

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS	MAIL.	EXPRESS.
Leave Richmond	1.38 P. M.	5.03 A. M.
" Burkville	4.41 "
" Dundee	9.23 "
" Danville	9.29 "	1.12 P. M.
" Greensboro	12.37 A. M.	4.10 "
" Salisbury	3.27 "	6.31 "
" Air Line Depot	6.15 "	8.32 "
Arrive at Charlotte	6.22 A. M	8.40 "

GOING EAST.		GOING WEST
STATIONS.	MAIL	MAIL.
Leave Greensboro'	3.35 A. M	Arrive 11.30 P. M
" Co. Shops	5.40 "	Leave 10.45 "
" Raleigh	8.45 "	5.55 "
Arrive at Gaston	11.25 A. M	Leave 2.35 P. M.

NORTH WESTERN N. C. R. R.

(SALEM BRANCH.)

Leave Greensboro	4.25 P. M.
arrive at Salem	6.10 "
Leave Salem	9.20 A. M.
Arrive at Greensboro	1.15 "

Passenger train leaving Raleigh at 3.38 P. M. connects at Greensboro' with the Northern bound train, making the quickest time to all Northern cities. Price of Ticket the same as via other routes.

Trains to and from points East of Greensboro connect at Greensboro with Mail Trains to or from points North or south.

Two trains daily, both ways.

On Sundays Lynchburg Accommodation leave Richmond at 9.00 A. M., arrive at Burkeville 12.43 P. M., leave Burkeville 4.35 A. M., arrive at Richmond 7.58 A. M.

Pullman Palace Cars on all night trains between Charlotte and Richmond, without change.

Papers that have arrangements to advertise the Schedule of this company will please print as above.

For further information address

S. E. ALLEN,
Gen'l Ticket Agent.
Greensboro, N. C.

T. M. R. TALCOTT,
Engineer & Gen'l Superintendent.

:o:

CHANGE OF SCHEDULE

RALEIGH & GASTON RAILROAD CO.

On and after Friday, May 22nd, 1874, trains on the Raleigh & Gaston Railroad, will run daily (Sunday excepted) as follows:

MAIL TRAIN.

Leave Raleigh,	9.35 A. M.
Arrives at Weldon,	3.30 P. M.
Leaves Weldon,	3.50 A. M.
Arrives at Raleigh,	8.45 P. M.

ACCOMODATION TRAIN.

Leaves Raleigh,	5.15 A. M.
Arrives at Weldon,	5.15 P. M.
Leaves Weldon,	2.4- A. M.
Arrives at Raleigh	2.45 P. M.

Mail train makes close connection at Weldon, with the Seaboard and Roanoke Railroad and Bay Line Steamers via Baltimore, to and from all points North, West and N'thwest, and with Petersburg Railroad via Petersburg, Richmond and Washington City, to and from all points North and Northwest.

Also at Raleigh with the North Carolina Railroad to and from all points South and Southwest, and with the Raleigh & Augusta Air Line to Haywood and Fayetteville.

A. B. ANDREWS,
Gen. Sup't.

:o:

RALEIGH & AUGUSTA AIR-LINE RAILROAD.

SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE,
Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 25th, 1874.

On and after Monday, 19 tober 27th, 1874, trains on the R. & A. L. Road will run daily, (Sundays excepted,) as follows:

MAIL TRAIN.

Train leaves Raleigh,	4.00 P. M.
Arrives at Sanford,	6.25 "
Train leaves Sanford,	6.30 A. M
Arrives at Raleigh,	9.20 "

FREIGHT TRAIN.

Leaves Raleigh,	8.15 A. M.
Arrives at Sanford	10.35 A. M.
Leaves Sanford,	11.00 A. M
Arrives at Raleigh	3.5 P. M.

Mail Train makes close connection at R. & A. with the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad, to and from all points North.

And at Sanford with the Western Railroad, to and from Fayetteville and points on Western Railroad.

A. B. ANDREWS,
Superintendent.

:o:

OFFICE SUPT. OF TRANSPORTATION,
Seaboard & Roanoke R. R. Co.,
Portsmouth, Va., Aug. 1st, 1875.

113 and after this date, trains on this Road will leave Weldon daily, Sundays excepted, as follows:

Mail train at	4 P. M.
No. 1 Freight train at	4 A. M.
No. 2 Freight train at	8 A. M.

ARRIVE AT PORTSMOUTH.

Mail train at	7 15 P. M
No. 1 Freight at	12 00 Noon
No. 2 Freight at	4 00 P. M

Freight trains have a passenger car attached.

Steamer for Edenton, Plymouth and landings on Blackwater and Chowan Rivers leave Franklin at 7.15 A. M. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

E. G. CHIO,
Supt. Trans. ortation.

S. COLLINS & CO.,

Manufacturers of

PRINTING INK,

26 Frankfort St., New York.

Agent in North Carolina, W. H. BOGART, STAR, Wilmington, of whom these Inks can be obtained. jan 27 2m

STIEFF

GRAND, SQUARE, AND UPRIGHT

PIANOS

Have received upwards of FIFTY FIRST PREMIUMS and are among the best now made. Every instrument fully warranted for five years. Prices as low as the extensive use of the very best materials and the most thorough workmanship will permit. The principal pianists and composers, and the piano-purchasing public of the south especially, unite in the unanimous verdict of the superiority of the STIEFF PIANO. The DURABILITY of our instruments is fully established by over sixty school and colleges in the South, using over 300 of our Pianos

Sole Wholesale Agents for several of the principal manufactures of Cabinet and Parlor Organs; prices from $50 to $295. A liberal discount to Clergymen and Sabbath schools.

A large assortment of second-hand Pianos at prices ranging from $75 to $200, always on hand.

Send for illustrated Catalogue, containing names of over 600 Southerners, who have bought and are using the Stieff Piano.

CHARLES M. STIEFF,
Warerooms, No. 9 North Liberty street,
Baltimore, Md.

Factories, 34 & 36 Camden st. and 45 & 47 Perry st.
Dec 16-12m

FURNITURE

W. H. Morris & Co.

No. 3 Fayetteville Street.

RALEIGH, N. C.

Dealer in all kinds of furniture, such as Walnut Chamber Sets, Cottage Chamber Sets, Parlor Sets, Dining Room Sets, Bedsteads, Bureaus, Wardrobes, Washstands, Tables, Chairs, Sofas, Lounges, Spring Beds of various patterns, Cribs and Cradles in great variety of styles, patterns and prices. Wood and Marble top centre tables &c.

ALSO

keeps constantly on hand and make to order all kind of Mattresses, such as pure Curled Hair, Cotton and Shuck. Excelsior and Shuck Matresses. Old Hair Mattresses renovated and made as good as new.

No trouble to show goods. Call and examine before purchasing elsewhere.

W. H. MORRIS & CO.
NOV 26-1f

READ THIS

I will give any one an opportunity to make from $2 to $5 per day to work for me. Work easy and light. A boy 10 years old can fill the bill. Send stamp for particulars. Apply to

B. I. POWELL. Warrenton N. C.
nov. 25 12 m.

WIRE RAILING & ORNAMENTAL Wire Works.

Dunn & Co.

36 North Howard Street, Baltimore, Md

Manufacture WIRE RAILING for Cemeteries, Balconies, &c., SHIELDS, FENCES, CAGES, SAND AND COAL SCREENS, WOVEN WIRE, &c. Also, IRON BEDSTEADS CHAIRS, SETTEES, &c., &c
Feb 10-12m

A NEW BOOK.

Life, Sermons, and Speeches

OF

Rev. N. F. Reid, D. D.

LATE OF THE

NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

BY HIS SONS

James W. and Frank L. Reid.

A handsome volume of 536 pages.

A fine Steel Engraving of Dr. Reid in each copy.

NOW READY FOR DELIVERY.

BE SURE TO GET A COPY.

Price in Morocco, gilt edge, $3 50.
" " Cloth, 2 00.

Agents wanted to whom liberal commissions will be made. Single copies sent by mail, postage paid, on receipt of retail price.

Address, REV. F. L. REID, Louisburg, N. C. or JAS. W. REID, Wentworth N. C.

G. T. LEACH, N. Y. M. T. LEACH

Leach Brothers,

WHOLESALE GROCERS

AND

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

SOUTH-EAST CORNER MARKET SQUARE, RALEIGH, N. C

Again, we take great pleasure in presenting our card and returning thanks to the readers of the ADVOCATE for their very liberal patronage during the past ten years, and offer to us the largest and best bought stock of Groceries ever offered in any market south of Baltimore, and while just now Bacons, Sugars and Lard are very scarce and high, we have made extra effort and feel sure we have succeeded in bringing other goods equally low and thereby giving our friends all the advantage gained thereby to counter balance any advance in the few goods named.

We ask to invite especial attention to our select stock of state Sacon and Hams bought direct from the Factories and offered here AT FIRST PROFITS.

We have now in store

5,000 lbs. Rio Coffees,
10 Mats old Gov. Java,
10 Bbls. A Sugar,
10 Bbls Ex C Sugar,
10 Bbls. B & Yellow Sugar,
20 Bbls Demarara,
20 Boxes Bulk Sides,
10 " " shoulders,
50 Kegs English Dairy Cheese,
100 Bbls. Ex. D and Sole Leather,
100 Sides Upper Leather,
50 " Harness Leather,
100 Cases O stery,
50 " Brandy Peaches,
5,000 Yds. Bagging,
6,000 lbs. Ties,
100 Bbls. Super Flour,
100 Bbls Assorted Sind,
50 Bbls Extra Flour,
50 Cases Forrest's Crackers,
0 " Soda Crackers,
60 Boxes Factory and Dairy Cheese,
6,000 W. P. and G. D. Cut Caps,
4 Kegs Burden Horse and Mule Shoes,
200 lbs. Horse Shoe Nails,
20 Dozen Best Axes,
50 Boxes Adamantine Candles,
100 Boxes Laundry and Toilet Soaps.

We offer especial inducements to country and nearby merchants, and invite an examination of our stock defy competition
Oct 7-12-m LEACH BROS

C. WEST & SONS,

ALADDIN SECURITY OIL.

The best Oil in use.

Warranted 150 Degrees Fire Test.

Water White in Color.

Fully Deoderized.

AND IT WILL NOT EXPLODE.

It burns in all Coal Oil and Kerosene Lamps.

TRY IT. Ask for "Aladdin Security" and take no other.

C. WEST & SONS,
113 and 115 W. Lombard St., Baltimore, Md.
Nov 18-6m

J. C. S. LUMSDEN,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

TIN AND SHEET IRON WARE,

Stoves, &c., in Great Variety.

THE STONEWALL is the Largest, Heaviest and Best Cook Stove in the Market.

Tin Roofing, Guttering & Piping a Specialty,

Fayetteville St., opposite the Market Pumps,
oct 14-12m RALEIGH, N. C.

SPECULATORS IN SMOKE.

NEW CIGAR PALACE.

LEOPOLD BROS.,

Manufacturers Of Fine Cigars Only.

The Only Legitimate and Straightout Cigar House in Raleigh.

PATRONIZE HOME INDUSTRY.

12 Fine Brands manufactured in all concievable styles.

The very best IMPORTED and DOMESTIC STOCK used in our Cigars.

Our Brands of Cigars are as follows:
THE ROSE (Copyrighted)
FLOR DE CUBA
THE FINO TWIST (Caledean)
GOLDEN EAGLES, (Imported Stock.)
THE PRINCIPE
THE OPERA ROSE.
FLOR DEL FUMAR
OL

Raleigh Christian Advocate.

Bobbitt & Gray, Publishers. | Published in the Interests of Methodism in North Carolina. | $2.20 Per Annum, in Advance.

Vol. XXI.---No. 12. | Raleigh, N. C., Wednesday, March 24, 1875. | Whole No. 1,050.

Selected Poetry.

In the Light of God.

I muse on the light of God,
His blessedness o'er my brow
Through the shadows of death my feet have trod
And I feel a bit'ter woe
No breaking asunder is heard
No sound and flashing pain,
No wasted effort where the frequent tear
Has rolled and been in vain.

No sin, no grief, no toil;
Safe home, happy home,
My fears all fled, my doubts all slain,
My hour of triumph come,
O friends of long in days years,
The trusted and the true!
We're a-chain, still o'er the vale of tears,
But I want to welcome you!

Do I forg it? Oh! no;
For memory's golden chain
Shall bind my heart to the hearts below
Till they meet and touch again.
Each link is strong and bright,
And love's electric flows
Flows freely down, like a river of light,
To the world I can where I came.

Do you mourn who can other star
Shines out from the glittering sky?
Do you weep when no notes of war,
And the rage of conflict die?
Then why should your tears roll down
And your lips be with grief be riven
For another gem in the Saviour's crown
And another soul in heaven?

—Selected.

Communicated.

For the Advocate.

"THE CURSE OF BLOOD." No. 5.

Our Standards and our Reviewers.

BY REV. W. M. ROBEY.

Concluded.

Speaking of the Apostle Paul, Mr. Watson uses this language: "Had he thought, as some christians have done, that the heathen were safe and happy, he would not have wept over them, and prayed for them, and have suffered and labored for their conversion as we are assured he did. But these were not his sentiments. He saw them perishing in superstition, idolatry, depravity and guilt; and he knew that the gospel would save thousands who would not be saved without it." Ser. lxxvii.

For the sake of variety of shade allow us to insert just here a line from the pen of Bro. Yates: "We may fail, to some extent, of our duty to them (the heathen); which is to be repented of, or be punished in our own poverty of spiritual enjoyment. But He who placed the heathen where they are, for wise purposes, will not leave their salvation contingent upon a handful of people doing or not doing their duty. And it is unwise to make such an argument to the church."—See Last Article.

This is hard; but we hope our dear brother will endure patiently. He has thrown down the gauntlet on authorities and standards boldly, and there is no help now. But "God has placed the heathen where they are for wise purposes," has he?

Watson says upon this subject: "Can do we affect to wonder at deries of Providence, in leaving so many of our race to wander without direction, and to live without the Gospel? God has not left them; but they have been left by their more highly-favored fellowmen. The mystery is a mystery of human iniquity, not of Divine partiality. It is a mystery, not of Divine reprobation, but of human unfeelingness. The Jewish and Christian churches, in succession, have incurred the guilt of unfaithfulness. The talent has been hidden in the earth; and the once laborious servant has become weary of his work.—When piety decayed in the heart, the flame of love and zeal decayed with it, and the world was forgotten. Ah! we are verily guilty concerning our brother in that, when he has cried to us out of the pit, and when we saw the anguish of his soul, we would not hear.'

Comment at this point would be cruel. Let us hasten away, but only to find deeper depths. Mr. Watson continues: "If my person say, this only shifts the difficulty but does not remove it, we may allow it. It is a mystery still that the state of the world should be left determinable by the will of those churches who in different ages have been favored by the light of Divine revelation. But why should we single this out as a peculiar mystery, and sometimes even urge it as an objection against Providence? Has not God made man dependent upon man in everything? Does it not depend on you to instruct your neighbor and your children? If you neglect them they shall remain ignorant and vicious. But will you ask why God himself does not perform your work, or raise up other agents to perform it? or will you in this case accuse him of indifference? The fact then, is, that God for wise and gracious purposes, has made all intelligent creatures dependent on each other; and the wisdom and goodness of this arrangement are very obvious. In pursuance of this principle he gave a dark world to an enlightened church; and instead of charging God foolishly with its darkness, we ought to humble ourselves that we have not faithfully dispersed his light. Christianity is the religion of the world: Christians are the light of the world; and if we refuse to hold forth the word of life—to hold up the directive light—then are we verily guilty concerning our brother. Let every mouth be stopped; and let even the church be acknowledged to be guilty before God.' Ser. lxxvii.

Mr. Watson has committed the same blunder that we committed. He has discovered (or he thought he had) an analogy between God's providential dealings in things around us, and in those at a distance. We have lived to see the matter in a new light, but our great teacher died in darkness. For our blunder we have atoned; but who shall atone for his?

On the condition of the heathen world, without a knowledge of the Gospel, Mr. Watson draws a picture somewhat in contrast with the views of our critics: "In Scripture language to be without knowledge is to be dead; because it is knowledge that gives activity to the powers of the mind. To lose the image of God is to die; because as death destroys the human form, sin destroys truth, holiness and love, in which the image of God in man consists. This is the unhappy case of the heathen. They have turned the 'truth of God into a lie;' their religious opinions are composed of absurd fables, and the principles of morality being left without support, have been all borne down by the tide of sensual appetite and ungoverned passion. Ignorance the most profound, imagination the most extravagant, and crimes the most daring, have ever characterized the world which lies in 'the wicked one.' But though all this be awfully true, it is not on these circumstances that we would principally fix our attention. There is another and more alarming truth to be told. The heathen world is judicially dead (the author's italics), under the wrath and curse of Almighty God. The law which they have violated turns the edge of the sword of justice against them; the conscience which they have abused renders them miserable in their crimes; and as death expels their myriads from this state of being, they appear before that God of judgment who hath said, 'The abominable, and murderers, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and idolaters, shall have their part in the burning lake which is the second death.'"

Again in the same sermon:—"The reasoning of St. Paul in the first chapter of the Epistle to the Romans is of universal application. It bears no mark of particularity, and there is nothing in the state of the heathen of our day to render it less applicable to them than to the heathen of his own. His conclusion is that for all their crimes and 'idolatries' they are without excuse. They are ignorant; but it is because 'they do not like to retain God in their knowledge.' They have a law written on their hearts; but they violate it. They have a conscience which 'accuses or excuses' them, but they disregard it, and 'therefore they are without excuse.'—This is the conclusion of an infallible teacher, against which it is vain to reason; and from this it follows, that if the fact of general and perhaps universal depravity of principle and action among the heathens be proved, then another conclusion of the Apostle must follow of course, that the 'wrath of God is revealed from heaven' against them; that the valley is full of souls, dead to God, and under the sentence of an everlasting condemnation."

And again: The prophet closes his description of the state of the dead by adding that the 'bones were very dry.' Under this strong figure the hopelessness of their condition is represented. Thus the Jews introduced in verse 11 are made to say, 'Our bones are dried up, our hope is lost; and the state of the heathen must be equally hopeless. As far as mere human means and human probabilities go, there is no hope. From themselves it is certain there is none. They have wandered too far to find the fold again, and what renders their case still more desperate is, they have no inclination to seek it.

For those who have invoked standard authorities so confidently, especially Richard Watson—who have been so prompt in rebuking our temerity and wicked folly in advancing a theory "not only in conflict with the Bible but also with our standard authors"—who have been so free and bold in hurling at us the charge of innovation and heresy—for brethren so careful of the old landmarks and so jealous for Methodist theology, all this is hard, hard! And if we consulted only our feelings, and not the interests of truth, here we might pause, pity and spare. We have no disposition to be cruel, and would prefer surrender to rout and slaughter, if surrender would do as well. But the enemy is defiant, asks no quarters, and shows no signs of retreat. But one alternative remains—to match off the last heavy piece duly reserved. The discharge will be fatal we know, but it is their own gun. They have defied and laughed at smaller arms, and their "fact have been swift to shed innocent blood." The voice of murdered Logic and mangled Theology cries for vengeance and we must let them have it. After alluding to the feelings which the "hopeless" condition of the heathen should excite, Mr. Watson goes on:

To counteract these generous feelings, and to stop the stream of pity in its very fountain, we are aware that the doctrine of the safety of the hea then has been confidently affirmed, and perhaps we also have too often slumbered over our duty, lulled by the drone of that doating and toothless theology which treats sin with the cruel tenderness of an Eli to his sons, and employs itself rather in drawing extravagant pictures of the mercy of God, than in supporting the just rights of his government.

Resting in plausible general principles which are never pursued to their consequences, there are many who appear to consider the Divine Being under some obligation of justice to throw open the gates of salvation to the whole world of polluted heathen, thus making vice a kind of pass-port to heaven, and ignorance a better security for the eternal happiness of men than the full display of the glorious doctrines and impressive motives of our religion.

The true question is among such persons often mistaken. It is not, whether it is possible for heathens to be saved; that we grant; but that circumstances proves the actual state of the heathen world to be more dangerous than if no such possibility could be proved; for the possibility of their salvation indisputably shows them to be the subjects of moral government and, therefore, liable to an aggravated punishment in case of disobedience. The true question is: Are the heathens, immoral and idolatrons as they are, actually safe? On this solemn subject we are not left to the decisions of human authority. Inspiration itself has decided it, and when human opinions and Divine revelation come into opposition, you will not hesitate to say. 'Let God be true and every man a liar.' Ser. i.

We must grant, indeed, it affords us the greatest pleasure to do so, that our opponents in this controversy have said some things "new," and some things "elegant." In fact their productions have literally flashed with these graces, to say nothing of real ability, and if we could have brought to the defense of our side of the question, together with these fascinating graces, their ability in argument also, no one would have ventured to lift a pen against us.

Besides these very decided advantages, our opponents have enjoyed another by no means to be despised, and which they manifestly have not failed to appreciate. Their theology is not new. Richard Watson had made its acquaintance more than fifty years ago. How old it was at that time we have no means of determining precisely. From one little hint, however, of this conscientious author, one as skillful and ready in drawing inferences as our opponents have shown themselves to be, would not have much trouble in coming to the conclusion that even in his day it was already well stricken in years; for he tells us that it was already "toothless." But old and "toothless" as it was, it seems to have had its advocates in his day as it has them now; and it is a matter of historical interest, at least, that they practiced the same tactics in discussion then that they do now—they mistook the "true question."

Or was Mr. Watson a prophet? If he was, then he spoke, as is the manner of a prophet, of things future, but certain, as if they were present. In that case this "doating and toothless" theology may not be so old after all. Then its being "doating and toothless" may not be due to its extreme age, but rather to its extreme youth, or possibly to its peculiar nature, it belonging to that class of creatures called by the naturalist Edentata. Be the case, however, as it may, Mr. Watson, though firing at long range, has made a dead shot; and as to who is "hit" there is no room to question. I think I see some one in trouble.

Early in the discussion we saw that the brethren, in their haste, had misapprehended the "true question," and ventured modestly to hint as much.—Right soundly did we atone for our presumption. We were promptly and sharply rebuked, and it was intimated that we were inclined to change the issue. Of course we said no more, as it is always polite to let another enjoy his own way of thinking when we can afford to.

But what will the brethren do now? Mr. Watson is merciless. He makes havoc of their "toothless theology" at every point? On the other hand he sustains our "heresy" at every point. What will they do? Can they not wheel about and show us that they harmonize perfectly with Mr. Watson? They have performed several logical miracles already; can they not perform one more? They have shown us how they harmonize with St Paul, although one teaches pure, unadulterated Deism, and the other Legalism, and a third Heatheuism, and all Beecherism and universalism. Is it not just as easy now to show us how they harmonize with Watson and Wesley? Can they not quote these authors again when they are talking about something else? Some people will not know the difference, and will believe that the legerdemain is a real miracle.

But Mr. Watson gives no quarters. He says they have "mistaken the true question,' and Bro. Brooks demonstrates the truth of the saying. He states the question thusly: "Is the written or preached gospel indispensably necessary as a condition of the possible salvation of the heathen?"—He says we affirm this and he denies it. Certainly we affirm it, but Bro. Brooks does not deny it. He has not only mistaken the "true question," but his own question. The doctrine of atonement is a part of the "written and preached" gospel. Does Bro. Brooks deny that the atonement is indispensably necessary as a condition of salvation? He says he does, but we cannot think he is so bad. Have we any other gospel but the "written and preached" gospel? If any gospel is "necessary" as a condition of the possibility of salvation it must be the "written and preached" gospel. But if this gospel is not "indispensably necessary," is it dispensably necessary? And if it is not necessary as a condition of a "possible salvation," is it necessary as a condition of an impossible salvation? Bro. Brooks is too metaphysical. He has spun his thread so fine that he cannot see it, neither can we. But he says if we will agree with him in denying the necessity of the gospel as a condition of salvation, he will not dispute with us any longer. Why, certainly he would not.—It is not worth while to dispute with a man who would agree to such a proposition. Even Bro. Brooks does not agree to it. No doubt he thinks he does, but we cannot believe he is so bad. He has mistaken the "true question," and their moral sense by sound arguments founded on established principles, well ascertained facts, and acknowledged truth and to convince and persuade to the practice of their christian duties. Most of your editorials, sirs, are of this nature, as well as your communications from correspondents, and your well chosen extracts. Some people are quite fond of discussing questions when they are so circumstanced as to avoid contradiction. It is well for them they shun it under other circumstances. There are two ways of conducting a controversy. First, by well established rules, secondly, by art, without regard to rules. The first only requires sound argument, clearly stated, the other is by sophistry, which deals in ambiguities, in easy flowing rhetoric, in tropes and figures, in biting sarcasms, smooth irony, that kills without inflicting pain, and sparkling wit that enlivens and passes, but too often used to conceal fallacy not easily discovered.

Every lover of truth can be himself hurt by controversy fairly conducted; nor will he injure those who attend to him with candor and sincerity. But unfortunately for human infirmity and the defective power of reasoning rightly, the best of men fall into sophisms and mix up unintentionally a great deal of falsehood with a little truth; and on one naked assumption build up a whole system of error, in which there is not one particle of defect except in the ambiguity of a single phrase or in one equivocal word. There is no subject of debate in which these ambignities occur so often as in theological controversies, Faith, Salvation, Gospel, Church, are often made equivocal, and ambignous because he who uses them assigns to them a signification in his own mind, which he has not specifically defined in his propositions; so that other men may understand what he really affirms or denies. When bad men abuse their intellect to subvert truth, virtue and religion they always resort to sophistry, as their father, the devil, did with Eve in Paradise, and with Christ when he had fasted beyond the ordinary bounds.

God himself condescended to enter into controversy with the first sinner and by fair argument addressed to his intelligence, bought him to repentance and a renewal of his faith by preaching the gospel of his grace in the promised redeemer. Our blessed Lord spent a great part of his time in controversy with his wicked countrymen, without changing their religious prejudices to any great extent.—It will not injure his ministers now, nor his disciples, to read the controversies of Mr. Wesley, Mr. Fletcher, or Mr. Watson, as well as those found in both testaments.

It is not of controversy on proper subjects, that we complain,—when conducted by the rules laid down by the wisest and best men. But we can see no propriety in reviving obsolete questions which have been dismissed ever since the family of Abraham became a separate nationality—and have been settled by the several ecclesiastical bodies called churches according to the theological system which each body may have adopted

Truth is often in a nutshell and so is error. It is only necessary for some one to crack it and let the contents out. The longer it takes to prove a point of doubt, the more doubtful it becomes. Circumlocution may deceive or mislead but it does not make things clear. Curtail, Messrs Editors, curtail superfluties. If we must go into the arena, don't let us parley but go at it and contend lawfully. So you may deal with any thing sent you by

LACON.

March 12th 1875.

For the Advocate.

Centennial Jubilee Proposed.

Messrs Editors: In Dr. Caruther's Life of David Caldwell, published by Sherwood at Greensboro in 1842, I find the following statement, made with reference to the introduction of Methodism into North Carolina.

"The Methodists had not done much in this State previous to the Revolutionary War. In 1775 George Shadford had charge of the Brunswick circuit in Virginia, where there appears to have been a considerable awakening on the subject of religion, which extended into counties of Halifax and Bute, now Franklin, in N. Carolina, and in July of that year Thomas Rankin, who had been sent out by Mr. Wesley as superintendent of the Methodist societies in America, being on a visit to the Brunswick circuit came over into Carolina; but did not remain long.

The first Methodist circuit in this State, called the Carolina circuit, which included the whole State, though their operations were then confined pretty much to a few counties on the Roanoke and Albemarle, was formed May 24th 1776, and they had at that time 683 members. Edward Dromgoole, Francis Poythress and Isham Tatum were appointed on the circuit; and there may have been some local preachers living in those counties for two or three years previous; but of them we have no account." According to this testimony, Methodist societies were organized in N. C. in 1775 and a circuit in 1776.

This then is the hundreth year for Methodism in N. C.

Patriots are making great preparations to celebrate the centennial of American Independence. North Carolina claims to have been in advance of her sister States in this particular; consequently her sons are preparing to celebrate the centennial of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence in May, one year ahead of the nation. These national jubilees are well calculated to arouse the sleeping patriotism of the country. I propose, that N. C. Methodists hold a centennial jubilee.

How does it strike you brethren? Let us interchange views through the Advocate, and if it seems good, let us arrange to celebrate the centennial of organized Methodism in N. C. Let us do this, not in a boasting way, but to show forth our gratitude to the great Head of the Church, for having blessed us and made us a blessing. Let us erect "memorial stones" commensurate with the blessings we have received, not such as brass and marble, but "living stones" such as will continue to roll and bless generations yet unborn. We owe it to the memory of our fathers, those self-sacrificing itinerants, indefatigable local preachers, earnest exhorters and pious class leaders of blessed memory, who have so faithfully served their generation, now gone to their reward and handed down to us that noble type of our religion, characterized by the sainted Chalmers as "Christianity in Earnest." "The Lord has done great things for us whereof we ought to be glad." How shall we show our gratitude? We take it for granted that all true Methodists feel an interest in all the enterprises of the church, but the Spirit of God moves some to be more zealous in one thing and some in another.

Now may not centennial meetings give a new impetus to all our enterprises? How would it do for Agents of our colleges to make arrangements for a grand rally, at the commencements, of all the friends of education, requesting them to bear centennial offerings with them? Let us untie the hands of these colleges this year, and let generations to come know that they are our "memorial stones." Ah, you sigh and say "hard times." The Tabernacle was built by a people, just out of slavery, while sojourning in the wilderness. The Temple was rebuilt by a people just out of seventy years captivity. All done by free will offerings. "The people had a mind to work." Oh that we had? How would it do for Presiding Elders and Preachers in charge of work, to make arrangements to hold centennial celebrations at District Conferences and in their charges, bringing to their consideration those enterprises of the church that seem to be most important in their bounds?

It strikes me that the Addresses on all these occasions might bring to light many noble, soul—inspiring incidents in our history, that would be calculated to arouse our slumbering energies. These incidents now sleep in the memory of many, who are fast passing to their graves. These celebrations might bring to light much information for the "Historical Society." Brethren let us interchange views and act.

"There is a tide in the affairs of men,
Which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune."

Yours truly,

R. S. WEBB.

For the Advocate.

"The Service of Song."

BY REV. A. G. STACY, A. M.

The great object which the author had in view in writing the Service of Song was to do good. About the year 1858—9, while a member of the South Carolina Conference, he was forcibly struck with the fact that but comparatively few of our people united in the service of song in the house of the Lord, and that in family worship it was, to a great extent, ignored. He was also strongly impressed with the thought that the praise of God in song is as important as any other department of worship. Observing that a majority of the members of the Church failed to sing, he mourned over their neglect of this most delightful means of grace. If we do not use the means, of course we do not receive the grace. This want of interest in the songservice seemed to him to be greatly in the way of the conversion of sinners and the spread of the gospel.

The writer of it was surprised to find, as he progressed, how the field widened before him, and how his own heart was touched and thrilled as his pen moved from paragraph to paragraph. The work was certainly written con amore.

Fifteen years have elapsed, "The Service of Song" has been published, and the second edition is now extant. Is it needed? How is it now in the matter of congregational and household singing? It is great cause of regret that there seems to be but little improvement. There are probably more that three hundred thousand Southern Methodists who do not sing in the congregation, nor in the family circle! And it is probable that the remissness is equally great in many other Churches. Millions of professors of religion remain silent in the sanctuary when the high praises of God are celebrated! Here is a loss of spiritual power that is absolutely incalculable if not beyond the conception of mortals. What is to be done? In regard to the "Service of Song" the great question is, Will the book do good?

Bishop Paine says, "The author has well done a good work and one much needed." The Rev. J. H. Brooks, D. D., O. S. Presbyterian Church, says, "In the 'Service of Song' the author has done good sevice for the Master.' Bishop Marvin says, "The author is in earnest, and his words must do good." BishopWightman says, "I am persuaded that the work will do good in various ways.' Bishop Merrill, of the M. E. Church, says, "It is a work which will be generally edifying and instructive." Rev. D. D. Whedon, D. D., says, "The ministry should take the lead, and Mr. Stacy's book is for them an admirable stimulant to duty." Rev. A. T. Bledsoe, LL.D., speaks of the "great value" of the "Service of Song." Rev. W. M. Rush, D.D., says, "No Christian can read it without profit." Rev. C. Murchison, D. D., says, "I think it will do much good." Dr. Linus Parker says, "It is a work of merit, and calculated to do great good." Rev. W. A. Moore, of the C. P. Church, says "It is calculated to do a vast amount of good." Rev. Charles Taylor, D.D., says, "It is new, fresh, striking, original, and, of course, valuable." Rev. C. P. Jones, D.D., says, "It will do you good." Dr. A. G. Haygood says, "We believe this book will do good.' Rev J. H. Linn. D. D., says, "that in providing for the settlement of all choir controversies, if on no other account, it is invaluable.' Rev. F. X. Forster, A. M., says, "Such works ought to be regarded as public benefits." Rev. E. W. Thompson says, "I believe it will be a great blessing to the Church for many years to come." Rev. J. W. Heidt says, "I am influenced by its teachings to try to sing myself, and to preach on the subject 'of the service of song.' Rev A. L. Abernathy, A. M., says, "The perusal of it has made me a better man.' Rev. T. M. Finney, D.D., speaks of "the great value of the work." Rev. T. O. Summers, D.D., LL.D., the author of a learned and commendatory Introduction to the book, speaks of it as a valuable work. He says, "It is eminently good to the use of edifying."

The Publishers have recently received additional notices of the book from 33 editors of periodicals, embracing congregationalists, Baptists, Episcopalians, Presbyterians, Methodist, etc. All these are commendatory of the work! Most of them emphatically so. It is heartily endorsed by ministers of fourteen Annual Conferences of the M. E. church, South.

Those who propose to aid in the circulation of the Service of Song (12-mo, 340 pp., printed on tinted paper), should communicate with the author, by letter or postal card. Single copies will be sent by mail on receipt of the retail price, $1 50. Liberal discount to those who buy to sell. Agents or canvassers wanted everywhere. Terms very favorable. The following is the author's address:

REV. A. G. STACY,
Austin, Texas.

For the Advocate.

Messrs. Editors: Bishop Marvin surely believes in mixing the old with the new. He sends quite a host of the original conference up into this new territory this year. On the Shelby District there are seven preachers with myself who are known as North Carolina men. Well, this is the way to blot out old lines and shows at least that those of us who come are rising men. I can once say of myself, I stand high in the Conference and I doubt whether I have a peer. I am not only elevated, but have the trust of the out post committed to me. And do you know where your little friend is? in Marion N. C. Do you know where Marion is? It is next to the last station on the W. N. C. rail road and in two miles of the Holston Conference. Here I am; and the recognized pastor of nine appointments. Like brothers Barrett and Anderson my reception was warm and cordial. I did not have quite as rough a journey as they, yet I had equally as hearty a welcome. I find among these mountains some of the best and most hospitable people. I have given up the idea that they are all "wild men." Our church has a large proportion of the professing christians within its pale. The greatest fault among these is they do not read our church literature enough. I am doing what I can to circulate our books and periodicals. To a man of thin blood, like myself, it is exceedingly cold in this region. There are but few days that snow cannot be seen on the neighboring mountains. The recent deluging rains have swept away the bridges and caused slides on the rail road until we are almost cut off from the great world ontside. And what is still more distressing to a mountain itinerant the country roads are rendered almost perilous. But to alleviate this diffienlty to some extent, a good brother down the way had the generosity to give me an excellent horse (or the equivalent) and another the other necessary equipments. These have added in no small degree to my joy and comfort. May God reward them an hundred fold for their christian liberality! If Methodists generally knew how much preachers appreciated such expressions the number of such favors would be greatly augmented. It relieves the minds and cheers the hearts of God's ministers, and loosens their tongues to preach the unsearchable riches of Christ. I am working and praying that my mission in the mountains this year may prove a blessing to souls and the church. The same God that piled with a mighty hand these everlastings hills as a monument of his greatness and power, is full of tender love and mercy to the perishing ones who inhabit them. When the winter with its ice and snow shall have gone and "the flowers appear upon the earth," this will truly be an inviting field. Tell the preachers down in the swamps when they get the chills next summer to come up to Marion and they shall have a speedy cure free of charge. And you may say to the public generally, if they desire a pleasant and romantic locality for a summer resort, no finer can be found than Marion. Two excellent Hotels, by competent hands, are now being newly fitted up, in the very best style, with a determination to make Marion as attractive as any point in Western North Carolina Why should we go out of our State to find that which we have at home?

J. T. HARRISS.

Marion, March 8th 1875.

A foreign letter says an English missionary in Africa is trying, with the help of his wife, to break up a horrible custom practiced among the negros with whom he is laboring. They have a way, it seems, of burrying live infants with their dead mothers. Several of these unfortunates have been rescued from an untimely fate in the immediate vicinity of the mission

The Law of Giving.

"Upon the first day of the week let every one of you lay by him in store as God hath prospered him, that there be no gatherings when I come."—1 Corinthians xvi, 2.

HERE OBSERVE.

1. The thing to be done—"Lay by him in store." That is, lay up, in a sacred store, money to promote the cause of Christ—have a purse sacred to this object.

2. The person to do it—Every one of you. It is addressed to Christians. Every believer, who has any means, is to lay up, as in the Lord's bank; David, his princely offering—the poor widow, her "two mites."

3. Its rules and measures—As God hath prospered him. The Lord is not an "austere master." He will not seek to "gather where He has not strewed," but where He strows He looks for a proportinate return.

4 The best time for doing it—"The first day in the week." It will secure Weekly offerings. It will help to make our offerings of, principle, and not of mere impulse, "a matter of bounty," and not as extorted, or "grudgingly" conferred.—2 Corinthians ix, 5 7.

5. The reason assigned for this instruction—"That there be no gatherings: when I come." That there, be no undue excitement, hurry, bustle, accompanying your giving: that the giving in no way interfere with the higher and holier exercises.

Reader! How much dost thou give weekly to the cause of God?

"God loveth a cheerful giver,"—2 Corinthians ix, 7.

Talmage's Last Cigar.

After giving his experience with his first cigar in boyhood, Mr. Talmage speaks thus of his deliverance from the vile habit:

"But how about my last cigar? It was three o'clock Sabbath morning in my Western home. I had smoked three or four cigars since tea. At that time I wrote my sermons, and took another cigar with each new head of discourse. I thought I was getting the inspiration from above, but was getting much of it from beneath. My hand trembled along the line, and, strung up to last tension of nerves, I finished my work and started from the room. A book standing on the table fell over, and, although it was not a large book, its fall sounded to my excited system like the crack of a pistol. As I went down stairs their creaking made my hair stand on end. As I flung myself on a sleepless pillow, I resolved, God helping, that I had smoked my last cigar, and committed my last sin of night study. I kept my promise. With the same resolution went overboard tea and coffee. That night I was born into a new physical, mental, and moral life. Perhaps it may be better for some to smoke, and study nights, and take exciting temperance beverages; but I am persuaded that if thousands of people who now go moping, and nervous, and half exhausted, through life, down with "sick head aches," and rasped by irritabilities, would try a good dose of abstinence, they would thank God for this paragraph of personal experience, and make the world the same bright place I find it, a place so attractive that nothing short of heaven would be good enough to exchange for it. The first cigar made me desperately sick; the throwing away of my last made me gloriously well. For me the creaking of the midnight owl has ceased, and the time of the singing of the birds has come."

"Excuse My Glove."

Certain kinds of mistaken politeness, sincere as they are, are absurd enough to be grotesque. A common mistake of this sort with some persons, even in large cities, is to say "Excuse my glove," when they offer their hand to a casual acquaintance, or on introduction to a stranger. It might be inferred from this remark that the wearing of gloves is extremely rare in the civilized community, or that the wearer wishes to advertise the extraordinary fact that he has gloves. All he really desires is to appear polite, never suspecting for a moment that he is simply ridiculous.

If you offer to shake hands with any one in a place where it is customary to wear gloves, you certainly need no excuse for compliance with the habit. You might with equal reason, on receiving a visitor at your house, apologize to him for not removing your coat before bidding him welcome.

The superfluous phrase probably had its origin in the days when gloves were clumsy, and used more for protection than as an essential of dress. Then the naked hand was thought to be an evidence of good-will and cordiality. Since gloves have been universally adopted, the idea of asking pardon for wearing them is an anachronism as well as an impropriety.

Laughing Stock.

An executive office—the hangman's.

Common pleas—please shut the door.

The scale of good-breeding—B natural.

A poor relation—telling an anecdote badly.

Carpets are bought by the yard, and worn by the foot.

Mrs. Gubbins says her husband is like a tallow candle: he always will smoke when he goes out.

Two things in this world that should not be trifled with—a woman's opinon, and the business end of a wasp.

"May heaven bless and keep you from your own true love, Benjamin Herrick," was the way the letter ended.

"Teeth in exchange for wheat, pork or potatoes," is what an enterprising dentist in one of the State towns advertises.

Said a pompous husband, whose wife had stolen up behind and given him a kess: "Madam, I consider such an act indecorous." "Excuse me," said the wife, "I didn't know it was you."

The Christian Advocate.

OFFICE—Corner of Dawson & Hargett Sts

THE ORGAN
OF THE
NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE
OF THE
M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

Rev. J. B. Robbitt, R. T. Gray, Esq. } Editors.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

TO ONE YEAR, IN ADVANCE, POSTAGE PAID,	$2.20
SIX MONTHS, " "	1.35
If payment be delayed six months,	2.70

All letters on business with this office should be addressed to the Editors of the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

RALEIGH, N. C., MARCH 24, 1875.

The Cross (X) Mark is to remind you that your subscription has expired Let all renew promptly.

Simplicity in Prayer.

Prayer is the life of the Christian—an expression and confession of his dependence upon God. We all have wants that none can meet but our heavenly Father. Our wants must be brought before God, who has said: "Ask and ye shall receive." No subject deserves more attention than the manner of approaching the great Author of all our blessings. The manner and spirit of prayer, specially, should be carefully studied. The manner and form should be marked by simplicity. This is clearly taught in the form which our Saviour has given us. Our "Lord's prayer" impresses us with its simplicity. Plain unvarnished words—words filled with dependence and with faith—words marked by humility and sincerity. Not high-sounding, harsh, rough, dictatorial language, but earnest, simple and child-like expressions. The habit, common with many, and even with some ministers of the gospel, of using unduly the appellations of "God Almighty" and other similar expressions, have often been painful to the most thoughtful and devout worshiper. Perhaps we will hear that expression—"God Almighty"—twenty times in one single prayer. This word does not occur in the form given us to imitate. It commences with a simple, humble address, "Our Father." And yet with this beautiful form for us to imitate or follow, some good people will have, "O God" in every sentence or two. The reason they continue to indulge in this habit is that no friend has been faithful enough to call their attention to this matter. We should remind each other of our faults and short-comings in a christian spirit.

When we hear a minister, or any body else commence prayer with a rhetorical flourish, we are not edified or comforted. We ought to feel that we are children and have many wants, and that "our Father" in heaven does not want us to appeal to him in thunder tones as though he were a great way off—or to tell him how great he is, and how many great and wonderful things he has done, but simply make known our requests unto him plainly and humbly. He looks at our wants and our state of mind and heart. We must be importunate and press our cause before Him, but simplicity in our prayers is of the greatest importance. The child that comes to an earthly parent with tears in his eyes, and oppressed with feelings of dependence, is sure to obtain what he asks. He tells his father how needy he is, how unable, perhaps, to do anything to help himself. Thus should we approach our Heavenly Father, feeling in our hearts that he is holy and that his will is our law, and that from him "every good and perfect gift comes," —that he is always able—always ready, and always willing to bless his children When simplicity runs through all our prayers—simplicity both in spirit and manner—we feel that our wants are better expressed, and answers to our sincere, childlike petitions are more sensibly felt. Our blessed heavenly Father only requires our earnest simple hearted service.

We are really gratified at the interest our young friends manifest in the Scripture queries and answers which appear from week to week in this paper. To adapt the Advocate, exclusively, to the wants of the grown up people is not the full work of a religious journal. The wants of the children must be taken into consideration. They must be cared for. If our space would justify it, we would be delighted to publish all the letters received from the dear little girls and boys. Many of them are interesting and would be read with pleasure and profit, not only by the young, but by those of mature years.

The discussion on the Curse of Blood is drawing to a close. Bro. Robey's concluding article appears on the first page of this issue of the Advocate, and Bro. Brooks has sent in his concluding article which we will publish in our next. The discussion, though somewhat protracted, has been one of great interest to a large class of our readers.

A gentleman of this city, not a member of any church, has given, unsolicited, one hundred dollars to be expended in the purchase of Sunday school books for Edenton Street Methodist Sunday school. This is a generous donation, and one which is highly appreciated by the pastor and membership of that church.

The circulation of the Advocate is daily increasing, and renewals are coming in from all directions.

"Methodist Exhorters"

Last week in a brief article entitled "Methodist Exhorters," we made some strictures upon what we considered an improper allusion to the Methodist ministry by the Wilmington Star.

In its issue of the 18th inst., that paper replies to our animadversions in a spirit of courtesy which it would be rude in us not to appreciate, and with a disclaimer of the intentions attributed to it which it would be ungenerous in us not to receive as fully satisfactory. We gladly give place to such portions of the Star's disclaimer as necessity requires and our space permits. It says:

"We did not mean by the term "exhorters" any reflection on the learning, eloquence or authority of Methodist ministers. To have given expression to any remark of that kind would have been presumptuous as well as unkind. The secular journal has no right to engage in theological controversies, and of course would be out of its province in making unfavorable comments upon the character of the ministry of any denomination. But we did not employ and could not have employed the term "exhorter" in any but its normal and proper sense, which, it was unnecessary for the Advocate to say, does not include the higher rank of the ministry."

We are glad that our apprehension of the Star's meaning was unfounded, and suppose that our ardent and jealous love of Methodism and veneration for its ministry made us "quick on the trigger" to fire at a phantom. And we take this occasion to assure our contemporary of the high estimate we place upon it as an able journal whose every department shows enterprize and tact, and whose editorial columns, especially, reflect the extensive reading and cultivated taste of its Editors.

The Star says in conclusion (and truthfully) "that it has frequently borne cheerful testimony through its columns of the zeal, the ability and the piety of ministers of all the churches. Within the past year or two it has had more than one occasion to pay its humble mite of tribute to more than one cultured and eloquent clergyman of the Methodist Church, which has produced some of the ablest theologians and orators of this country. It is neither necessary to repeat these nor to asseverate our admiration for an organization which has done so much for the temporal and spiritual welfare of America, and particularly of the Southern States."

Our young friends are interesting themselves in the circulation of the Advocate. Remember our proposition to give a nicely bound copy of the Bible to the girl or boy sending us the largest number of subscribers by the first of May. To the one sending the next largest number by that time we will give a nicely bound Methodist Hymn Book. Let the Superintendents and teachers of our Sunday schools remind the children of this proposition. The work of circulating a religious paper commends itself alike to both young and old.

A SAD ACCIDENT.—A severe and terrific storm passed over this section last Saturday afternoon. Mr. Sydney Tharp, residing six miles from Raleigh, was killed by the falling of a barn into which he had gone for protection, and his brother in law, Mr. Jeffreys, was seriously hurt, but it is thought his injuries will not prove fatal. The family are greatly afflicted. Mrs. Jeffreys, the mother of young Jeffreys, and mother in law of Mr. Tharp, had the misfortune to lose by fire her large and elegant residence on Friday night, together with all the furniture, and several hundred dollars in money. May a merciful God deal kindly towards the afflicted family!

Rev. James Willson, writing from Kinston, says:

"We have been kindly received by the people of Kinston and are at work. I think I have never seen the weather so variable as it has been for the last two months, much of the time exceedingly bad yet the attendance on divine service has been good and is improving so with the weekly Wednesday night prayer meetings. The indications are hopeful, though religion has much to oppose it. Tyndalism, Huxleyism, Darwinism Spiritualism and almost every ism that infidelity has assumed. "For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places." O, then, that the Church may be "strong in the Lord and in the power of his might," and "put on the whole armor of God, that it may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil."

The Advocate is the most extensively circulated paper in North Carolina, and as such, is the best advertising medium in the State.

We invite attention to the article on our first page from Rev R. S. Webb. His suggestions are timely and worthy of note.

A note from Dr. Closs on Friday last, brings us the intelligence that the condition of Sister Boshamer is somewhat improved.

Send your job work to this office.—We are prepared to have all kinds of job work done as cheap and as neat as it can be afforded in the State.

The revival at Person Street Church is still in progress. Fourteen penitents were at the altar Sunday night.

We see by our Church papers, as well as the secular press, that revivals have been and are being held in many portions of our work. Large numbers have been converted and joined the Church

Dr. Closs and the Heathen.

MESSRS. EDITORS: Without stopping to notice the irrelevant matter of the Doctor's late reply, I shall proceed at once to the charge against me, and the arguments pro and con the salvation of the heathen without the Bible.

I am not in the discussion upon the "Curse of Blood" I have been incidentally called into this little piece of pleasantry between myself and Dr. Closs, by his reference to my supposed ignorance of the Decalogue.

The only part of the Doctor's article which needs a reply is the charge that I teach idolatry to be acceptable to God as service. This, in the Doctor's estimation, implies one of two things—either that I am ignorant of the Second Commandment, or that I have knowingly and wickedly published a theory in open defiance of the authority of Almighty God.'

Now these are grave charges indeed; and our "magnanimous" Doctor in assuming the former of these suppositions in order to shield a "defunct" brother from the heinous wickedness of the latter, stretches the cloak of his magnanimity almost to tearing.

In reply to the Doctor's charge, I assume that sinful idolatry, as condemned by the Second Commandment, cannot be committed by any moral being who has never known God as revealed in the Bible. Admitting, as I freely do, that God can be and is revealed to the heathen world through the influences of the Holy Spirit and the intuitions of reason, yet the knowledge so revealed is not the kind that is requisite to render the worshiper of the sun a sinful Idolator; for while such a revelation gives the idea of God as the unconditioned cause of all things that exist conditionally, and thus inspires the soul devotionally, yet it does not reveal the requirements of the Decalogue; and, as I have shown in my former article, moral obligation can only keep pace with known duty; and where moral obligation has not been disregarded, there can be no sin; and where there is no sin, there can be no sinful Idolatry.

Again: Idolatry has been defined by theological writers to be "the worship of an image or figure." An image or figure implies an original, which in this case must mean the true God.—But how, I ask, can a heathen or any one else have an idea of an image or figure of a being before he has an idea of the being himself? This were, in fact, to have a conception of nought; and if nought or nothing be the object worshiped, then there is no worship at all, according to the Doctor's reasoning, and consequently there can be neither true worship nor Idolatry in the act which Dr. Closs and others call Idolatry.

Is it not plain, therefore, that sinful Idolatry requires the worshiper first to have known the true God, and then to turn away from Him to the worship of that which is not God? This did the Israelites at the foot of Sinai when the calf worship was instituted. Here is a plain case of sinful Idolatry; and, if Dr. Closs and myself were to worship the sun, we would (at least the Dr., as he understands the Commandments) be guilty of sinful Idolatry.

When, therefore, a heathen who has never known the God of the Decalogue, feels the promptings of the Holy Spirit to worship, and looking around for the God whom he should worship, takes the sun to be that God, if he worships sincerely, such worship must be acceptable to God; and the Holy Spirit in virtue of the great atonement made by Christ, which in its design covers the heathen world as well as Christendom, blesses the worshiper and works in him a fitness for heaven, which is in kind, if not degree, the same as that which is wrought in Christian hearts in Bible lands.

In fact, some heathen worship is not Idolatry even in form and sense; to instance, when the heathen worships that which he believes to be God. In this case he is not worshiping an image or symbol, but the thing he believes to be the real God. If the moral quality of all free actions is in the intention, and the intention is to worship God, not his image or figure, such worship cannot be Idolatry even in sense; and a holy God cannot so regard it.

If Dr. Closs and his staff desire to show that heathen worship is sinful Idolatry, I mean those heathens who have never known the true God as revealed in the Bible, they will be under the necessity to prove that Natural Law prohibits Idolatry. Until they can do this, inasmuch as all the commands of the Decalogue are in the second person, and the heathen always have been and still are in the Third, they will act as one beating the air.

The idea and necessity of worship show the possibility of the salvation of the heathen. Worship affects not God, but the creature. In the act, the creature places himself in such a moral attitude that God can bless him. God does not give him salvation as a sort of recompense for his prayers and praises offered, as too many imagine. He is as willing to bless the heathen as He is to bless the best christian. He blesses the christian in the act of worship, because in that act his will so changes toward God as legally, in view of the atonement, to untie God's hands. And just so He blesses the heathen when that heathen's will in the act of worshiping what he honestly believes to be God, is turned to run parallel with God's will.

The Doctor seems to belong to the class of people who want a "thus sayeth the Lord" for every thing. I believe in the Bible as strongly as Doctor Closs does; but I believe that God has revealed nothing in the Bible, which men may know otherwise.

All the Scriptural texts quoted by the Doctor in his favor, may be explained satisfactorily by a legitimate exegesis, in the light of the reasoning above.

I am now done with the subject, unless I should be forced to write again. My labors are too heavy for me to give time and thought to it. Yet the subject ought to be fully discussed; for such a dicussion, as I know full well, will give interest and subscribers to the Advocate.

R. L. ABERNETHY.

MESSRS EDITORS: I observe in your last issue that "Philo" makes a suggestion in reference to raising contributions for our Missionary enterprises. I do not propose to object to his method, but desire to suggest a more excellent way, and that is, to enlist the minds, hearts, and lives of old and young, in practical, regular, and systematic giving. Let me offer, in illustration of my idea, the practice of the Greensboro Sabbath School. A few years ago, it was almost impossible to raise money sufficient to meet the ordinary necessary expenses; and what was raised required much effort on the part of all. Now the case is very different. A collection is taken up every Sabbath without any special parade and with only the simple announcement that it is to be taken up, and enough is contributed not only for library, singing books, lesson paper, catechisms, magazines, and all ordinary purposes, but respectable sums are raised, freely raised, for other demands of the church, as well as for other benevolent purposes. On the first Sabbath in March of last year, it was resolved to set apart the collection of the first Sabbath in each month in the year for Missionary purposes No special effort was ever made to increase the collections on such days, save occasionally a few remarks by the Pastor or the Superintendent; yet the children never forget Missionary Sabbath, but always increased the contributions of that day, largely over that of the others, and the result was a handsome sum sent up to Conference, running the contribution for Missionary purposes for the station beyond that of any charge in the Conference.

The secret lies in the training they have received in giving, and the same applied in all our charges would immensely increase all our collections for benevolent purposes. I hope that many will do far more than has been done with us, and believe such effort would vastly benefit the church and people adopting such a plan.

SUPERINTENDENT.

Rev. L L Hendren writing from Chapel Hill, says: "I have just completed the first round on my District. Notwithstanding, the excessive rains, deep mud, high waters, and broken bridges, I have been enabled to meet every appointment but one. For three days, I was within a few miles of that, but could not cross the river. I have found the preachers all at their posts, heroically and successfully at work. We have had a large attendance of the official members at our Quarterly Conferences. We are fully organized for a good year's work on the District. With the blessing of God upon our labors, we will have great success.

THE MAN WHO STOPS HIS PAPER.—Phillip Gilbert Hamerton, in his admirable papers on "Intellectual Life," thus talks to the man who "stopped his paper:" "Newspapers are to the civilized world what the daily house-talk is to the members of the household: they keep our daily interest in each other; they save us from the evils of isolation. To live as a member of the great white race of men, the race that has filled Europe and America, and colonized or conquered whatever other territory it has been pleased to occupy—to share from day to day its cares, its thoughts and inspirations—it is necessary that every man should read his paper. Why are the French peasants so bewildered and at sea? It is because they never read a newspaper. And why are the inhabitants of the United States, though scattered over a territory fourteen times the area of France, so much more capable of concerted action, so much more alive and modern, so much more interested in new discoveries of all kinds, and capable of selecting and utilizing the best of them? It is because the newspapers penetrate everywhere; and even the lonely dweller on the prairie or in the forest is not intellectually isolated from the great currents of public life which flow through the telegraph and press."

The Quarterly Conference of the M. E. Church of this place was held on Saturday and Sunday, March 6th and 7th, the Rev. Dr. Closs officiating. We availed ourself of the pleasure of listening to several very able discourses from this venerable and talented gentlemen. Considerable spiritual interest being manifested by the large audiences which turned out to hear him, the Doctor was constrained to stop over and preach for us Monday and Tuesday nights.—Washington Echo

He who receives a good turn should never forget it; he who does one should never remember it.

Appointments of the Baltimore Conference

BALTIMORE DISTRICT—E. F. Busey, P E—Central, John A Kern, J N Hank, supernumerary; St Paul, S K Cox; Emanuel, John Hannon, J C Hummer, sup.; Frederick Avenue, B S Highly; Calvary, H H Kenedy; Baltimore Circuit, John Lanstreet, W R Stringer, sup.; Arlington and Pikesville, G G Brooke; Frederick City, G T Tyler Rockville Circuit, J C Dice, G M Brown; Montgomery Circuit, W A Wade, L F Lloyd; Howard Circuit, J C Sedwick; Beltsville Circuit, Wm A McDonald; Laurel Circuit, I W Canter, W J Perry, sup.; South River Circuit, Robert Smith; Bladensburg Circuit, J W Ewan; Emory, W E Miller; German Misson, G Meyer.

EAST BALTIMORE DISTRICT—D Ball P E—Baltimore—Trinity Station, W W Walker, E R Smith, sup.; East Baltimore, L W Haslup, J N Spangler, sup.; North Baltimore, S W Haddaway, Taylor Circuit, T W Brown; West Harford Circuit, J G Knight; East Harford Circuit, F C Tebbs; Talbot Circuit, R Smithson, one to be supplied; Trappe Circuit, B W Bond; Kent Circuit, C L Torryson; Queen Anne's Circuit, W W Watts and A Z M Sent; Severn Circuit, John W Stube; West River Circuit, E H Henry, R M Williams; Calvert Circuit, G W Leighton, one to be supplied; Prince George's Circuit, W H Sent, A M Cockey; Charles Circuit, H W Kinzer.

WASHINGTON DISTRICT—N. Head, P E—J. W. Boteler, sup.; Alexandria, J H Waugh, F M Mills, sup.; Fairfax Circuit, C A Joice and J W Schoaff; Great Falls Church Circuit, W G Hammond; Farmwell Circuit, O C Bell; Leesburg Circuit, Jas S Gardner; Hamilton and Grove, L M Crenshaw; Potomac Mission, J P Hall; Hillsboro, L R Jones and J H Boyd; Loudoun Circuit, T E Carson and R A McIlhenny; Piedmont, C G Linthicum; Linden, L H Baldwin; Warrenton Circuit, H A Gaver; Prince William Circuit, J M Grandin; Stafford Circuit, S F Butt and J J Smith; Fredericksburg Station, R R S Hough; J Poisal, editor Episcopal Methodist.

WINCHESTER DISTRICT—Samuel Regester, P E—Winchester Station, S Rodgers; Winchester Circuit, W G Eggleston and J H March; Frederick Mission, G Stevenson; Strasburg, M G Balthis, Front Royal and Riverton, J H Dulany; Warrenton Circuit, J Asbury Regester; Berryville Circuit, Adam B Dolly, Martinburg, Station, Lewis C Miller; Bunkstown, S Townsend and J F Boggs; Berkeley Circuit, I W Wolff; Charlestown, S G Ferguson; Shepherdstown, A A P Neal; Gainesborough, S L Martin; Morgan W M Hines; Wardensville, L Graybill. W A Taylor, sup.; Shenandoah, A A Robey; Roanoke Female College, J P Hyde.

ROCKINGHAM DISTRICT—D. Thomas, P E—Staunton, J S Martin, A R Martin, sup.; Harrisonburg, S S Roszell; Shenandoah Iron Works, W C Malloy; Mt Sidney, J H Temple; Churchville, J F Suggin, G R Jefferson, sup.; Bridgewater, G Manzy; Sangersville Mission, F Furr; Rockingham, A C Calwell.

ROANOKE DISTRICT—J E Armstrong, P E—Salem, J W Duffey; Roanoke Circuit, J Engle; Blacksburg, B F Ball; Christiansburg, F A Mercer; Fincastle Circuit, J M Follansbee, A C Bradenbaugh; Lexington Circuit, A P Bonde; James River, J T Williams; New Castle Mission, Robert Ross; Sinking Creek, F H Shipley; Lafayette, S Butt; Catawba, to be supplied by J D Ellington.

LEWISBURG DISTRICT—W G Coe, P E—Lewisburg; P B Smith; Frankford, J J Quickenbarger, H S Coe; White Sulphur, B W Wheeler; White Sulphur Circuit, to be supplied; Levelton, J R Van Horn, Edray Mission, J W Carter; Green Bank, H M Shicklen; Centreville, J F Follansbee; Union, H C Pitzer Peterstown, J N Gray, Summers, O F Bayes; Hillsdale, R H Wheeler; Blue Sulphur, W H Lynch.

LEXINGTON DISTRICT—J L Gilbert, P E—Lexington, W K Boyle; Collierstown Mission, A Q Flaherty, E L Kreglo, sup.; Fairfield, J S Porter, R G Simmons; Augusta, A Weller, one to be supplied; West Augusta, S B Dolly; Upper Botetourt, W W Hedrick; Covington, W T Quinn; Alleghany, H T Watts; Monterey, Thos Hildebrand, M Scanion; Crab Bottom, R H Wilson; Highland, H D Bishop; Baltimore, S S Rider; Green Valley Mission, A H Wade.

MOORFIELD DISTRICT—P H Whisner, P E—Moorfield, W H Wilson; Petersburg, J D C Banna; Franklin, S P R Tripp; Keyser City W Hammond; South Branch, J S Hutcheson, J K Gilbert; Springfield, J H Wolff, T G Morts; North River, J W Shreve; Hardy Mission, W Varner; Piedmont, Jas L Shipley; Frostburg, C E Simmons; Seistonville, L R Markwood; Cumberland, G H Zimmerman; Flintstone, J Beatty; Rainsburg, J R Andrew; South Fork, A C McNeer.

J W Compton transferred to Columbia Conference; J R Smith to South Carolina; L H Davis and J D Reese to Illinois; John L Clark to Virginia Conference; E B Duncan to Florida Conference; W Harris to Denver Conference; H W Leaslin to Holston Conference.

Methodism on Cape Ann celebrated its fiftieth birthday at Gloucester on the third. There was a large attendance of the brethren and sisters, an historical address, a collation, and a good time generally.

Mr Moody on Inquiry Meetings

The address was on inquiry-meetings. Mr Moody said that some one told him he liked everything but the "inquiry room." He wanted to show them that "inquiry-meetings" were perfectly Scriptural. He then read several passages, beginning with the case of the Baptist, and those who came to him, asking, "What shall we do, therefore?" the disciples who came to Jesus, asking questions; the young man with the cry, "What good thing shall I do" &c. In all these he showed that the preaching of the truth had awakened the inquiry. He said he had but little faith in the preaching that did not make them inquire. In each case, he said, good advice was given; and that was what they did in the inquiry room. Ministers and experienced Christians conversed with anxious ones, and gave them good advice: and they who have been to Christ themselves were able to direct others. A thirsty traveler came to a fountain erected by the wayside, but he could not obtain the water, for he could not find the secret which caused the water to flow. He put down the cup, and was about to turn away, when a little boy ran up, and with his dirty thumb touched the spring, and the water streamed. That was what we did in the inquirers' room: we touched the spring, and showed the thirsty ones how to drink.—Mr. Moody in London.

What Liberality and Wealth Can Do.

We have had our attention directed to this subject by seeing a notice in one of the papers that James Lennox, of New York, appropriates one hundred thousand dollars annually to various benevolent objects.

To us who are familiar with money in its smaller figures, and have not the privilege of a personal acquaintance with so much as one millionaire on the face of the earth, the sums allnded to above assume the extraordinary.—The following reflections occur to us:

1. If these donations are judiciously made a large amount of good must be the result. How many of the needy, of the ignorant, and of the afflicted, will rise up and call him blessed!

2. What a responsibility attaches to such large possessions. If the householder exacts a strict account of the steward who has but one talent, he will not be the less exacting with him who has ten or perhaps one hundred talents.

3. That piety and great possessions may be found in the same person.—The man who gives liberally and regularly may be presumed to do so conscientiously. If the donor experiences the truth of our Lord's assertion, "It is more blessed to give than to receive," he must be a happy man. If the Church and charitable institutions are made to rejoice over their benefactions—if much good is to accrue to the recipients of such gifts—what will be the felicity of his condition, when we are assured it must exceed theirs!

A. R. Presbyterian.

Ministerial Comity.

Ministers are engaged in a very important and difficult work; no other calling can compare with it.—All true ministers are divinely called to the same work; the same in every essential feature. Their hopes and fears, their aids and obstacles, their trials and triumphs, are one. Why, then, should they hinder each other's work God forbid that they do this. Their sympathy for each other should be holy, deep, and abiding. They should not rejoice in each other's defeat. In their treatment one of the other there should be ever felt and displayed the truest kindness, the most generous concern, the purest affection. No envy of a brother minister's talents, acquirements, or popularity, should be for a moment indulged. Never, without an urgent reason, should they utter a disparaging word of one another. The sneer, the innuendo, the belittling word, should never be once heard. Never should they throw a straw in each other's way.

Of that sort of work the devil, and wicked men, and worldly professors, will do enough. Ministers should be "helpers" of each other's joy. They should be "laborers" together with God. They should "love one another with a pure heart fervently." The world should see that gospel ministers, at least, "dwell together in unity." Such a heavenly spectacle would go far towards convincing the lookingon world of the divinity of Christianity. Such mutual and cordial fellowship and co-operation would mightily comfort each other's hearts, and greatly strengthen each other's hands. Would to heaven that such a state of things were far more common among the professed ministers of Christ. Would that all words of misrepresentation or detraction, and all undermining acts, might forever cease! How will such things appear in the judgment day? How do they now grieve the Holy Spirit and work the defeat of the gospel and the ruin of souls! Come, brethren, let us "draw near to God," and to one another. Let us get so much of the Holy Ghost that we can't help loving, cheering, and strengthening each other in our high and holy calling.—Methodist Recorder.

In Calcutta for months past the conversions have averaged two each day. One Church there has a membership of about 200.

Recent Publications.

THE YOUNG HOUSEWIFE'S, COUNSELLOR AND FRIEND, by Mrs Mary Mason; E. J. Hale and Son, Publishers, New York 1875.

Mrs. Mason, wife of the late Dr. Mason of this city, was noted in her circle for her excellent housewife qualities and her well regulated household. The advice the book contains was originally intended for a few young lady friends who were accustomed to seek her counsel. It is written in easy style and contains many valuable recipes and much information needed by every woman whose home is her empire.

MEMORIALS OF METHODISM in Virginia, from its introduction into the State in the year 1772, to the year 1829, by Rev. Wm W. Bennett, D. D. Editor of the Richmond Christian Advocate.

We are indebted to the author for a copy of this valuable work—valuable on account of the store of information therein contained, as well as for its literary excellence. Dr. Bennett's style of narration is connected, lucid and polished, and his present work does no little credit to his abilities as a chronicler of past events. During the first years of his ministry, as he tells us in his introduction, he conceived the idea of collecting the fast vanishing memories and data relative to the establishment and progress of Methodism in Virginia, and to the accomplishment of this object many years of patient toil were devoted. The portraits of the early pioneers of Methodism and the accounts of their work and triumph over obstacles which were ever before them, are intensely interesting and will prove profitable to the reader. As a great part of North Carolina was the scene of the Virginia Methodists' labors, there is much in Dr. Bennett's Memorials that will edify North Carolina Methodists and afford material for a history of our beloved church in North Carolina, which we trust is not a thing of the distant future. We advise all who can to purchase Dr. Bennett's book.

A revival is now progressing in the M. E. Church at this place, under the able and efficient ministration of the Rev. A. R. Raven. Already two persons have been happily converted, and several others are still at the altar, seeking the pardon of their sins. Our prayer is that the Lord may continue this gracious refreshing from His presence until every heart in our midst shall be set aflame with His most precious love. Mr. Raven is a faithful and zealous watchman on the walls of Zion, and the Lord is richly blessing his labors.—Washington Echo.

The Legislature.

This body adjourned on Monday last. During the last days of its session, much legislation was accomplished. The last measure adopted was the call of the convention of the people to remodel the present constitution of the State. The Senate Bill which we published last week as having passed the Senate, was adopted without amendment by a two thirds vote of the House. On the occasion of its consideration in the House, the interest of the public was manifested by the presence of a large crowd in the lobbies and galleries. Messrs Candler, Glenn and Foote, Republicans, voted for the bill and Mr. Mendenhall of Guilford, Democrat, cast his vote against it.

A bill was passed by which the University will receive from the State the sum of $7.500 per annum. The sum of $10,000 PER ANNUM and $200 for each inmate, was appropriated for the establishment at Wilmington of a branch asylum for the colored insane of the State.

A bill providing for the settlement of the public debt of the State, by compromise, was also passed.

The Usury bill, which was to take effect thirty days after its ratification goes into operation to day (the 24th).

The Western Branch of the Insane Asylum was located at Morganton, N. C.

CHANGE OF GAUGE.—Following the decision of the Supreme Court that a change of the gauge of the N. C. R. R. could be made by the lessees, Col. Buford, President of the R. & D. Railroad commenced work on Sunday morning the 14th inst., with 800 hands distributed along the line of the Road from Greensboro to Charlotte. He feared that the Legislature would attempt to prevent the change of gauge and hence his indecent haste and inexcusable violation of the Sabbath. Telegraphic communication between Greensboro and Raleigh was cut off and no through train arrived for several days. The Legislature, however, passed a bill on Monday night making it an indictable offence to change the gauge of any road in the State. It was announced that the change had been accomplished in one day and a half, but it was not completed until Wednesday night. By this change the State is severed in two with no "through connection." Col. Buford is an energetic officer and a polished gentleman, but his hasty conduct in this matter, however advantageous it may be to his line, is very reprehensible.

Personal

The Petersburg Index and Appeal characterizes the recent speech of Judge Merrimon in the U. S. Senate on Louisiana affairs "as the ablest delivered before the 43d Congress in defence of the South and the Southern people."

A. H. Van Bokkelen, Esq., has been elected Mayor of the city of Wilmington, by the new Board of Aldermen elected week before last.

H. J. McDuffie, of former editorial experience, has become one of the editors of the Shelby AURORA.

Ex-Senator Benjamin Wade, it is said, will probably be the Republican candidate for Governor in Ohio.

Says the Alamance Gleaner: "Last Tuesday while the family of Colonel Jerry Holt were at dinner, the dining-room being some dozen yards from the residence, a negro man by the name of Wm. Gibson went into the house and rifled a trunk of nearly one hundred dollars, the property of Messrs. George and Sidney B. Holt, and got off safely with the money. He has been heard from several times, but at last accounts had not been captured. We understand he invested a considerable portion of the money in clothing at Gibsonville, and that, when last heard from, he was well dressed."

NORTH CAROLINA.

There are fourteen inmates of the Wayne county Poor House.

The Monroe Enquirer says that Monroe is improving rapidly, and that the business of the town is increasing.

The Free Will Baptist publishing house at Fremont, N. C., has been removed to Toisnot.

Chatham Superior Court was in session last week, Judge McCoy presiding.

J. H. Mills, Esq., Superintendent of the Orphan Asylum, left the Asylum with twelve orphans for the purpose of giving concerts at the principal points on the N. C. Railroad between Raleigh and Charlotte. At Durham and Hillsboro the patronage was very gratifying.

The course of Mr. Mills, Superintendent of the Orphan Asylum, in refusing to accept $500 as a gift from the Wilson lottery, has been warmly commended and has established him in the good opinion of the people.

A writer in the Charlotte Democrat fears that it is not possible to make suitable arrangements for a grand celebration on the 20th of May.

On the 3rd of March 1875, the U. S. Mint at Charlotte was abolished by the Congress of the U. S., exactly forty years from the date of its establishment.

The Shelby Aurora says that the school of Prof. Trawick is growing steadily in popularity and prosperity.

The Charlotte Democrat says: "We learn that E. C. Davidson, Esq., of this city, is the only surviving commissioned officer of Company A, U. S. Dragoons, which volunteered from this county in the Mexican war. He went to Washington and procured all the commissions for the officers of the Company, and afterwards acted as recruiting officer. Persons desiring information about the deceased members of the Company can obtain it by addressing Mr. Davidson at Charlotte."

The Shelby Aurora says: "Rev. H T Hudson has purchased a lot beyond the Railroad, in the Northern end of the town and we are glad to see that he is having it cleared off and fenced in. He is also planting a vineyard and orchard. We also notice that he has been setting out some white pines, which will, in a few years, make a beautiful shade."

Raleigh News relates the particulars of an assault upon and robbing of Col. Wm. S. Rankin, one of the prominent merchants of Greensboro, last Saturday night. He was delayed on Saturday in depositing his money in the bank, having been collecting with a view of going North, and consequently had a large amount of money in his pocket. About 9 o'clock Saturday night he took from his money drawer the cash that had been taken in during the day, and taking the roll of money from his pocket placed the whole back in his pocket. It is thought this act was witnessed by parties standing outside of the front window He then started home and upon reaching Edgeworth street was halted by two men, when one of them struck him on the back of the head with a heavy stick and felled him to the ground. The robbers then jumped upon him and beat him until he was insensible, when they took from his pocket some $1,500 in money and left him, not taking his watch or anything else from his person. Colonel R. was quite severely hurt, but we are glad to know his injuries are not of a serious character. It is thought one of the men was white and the other colored.

The Canadians living near Henderson have a Grange numbering 40 members.

Old man Jerry Anderson, 81 years of age, makes daily trips to Oxford vending cakes.

The Oxford mail, the Leader says, has to be horsebacked to Henderson, the roads are so bad.

Wilmington is agitating her Coast Rail road. When $15,000 are subscribed it is the purpose of the Directors to commence the work and continue it to completion.

The store of L. H. Murray, in Alamance county, 8 miles from Graham, was consumed by fire recently. Cause unknown—probably rats gnawing matches. $3,000 loss. No insurance.

A. V. Sullivan, a highly respected citizen of High Point, shot himself through the head on Friday, 12th inst. Pecuniary embarrassment is supposed to have led to the act.

The Weldon News says. One of the lady passengers who stopped over at the Weldon Hotel, Wednesday night, left next morning, leaving a wallet of money containing over a thousand dollars in her room. The chambermaid found it and delivered it to Dr. McLaurie who forwarded it to the owner. That girl should be remunerated.

The Charlotte Observer says: One of our cotton men "raised the wind" a few days ago, in an ingenious manner. He purchased of a farmer 11 bales of cotton at 15.10, on thirty days' time. He turned immediately around and sold the same lot to another cotton buyer for 15 cents cash—thus he will get the use of the money for 30 days at a less rate of interest than he could borrow it from the banks.

The Monroe Enquirer under the head of a "Hard Story" relates the following:

"Mr. Joshua Clover, a responsible and reliable citizen of Mecklenburg county, tells a friend of ours the following story, which we give to our readers just as we heard it. Mr. Glover says: "While on a visit to Dixie county, Tenn., last November, I heard of a negro living in the mud in a swamp or canebrake at the head of Red Foot Lake, in the South West corner of Kentucky, and being prompted by curiosity, I rode 25 miles on horse-back to see him. When I found him he was sitting in a clay-root hole in water and mud 2 or 3 inches deep, with no clothing and with a mud cap on his head. There were a few pieces of bark over the hole, but from appearances they had been put there more for the purpose of hiding rather than sheltering him. He was perfectly insane, and I could understand nothing he said on any but he "lived on snakes and lizzards." His hair were very much shrunken, but the body looked strong and round. The people living in the neighborhood say that he has been there at least ten years, and the reason was he had let a team run away, and his master went to whip him, when he escaped, and becoming insane, took refuge in this den. The people, on being questioned why he was not taken away and cared for, replied that he was satisfied, and did no one any harm."

The above is a pretty hard story but we have the assurance of our friend and the testimony of a near neighbor of Mr. Glover, that he is a responsible and truthful man."

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF RALEIGH EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING.---TERMS $2.20 POSTAGE PAID.

Our Agents.

All the travelling and local preachers in the bounds of the North Carolina Conference are our authorized Agents. Any person sending us ten subscribers, for one year, will receive the paper free.

Our Corresponden ts.

Communications for publication should be carefully written, and on but one side of the sheet. All letters relative to the paper should be addressed to the Editor.

How to Remit.

In remitting money, all amounts should be sent in registered letter, post office order or check. The cost of registration or Post Office order can be deducted from the amount in hand. If money is sent otherwise than here suggested it will be at the sender's risk.

DR. S. VAN METER.

Dr. S. Van Meter, founder of the Tunnels Infirmary at Charleston, Indiana, is about to visit the principal cities in many States, examine persons, and give his symptoms to all those desirous of consulting him. This he does to do by Witnesses or opinion and, but it is the legitimate result of patient careful study of the case. He has ease and long experience in this treatment.

The professional talents of Dr. Van Meter, whose country has for near 30 years past been the resort of the afflicted, and many of the highest standing both south and North endorse him as a person worthy of his merits.

After a short confinement for years, Dr. Van Meter was induced to take a tour through the South Eastern States, and will soon be at various points that he will visit may consult him.

He will be among us in two or three weeks—Send at once for the Journal Extra, containing the particulars of his visit, &c., &c.

D. S. VAN METER & CO.

mar 17 4t.

INDEX TO NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

LIFE ASSOCIATION OF AMERICA.—This Company was organized in the city of St. Louis in June 1868. It is purely Mutual, and judging from its present status, it has been well managed. The North Carolina Department was organized in Raleigh in April 1871, and its business has steadily progressed, and its losses have been paid promptly From the lights before us, we regard the Association most reliable One feature of this Company should not be overlooked; that of HOME INVESTMENTS. This is made obligatory by its charter, and not a few of our citizens have been accommodated by loans, which were secured by mortgage on real estate.

The Secretary of the N. C. Department, Mr. J. M. Tate, will give further information in regard to this Institution. See his advertisement in this week's Advocate. He wants a few good agents.

We call special notice in calling the attention of our readers, especially those who need Mantillas, to the advertisement of Messrs. Pomfret and Arey, the well known corset-makers and Mackintosh, of Baltimore, Md. These gentlemen have recently purchased large and well equipped establishment, supplied with the latest and most approved tools and appliances, and are at all times prepared to promptly fill orders in their line. Furthermore, they guarantee fair prices, the best of materials, and first class work.

Crown or Light, the new Song-book for the Sunday-school, by W. A. Ogden, author of "New Silver Song," and other popular works which have met with such unprecedented sale, is advertised in another column. Send to W. W. Whitney, Toledo, O. for specimen pages.

INFORMATION, of great value to every family, sent FREE. Address, for Circular, F. W. Brown, 177 West Fourth Street, Cincinnati.

We invite attention to the advertisement of A. G. Lee & Sons. This is a reliable firm. They make a specialty of the commission business. See their advertisement and give them a call.

General News.

Reports of petitions who are tired of Grant are on foot for the candidacy of Ex-Speaker Blaine for a next Presidency.

Arrangements are coming made for a resumption of work on the bridge between New York and Brooklyn.

A letter received C. Rice father of the kidnapped Charlie Ross, were in New York week before the following up a clue to the missing child.

A man whose name is not known, who shipped with other hands on the steamship Antonio, also on the voyage from Montreal the other day, was found to be married a white lady.

A fire destroyed a store of St. John at the cape of Hatteras, believed to be by Michael Angelo, has recently been unearthed at Pisa.

"Whistling Jerry" is an inmate of the insane asylum at Auburn, who believes that he will die if he fails to whistle six times every day, and he honestly performs the task.

A New Orleans boy who spelled Andrew Jackson "And Jaxon" has been expelled by a unanimous vote, and the Board of Education of that city "do not propose to have any more Andrew Jaxons" in the school."

The Indianapolis Sentinel says: "Think of the small-minded editors by the general fraternity of large laborers.

The annual report of the Pennsylvania Rail road Company states the net earnings on all its lines at $27,925,705.

Rienzi, Mississippi, was visited on the 15th inst. with a terrible tornado during which a number of buildings, including the Baptist and Presbyterian churches, were destroyed.

The New York bank statement for the week ending 13th inst. is as follows: Loans decreased four millions; specie decreased one-fourth million; legal tenders increased one million; deposits decreased two and one-half millions; reserve decreased three and three-eighths millions.

Marriages.

In Granville county N. C., 11 inst, by Rev. H. H. Gibbons, Mr. B. F. Blackmore of Texas, and Miss Lydie D. Mass.

Married, at the M. E. Parsonage, in Lexington, N. C., March 11th 1875 by rev. J. W. Jenkins, Mr. Wm B. McCain, and Miss Sarah Gordon, all of Milton, N. C.,

At Friendship, March 8, 1875, by A. D. Lindsey, Esq., Mr. William G. Forest and Rosina E. Strickling—all of Guilford county.

In Greensboro on 16th inst., by Rev. W. H. Bobbitt, Mr. Jas M. Winstead and Mrs. Maria Ann Scales—all of Greensboro.

Deaths.

The Rev. John F. Barnett was born in Chowan co N. C., Jan. 5th 1809, and died at his residence in the same county Jan. 8th 1875.

In recording the death of this useful minister and holy man, I do not propose to write an extended obituary, although a better subject for one cannot be found. I would here make a simple record of his worth as a life and his peaceful close. Like most men who have been for a term ordinarily useful in the church he was converted in early life. The date of his conversion is not now known, but, if any of his life was spent in what many seem to regard as necessary, or, at least, a good preface to a use of christian life (dissipation,) it was but short, for, from the dawn of his youth, till the setting of life's sun he was a consistent and zealous christian, indeed, he was singularly pure, and his life peaceful and happy. Both the church and world reposed the utmost confidence in him, and the stainless reputation he left behind shows it was not misplaced. He was not a brilliant preacher. There was nothing extraordinary in the make-up of his mental manhood, but, in moral purity meekness and zeal, he was the peer of any. Here was the hiding of his power"—a power confessed by all, and wielded for the welfare of the men with whom he came in contact. For several years, while our colored people were in communion with us, he labored especially among them, scores of whom will rise in the judgment to bless him for his loving care.

In him the poor have lost a friend, the world a portion of its salt, the church a shining light, his family a devoted husband and loving father.

The illness from which he died was of long continuance, and death found him still a welcome guest in a house fully set in order for his reception. Some time before his death he settled all his worldly affairs, apportioned his estate among his family, and, having long before made his peace with God, when his end came he calmly and peacefully breathed his life away as one who "Wraps the drapery of his couch about him And lies down to pleasant dreams."

W. H. MOORE

Died Feb. the 21st 1874, in Concord, at the residence of her husband Will's Elkins, Mrs Martha A. Elkins in her thirty-first year. The subject of this notice had been a member of the Methodist E Church, South, for several years and at all times fully exemplified her piety by a pious walk and a godly conversation in the dear relations of wife and she has left a number of children for her life and in implement took the loss of a rich legacy to a bereaved husband and motherless children more to be desired than gold; yea than much fine gold.

She was a great sufferer for several weeks and manifested all proper submissiveness to meet the last great enemy death, destroy him for ever, and pass into the presence of God where there is fullness of joy and pleasures forever more. "There remaineth a rest for the people of God"

O. J. E.

Sister Nancy Perkins, wife of Mr B Perkins sen'd, is dead She died Jan. 19th, 1875, age 84 years.

She was a consistent member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, for 31 years, having joined it the same year the division of the church into two connections took place.

Her confidence in God was strong, her heart was fixed. Her hope was bright.

Her class she was recognized as one always ready to do or suffer the will of her divine Father. She was, truly, in her day and generation, the salt of the earth and the light of the world

She was not only willing, but anxious to die and go to Jesus

Her children being one of the most down in a row among the grave. Mary and her children and other friends were the only ones to be with her when she departed at last to go to rest in the world.

J. J. B.

A Tribute of Respect.

Whereas at a called meeting of Stagville Lodge No 103 I. O. O. F. held February 21st 1875. The undersigned were appointed a committee to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of the late W. H. Saunders, a member of this Lodge, who departed this life February 20th 1875.

Whereas, it has pleased our heavenly Father in his infinite wisdom to call our brother to his eternal home, and as a token of our love for him and sense of the present life therefore,

Resolved 1st, That we bow with submission to the will of him who doeth all things well and cherish in our hearts the hope of meeting our beloved brother in the perfect light of the God triumphant above.

Resolved 2nd, That in the death of our brother this Lodge has sustained a great loss as well as the neighborhood a quiet and peaceful citizen.

Resolved 3rd, That as a good templar, a member of the church, as a citizen friend and neighbor, husband and father, he acted well his part, and leaves behind him the savor of a good name.

Resolved 4th, That we tender our warmest sympathies to the bereaved widow and children and relations of the deceased and pray God to guide and guard them through the trials and ills of life, and hope their and our loss is its eternal gain.

RESOLVED 5th, That the members of this lodge wear the usual badge of mourning for 30 days.

RESOLVED 6th. That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this Lodge, and that one be sent to the bereaved family of our deceased brother, and one to the Raleigh Christian Advocate Biblical Recorder and Spirit of the Age for publication, with a request that the Tobacco Plant please copy.

T. A. LASLEY,
W. D TURRENTINE,
N. P. BRADSHAW, } Com.

Letters and Funds.

N A Woodburn, L Mitchell, E Alden, Rev J W Jenkins, S R Dixon, H W Scarborough, Rev B F Long, M E Bill, C W Hunt P H Walker & Co, A S Stone, Rev Jas Mahoney, for J H Nelson $2.20 Rev T A Bonn for Miss M A Scarboro 2,20, for Sentinel 3,20, Rev J W Wheeler for M C Ellerbe 2,20, Mrs M W Garr 2,20, Mrs Fannie H Everett, 2,20 Rev Leonard Webb 2,20, Maggie B McRay, Manuel B Fleming Rev F L Reid for Miss Martha Person 2,20 P J Brown 2,20 T M Woodburn 2,20 Mrs A M Strother 1,10, printing 13 Rev H H Gibbons E N Freshman Rev B Dixon, paper sent Rev J P Simpson for D A Suggs 2,20 paper continued, to R E J L J Hoyle for John Cline 2,20. J Willis 15cts 3 C Reynolds L Lemel Robt E Ware. N Mendenhall. Rev J R Brooks. Miss A Robinson. Rev J Sandford. papers sent. They have been going to Haricon's Creek. Should they be continued at that place? Addie Brothers H S Cooper 4,50. J M Poole Jr. Rev W H Moore, P H Walker & Co. R M Hearne E N Freshman, J C Bingham. H T Jordan sell 2,20. James Price. Emma L Langley. Rev Jas Wilson. Er Dr A R Miller 2,20, R C Hay 1,10 Ada Elliott Queen E Betts Henry Pulliam. Nannie E Guthrie. R E Clayton. Gota L Clayton, M A Harris on J J Jones E Alden Rev J F Sumnt for W C Johnston 2,20. Mrs C H Edwards 2,20 Maj W Hastings 2,20. Wiley Hastings 2,20. Rev H H Gibbons for Mrs A A Hays 2,20. Mrs P Hollsell 2,20. C Thompson. Rev W S Black for Mrs L L Smith 2,20. Mary M Long. F G Taylor self 2,20, T A Long 75 cents. J E Wells N C Durham, Rev S D Adams Annie Lee Merritt A G Lee & Co 37,50 Miss M E Emery sell 2,20. Rosa Lee Iredell Mrs L C Harris W C Dodd. P E Means for Mrs Blair 2,20 Mrs Laura Ballard 25cts Jas R Hall we have written to you H W Bennett. Cora A Crews. Jno N Staples Sr H H Staples 2,20. Mrs E C Beckwith self 1,50. J M Tate for a140. Miss Maggie McKenzie Rev L L Hendren for W Atwater 2,20. Rev M V Sherrill paper sent, Miss S Arnold Parker R E Clayton Rev W G Starr for adv 5,32. Rev C H Hale book. Dwight Rev A D Betts, Rev Dr Closs for S T Thorn 2,20. Dr E H Jones 2,20. T B Thomas, 2,20 we have sent the back number requested Rev L S Burkhead for sub 5. A L Beck self 2,20. Rev S Poulton late for this issue. Miss Mollie Marion Rev Jas T Harris R W G W Ivy for M Deal 2,20. E Flowers 2,20. P Deal 2,20. J P Blair 2,20 other papers continued.

Appointments.

HILLSBORO DISTRICT.

2ND. ROUND.

Durham station,	March	27-28
Flat River, Mt. Hebron,	April	3- 4
Hillsboro station,	"	10-11
Alamance ct. Bethel,	"	17 18
C. H. & Haw River ct. Ebenezer,	"	24-25
Pittsboro ct. Chatham Church,	May	1 2
Deep River ct.	"	8.. 9
Person ct. Mt Tirza,	"	15 -16
Leasburg ct Concord.	"	22-23
Yanceyville ct. Shady Grove,	"	29-30

L. L. HENDREN, P. E.
Chapel Hill N. C

NEWBERN DISTRICT.

2ND. ROUND.

Straits,	April	3- 4
Beaufort, Wednesday,	"	7
Kinston,	"	10-11
Jones, Shady Grove, Tuesday.	"	13
Carteret, Adam's Creek,	"	17 18
Wayne,	"	24-25
Newbern,	May	1- 2
Lenoir, Piney Grove, Tuesday,	"	4
Mt. Olive, (Dist Conf.)	"	6- 9
Snow Hill, Ormand's Chapel,	"	15-16
Goldsboro,	"	22-23
Neuse and Swift Creek, Bay River,	"	29,30
Craven, Tues. & Wed.	June	1- 2
Wilson,	"	5-6

E. A. YATES, P. E
Beaufort N. C.

SALISBURY DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND—IN PART.

Statesville station,	March	20-21
Salisbury "	"	27-28
Mooresville ct. at Salem,	April	3- 4
Statesville ct. at Trinity,	"	10-11
Mocksville ct. at Centre Church	"	17-18

D. R. BRUTON, P. E.
Statesville, N. C.

CHARLOTTE DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND.

Monroe Sta	March	20 21
Monroe ct.	"	27 28
Piess at Grove ct	April	3- 4
South Charlotte at Fair View,	"	10-11
Concord sta. and Concord ct	"	17-18
Wadesboro sta	"	24 25
Pineville ct,	May	1- 2
Wadesboro and Lilesville, at Pleasant Hill,	"	8.. 9
Tryon st. and Calvary Miss	"	15-16
Albemarle and Stanley	"	22 23
Mt Pleasant,	"	29-30
Ansonville,	June	5- 6

J. S. NELSON, P. E
Monroe, N. C.

GREENSBORO DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND—IN PART.

South Guilford at Friendship,	March	20- 21
Thomasville, H Point, and Friendship station	Fair Grove	27-28
Avon worth Carmel,	April	3- 4
Winston sta.	"	10-11
Greensboro	"	17-18
South Guilford, Bethany.	"	24- 25
Randolph, Ashboro,	May	1- 2

N. H. D. WILSON, P. E.
Greensboro, N. C

WILMINGTON DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND.

Magnolia at Bryant.	March	20 21
Wilming on, 5-th St..	"	27-28
Tuckerbury at Averasboro,	April	3- 4
Harnett at Andrew Chapel,	"	10 11
Cokesbury at Richlands,	"	17-18
Smithville circuit,	"	24 25
Wilmington Front Street.	May	1 2
Baden	"	8 9
Cape Fear Miss. at Bems Chpl	"	15 16
Elizabeth,	"	22-23
White ville Fair Bluff,	"	29-30
Topsail,	June	5- 6
Onslow,	"	12-13

W. S. BLACK, P. E.
Magnolia N. C

RALEIGH DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND, Q. M.

Granville at Tabor	March	20 21
Louisburg Station	"	27-28
Raleigh Edenton St.	April	3- 4
" Person St.	"	10-11
Tar River at Hank Chapel	"	17-18
Chandler on at Twitty's	"	24-25
Roxboro at Andrew Chapel	May	1- 2
Cary,	"	8- 9
Nashville and Rocky Mount	"	15-16
Smithfield	"	22-23
Youngsville	"	29-30

J. P. MOORE, P. E.
Warrenton, N. C,

WASHINGTON DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

Warrenton,	March	27-28
Roanoke at Enfield,	April	3- 4
Tarboro at White's,	"	10-11
Williamston.	"	17-18
Plymouth and Jamesville,	"	24 25
Columbia,	May	1- 2
Bath,	"	8- 9
Matamuskeet,	"	15-16
Washington,	"	22-23

WM. CLOSS, P.E.

SHELBY DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND.

Shelby circuit,	March	13-14
Double Shoals and South Mt. Miss., at Palm-tree.	"	20-21
Cherry Mountain at Salem,	"	27-28
Rutherford
C and Miss. at Kisler's	April	3- 4
Dallas at Bethesda,	"	10-11
Lincoln, at Zion,	"	17-18
Rock Spring at Hill's Chapel,	"	24-25
Newton,	April 30 and May	1-2
South Fork at Pleasant Grove.	"	8- 9
Happy Home at Rutherf'd College	"	15-16
Lenoir at Little John's.	"	22-23
Morganton.	"	29-30
Watson.	June	5- 6
Shelby Station.	"	8- 10

Dear brethren, let us work pray and trust in God.

L. S BURKHEAD, P. E.
Shelby, N. C.

FAYETTEVILLE DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

Carthage, Fairpromise,	March	20-21
Jonesboro, Cool Spring.	"	27-28
Cumberland, Camp Ground,	April	3- 4
Pro Doc, Sardis,	"	10-11
Buckhorn, Holy Springs,	"	17-18
Fayetteville,	"	24-25
Laurinburg, St. John,	May	1- 2
Robeson, Regan's,	"	8- 9
Rockingham, Green Lake,	"	15 16
Ushuarie, Oak Grove,	"	22-23
Montgomery, Mt. Pleasant,	"	29-30

S. D. ADAMS, P. E.
Carthage, N.C.

The Fayetteville District Conference will be held at Carthage, embracing the 1st Sunday in June, commencing on Thursday before at 11 o'clock. Bishop Marvin will preside.

COMMERCIAL REPORT.

WHOLESALE CASH PRICES.

Office of CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.
March 23 1875.

REMARKS.

Business continues quiet. Meats and sugars are very firm and quiet.

COTTON.

Transactions in the staple yesterday very light Low middlings 15¼

General Market.

BAGGING, Domestic 2¾ D yd. 18-12@14.
COTTON TIES, $2@.
FLOUR, North Carolina $4.50 @7.
CORN $1.00
CHAIN MEAL $1.00
BACON, N. C. hog round, 11 to 12.
" hams 18.
BULK C. R. sides, 11 1-2.
" shoulders, 9
LARD, North Carolina, none.
" Western thirces, 16.
" " kegs, 17.
COFFEE, Prime Rio, 24 1-2
" Fair Rio, 22 1-2.
SYRUP, common, 40.
MOLASSES, Cuba, 50.
SALT $2.25.
CHEESE, Cream, 18 1-2.
" Factory, 17.
" Dairy, none.
NAILS, on basis for 10d, $4.00.
SUGAR, A, 11 1-2.
" Extra C, 11 1-4
" Yellow, 10 @10½.
LEATHER, Sole 27 1-2 @30
HIDES, green, 7@8.
" dry, 15.
TALLOW, 3@4
POTATOES, sweet 75@1.00
" Irish, $1.00@$1.25.
OATS, shelled, 90.
" sheaf, $1.25.

FODDER, old, $1.50 @1.75
HAY, N. C. baled, good, $1 25.
CHICKENS, grown, 25 @30
EGGS, 25.
BUTTER, country, 22 1-2@25.
PEAS, Markets, $1.50.
" Cut Herrings, none.
" Mackerel, new family, $12.00
BEESWAX, 25
RAGS, 2to 3
BEEF on foot, 6@8.
" dressed prime, 8@10.

New Advertisements.

1875!

—JUST ISSUED:—

CROWN OF LIFE!

For the Sunday-school Song Service, Praise and Prayer Meetings. By W. A. Ogden. Contains 160 pages, and has the Richest Melodies, Best Words, and in, withal, the most complete Sunday-school Song-book published. It has a Concert Exercise ("Sacred Places of the Gospel"), both interesting and instructive, which any school can produce.

SEND 30 CTS FOR SPECIMEN COPY, IN BOARDS.

Specimen Pages Free. Price $3.60 per Dozen.

W. W. WHITNEY, Puolisher,
TOLEDO, OHIO.

March 24 4t e o w.

THE JAS. LEFFEL Double Turbine Water Wheel,

Manufactured by
POOLE & HUNT,
Baltimore, Md.
7,000 NOW IN USE!
Simple, Strong, Durable, always reliable and safe factory.
Manufacturers, also, of Portable & Stationary Engines, Steam Boilers, Saw & Grist Mills, Mining Machinery, Casting for Cotton Mills, Flour, Paint, White Lead and Oil Mill Machinery, Hydraulic and Cotton Presses, &c. Shafting, Pulleys and Hangers a specialty. Machine made Gearing; accurate and of very best finish. Send for Circular mch 24-6m.

SCHOOL MUSIC BOOKS.

Commence your instruction with

AMERICAN SCHOOL MUSIC READERS!

IN 3 BOOKS.

Book 1 [35 cts] has a charming course for Primary Schools. Book II [50 cts] has more quality attractive for Grammar Schools, and Book III [$1.00] is fitted for higher Grammar classes and High Schools. The very practical, interesting and thorough course in these books was constructed by L. O. Emerson and W. S. Tilden.

For a companion book see

CHURCH VOICE, A large collection of genial School Songs, by L. O Emerson A popular book 50 cts.

Afterward take up

THE HOUR OF SINGING CHOICE TRIOS, or THE SONG MONARCH.

These books are for High Schools and Academies The Hour of Singing [$1 00] by L. O. Emerson and W. S. Tilden, is arranged for 2, 3 or 4 voices Choice Trios [$1.00] by W. S Tilden, for 3 voices, are choice in every sense, and The Song Monarch 75 cts by H S. Palmer, assisted by L O Emerson as a book for Singing Classes, is equally good for High Schools.

All books sent, post-paid, for retail price.
OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston.
C. H. DITSON & Co 711 B'dway, New York
March 24 4t

JOHN C. PALMER

Dealer in Watches and Jewelry, Raleigh, N. C.

I have a large stock of Watches, Jewelry, Silver and Plated Ware, Clocks, Wedding presents, &c.
My assortment of Gold, Silver and Steel Spectacles is very large I can suit all.

mar 17-3w. J. C. PALMER.

WANTED.

A thorough lady Teacher of Music, Latin, Higher Mathematics and French. Salary $18 per month and board. Address "PRINCIPAL," mar 17 2t. White Plains, S. C.

SAVE YOUR MONEY.

THE PURCHASING AGENCY OF
CLARK & MOLLMANN,
71 BROADWAY, NEW YORK,

Will buy for you on Commission any articles of Merchandize you want, new, old, regular, or second-hand, in any quantity, large or small. Send for Circular of particulars and references.

mar 17-4t

ELECTION NOTICE!

By virtue of the powers conferred on me by act of the General Assembly entitled "an act concerning the city of Raleigh," we do hereby give notice that Books of Registration will be opened for the electors of the city of Raleigh to register therein, by the following Registrars and at the following places in the respective Wards, to-wit:

FIRST WARD:
J. J. CHRISTOPHERS, Registrar, at A. Upchurch's Coach Shop on Harget Street,

SECOND WARD:
L. C MANLY, Registrar, at Grange Hotel corner Wil. and Davie Streets

THIRD WARD:
J. J. LEWIS, Registrar, at Court House.

FOURTH WARD:
E. D. MACEY, Registrar, at the office of the Gas Company, corner of Dawson and Cabarrus Streets.

FIFTH WARD:
GEORGE H. WILLIAMS, Registrar, at John Brown's store opposite Masonic Hall, Morgan Street.

These books will be opened on the 23d day of March 1875, and will close April 23d, 1875.

BOARD OF COMMRS OF WAKE CO.

March 17 2-.

DISSOLUTION.

By mutual consent, the firm of THOMPSON & WHITAKER is this day dissolved. All persons indebted, will please come forward at once and settle their account.

A. A. THOMPSON.
J. D. WHITAKER.

Raleigh, N. C., Feb 22, 1875.

TO THE PUBLIC.

Having purchased Mr. Thompson's interest in the business I shall continue to keep a

LARGE AND FULL STORE

of Goods belonging to a first-class Grocery Store, at the old Stand,

NO. 4 MARTIN STREET, where I shall be pleased to see my many friends and patrons, promising them goods always as cheap as they can be had in this market.

Grateful for past patronage, and hoping to merit a continuance of the same,

I am, respectfully,

J. D. WHITAKER.

Raleigh, Feb. 22, '75. mar 17-1f.

PROGRESS THE WATCHWORD.

Merit and Success, Hand in Hand.

The Eureka WASHING MACHINE,

Patented Oct. 13th, 1874.

This machine operates on the same principle as the hand—does the work complete without the hand—works with great ease to the operator and washes rapidly, doing the work in about one fourth the time of the ordinary way, with less injury to fabrics.

Factory price $15 00, with wringer attached $23 00. State and county rights for sale

J. R. FARRAR,
Manufacturer and Patentee.

mch 10-5ms.

WANTED.

A good Shoe and Boot Maker, with a capital of from $200 to $300, to take a half interest in a shop and conduct the business in a good locality. None need apply but those who can give satisfactory references.

J. T. PATTERSON,
mar 17-1m. Morganton, N. C.

JUST ARRIVED.

2500 yds. White Striped Pique, soft finish at 18c. worth 25 to 30c.

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

30 pieces Black Alpaca, double face, Raven black, at 40c. former price 60c.

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

CARPETINGS, CARPETINGS.

The largest stock of Carpetings, Rugs, &c. in the city, at lowest cash prices.
All new and bought since January.

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

Everybody has come to the conclusion that it is a fact, beyond doubt, that "the pince" to get good goods, and cheap bargains is at the "cash" store of

W. H. & R. S. TUCKEE & CO.

$3,000 worth of a celebrated Philadelphia make of Ladies, Misses and Children shoes in

KID, CLOTH AND GOAT.

Buttoned and Laced—to which we invite special attention.

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

HOSIERY! HOSIERY!!

SPECIALTY;

50 doz Ladies White Iron Frame Cotton Hose, superior make, excellent finish, best quality, and at a fabulous low price Misses and Children's fancy striped Cotton Hose, to be had at

TUCKER'S.

HAMBURG EDGINGS AND INSERTIONS.

Ladies Linen Collars and Cuffs,
Ladies H. S. Hdkfs a full line,
at

TUCKER'S.

LADIES SCARFS AND NECKTIES in all colors.—Ladies Neck Hdkfs, the "knobbiest" novelty of the season. Ruchings and Ruffings.

at

TUCKER'S.

MEDIUM AND FAMILY Irish Linens, cheaper than ever offered, Pillow Case Linen, Linen Sheetings, Linen Draggels, Table Linen in every quality and at any price.

at

TUCKER'S.

GENTS BURT GAITERS and Gents BURT BOOTS in latest styles and patterns, at

TUCKER'S

THIRD Arrival of that beautiful Silk Hat for Gentlemen, latest spring style at

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

mar 10 tf.

AGENTS WANTED FOR

Cross AND Crown

THE SPIRIT AND POWER of the religion of Jesus Christ as shown in the Sufferings and triumphs of His followers. A richer, sweeter and more thrilling story is not to be found in the whole range of history. Magnificently Illustrated on steel with the best engravings of Satisfaction and Ultimate, and splendidly bound in the richest and latest style of the art. The most beautiful and salable book ever offered to agents. Send for circulars, with full description; address NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Atlanta, Ga., or Memphis, Tenn.

March 10-6m

WANTED.

A young lady, of successful experience, desires a situation as teacher in a family or a school. Is qualified to teach English, Mathematics and Latin. Address immediately, "M.," Marion C. H., S. C.

March 3 1w pd.

PREMIUM CHESTER WHITE PIGS—$15 each, $25 a pair, Chester County MAMMOTH CORN, and imported BELGIAN OATS. 4 lbs by mail, $1; peck $2; ½ bushel $3; bushel $5. Circulars and Sample Packages of 8 sorts Free for 2 stamps Address.

M. P. BOYER Parkesburg, Chester., co Pa.

march 3 8-wky

OLD NORTH STATE

Excelsior Cotton Food.

Having been appointed Agents for the sale of the above valuable fertilizer we take pleasure in recommending it to our planting friends as one of the and best adapted cotton and corn manures known to the farming interests.

PUREST

It has been fully tested for several years with the most satisfactory results. It has been carefully analyzed by eminent Chemists, and found to contain a large per centage of concentrated vegetable matter, combined richly with which constituted its component parts. It is particularly adapted to thin or exhausted lands, and with its judicious application will give the desired vigor to the growing plants, its great value will be realized in the quality of fruit produced.

AMMONIA, SOLUBLE PHOSPHATES & POTASH,

We can only offer a limited amount of this pure and valuable article to our friends this season.

NORRIS & MYATT Agents,
Raleigh, N. C.

feb 17-tf.

M. T. NORRIS, W. A. MYATT.

NORRIS & MYATT,

GROCERS, COTTON FACTORS

—AND—

Commission Merchants.

No. 3 Exchange Place and No. 5 Martin Street,

Consignments Solicited and Prompt Returns Guaranteed.

FLOUR, FLOUR, FLOUR.

We are constantly receiving, and will keep on hand a large lot of Flour, which we guarantee to give perfect satisfaction.

We also keep White Bolted Meal.

NORRIS & MYATT.

MEAT, MEAT, MEAT.

Our stock of Meat, Clear Rib Sides and Shoulders, is complete We guarantee to MEET the demands of the trade both in quality and prices.

We always have on hand Marshall's Factory filled Salt, only $2.25 per sack.

NORRIS & MYATT.

IRISH POTATOES.

10 bbls. Early Goodrich.
10 bbls. Early Rose
These forward brands of Potatoes we offer very low. Send in your orders to

NORRIS & MYATT.

feb 17-tf.

A. G. LEE. ED. H. LEE. CLE K. LEE.

A STRICTLY COMMISSION HOUSE.

A. G. LEE & SONS.

RALEIGH, N. C.

We give our entire attention to handling goods on COMMISSION, and therefore can handle to advantage consignments of

Corn,	Corn Meal.	Chickens,
Hay,	N. C. Flour,	Eggs,
Fodder,	" Bacon,	and all the
Shuck,	or Green Pork,	products of
Oats,	Beef,	the farm
Peas,	N. C. Hams,	or garden.

All of which we sell for cash, and are therefore able to make prompt returns. We solicit consignments from Western North Carolina, and the State generally.

We call attention to our friends in the city and neighboring country to the fact that we have made arrangements with shippers to have a constant supply of CORN on hand, and almost always have consignments of the other articles mentioned above. We have to sell for cash but will give you good goods.—Try us.

Cotton is our Specialty.

We can always obtain the highest market price, and ask our friends who find it inconvenient to accompany their lots to the market to try us. We can beat New York in the nett proceeds of your cotton.

When you bring your cotton to market yourself give us a chance at it. We have orders to fill and can pay the VERY HIGHEST market price for it. Be sure to call and see us before you sell.

We are the Agents for

The ORCHILLA GUANO and The SOUTH SEA GUANO

The SCHOFIELD COTTON PRESS, the best invented.

The DIAMOND COTTON CHOPPER—Every one warranted.

A. G. LEE & SONS.
P O. Box 222, Raleigh, N. C.

march 3 1f

$14 a Month Agents Wanted—Everywhere to sell our Cheapest Family Knitting Machine in the World. Will knit 25 pairs Stockings without Changing. Simple, Durable, Licensed. Warranted 5 years. Price $20. Local Agents Wanted. Address, JOHN HAINES & CO., Bridgeton, N. J.

MONEY AND HOW TO MAKE IT.

This new book tells how to make money fast. Every one buys it. Agents, Students, Lawyers, Doctors, Merchants, Farmers, Mechanics, Boys, Girls, Women, all want it. Any one can become rich by following the directions given. Sells at sight. Agents are coining money. Send for circulars, terms, &c., to J. WORTHINGTON & CO., Hartford, Conn.

feb 17-3m

P. S. ZIEGLER & CO.,
418 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa

A. H. TEMPLE,

(Successor to Lynn Adams,)

Grocer, Cotton Factor

AND

Commission Merchant.

Nos. 5 Martin St. and 5 Exchange Place.

Having succeeded to the business of Mr. Lynn Adams, I am prepared to offer to the public the best endeavors in my line and respectfully ask a continuance of the trade hitherto given Mr. Adams, promising to give satisfaction in all cases.

In addition to my regular line of goods, I have on hand a full took of the

STINSON WOOL HATS,

made in Wake county, and adapted especially to the farmer's use.

I have just returned from the North where I purchased a full line of choice groceries and am now daily adding to my stock. I promise those who may favor us with their custom to give them as good bargains as they can get elsewhere.

A. H. TEMPLE.

I most respectfully ask my former patrons and friends to go to Mr. Temple my successor, who will, I am assured, give satisfaction to all who deal with him.

I will still keep my office, as Cotton Factor in the same building.

LYNN ADAMS.

march 17 6-m

RESTORE YOUR SIGHT.

Spectacles Rendered Useless.

Save Your Eyes,

RESTORE YOUR SIGHT,

THROW AWAY YOUR SPECTACLES.

Old Eyes Made New.

All diseases of the Eye successfully treated by

Dr. J. BALL & CO.'S

NEW PATENT IMPROVED IVORY EYE CUPS.

Read for yourself and Restore your Sight.

Spectacles and Surgical Operations rendered useless. The Inestimable Blessing of Sight is made perpetual by the use of the new PATENT IMPROVED IVORY EYE CUPS.

Many of our most eminent physicians, oculists, students and divines have had their sight permanently Restored for life, and cured of the following diseases:

1. Impaired Vision; 2. Presbyopia, or Parsighted-ness, or Dimness of Vision, commonly called Blurring, 3. Asthenopia, or Weak Eyes; 4. Epiphora, Humidity or Watery Eyes; 5 Sore Eyes—specially treated with the Eye Cups—cure guaranteed; 6. Weakness of the Retina, or Optic Nerve; 7. Ophthalmia, or Inflammation of the Eye and its appendages, or imperfect vision from the effects of Inflammation; 8 Photophobia, or Intolerance of Light; 9. Overworked Eyes; 10. Muscæ Volitantes—moving specks or floating bodies before the eyes; 11. Amaurosis, or Obscurity of Vision; 12. Cataracts; Partial Blindness; the loss of Sight.

Any one can use the IVORY EYE CUPS without the aid of a doctor or medicine so as to prove beneficial or beneficial results and never wear spectacles; or, if using now, to lay them aside forever We guarantee a cure in every case where the directions are followed, or will refund the money.

2,309 CERTIFICATES OF CURE from honest Farmers, Mechanics and Merchants—some of them the most eminent leading professional and business men, and women of education and refinement, in our country—can be found at our office.

Under date of March 29 Hon. Horace Greely, of the New York Tribune, writes: "J. Ball, of our city, is a conscientious and responsible man who is incapable of intentional deception or imposition."

Prof W. Merrick, of Lexington, Ky., wrote, April 24th, 1872: "Without my spectacles I pen you this note, after using the PATENT IVORY EYE CUPS thirteen days, and this Morning perused the entire contents of a daily newspaper, and all with the unassisted eye.

"Truly am I grateful for your noble invention. May Heaven bless and preserve you. I have been using spectacles twenty years; I am seventy years old.

Truly yours, PROF. W. MERRICK."

Rev. Joseph Smith, Malden, Mass., cured of Partial Blindness of 13 years' standing, in one minute, by the PATENT IVORY EYE CUPS.

E. C. Ellis, late Mayor of Dayton, Ohio wrote us, Nov. 15th, 1872: "I have tested

Children's Column.

We continue to receive letters from our little friends answering questions propounded in this column and asking others. In some parts of the State into which the Advocate goes, the mail facilities are very poor and many of its readers do not receive it until the latter part of the week of its publication and, at some offices, not until the week following. So that those children who are on the lines of railroads or in places visited by frequent mails, read and answer the questions and have their answers published, before others in less accessible places, receive the paper. To some, therefore, it may seem strange that we are now publishing the names of children who send answers which have been given in the Advocate of two or three weeks ago But those whose names appear in this issue no doubt have searched the Bible as closely and studied it as carefully as those who obtained an earlier hearing.

J. H. W. Scarborough finds the chapter in which three verses are repeated 12 times, to be the 7th chapter of Numbers.

Mollie J. Hale and Charlie Plunpett Wheeler find 'headband' in Isaiah 3rd ch. 20th v.

Mattie J. E. Farrar, Alice Fincher Laura Sanders, and Fisher Paxton find the name of Candace, Queen of Ethiopia in Acts 8th ch. and 27th v.

Leonidas M. Chaffin, B. C. Reynolds and A. Robinson say that the 19th chap. 2nd Kings, and 37th chap. of Isaiah are alike Estella Albright, B. C. Reynolds, Mary A. Boyd, Mary Lee Hargrove, C. W. Hunt, Ada Elliott, and Robert E. Ware find the word 'ink' in 2nd John 12th verse and 3rd John 13th verse.

Anna C. Woodburn, James R. Robinson Henry Pulliam and Mamie B. Fleming find the word 'satyrs' in Isaiah 13th chap. 21st verse and in 34th chap. 14th verse Nannie A. Woodburn, Addie Brothers Mamie B. Fleming Willie A. Faison Rachel E Clayton find that the 5th verse of 35th chap. of Numbers has 57 words.

Nannie A. Woodburn and Nannie E. Guthrie answer that King Ahaz broke the brazen serpent and called it Nehushtan.

The following find that Elisha made an iron ax-head swim, as related in 2nd Kings 6th chap. and 6th verse: to wit: Anna C. Woodburn, Walter B Steele Mattie J. E. Farrar, Carrie Bizzell, Mary Lee Hargrove, Maggie B. McKay Nannie E Guthrie.

Nannie A Woodburn, Mary A. Boyd, Mattie J. E. Farrar and Maggie B. McKay say that the disciples were first called Christians in Antioch. See Acts. 11th chap. 25th verse.

Lukettio Mitchell, Alice Finher, Mattie J. E. Farrrr, Carrie Bizzell Laura Sanders, Fisher Paxton, and Linna Leard say that Joseph shaved himself before going into the presence of Pharaoh; see Genesis 41st ch. 14 v.

Jas Robinson and Linna Leard find that Job also shaved himself: Job 1st ch. 20 v.

Pharaoh changed Joseph's name to Zaphnath—Panneah because he had the spirit of God in him and was wise and discreet. Genesis 41st ch. 45 v. Nannie A. Woodburn, Lukettie Mitchell. S. Rossie Dixon, Warie E. Bell, Alice Fincher, Annie E. Webb, Jas. R. Robins, C. W. Hunt, Laura Sanders, Fisher Paxton, Linna Leard, Oller Clegg Bynum Nannie E. Guthrie.

Cora L. Clayton, M. A. Harrison and Henry Pullian, find the word 'melon' in Num. 11th ch. and 5th v.

QUESTIONS.

Miss Mary Lee Hargrove asks the little readers of the Advocate to tell her what words were first transmitted over the telegraphic wires and where found in the Bible.

Robert E. Ware asks where in the Bible the word occurs which contains the following letters: k, h, h, o b r i h a a a a t t o.

Miss Linna Leard asks where the curse contained in the following letters, is written a a a a a a n n t t h h m m e r.

Miss Estella Albright, a little "nine year old girl" writes her own letter and asks what woman is mentioned in the Bible, whose heart God opened; how many times the word 'salt' occurs in the Bible; and how many times the word 'pearl' is found in Revelations·

Miss Carrie Bizzell asks what damsel had her destiny decided at a well of water.

Miss Anneva Robinson asks what two persons mentioned in the Bible boughed the horses taken in war and where an account of it is given.

Miss Maria E. Bell asks why Gentiles have a right to the Saviour by lineage.

Walter B. Steele writes to know what king had seven sons hanged, why were they hanged and where the account of it is given.

Miss Lukettie Mitchell asks "Uncle Betts or some of my little friends" why the christian era dates four (4) years after the birth of Christ.

A. J. Edwards asks where the word college occurs in the Bible.

Several have asked which is the shortest verse in the Bible, and what verse, contains every letter of the alphabet, i and j being considered the same.

Miss Anna C. Woodburn asks the ministers of the N. C. Conference, how many little Methodists, under 14 years of age there are in the conference and how many of that number are S. S. Scholars.

DEAR ADVOCATE: I find the word "Melons" in Numbers the 11th chap. 5th verse. Mother says it is easy enough for little girls to find "melons" "figs" and "grapes" that grand mother Eve before us had a weakness that same way, at fruit finding. Find the word "distracted."

Your little reader,

LUCY D. HAYS.

Farm, Garden & Household.

Raise More Corn and Pork.

The great trouble with our farmers of late years is, that too much attention is paid to cotton to the great disparagement of corn growing. The cotton mania, engendered by the high prices of that staple in the New York market at the close of the war, has opened up in its wake a series of trouble, which can be obliterated only by giving that attention to the production of broad and meat which is conducive of and indispensable to the comfortable and thriving condition of our section especially. While we would not be understood as averse to the growing of cotton, yet it is our opinion that the production of a sufficiency of breadstuffs and live stock should be the first and most important consideration with every farmer. It is a lamentable fact that nine-tenths of our farmers are compelled to buy pork and corn every year. They run an account with their country store, which, at the end of the year, eats up about all they realize from cotton, and are absolutely living year in and year out from hand to mouth. Now, where and when this state of things is to end, the Lord only knows. The lands are wearing out and nothing is being laid up for the future. Fine state of things!—We say, and we are in earnest, (as we always are when something to eat is the object,) plant less cotton and raise more corn and pork.—Washington Echo.

Waste of Home Resources.

A correspondent of the Southern Farm and Home speaking of the extravagant use of commercial fertilizers to the neglect of home manures, states that in a recent journey of some extent through the South he found the plantation outhouses crammed with fertilizers. In a few very few instances these were bought for cash at $60 to $70 per ton, with heavy outlays, but in the majority of cases the purchases were on time, with the addition of 20 per cent, to cash prices, payment being secured by a factor's acceptance, for which a charge was made of about 2 per cent, per month, the factor receiving a lien on crops, stock, &c. Yet at these plantations no effort was made to save home made manure; the stable manure which, if properly cared for, would have equaled several tons of the chemical fertilizers in value, was left uncovered and exposed to the washing of rain till rendered almost worthless.

A New England gentleman writes that during the Summer of 1871 he visited the towns in the vicinity for the purpose of observing the current methods of farm management. He found that on a large number of the farms manurial liquids were wholly wasted. More than one-half of the barns were without cellars, and the manure was thrown from their windows into the open yard, where it lay exposed to rains, causing rapid decay of the lower boards and sills of the barn, and losing a very large proportion of its valuable elements.—Yet farmers guilty of this waste were buying superphosphate at $60 per ton.—MARYLAND FARMER.

Minute Pudding.—Put some milk over the fire with a little essence of lemon; let it boil; then, having made a large cup of flour to a smooth paste with a little cold milk, stir it by degrees into the boiling milk; let it boil, stirring all the time until it is thick; then dip a bowl in cold water pour the pudding in it, and let it cool a little before turning it out of the bowl; eat with butter and sauce, or milk and sugar. You will soon learn the quantity of milk to use.

Pimples, Eruptions, Rough Skin.

The system being put under the influence of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for a few weeks, the skin becomes smooth, clear, soft, and velvety, and being illuminated with the glow of perfect health from within, true beauty stands forth in all its glory. The effects of all medicines which operate upon the system through the medium of the blood are necessarily some what slow, no matter how good the remedy employed. While one to three bottles clear the skin of pimples, blotches, eruptions, yellow spots, comedones, or 'grubs,' a dozen may possibly be required to cure some cases where the system is rotten with scrofula or virulent blood poisons. The cure of all these diseases, however, from the common pimple to the worst scrofula, is, with the use of the most potent agent, only a matter of time, Sold by dealers in medicines.

COVERED WITH ERUPTIONS, CURED.

CLAVERACK, Columbia Co., N Y.

Dr. R V. Pierce Buffalo, N. Y:

Dear Sir—I am sixty years of age, and have been afflicted with Salt Rheum in the worst form for a great many years, until, accidently, I saw one of your books, which described my case exactly. I bought your Golden Medical Discovery and took two bottles and a half, and was entirely cured. From my shoulders to my hands I was entirely covered with eruptions, also on face and body. I was likewise afflicted with Rheumatism, so that I walked with; great difficulty, and that is entirely cured. May God spare you a long life to remain a blessing to mankind. What untold gratitude.

Mrs. A. W. WILLIAMS.

march 24 1-t

A Royal Organ.

The stomach has been well named a "royal organ," since, it sways and controls the entire system, every gland, tissue and nerve sympathizing with it as the servants of a prince sympathise with their master. Each one of them is fed and sustained by it—even the brain itself, the centre of sensation, is absolutely dependent upon it for sustenance. Consequently, when the stomach fails to perform its all-important office the subordinate organs also falter in their duty. The reason why Hostetter's Stomach Bitters have such wondrously beneficial effect upon the general health and are such a reliable preventive of disease, is that, they speedily overcome weakness or disorders of the stomach, and thus insure complete nourishment of the entire system and a healthful performance of its various functions. Unlike those stimulants whose alcoholic principle is unmodified by judicious medication, the spiritous basis of these Bitters, which is of the purest description, holds in solution herbal alteratives and invigorants to which a foremost rank has been assigned in materia medica. But it is not alone the fact that these sovereign botanic elements enter into the composition of the Bitters that constitutes them such a benign tonic and corrective, but also that they are so happily combined that the full effect of each is exerted upon the disordered or debilitated system. The digestive and secretive organs are the first to experience their beneficial influence, which extends, by sympathy, to the brain, the nerves and the circulation. The influence thus exerted is fruitful of those great sanitary results which have built up the reputation of this truly national medicine.

march 17 1-f

A MAN OF A THOUSAND.

A Consumptive Cured

When death was hourly expected from Consumption, all remedies having failed, accident led to a discovery whereby Dr. H. James cured his only child with a preparation of Spanish Indian. He now gives this receipt free on receipt of two stamps to pay expenses. There is not a single symptom of consumption that it does not distinctly—Night Sweats, Irritation of the Nerves, Difficult Expectoration, Sharp Pains in the Lungs, Nausea at the Stomach Inaction of the Bowels, and Wasting of the Muscles. Address CRADOCK & CO., 1032 Race Street, Philadelphia Pa., give name of this paper.

Oct 21 3 m o w

Important Sale

OF

Personal and Real Estate.

We offer for sale on private terms one fine Stallion, YOUNG CANTON," a very superior and vigorous horse.

One COW.

Some Plows, Hoes and Gear.

One excellent Magnolia Light Draft Gin and Ball Press, both good as new.

Eleven or twelve hundred Acres of Land, part in wood (oak, hickory, &c.) and part freshly cleared and in cultivation. Will cut it up into small tracts to suit purchasers.

Young CANTON will be sold to the HIGHEST BIDDER on Tuesday of the next term of Court a Pittsboro, unless previously sold.

T. W. HARRIS.
J. B. HARRIS.

Executors of T. B. Harris, Deceased.

March 3-1

JOHN SAUL'S

Catalogue of

New, Rare and Beautiful Plants

FOR SPRING OF 1875.

Will be ready in February with a colored plate free to all my customers, to others price 25 cents. A plain copy to all applicants free.

Feb 10-4w

WASHINGTON, D. C.

Important Sale

OF

Personal and Real Estate.

We offer for sale on private terms one fine Stallion, YOUNG CANTON," a very superior and vigorous horse.

One COW.

Some Plows, Hoes and Gear.

One excellent Magnolia Light Draft Gin and Ball Press, both good as new.

Eleven or twelve hundred Acres of Land, part in wood (oak, hickory, &c.) and part freshly cleared and in cultivation. Will cut it up into small tracts to suit purchasers.

Young CANTON will be sold to the HIGHEST BIDDER on Tuesday of the next term of Court a Pittsboro, unless previously sold.

T. W. HARRIS.
J. B. HARRIS.

Executors of T. B. Harris, Deceased.

March 3-1

DR. C. M'LANE'S

CELEBRATED

LIVER PILLS,

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder-blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for a rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, feels cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. M'LANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them A FAIR TRIAL.

Address all orders to

FLEMING BROS., PITTSBURGH, PA.

P. S. Dealers and Physicians ordering from others than Fleming Bros., will do well to write their orders plainly, and take special care to C. M'Lane's Pills, by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa. To those wishing, give them a trial, we will forward per mail, postpaid, any part of the United States, one box of Pills on receipt of twelve three-cent postage stamps, or one vial of Vermifuge for fourteen three-cent stamps. All orders from Canada must be accompanied by twenty cents extra.

Sold by all respectable Druggists and Country Store keepers generally.

Dr. C. M'Lane's Vermifuge

Should be kept in every nursery. If you would have your children grow up to be HEALTHY, STRONG, and VIGOROUS MEN and WOMEN, give them a few doses of

M'LANE'S VERMIFUGE,

TO EXPEL THE WORMS.

Be BEWARE OF IMITATIONS

NEW ARRIVALS FOR

1875 SPRING. 1875.

A large lot RIGGLES'S Shoes and Gaiters for Ladies and Misses. CANFIELD'S and Burt's popular hand-made

BOOTS and GAITERS,

for Gentlemen. A splendid assortment of both.

A beautiful lot of FOX GAITERS, for Ladies and Misses.

25,000 yards

Bleached and Unbleached Shirting, Sheating and Drilling.

all widths, bought at lowest prices before the advance and will be sold low.

A beautiful lot of

SPRING PRINTS.

The handsomest line of Black Silks, Moraire and All pacca in the city and at lowest prices.

We are now offering the remainder of our Winter Goods at greatly reduced prices to make room for our Spring Stock. We have a good variety of

Carpets
Hemp do
Drugget Cloth,
Floral Oil Cloth, different widths,
Check Matting.
Rugs, &c., at

PETTY & JONES,

No. 20 FAYETTEVILLE ST.

feb 24-1f

A. MONEY SAVED BY Buying the Comfort Heating Stove.

B. EVERYBODY SHOULD Buy the ROBERT E. LEE Cook Stove, made in Richmond, Va.

C. IT IS A FULL SIZED Cook Stove, having immense ovens.

D. BEST ASSORTMENT and largest stock of Buggy Whips in the city.

E. BUY A BOX OF WAX Tapers, large stock, low price.

F. WAGON AND BUGGY material of all kind.—Call and buy of

T. H. BRIGGS & SONS,

RALEIGH, N. C.

dec 16-tf

PLEASANT GARDEN ACADEMY

Male and Female.

The Spring session will begin Dec. 29th 1874, and continue six months.

Board per month $9.00
Tuition From $1,50 to $3,00
One half in advance.

ADVANTAGES.

Low price of board and tuition, healthy and quiet location, Sabbath school and religious services every Sunday.

Conveyance from Greensboro furnished if notice is given.

For particulars Address,

R. P. TROY A, M. Principal,
Greensboro N, C·

REFERENCE.

REV. B. CRAVEN D. D. Trinity College.
" W. H. BOBBITT. Raleigh.
" N H. D. WILSON, D. D. Greensboro.

Dec 2-3m

VINEGAR for only five cents a gallon. Best process in existence. Receipt for $1. J. A STEWART.

feb 24-3 m ow. Henderson, N. C.

OLD NORTH STATE

FIRE

Insurance Company.

OF

WARRENTON, - - - N. C.

Capital Stock, $107.600.00

ASSETTS:

Mortgages on Real Estate	$ 45 050,10
National Bank Stock	1 00a,0o
Solvent Stock Notes	51, 5o 10
Cash and Loans on Call	2 ,o2 98
Due from Agents	2 60o 02
Agents Supplies	826 89
Office furniture (Safe, &c)	796.16
Accrued Interest	330,0
	$ 122,995 65

LIABILITIES:

Amount necessary to reinsure all unexpired risks on the basis of the New York law, $10,00o.

$1 229 Assets to Every $100 of Total New Liabilities.

According to the past experience of the Company we have

$2,458 Assets to Every $100 of Total Liabilities

OFFICERS:

Col. W. S. DAVIS President.
N. R. JONES, Vice-President.
B F. LONG, Secretary.
WM J. NORWOOD, Treasurer
T. C. WILLIAMS, Supervisor.

1874. FALL STOCK. 1874.

NEW GOODS! GOOD QUALITY!!

LOW PRICES!!!

—o—

JOS. P. GULLEY,

RETAILER AND JOBBER OF

Dry Goods, Notions, Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Trunks, Valises, White Goods, &c., &c.,

RALEIGH, N. C.

My large and carefully selected stock for the Fall and Winter is now in store, and I respectfully invite all in search of good goods and low prices, to call and examine for themselves.

BURT'S GAITERS and BOOTS FOR GENTS.

To those who have bought and used these goods we need only to say that we have a full line of them—For durability and neatness of fit they are unexcelled.

Also Mlle's and Graff's hand made shoes for the Ladies.

PRINTS! PRINTS! PRINTS!

A large stock of the latest patterns, at prices that cannot be excelled.

Respectfully,

JOSEPH P. GULLEY.

Corner Fayetteville and Market Square.

oct 7-1y

FROM

HENRY J. BROWN,

Opposite Masonic Hall.

RALEIGH, N. C.,

UNDERTAKER,

Keeps on hand Fisk's Metallic Burial Cases, Self Sealing Metallic Burial Cases, and Walnut and other Wood Coffins HEARSE FOR HIRE.

Also Dealer in Furniture. Repairing and Varnishing Promptly Executed.

ov 18-1f

1874. FALL AND WINTER 1874.

GOODS.

D. S. WAITT & BRO.

are offering a LARGE and ATTRACTIVE stock of

FINE AND CHEAP CLOTHING,

GENTS FURNISHING GOODS AND NECK WEAR

Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps,

OVERCOATS, SHAWLS AND RUBBER GOODS.

Manhatten Fine White Shirts,

MARINO SHIRTS, DRAWERS AND HOSIERY.

PAPER AND LINEN COLLARS, Suspenders, Handerchiefs and Yankee Notions,

Fancy and Domestic Dry Goods,

Black Alpacca's, Corded Alpacca's, Plaid Worsted.

Figured and Plain Delaines,

Red, White and Figured Flannels, Opera Flannels,

WHITE AND BROWN BLANKETS,

Counterpins, Comforters, Bed Quilts & Spreads

LADIES STRIPED AND PLAID SHAWLS,

Breakfast Shawls, Knit Socks, Jackets and Hoods,

GINGHAMS, PLAID HOMESPUNS AND TICKINGS,

Brown and Bleached Sheetings and Shirtings,

CORSETS, JEANS, CAMBRICS, AND LININGS,

Trunks, Valises, Umbrellas, Travelling Bags, &c.

I have this day associated with me my brother, Capt. GEO. N. WAITT, formerly Conductor on the North Carolina Railroad, and the firm of D. S. Waitt will hereafter be known as

D. S. WAITT & BROTHER.

To my friends and the public generally, I return my thanks for the liberal patronage bestowed, and respectfully solicit a continuation of the same for the future. Country merchants who buy in the city would do well to examine our stock which is now complete in every department.

D. S. WAITT.

Jan 13-1f

POPULAR AND USEFUL BOOKS

Royal Diadem. (S. S. Note)	$2
Amaranth, " "	2
Bright Jewels, " "	3
Happy Voices. "	3
The Chart. "	3
The Morning Star "	2
Pure Gold. "	3
Songs of Salvation. " "	3
Wesleyan Catechisms No. 1,	50
Wesleyan " No. 2,	75
Wesleyan " No. 3,	1.00
Bibles, (pocket size) from 75 a	5.00
Bibles, Family, from 3.00 to	9.00
Children of the Abbey 12mo cloth,	1.50
Robinson Crusoe, 12mo cloth,	1.50
Shakespeare, 12mo cloth	1.50
Pilgrims Progress, 12mo cloth, pictorial,	1.25
Methodist Hymn and Tune Books, 12mo cloth,	75
Ready Reckoners, from 25 cts to	60
Little Writers, (board covers) 50 to	60
Life of Daniel Boon, 12mo cloth,	1.50
Bible Dictionary, (the best)	1.75
Picture Books (highly illustrated) from 50cts to	2.00
Methodist Hymn Books from 50 cts to	4.00
Baptist Hymn Books, from 75 to	2.50
Presbyterian Hymn Books, from 50 cts	2.50
Episcopal Prayer Books, from 75 cts to	5.00
Photograph Albums, from 75 cts to	6.00
Major Jones Courtship, paper cover,	75
Abbotts Mary Queen of Scotts,	1.50
Abbotts Queen Elizabeth,	1.50
Abbotts Maria Antoinette,	1.50
Aesop's Fables,	1.50
Arabian Knights Entertainment,	1.50

Send cash and add 10 cents on the dollar, and I will mail any of the above.

☞ Order any other book you want.

L. BRANSON,
Raleigh, N. C.

april 8-12m

TRINITY COLLEGE.

The next half-session will commence Jan. 15th 1875, and end June 10th.

Whole expense for all items, books and clothing excepted, from $90 to $100. In addition to the best collegiate advantages, many inducements are offered to students of the Select, or Preparatory course.

B. CRAVEN,
Pres.

Jan 6 3m.

SCHEDULES.

PIEDMONT & AIR-LINE RAILWAY.

—o—

RICHMOND & DANVILLE, RICHMOND & DANVILLE R. W., N. C. DIVISION, and NORTH WESTERN N. C. R. W.

—o—

CONDENSED TIME-TABLE.

In effect on and after Sunday, Dec. 27th, 1874.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	MAIL.	EXPRESS.
Leave Charlotte	10.01 P. M	8.35 A. M.
" Air-Line Junction	10 08 "	8.56 "
" Salisbury	12.20 A. M	10.04 "
" Greensboro'	3.43 "	1.15 P. M.
" Danville	6.13 "	3.36 "
" Dundee	6.25 "	3.48 "
" Burkville	11.33 "	8.29 "
Arrive at Richmond	2.30 P. M.	11.10 P. M.

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	AIR.	EXPRESS.
Leave Richmond	1.35 P. M	5.05 A. M.
" Burkville	4.4. "
" Dundee	9 25 "
" Danville	9 29 "	1.12 P. M.
" Greensboro	12.35 A. M.	4.16 "
" Salisbury	2.21 "	6.01 "
" Air Line Junction	6.15 "	8.02 "
Arrive at Charlotte	6.22 A. M	8.40 "

GOING EAST.		GOING WEST
STATIONS.	Mail.		Mail.
Leave Greensboro'	3.35 A. M.	Arrive	11.30 A. M.
" Co. Shops	5. 6 "	Leave	10.15 "
" Raleigh	8.45 "	"	6.58 "
Arrive at Goldsboro'	11.25 A. M	Leave	2.35 P. M.

NORTH WESTERN N. C. R. R

(SALEM BRANCH.)

Leave Greensboro'	4.25 P. M.
" at Salem	6.0 "
Leave Salem	9.20 A. M
Arrive at Greensboro	1.15 "

Passenger trains leaving Raleigh at 7.55 P. M. connects at Greensboro' with the Northern bound trains; making the quickest time to all Northern cities. Price of Tickets same as via other routes.

Trains to and from points East of Greensboro connect at Greensboro with Mail Trains to or from points North or South.

Two trains daily, both ways.

On Sundays Lynchburg Accommodating leave Richmond at 9.00 A. M., arrive at Burkville 12.43 P. M., leave Burkeville 4.35 A. M., arrive at Richmond 7.55 A. M.

Pullman Palace Cars on all night trains between Charlotte and Richmond, without change.

Papers that have arrangements to advertise the schedule of this company will please print as above.

For further information address

S. K ALLEN,
Gen'l Ticket Agent.
Greensboro, N. C.

T. M. R. TALCOTT,
Engineer & Gen'l Superintendent.

—o—

CHANGE OF SCHEDULE

RALEIGH & GASTON RAILROAD CO.

On and after Friday, May 22nd, 1874 trains on the Raleigh & Gaston Railroad will run daily (Sunday excepted) as follows:

MAIL TRAIN.

Leave Raleigh	9.45 A. M.
Arrive at Weldon	3.30 P. M.
Leaves Weldon	9.30 A. M.
Arrives at Raleigh	3.45 P. M.

ACCOMMODATION TRAIN.

Leaves Raleigh	5.15 A. M.
Arrives at Weldon	5.15 P. M.
Leaves Weldon	2.4. A. M.
Arrives at Raleigh	2.45 P. M.

Mail train makes close connection at Weldon, with the Seaboard and Roanoke Railroad and Bay Line Steamers via Baltimore, to and from all points North, West and Northwest, and with Petersburg Railroad via Petersburg, Richmond and Washington City, to and from all points North and Northwest.

Also at Raleigh with the North Carolina Railroad to and from all points South and Southwest, and with the Raleigh & Augusta Air Line to Hayswood and Fayetteville.

A. B ANDREWS,
Gen. Supt.

—o—

RALEIGH & AUGUSTA AIR-LINE RAILROAD.

SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE,
Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 25th, 1874.

On and after Monday, October 26th, 1874, trains on the R. & A. A. L. Road will run daily, (Sundays excepted,) as follows:

MAIL TRAIN.

Train leaves Raleigh,	4.00 P. M.
Arrives at Sanford,	6.25 "
Train leaves Sanford,	6.30 A. M
Arrives at Raleigh	9.25 "

FREIGHT TRAIN.

Leaves Raleigh,	5.15 A. M.
Arrives at Sanford	10.35 A. M.
Leaves Sanford,	11.00 A. M
Arrives at Raleigh	3.5 P. M.

Mail Train makes close connection at Raleigh with the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad, to and from all points North.

And at Sanford with the Western Railroad, to and from Fayetteville and points on Western Railroad.

A. B. ANDREWS,
Superintendent.

—o—

OFFICE SUPT. OF TRANSPORTATION,
Seaboard & Roanoke R. R. Co.,
Portsmouth, Va., Jan. 1st, 1875.

On and after this date, trains of this Road will leave Weldon daily, Sundays excepted, as follows:

Mail train at	4 P. M.
No. 1 Freight train at	4 A. M.
No. 2 Freight train at	8 A. M.

ARRIVE AT PORTSMOUTH.

Mail train at	7.15 P. M.
No 1 Freight at	12.00 NOON.
No 2 Freight at	4.00 P. M.

Freight trains have a passenger car attached.

Steamer for Clinton, Plum onth and Landings on Blackwater and Chowan Rivers leave Franklin at 7.10 A M. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays

E. G. CHIO,
Supt. Trans ortation

S. COLLINS & CO.,

Manufacturers of

PRINTING INK,

26 Frankfort St., New York.

Agent in North Carolina, W. H. Bernard, STAR, Wilmington of, where these inks can be obtained.

Jan 27-3m

STIEFF

GRAND, SQUARE, AND UPRIGHT

PIANOS

Have received upwards of FIFTY FIRST PREMIUMS and are among the best now made. Every instrument fully warranted for five years. Prices as low as the excessive use of the very best materials and the most thorough workmanship will permit. The principal pianists and composers, and the piano-purchasing public of the South especially, unite to the unanimous verdict of the superiority of the STIEFF PIANO. The DURABILITY of our instruments is fully established by over sixty school and colleges in the South, using over 300 of our Pianos

Sole Wholesale Agents for several of the principal manufacturers of Cabinet and Parlor Organs; prices from $50 to $600. A liberal discount to Clergymen and Sabbath schools.

A large assortment of second-hand Pianos at prices ranging from $75 to $250, always on hand.

Send for Illustrated Catalogue, containing names of over 600 Southerners, who have bought and are using the Stieff Piano.

CHARLES M. STIEFF,
Warerooms, No. 9 North Liberty street,
Baltimore, Md.

Factories, 84 & 86 Camden st. and 45 & 47 Perry st.

Dec 16-12m

FURNITURE

W. H. Morris & Co

No. 3 Fayetteville Street.

RALEIGH, N. C.

Dealers in all kinds of furniture, such as Walnut Chamber Sets, Cottage Chamber Sets, Parlor Sets, Dining Room Sets, Bedsteads, Bureaus, Wardrobes, Washstands, Tables, Chairs, Sofas, Lounges, Spring Beds of various patterns, Cribs and Cradles in great variety of styles, patterns and prices. Wood and Marble top centre tables &c.

ALSO

keeps constantly on hand and make to order all kind of Mattresses, such as pure Curled Hair, Cotton and Shuck. Excelsior and Shuck Mattresses. Old Hair Mattresses renovated and made as good as new.

No trouble to show goods. Call and examine before purchasing elsewhere.

W. H. MORRIS & CO.

nov 20-1f

READ THIS

I will give any one an opportunity to make from $2 to $5 per day to work for me. Work easy and light A boy 10 years old can fill the bill. Send stamp for particulars. Apply to

B. L POWELL. Warrenton N. C·

nov. 25 12 m.

WIRE RAILING & ORNAMENTAL Wire Works.

Dufur & Co.,

86 North Howard Street, Baltimore, Md

Manufacture WIRE RAILING for cemeteries, Balconies, &c., SHRIEVE, FENCES, CAGES, SAND AND COAL SCREENS, WOVEN WIRE, &c. Also, IRON BEDSTEADS Chairs, Settees, &c., &c.

Feb 10-12m

A NEW BOOK.

Life, Sermons, and Speeches

OF

Rev. N. F. Reid, D. D.

LATE OF THE

NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

BY HIS SONS

James W and Frank L. Reid.

A handsome volume of 536 pages.

A fine Steel Engraving of Dr. Reid in each copy.

NOW READY FOR DELIVERY.

BE SURE TO GET A COPY.

Price in Banker's gilt edge. $3.50.
" " Cloth. 2 00.

Agents wanted to whom liberal commissions will be made. Single copies sent by mail, postage paid, on receipt of retail price

Address, REV P L. REID, Louisburg, N. C. or JAS. W. REID, Wentworth N. C.

G. T. LEACH, N. Y. M. T. LEACH

Leach Brothers,

WHOLESALE GROCERS

AND

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

North East Corner Market, Square, Raleigh, N. C

Again we take great pleasure in presenting our card and returning thanks to the readers of the ADVOCATE for their very liberal patronage during the past ten years, and offer them the largest and best bought stock of Groceries ever offered in any market south of Baltimore, and while just now Bacons, Sugars and Lard are very scarce and high, we have made extra effort and feel sure we have succeeded in bringing other goods equally low and in end giving our friends all the advantages gained thereby to counter balance any advance in the few goods named

We wish to invite especial attention to our select stock of staple Groceries and Boots bought direct from the Factories and offered here AT FIRST PROFITS.

We have now in store:

5,000 lbs. Rio Coffees,
10 Mats old Gov. Java,
10 Bbls. A sugar,
10 Bbls Ex C Sugar,
10 Bbls. B F Yellow Sugar,
21 Bbls Demarara,
20 Boxes Bulk Sides,
" " shoulders,
50 Kegs English Soda,
1,000 lbs. G, D and Sole Leather,
100 Sides Upper Leather,
50 " Harness Leather,
100 Cases O sters,
20 " Brandy Peaches,
5,000 Yds. Bagging,
6,000 lbs. Ties,
150 Bbls. Super Flour,
100 Bags Assorted Shot,
30 Bbls Extra Flour,
500 Cases Forrester's Crackers,
0 " Soda Crackers,
60 Boxes Factory and Dairy Cheese,
8,000 W P. and G. D. Cuno Caps,
1 Kegs Burden Horse and Mule Shoes,
200 lbs. Horse Shoe Nails,
20 Dozen Best Axes,
50 Boxes Adamantine Candles,
100 Boxes Laundry and Toilet Soaps.

We offer special inducements to country and nearby merchants, and invite an examination of our stock of goods before purchasing elsewhere.

Oct 7-12 m LEACH BROS

C. WEST & SONS,

ALADDIN SECURITY OIL.

The best Oil in use.

Warranted 150 Degrees Fire Test.

Water White in Color.

Fully Deodorized.

AND IT WILL NOT EXPLODE.

It burns in all Coal Oil and Kerosene Lamps.

TRY IT. Ask for "Aladdin Security" and take no other.

C. WEST & SONS,

113 and 115 W. Lombard St., Baltimore, Md.

Nov 18-6m

J. C. S. LUMSDEN,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

TIN AND SHEET IRON WARE,

Stoves, &c., in Great Variety.

THE STONEWALL is the Largest, Heaviest and Best Cook Stove in the Market.

Tin Roofing, Guttering & Piping a Specialty,

Fayetteville St., opposite the Market Pump,

oct 14-12m RALEIGH, N. C.

SPECULATORS IN SMOKE.

NEW CIGAR PALACE.

LEOPOLD BROS.,

Manufacturers Of Fine Cigars Only.

The Only Legitimate and Straightout Cigar House in Raleigh.

PATRONIZE HOME INDUSTRY.

12 Fine Brands manufactured in all concievable styles.

The very best IMPORTED and DOMESTIC STOCK used in our Cigars.

Our Brands of Cigars are as follows:

THE ROSE (Copyrighted.)
FLOR DE CUBA
THE FIGARO TWIST (Colebras.)
GOLDEN EAGLES, (Imported Stock.)
THE PRINCIPE.
THE OPERA ROSE.
FLOR DEL FUMAR
OLD PLANTATION.
LITTLE MAIMEE.
THE PARLOR

All Orders Punctually Attended to.

In course of manufacture, a great brand of Cigar, entitled the

"RALEIGH GEM."

Call and sample at

No. 57 Fayetteville Street,
Opposite Market,
RALEIGH, N. C.

L. R. WYATT. R. L. BINGHAM.

Wyatt, Bingham & Co.

Wholesale and Retail Grocers,

COTTON FACTORS

AND GENERAL

Commission Merchants,

No. 4 Market St. and No. 5 Market Exchange,

RALEIGH, N. C.

We tender our many thanks to our several customers and friends for their liberal patronage, and hope to merit a continuance of the same by our strict personal and prompt attention to our business, and by offering to them our large and well selected stock of

BOOTS, SHOES, HATS and CAPS,

Staple Dry Goods,
Cotton Yarns,
Sheetings,
Alamance Plaids, and

General Merchandise,

all of which we guarantee to be as recommended, and to sell at the lowest prices.

OUR GROCERY DEPARTMENT

is complete, and we make FLOUR a specialty and guarantee the lowest prices at retail and wholesale, also the quality to be equal or superior to any offered in the market for the price.

BAGGING and TIES, SALT and NAILS always on hand and offered at the l

Raleigh Christian Advocate.

Bobbitt & Gray, Publishers. | Published in the Interests of Methodism in North Carolina. | $2.20 Per Annum, in Advance.

Vol. XXI.---No. 13. | Raleigh, N. C., Wednesday, March 31, 1875. | Whole No. 1,051.

Poetry.

For the Advocate.

"THE CURSE OF BLOOD."

Messrs. Editors: Will you allow a friend to throw out a few ideas, calculated to suggest a train of thought to the dear brethren who are so full of "The Curse of Blood"?

"Run it down."

"Whatever you have to say, my friends,
Whether witty, grave, or gay,
Condense it as much as ever you can,
And say it in the plainest way,
And whether you write of church affairs
Of particular things in town,
Just take a word of friendly advice—
Run it down.

"For if you get rambling over a page,
When a couple of lines would do,
Your better is scarcely so much, you see,
That the best looks plainly through;
So when you have a story to tell,
And would like a renown,
To make quite sure of your wish, my friends,
Run it down.

"When writing an article for the press,
Whether prose or verse, just try
To utter your thoughts in the fewest words,
And let them be crisp and dry;
And when it is finished, and you suppose
It is done exactly brown,
Just look it over again, and then
Run it down.

"For editors don't like to print
An article really long,
And the busy reader does not care
For a couple of yards of song;
So gather your wits in the smallest space,
If you'd wit the author's crown,
And every time you write, my friends,
Run it down."

IRISHMAN.

Communicated.

For the Advocate.

"The Curse of Blood"---The Reasons for Sending the Gospel to the Heathen.

Messrs. Editors: So far in this discussion, I have tried to show that the theory of the necessary damnation of all rational adult heathens, in the absence of the gospel, is out of harmony with the analogy of faith; that such a course is inconsistent with the benevolence of God's character and the justice of His dealings with man, as revealed in the Bible; that it would be manifestly unjust and cruel in Him to damn a heathen for not believing on Christ when he never heard and never could have heard of Him; that it would be equally hard in God to damn the heathen for a violation of the moral law, in the absence of the power to refrain from doing so, as well as the power to repent of such violation. I also tried, in my last article, to show that this theory concerning the heathen is plainly contradicted by Paul in the second chapter of Romans. I think I showed that the apostle just as plainly teaches the possibility of salvation in the case of the heathen Gentile, in the absence of the written law or Scriptures, as he does that of the Jew, under the old dispensation, with the word of God in his hands. In my second, third and fourth articles, I propounded and elaborated what was rather a hypothetical than a dogmatic theory concerning the required condition of heathen salvation. That it is faith in God's character, revealed to him through other means than the Scriptures, and through other facts than that of "Christ crucified." It remains only to show why we should send the gospel to the heathen, notwithstanding it is possible for him to be saved without it.

Before doing so, however, I can hardly refrain from noticing, very briefly, one or two other passages of Scripture relied on by the advocates of the theory I am opposing. Both Dr. Closs and Bro. Robey press Rom 10: 13-15 into their service. How strange it is that intelligent and able ministers of the gospel, such as these brethren are known to be, should make such a mistake in interpreting Scripture! Dr. C., in his reference to Bro Yates, gives us a clew to the mystery. He says "error involves even a vigorous mind in difficulties." The Doctor and Bro. R. will pardon me for applying this remark to them. The Doctor says he has been preaching his peculiar theory concerning the heathen some 30 years. Those who have heard him during that time will remember that his favorite proof text is the one under consideration, viz: "How shall they call on him in whom they have not believed," etc. The fact that the Doctor was a comparatively young man when he embraced this theory and first gave this interpretation of Paul, throws additional light upon his otherwise almost unaccountable mistake in this matter.—For, I cannot believe that he has, in his mature years, patiently and without bias from his theory, examined Paul's teaching in the second and tenth chapters of Romans. And, I really consider myself as arguing, virtually, with Bro. Closs, of 35 years of age, rather than with Doctor Closs of 65—with a man younger than myself, rather than with one many years my senior. But to the passage in question.

Our interpreters, as they did on Rom. 2: 12, seem entirely to have overlooked or mistaken the apostle's design in this passage. I am satisfied that Bro. Yates gave that design when he said it was "simply to show that the gospel is for the Gentiles as well as for the Jews; and to justify himself in going to the Gentiles." It is well known that the Jews of the apostle's day—even converted Jews—did not believe that the Gentiles were entitled to the privileges of the gospel, and hence held that it should not be preached to them. If I had time and space, I could demonstrate this fact; but I can only indicate the sources of proof. If any one doubts it, let him read the 10 and 11 chapters of Acts and the 9, 10 and 11 chapters of Romans. Indeed, this prejudice against the rights of the Gentiles was so inveterate that it seemed necessary for the Almighty to appear to Peter, a converted Jew and inspired apostle, in the vision of the "sheep" and "four footed beasts," etc., in order to overcome his prejudice. After God thus instructed him, he, with surprise and in the honesty of his heart, exclaimed, "Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons; but in every nation, he that feareth him and worketh righteousness is accepted with him." And when the converted Jews, who accompanied Peter to the house of Cornelius, saw that the Holy Ghost was given to the Gentiles they were "astonished." And when those at Jerusalem heard of Peter's course toward the Gentiles, they "contended with him" until he told them of his vision, etc. Now, let us remember that Paul was, by pre-eminence, the apostle to the Gentiles, and the champion of their rights—that he was specially called to preach the gospel to them. With this fact before us, it is easy to interpret the apostle in this passage. Let us examine the immediate context and see if this was not Paul's design here. From the 11th to 13th verse, inclusive, he uses this language: "For the Scripture saith, whosoever"—Jew or Gentile—"believeth on him shall not be ashamed. For there is no difference between the Jew and the Greek, for the same Lord over all is rich unto all that call upon him. For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved," whether he be Jew or Gentile. He then adds the passage in dispute: "How then shall they call on him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher? and how shall they preach except they be sent?" Now, bear in mind that the particular proposition the apostle is arguing here is the right of the Gentiles to the gospel and the duty of himself and others to go and preach the gospel to them. In support of this proposition he quotes from two of the Jewish prophets—Isaiah and Joel—to show that they taught that whosoever"—Jew or Gentile—should "believe" and "call on the Lord" Jesus Christ, under the gospel dispensation, should be saved. Now, says Paul, substantially, "Isaiah and Joel predict that the Gentiles shall be saved by believing and calling on Jesus.—But I ask how shall they believe and call on him of whom they have never heard? and how shall they hear of Him except others or myself go and preach Christ to them?" As if further to strengthen his position, he, in the same verse from which I have quoted, adds this passage from Isaiah: "How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the gospel of peace," etc., —that preach that gospel to the Gentiles, for he interprets Isaiah as referring to the Gentiles. Paul starts with the prophecy of Isaiah and Joel that the Gentiles should be saved under the present dispensation by faith in and calling upon Jesus Christ, and argues hence their right to the gospel and the duty of himself and others to go and preach it to them. Wesley makes the following note on the passage: "Thus by a chain of reasoning from God's will that the Gentiles also should call upon him, St. Paul infers that the apostles were sent by God to preach to the Gentiles also." The italics are mine. It is not pretended that this question is the only one or the main one that Paul discusses here and in this epistle.—His main design, as stated in my last, was the establishment of the doctrine of salvation by faith, rather than by works. His argument in this passage seems to have been rather subsidiary to his main design. He certainly was not discussing the possibility of heathen salvation, without the written gospel. He had, as we have seen, settled that question in their favor in the 2nd chapter of this epistle. His reasoning was, I repeat, simply this:—"The prophets predict as a coming fact, that the Gentiles will, under the present dispensation, be saved by faith in and calling on Jesus Christ, [they do not predict that in the absence of the gospel they may not be saved on some other condition.] I conclude hence that they are entitled to the gospel and that we should go and preach it to them." Not because they have no chance of salvation without the gospel, but for reasons that I shall give before I close. Paul does not teach here, then, as Dr. C. would have us believe, either directly or indirectly, that the heathen have no possibility of salvation in the absence of the written or preached gospel.—Equally inappropriate and inconclusive is the Doctor's quotation from Galatians: "And the Scripture foreseeing that God would justify the heathen through faith, preached before the gospel unto Abraham, saying in thee shall all nations be blessed." The unbiased and intelligent reader will see in this passage that Paul is teaching the same general truths to which I have already referred, viz: That the gospel was designed for the Gentiles —"all nations"—and that faith is the condition on which its blessings are received. There is not a word or intimation, either direct or indirect, as to the impossibility of heathen salvation where the gospel is not preached. But Bro. Robey asks: If the heathen may be saved without the preached gospel, why send it to them? He seems to intend that this question, in connection with the command to send the gospel to the heathen, shall have the force of an argument. In the question, he assumes that if they may be saved without the gospel, it is useless to send it to them. And with this promise, he makes that command prove that they cannot be saved without the gospel. But if his hypothetical argument proves anything, it proves too much. It proves that it is useless to preach any more in North Carolina. For, he certainly must admit that with the light our people have already received from the Bible, the Sabbath school and the pulpit, there is certainly a possibility of salvation in the case of all of them, if not another gospel sermon should ever be preached in the State. And just here do we see the principal objective reason for sending the gospel to heathen lands. It is that the already existing possibility of heathen salvation may be converted into a probability; and that a mere probability may be converted into an approximate certainty of salvation. That is what we labor for in gospel lands. We believe there is a possibility of salvation in the case of our children and others, without very special effort on our part; but we preach at home, in the Sunday school, at church and in our daily example, with the view of annihilating the difference between a bare possibility or probability and an approximate certainty of their salvation. And if this home work is of sufficient importance to warrant our giving ourselves so fully to it, and if its importance constitutes a sufficiently influential motive to move our people to liberality in its support, why should we look for other reasons and motives to induce them to support our foreign work?—Where is the necessity for inventing the unscriptural theory of the impossibility of heathen salvation, in the absence of the gospel, to move our people to greater liberality in support of missions?

But I am persuaded that the chief reason for the requirement that we send the gospel to the heathen is subjective—the reflex influence of our liberality and effort in that direction. We have the philosophy of the great commission or command in the short, but profound saying of Jesus that "it is more blessed to give than to receive." He had direct reference to the development of our benevolent natures, after the image of God, and the destruction of our natural selfishness by the reflex influence of our beneficence. When He gave the command to preach the gospel to every creature. It is a remarkable fact that the sacred writers rarely refer to the temporal or spiritual poverty of the objects of our beneficence, as a motive to liberality on our part. It is generally to the effect of such liberality on ourselves that they refer. "There is that scattereth and yet increaseth." "Honor the Lord with thy substance * * * so shall thy barns be filled with plenty." "The liberal soul shall be made fat." "Give and it shall be given." Paul does not portray, in dark colors, the poverty and suffering of the saints for whom he asked alms. He does not offer that as a motive to liberality, but rather the effect their liberality would have on them. It was not the extent of suffering or the measure of liberality—the absolute amount of money they were to give—that he called special attention to, but the spirit or feeling with which they were to give. He was anxious that they should have and cultivate the "grace" of liberality. "Every man according as he purposeth in his heart, so let him give, not grudgingly," etc. "For if there be first a willing mind, it is accepted," etc.

Nor are the domestic, social and political blessings, which the gospel carries to the heathen to be despised. The Bible certainly teaches that God is not indifferent to man's temporal comfort and well-being. The precepts of the gospel that we are to carry to the heathen have reference to man's happiness in this life—to the development of a higher and a christian civilization to the operation of humane and wholesome laws in the family and society at large.

But if the command to carry the gospel to the heathen were what divines call a "positive," rather than a "moral" precept—if there were no other apparent reason for carrying it to them than God's bare command—the obligation to do so would be just as binding as if we saw all His reasons. God's command, and not its apparent reasonableness constitutes the ground of our obligation to obedience.

But, Messrs. Editors, I will not pursue this subject further. My article is already too long, but I trust your readers will forgive me for its length when I assure them I intend it shall be my last on this vexed question.—And, now, trusting that the discussion has not been entirely unprofitable, and with best wishes and kindest feelings for all the parties to it, I leave the subject with you and your readers.—And, in the meantime, I pray that the Spirit of love and liberality may move us all to do more for the cause of the heathen than we have ever done in the past.

JNO. R. BROOKS.

Goldsboro, 15th March, 1875.

Indulgence of Taste.

Are Christians forbidden to give anything to their sense of graceful ness and beauty till the wants of all the poor are relieved? There are some who feel as if they were—who are at least perplexed about the matter; and some enemies of Christianity, on their side, have charged it with sacrificing the sense of beauty to an ascetic philanthropy. There can be no doubt that the spirit and example of the Bible every where urge us "to deal our bread to the hungry," and that the benevolence of Christians is far below its standard; but the anointing at Bethany is one of the proofs that there is room also left for "whatsoever things are lovely." There are two rules, however to be carefully remembered: First, that there be a due proportion in our expenditure, so that the demands of our taste may not trench on the claims of benevolence. Second, that the indulgence of taste should not weaken our moral and spiritual nature, but rather nerve it for all true and pure work. To this it may be added, that we should make our sense of beauty and grace, as far as we can, a common blessing—the heritage of the poor. "Even Christ pleased not himself."—Sunday Magazine.

Love is the world's leveler. Through its power the lowly are elevated and the mighty of the earth are refined.

Bismarck in Debate.

Bismarck is by no means a finished, not even a ready or natural, orator. The knightly appearance of the Prince, his ease of manner, and, above all, his reputation as diplomatist and statesman, would lead us to suppose him an orator—either one who would deliver a profound and well-arranged speech without hesitation or effort, or, still more, an orator of natural eloquence, whose words and figures would flow from his lips as the creations of the moment, and entrance or enkindle the hearts of his hearers. But this is not the case. Occasionally he may be seen at his desk winging his way rapidly with his quill over a narrow strip of paper, while some member is on the platform. All knew what this means, and at a slight bow of his head the President announces that Prince Bismarck, Chancellor of the Empire, has the floor. As he rises there is a general demand for silence all over the House, with the exclamation, "He is speaking!" He inclines his body toward the Assembly, winds his thumbs around each other, and casts an occasional glance at the House; but he stops, hesitates, sometimes even stammers, and corrects himself: he seem to struggle with his words, which ascend unwillingly to his lips; after two or three there will be a short pause, when one can almost hear a suppressed swallow. He speaks without gesture, feeling, or emphasis, and often fails in the accentuation of final syllables, so as to weaken his thought. One wonders if this is the man with a parliamentary career behind him of more than a quarter of a century, during which period he has been in every legislative body of his county, meeting with bitterest opposition from the Liberal party in his early career, parrying their most caustic words in kind, and replying, with wonderful presence of mind, by the wittiest impromptus or the most cutting sarcasm. It is the same man, and presently he will prove it. Gradually his speech flows with more warmth, and unfolds its peculiar attraction: a series of original, fresh, gritty, and significant expressions, which tell more by their power than their beauty. His speeches are collections of sentences rather than the development of a smooth and logical train of reasoning. Many of them have gone into history as proverbial, such as "Cataline existences," "Blood and Iron," "Austria must move its center of gravity toward the Orient," etc. Some months ago, after listening to long diatribes about the evils of the recent wars, and the burdens which they have brought upon the people as a nation, he quietly arose and said: "After each one of the recent wars the nation has enjoyed a greater amount of parliamentary liberty than before them." This was so strikingly true that it was folly to argue that they had led to tyranny. And he closed by saying: "But, nevertheless, gentlemen, the German nation has a right to expect from us that we shall prevent the return of such a catastrophe; and I am convinced that the allied governments desire nothing so much as to effect this purpose." With this beautiful admonition, simple though dignified, and expressed with fervor, he electrified the audience as if he were the greatest orator, and then sat down amid deafening applause from all parts of the House. Thus, with apparently no oratorical power, he seizes on takes the floor without confirming his nation in the belief that, take him all in all, he is a statesman such as Germany has never before enrolled in her annals, and whom the world at large may well envy her in possessing. —Prof. Wm. Wells; in Scribner for April.

Happiness

It is a false opinion that happiness is not now to be realized, but only to come hereafter. It is in contradiction to God's holy word, as we believe we are blessed now with all things that are really good for us. Yet there are persons who think that when some particular grievance is removed they shall be happy. No! you will be as far from happiness as you are now. This is the folly and weakness of the mind, which vainly anticipates happiness from earthly changes. But, on the other hand, as time passes by and under all circumstances, supposing that we have the knowledge of the truth and are living in holiness and in the love of God, we may have days of heaven upon the earth. Lady Elizabeth Hastings said to the Countess of Huntingdon, "Since I have known the gospel I have been as happy as an angel." That one sentence was the means of the conversion of Lady Huntington, afterward the friend of Whitefield and the founder of chapels all over England. Who can estimate the number and importance of the effects which followed that change of heart and life?

A Just Decision.

The Supreme Court of Illinois has recently confirmed a verdict of $2,000 damages in favor of a widow, made so by ardent spirits sold to her late husband. The liquor seller supplied the man with that which rendered him incapable of self-care. He laid down upon a railroad track and was killed. It was a clear case of personal injury under the common law. The defendant appealed, and Judge Scott affirmed the verdict, saying: "He who deliberately sells that which he knows will inflame the passions, deprive the party of the control of his judgment, and render him for the time being incapable of exercising proper care for personal safety, or that of his property, must be prepared for the consequences that may follow."

The French Academy of Sciences, it is announced, is about to consider the propriety of adopting the meridian of Greenwich, in lieu of that of Paris.

The Famine in Asia Minor.

The following letter from the British Consul-General at Constantinople we find in the Liverpool Mercury:

"For some time an appeal has been made to the British public on behalf of a large population starving in Asia Minor, and subscriptions have been raised for their relief through the efforts of a local committee in London. But the central committee at Constantinople, on the ground of the great urgency of the occasion, ask to be allowed to press their appeal. During the next few months the lives of the population of a great part of Asia Minor will be trembling in the balance. Two seasons of drought and scarcity have resulted in a widespread famine. Difficulties of communication and other causes, which it is now needless to specify, have interfered with the means of succor, and thousands have perished of inanition. Thousands are still on the verge of thus perishing, and unless effectual aid is forthcoming before next harvest, many thousands more will die of hunger and cold. The Ottoman government has been making depots of food in various centres, with the view of its disturibution, but our own experience in India demonstrates how large and perfect an organization is necessary in order to reach unconspicuous classes and remote districts To supplement the work of the Ottoman government, which from the nature of the case must be insufficiently executed, the central committee at Constantinople have been exerting themselves, and it is owing to the untiring zeal of our agents, and to their special knowledge and capacity, that the funds at our disposal, though comparatively speaking small—about £7,000—have been made the means of rescuing hundreds of families from starvation, Our agents have often been just in time to keep in life the population of a village until the tardier official aid arrived; and the widow and the orphan, who could not press forward to claim their rations, have met from the hand of the foreigner the needful succour. I write this in no reproachful spirit toward the Ottoman government, but it can not be denied that the government aid does not reach all, nor does it always arrive in time. When the true story of this frightful famine shall come to be fully told, I know that many a generous Englishman and Englishwoman will say—'Why did I not hear of this in time?' And I therefore beg you to give publicity to this letter. It may be the means of preventing a still more horrible tale from becoming possible. With this object I solicit more funds to stave off starvation from thousands for yet a few months."

A Remarkble Relic.

The Pall Mall Gazette says: A bronze fork with two prongs, discovered by Mr. George Smith in the mound of Konyunjik, supplies food for some reflection. If it really is a bonafide fork it is one of the most singular and remarkable relics of antiquity. That "fingers were made before forks" is a proverb the truth of which, we presume, no one is inclined to dispute. But we are apt to forget how very long the people of the West, at any rate, were destitute of forks; and if Mr. George Smith's fork is a fork, as he evidently supposes it to be, another and a very important addition will have been made to the claims of Asia to early superiority over Europe Neither the Greeks nor the Romans knew anything of forks for eating, although that they had pitch-forks from time immemorial and did not take a hint from them speaks little for their analogical ingenuity. And, notwithstanding that forks were known as rare and exceptionable instruments in the middle ages, they were not used by carvers or eaters of meat even so late as the early part of the sixteenth century among the most advanced in European nations. The Greeks had knives for carving. But when they fed themseves with solid food they did it with their fingers, which they afterward wiped on pieces of bread. When they took soup they used either a spoon or a bit of bread hollowed out. So likewise the Romans fed themselves with their fingers when they ate solid food, and liquid food they took with a spoon (cochl ear). But they had no forks, although they cultivated carving as an art with considerable assiduity.

The carptor, scissor or structor was a person guided by rules, who performed his task to the sound of music, and with appropriate gesticulation. In Wynkyn de Worde's "Boke of Keruynge," too, published in 1513, the author tells the carver he must "Set never ou fyshe, beest ne fowle more than two fyngers and a thumbe," clearly showing that forks were not in use; and adds, "Your knife must be fayre, and your hands must be clene, and passe not two fyngers and a thombe upon your knife." Yet the fork was employed for certain purposes among our ancestors two centuries before this was written. One fork is mentioned in the wardrobe account of Edward I for the year 1167, and Edward II's favorite, Piers Gavestone, had (Fœdera, year 1349) "Irois furshesces d'agent per mengier poires." Le Grand d'Aussy (Historie de la Vie Privee des Francois," tom. III, page 1789 says that forks are enumerated in an inventory of the jewels of Charles V of France for the year 1779, and this is the only instance he mentions during the middle ages He also remarks, writing in 1772, that then the knife was commonly employed to convey food to the mouth, "as it still is in England, where for that purpose the blades of the knives are made broad and round at the end." So Mr. Thackeray's "Snob's" friend Marrowfat had ancient precedent at least, and somewhat modern example, according to Le Grand d'Aussy, to plead in excuse of his memorable delinquency with the peas.

A Word About "My Plan."

Mr. Editor: The article of "Methodist" in your last issue but one, "has the ring of the true metal."

I wish others would speak out. If a kind of experience meeting on this subject could be inaugurated, it would be productive of great good.

Systematic giving is a prominent means of grace, and by the aid of the Spirit is easily adjusted to every condition, position, and avocation.

To save my plan, as below given, from the appearance of impracticeability, I must remark that I am a professional man. Every dollar in money, (or, it in property, its equivalent in money) that I receive, taking a good large memorandum book with a pocket in one side, I enter thus:

"1875. Jan. 5th.

From John Doe, $10,00 : 10=$1.-00.

The above entry is on left hand page marked, Dr.

On right hand page, successively as the credit page, I enter all donations thus:

1875 Jan. 30th.

Contributed to ——— $10.00,

I commenced this over three years ago and have scrupulously given and placed in the pocket one tenth of all gross cash receipts.

THE RESULT

This mode of procedure, I humbly believe, has brought me nearer to God—has filled me with an exalted idea of His mercy, love and power, and with a sense of my utter unworthiness and dependence. I am conscious of an increase of faith, a loving trust, and the enlargement of a generous, charitable, Christian sentiment. I do not believe that it can be practiced with proper motives, without a perceptible growth in grace. I do not believe that any man or woman who practices it, will desire to abandon it. I have been happiest, and most successful, when I have given, prayed, and trusted most. The pocket has never been empty, notwithstanding the giving has been largely more than quadrupled.

I try in an humble manner to always ask the Master how, when, and how much, to give. It is His, not mine. I have never given a dollar but that it has been in some way returned, and many, many times, the hand of God has been as clearly seen in it, as the light of day.

I repeat: the lawyer, doctor, merchant, mechanic, and farmer, can adopt this plan, literally or virtually. "Where there is a will, there is a way." Oh! what intense joy and happiness it at times affords.

SYSTEM.

—Southern Christian Advocate

How Rich Men Begin in Life.

Cornelius Vanderbilt began life with an old pirouge, running between Staten Island and New York city, carrying garden stuff to market.—With two or three thousand dollars raised from that source, he entered upon steadily-increasing enterprises, until he amassed the enormous sum of $50,000,000.

A. T. Stewart first bought a few places at auction, and opened his way to success in a dingy little shop in Broadway, near the site of his wholesale establishment. Years of rigid honesty, shrewd management and wisdom in things both great and small, have made him the monumental merchant of the nineteenth century.

Daniel Drew, in his early life, was a cattle driver, at the magnificent rate of 75 cents a day, and he has now driven himself into an estate valued at from $25,000,0000, to $40,000,000.

George Law, at 45 years of age, was a common day laborer on the docks, and at present counts his fortune at something like $10,000,000,

Robert L. and Alexander Stuart, the sugar refiners, in their boyhood sold molasses candy, which their widowed mother had made, at a cent a stick, and to day they are worth probably $5,000,000 to $6,000,000 apiece

Marshall O. Roberts is the possessor of $4,000,000 or $5,000,000, and yet until he was twenty-five he did not have $100 he could call his own.

H B. Claflin, the eminent dry goods merchant, worth, it is estimated, from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000, commenced the world with nothing but energy, determination and hope, and see how magnificently he has invested them.

Henry Clay on Military Rule.

We clip the following from the Bellefonte (Pr.) Watchman from which it will be seen that the voice of the great statesman and patriot still finds an echo in the hearts of his countrymen:

"Henry Clay, the eloquent champion of constitutional freedom, but whose words have been well nigh forgotten by this generation, said, in reference to military government:

"I pray God in his goodness to send wars, pestilence and famine, any scourge for the sins of the people, other than a military chief for a ruler, and a wild reckless enthusiasm for military glory."

"What Mr. Clay would say now, could he return from the grave and see the proceeding in Louisiana and other States of the South, can easily be imagined. He would raise his hands in horror, and his mighty denunciations would reverberate from the lakes of Maine to the lagoons of Florida. He never imagined, in his day, that there could be such a prostration of civil liberty in this country, for he did not believe that the people would submit to it. The worst that he feared was a struggle between the people and their rulers, in which, we dare say, he never dreamed that the former would be overthrown. But how is it? Look at Louisiana, held down by the federal bayonets. Oh, for the tongue and power of a Clay to once more advocate the cause of right and justice! Let the words of that great man sink deep into the hearts of his countrymen."

The Church and the Sabbath-school.

We observe in the annual report of one of the most prosperous churches in the city, a large proportion of the accessions to the Church is from the Sunday-school. This is as it should be. It is strictly in the line of the normal growth of the kingdom. It is only saying that most of the orchard trees are transplants from the nursery. We presume to say the number of additions to the Church from the Sunday-school, measures, with tolerable accuracy, the shepherd care of the Church over its lambs A very successful pastor said recently that he attributed any prosperity he had in Church work mainly to his interest in, and care for, the children. It does not require a long pastorate to witness that great change in a congregation which comes by swift gradations when childhood passes into youth. A pastor who devotes himself to the audience room and neglects the school-room, will presently find himself in the midst of a company of young people who are strangers to him. Or, sadder still, he will find they have strayed altogether beyond his influence. A closer union between the church and school, a more practical, organized and constant care by the officers of the church over the lambs of the flock, would result in a steady progress from the school to the church, from the class room to the communion table. To this end, let the pastor be no stranger in the school. Let him study that part of his field as the most hopeful of all. Let the elders of the church, actively at work in the school, be a bond between the two. Let the conversion of children be the constant aim of the school, and their nurture in Christian life call forth the most prayerful and earnest efforts of the people of God.—Interior.

SCIENCE.

Professor Proctor has written a letter recently to the London Times, commending strongly the American system of weather reports, and suggesting its adoption in Great Britain

The climate of Minnesota has been recommended as very favorable to consumptives, on the ground that the air of that region is exceptionally dry. But, from the Monthly Weather Recive of the Signal Office, for November last, it appears that Minnesota shows the greatest relative humidity of all the regions there named. Thus, the relative humidity for New England was 69, middle Atlantic States 66, lake region 69, Minnesota 77.

M. D. Conway writes to the Cincinnati Commercial that Mr. Norman Lockyer, the eminent astronomer who wrote the wonderfully comprehensive articles in the London Times on the transit of Venus, said to him, in reply to a question whether he felt satisfied with the results of the late transit observations, "Whatever was done was done by the Americans. They seem to be the only people now that take hold of such things in the right way."

It seems that a French naturalist, M. Margelidet, has demonstrated, by experiment, that toads may live a very long time immured in places inaccessible to the air. On the 15th of January, in the year 1870, he caused a cavity to be hollowed in a large stone, put a toad into the cavity, and then sealed up the mouth of the cavity with impermeable cement. On the 15th of last month, five years since he had put the poor creature into durance vile, he broke open the cavity, at the French Museum of Natural History, and found the toad within alive and well, though in a torpid condition. Nor has it, is said, since its release, taken any nourishment whatever.

The process of skin-grafting promises to receive a fresh impetus from the labors of M. Anger, a French surgeon. The main feature of his discoveries is that pieces of skin taken from amputated limbs may be used to obtain cicatrization on the bodies of other subjects. Hitherto the desired portions of skin were taken from one part of a patient's body and applied to another part. It is stated that in one case the surgeon cut pieces of skin from the surface of an amputated finger and applied them to the ulcerated leg of another person. In three days the bandages were removed and the grafted parts were found intimately united to the surface and evidently vascularized. It seems essential to the success of the process that the graft be made immediately after amputation. The name given to this operation is "heteroplasty."

According to Nature, the Bulletin of the French Geographical Society for December contains an exceedingly interesting and carefully compiled paper by M. H. Duveyrier, entitled "L'Afrique Necrologique." This is a list of all the African explorers, from 1800 to 1874, who have met their death while doing their work, either from disease canght in the country, or by murder, or other causes; a very large proportion have died from "intermittent fever." The list includes not only those whose object was purely geographical discovery, but also whose researches were connected with geology, meteorology, botany, zoology, ethnography, archæology, or languages. It is a long one, numbering about 150; and M. Duveyrier, in each case, gives a brief account of the explorer, and of the work which he accomplished; a large proportion of these martyrs to science are English. Accompanying the paper is an ingeniously constructed map, showing the place at which each traveller met his death.

An ingenious contrivance for enabling persons to breathe in poisonous vapors, or dense smoke, has recently been invented by Captain Shaw, of the London fire brigade. It consists of a close-fitting hood, with a respirator, holding a filter, the invention of Professor Tyndall which is made up of a valve chamber and filter tube about four inches long, screwed on outside, with access to it from the inside by a wooden mouth-piece. The charge for the filter is put in with the tube turned upside down and the lower valve removed, and consists of the following materials: Half an inch deep of dry cotton-wool, an inch deep of the same wool saturated with glycerine, a thin layer of dry wool, half an inch deep of fragments of charcoal, half an inch deep of dry wool, half an inch deep of fragments of lime, and about an inch of dry wool. The whole can be put on and adjusted in a few seconds by the wearer.

SLEEP FOR FARMERS WIVES.—A farmer's wife writes a letter to the Rural New Yorker, which she wants the "men folks" to read. It is a plea for more sleep. Have you a wife, she says, who goes about in a listless, spiritless fashion, as though she could but just drag herself about? Or is she cross and fretful, and do you wonder how she came to have such a temper? Ten to one, all she needs to make her bright and happy is rest, sleep, and loving words. Hire efficient help, that the wife who has passed a restless night may take advantage of baby's morning nap, and have one of her own; or, if she choose, lie down in the afternoon and make up the lost sleep. You can afford it if you will. Do not begrudge a hundred dollars a year for your wife's comfort and health. Give women their home rights; help them to bear their burdens; give them a few kind, loving words every day, and you will have healthier and happier wives, children and homes.

Funnygraphs.

"Johnny, what are you doing, my son?" "Oh! nothing, only trying to hit Frank on the fingers with the hatchet."

Red used on a railroad signifies danger, and says stop. It should be so construed when displayed on a man's nose.

The little State of Delaware has adopted a new flag 6x6½ feet, of blue silk with a yellow fringe. It will be used to spread over the State to keep the frost off, so a wag says.

A woman in Dawson, Ga., accidentally bit her tongue off the other day, and since that, her husband gets home every evening two hours earlier than usual.

"Why did you pass yesterday without looking at me?" said a beautiful woman to Talleyrand. "Because, madam, if I had looked I could not have passed."

"Why is it," asks an exchange, "that nearly every Senator's wife in Washington is a handsome woman?" It is simply because nearly every Senator's wife who is not a handsome woman is left at home. —COURIER-JOURNAL.

"Herbert," said a perplexed mother, "why is it that you're not a better boy?" "Well," said the little fellow, soberly, looking up into her face with his honest blue eyes, "I suppose the real reason is that I don't want to be!" We think the child gave the real reason why all of us, big as well as little, are not better than we are.

"Mother wants to know if you won't please to lend her your preserving kettle —'cause as how she wants to preserve?" "We would with pleasure, boy, but the fact is, the last time we lent it to your mother she preserved it so effectually that we have never seen it since." "Well, you needn't be so sassy about your old kettle, mother wouldn't have troubled you agin, only we seed you have a new one."

Here is a good thing on the "tarter bug." Three men comparing notes: One says, "There are two bugs to every stalk." A second says," "They have cut down my early crop and are sitting on the fence waiting for my late crop to come up." "Pshaw!" said the third, "you know nothing about it. I passed a seed store the other day and saw the bugs looking over the books to see who had purchased seed potatoes."

A Texas editor is trying to keep society straight in his town, and when he sees anything he doesn't like he speaks about it. To one young woman he says: "We suggest to a certain young lady of our village to hold her peace, unless she talk without trying, or seeming to try, to shake her chignon off when she wags her tongue. It adds no force to her words, and looks out of place to us,"

During a class-meeting held by the Methodist brethren of a Southern village, Brother Jones went among the colored portion of the congregation. Finding there a man notorious for his endeavor to serve God on the Sabbath and Satan the rest of the week, he said: "Well, Brother Dick, I am glad to see you here. Haven't stole any turkeys since I saw you last, Brother Dick?" "No, Brudder Jones; no turkeys." "Nor any chickens, Brother Dick?" "No, no, Brudder Jones: no chickens." "Thank the Lord, Brother Dick! That's doing well, my brother!" said Brother Jones, leaving Brother Dick, who immediately relieved his overburdened conscience by saying to a near neighbor, with an immense sigh of relief: "If he'd said ducks, he'd a had me!"

A grocer when complained to about selling bad eggs, said: "At this season the hens ain't well and very often lay bad eggs."

A veteran shopkeeper says that although his clerks are very talkative during the day, they are always ready to shut up at night.

Josh Billings says: "There ain't anything that will completely cure lazines thongh a second wife has been known to hurry it some."

Charles Francis Adams, Jr., thinks the grangers have proved the best friends of the railroads. They have stopped construction, which is a good thing. If the mania for railway building had gone on unchecked much longer there would have been nothing but railroads left in the country.

The Christian Advocate.

OFFICE - Corner of Dawson & Hargett Sts

THE ORGAN
OF THE
NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE
OF THE
M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

Rev. J. B. Babbitt, } Editors.
R. T. Gray, Esq. }

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

PAYABLE YEARLY IN ADVANCE-POSTAGE PAID, $2.20
OR WHEN " " 1.35
If payment be delayed six months, 2.70

All letters on business with this office should be addressed to the Editors of the Christian Advocate.

RALEIGH, N. C., MARCH 31, 1875.

The Cross (X) Mark is to remind you that your subscription has expired. Let all renew promptly.

Rev. C. C. Dodson's letter, which appears in another column, giving an account of the recent tornado that swept over Pittsboro, is a fine specimen of descriptive writing.

Sister Bostianer, we are pained to learn, is still extremely ill. Her Father, Rev. Dr. Closs, has been by her bedside for the past ten days, and in consequence of this has been necessarily absent from his District.

We invite attention to the interesting article in another column from Dr. Rosser, giving an account of the work of grace in Wilson. We are rejoiced to hear of the success which is attending his labors May the good work go on!

We see from the Wilmington papers, that Bro. Mann the pastor of Front Street Methodist Church in that city, holds daily prayer-meetings at 3 o'clock P. M. We trust that the meetings will result in a gracious revival of religion in that charge.

We return our thanks to Rev. F. M. Kennedy, D. D., Editor of the Southern Christian Advocate for a copy of the Minutes of the 89th session of the South Carolina Annual Conference of the M. E. Church, South, held at Greenville, S. C., Dec. 1874. We will make further notice of the Minutes.

As Spring is now fully opened and our ministers can make their visits to churches and people without hindrance from the bad weather, we trust a vigorous campaign will be made for the church paper—a potent ally of the preachers in their work. The Advocate ought to be placed in every Methodist family in the Conference. We want all whose subscriptions have expired or are about to expire to renew at once, and we make an appeal for more new subscribers.

Rev. Mr. Atkinson, pastor of the Presbyterian Church in this city, has announced to the congregation his resignation of the pastorate, and awaits the action of the Presbytery which will soon meet. Mr. Atkinson is a minister of ability and a gentleman of varied accomplishments, and his departure from our city will be regretted by a host of friends of all denominations.

The Great Revival.—The revival at Person Street Church continues with great interest and power. About fifty conversions up to this time and the interest is increasing every day.—It is extending its blessed influence throughout the city. The work is mostly confined to grown persons—to those of mature years. Some of the oldest citizens have been brought under its saving influences. Great crowds assemble to hear the word, and hundreds attend who cannot hear for want of church accommodations.—Arrangements are being made to add to the church without delay, so as to make room for the great throng who are attracted by the preaching of the simple truths of the gospel. We appeal to the church throughout our bounds to send in contributions and thus aid us in speedily enlarging the church. One friend voluntarily came forward on Saturday and gave $100 for this purpose. Another $50, and others smaller amounts. Let the friends of this good cause everywhere come to our rescue. The addition will be made without any interruption of the glorious work of grace now in progress. Let the whole church pray for the continuance of this display of Divine power.

Rev. Dr. Craven, was in the city last week on his way to, and returning from, Chatham Superior court where he had been summoned as a witness in the Brown contested will case, removed from Randolph. He was looking well and in good spirits. Trinity College is in good condition and the approaching Commencement occasion is expected to be a grand affair. The Chapel which is in course of building, will be completed by the first of June and will be among the largest and best auditoriums in the State—if not the largest and best. The science of acoustics has been consulted in the construction of the walls of the audience room and arrangement of the seats. Bishop Marvin and Dr Munsey will be there to attend the christening of the Chapel, and to add to the attractions of the Commencement exercises. A large attendance of visitors is expected, arrangements are being made for their entertainment, and it is probable that extra trains will run from Goldsboro and Charlotte on Wednesday and Thursday of Commencement week.

The Uses of Adversity.

We are so selfish and impatient of suffering and miscarriage of our hopes and plans, that we often find it hard to recognize the truth that "sweet are the uses of adversity." We accept prosperity as a matter of course—a something to which we consider ourselves entitled—and when misfortune comes, we sometimes fret and chafe under its sting as if it were sent upon us by ill starred luck or a malignant God. When enveloped in the cloud we should look beyond the border where the sun is shining;—when we writhe under the pain we should remember that the hand that causes it is at the same time guiding and protecting us, and only trying the temper of our souls, weighing our deserts for something higher and better.

To some men continued success in their plans is a curse rather than a blessing. They ascribe their good fortune to their own wisdom, shrewdness and good management rather than to the kindness and indulgence of a higher power, and rely solely upon themselves for victory.—They cut loose from the restraints that a veneration for a higher power imposes and lead such lives as their own wishes and tastes and appetites suggest. Like Jeshurun they "wax fat and kick"—maintain indifference or hurl defiance towards the God whose care and aid they no longer feel necessary to their success. Inflated with their own egotism, proud of their possessions, place and fame, and feeling secure in their success, they forget their dependence and become arrogant, insolent, worldly-minded and wicked. Their pride lifts their heads into regions of such fancied superiority over their fellows, that they do not watch for the pitfalls and stumbling blocks which Satan arranges to secure their fall, and their destruction is imminent if not certain. There are but few men to whose morals continued success in worldly pursuits is not dangerous. Men can bear ill fortune with heroism, who cannot preserve their integrity and piety in the hour of triumph.

Adversity brings a man to his senses, just as fresh, cold air restores the fainting and suffocated man to consciousness It reminds him of his ignorance, weakness and inability to control the operations of physical and moral laws and bend them to his own will, so as to prevent pain and failure and win success and pleasure. In the midst of suffering, if at no other time, a man will feel his dependence upon a higher power and look to it appealingly for help. When plans come to naught and misfortunes follow close upon the heels of others that have gone before—when panics and crashes of fortune come and sweep away the garnered stores of years of toil—when friends turn away without offering aid or speaking a word of cheer—when poverty and disease come with their troop of terrors, then it is that the heart humbles itself, ceases its rebellion and bows to the dominion of Deity.

Missionary Work.

In every quarter of the religious world we see that the claims of the cause of Missions are being brought to the attention of Christians. Bishops are talking and writing on the subject, ministers are holding it up in their pulpits, and editors and others interested in the work are using the lever of the religious press to further the work to which the Christian world is committed. Those who are favored with the gospel light are enjoined to spread its blessings to those who have it not, and if they fail in their duty they will not be held guiltless of the blood of those who perish for lack of gospel tidings.

We trust that the discussion which the subject has been receiving through the columns of the Advocate at the hands of able writers, will not prove fruitless. Indeed, we have assurances from many quarters that the interest on the subject of missionary work has never been so great in those quarters as it is now. One writer competent to judge of the effects of the discussion, says that "it will result in more good than all the missionary speeches made in our Conference for ten years."

Bro. Lafferty, of the Richmond Christian Advocate, writing from Washington concerning the Baltimore Conference, says:

"Bishop Marvin had been preaching in the city for several days before the session of the Conference with holy unction and apostolic zeal. If Paul had met such a one as Marvin they would have been parted only by the sword of martyrdom, perhaps even in death not divided.

McTeer of the Holston—a condensed whirlwind—was there. Dr. Haygood—soft as a zephyr loosening ripe fruit and perfuming the air—won golden opinions and left pleasant memories.

In spite of snow and rain, the Baltimore Conference, in its Washington session, was a delightful convocation of the true successors of the Twelve."

The Christian Union (Henry Ward Beecher, Editor) in an editorial leader of two or three columns, chastises the N. C. Legislature for the expulsion of Mr. Thorne on account of his loose notions of Deity and blasphemous utterances, and says many good and kind things of the purity and piety of Mr. Thorne. In the light, however, of the revelations being made in the Brooklyn court-room, Mr Beecher's endorsement of a man's morality and piety will not induce much credit.

Letter from Rev Dr Rosser.

Dear Brethren: God is with us of a truth, from the beginning hearing up the church and awakened sinners, and sweeping all to the Cross on the same tide of reviving grace, manifestly preparing both the church and the world at the same time for a great work. The course of the Spirit here evidently is, to bless penitents and the church with the same measure of saving grace. The state is just this: the church generally is earnestly seeking "first love"—the very thing penitents are seeking There is no law in the Gospel why this should not be so; and so a church may recover its first love, and sinners be converted, at the same time. Consequently, there is no reason why a languid church should wait one moment for its own re-baptism and resealing before sinners are converted. The Spirit holds this double work evenly balanced under his own control. Repentance, faith, and first love, are the same in all—beginning at the same time in the church and the world—advancing with the same power in both—restoring to believers the old gifts and graces—imparting to penitents the same gifts and graces melting all at the same time in the same mould of love—and yet, it must be admitted, blessing old backsliders "with an increase," and converting formalists with great power, who henceforth become the most radiant and useful among the saints. But all this is the lowest measure of saving grace, without which there is no real progress, and from which the church should "go on unto perfection," or santification, O Ephesus! Ephesus! O Methodism! Methodism! thank God, for the "little flock" in Wilson, and everywhere!—I make some extracts from my Journal.

March 11 Thursday night—fifteen penitents—7 conversions, clear and happy. March 12 Friday night—dense throng to the street—motionless as if staring death in the face. The suspense of the multitude was frightful. Look where you might—the same speechless awe—strong men trembling—fashion pale, bigotry dumb—formality terror-stricken—false hope shivering—age subdued—beauty weeping—youth in tears—all overpowered by the immediate presence of God. If there be no reaction, the recording angel will soon chronicle the greatest revival ever known in this place. Ten penitents—four conversions. The promise is glorious beyond description. Yesterday, while reading in the Acts the wonderful exploits of Peter; I heard the sad whisper, "Ah, Lord, Peter had miracles to help him—what can I do without miracles?" But to day I do not want miracles. My faith is in the Spirit. March 14 Sunday—balmy bright day of the Lord—crowded house in the morning never such a concourse known to have assembled here as at night—air oppressive—ten penitents—no conversion—hard-fought battle—faith of the church yet too weak to control the promiscuous throng, and counteract the promiscuous religious errors of this town and vicinity. I do not know an error more captivating and nearer the truth, and yet more fatal and farther from the truth, than that of gradual conversion—an easy compromise and life time delusion, I fear, with multitudes—an opinion for which not a promise, precept, or example can be produced from the Scriptures. O, for witnesses for present pardon, so unequivocal and numerous, that this delusion may vanish everywhere! Then many would not repose on awakening grace a life-time for conversion, and many now long deluded would be rescued from the error But while conversion or regeneration is instantaneous, let us remember that after regeneration the work of grace is gradual or progressive, no matter how rapid, unto instantaneous sanctification; and after sanctification, still progressive, no matter how rapid, unto glorification; and after glorification, which will also be instantaneous, still progressive, no matter how rapid, to all eternity, in God's immediate presence. Hallelujah to the Lamb forever! Such is the Gospel of Christ, and I am not ashamed to preach it everywhere, "for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth."

March 15 Monday night—15 penitents—8 conversions. The fire is spreading among the hard dry combustible here. May it expand into a great conflagration! March 16 Tuesday night—18 penitents—6 conversions. Awakening grace extending in the world, and regenerating grace, in zeal, faith, and joy, extending in the church, and thus the Spirit is balancing the glorious work. March 17 Wed. night—15 penitents—4 conversions—the tide rising higher. March 18 Thursday night, I never knew such a stupor, so unaccountable, to overcome a church so suddenly in the midst of a revival. Believing it to be the effect of Satanic influence, we wrestled in prayer the more earnestly.—I made four exhortations, never having made so many after a sermon, and we gained a great victory at the close of the meeting. Ten penitents—7 conversions. I am more than ever convinced of three things. 1, That it is next to impossible to rouse a soul from a false hope in religion, and that it is labor lost to attempt it. 2. That most of the ministry, especially our own, take it for granted, that their churches are already believers, and therefore do not preach repentance and faith, as Mr. Wesley supposed 13 years before he was converted. Hear him: "I preached much, but saw no fruit of my labor. Indeed, it could not be that I should; for I neither laid the foundation of repentance, nor of believing the Gospel; taking it for granted that all to whom I preached were believers, and that many of them needed no repentance." 3. That the power of prayer is the test of the power of the church in a revival. March 19 Friday night—ten penitents—three conversions. The work is now glorious. The Spirit whispers like a prophecy, "Have faith in God." The "marvellous light," to which Peter refers, is in us, guiding and alluring, and we follow as in the face of the sun. A wealthy and influential citizen knelt at the altar to night, whose open confession will agitate this town from end to end. Many like him, trembled, and left the house silent, pale, and in tears.

March 21 Sunday, serene light of revival on us all day. Many penitents six conversions. Thirty five joined the church—24 baptized—9 by immersion. Some of the most promising young men in the town are among those admitted into the church. But here let us beware, lest we make the number and character of the conversions our guide. If we do, when conversions diminish, we shall conclude the work is waning, and so slacken our zeal—the very thing Satan desires most in a revival—because it grieves the Spirit, and brings a revival to a sudden conclusion. Nevertheless, the caution is needless here, for the work is now so extensive and indiscriminate, that no one knows which way to look, or whom to select, or how to be discouraged. We now number 55 conversions, and nearly all admitted into the church, or candidates for admission. The work seems just begun, and is sweeping on like a flood. I see no end to it. Brother Wood, the pastor, is hard at work, day and night. Brother Gibbons, the founder of this church 22 years ago, is with us, full of zeal and the Holy Ghost. The church is "going on to perfection" now. The whole town is bending to the Cross. The vicinity is crowding to the work. The house does not hold half the people who would come. The signal bell calls me to battle. I will write again next week.

Leo. Rosser.

Messrs Editors: Allow me to say to "Superintendent" that I will heartily approve of his or any other plan which will encourage systematic benevolence in all the branches of the church; but that, at the same time, I think my plan the best in the present condition of things as it is a new, novel and untried one, and one which I trust will work well. I presume all of our station Sabbath schools follow the plan in operation, at Greensboro, of school collections and of one of these collections each month for the missionary cause. This plan has been in operation in our school for forty or more years, it being in operation when I was a mere boy and I believe is still regularly kept up. But notwithstanding this fact our missionary Board say they lack funds and if we can adopt any plan which will give them more money, let us do it and at the same time raise funds in our schools for books and papers for not only our own school but destitute schools who are unable to provide for themselves, and also clothing for the poor to enable them to attend school; for I fear there are many children in the land who attend no sabbath school because they have no good clothes to wear, being ashamed of their dirt and rags. Gather them in, says your correspondent and teach them of Jesus and Heaven.

Yours

Philo

At the request of Bro. Wellons, Editor of the Christian Sun, Suffolk, we cheerfully give place to the following announcement:

A UNION RELIGIOUS CONVENTION.

A convention of the friends of Christian and Church unity, will be held in Suffolk, Va., commencing on the 5th of May next. This convention was appointed by a Council of practical union lovers which assembled in Cincinnati, Ohio, on the 21st of October last, and framed a Basis of Union and issued an Address to all Christian Ministers and Churches in North America, inviting them to union and co-operation in work and worship.—The Basis of Union recites the doctrines generally held by all Evangelical denominations, in common; extends liberty with the right of private opinion on all minor points of doctrine and practice, and invites endorsers to the Basis. The endorsers of the Basis of Union will compose the voting members of the Convention, but all Evangelical ministers of every denomination, who favor Christian and Church Unity on the common faith of Protestants, are invited to be present and participate in the exercises of the meeting, and all Evangelical churches, laboring for union, are invited to send delegates to the Convention.

A number of ministers and laymen, representing the union feeling of the church, from the North and South and the East and West are expected to be present and participate in the proceedings of the Convention. The exercises of the Convention are expected to continue a week, and will be the full inauguration of an effort to bring all the Evangelical denominations into a closer union and co-operation in religious worship and Christian work. Provision will be made for the accommodation of all who attend.

Pres. Robey vs Heathen.

In the last issue of the Advocate my good Bro. Robey makes a graceful bow, and retires. So far, so good. I trust that all others who have contended, (honestly, of course,) against the great Pauline-Arminian-Wesley an Doctrine, will reach, at last, the same conclusion. All that induced me to reply to Bro. Robey's first article was, a desire to defend the great Arminian doctrine of universal Atonement and free will, as applied to heathen salvation, thus: Is it possible for any heathen to be saved without the preached gospel or Bible? I have defended the affirmative of this doctrine, chained, as it is, to the fundamental truth of God's word, with what success, up to date, the intelligent reader may determine. If I have been mistaken as to what the real question was between us, I can only say that the reading public generally was in the same category with myself. Bro. Robey's first article contained this question as the Thesis of his whole discussion, viz: "Can the heathen be saved without the gospel?" Not all the heathen, nor ten, nor a thousand? but ANY? He maintained the negative. [See Dr. Closs, art. I.] And now after five long articles he surrenders, being allowed to keep only his "side arms," thus: After quoting from Watson the question, Is it possible for a heathen to be saved?—and explaining that by "a heathen" he means a man destitute of the gospel, he says, "With Mr. Watson we say, "this we grant!!" This we have never denied!!" Well, well, at last, how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity."

If Bro. Robey had said all this in his first article, I should not have replied; for I certainly have no time to waste in a fruitless discussion as to whether souls will make use of the means they have to be saved; or how many are saved! Candor compels me to say that I do not know how many of the heathen will be saved by living up to the light they have, any more than I know how many people in North Carolina will be saved! This is an abstraction. Bro. Robey's Thesis was not "Will they?" nor "How many?" But it was, "Can they?"—He now "grants" that it is possible, and so the vast outlay of wit and ridicule heaped upon "that other way" becomes dead capital. I am not responsible for the investment—peace to its ashes! And so, if one can be saved, then, two and who shall say others God must stop in swinging the golden chain of the Atonement to the poor, benighted heathen, who cry from heavy hearts, "O that I knew where I might find Him!"

I may endorse every quotation Bro. Robey makes from Dr. Watson.—They certainly do not prove that heathen cannot be saved without the gospel; for he "grants" that. In all these quotations Watson was simply showing that universalism is a "toothless theology"—that wilfully wicked heathen will not go to heaven. I agree to all that, and that the church ought to bestir itself to send them the gospel. But lest some one may be misled by these quotations, (not intentionally by Bro. Robey,) let me say that a universally accepted canon of interpretation is this: An author in any particular passage, must not be forced to a meaning contrary to his general scope and design. Now, Watson in his "Institutes," (confessedly the greatest work of his life,) argues masterly to show that the heathen can, if he will, be saved, and the probability (that is all that can be reached) that some have been saved! So Wesley, Fletcher, Benson, Clarke, Summers "& Co."

In one more article I propose to exhibit the symmetry—divinity, logic and philosophy of this line of the Arminian argument. Bro. Robey has fought his battle with ability. The elements of failure, I knew at first, were not in him; but essentially in the cause he advocated.

During the Summer I propose to write a book on this subject.

Very truly,

E. A. Yates.

The Tornado in Pittsboro'.

Messrs. Editors: The town of Pittsboro was visited this evening at half past four o'clock, by one of the most terrific hurricanes I have ever witnessed. Nearly every house in the whole town is damaged to a greater or less extent. The court house was unroofed; pieces of timber and fragments of the tin covering were driven three or four hundred yards distant. Court was in session at the time; it seems miraculous that no one was killed. The steeples of the Presbyterian and Baptist Churches were blown off; a great part of the roofing of the Presbyterian Church was torn away and the whole structure seriously damaged. Some of the private residences are entirely unroofed and otherwise injured. The fencing and shade trees are lying pell-mell in every direction. Many of the trees were wrenched off by the fury of the tempest;—barns, stables, etc., are in perfect wreck. The storm, or the fury of it, did not last more than three or four minutes; but to us who were looking on its fury, it seemed a long, long time. The cloud rose in the West, boiled up suddenly and looked as if it were bursting from some seething cauldron. It was of an inky blackness, while from a rift in the clouds, far back to the East, came a strange glaring light, that gave to every object an unearthly coloring;—distant objects seemed painfully near, all of which betokened the coming tempest. Every breath of air seemed hushed, till you could hear the beating of your own heart. The birds flew in every direction in apparent distress, while a deep muttering could be heard in the distance which seemed to make the hills quiver, increasing in startling tones each moment and coming in rapid strides of fury, while the flashing signals of the storm-king flew in wild and swift lines from horizon to horizon, followed by the hissing peals of thunder—making the windows of the house shiver and dance from the violence of the concussion. The dark masses of clouds, mingled with the winds, seemed to grapple the earth in rage, till earth and tempest seemed to wrestle in wildest conflict. Discord seemed to hold the reins of power, while nature shrieked in despair at its loss of rule. How utterly helpless is man! how utterly insignificant are the works of his hands in the roar when God marches forth in the storm and tempest! I have been in the wild rage of the "battle's magnificent and stern array," when the roar of musketry, the ring of the deadly rifle, the shouts of the combatants, the groans of the wounded made the stoutest hearts quail, and when the thunderous charge of cavalry was shaking the earth, the dread roar of the mouthing cannon in its rapid discharges seemed splitting the very skies themselves, but never has my heart been so appalled as when viewing the hurricane of to-day on its rampage. What is the extent of the damage in its track, I have no means of ascertaining.—None who witnessed the storm of to-day will ever forget the equinox of March 20th, 1875.

While we have lost much in the town, in the way of property, all thought of loss is forgotten in a deep feeling of gratitude that our lives have been spared, and to night, as we bow in prayer around the family altar, we feel, as perhaps we never have before, the eternal God is our refuge. When the storm passed off the sun, as he retired behind the western hills, threw back a kiss on the brow of the storm and oh! such a glorious bow gilded the face of anger,—how it made us think of God's promise! Now while I write the face of the sky is so serene that it seems strange that there ever was a storm upon it. How everything in nature proclaims, "there is a God in heaven who ruleth over all!"

C. C. Dodson.

Pittsboro N. C., March 20th 1875.

Religious Brevities

In 1854 the Bible was printed in fifty different languages. It is now printed in upwards of two hundred

It is said that eighty-seven Protestant missionaries are now at work in Japan. Nearly all are from America.

In the old province of Prussia 16,700 Catholics have turned Protestant during the past year.

A Romish priest was received into the English Church in London on Christmas day—the third case of priestly conversion recently recorded.

Mr. Gibson, in San Fransisco, recently held his first Chinese lovefeast. Thirty-five persons gave a relation of Christian experience, and thirty persons partook of the communion. There were fifty present—men and women.

The first Methodist society in West Virginia was organized in Holston county in 1774. Methodism may celebrate its centenary in that conference.

The engineer of the Palestine exploring expedition is engaged in tracing the ancient walls of Jerusalem, and has discovered the foundation of two towers, supposed to be of great antiquity.

In view of the success of Moody and Sankey in Sheffield, Liverpool, and other manufacturing and commercial cities in England, the Christian Union suggests that an important field might be found in New York, Chicago, St. Louis and other cities of these United States.

The Petersburg News states that the missionary society of the Methodist church Sunday school of that point, last year, collected $189 75, of which $299 48 were collected from the male classes, and $290 27 from the female classes.

The Nashville Christian Advocate of February 13 has this among its editorial notes: "We are asked how far Pedobaptists exceed in numbers anti-Pedobaptists. According to the United States census for 1870 those whose preferences were for the latter numbered 4,360,135—nearly all be sides, who have any religious preferences, favor Pedobaptism; 6528.209 prefer the Methodist Church. The disparity is much greater in Great Britain and Ireland. In other parts of the Christian world the people are nearly all Pedobaptists."

A new Baptist chapel is to be opened in Rome during Easter week, at No. 35 Piazza San Lorenzo in Lucina, a small square leading off from the Corso. The chapel and school-room adjoining will accommodate three or four hundred hearers.

Bishop Vaughn, of England, and seven priests, have arrived in this county, for a mission among the freedmen. Baltimore will be the base of operations This movement of the Catholics is significant, and should arouse Protestants to increased activity.

Recent Publications.

Scribner's Monthly Magazine, conducted by J. G. Holland. Scribner & Co, Publishers, New York $4 a year.

We have received the April Number of this excellent publication and find it up to the high standard to which former numbers had brought it. We regard it as one of the leading magazines of the day and would unwillingly part with its monthly visits. "The serial story of "Seven Oaks" is now running in "Scribner's" and is one of Dr. Holland's best productions.

Harper's Magazine, Harper Bros. New York. $4 a year. There is no better American Magazine than Harper's and the April number is exceptionally attractive. It opens with a beautiful narrative by Miss Constance F. Woolson, amply and finely illustrated, of a summer tour among the mountains of Western North Carolina. The grand and picturesque scenery on the French Broad River is here graphically portrayed by pen character sketches. Attractive articles follow by Hon. D. A. Wells, Hon. S. S. Cox, James Parton and others.

Lippincott's Magazine for April, handsomely illustrated. Contents: Australian Scenes and Adventures. The Golden Eagle and his Eyrie. Three Feathers. Sonnet. Nice. The Baskol, and Sects in Russia. Eleanor's Career. An American Lady's Occupations Seventy Years Ago. A March Violet. What is a Conclave? Mousoor Pacha. How Ham was Cured. On the Study of Shakspeare's Sonnets.

J. B. Lippincott & Co., Publishers. Phila.

Littell's living age. no. 1607 bearing date March 27th, completes volume One hundred and twenty-four of this eclectic weekly. Among the contents of this and the preceding weekly number are Sir Phillip sidney. by Henry Kingsley, New Quarterly Review; Early Kings of Norway, parts II and III, by Thomas Carlyle, Fraser; The English Bar and the Inns of Court. Quarterly Review; Religious Revivals in Medieval Italy, Cornhill; vagabonds in Winter Time. The Tyranny of Mothers, and Egotism, Saturday Review. The usual choice poetry and miscellany complete the numbers.

As the next number, the first in April, begins a new volume, a good time for beginning a subscription is afforded. With fifty two numbers, of sixty four large pages each, (aggregating over 3000 pages a year) the subscription price ($8) is low; or still better, for $10.50 any one of the American $4 monthlies or weeklies is sent with The Living Age for a year, both postpaid. Littell & Gay, Boston, Publishers.

We have received from E. N. Freshman, Esq, advertising agent of Cincinnati, a revised list of "Leading Western and Southern newspapers in which he inserts advertisements at lowest rates. We have been dealing for some years with Mr. Freshman and have found him to be obliging, correct and responsible.

NORTH CAROLINA.

The tornado which prevailed in the Southern States on Saturday the 20th inst., was very destructive in North Carolina, raging in some parts with the wildest fury.

The Raleigh News contains the following:

"At Durham the new tobacco warehouse of Mr. Mangum was blown down, several gentlemen narrowly escaping being caught in the falling building, and other damage was done in the town.

At Hillsboro a number of small houses were blown down and others unroofed.

In the neighborhood of Morrisville great damage was done. It unroofed every house on the farm of Mr. John Burgess, including his dwelling. It unroofed Sanders Burgess' house. His wife was sick in the bed at the time.—She was unable to get up, and had to be removed to another building that had escaped the ravages of the storm. His smoke house was blown down and his meat scattered for hundred yards around. The house of Mr. Cobles was blown down, but the inmates fortunately escaped unharmed. Fences and trees suffered terribly in the whole section.

At Wake Forest the roof of the College was blown off. The railroad bridge across Cedar Creek, three miles this side of Franklinton, had its roof blown off, but no positive damage was done to the bridge.

On the farm of Mr. W. S. Bagwell, of the firm of Upchurch & Bagwell, much damage was done. A gennine hurricane passed over a portion of the farm, blowing down houses, one containing four persons, all escaping unhurt. Both buildings were literally torn to pieces.—His forest was blown down. One of his children, some 8 years of age, was seriously shocked, being senseless for awhile. His dwelling was badly damaged. Throughout that whole section much damage was done.

At Forest the foundry and blacksmith shop of Messrs. Dunn, Riggan & Co. and several smaller houses were blown down. In the foundry a stationary engine was badly damaged. Messrs. Dunn, Riggan & Co. sustain a loss of some $1,200.

On the farms of Messrs. Richard Badger and Simon Hays, near this city, thousands of trees were torn up by the roots, and we hear of similar damage being done on almost every farm in this section.

The storm seems to have divided just west of this city, and going upon both sides, only striking here with abated force, and thus Raleigh escaped to a great extent any damage, or our citizens would have been terrified by a storm that is said to have had no equal in this country for many years."

The Recent Rains in the West.—The Shelby Aurora says:

"From all parts of the country we hear of damages done by the recent heavy rains. The bridge over First Broad, about two miles nothwest from Shelby, on the new Rutherford road, was washed away one day this week. We learn that one more substantial will soon be built. This is important to the business men of our town as the trade west of here heretofore crossed the river at that place."

A large audience assembled in the Presbyterian Church at Greensboro to attend the concert given by the little orphans under the charge of Mr. Mills.—The sum of $50 was contributed.

Federal Court meets in Greensboro on the 5th of April. The celebrated [illegible] case will come up for trial again.

In the suit of the Western N. C. R. R. (from Fayetteville to Egypt) against P. Bayne for $480.000 ... [illegible] ference has decided in favor of the Company. Col. L. C. Jones, President of the Road, assures the people that he will forthwith begin the extension of the road to Greensboro.

The members of the N. C. Senate before its adjournment, presented Armfield, their President, with a handsome gold-headed cane, Col. A. in making the speech on the occasion. House presented Mr. Speaker Hill with an elegant gold watch and chain, presentation speech being made by J. N. Staples in a clever and happy style.

Some miscreant has frequently placed obstructions on the track of the Fayetteville & Western Railroad near the Little River. The same person, it is supposed, threw a stone into the passenger coach of the mail train on the morning of the 20th inst. L. C. Jones, President of the Road, offers $100 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of such party.

The Gazette predicts a bright future for Fayetteville as a centre of trade, and that the Western Railroad freed of difficulties, may be extended, the Fayetteville and Florence R. R. is approaching completion and the Fayetteville & Gilboro R. R. is assuming tangible form and substance.

Wyatt, Bingham & Co. have moved to their new store known as the Nash building, and Mr. Bingham has gone North to lay in a supply of groceries and other goods in his line. We commend this house to the patronage of our people.

Professor J. S. Kennedy has accepted the Presidency of the Weaverville College, and will take charge at the expiration of the present session of the Asheville Female Colleges.

C. F. Harris, Esqr., of the Concord Sun has been appointed Associate Editor of the State Agricultural Journal, and will still continue the publication of the Sun at Concord.

The Danville News says Danville has been chosen as the relay point between Richmond and Charlotte since the change of gauge on the road from Greensboro to the latter place.

Judge McKoy sent Wm. Stodd, a white man, to the penitentiary for two years for stealing a Bible and hymn book.

Harvey Thompson, negro, who broke the store of J. E. Kirkpatrick at Pineville Mecklenburg county has been jailed.

John Patton, son of Dr. J. W. Patton, was run over by a wagon loaded with 2000 lbs. iron ore, and narrowly escaped with his life.

Several families and a number of young men, about 20 in all, from Forsythe and Yadkin counties left last week for the far West. A year or two will satisfy them that there is no place like North Carolina.

A recent act of the Legislature established a special court in the town of Salisbury.

The Salisbury Watchman of the 25th inst says:

We regret to hear of a very sad accident which occurred on the farm of Mr. J. M. Harrison yesterday. The son of Mr. Harrison about ten years old, was killed by some frightened horses. We are unable to get further particulars.

Says the Salisbury Watchman:

A new town with two churches, a large male and female school three parsonages two stores, a steam mill, a carriage shop, and lots of houses, is growing right straight up out of the woods, just beyond China Grove, in this county. Credit is due for the enterprise and public spirit shown by the citizens of that vicinity. This is in the Litakers township. Our young friend Chas. Miller, Esq., seems to be the leading spirit in the enterprise.

Rev. W. B. Wellons, D. D. of Suffolk, Va., is to preach the sermon to the graduating class of Rutherford College on the 27th of May next.

INDEX TO NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Our merchants are now receiving their spring goods and are offering great attractions to buyers Those who advertise in the columns of the Advocate, we can recommend to persons visiting our city, as supplied with full lines of goods and selling at reasonable and satisfactory rates.

Messrs W. H. & R. S. Tucker have rid themselves of all their old stock and have made recent and large purchases for the spring trade. They are the Merchant Princes of Raleigh. See their advertisement.

Messrs Petty and Jones have also bought and are receiving their spring stock to meet the demands of their constantly increasing trade. Customers always leave the store of "Petty and Jones" pleased with the large and varied assortment of goods, the attentions of polite clerks, and reasonable charges.

Mr. D. S. Waitt, on the first of January associated with himself his brother, Capt. Geo. Waitt, formerly the efficient and polite conductor on the N. C. R. R. They have recently returned from New York where they purchased their goods for the Spring trade. The firm of D. S. Waitt and Bro. is now one of the most popular houses in the city and deserves the patronage which is constantly on the increase.

Messrs Peseud Lee & Co. the popular druggist of Raleigh, are agents for the American Tea Company, and supply customers with all kinds of tea at the uniform price of $1,00 per pound.

The Tornado in the South.—In South Carolina the recent tornado did great damage. In Aiken the Catholic chapel was blown down and not a stick was left standing. A negro house was knocked down by a falling tree and miles of fencing blown down. At the Woodward plantation near Windsor every building and gin-house was blown down except the dwelling house and store. Two negro children were killed and several negroes wounded. One hailstone measured 6¾ inches in circumference. At Florence trees were torn up and thrown across the railroad track and a negro man was killed. In Camak, Georgia, every house in the place was blown down; the hotel a perfect wreck. The depot was blown down and several persons who were in it were badly injured, two negroes being buried in the debris and killed. One man got under a railroad car laden with guano, the car was upset and the man instantly killed. Every freight car at the station was overthrown. The noise attendant upon the tornado was terrific. A portion of the track of the Charlotte, Columbia and Augusta Railroad was washed up by the flood caused by the rain storm. At Thompson, Ga. several houses were blown down and many persons killed and wounded. The Baptists were holding a meeting near Camak when the storm demolished the Church, killing three persons and wounding twenty five. The loss of property was very great in Columbia county Ga. Several hundred thousand dollars will not cover it, while the suffering is reported to be very great in the devastated section.

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF RALEIGH EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING.---TERMS $2.20 POSTAGE PAID.

Our Agents.

All the travelling and local preachers in the bounds of the several Annual Conferences are our authorized Agents. Any person sending us ten subscribers, for one year, with the cash, will receive the paper free.

Our Corresponbents.

Communications for publication should be clearly written, and on but one side of the sheet. All letters relative to the paper should be addressed to the Editor.

How to Remit.

In sending money, all amounts should be sent in registered letter, post office order or check. The cost of registration, or Post Office order can be deducted from the amount to be sent. It is safer to send other sums than here specified at the owner's risk.

General News.

It is said there are 47 millionaires in Boston and 1,000 female teachers in the public schools.

The House of Representatives of Ohio passed, on the four and five hundredth ballot, Stanley Matthews's resolution.

Ohio has a record of which she may justly feel proud. Since the organization of the State, she has given to the Union seven Presidents, two Chief Justices, and a host of statesmen, jurists, orators, and soldiers.

The Virginia Conference has resolved unanimously to demand the Labor Statutes by the present session of the Legislature.

Mr. C. Kingsley, the author of "Alton Locke," died on the 23d of January, 1875, in the 56th year of his age.

The Methodist Episcopal Church South has 1,875 ministers, 1,875 churches, and 1,875 Sunday-schools.

Mr. H. K. Brooks, a prominent citizen of Lexington, Ky., was murdered on the night of the 15th inst., by a negro named Jerry Turner, who was arrested and lodged in jail.

Mr. Beecher has returned to Brooklyn, and resumed his pulpit duties. He is said to be in excellent health and spirits.

Mr. Gladstone has resigned the leadership of the British Liberal party, and Lord Hartington has been chosen to succeed him.

Mr. Disraeli, the Premier of England, is dead. He was a Jew by birth, and was born in London in 1805.

Mr. Spurgeon, the celebrated London preacher, has been very ill, but is now convalescent.

Mr. Wm. Cullen Bryant, the poet, died on the 12th inst., in the 80th year of his age.

Mr. Thomas Carlyle, the celebrated author, died on the 5th inst., in the 81st year of his age.

Mr. Jefferson Davis has been released on bail, and is now at liberty.

Mr. Wm. Lloyd Garrison died on the 24th ult., in the 70th year of his age.

Mr. Peter Cooper died on the 4th inst., in the 85th year of his age.

Mr. Wm. Cullen Bryant, the poet, died on the 12th inst., in the 80th year of his age.

Mr. Thomas Carlyle, the celebrated author, died on the 5th inst., in the 81st year of his age.

Mr. Jefferson Davis has been released on bail, and is now at liberty.

Mr. Wm. Lloyd Garrison died on the 24th ult., in the 70th year of his age.

Mr. Peter Cooper died on the 4th inst., in the 85th year of his age.

Elizabeth Fuller was born May 4th 1796 and died in Union co. Jan 17th 1875. Truly we may say a mother in Israel has fallen. Trained by Scotch Irish Presbyterian parents, and converted by the holy spirit, she had a firm foundation upon which to build a good Methodist life which was spent in doing good to her neighbors and training her own family for usefulness, all of whom are highly respectable members of Methodist

HER PASTOR.

Miss Mary Louisa Long died Feb. 8th 1875 in the 39th year of her age, at the residence of her brother in Washington co. N. C., after a severe and protracted illness of three months. Miss Mollie attended her self to the M. E. Church when quite young. She was an invalid for five years before her death; during which time she was tenderly cared for by two brothers and a kind sister that refuse to be comforted. On the day of her death it was heart rending to hear her entreat her weeping sister to relieve her; and to hear the sister's reply, "Gently would I bear all of your pain if I could, but since I cannot, ask him who can" and then she would repeat the prayers that fell from her pious sister's lips with the simplicity of a child. This continued until evening when her countenance brightened as she said, "What a pleasant face!" We pray that it might have been the face of some holy angel hovering near to bear her departed soul to a home in heaven. After this her eyes closed and she passed away.

Sweetly—we dream that sleep of death;
What fears await the spirit on its waking breath.

A YOUNG FRIEND.

PEACE, PREACHING SANDERS.

He was duly appointed Commissioner, appointed to the office of Commissioner of Deeds, and duly qualified as such.

Mr. H. K. Brooks, a prominent citizen of Lexington, Ky., was murdered on the night of the 15th inst., by a negro named Jerry Turner, who was arrested and lodged in jail.

Mr. Beecher has returned to Brooklyn, and resumed his pulpit duties. He is said to be in excellent health and spirits.

Mr. Gladstone has resigned the leadership of the British Liberal party, and Lord Hartington has been chosen to succeed him.

Mr. Disraeli, the Premier of England, is dead. He was a Jew by birth, and was born in London in 1805.

Mr. Spurgeon, the celebrated London preacher, has been very ill, but is now convalescent.

Mr. Wm. Cullen Bryant, the poet, died on the 12th inst., in the 80th year of his age.

Mr. Thomas Carlyle, the celebrated author, died on the 5th inst., in the 81st year of his age.

Mr. Jefferson Davis has been released on bail, and is now at liberty.

Mr. Wm. Lloyd Garrison died on the 24th ult., in the 70th year of his age.

Mr. Peter Cooper died on the 4th inst., in the 85th year of his age.

Whereas I have [illegible] conduct in the [illegible] session of his [illegible] to call [illegible] Lovell Sasser, [illegible] Church [illegible] Sanderlin [illegible] Sanderlin [illegible] Quarterly Conference [illegible] Council [illegible] Conference, by Motion [illegible] Wednesday [illegible] a majority voted [illegible] Sanderlin [illegible] Conference [illegible] Sanderlin [illegible] Conference [illegible] Sanderlin [illegible] Conference

Children's Column.

The following additional answers have been received:

The Disciples were first called christians at Antioch, as appears by Acts 11th ch. 26th verse.

Misses Mamie Betts, Maggie McKinzie, Rosa Lee Jordan and S. Anna Parker, and Masters C. A. Wood and Wilber E. Ormond.

The word 'Philadelphia' occurs in Rev. 3rd ch. 7th v.

Misses Florence Mercer, Maggie McKinzie, Nellie L. Mendenhall, S. Anna Parker and Masters Wilber E. Ormond, Jas. R. Betts C. A. Wood, and E. A. Gaston.

The word 'melons' occurs in Numbers 11th ch. 5th verse. Misses Sallie R. Betts, Florence Mercer, Maggie McKinzie Rosa Lee Jordan, Lillia A. Wade, Maggie C. Woods, S. Anna Parker and Masters Wilber E. Ormond and C. A. Wood.

The word 'Ink' occurs in 2nd John 12th verse, and 3rd John 13th v. Misses Florence Mercer, Maggie McKinzie Rosa Lee Jordan, S. Anna Parker, Anna Lee Merritt, and Wilber E. Ormond, Jas. B. Betts and C. A. Wood.

The word 'celestial' is found in 1 Corinthians 15th ch. 40th verse. Misses Mamie Betts, Florence Mercer, Maggie McKinzie Rosa Lee Jordan, S. Anna Parker, Anna Lee Merritt and Wilber E. Ormand and C. A. Woods.

The words 'love,' 'loveth' and 'beloved' are in 1st John 4th ch. Misses Sudie Walker, Lorena P. Bobbitt, Nannie C. Durham Mary L. Allison, and Cora A. Crews.

All the letters in the alphabet except j occur in Ezra 7th ch. 21st verse. Misses Mollie W. Norman Anna C. Woodburn Lena Stewart, Cora A. Crews, Hattie Paylor, Cora V. Lyon and J. Hallie Bobbitt.

The word 'lady' occurs in Isaiah 47th ch. 5th and 7th verse 2nd John 1st ch. 1st v. Esther 1st ch. 18th v. Judges 5th ch. 29th v. Misses Nannie C. Durham and Anna C. Woodburn.

'Reverend' occurs in 111th Psalm 9th verse. C. J. Falls and Thos. A Clarke.

'Headband' is found in Isaiah 3rd chap. 20th verse. Miss Lillia A. Wade.

Misses Cora A. Crews and Maggie C. Woods write that the 19th chap. of 2nd Kings and 37th chap. Isaiah are alike.

Misses Anna C. Woodburn Cora V. Lyon and Mary J. Byerly write that Og King of Bashan, owned the iron-bedstead the length of which was 9 cubits or 12½ feet, and width 4 cubits or 6½ feet. Deut. 3rd ch. 11th v.

Miss Rosa Lee Jordan writes that James and John were partners with Simon in fishing. They brought their ship to land and straightway followed the Saviour and became fishers of men. Luke 5th ch. 10th v.

Misses Rosa Lee Jordan and S. Anna Parker write that Joseph's name was changed to Zaphnath—Panneah because he sustained the people in the famine. Gen. 41st chap. 45th verse.

Miss Lillia Wade reports that three certain verses repeated 12 times each, are found in 7th chap. of Numbers.

Misses Mamie Betts, Maggie McKinzie, Rosa Lee Jordan, Cora A. Crews, S. Anna Parker, and W. E. Ormand, Z. J. Needham and C. A. Wood write that Elisha caused iron to swim, as is related in 2nd Kings 6th ch. and 6th verse.

Misses Mamie Betts, Maggie McKinzie, Rosa Lee Jordan, Lillia A. Wade, S. Anna Parker, and W. E. Ormand and C. A. Woods find that Hezekiah broke the brazen serpent and called it Nehushtan. 2nd Kings 18th ch. 4th v.

Miss Rosa Lee Jordan gives the names of two kings of Egypt, to wit: Necheh 2nd Kings 23rd ch. 29th verse, Shishak 2 Chronicles 12th ch. and 2nd verse. In addition to those Miss R. E. Clayton gives the names of three others, to wit: Hophra Jer. 44th chap. 30th v. Necho, Jer. 46th ch. 22nd v. So 2 kings 17th chap 4th verse.

Misses Mary M Long, S. Anna Parker, Lilhe A. Wade, Rosa Lee Jordan, Emma L. Langley and Dorcas C. Gaston and Z. J. Needham find that the 5th verse of 35th ch. of Numbers has 57 word.

Misses Lorena P. Bobbitt, Anna C. Woodburn, Cora A. Crews, R. E. Clayton, Anna Lee Merritt, Cora V. Lyon and Mary J. Byerly send the following answer to the Bible Enigma: Its first is Jehoshaphat, son of King Asa; its second is Enoch, father of Methuselah; its third is Raamah, fourth son of Cush; its fourth is Uz, the eldest son of Aram; its fifth is Salome, the mother of James and John; its sixth is Abihail, father of Esther; its seventh Lebanon, the famous mountain; its eighth is Elizabeth, mother of John the Baptist; its ninth is Meshech, son of Japheth. The whole is composed of the initial letters of those words, to-wit: Jerusalem, the most noted city in Canaan.

Willie H. Bobbitt, son of the Senior Editor of the Advocate, in answer to the question of Mary Lee Hargrove, says that the first message ever transmitted over the telegraph wire by a recording telegraph was "What hath God wrought!" Numbers 23rd ch. and 23rd verse. It was sent from Washington to Baltimore on May 24th 1844 at 8,45 o clock a. m., and was suggested to Prof. Morse by Miss Annie G. Ellsworth, a young school girl and the daughter of his intimate friend Hon. Henry L. Ellsworth, commissioner of Patents. Miss Annie was the first to announce to Prof. Morse that Congress had made an appropriation for his invention and was promised, as her reward, that she should send the first message over the wires.

QUESTIONS.

Miss Mary J. Byerly asks what the offence was for which Moses was excluded from the promised land.

Miss Hattie Paylor asks how many times the word 'Lord' is contained in the Bible.

Miss Emma L. Langly wishes to know how many times the word 'seven' occurs in the Bible

Miss Mollie W. Norman asks which is the shortest and which the longest verse in the Bible.

Charlie A. Wood, who was born away over in China and is a returned missionary, asks for the first place in the Bible where the word Jehovah occurs, and also where the name Jesus Christ occurs.

Willie E. Ormond asks whom Christ called 'fox' and where it is found.

Miss Maggie McKinzie asks what heathenish king took seventy kings captive and cut off their thumbs and great toes and fed them with crumbs from his table.

Miss Anna C. Woodburn asks who it was that took the Book and ate it from whom did he take it and where the account of it is given.

Miss Queen E. Betts asks how old Abram was when his name was changed to Abraham, and by whome was he named.

Miss Cora A. Crews asks who rebuilt Jericho.

BIBLE ENIGMA.

My 1st Begins the name of the youngest son of Noah.

My 2nd begins the name of the wife of Aaron.

My 3rd begins the name of the father of John the Baptist.

My 4th begins the name of the Prophet that made iron swim

My 5th begins the name of the second wife of Abraham.

My 6th begins the name of the fourth son of Aaron.

My 7th begins the name of the eldest son of David.

My 8th begins the name of the Mother of Samuel.

My whole gives the name of the 13th King of Judah.

Yours truly,

R. E. CLAYTON.

University Station N. C., March the 18th 1875.

Farm, Garden & Household.

Matting.

As the summer is approaching, and the time of matting draws near, it may be well to call the attention of housekeepers to the fact, that, as there is a right way of doing everything, there is decidedly a right way to put down Canton matting. It is the almost universal practice to put it down wrong. Most persons cut the lengths, and then, laying the breadths in their proper places on the floor, proceed to drive a vast number of tacks up and down the edges. This method serves the purpose of keeping the covering very tightly on the floor, but it injures the boards, and ruins the matting. Every tack breaks one straw, and perhaps more.

These Canton mattings are made on boats, where they are woven in short pieces about two yards long These short pieces are afterwards joined together on the shore in lengths of about forty yards. It is easy to see where these two yard pieces are joined, and the first thing to be done, after the matting is cut into the proper lengths, is to sew these places across and across on the wrong side to keep the joints from opening. Then sew the breadths together, and tack it to the floor in the same way that you treat a carpet. Matting made in this way will last fully twice as long as where they are tacked in every breadth.

A good matting should last six or seven years.

—Home and Society; Scribner for April.

The "Housekeeper" of our Health.

The liver is the great depurating or blood cleansing organ of the system. Set the great housekeeper of our health at work, and the foul corruptions which gender in the blood and rot out, as it were, the machinery of life, are gradually expelled from the system. For this purpose Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, with small daily doses of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets are pre-eminently the articles needed. They cure every kind of humor from the worst scrofula to the common pimple, blotch or eruption Great eating ulcers kindly heal under their mighty curative influence. Virulent blood poisons that lurk in the system are by them robbed of their terrors, and by their persevering and somewhat protracted use the most ruined system may be completely renovated and built up new. Enlarged glands, tumors and swellings dwindle away and disappear under the influence of their great resolvents. Sold by all dealers in medicines. march 31-1

A Royal Organ

The stomach has been well named a "royal organ," since it sways and controls the entire system, every gland, tissue and nerve sympathizing with it at the servants of a prince sympathize with their master. Each one of them is fed and sustained by it—even the brain itself, the centre of sensation, is absolutely dependent upon it for sustenance. Consequently, when the stomach fails to perform its all-important office the subordinate organs also falter in their duty The reason why Hostetter's Stomach Bitters have such wondrously beneficial effect upon the general health and are such a reliable preventive of disease, is that they speedily overcome weakness or disorders of the stomach, and thus insure complete nourishment of the entire system and a healthful performance of its various functions. Unlike those stimulants whose alcoholic principle is unmodified by judicious meditation, the impurious basis of these Bitters, which is of the purest description, holds in solution herbal alteratives and invigorants to which a foremost rank has been assigned in medicine. But it is not alone the fact that these sovereign botanic elements enter into the composition of the Bitters that constitutes them such a remedy for indigestion and correctness, but also that they are so happily combined that the full effect of each is exerted upon the disordered or debilitated system. The digestive and secretive organs are the first to experience their beneficent operation, which extends, by sympathy, to the brain, the nerves and the circulation. The influence thus exerted is fruitful of those great sanitary results which have built up the reputation of this truly national medicine. march 17 1-f

ELECTION NOTICE!

By virtue of the powers conferred on us by act of the General Assembly entitled "An act concerning the city of Raleigh," we do hereby give notice that Books or Registration will be opened for the electors of the city of Raleigh to register therein, by the following Registrars and at the following places in the respective Wards, to-wit:

FIRST WARD:

J. J. CHRISTOPHERS, Registrar, at A. Upchurch's Coach Shop on Hargett Street.

SECOND WARD:

L. O. MANLY, Registrar, at Grange Hotel corner Wil. and Davie Streets.

THIRD WARD:

J. J. LEWIS, Registrar, at Court House.

FOURTH WARD:

E. O. MACEY, Registrar, at the office of the Gas Company, corner of Dawson and Cabarrus Streets.

FIFTH WARD:

GEORGE H. WILLIAMS, Registrar, at John Brown's store opposite Masonic Hall, Morgan Street.

These books will be opened on the 2nd day of March 1875, and will close April 2nd, 1875.

March 17 2-w. BOARD OF COMMR'S OF WAKE CO.

EAST INDIA HEMP.

And What We Know About It.

Instead of devoting a column to the merits of this strange and wonderful plant, we remain silent and let it speak for itself through other lips than ours believing that the who have suffered most can better tell

We will here quote word for word from, letters recently received, simply adding outestimony to the rest in saying, that when this plant is properly prepared, we know that it positively cures consumption, and will break up a fresh cold in twenty-four hours.

St. Mary's Church, Allegheny City, Pa., Nov. 16, 1874.

The East Indi- Hemp has been taken by Rev. Matthias Binder, O. S. B., and Rev. Sebastian Arnold, O. S. B., both assistant pastors of this church, and so far has given relief to both. They suffered from affections of the lungs and bronchial organs. We have recommended through charity to sufferers, the Cannabis Indica to different persons, and continue the same in good conscience, knowing the effects by experience. Please find enclosed check for twelve bottles of syrup, pills and ointment. We shall inform you in due time what further success the medicine shall meet with.

Yours truly,

REV. FERDINAND WOLF, O. S. B 87 Washington Street

China Grove, Rowan Co., N. C., Oc. 21, 1874.

——Send one dozen Ointment and one of Cannabis Indica. When Mr. J. W. Fisher brought it wife to me for examination, found her in the incipient stage of tuberculous consumption. Then it was I concluded to make a fair trial of India Hemp, and now there is a general demand for those remedies. The change was everything and anything of its kind I ever saw or tried; in many cases it acts like a charm.

Gratefully yours,

P. V. SIFFORD, M. D.

Lidgerwills, Caswell, N. C., Sept. 12, 1874.

Inclosed is $10 for more of the Indian Hemp. I can truly say that the medicine has done me more good than all the doctors, and I had several of the best in the country. My cough is gone, feel better, and my chills and night sweats are gone You may look for several names soon as many have seen it effect of the medicine on me.

W. A. FULLER.

Columbus, O., Oct. 31 1874

Your treatment for consumption has so improved my condition, that the party comes every day from my friends, what are you taking? Several are taking of sending for some of your medicine, and June, Hall declines me to order for him $9 worth of the Hemp.

WM. HUNT, North High Street.

P. S.—It is my opinion that as agent at this place could establish a trade for you.

W. H.

Decherd, Franklin, Tenn., Sept. 19, 1874.

——Send three more bottles of your consumption and bronchitis cure. My son began taking the Hemp last night Have no sign, and feel to improving rapidly. The last ten days have made him look and act like another person. I have great hopes.

J. M. BEATTON

Dear Sirs, Powesheik, Iowa, Jan. 3, 1874.

I have just seen your advertisement in my paper. I know all about the Cannabis Indica Fifteen years ago it cured my daughter of the Asthma. She had it very bad for several years but was perfectly cured.

JACOB TROUT.

N. B.—This Remedy speaks for itself. A single bottle will satisfy the most skeptical $2.50 per bottle, or three bottles for $6.50. Pills and Ointment $1 25 each. Sent all over the country. Address

CRANDLER & Co., 1032 Race Street, Philadelphia.

DR. M'LANE'S Celebrated American WORM SPECIFIC, OR VERMIFUGE.

SYMPTOMS OF WORMS.

THE countenance is pale and leaden-colored, with occasional flushes, or a circumscribed spot on one or both cheeks; the eyes become dull; the pupils dilate; an azure semicircle runs along the lower eyelid; the nose is irritated, swells, and sometimes bleeds; a swelling of the upper lip; occasional headache, with humming or throbbing of the ears; an unusual secretion of saliva; slimy or furred tongue; breath very foul, particularly in the morning; appetite variable, sometimes voracious, with a gnawing sensation of the stomach, at others, entirely gone; fleeting pains in the stomach; occasional nausea and vomiting; violent pains throughout the abdomen; bowels irregular, at times costive; stools slimy; not unfrequently tinged with blood; belly swollen and hard; urine turbid; respiration occasionally difficult, and accompanied by hiccough; cough sometimes dry and convulsive; uneasy and disturbed sleep, with grinding of the teeth; temper variable, but generally irritable, &c.

Whenever the above symptoms are found to exist,

DR. M'LANE'S VERMIFUGE

Will certainly effect a cure.

The universal success which has attended the administration of this preparation has been such as to warrant us in pledging ourselves to the public to

RETURN THE MONEY

in every instance where it should prove ineffectual: "providing the symptoms attending the sickness of the child or adult should warrant the supposition of worms being the cause." In all cases the Medicine to be given IN STRICT ACCORDANCE WITH THE DIRECTIONS.

We pledge ourselves to the public, that Dr. M'Lane's Vermifuge DOES NOT CONTAIN MERCURY in any form; and that it is an innocent preparation, not capable of doing the slightest injury to the most tender infant.

Address all orders to

FLEMING BROS., PITTSBURGH, PA.

P. S. Dealers and Physicians ordering from others than Fleming Bros., will do well to write their orders distinctly, and take care that Dr. M'Lane's, prepared by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa. To those wishing to give them a trial, we will forward per mail, post-paid, to any part of the United States, one box of Pills for twelve three-cent postage stamps, or one vial of Vermifuge for fourteen three-cent stamps. All orders from Canada must be accompanied by twenty cents extra.

☞ For sale by Druggists, and Country Storekeepers generally.

SCHOOL MUSIC BOOKS.

Commence your instruction with

AMERICAN SCHOOL MUSIC READERS!

IN 3 BOOKS.

Book I [35 cts] has a charming course for Primary Schools. Book II [55 cts] has one equally attractive for Grammar Schools, and Book III [51 cts] is fitted for higher Grammar classes and High Schools. The very practical, interesting and thorough course in these books was constructed by L. O. Emerson and W. S. Tilden.

For a companion book use

CHERRUL VOICE. A large collection of gems School Songs, by L. O. Emerson. A popular book 50 cts.

Afterward take up

THE HOUR OF SINGING CHOICE TRIOS, or THE SONG MONARCH.

These books are for High Schools and Academies The Hour of Singing [$1.00] by L. O. Emerson and W. S. Tilden, is arranged for 3, 3 or 4 voices Choice Trios [$1.00] by W. S. Tilden, for 3 voices, are choice in every sense, and The Song Monarch 75 cts. by H. R. Palmer, assisted by L. O Emerson as a book for Singing Classes, is equally good for High Schools.

All books sent, post-paid, for retail price.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., C. H. DITSON & CO. Boston. 711 B'dway, New York

March 24-4t

PREMIUM CHESTER WHITE PIGS—$15 each, $28 a pair, Chester County MAMMOTH CORN, and Imported BELGIAN OATS. 4 lbs by mail, $1; peck $2; ½ bushel $3; bushel $5. Circulars and Sample Packages of 8 eds Free for 3 stamps Address.

R. P. BOYER Parkesburg, Chester, co Pa.

march 3 3-w4s

OLD NORTH STATE FIRE Insurance Company. OF WARRENTON, - - - N. C.

Capital Stock, $107.600.00

ASSETTS:

Mortgages on Real Estate	$ 45 050.00
National Bank Stock	1 00.00
Solvent Stock Notes	51,550.00
Cash and Loans on Call	2 502.95
Due from Agents	2 669.62
Agents Pappilos	694.85
Office furniture (Safe, &c)	796.16
Accrued Interest	800.00
	$ 122,993.63

LIABILITIES.

Amount necessary to reinsure all unexpired risks on the basis of the New York law, $10,000.

$1,229 Assets to Every $100 of Technical Liabilities.

According to the past experience of the Company we have

$2,458 Assets to Every $100 Liability to

OFFICERS:

Col. W. S. DAVIS President.
N. S. JONES, Vice-President.
H. F. LONG, Secretary.
WM. J. NEAWOOD, Treasurer
T. C. WILLIAMS, Supervisor.

1874. FALL STOCK. 1874. NEW GOODS! GOOD QUALITY!!

LOW PRICES!!!

—o—

JOS. P. GULLEY,

RETAILER AND JOBBER OF

Dry Goods, Notions, Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Trunks, Valises, White Goods, &c., &c.,

RALEIGH, N. C.

My large and carefully selected stock for the Fall and Winter is now in store, and I respectfully invite all in search of good goods and low prices, to call and examine for themselves.

BURT'S GAITERS and BOOTS FOR GENTS.

To those who have bought and used these goods we need only to say that we have a full line of them.—For durability and neatness of fit they are unexcelled.

Also Mlle's and Grafts hand made shoes for the Ladies.

PRINTS! PRINTS! PRINTS!

A large stock of the latest patterns, at price that cannot be excelled

Respectfully, JOSEPH P. GULLEY.

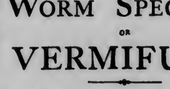
Corner Fayetteville and Market Square.

oct 7-1y

FROM HENRY J. BROWN,

Opposite Masonic Hall.

RALEIGH, N. C.,



UNDERTAKER,

Keeps on hand Fisk's Metallic Burial Cases Self Sealing Metallic Burial Cases, and Walnut and other Wood Coffins HEARSE FOR HIRE.

Also Dealer in Furniture. Repairing and Varnishing Promptly Executed

apr 19-1f

1874. SPRING AND SUMMER GOODS. 1875.

D. S. WAITT & BRO.

are offering a LARGE and ATTRACTIVE stock of FINE AND CHEAP CLOTHING,

GENTS FURNISHING GOODS AND SUCK WEAR

Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps,

OVERCOATS, SHAWLS AND RUBBER GOODS.

Manhattan Fine White Shirts,

MARINO SHIRTS, DRAWERS AND HOSIERY.

PAPER AND LINEN COLLARS, Suspenders, Handkerchiefs and Yankee Notions.

Fancy and Domestic Dry Goods,

Black Alpaca's, Corded Alpaca's, Plaid Worsted,

Figured and Plain Delanes,

Red, White and Figured Flannels, Opera Flannels.

WHITE AND BROWN BLANKETS,

Counterpins, Comforters, Bed Quilts & Spreads

LADIES STRIPED AND PLAID SHAWLS,

Breakfast Shawls, Knit Sacks, Jackets and Hoods,

GINGHAMS, PLAID HOMESPUNS AND TICKINGS,

Brown and Bleached Sheetings and Shirtings,

CORSETS, JEANS, CAMBRICS AND LININGS,

Trunks, Valises, Umbrellas, Travelling Bags, &c.

I have this day associated with me my brother, Capt. GEO. N. WAITT, formerly Conductor on the North Carolina Railroad, and the firm of D. S. Waitt will hereafter be known as

D. S. WAITT & BROTHER.

To my friends and the public generally, I return my thanks for the liberal patronage bestowed, and respectfully solicit a continuation of the same for the future. Country merchants who buy in the city would do well to examine our stock which is now complete in every department.

D. S. WAITT.

jan 13-tf

POPULAR AND USEFUL BOOKS

Royal Diadem, (S. S. Note)	35
Amaranth, " "	35
Bright Jewels, " "	35
Happy Voices, " "	35
The Charm " "	35
The Morning Star " "	35
Pure Gold, " "	35
Songs of Salvation, " "	30
Wesleyan Catechisms No. 1,	50
Wesleyan " No. 2,	75
Wesleyan " No. 3,	1.00
Bibles, (pocket size) from 75 a	5.00
Bibles, Family, from 3.00 to	$100
Children of the Abbey 12mo cloth,	1.50
Robinson Crusoe, 12mo cloth,	1.50
Shakespeare, 12mo cloth	1.50
Pilgrims Progress, 12mo cloth, pictorial,	1.50
Methodist Hymn and Tune Books, 12mo cloth,	75
Ready Reckoners, from 35 cts to	60
Little Writers, (board covers) 50 to	60
Life of Daniel Boon, 12mo cloth,	1.50
Bible Dictionary, (the best)	1.75
Picture Books (highly illustrated) from 5cts to	2.00
Methodist Hymn books from 50 cts to	4.00
Baptist Hymn Books, from 75 to	2.50
Presbyterian Hymn Books, from 50 cts	2.50
Episcopal Prayer Books, from 75 cts to	5.00
Photograph Albums, from 75 cts to	6.00
Major Jones Courtship, paper cover,	75
Abbotts Mary Queen of Scotts,	1.50
Abbotts Queen Elizabeth,	1.50
Abbotts Maria Antoinette,	1.50
Aesop's Fables,	1.50
Arabian Knights Entertainment,	1.50

Send cash and add 10 cents on the dollar, and I will mail any of the above.

☞ Order any other book you want.

L. BRANSON, Raleigh, N. C.

april 6-12m

TRINITY COLLEGE.

The next half-session will commence Jan. 15th 1875, and end June 10th.

Whole expense for all items, books and clothing excepted, from $80 to $100. In addition to the best college advantages, many inducements are offered to students of the School, or Preparatory course.

B. CRAVEN, Pres.

Jan 6-3m.

SCHEDULES.

PIEDMONT & AIR-LINE RAILWAY.

RICHMOND & DANVILLE, RICHMOND & DANVILLE R. W., N. C. DIVISION, and NORTH WESTERN N. C. R. W.

CONDENSED TIME-TABLE.

In effect on and after Sunday, Dec. 27th, 1874.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	MAIL.	EXPRESS.
Leave Charlotte	10.00 P. M	8.35 A. M.
" Air-Line Junc'n	10 08 "	8.56 "
" Salisbury	12.20 A. M	10.54 "
" Greensboro'	3.43 "	1.15 P. M.
" Danville	6.13 "	3.36 "
" Dundee	6.23 "	3.48 "
" Burkville	11.31 "	8.20 "
Arrive at Richmond	2.22 P. M	11.05 P. M.

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS	MAIL.	EXPRESS.
Leave Richmond	1.38 P. M	5.03 A. M.
" Burkville	4.41 "	"
" Dundee	9.25 "	"
" Danville	2 29 "	1 12 P. M.
" Greensboro	12.35 A. M.	4.10 "
" Salisbury	3.27 "	6.51 "
" Air Line Junc'n	6.15 "	8.32 "
Arrive at Charlo, &c.	6.22 A M	8.40 "

GOING EAST. GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Mail.	Mail.
Leave Greensboro'	3.35 A. M.	Arrive 11.30 P. M.
" Co. Shops	5.06 "	Leave 10.15 "
" Raleigh	8.4. "	" 8.35 "
Arrive at Goldsboro	11.25 A. M	Leave 7.35 P. M.

NORTH WESTERN N. C. R. R

(SALEM BRANCH.)

Leave Greensboro'	4.20 P. M.
Arrive at Salem	6.10 "
Leave Salem	9.20 A. M.
Arrive at Greensboro	11.15 "

Passenger train leaving Raleigh at 4.38 P. M. connects at Greensboro' with the Northern bound train; making the quickest time to all N. & them cities. Price of Tickets same as via other Lines.

Trains to and from points East of Greensboro connect at Greensboro with Mail Trains to or from points North or South.

Two trains daily, both ways.

On Salem Lynchburg Accommodation leave Richmond a 9.00 A. M. arrive at Burkeville 12.45 P. M., leave Burkeville 4.55 A. M., arrive at Richmond 8.38 A. M.

Pullman Palace Cars on all night trains between Charlotte and Richmond, (without change.)

Papers and have arrangements to advertise the schedule of this company will please print as above.

For further information address

S. E. ALLEN, Gen'l Ticket Agent, Greensboro, N. C.

T. M. R. TALCOTT, Engineer & Gen'l Sup. t Raleigh.

—o:o—

CHANGE OF SCHEDULE.

RALEIGH & GASTON RAILROAD CO.

On and after Friday, May 22nd, 1874, trains on the Raleigh & Gaston Railroad, will run daily (Sunday excepted) as follows:

MAIL TRAIN.

Leave Raleigh,	9.45 A. M.
Arrives at Weldon,	3.30 P. M.
Leaves Weldon,	9.50 A. M.
Arrives at Raleigh,	4.35 P. M.

ACCOMODATION TRAIN.

Leaves Raleigh,	5.15 A. M.
Arrives at Weldon,	5.15 P. M.
Leaves Weldon,	2.2 A. M.
Arrives at Raleigh	2.45 P. M.

Mail train makes close connection at Weldon, with the Seaboard and Roanoke Railroad and Bay Line Steamers via Baltimore, to and from all points North, West and N. thwest, and with Petersburg Railroad via Petersburg, Richmond and Washington City to and from all points North and Northwest.

And at Raleigh with the North Carolina Railroad to and from all points South and Southwest, and with the Raleigh & Augusta Air Line to Hay wood and Fayetteville.

A. B. ANDREWS, Gen. Supt.

—o:o—

RALEIGH & AUGUSTA AIR-LINE RAILROAD.

SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE, Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 27th, 1874.

On and after Monday, October 26th, 1874, trains on the R. & A. A. L. Road will run daily, (sundays excepted,) as follows:

MAIL TRAIN.

Mail leaves Raleigh,	4.00 P. M.
Arrives at Sanford,	6.25 "
Train leaves Sanford,	6.30 A. M
Arrives at Raleigh,	9.20 "

FREIGHT TRAIN.

Leaves Raleigh,	5.15 A. M.
Arrives at Sanford	10.35 A. M.
Leaves Sanford,	11.00 A. M
Arrives at Raleigh	3.30 P. M.

Mail train makes close connection at Raleigh with the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad, to and from all points North

And at Sanford with the Western Railroad, to and from Fayetteville and points on Western Railroad.

A. B. ANDREWS, Superintendent.

—o:o—

OFFICE DEPT OF TRANSPORTATION, Seaboard & Roanoke R. R. Co., Portsmouth, Va., Jan. 1st, 1875.

On and after this date, trains of this Road will leave Weldon daily, Sundays excepted, as follows:

Mail train at	4 P. M.
No. 1 Freight train at	4 A. M.
No. 2 Freight train at	8 A. M.

ARRIVE AT PORTSMOUTH.

Mail train at	7 15 P. M.
No. 1 Freight at	12 00 NOON
No. 2 Freight at	4 00 P. M

Freight trains have a passenger car attached.

Steamer for Edenton, Plymouth and Landings on Chowan river and Roanoke River Franklin at 7 30 A M on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays

E. G. GHIO. Supt. Trans ortation.

S. COLLINS & CO., Manufacturers of PRINTING INK, 26 Frankfort St., New York.

Agents in North Carolina, W. H. Bernard, Sr., Wilmington, of, who all these links can be obtained. jan 27 3m

STIEFF

GRAND, SQUARE, AND UPRIGHT PIANOS

Have received awards of FIFTY FIRST PREMIUMS and are among the best now made. Every instrument fully warranted for five years. Prices as low as the exclusive use of the very best materials and the most thorough workmanship will permit. The principal artists and composers, and the piano-purchasing public of the South especially, unite in the unanimous verdict of the superiority of the STIEFF PIANO. The DURABILITY of our instruments is fully established by over sixty school and colleges in the South, using over 200 of our Pianos.

Sole Wholesale Agents for several of the principal manufacturers of Cabinet and Parlor Organs; prices from $50 to $600. A liberal discount to Clergymen and Sabbath schools.

A large assortment of second-hand Pianos at prices ranging from $50 to $150, always on hand.

Send for illustrated Catalogue, containing names of over 300 Southerners, who have bought and are using the Stieff Piano.

CHARLES M. STIEFF, Warerooms, No. 9 North Liberty street.

Factories, 84 & 86 Camden st. and 45 & 47 Perry st, Dec 16-12m Baltimore, Md.

FURNITURE

W. H. Morris & Co

No. 3 Fayetteville Street.

RALEIGH, N. C.

Dealer in all kinds of furniture, such as Walnut Chamber Sets, Cottage Chamber Sets, Parlor Sets, Dining Room Sets, Bedsteads, Bureaus, Wardrobes, Washstands, Tables, Chairs, Sofas, Lounges, Spring Beds of various patterns, Cribs and Cradles in great variety of styles, patterns and prices. Wood and Marble top centre tables &c.

ALSO

keeps constantly on hand and make to order all kind of Mattresses, such as pure Curled Hair, Cotton and Shuck, Excelsior and Shuck Mattresses. Old Hair Mattresses renovated and made as good as new.

No trouble to show goods. Call and examine before purchasing elsewhere.

W. H. MORRIS & CO

nov 20-tf

READ THIS

I will give any one an opportunity to make from $2 to $5 per day to work for me. Work easy and light. A boy 10 years old can fill the bill. Send stamp for particulars. Apply to

R. L. POWELL. Warrenton N. C.

nov. 25 12 m.

WIRE RAILING & ORNAMENTAL Wire Works. DUFUR & CO.

36 North Howard Street, Baltimore, Md

Manufacture WIRE RAILING for Cemeteries, Balconies, &c., SHUTTERS, FENCES, GUARD SAND AND COAL SCREENS, WOVEN WIRE, &c. Also, IRON BEDSTEAD CHAIRS, SETTEES, &c., &c.

Feb 19-12m

A NEW BOOK.

Life, Sermons, and Speeches OF Rev. N. F. Reid, D. D. LATE OF THE NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE BY HIS SONS James W. and Frank L. Reid.

A handsome volume of 536 pages.

A fine Steel Engraving of Dr. Reid in each copy.

NOW READY FOR DELIVERY.

BE SURE TO GET A COPY.

Price in alligator, gilt edge, $3 50.
" " Cloth, 2 00.

Agents wanted to whom liberal commissions will be made. Single copies sent by mail, post-age paid, on receipt of retail price

Address, REV P. L. REID, Louisburg, N. C. or JAS. W. REID, Westward N. C.

G. T. LEACH, N. Y. M. T. LEACH

Leach Brothers, WHOLESALE GROCERS AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

SOUTH-EAST CORNER MARKET SQUARE, Raleigh, N. C

Again we take great pleasure in presenting our card and returning thanks to the residents of the ADJACENTS for their very liberal patronage during the past few years, and offer to-day the largest and best bought stock of Groceries ever offered in any market south of Baltimore, and while just now Bacons, Sugars and Lard are very scarce and high, we have made extra effort and feel sure we have succeeded in bringing other goods equally low and in end giving our friends all the advantages gained thereby to counter balance any advance in the few goods named

We wish to invite especial attention to our select stock of single Barrels and Family Boots bought direct from the Factories and offered here AT FIRST PROFITS.

We have now in store:

5,000 lbs. Rio Coffee,
10 Mats old Gov. Java,
10 Hhds A Sugar,
10 Hhds Ex C Sugar,
10 Hhds. B F Yellow Sugar,
20 Hhds Demarara,
20 Boxes Bulk Sides,
10 " " Shoulders,
5 Kegs English Soda,
1,500 lbs. G. D and Sole Leather,
100 Sides Upper Leather,
50 " Harness Leather,
100 Cases Oysters,
50 " Brandy Peaches,
2,000 Yds. Bagging,
6,000 lbs. Ties,
100 Bbls. Super Flour,
100 Bags Assorted Shot,
50 Bbls Extra Flour,
50 Cases Forrester's Crackers,
" Soda Crackers,
60 Boxes Factory and Dairy Cheese,
6,000 W P. and G. B. Cigar Caps,
1 Kegs Burden Horse and Mule Shoes,
200 lbs. Horse Shoe Nails,
50 Boxes Best Axes,
50 Boxes Adamantine Candles,
100 Boxes Laundry and Toilet Soaps.

We offer especial inducements to country and nearby merchants, and invite an examination of our stock defy competition

Oct 7 12 m LEACH BROS

C. WEST & SONS, ALADDIN SECURITY OIL.

The best Oil in use.

Warranted 150 Degrees Fire Test.

Water White in Color.

Fully Deodorized.

AND IT WILL NOT EXPLODE.

It burns in all Coal Oil and Kerosene Lamps.

TRY IT. Ask for "Aladdin Security" and take no other.

C. WEST & SONS, 113 and 115 W. Lombard St., Baltimore, Md. Nov 18-3m

SPECULATORS IN SMOKE.

NEW CIGAR PALACE.

LEOPOLD BROS., Manufacturers Of Fine Cigars Only.

The Only Legitimate and Straightout Cigar House in Raleigh.

PATRONIZE HOME INDUSTRY.

12 Fine Brands manufactured in all conceivable styles.

The very best IMPORTED and DOMESTIC STOCK used in our Cigars.

Our Brands of Cigars are as follows:

THE 10-8 (Copyrighted.)
FLOR DE CUBA
THE FIGARO TWIST. (Celebrated.)
GOLDEN EAGLE. (Imported Stock.)
THE PRINCIPE.
THE OPERA ROSE.
FLOR DEL FUMAR
OLD PLANTATION.
LITTLE MAIMEE.
THE PARLOR

All Orders Punctually Attended to.

In course of manufacture a great brand of Cigar, called the "RALEIGH GEM."

Call and sample at No. 57 Fayetteville Street, Opposite Market, RALEIGH, N. C.

feb 19-3m

L. B. WYATT. B. L. BINGHAM.

Wyatt, Bingham & Co.

Wholesale and Retail Grocers,

COTTON FACTORS AND GENERAL Commission Merchants,

No 4 Market St. and No. 5 Market Exchange, RALEIGH, N. C.

We tender our many thanks to our several customers and friends for their liberal patronage, and hope to merit a continuance of the same by our strict personal and prompt attention to our business, and by offering to them our large and well selected stock of

BOOTS, SHOES, HATS and CAPS,

Staple Dry Goods, Cotton Yarns, Sheetings, Alumance Plaids, and

General Merchandise,

all of which we guarantee to be as recommended, and to sell at the lowest prices.

OUR GROCERY DEPARTMENT

is complete, and we make FLOUR a specialty and guarantee the lowest prices at retail and wholesale, also the quality to be equal or superior to any offered in the market for the price

Raleigh Christian Advocate.

Bobbitt & Gray, Publishers. | Published in the Interests of Methodism in North Carolina. | $2.20 Per Annum, in Advance.

Vol. XXI.---No. 14. | Raleigh, N. C., Wednesday, April 7, 1875. | Whole No. 1,052.

Communicated.

For the Advocate.

To Rev. J. R. Brooks.

Rev. and Dear Brother: You were entirely correct in supposing I would not construe anything in your communication of the 24th ult., to unkindness or disrespect to myself. I believe you to be incapable of either. Your disclaimer that appeared in a subsequent number of the Advocate was unnecessary so far as I was concerned. A "Layman" need not be so sensitive on that score. None of the parties interested have complained of personalities. As Bro. Yates would say, while we can stand it, I think the rest of the world may afford to.

You make an inadvertent mistake when you say that I said that "the theories of Bro. Yates, Bro. Abernethy and yourself are farther from each other than any one of them is from Bro. Robey or myself." I said it would be easier to reconcile Bro. Yates, not any one of you to Bro. Robey or myself. A very material difference. But I do not charge you with a want of "fairness or candor' because you do not quote my identical words.

You say my "theory must stand or fall on its own independent merits."—I suppose you mean your theory, not mine, must stand or fall on its own independent merits. Your theory is the affirmative of a proposition, viz: that the heathen will be saved without a knowledge of the gospel. Mine is but the negative of that proposition. Upon you devolves the burden of proof. If your theory does not prove to be true, it follows as a consequence that mine is true. As the lawyers say, you have to make out your case. And you have a hopeless task before you. You seem to begin to realize it; as you intimate that the Scriptures are not very clear in their teachings as to heathen salvation, and that all the advocates of it differ as to the condition upon which they are to be saved. You might have made that discovery before you committed yourself on that side of the question, if you had not written in such haste.—But if you could now see no revealed way of heathen salvation, you would still believe it, and "should utterly reject and trample under foot" the opposite theory!! Well, such a state of mind is by no means favorable to the reception of truth, and certainly not in a condition to investigate it.—When we arrive at a state of mind that we resolve to adhere to our preconceived opinions, though there is no Scripture to sustain them, and to "reject and trample under foot" the opposite opinions, argument and proof are alike useless, and discussion becomes ridiculous.

But you say, If Dr. C. could show that Bro. Abernethy is a promoter of idolatry, that Bro. Yates is an incorrigible legalist, and that you are a deist, it does not follow that he is not a Calvinist. No, for they are not incompatible with each other. Both may be true, or both may be false, or the one may be true and the other false. But the case is not analagous to the one under discussion. If your position is true, mine is false. If mine is true, yours is false. Did you not see the fallacy? Or did you suppose the readers of the Advocate would not detect it?

You say, the charge that your theory is deism ought to be well sustained by facts. I am glad you have made that discovery. I hope you will profit by it. You have again and again charged Bro. Robey and myself with Calvinism. Even your present article is not clear of it. And yet you have not attempted to produce a particle of proof. How is it that you are so keenly alive to what is due from others to you, and so forgetful of what is due from you to others?—When you have resorted to the argumentum ad populum as your chief weapon in this discussion, and it would seem from the number of times you repeat it, as your only reliance, what right have you to complain if it has been turned against you?

You are a little cautious when you say: "Dr. C. readily offers no substantial proof of the charge at all." There might be a difference of opinion as to what constitutes substantial proof.—Or perhaps you wrote in such haste that you had not time to notice what proof I did offer. I will repeat it for your special benefit.

But I will first give you a presumptive proof that your theory is deism. There has not been one word of communication either directly or indirectly between Bro. Robey and myself in reference to anything you have written. I was in Weldon when I read your communication. I suppose Bro. Robey was at Lenoir, Caldwell co., when he read it. Without any interchange of opinion Bro. Robey pronounced it deism of the most approved type, and I said you had planted yourself fairly on the deistical platform. Now admitting we possess an ordinary degree of intelligence, (which I think you will hardly deny us) how do you account for the fact that with the same article before us, we both came to the same conclusion, viz: That it was deism if there was no deism there?

I will now give you the positive proof.

Deism is a belief in God and his attributes, but not a belief in Christ.

I suppose you will not deny that to be deism. You say, "If his faith embrace and have reference to God's existence and character, especially his merciful disposition towards him, and it move him to confide in and seek God he will reward him with the blessing of pardon and salvation."—You will not deny that is a belief in God and his attributes, but not a belief in Christ. Therefore your theory is deism. It embraces just the belief of a deist, no more and no less. Let us examine it a little further. He is to believe in God's existence and character. That is what he is to believe. Then if that belief move him to confide in and seek God, that is what he is to do, then God will reward him for believing in God's existence and character, and confiding in and seeking God, with the blessing of pardon and salvation. That is the whole of this new theory of salvation. Can you find Christ anywhere in it? I agree with you that it is a grave charge. Deism is not the less deism when it comes from the pen of a christian minister, than when it comes from a professed infidel. The poison is the same when administered by Rev. J. R. Brooks that it is when administered by Thomas Paine. I do not wish to be misunderstood. I do not believe you are a deist, nor that Bro. Yates is a legalist. What I maintain is this: That I have proven beyond successful contradiction that the theory, by which you have attempted to prove that the heathen are saved without the gospel, is deism. And that the theory by which Bro. Yates has attempted to maintain the same thing is legalism. But I have no fear but that when this discussion shall have closed you will both return to the doctrine of your church—that a man can only be saved by faith in the Lord Jesus Christ,—and that you will both be again in harmony with the standard authorities,—Wesley, Watson and Clark.

With sentiments of affectionate regard, I remain as ever, your friend and brother,

William Closs.

Ridgeway, N. C., March 25th, 1875.

For the Advocate.

Messrs Editors. It has been some time since I saw the honest and open face of the North Carolina Christian Advocate. My subscription lapsed, and you declined to exchange with our "Santa Rosa Collegian," published here at the sent of our College. I miss it, with its able editorials, its sound selections, interesting correspondence, State news and names of persons and places dear to memory. The whole church has rejoiced to learn that the past year has been one of great prosperity to our cause in North Carolina. I believe your Conference is now the largest in our connection. You have not yielded to the mania for dividing up our strong old Conferences which has resulted in the mangling and weakening of so many sister bodies. I trust you will adhere to this wise policy. Don't divide your Conference. Stick together. Maintain the prestige of historical association, of members and of union. This advice may appear impertinent, coming from one so long exiled from home—but it is good advice, nevertheless. I once heard Bishop Andrew say, that after travelling all over the United States, he believed that "the type of North Carolina Methodism was in many respects the best he had ever seen." This was indeed high commendation from one who knew so well that grand old Georgia Methodism, of which he himself was a product and representative. I indulge the belief that your Methodism has not deteriorated, and that the days of your greatest power and glory are not in the past but in the future.

A copy of Dr. Reid's Sermons fell into my hands not long since, and as a souvenir of a man I greatly admired and loved, I read over the volume with deep interest. Believing that Dr. Reid was more an orator than writer, the merit of these discourses exceeded my expectations. There is a soul in them. I trust this book will be found in the homes of all North Carolina Methodists.

But what am I doing? Writing of your Methodism, when our Methodism on the Pacific should be my subject.

Southern Methodism in California exhibits vitality and is exerting aggressive force. This Conference (the Pacific) has been strengthened this year by the accession of several valuable transfers. Our preachers generally are in good heart and working earnestly. Our people are true, and will sustain their pastors and the cause.

Here in Santa Rosa we have been blessed with a wonderful work of God. A work of grace began in our church, special services were held for two weeks, resulting in about 80 conversions, a large proportion of them advanced students of Pacific Methodist College. Of 25 persons at the altar one night 24 were converted. And the conversions were remarkably clear and powerful. All who attended these meetings were convinced that Methodism has not lost its power but that God is still in the midst of her. During my pastorate of eighteen months in Santa Rosa 120 persons have been added to our church.

Pacific Methodist College is doing a great work for our church in California. It has taken rank among the best schools on the Pacific coast. If we could only hope that its merit equals its reputation, we should indeed have cause for congratulation. We had 274 students last year; we will not fall below that figure this year. Not less than 50 of the students have been converted to God since October, 1873. We are nearly out of debt—and when we get out, we will stay out. Our College property is worth $35,000, and Santa Rosa is one of the garden spots of the world, according to Bishop Doggett and everybody else who has seen the place.

At the last session of the Pacific Conference I was appointed to prepare a memoir of Rev. James Calvin Stewart, who lost his life while on his way to the South through Mexico in 1862. I need some assistance which some reader of your paper can furnish for this labor of love. He was a native of Iredell county, where I believe his kindred still live, and a graduate of Davidson College. He was my travelling missionary companion to California in 1855, and from thence forward the brother of my soul. I ask some one able to do so to furnish me with the date and place of his birth, and other facts necessary to a satisfactory memoir of one of the best men I have ever known. Direct to Santa Rosa, California.

O. P. Fitzgerald.

Santa Rosa, Cal. March 16th 1875.

The Great Revival in France.

The good news from France is cheerful. The tidings are full of joy. This, we trust, is only the beginning of a religious movement which will spread over the whole country: Pastors and people of the Reformed Church have inaugurated meetings at Nismes, in the south of France. The call was sent out, and the pastors and people responded with great alacrity. Not for long years has there been such earnest attention paid by the people to an invitation for religious meetings. Busy people left their work to come, and as they came urged their neighbors to accompany them.

The meetings lasted four days. The spirit of the Lord was poured out upon them. In the city the movement was the theme of constant conversation among all classes. The meetings held were five each day, and before they were through the number of places had to be doubled in which the meetings were held. About one hundred pastors were divided into two groups, so as to accommodate the assemblies. The prayer-meetings were full of life. Prayers and singing were kept up with animation. The leaders' tables were covered with requests for prayer, many of which were very touching. Deep earnestness prevailed, and a real hungering and thirsting after the way of life. Many declared, by notes sent up to the leaders, that they had found peace. Some watched and prayed all night, and they told how the Lord Jesus had answered their prayers. Men of mature age exclaimed, with their faces bedewed with tears, "I must anew consecrate myself to the Lord." The scenes were most solemn. A hymn of consecration was sung, and some of the pastors said, "Come to Jesus; the contract is signed between Him and us, and we are coming—each one of us—to put our names to the contract."

"Yes, yes, my Lord! I consecrate myself to Thee," they were saying all over the assembly. How many entered into the act of full consecration can never be known; but we are warranted in believing a great many. It was a holy, impressive time.

In order to understand the depth and extent of the movement, we must go to the meetings of the pastors. The first of these were for profound and courageous humiliation. This was deep and thorough. Confessions were made. Some were full of joy for the deliverances they had experienced. These meetings are to be repeated in many places in France and Switzerland. The impulse has been giving and the same power will be felt, for it is Jesus breathing upon the nations, and saying: "All power is given unto Me!" And He is coming in the greatness of His power to the meetings which have been called in Montauban, Geneva, Lausanne and other places. Let us pray.—By T. L. Bingham

The True End Of Education.

The true end of education is not what the man shall most do, but what he shall most be, and this, too, in order that he may most and best do the part assigned to him. It is character more than calling. Character first and calling next. Not to get tools so much as to become himself the superior instrument or agent for all the work of life. In an age like ours and especially in a land like ours where material values are the high prizes of life to the multitude, it is no marvel if old barriers should be broken down in our educational systems. It is seen that the practical talent is that which succeeds—that mere scholarship, however prized by the possessor, does not win the chief prizes of our day. It is even said that higher learning is often positively in the wayof one's success in life—may so smooth and polish a man as to make him a poor wrestler for promotion in every day affairs. It has been charged that the high education "rifles the cannon until the strength of the metal is gone." But if the metal was of poor stuff, or lacking in careful preparation for the strain upon it, then rifled or unrifled, it would burst at the first discharge I know that, as is said of Sir John Hunter, men may be ignorant of the dead languages and yet may be able to teach those who sneer at their ignorance that which they never knew in any language, dead or living. But is that an argument against the classics in education? No! But to day that learning is sought with most avidity which graduates a man as a railroad president or bank president upon the fattest living. And not the rings of the plauets are studied half so much as the municipal or state rings of the contractor. Where are the college graduates to-day—in the foremost ranks of learning, pushing forward literary enterprises, controlling our public schools, and guarding all our educational interests? Alas! "One to his farm, another to his merchandise." I have lately seen it alleged that for the last twenty years no graduate of our American colleges has risen to fame as an orator, a poet, a statesman, or an historian, or in either of the learned professions. And even if this be so, why is it except that the public mind has so set itself to the new methods as to turn aside the course of popular education from the ideal to the practical, and to merge it in business affairs. I see it stated that the greatest warfare—the struggle between the great nations for supremacy in the various industries. And out of this legitimate strife come the great world's fairs at Sydenham, Paris, Vienna, and the Centennial of Philadelphia And out of such a want come the Cornell and Michigan Universities. Plainly enough, the industries of the country claim to be developed. There is a training that is adapted to this. Let it go forward. Let wealth and talent be applied in this direction also. Let the masses enjoy the freest, fullest benefit of such a practical education for pursuing their chosen specialties.—But give us the old college, which should not be superseded, but which may be enriched and enlarged in its appliances and its apparatus, so as to become an university only more universal than hitherto.—Dr. Jacobus.

Chinese Idea of Railroads.—A Chinese newspaper, published at Shanghai, protests against the construction of railroads in China, and adduces several very curious reasons against them. In the first place, it is of opinion that the introduction of railroads in Europe is of too recent a date to admit of a judgment as to their real utility. Then it urges that there is not sufficient business in China to make railroads profitable, and that their effect would be to accumulate a vast quantity of goods in the ports, faster than they could be shipped. Finally, it says: "Accidents on the railroad lines are very numerous, caused by collisons, by the engines or tenders taking fire, by the trains running off the lines, or by the bridges giving way and the trains being precipitated into the rivers below. In other cases the carriages are injured by the great speed at which they are carried along, and the accidents are so numerous that it is often impossible to ascertain the exact number of dead and wounded. All the foreign journals are full of details concerning these accidents. But admitting that most of these casualties are preventable, and that the trains follow their regular course, they travel quicker than the thoroughbred horse, and the people walking on the lines would have no time to get out of their way. From this cause alone the number of fatal accidents would be enormous. In all countries where railroads exist they are considered a very dangerous mode of locomotion, and, beyond those who have very urgent business to transact no one thinks of using them.—Christian Intelligencer.

Informal People.

Preserve us from unceremonious people—those men and women who "never stand on ceremony," who are always perfectly at home in other people's houses! Society has many pests, but few so intolerable as they. "Free and easy" visitors are most thoroughly disagreeable. They will inflict themselves upon you at any time, and expect to be always cordially welcomed, because they are so free and easy, and so loth to put anybody to trouble. They will come before breakfast, or just as you are sitting at dinner, and draw up their chairs quite like one of the family. Early in the morning they delight to "run in," and they will come right up to your chamber to save you the trouble of coming down, and there they will sit and watch you make your toilet, and comment on how gray your hair is getting, and wonder if you are not a great deal stouter and redder in the face than you used to be They will hunt over your writing desk for note paper; bathe their faces with your cologne-water, and scent their handkerchiefs with the contents of your choicest perfumery bottle. They are always ready for luncheon—"You know I'm too much at home in your house to go hungry, my dear"—and any stray confectionary lying about melts before them as dew before the sun. They make no scruple of borrowing your latest magazines and novels; even your wardrobe does not escape their encroachments: and all this insolence is cloaked by some such empty remark as this: "I never stand on ceremony, but make myself at home everywhere; so don't put yourself out to entertain me!" Again we pray: Preserve us from unceremonious people!—The Scotsman.

The Ring Finger.

The ring-finger, though the weakest in the hand, possesses its peculiar honor and dignity, as ladies will allow. Indeed it has been held to be typical of their sex. An old writer describes the human hand as representing the life of the universe. The thumb stands for the Deity, without which the whole hand is powerless. The forefinger is likened to the angelic creation, the middle finger to man, the ring-finger to woman, and the little finger to the animal kingdom. These similes, if not very felicitous, are sufficiently quaint. In many other ways the hand has been supposed to be emblematic. The symbolism has penetrated to the nursery. A nurse will make a child put its two palms together, knitting them by closing the two middle fingers. In this position the child is told to separate the two thumbs, which it does with ease, and thereupon is told that "brother and sister may part." It is next asked to separate the forefingers, which also it easily does, and is informed that "father and son may part." Then it is required to separate the two little fingers, and upon doing this is told that "mother and daughter may part." It is now told to try and separato the two ring fingers. This, as the middle fingers are locked together, it cannot possibly do, and is thereupon told that "wife and husband cannot part." Many other instances might be given of the way in which the human hand is employed by children, large and small, to symbolize this thing and that. But our present purpose is to draw attention to a curious philological question in connection with the ring-finger. We prefer to call the between the middle and little fingers "the ring-finger," as that finger is now generally called the "third" finger; whereas, counting the thumb as a finger, it used to be called—and notably is now called in the Book of Common Prayer—the "fourth" finger.—Littell's Living Age.

Egyptian Maxims.—Rev. Dr. J. P. Thompson, in his "Notes on Egyptology," in the Bibliotheca Sacra, gives the following maxims from the ancient Egyptians:

"Do not take on airs.

"Do not maltreat an inferior. Respect the aged.

"Do not save thy life at the expense of another's.

"Do not pervert the heart of thy comrade if it is pure.

"Do not make sport of those who are dependent upon thee.

"Do not maltreat a woman whose strength is less than thine own. Let her find in thee a protector.

"If from an humble condition thou hast become powerful, and the first in the city of opulence, let not riches make thee proud, for the first Author of these good things is God.

"If thou art intelligent, bring up thy son in the love of God. If he is courageous and active, and increases thy property, give him a better recompense. But if the son whom thou hast begotten is a fool, do not turn thy heart away from him, for he is thy son."

The Riches of Jesus.

O my soul, dignified with God's image, redeemed by Christ's blood, betrothed by faith, enriched by the Spirit, adorned with graces, ranked with angels—love him by whom thou art so much beloved! Be intent on him who is intent on thee; seek him who seeketh thee; love him who loveth thee—whose love anticipates thine, and is its cause! He has all themerit, he is thy reward; he is the vision, and the end! Be earnest with the earnest, pure with the pure, holy with the holy! What thou shouldst appear before God, that should God appear to thee! He who is kind and gentle, and of great compassion, requires the meek, the kind, the humble, and compassionate Love him who drew thee from the lake of misery and from the miry clay. Choose him for thy friend above all fiends, who, when thou art bereft of all things, can alone remain to thee. In the day of thy burial, when every friend is gone, he will not forsake thee, but will defend thee from devouring foes, lead thee through an unknown region, bring thee to the streets of the heavenly Zion, and place thee with angels in the presence of his majesty, where thou shalt hear the angelic melody—Holy, holy, holy! There is the chant of gladness, there the voice of exaltation and salvation, of thanksgiving and praise and perpetual hallelujahs! There is accumulated bliss, and supereminent glory! —Augustine.

The Aristocracy of Measles.

We see by the foreign papers that the children of the German Crown Prince and Princess are down with the measles. What? Are not the families of royalty free from the aches and ailments of other households? No. We are all of one blood, and when that blood breaks out, accompanied with dry tongue, and high fever, and running eyes, it is measles. The children of imperial families must go through with the same undignified mumps, whooping cough, and toothache as the little ones of less notoriety. The armed guard at the palace gate can hinder the entrance of none of the distempers. We are all wondrously alike, though varieties of fortune may seem to obliterate all similarities. The aches and pains which Adam bequeathed to his descendants have run to such compound interest that there is enough for all the race. One in struggle, one in misfortune, one in sin,—may we all be one in sympathy. Through the crack in the door of the German Prince we saw all this when we happened to see the measles.—Talmage in Christian at Work.

Does Sunshine Put out a Fire.—A good deal of discussion has lately taken place in England over the old question, whether sunshine checks combustion. It is the old notion that sunlight lessens the intensity of a fire, and may even put it out; and the theory was, that the sun's heat, by expanding the air, caused a diminished supply of oxygen for the coal. This and all other explanations are now condemned, and the fact is denied.—One writer says that if a few pieces of charcoal are ignited in a chauffier, and placed in a sunny room provided with closely fitting shutters, the fire will appear to die away in the sun's light. But if the shutters are closed the coals will be seen to be in full combustion. There is no phenomenon at all, but only the appearance of one, which is not due to the sun's heat, but to the fact that its light, being stronger than that of the coals, overcomes and subdues it. The fact of combustion is so intimately connected with glowing ignition in our minds, that anything which lessens the glow appears also to diminish the combustion.

Weddings in Borneo.—On the wedding day the bride and bridegroom are brought from opposite ends of the village to the spot where the ceremony is to be performed. They are made to sit on two bars of iron, that blessings as lasting, and health as vigorous, may attend the pair. A cigar and a betul leaf, prepared with the areca nut, are next put into the hands of the bride and bridegroom. One of the priests then waves two fowls over the heads of the couple, and in a long address to the Supreme Being calls down blessings upon the pair, and implores that peace and happiness may attend the union. After the heads of the affianced have been knocked against each other three or four times, the bridegroom puts the prepared leaf and cigar into the mouth of the bride, while she does the same to him, whom she thus acknowledges as her husband.

An English clergyman suggests immersion as a substitute for cremation. He states his plan thus: "Funeral steamers might be provided, which, proceeding to a distance from land, could deposit the remains beyond the reach of desecration, and whence injury could not result to the living."

A "Startling Truth."

Dr. Livingstone having spoken to an African chief on the final judgment, the white throne, etc., before which the heaven and the earth should flee away, Sechule, the chief, replied in these remarkable words: "You startle me!—These words make all my bones shake! I have no more strength in me! But my forefathers were living at the same time yours were, and how is it they did not send word about these terrible things sooner? They all passed away in darkness, without knowing whither they were going." What an appeal have we here from heathen lands! How should those be startled who neglect their duty? Shall the complaint ring in our ears in the great day, "No man cared for our souls? Why did you not send us word about Jesus and the way of salvation? Why did you allow us to perish in the darkness of idolatry?"

Ah, my brethren, the messengers are now ready to go, the fields are white to the harvest, but the funds are needed to send the men and sustain them! Brother and sister, will you refuse to help? Dare you say No to these calls for aid? Who would not participate in the great work of the world's salvation? Invest the Lord's money where it will make a liberal return. Do not wrap it in the napkin of selfishness and hide it in the earth, lest you hear the condemnation of your Lord.

SCIENCE.

Artificial leather was exhibited in Vienna last year which was perfectly waterproof, and sixty per cent. cheaper than the real article. That exhibited by France was prepared from leather clippings mixed with some adhesive substance, and subjected to heavy hydraulic pressure. A Copenhagen firm exhibited an article which was made of leather scraps mixed with caoutchouc pressed and dried in metallic moulds. It is deemed fortunate that these processes for the utilization of the offal of leather are in successful operation. Heels, toe caps, and inner soles are foremost among the articles of this new branch of manufacture.

White chalk is the very best substitute for lime as a wash for walls. A fine and brilliant whitewash preparation of chalk is called the "Paris White." This costs three cents a pound, retail. For each sixteen pounds of Paris White we use half a pound of the white transparent glue. The sixteen pounds of Paris White is about as much as a person will use in a day. The glue is covered with cold water at night, and in the morning is carefully heated, without scorching, until dissolved. The Paris White is stirred in with hot water to give it the proper milky consistency for applying to the walls, and the dissolved glue is then added and thoroughly mixed. It is then applied with a brush like the common lime whitewash. Except on very dark and smoky walls, a single coat is sufficient. It is nearly equal in brilliancy to "zinc white," which is much more costly.

There is a new arrangement to be attached to the ordinary lightning rod. Just above a suitable shoulder on the latter is placed a copper ring, grooved and made into a pulley easily rotated in a horizontal plane. Around this passes a knotted cord, the ends of which are secured to the extremities of a short stick or metal rod, to which is secured a simple streamer. Thus constructed the vane indicates a calm by falling vertically, and besides shows the strength of the wind by being blown out more or less from the lightning rod. As is evident, it is capable of motion in every direction, so that if there exist in the wind upward tending vertical components the same will be shown.

What with "brandy" made from saw-dust of the fir-tree, butter innocent of cream, sugar extracted from rags, and fruit flavors derived from the waste products of the cowyard, science will in time be able to so far utilize the wasto of the world that its natural productions will find no favor. Only the other day an itinerant follower of science was heard to declare that he possessed the secret of manufacturing honey far superior to that made by bees, a point of great merit being that it cost only about five cents a pound to manufacture, while the natural substance "cost the bees" over twenty-five cents. The latest discovery of chemists is the existence of the active principle of vanilla in the bark of the pine tree. It is recovered by distillation, and an ordinary tree will yield about twenty dollars' worth annually without destroying it. It is now being manufactured in Germany, but will not for some time displace the genuine article, its chief value probably being as an adulterant for vanilla itself.

Mind and heart will meet, though forbidden, like hidden lovers.—Bailey.

Humorous.

T. Pot is a Maine editor.

The board of education: children who hate school.

New Bedford has but one whaler left—a schoolmaster.

Motto for tea merchants—Honest tea is the best policy.

A column in an enterprising New England daily is headed "small-pox matters."

Prof. of Rhetoric: "What important change came over Burns in the latter part his life?" Senior: "He died."

"Idiot!" exclaimed a lady coming out of the theatre one evening, as a gentleman accidently stepped on her trailing skirt. "Which one of us!" blandly replied the man.

"My lecture," said a California orator, "will be brief." A turnip hit him at that instant, and he announced: "The meeting stands adjourned!"

At a funeral at Madison, Me., lately, the man who was buried was placed beside two of his dead wives, while two living ones attended the funeral.

The electric telegraph.—"Wife, I don't see, for my part, how they send letters on them 'ere wires without tearin 'em all to bits." "La! me, they don't send the paper; they just send the writing in a fluid state."

"Where's the molasses, Bill?" said a red-haired woman sharply to her son, who had returned with an empty jug. "None in the city, mother. Every grocery has a large board outside, with letters chalked on it, 'N. O. Molasses.'"

An Indian came to a certain agent in the Northern part of Iowa to procure some whiskey for a younger warrior who had been bitten by a rattlesnake. "Four quarts!" replied the agent, with surprise; "as much as that?" "Yes," replied the Indian, "four quarts—snake very big."

The following anecdote has outlived its early youth, but it still reads well. John Phœnix tells the story that he was one day leaving San Francisco by the steamer. Everybody else was taking leave of friends—but he did not know a soul in the crowd. Ashamed of his loneliness, as the boat sheered off he called out in a loud voice "Good-bye, Colonel," and to his great delight, every man on the wharf took off his hat and shouted. "Colonel, good-bye!"

What Will People Say?—This question makes the mind homeless.—Do right and fear no one; thou mayst be sure that with all thy consideration for the world thou wilt never satisfy the world. But if thou goest straight forward on thy way, not concerning thyself with the friendly or unfriendly glances of men, then thou hast conquered the world, and it is subject to thee. By heeding the question: "What will people say?" thou becomest subject to the world.—Auerbach.

The Congregationalists in England have 3,276 churches, and 612 in Canada, Australia, etc. In this country the number of Congregational churches is 3,325, making a total of 7,213 churches in both countries. The contributions of the English Congregationalists for church purposes, not including gifts and collections for benevolent objects, amounted last year to over $4,000,000.

The Spiritual Scientist tells of two men in New Hampshire who are such powerful mediums that they can lie down on opposite sides of the road and "will" an obstruction which no vehicle can pass. These men are named Nathan Peaslee and Luther Buxton. If Nathan and Luther will do their lying down in the middle of the road instead of at its sides, there is every probability that they will be run over, notwithstanding their "wills."

Household Hints.

One ounce alcohol; two drachms cayenne pepper; one ounce kerosene oil; let it stand twenty-four hours after mixing. It cures the worst toothache ever known.

Kerosene oil is good for removing rust from cutlery.

Soft soap should be kept in a dry place in a cellar, and should not be used for three months after it is made.

Lard should be kept hard and white; and that which is taken from a hog over a year old is best.

Knives and forks may be fastened in their handles by the following: One pound colophony (obtained of druggists), eight ounces sulphur; melt, and, when cool, powder. Mix one part of the powder with half a part fine sand or brick dust, fill the handle cavity, heat the stem of the knife or fork, and insert.

Two small arteries branching up from the main arteries on each side of the neck, and passing over the outside of the jawbone, supply the face with blood. If the nose bleeds from the right nostril, for example, pass the finger along the edge of the right jaw till the beating of the artery is felt. Press hard upon it five minutes and the bleeding will cease.

The Christian Advocate.

OFFICE—Corner of Dawson & Hargett Sts

THE ORGAN
OF THE
NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE
OF THE
M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

R. W. J. C. BURRUS, D. D.,
R. T. GRAY, Esq. } Editors.

RATES OF SUBSORIPTION:

Postage paid in advance if not paid,	$2.20
If not in six months,	1.35
If payment be delayed six months,	2.70

All letters on business with this office should be addressed to the Editors of the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

RALEIGH, N. C., APRIL 7, 1875.

The Cross (X) Mark is to remind you that your subscription has expired. Let all renew promptly.

We are rejoiced to hear of the revival now in progress in the Methodist Church at Washington, N. C., under the pastoral charge of Rev. A. R. Raven. About 30 conversions have been reported, and the meeting continues with increased interest.

Rev H. P. Cole, the former popular pastor of Person Street Methodist Church, but now of Hillsboro station, was in the city the past week He is in excellent health and represents his charge as being a promising and interesting field of labor

The friends of Sister Meacham, wife of Rev. W. D. Meacham, will be glad to learn that she is recovering from the severe illness from which she has been suffering for some time.

The Second Quarterly Meeting for Edenton Street Church in this city was held on last Saturday and Sunday by Rev. J. P. Moore, Presiding Elder. A large number of communicants partook of the sacrament of the Lord's Supper on Sunday morning.

Rev. Dr. Rosser, who has been conducting a wonderful revival in Wilson, will next visit Lynchburg, Va, whence he will probably go to Fayetteville.—He has been invited to visit that church, and says he has "for many years desired to preach the gospel in the old town of Fayetteville."

We direct attention to the programme of the exercises on the occasion of the meeting of the North Carolina Sunday school Society, at Greensboro, commencing Friday, April 30th. The occasion promises to be an interesting one and we trust that the gathering of the friends of Sabbath schools will be large.

A gracious revival of religion is in progress at the Second Baptist Church in this city. There have been about 100 conversions and many accessions to the church. An interesting meeting is also in progress at the Salisbury Street Baptist Church.

We acknowledge on behalf of the Senior Editor of the Advocate, an invitation to be present and participate in the celebration of the centennial Anniversary of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence, to take place in Charlotte on the 20th May proximo. The occasion promises to be an interesting one and we trust will kindle in the breasts of North Carolinians a laudable pride in their native State and in the fearless ancestry who were the first to resist the encroachments of British tyranny.

The revival at Person Street Church continues with unabated interest.—About one hundred souls have found peace in believing on Christ and the number of penitents are daily increasing. Rev. R. A. Willis has been present for several days, assisting in this glorious work. His sermons have been earnest, appropriate and pointed. The preaching of the word from the commencement of the revival has been accompanied with the power of God's Spirit. We have never witnessed a greater work of grace. It is the topic of conversation along the streets, in places of business as well as in the home circle. The addition to the church building is progressing rapidly, and by next Sabbath will be ready for use. It will require fifteen hundred or two thousand dollars to complete the work. We trust our people generally will aid, as far as possible, in this needed improvement. Send in your contributions, large or small, to S. C. White, Esq., treasurer of the church and cashier of the State National Bank. The names of all who contribute will be published in the Advocate after the whole amount shall have been raised, unless otherwise instructed. Will not every subscriber to this paper send us one dollar for this good work? This will enable us not only to complete the church building, but to purchase a bell and obtain all needed furniture. "God loveth the cheerful giver."

J. H. Mills, Esq., Superintendent of the Oxford Orphan Asylum, writing to the Children's Friend in regard to the tour made by the concert-troupe of children, says:

"From Mebaneville, we went to Louisburg. Rev. F. L. Reid, the Chaplain of the Grand Lodge, Messrs. Baker, Cooke and others had prepared the way before us. Mr. Reid prayed for the orphans, and for those who have them in charge. We were glad to see that this young and gifted divine has secured the confidence of all the people. His illustrious father and devoted grand father have lived and labored in the same field. The son is loved and honored for his own sake and for the sake of those who have gone before him."

The Revival Spirit.

This year will be prominent in the history of the church as a year of religious awakening In all parts of the world the spirit of revival is diffusing its blessed influence and the Banner of the Cross is gaining fresh and enthusiastic followers Satan is being baffled by the Hand that is "strong to deliver." Infidelity and strange doctrine are at a discount, and the true gospel of Christ is finding good soil in the hearts of men. Cold formality in worship is giving way to fervent feeling and practical enjoyment of the religion that was given to men to operate upon their hearts and better their lives. In missionary lands we hear of the progress of Christ's kingdom. In Ireland and Scotland God blessed the preaching of Messrs. Moody and Sankey and is continuing the good results of their preaching there. In London the same men are laboring earnestly and preaching to throngs of thousands, rich and poor, the noble and humble, with plain words that go straight to the hearts of sinners, and touched with the convicting power of God, rankle there until their stubbornness yields and the "balm of Gilead" is applied. In New York, the revivalist Varley is preaching with great effect, and on Sundays turning Barnum's Great Hippodrome into a Christian temple where ten or fifteen thousand people listen to the word of God and trouble as the terrors of his violated law are held up to their view. In the West and Southwest, too, we are glad to see evidences of God's willingness and power to bless and save souls. In all parts, too, of our church in North Carolina, and in sister churches, the leaven is at work and Zion is prospering—clothing itself with beauty and power. It is a time for Christians to rejoice and take courage, for Heaven is bending and coming nearer to give them a glimpse of the glory that is beyond—the rich fields and limpid streams—the pleasant courts and bright palaces where is found the "home of the soul."

Thoughtless men of the world and cold religionists and ritualists may sneer at these seasons of religious awakening and say that their effects pass away with the excitement that accompanies them—that men mistake gloominess of feeling for conviction of sin and are swept along on the tide of excitement to an exaltation of spirit which they mistake for a sense of pardon. But despite such ridicule and opposition, it is by such revivals that the world is evangelized. Pentecost was the first great revival, and we reckon that before the spirit descended there were groans and cries for mercy heard throughout the vast assemblage that listened to the threats and promises of the gospel as Peter cried "Repent," and "save yourselves from this untoward generation!" And when the Holy Ghost came down there were shouts of praise and peals of joy, embracing of parents and children and congratulations of friends when the new found peace filled their hearts. Every revival of religion that a church experiences now is a miniature of that great pentecostal revival. God's converting power, though always existing and ready for exercise, is manifested then in a special way. To these seasons of revival Methodism owes its popularity and power, and upon them depend, in great measure, the rapid spread of the christian religion.

Editorial Paragraphs.

Rev. J. B. Martin was in the city last week for the purpose of receiving medical attention. He was compelled to leave his work more than five weeks ago, and has been suffering from nervous prostration. The physicians whom he consulted entertain hopes of affording him early relief.

Dr. S. S. Roszell has consented, at the earnest instance of Dr. Poisal, to continue as corresponding editor of the Baltimore Episcopal Methodist. His letter of acceptance is characteristic and touching, and closes as follows:

"Now, my old friend, you must not expect much from me in the way of editorial essays. Daily the "labor lu hor" becomes more repulsive. Time, with his dredging box, has not only sprinkled my locks with flour, but also cast dust in my eyes, and with his frosty touch has stiffened those finfiers which were wont, in other days, to play with the pen as an agreeable pastime. Troja fuit!"

Rev. Dr. Lovick Pierce, "the wonderful old man," was ninety one years old on the 25th of March, and on that day wrote a long and entertaining letter to the Southern Christian Advocate. His birth day was celebrated at Sunshine, Ga., "by a family reunion of forty loving hearts - twenty-one great grand children." He is full of vigor yet, clear in intellect and strong in piety, and waiting patiently for the summons that will take him to his rest where the rewards of his life-long labor and devoted zeal are stored up in rich abundance. In closing his letter he says:

"And now, beloved friends, I want you that are praying for my years to be many more, not to ask life for me, beyond ability to do some good. I am trying to leave the question of living or dying entirely with my heavenly Father; and yet I would have all my brethren to join me in the prayer that, if according to the will of God, my ninety second birth day may be spent in heaven."

The wide spread work of grace has done good things for Wilson. It has swept out infidelity and skepticism, turned blasphemers and Sabbath-breakers into church goers and christians, made church workers out of revilers and deformed the tastes and habits of the young and worldly minded in regard to card playing and dancing. We learn that it is all but impossible now to gather enough young people together in the town to form a dancing party. There is a religious atmosphere embracing the town and Terpsichore requires other and different conditions from that for free breathing and graceful movement. A young and accomplished lady returning from a visit to Wilson recently, in reply to our question whether she heard Dr. Rosser, said, "Oh, yes; and he is a wonderful preacher. Every body goes to hear him and listens with eagerness. He has made a revolution in Wilson. They have quit dancing there, as was found when it was proposed to give me a complimentary "hop" before leaving town The attempt proved a magnificent failure for only two young men could be induced to absent themselves from the revival meeting to participate in a dance."

There ought to be a stricter law in regard to newspaper libels, to restrain malicious editors from making covert allusions and insinuations, and carrying their ridicule to an indecent and unjust extent. Difficulties are often provoked and bloodshed caused by the want of such restraining laws. In Vineland, N. J., recently, an editor was assaulted and perhaps fatally wounded by a man whom he had continually assailed with ridicule and innuendo, in such a way however as to avoid the technicalities of the law against libel. The gentleman assailed by the paper had for several months a regularly employed lawyer to inspect the weekly issues of the paper for the purpose of ascertaining whether the articles in any respect subjected the writer to the penalties of the law respecting libel. The writer, however, guarded himself against laying himself thus liable, and continued his attacks, not only upon the gentleman but also upon his family, and finally so exasperated him that he seized a pistol, rushed to the editorial rooms and assaulted the editor. We do not think that murder is justifiable under such provocation, but the law is sadly deficient that will shield an editor in murderous attacks upon the peace and character of a man and family. We believe in the freedom of the press, but not in its loose license to do and say whatever malice may suggest.

Colored M. E. Church in America.

The Christian Index is the organ of the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church in America, published in Louisville, edited by Rev. W. P. Churchill, and is a highly creditable religious paper. Rev. C. W. Fitzhugh, of the Tennessee Conference, is writing a series of "Personals," and has the following to say of the church and Bishop Miles:

"Before I commence the "personal" I would have the readers of the Index know that it was from the strong and active power of the Tennessee Conference that the now large and great connection of the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church in America received its impetus. The Book House and Christian Index were born of the Tennessee Conference. I don't say that either of the pets were very healthy at the time they "left home," nevertheless here they were born and we are truly proud of both, as they are growing so fast under Brother Churchill's care success to both. But to the "personal." Of course we imagine ourselves seated in Caper's Chapel at Nashville, Tennessee, whose walls, if they could only speak, would tell you that the lamented Joshua Soule, the sweet Andrews, number among the Bishops that have thundered the almighty gospel within her walls—that strong giants of sweet memory told of the glad tidings to the people there. Conference convenes: Who is that heavy-set man who takes the chair? He is not presuming, it is really the father of the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church in America. Now, when some men go and do "big things" they become conceited; not so with the Christian Miles. You would, in looking at him, see only the grave and earnest worker. In entering the Chapel, after carefully placing that great, wide, flat, black covered book, with the "appointments" in it, on the table, he mingles with the brethren, making cheerful every one that he converses with, questioning them about the condition of their families, the circuits of the remotest part of the Conference; calls them by name rejoices at their prosperity and weeps when "ill betides them." W. H. Miles in the Presidents seat, is just where he belongs. It sees that the Discipline is enforced, examines carefully everything that is called for by the Disciplinary questions. The Conference under his Presidency, does a great deal in a little while, and does it well.—He don't lay his hands hastily on men's heads, but as far as mortal can go, he goes to find out your gifts, graces and qualifications.—As a preacher, all may be proud of him. easy in commencing, but the finishing touch awakens the sleepers. He dives deep, but when he comes forth he brings his sheaves with him. All in all, he knows what he is at."

BISHOP W. H. MILES,

SUGGESTIVE.—A gentleman said to Mr. Evarts last week, while crossing to Brooklyn on the ferry-boat, "How sadly the Brooklyn scandal is affecting the public mind everywhere!" "Not at all," said Evarts; "ask that man sitting there"—pointing to a countryman from Bay Ridge, sitting near by. The question was put to the latter, "What do your neighbors think of the Beecher scandal?" "Well," said he, "the people in our place most generally use kerosene!"

An Appeal for Person Street Methodist Church, South.

DEAR BRO.: The interest of Methodism in the City of Raleigh, is a sufficient apology for this personal appeal to you.

We need assistance, we pray for help, we must have aid or our little Church will greatly suffer. Methodists, who visit Raleigh, are deeply mortified to find our Church edifices so far behind, and inferior to the Church buildings of our sister denominations.

Person Street Church, situated in the eastern part of the city, remote from all other places of Divine Worship, is very small and greatly in need of repairs.

Within the last twelve months a great interest has been excited at this Church: large congregations assemble to wait upon the ministry of the word. An interesting Sunday school is in successful operation, and is doing much good. The church building is in no way sufficient to meet the demands of the congregation. It is absolutely necessary for the good of souls, and the suffering interests of Methodism in this, the representative city of our State, that we at once proceed to repair and enlarge our Church building.

Our membership is small and quite limited in means, and after doing our utmost, we must pray for assistance abroad. Can you help us? If God has blessed you with more than a sufficient amount for your necessities, will you not honor him and his cause by giving us $10.00?

Will you open your heart and then your purse, and loan the Lord this small amount? We trust and believe you will. All amounts contributed will be deposited in the Bank for safe keeping.

The work has already commenced. It must be completed—we are unable to accommodate half the people that go to this church.

God is blessing us with a gracious revival—such an one as I have never witnessed. Some 75 have professed—and about 40 joined the church.

I have sent quite a number of circulars to brethren that I know are able to give. Send us $10.00—or $5.00. Send us something if it is smaller. We need and pray for help now.

The acknowledgment of all contributions will be made in the "Raleigh Christian Advocate"

Send your contributions to S. C. WHITE Esq. Cashier of the State National Bank and treasurer of the church, or to REV N. M JURNEY, Pastor of Person Street Church, Raleigh, N. C.

April 2nd, 1875.

Programme for meeting of the Sunday school Society to be held in Greensboro on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, April 30th and May 1st and 2d, 1875:

Friday, April 30th.

10.30 A. M., Meeting of the Society.
11.00 " Address of Welcome, by Rev. T. M. Jones, D. D.
11 30 " Subject for discussion, "What is a Sunday school?" A. H. Merritt, Esq.
12.30 P. M., Subject for discussion, "What books should constitute the Sunday school Library?"
3.30 P. M, Meeting of the Society.—Subject for discussion—"Who shall attend Sunday school?" Rev. M. V. Sherrill.
4.30 P. M., Subject for discussion—"How shall we increase the spirituality and religious efficiency of the Sunday school?"
7.30 P. M., Opening sermon. By Rev. W. C. Norman. Subject: "Filling the Mission assigned us."

Saturday, May 1st.

10 to 11 A M., Meeting of the Society and election of Officers.
11.00 A. M., Address by Rev. J. J. Renn. Subject—"The demands of the Sunday-school for the best talent of the church."
12.00 M., Subject for discussion—"The use of the Blackboard in Sunday schools." By Prof. O. W. Carr of Trinity College.
1.00 P. M., Subject for disscussion—"The Teachers' outside work."
7.30 P. M., Address by Rev. J. R. Brooks. Subject ——.

Sunday, May 2nd.

11.00 A. M., Sermon by Rev. L. S. Burkhead, D. D. Subject: "Advantages of Early Piety."
3.00 P. M., Sunday school Concert—By the Greensboro Sunday School.
7.30 P. M., Sermon—by Rev. E. A. Yates. Subject—"The object of all Sunday school instruction."

MESSRS EDITORS: Our District Conference will commence at Mt. Olive on the 6th of May. I desire the preachers of the District to furnish me the names of delegates appointed, so I may make the necessary arrangements for them. If there should be any who do not expect to be present, I wish to be informed of the fact. All the local preachers who expect to be present, and visiting brethren, will please drop me a postal card, so I may provide for them. We shall expect you Messrs. Editors. Our church will be ready by that time. The plastering is already finished, and the painting inside will be done.

R. P. BIBB.

Mt. Olive, March 30th 1875.

Bishop Cheney makes the statement that the Reformed Episcopal Church now consists of forty ministers and thirty-six original Churches.

The Work in Wilson

DEAR BRETHREN: I go on. March 22. Monday night—thirteen penitents, among them some of the most wicked and influential in the town—two conversions. The work is spreading among all classes and ages, without limit or discrimination, and so far from the ordinary struggle of unbelief and doubt in the church in a revival, we are allured onward by a divine faith, as serenly as God moves yonder sparkling worlds in space. We hear the voice divine, "come!" And we go

March 23. Tuesday night—dense throng—fifteen penitents, of every age and class—six conversions. The work is now beyond any thing ever known in Wilson. Zion has a new heart, and a new face, with her "lamps trimmed and burning." Heaven only is brighter, happier, and lovelier, in its glory and love: whose crystal walls, and pearly portals, only seem to be between us; and though we cannot hear the songs, nor see the faces of those inside, they see and hear us—we are so near. There is a sort of omnipresence in the fellowship of God's family in heaven and earth. The singing was grand, the triumph glorious, to-night.

March 24. Wednesday night—eighteen penitents 8 conversions. The deeply hidden moral forces of this community stirring for a general upheaval. The rumbling of the foundation rocks is heard on every hand. The "still small voice," meantime, is hushing every listener into awe. Terror and persuasion alternate in the public mind, next to uncontrollable. The presence of God is august. I have a vivid idea of the flashings of Pentecost. Stay not thy power, O Spirit of Pentecost! We are waiting, with one accord, for thy glory.

Mar. 25. Thursday night—twenty-two penitents—8 conversions. I have no illustrations of the august quiet regulation of chaotic moral elements—the formative process of awakening and regenerating grace, now wondrously going on in this place—except the six days' creation out of original chaos—that sudden flash of light for instance, athwart the profound gloom, and the successive sudden emergence of nature in perfection and beauty—and that other sudden adjustment and reanimation of the valley Ezekiel saw one, as much as the other, the result of a sublime process wholly divine. So the great work now unfolding in Wilson, is referrable only to the Spirit of God, let sceptics explain the works of creation and grace as they may And, as in the original creation, man in the image of God was the crowning work, so may perfect love or holiness be imparted to the church and converts here. O that the Spirit that made Adam and the angels, may "help our infirmities with groanings that cannot be uttered," and give us faith unto full redemption.

March 26. Friday night—nine penitents—6 conversions—immense throng—many wavering—it is said, "every body in town unconverted is awakened"—and had the signal of some—"rise up"—been suggested, doubtless every unconverted person in the assembly would have done so. But I prefer the old "Methodist way"—yes, the Methodist way—of open unequivocal confession of sin at God's altar. I have had private interviews with cultivated men here, atheistical and sceptical, who have abandoned their opinions, gone to the altar, and are now happy in saving faith. Immoral men, the gambler, swearer, Sabbath-breaker, drunkard, are among the converts. One of this class is rejoicing in the sense of sins forgiven, and is zealous in breaking up a wicked club of which he was the leader.

March 28. Sunday—vast concourses—at night, altar-cushion, pulpit steps, aisles, to the street, one dense throng, "silent as night." Twenty-nine joined the church, 17 baptized 9 by immersion. Ten penitents—4 conversions. The work goes on. O for the latter day aggressive zeal and faith! A husband, whose wife died yesterday in great peace, was converted at her funeral to day, the first conversion I ever knew at a funeral.

March 29. Monday night—nine penitents, nearly all for the first time—5 conversions. Gentle sweet tears glittering throughout the church, as the penitents came, and were converted. All filled with wonder by the scene. No tumult The expression was silent transport. O subtle tendrils that clasp the invisible world! Eternal life, and peace, and love, and joy, and hope! If to me there is one proof above all the rest of its proofs, that the Bible is the word of God, it is the statement, that "the peace of God passeth all understanding." God only could speak that language, and he only knows its full meaning.

March 30. Tuesday night—nine penitents—3 conversions The blessed tide sinking from the shore—the Spirit of the revival spreading his wings to leave. March 31. Wednesday night, preached to the young converts, occupying the central pews from the altar to the door, a lovely band in the midst of an admiring encircling assembly. Three conversions to-night. Ninety-three have been converted, and 77 have joined the church—an unusual proportion. The whole church is rebaptized, and may it be "zealous of good works," going "on unto perfection."

This work in Wilson is above sophistry, wit, ridicule, prejudice, criticism, and bigotry. Farewell, North Carolina, for the present. I leave today for home, and one day at home, then to Lynchburg, Va., for "greater things" there. The greater things we expect of God, the less we feel we are. May North Carolina soon be in a flame—the world like heaven!

LEO. ROSSER.

The Orphan Asylum.

Many of the friends of this institution would, perhaps, like to know something of how we are getting on here and what the prospects are for continuing the enterprise.

The building, formerly St. John's College, is situated in the outskirts of the town of Oxford. It is one of the most beautiful situations in the State. The building occupies a position upon a gentle acclivity, in the midst of a picturesque grove of healthy, vigorous white oaks. In many, indeed in most, respects it is well adapted to the purpose for which it is used. The ventillation is good, but the means of heating might be improved. The water is excellent, and the twenty acres of land attached to the premises would produce an ample supply of vegetables, with the labor of the boys, but the land is poor and the means for the purchase of fertilizers too limited to improve it as it should be. There is want of out-building room also, that cannot be remedied for the same reason—want of means.

The number of inmates at present is seventy five boys and fifty eight girls, making a total of one hundred and thirty-three. These are instructed by five lady teachers, of skill and experience in teaching. They are divided into five schools or "Forms," each occupying a separate school-room, the schools or Forms being arranged according to the advancement of the children, and it is a motive to study, with the children in the lower Forms, to so acquit themselves as to be promoted to the next higher. The progress of the children in the branches taught is, in most cases, very satisfactory.

In our gardening operations, owing to the unfavorable season, we are rather backward, though probably up with most of our neighbors. We have planted Irish potatoes, sown cabbage seed, mustard, lettuce, radish and kale. Our peas (the early crop) are coming up very prettily, and we hope to have a mess from the vines about the first of May. We have also a large area in onions, set out last Fall, growing beautifully.

We are not getting much milk—barely enough for coffee and for the sick—owing to the fact that we cannot procure the necessary nutritive feed for the cows, of which three are nominally in milk. The prospect is good, however, for a better supply after a while.

While the contributions, in cash and in kind, have been liberal, yet they have not been sufficiently large to enable us to do all that is desirable in providing conveniences and comforts for the inmates. The children have not suffered for food or clothing, but inconvenience has been experienced for want of tools to work with and, as intimated above, for out-house room for storing and taking proper care of tools and other things.—Children's Friend.

Stick to the Foundation.

Our lot is fallen in times when on the one hand the very foundations of the faith are shaken by those who ought to be its chief defenders; and, on the other, a superstructure of wood, hay, and stubble, is raised upon that foundation, almost equally perilous to the safety of those who trust themselves upon it. And men are asking where is there any resting place amidst this deluge of unbelief and false doctrine with which the whole earth is overspread? But why such a question? Is not the ark of God's Word floating high above it, offering a secure, a permanent resting-place to every weary and heavy-laden soul that seeks a refuge in it? Keep close to God's own Word. Let no man, call himself what he will, move you from the foundation. And amidst all the varied interpretations of that Word, keep to that which a prayerful, earnest, and diligent perusal of it carries home to your conscience. When you stand before the bar of God hereafter, no dependence upon human teaching will be your vindication for not having acted upon God's Word as He gave it to you. He who allows any man to come between him and God's message to him, must take the consequence of preferring man's word to God's.—Dean Goode.

The sermon preached by Bishop Ward, of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, in the M. E. Church, South, at Albany, Ga., January 26, concluded with the following sentences: "The colored people look to the white men of the South for protection and instruction. They were born and reared together; some nursed at the same breast. Notwithstanding all that has been said and done, the two races are getting nearer to each other in spite of themselves."

Recent Publications.

"OUR LIVING AND OUR DEAD," S. D. Pool, Editor, Raleigh, N. C. $3 a year.

This is a North Carolina Magazine, devoted primarily to the preservation of incidents and memories of the late war, and also to History, Biography, Literature and Science. We have received the April number and find from it that the Magazine continues to grow better and more creditable to the Editor. Mr. T. B. Kingsbury is assistant Editor and contributes many interesting and well written articles. Miss Francis Fisher, the North Carolina authoress, is a contributor to the Magazine. Mrs. Cicero W. Harris also continues her serial story in this number. Rev. Jno. Paris, late chaplain of the 57th Reg. N. C Troops continues his "Soldiers History of the war."

Religious Brevities

Rev. Wm. H. Milburn is to make a lecturing tour through Texas.

Bishop Pierce, of the M. E. Church, South, while in Portland, Oregon, preached by hearty invitation in the M. E. Church in that city.

Rev. Dr. Poisal was re-appointed editor of the Baltimore Episcopal Methodist at the late session of the Baltimore Conference of the M. E. Church, South.

Rev. John C. Crooks, of West Virginia Conference, of the M. E. Church, South, died in Belleville, West Virginia, March 2.

Mr. George H. Stuart, of Philadelphia, estimates the number of conversions in Great Britain, through the instrumentality of Messrs Moody and Sankey of Chicago, at 25,000 to 30,000 persons.

The Mennonites in the West, are raising a fund to assist those of their community who desire to come from Russia to this country and are unable to pay their way. They expect a large number this year.

For ten years our Church waited for fruit in China, then the first convert was reported. Now fifteen hundred native members and probationers, and eighty native preachers, are reported in the Methodist China Mission.

According to the statistical report of thirty three Conferences of the M. E. Church, South, for the year 1874-5, there is a net gain in the membership of 35,276 The vote on the change of rule relative to temperance, shows 1,133 for a change of rules, against 1,406.

The Baltimore Christian Advocate says a distinguished member of the Baltimore Conference has in preparation a "Catechism on the History, Doctrines, and Discipline, or Polity of Methodism." It will "treat of the Methodisms of the world historically, and of our own in particular, and show how much they have in common, as to unity of christian experience, identity of doctrine, and equality in a Wesleyan origin."

A letter from Talladega District, North Alabama Conference, of the M E. Church, South, in the Nashville Advocate says: "Rev. Daniel Duncan, presiding elder of this district, was thrown from his buggy on the first day of last month, dragged on the ground for several feet, and wounded very severely by a rail point piercing his back, which affliction has confined him to his home ever since; but he is recovering very rapidly, and will soon resume duty on the district."

A TOBACCO chewer has been fined eight dollars for expectorating tobacco juice on the floor of the Methodist church in Hempstead, Long Island. Served him right. We have seen churches in which if all the tobacco spitters paid at this rate, and the church got one-half the proceeds, the mortgage interest might be provided for, and a respectable salary paid the pastor.—Christian at Work.

MR. HENRY VARLEY, the English Evangelist, who has been preaching with great success in Canada, has appeared in New York. On a Sunday evening recently he preached in Barnum's Hippodrome to an audience of at least fifteen thousand persons. He stood on a raised platform, and was heard by the entire multitude. The singing was from hymns printed on slips, 15,000 of which were distributed to the people. Mr. Varley's sermon is spoken of as plain, practical and evangelical.

Messrs. Whittle and Bliss, successful lay evengelists from Chicago, are now holding meetings in Cincinnati. A large number of ministers of Nashville and vicinity, representing Presbyterian, Methodst, Cumberland Presbyterian, and Baptist Churches, have invited them to conduct services in Nashville, and they have engaged to commence their work there April 15. They conduct meetings very much after the manner of Messrs. Moody and Sankey, but depend more upon "singing the Gospel" than on preaching it.

The Faculty of Washington and Lee University have invited Rev. W. W. Walker, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church, South, Baltimore, to preach the Baccalaureate Sermon at the Commencement in June next, and he has accepted the invitation.

The Protestant Episcopal Almanac for 1875 gives 50 Bishops, 5 bishops-elect, 3,035 priests and deacons, 3,140 clergymen, 2,750 parishes, 273,092 communicants, 23,037 Sunday school teachers, 226,733 Sunday-school scholars, and contributions during the year $6,851,983.27.

The Southwestern Book and Publishing Company at St. Louis (Church South), will soon issue the "Life and Labors of Rev. John Newland Maffit." The editor of the St. Louis Christian Advocate thinks it will be one of the most readable books of the day.

The freshet greatly discomfited the fishermen at Washington N. C. and continued for some time.

Miss Malinda Stephens, an invalid young lady eighteen years of age, was burned to death in Britt Township, Robeson county, week before last.

Hon. John Kerr, during Court week at Lumberton delivered an address before the Lumberton Lodge of I. O. G. T. and also before the Baptist Sunday school.

Three convicts at the Penitentiary attacked their guard and felled him to the earth with a hatchet and made their escape. Mr. Fort, the wounded guard, was at the last account in a precarious condition.

NORTH CAROLINA.

There are 14 inmates in the Rowan jail.

Dr. Barker, the phrenologist, is examining the heads of the Mocson people.

The Good Templar Lodge in Monroe has a membership of about 40, of which from 30 to 35 regularly attend the meetings.

The Ladies of the Methodist Church, Monroe held a festival in Monroe yesterday for the purpose of raising funds to purchase an organ and help finish the church.

Young Elliott, of Statesville, who was convicted of murder in the second degree and sentenced in the Penitentiary, has been pardoned by Gov. Brogden. Col. Armfield, his leading counsel, was very active in securing signers to a petition during the session of the Legislature and to him more than any other person is due the exercise of the executive clemency.

Dr. Grissom lectures in Greensboro, to morrow night on "the Illustrious Insane."

The plantation of Mr. Solomon Pender, in Edgecombe county, was left a complete waste by the tornado which was particularly destructive in that county.

Gen. Joseph E. Johnston has accepted the invitation to act as Chief Marshal at the Mecklenburg Centennial and Hon. John Kerr will deliver the oration.

John B. Ethridge, member of the Legislature from Dare county, were while in Raleigh, the coat he was married in forty six years ago.

A fine horse was stolen from Mr. Lewis Summerell, of Garysburg, N. C., on the 26th inst. The thief was caught with the horse at Jerusalem, Va.

Capt. Cutts, conductor on the W. & W. Railroad, has not missed a trip in two years.

In Stokes county, some housewives have been putting strychnine in goose eggs and placing them under setting geese to punish egg-sucking dogs. In every instance, however, it has proved fatal to the geese instead of to the dogs.

The Salisbury WATCHMAN has been informed that the sun is always visible on Saturday—at least that there never has been and never will be a Saturday so dark and cloudy but that the sun shines out at some time of the day.

The following young gentlemen from North Carolina have recently graduated in Medicine from the University of Pennsylvania: F. A. Whitaker, Jones county, R. J. Grimes, Edgecombe, C. W. Eagles, Edgecombe, and J. R. Zollicoffer Halifax.

REIDSVILLE NEWS:—The Reidsville ENTERPRISE, owned and edited by our friend Jno. Webster, has undergone a change of name and management and appears now as the Reidsville News. Messrs Robt Bethell, J. W. Reid and Jno. Webster are the proprietors and editors, and will make it a good paper. Mr. Reid is a son of the lamented and beloved Dr. N. F. Reid, and is a practicing lawyer in addition to his editorial character. We wish the NEWS numerous success.

The Bank of New Hanover has obtained a charter from the South Carolina Legislature for the Bank of Marion, and, we learn, will transfer its business to Marion. As money is unrestricted in South Carolina, we fear that other banks will probably do likewise, and that much of the capital deposited in North Carolina banks by North Carolina people, will thus find investment in other States.—Goldsboro Messenger.

We learn that the Usury law has had the effect of driving some of the Charlotte bankers over to South Carolina as was the case above.

AN INTERESTING OCCASION.—It is thought that the Southern Agricultural Congress will meet in this city in May instead of July, as heretofore announced, following the Centennial in Charlotte. The Masters of the Granges of the Southern States will assemble here at the same time, and it is understood that the manufacturers and consumers of cotton in the North will meet here also at the same time to consult with the planters of the South. This will form a most interesting occasion.—Raleigh News.

The "Children's Friend" perpetrates the following:

"It may be a matter of interest to some of our readers to learn, as we did last week, that the work of laying the rails on the railroad from Oxford to Henderson, has been rapidly progressing for some weeks. The people of Oxford have suffered much inconvenience for want of a railroad connecting them with the R. & G. Railroad at Henderson, and may now congratulate themselves upon the fact that the rails have been laid between the two points, except some few gaps along the line.

P. S.—We will not omit to mention that the rails alluded to as being laid are those taken from the farmer's fences along the line, and used for prizing wagons and carts out of the mud, and then left lying where they were used."

CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION.—Our Charlotte friends are making arrangements for a grand celebration of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence on the 20th of May. All the towns and counties in the State will be represented by military, benevolent and temperance organizatons. Gen. Joseph E. Johnston has consented to act as Chief Marshal on the occasion. The Tennessee and Virginia Legislatures have expressed their sympathy with the movement. The following preamble and resolutions of the Virginia Legislature have been received by Governor Brogden:

WHEREAS, The State of North Carolina proposes to celebrate the centennial anniversary of her Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence, in May of this year; and whereas, Virginia, remembering the valorous, self-sacrificing, and patriotic part borne by the people of "the Old North State" in the revolution of seventeen hundred and seventy-six, and the close and cordial relations always subsisting between the two Commonwealths, cannot permit this opportunity to pass without an expression of heartfelt approval; therefore,

Be it Resolved by the House of Delegates of Virginia, That all citizens of "the Old Dominion" who may find it convenient to participate in the ceremonies of this memorable, historic occasion will carry with them a representative responsibility, and be expected to blend Virginia's sisterly sympathy and good will with North Carolina's rejoicing.

RESOLVED, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Governor of North Carolina.

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF RALEIGH EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING.---TERMS $2.20 POSTAGE PAID.

Our Agents.

All the traveling and local preachers in the bounds of the several Annual Conferences are our authorized Agents. Any person sending us ten subscribers, for one year, will receive the paper free.

Our Correspondents.

Communications for publication should be carefully written, and on but one side of the sheet. All letters to the office should be addressed to the Editor.

How to Remit.

In ordering money, all amounts should be sent in registered letter, post-office order or check. The cost of registration, or Post-office order can be deducted from the amount to be sent. If money is sent otherwise than herein specified it will be at the sender's risk.

Personal

The Congressional Directory contains brief sketches of all the Senators and members of Congress, names of government officials, &c. It has the following concerning our two Senators, Hon. M. W. Ransom and A. S. Merrimon.

"Matt W. Ransom, of Northampton county, (post-office Weldon) was born in Warren county, North Carolina, in 1826; received an academic education; graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1847, studied law and was admitted to the bar on graduating in 1847; is a lawyer and planter; was elected Attorney General of North Carolina in 1852, and was a Peace Commissioner from the State of North Carolina to the Congress of Southern States at Montgomery, Alabama, in 1861; entered the Confederate Army, serving as lieutenant colonel, brigadier general and major-general, and surrendered at Appomattox; was elected to the United States Senate as a Democrat in January, 1872, and took his seat April 24, 1872. His term of service will expire March 3, 1877."

"Augustus Summerfield Merrimon, of Raleigh, was born in Buncombe (now Transylvania) county, North Carolina, September 15, 1830; he received a common-school education; studied law, was admitted to the bar in 1851, and is a practising lawyer; was often elected county attorney in several counties; was a member of the Legislature of North Carolina in 1860-'61; was Solicitor of the eighth judicial district of North Carolina from 1861 to 1865; was elected by the Legislature a Judge of the Superior Courts in 1865, and continued to hold that office until August, 1867, when he resigned his office rather than obey a military order, sitting as a civil Judge; he was elected to the United States Senate as a Democrat, to succeed John Pool, Republican, and took his seat March 4, 1873. His term of service will expire March 3, 1879."

Hon. A. M. Waddell has appointed Master Mark B. Bridgers, a son of Hon. R. B. Bridgers, of Wilmington, to the Naval Academy of Annapolis.

It is thought that ex-congressman Orris L. Cobb, of North Carolina, will succeed J. W. Douglass, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, who has resigned.

Hon. M. W. Ransom, Senator Gordon and other celebrities are on a tour of the States with President Scott, of the Pennsylvania Central. They will extend their tour to Mexico.

Andrew Johnson said in his speech in the U. S. Senate a few days ago: "If Grant is elected a third time, good-by to the Republic!"

Hon. Fenner B. Satterthwaite, a prominent lawyer and citizen of Washington, N. C was stricken down by apoplexy on the 23d ult, while returning from his office to his residence, and died in a few hours.

General News

Of the 27,042 teachers in this county, 12,715 are women.

One hundred and twenty-eight thousand dollars in specie were sent from London to New Orleans on the 30th ult.

The residents and citizens have accepted an invitation to assist in the celebration of the centennial of the battle of Lexington.

"Salutes for the Fourth of July, but not one cent for the Constantia," is the motto of a Dallas paper.

The insurance companies of Chicago universally have refused to grant insurance to deliver the Bishop of Connecticut, and Dan G Sickles's mansion.

William Tobin, employed in the repair-shop of the Fitchburg railroad at Barlowville, was killed instantly on Monday by a locomotive in front.

Cameron, Va., recently had a bank-robbery, the robbers getting away with $2,000, and also by a curious turn of fortune, the paper says, was carrying off the deposit-book made a few days ago.

A vessel arrived in Portsmouth recently a Turkish cruiser of the 16th century was brought from Gottschelof on $14,000. He (we mean the cruiser) was built in 1560.

The Board of Supervisors are going to give Gen. Baker a public testimonial in recognition of his services in the passage of the civil rights bill, over the veto.

A new invention for preventing glass cans to unite into a drinking utensil to horse cars, floors or pavements is cheaper and more reliable than marbles.

A Boston paper says that a lady asked her husband to buy her a new bonnet, which he refused, and hired the child to sing a song, which he considered worth a dollar, and it cost him only fifty cents.

The Rev. Abner H. Merrill, who has been elected President of Tufts College, the express train on which he was a passenger was thrown from the track by a misplaced switch, and he was killed. He was a graduate of the class of 1850. He is 48 years old.

The Rev. Mr. Smith, a Methodist minister of Peoria, Illinois, is going to Europe to purchase an elephant, which he intends to exhibit in that city.

The Democratic people of Boston are going to give Gen. Butler

Children's Column.

Miss Mollie F. Bingham answers that it was Hezekiah who broke the brazen serpent and called it Nehushtan. 2d Kings 18th chap. 4th v; also that the two chapters alike in the Bible are 19th chap. 2d Kings and 37th chap. of Isaiah.

Anathema Maranatha is found in 1st Cor. 16th chap. 22d v. Mary A. Brockett, Robbie E. Ware, S. Rossie Dixon, Nannie A. Woodburn.

Kibroth hattaavah is found in Numbers 11 chap. 34th and 35th verses.—Mary A. Brockett, Lizzie J. Thompson, Annie L. King, Nannie A. Woodburn.

An account of iron being made to swim on water by Elisha is given in 2d Kings 6th chap. 6 verse. Estella Albright, Lizzie J. Thompson, Annie L. King, Mollie F. Bingham.

Rebecca had her destiny decided at a well of water. Gen. 44th chapter. Estella Albright, R. E. Ware, J. W. Gannon, J. Rossie Dixon Nannie A. Woodburn.

The shortest verse in the Bible is the 35th v. 11th ch. of St. John, "Jesus wept." Estella Albright, Lizzie J. Thompson, Annie L. King, R. E. Ware, Alice E. Pell, J. Rossie Dixon. Walter B. Steel, M. A. Harrison, Mary Jane Wade and Jimmie Wade.

The word 'college' is found in 2nd Kings 22nd chap. 14th verse, and in 2nd Chronicles 34th chap. 22nd verse. R. E. Ware, John W. Gannon Anna C. Woodburn.

The verse that contains all the letters of the alphabet, except the letter j, is 21st verse of 9th ch. of Ezra. Alice E. Pell, Walter B. Steele, and Jimmie M. Wade.

S. Rossie Dixon says, in answer to Estella Albright's question, that Lydia was the person whose heart the Lord opened.

Mollie F. Bingham answers that the Disciples were first called Christians at Antioch, Acts 11th ch. 26th v. and that 'Concord' is found in 2nd Cor. 6th ch. 15th verse.

Answer to Bible enigma, 'is Jerusalem' the most noted city in Canaan. Nannie E. Guthrie, C. W. Hunt.

The words 'love,' 'beloveth' and 'beloved' are found in 1st John, 4th chap. Nannie E. Guthrie, Mollie F. Bingham and C. W. Hunt.

'Philadelphia' is found in Rev. 1st chap. 11th v., and Rev. 3d chap. 7th verse. Alice E. Pell, Mollie F. Bingham, C. W. Hunt.

The word 'distracted' is found in the 88th Psalm 15th v. Estella Albright, Anna C. Woodburn.

Saul had seven sons hanged for consuming the Gibeonites, 2nd Samuel 21st ch. 9th v. Lizzie J. Thompson, Anna C. Woodburn, Rachel E. Clayton.

The word 'melons' found in Numbers 11th chap. 5th verse. Lizzie J. Thompson, Annie L. King, Mollie F. Bingham.

The word 'lady' is found in 2nd John 1st v. Isaiah 47th ch. 5th and 7th verses. Esther 1st ch. 18th v. Judges 5th ch. 29th v. Florence Mercer, Mollie F. Bingham.

QUESTIONS.

Mary A. Brockett asks where the word occurs which contains the following letters, to wit: w m i z a m z m s.

Estella Albright asks which is the middle verse in the Bible; also what chapter and verse of the old testament gives an account of dancing being turned into mourning.

Nannie E. Guthrie asks the following questions. What king was it who was hanged on a tree until the sun had gone down, when his body was taken down and cast at-the entering of the gate of the city and a great heap of stones was raised thereon.

2d. In what book in the New Testament are found the words Talitha Cumi, and what is it when interpreted?

3rd. In what book of the Old Testament is found a verse containing ninety words?

Lizzie J. Thompson and Annie L. King ask where it is mentioned in the Bible that a woman drove a nail through a man's head.

G. C. Edwards asks what was the name of the other disciple who went in with Peter, mentioned in the 18th chapter of St. John.

Robert E. Ware asks where the word 'peep' occurs in the Bible.

Alice E. Pell asks how many times the word 'sporting' occurs in the Bible and where. Also where the Philistines carried the ark of God, and where an account of it is given.

Mattie Gannon asks in what chapter and verse are found the words "there is a God."

Mollie F. Bingham asks how many chapters in the Bible begin with the word God, and where are they found.

Cora A. Harrison asks how many times the word dog occurs in the Bible; also in what verse in 2 Kings does the word 'bald head' occur twice.

Rachel E. Clayton asks what verse in the Bible contains the following letters a a u a a b e h h h h l l m r s s z, and what is its meaning.

SLANDER.—The surest method against slander is to live it down by perseverance in well doing and by prayer to God that he would cure the distempered mind of those who traduce and injure us. Have patience awile, slanders are not longlived. Truth is the child of time: ere long she shall appear to vindicate thee. The proper way to check slander is to despise it; attempt to over-take it and it will outrun you.

Farm, Garden & Household.

Orchard and Nursery.

TREES.—If new orchards are to be set in the Spring, the trees should be ordered now. Go to a good nursery near by, rather than send to a distance. Firstclass nurserymen have a reputation to keep, and are careful not to send out any trees not true to name.

SCRAPING and washing the trunks and larger limbs will destroy many eggs of injurious insects. Use a wash of common soft soap, thinned to apply readily. Use a triangular plate of iron, the edges ground, with a handle two to three feet long.

INSECTS.—The eggs of the tent caterpillar may be readily seen on the ends of last year's twigs, and removed now, thus saving much work in destroying their nest next Spring.

Kitchen Garden.

MANURE is the beginning, middle and end in a successful garden, of which a wide-awake gardener, never has enough. Make contracts now, with stable-keepers and all who keep many horses, for your manure. It will pay to give the best manure to the garden. Keep an eye open for every fertilizing material that will be cheaper than fine bone, dried blood, or guano.

STRAW-MATS AND SHUTTERS are as necessary as sashes, especially for hot beds. Not only have we to generate heat by the manure, but to prevent its loss at night. Straw-mats can be readily made in bad weather, and will often be useful for other purposes. Shutters should be made of the lightest stuff, with buttons or cleats, and of the size of the sash. In very cold weather a mat with a shutter over it will be found very useful. Pints in GOLD FRAMES are more likely to suffer from heat than from cold. The object of putting cabbages, cauliflour, lettuce, etc., in frames, is to keep them dormant, as well as to shield them from excessive cold. If they are stimulated into growth by too much heat, they will be as badly off as if severely frozen.—Beginners err in keeping the plants too warm. Air the frames whenever the outside temperature is near 32 degrees and in mild weather remove the sashes altogether.

A $4.00 Book for $1.50.

The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in plain English, or Medicine Simplified: By R. V. Pierce, M. D., Counselor-in-Chief of the Board of Physicians and Surgeons, at the World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y. The above Work—a book of about nine hundred large pages, profusely illustrated with Wood Engravings and Colored plates, and well and strongly bound—will be sent, post paid, to any address, for One Dollar and Fifty Cents—making it the cheapest book ever offered to the American People other books treating of domestic medicine, of less size and style of binding, and not nearly as well illustrated, with no colored plates, and some of them containing no prescriptions and making known no means of self-cure for the diseases which they discover, sell for from three dollars and a half to five dollars. Were Dr. Pierce's Work not published by the author, printed and bound with his own machinery, and were it sold through agents, as other like works are, the price of it would have to be not less than four dollars. For when the publisher pays the author a fair price for his production, then adds a profit to his investment large enough to satisfy himself and compensate him, not only for his labor, but also for the risk of pecuniary loss which he assumes in launching the issues of the enterprise proving a success, and when the State, County and canvassing agent has each realized his profit, they have added to the cost of such a book, that originally cost about $1.25, so much that the people have to pay not less than $4.50 for it. The People's Medical Adviser, on the contrary, is placed within the pecuniary reach of all classes by the author, who adopts the plan of the Grangers, dispensing with middle men and giving the benefit of their profits to the people, offering his book at a price little above actual cost of publication. That those desiring the book may run risk of losing their money in sending it through the mails, the author advertises that money sent addressed to him at Buffalo, N. Y., and inclosed in registered letters, may be at his risk of loss. The author's large correspondence with the people upon medical matters, which we are credibly informed, frequently exceeds three hundred letters a day, and requires several trained and skilful medical assistants and short-hand reporters to enable him to entertain and answer them, as well as his large daily dealings with disease at the World's Dispensary, appear to have peculiarly fitted him for writing the Work, by rendering him very familiar with the every day medical needs of the people. He endeavors in the Work to answer all the numerous questions relating to health and disease that have been addressed to him by the people from all parts of the land, and hence it contains important information for the young and old, male and female, single and married, nowhere else to be found. All the most prevalent diseases of both sexes are also plainly and fully considered and means of cure made known. Unlike other works on Domestic Medicine, it includes the subjects of Hudory, Cerebral Physiology, Hygiene, Temperaments, Marriage Reproduction, etc., all of which are treated in an original and interesting manner. It is a compendium of Anatomical, Physiological and Medical science, and embodies the latest discoveries in each depart ment.

april 7 1-4

A Royal Organ.

The stomach has been well named a "royal organ," since it sways and controls the entire system, every gland, tissue and nerve sympathizing with it as the servants of a prince sympathize with their master. Each one of them is fed and sustained by it—even the brain itself, the centre of sensation, is absolutely dependent upon it for sustenance. Consequently, when the stomach fails to perform its all-important office the subordinate organs also falter in their duty The reason why Hostetter's Stomach Bitters have such wondrously beneficial effect upon the general health and are such a reliable preventive of disease, is that they speedily overcome weakness or disorders of the stomach, and thus insure complete nourishment of the entire system and a healthful performance of its various functions. Unlike the ordinary stimulants whose alcoholic principle is unmodified by judicious medication, the spiritous basis of these Bitters, which is of the purest description, holds in solution herbal alteratives and invigorants to which a foremost rank has been awarded in medicine. But it is not alone the fact that these sovereign botanic elements exist in the composition of the Bitters that constitutes them such a peculiar basic and corrective, but also that they are so happily combined that the full effect of each is exerted upon the disordered or debilitated system. The digestive and secretive organs are the first to experience their beneficent operation, which extends, by sympathy, to the brain, the nerves and the circulation. The influence thus exerted is fruitful of those great sanitary results which have built up the reputation of this truly national medicine.

march 17 6-f

A MAN OF A THOUSAND.

A Consumptive Cured

When death was hourly expected from Consumption, all remedies having failed, accident led to a discovery whereby Dr. H. James cured his only child with a preparation of Bannalois Indica. He now gives this receipt free on receipt of two stamps to pay expenses. There is not a single symptom of consumption that it does not dissipate—Night sweats, Irritation of the Nerves, Difficult Expectoration, Sharp Pains in the Lungs, Nausea at the Stomach Inaction of the Bowels, and Wasting of the Muscles. Address CRADOCK & CO., 1032 Race Street, Philadelphia Pa., give name of this paper.

Oct 21 3 m c o w

WANTED.

A good Shoe and Boot Maker, with a capital of from $200 to $500, to take a half interest in a shop and conduct the business, in a good locality. None need apply but those who can give satisfactory reference.

J. T. PATTERSON,
mar 17-1m. Morganton, N. C.

SAVE YOUR MONEY.

THE PURCHASING AGENCY OF

CLARK & MOLLMANN,

71 BROADWAY, NEW YORK,

Will buy for you on Commission any article of Merchandise you want, new, old, regular, or second-hand, in any quantity, large or small. Send for Circular of particulars and references.

mar 17-4t

WIRE RAILING & ORNAMENTAL Wire Works.

Dufur & Co.

26 North Howard Street, Baltimore, Md.

Manufacturers WIRE RAILING for Cemeteries, Balconies, &c., SHUTTERS, FENCES, CAGES, SAND AND COAL SCREENS, WOVEN WIRE, &c. Also, IRON BEDSTEADS CHAIRS, SETTEES, &c., &c.

Feb 10-12m

DR. C. M'LANE'S
CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS,
FOR THE CURE OF
Hepatitis or Liver Complaint,
DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder-blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for a rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. M'LANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them A FAIR TRIAL.

Address all orders to
FLEMING BROS., PITTSBURGH, PA.

P. S. Dealers and Physicians ordering from others than Fleming Bros., will do well to write their orders distinctly, and take none but Dr. C. M'Lane's, prepared by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa. To those wishing to give them a trial, we will forward per mail, post-paid, to any part of the United States, one box of Pills for twelve three-cent postage stamps, or one vial of Vermifuge for fourteen three-cent stamps. All orders from Canada must be accompanied by twenty cents extra.

Sold by all respectable Druggists and Country Store keepers generally.

Dr. C. M'Lane's Vermifuge

Should be kept in every nursery. If you would have your children grow up to be HEALTHY, STRONG, and VIGOROUS MEN and WOMEN, give them a few doses of

M'LANE'S VERMIFUGE,

TO EXPEL THE WORMS.

BE AWARE OF IMITATIONS.

FURNITURE

W. H. Morris & Co

No. 3 Fayetteville Street.

RALEIGH, N. C.

Dealer in all kinds of furniture, such as Walnut Chamber Sets, Cottage Chamber Sets, Parlor Sets, Dining Room Sets, Bedsteads, Bureaus, Wardrobes, Washstands, Tables, Chairs, Sofas, Lounges, Spring Beds of various patterns, Cribs and Cradles in great variety of styles, patterns and prices. Wood and Marble top centre tables &c.

Keeps constantly on hand and make to order all kind of Mattresses, such as pure Curled Hair, Cotton and Wool. Excelsior and Husk Mattresses. Old Hair Mattresses renovated and made as good as new.

No trouble to show goods. Call and examine before purchasing elsewhere.

W. H. MORRIS & CO

nov 20 tf

RESTORE YOUR SIGHT.

Spectacles Rendered Useless.

Save Your Eyes,
RESTORE YOUR SIGHT,
THROW AWAY YOUR SPECTACLES.

Old Eyes Made New.

All diseases of the Eye successfully treated by

Dr. J. BALL & CO.'S
NEW PATENT IMPROVED IVORY EYE CUPS.

Read for yourself and Restore your Sight

Spectacles and surgical Operations rendered useless. The fascinating Wonder-ing of Sight is made perfect by the use of the new PATENT IMPROVED IVORY EYE CUPS.

Many of our most eminent physicians, oculists, students and divines have had their sight permanently Restored for life, as I cured of the following diseases:

1. Impaired Vision; 2. Presbyopia, or Parasight-edness, or Dimness of Vision, commonly called Blurring, 3. Asthenopia, or Weak Eyes; 4 Epiphora, Running or Watery Eyes; 5. Sore Eyes—specially treated by the Eye Cups—cure guaranteed; 6. Weakness of the Retina, or Optic Nerve; 7. Opthalmia, or Inflammation of the Eye and its appendages, or lingering Eye visions from the effects of inflammation; 8. Photophobia, or Intolerance of Light; 9. Overworked Eyes; 10. Muscæ—moving specks or floating bodies before the eyes; 11. Amaurosis, or Obscurity of Vision; 12. Cataracts; Partial Blindness; the loss of Sight.

Any one can use the IVORY EYE CUPS without the aid of doctor or medicine so as to receive immediate benefical results and never wear spectacles; or, if using now, to lay them aside forever. We guarantee a cure in every case where the directions are followed, or will refund the money.

2,300 CERTIFICATES OF CURE

from honest Farmers, Mechanics and Merchants—some of them the most eminent leading professional and business men, and women of education and refinement, in our country—can be found at our office.

Union Hotel, Detroit, March 29, 1875.

The New York Tribune, writes: "J. Ball, of our city, is a conscientious and responsible man who is incapable of intentional deception or humbug in any Opinion."

Prof. W. Morrick, of Lexington, Ky., wrote, April 24th, 1872: "Without my spectacles I pen you this note, after using the PATENT IVORY EYE CUPS fifteen days, and this morning perused the entire contents of a daily newspaper, and all with the naassisted eye.

"Truly am I grateful for your noble invention. May Heaven bless and preserve you. I have been using spectacles twenty years; I am seventy years old.

Truly yours, PROF. W. MORRICK."

Rev. Joseph Smith, Malden, Mass., cured of Partial Blindness of 18 years' standing, in one minute, by the Patent Ivory Eye Cups.

E. C. Ellis, late Mayor of Dayton, Ohio wrote us, Nov. 15th, 1869: "I have tested the PATENT IVORY EYE CUPS and I am satisfied they are good. I am pleased with them. They are the greatest invention of the age."

Wm. Beatty, M. D., Salvisa Ky., writes: "Thanks to you for the greatest of all inventions, my sight is fully restored, after being almost entirely blind for 25 years.

Alex. R. Wyeth, M. D., Atchison, Pa., writes: After total blindness of my left eye for four years, by paralysis of the optic nerve, to my utter astonishment your PATENT EYE CUPS restored my eyesight permanently in three minutes."

All persons wishing for full particulars, certificates of cures, prices, &c., will please send their address to us, and we will send our pamphlet on the ILLUSTRATED PHYSIOLOGY AND ANATOMY OF THE EYESIGHT of one hundred pages, free of charge, by return mail Write to Dr. J. Ball & Co. P. O. Box 957. No 91 Liberty street, New York City, N. Y.

For the worse cases of MYOPIA or NEAR-SIGHTEDNESS use our NEW PATENT MYOPIC ATTACHMENTS, applied to the IVORY EYE CUPS Has proved a certain cure for late disease.

Send for pamphlets and certificates—free. Waste no more money by adjusting huge glasses on your nose and disfiguring your face

AGENTS WANTED

Employment for all. Agents wanted, Gentlemen or Ladies, for our NEW PATENT IMPROVED IVORY EYE CUPS, just introduced in the market. The success is unparalled by any other article. All persons out of employment, or those wishing to improve their circumstances, can make a respectable living at the light and easy employment. Hundreds of Agents are making from $5 to $30 A DAY. To live Agents $30 a week will be guaranteed.

Send your address for full particulars. Sent free of charge to any address. Write immediately to

DR. J. BALL & CO.,
NO. 91 LIBERTY STREET,
P. O. Box 957. NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.
Sept 9-12m.

JUST READY.—ENTIRELY NEW—AUTHENTIC—COMPLETE

LIFE AND LABORS OF

LIVINGSTONE,

By Rev. J. E CHAMBLISS. This gifted author having free access to the personal writings of Livingstone, unfolds clearly the magnitude of his life-work, the THRILLING ADVENTURES he met, the grand ACHIEVEMENTS he won, as also the CURIOSITIES, WONDERS and WEALTH of that marvelous country. Wide Awake Agents Wanted Everywhere at Once for the ONLY CHEAP COMPLETE work Over 500 pages, (includes his "LAST JOURNALS") 100 SPLENDID Illustrations, &c &c., only $2.00. It WILL SELL. Millions want it. For proof and terms, address HUBBARD BROS., Pubs., 738 Sansom St., Phila., Pa.

Sept 30 12-m

OLD NORTH STATE

Excelsior Cotton Food.

Having been appointed Agents for the sale of the above valuable fertiliser we take pleasure in recommending it to our planting friends as one of the

PUREST

and best adapted cotton and corn manures known to the farming interests.

It has been fully tested for several years with the most satisfactory results. It has been carefully analyzed by eminent Chemists, and found to contain a large per cent. type of concentrated vegetable matter, combined richly with which constituted its component parts. It is particularly adapted to thin or exhausted lands, and while its judicious application will give the desired vigor to the growing plants, its great value will be realised in the quality of fruit produced.

AMMONIA, SOLUBLE PHOSPHATES & POTASH,

We can only offer a limited amount of this pure and valuable ticle to our friends this season.

NORRIS & MYATT Agents.
Raleigh, N. C.

feb 17-tf.

M. T. NORRIS, W. V. MYATT,

NORRIS & MYATT,

GROCERS, COTTON FACTORS

—AND—

Commission Merchants.

No. 3 Exchange Place and No. 5 Martin Street,

Consignments Solicited and Prompt Returns Guaranteed.

PLOWS, PLOWS, PLOWS,

Anticipating the Spring season, we now have in stock the following large and varied assortment of Plows, viz: Dunn & Riggan, No. 0 Turn Plow, The celebrated Wilson Cotton Plow and the Rule's Cotton Plow. We offer all of these Plows at very lowest figures. Call and examine their merits for yourself.

NORRIS & MYATT.

FLOUR, FLOUR, FLOUR.

We are constantly receiving, and will keep on hand a large lot of Flour, which we guarantee to give perfect satisfaction.

We also keep White Bolted Meal.

NORRIS & MYATT.

MEAT, MEAT, MEAT.

Our stock of Meat, Clear Rib Sides and Shoulders, is complete We guarantee to MEET the demands of the trade both in quality and prices.

We always have on hand Marshall's Factory Filled Salt, only $2.25 per sack.

NORRIS & MYATT.

IRISH POTATOES.

10 bbls. Early Goodrich.
10 bbls. Early Rose.

These forward brands of Potatoes we offer very low. Send in your orders to

NORRIS & MYATT.

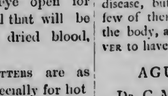
feb 17-tf.

FROM

HENRY J. BROWN,

Opposite Masonic Hall.

RALEIGH, N. C.,



UNDERTAKER,

Keeps on hand Fisk's Metallic Burial Cases, Self Sealing Metallic Burial Cases, and Walnut and other Wood Coffins. HEARSE FURNISHED.

Also Dealer in Furniture. Repairing and Varnishing Promptly Executed.

apr 13-tf

OLD NORTH STATE

FIRE

Insurance Company.

OF

WARRENTON, - - - N. C.

Capital Stock, $107,600.00

ASSETTS:

Mortgages on Real Estate	$ 45,000.00
National Bank Stock	1,050.00
Solvent Stock Notes	51,250.00
Due from Agents, current	2,502.98
Agents Supplies	2,600.00
Office furniture (Safe, &c)	626 89
Accrued Interest	796.16
	590.64
	$ 102,995.65

LIABILITIES:

Amount necessary to reinsure all unexpired risks on the basis of the New York law, $10,000.

$1,229 Assets to Every $100 of Technical Liabilities.

According to the past experience of the Company we have

$2,458 Assets to Every $100 of actual Liabilities.

OFFICERS:

Col. W. S. DAVIS, President.
N. R. JONES, Vice-President.
E. F. LONG, Secretary.
Wm. J. NOBLOCK, Treasurer.
T. C. WILLIAMS, Superintendent.

1874. FALL STOCK. 1874.

NEW GOODS! GOOD QUALITY!!

LOW PRICES!!!

—o—

JOS. P. GULLEY,

RETAILER AND JOBBER OF

Dry Goods, Notions, Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Trunks, Valises, White Goods, &c., &c.,

RALEIGH, N. C.

My large and carefully selected stock for the Fall and Winter is now in store, and I respectfully invite all in search of good goods and low prices, to call and examine for themselves.

BURT'S GAITERS and BOOTS FOR GENTS.

To those who have bought and used these goods we need only to say that we have a full line of them.—For durability and neatness of fit they are unexcelled.

Also Mic'w and Graff's hand made shoes for the Ladies.

PRINTS! PRINTS! PRINTS!

A large stock of the latest patterns, at prices that cannot be excelled.

Respectfully,
JOSEPH P. GULLEY,
Corner Fayetteville and Market Square.

oct 7-1y

SCHEDULES.

PIEDMONT & AIR-LINE RAILWAY.

RICHMOND & DANVILLE, RICHMOND & DANVILLE R. W., N. C. DIVISION, and NORTH WESTERN N. C. R. W.

CONDENSED TIME-TABLE.
In effect on and after Friday, March 19th, 1875.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	MAIL.	EXPRESS.
Leave Charlotte	7 23 P. M	8.55 A. M.
" Air-Line Junc'n	8 3x "	9 30 "
" Salisbury	11.12 A. M	11.28 "
" Greensboro'	3.35 "	2.16 P. M.
" Danville	6.20 "	4.48 "
" Dundee	6.30 "	4.57 "
" Burkville	7.35 "	6 17 "
Arrive at Richmond	9.30 P. M	11 45 P. M

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS	MAIL.	EXPRESS.
Leave Richmond	1.55 P. M	5.05 A. M.
" Burkville	4 4 "	8.25 "
" Dundee	9 2x "	12.55 P. M.
" Danville	9 48 "	1.00 P. M.
" Greensboro'	12.40 A. M.	3.37 "
" Salisbury	3.36 "	6.46 "
" Air-Line Junc'n	7.05 "	9 23 "
Arrive at Charlotte	7.45 A. M.	9.55 "

GOING EAST. GOING WEST

STATIONS.	MAIL.	MAIL.
Leave Greensboro'	3.35 A. M.	Arrive 11 30 P. M
" Co. Shops	5.10 "	Leave 10.15 "
" Raleigh	8.4 "	7.38 "
Arrive at Goldsboro'	11.20 A. M.	Leave 2 55 P. M.

NORTH WESTERN N. C. R. R.
(SALEM BRANCH.)

Leave Greensboro'..... 4.25 P. M.
Arrive at Salem..... 6 10 "
Leave Salem..... 9.20 A. M.
Arrive at Greensboro..... 11.15 "

Passenger Train leaving Raleigh at 3.38 P. M. connects at Greensboro' with the Northern bound train making the quickest time to all Northern cities Price of Tickets same as via other routes.

Trains to and from points East of Greensboro connect at Greensboro with Mail Trains to or from points North or South.

Two trains daily, both ways.

On Sundays Lynchburg Accommodation leave Richmond at 2.00 A. M., arrive at Burkeville 12.45 P. M., leave Burkeville 4.30 A. M., arrive at Richmond 7.15 A. M.

No Change of Cars between Charlotte and Richmond, 282 Miles.

Papers that have arrangements to advertise the Schedule of this company will please print as above. For further information address

S. S. ALLEN,
Gen'l Ticket Agent.
Greensboro, N. C.

T. M. R. TALCOTT,
Engineer & Gen'l sup't Attendant.

CHANGE OF SCHEDULE.

GILEIGH & GASTON RAILROAD CO.

On and after Friday, May 22nd, 1874, trains on the Raleigh & Gaston Railroad, will run daily (Sunday excepted) as follows:

MAIL TRAIN.

Leave Raleigh,	9.35 A. M.
Arrives at Weldon,	3.30 P. M.
Leaves Weldon,	9.50 A. M.
Arrives at Raleigh,	3.45 P. M.

ACCOMMODATION TRAIN.

Leaves Raleigh,	5.15 A. M.
Arrives at Weldon,	5.15 P. M.
Leaves Weldon,	2.2x A. M.
Arrives at Raleigh	2.45 P. M.

Mail train makes close connection at Weldon, with the Seaboard and Roanoke Railroad and Bay Line Steamers via Baltimore, to and from all points North, West and N. Ohiwest, and with Petersburg Railroad via Petersburg, Richmond and Washington City, to and from all points North and Northwest.

And at Raleigh with the North Carolina Railroad to and from all points South and Southwest, and with the Raleigh & Augusta Air Line to Hayward and Fayetteville.

A. B. ANDREWS,
Gen. Sup't.

RALEIGH & AUGUSTA AIR-LINE RAILROAD.

SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE,
Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 27th, 1874.

On and after Monday, 19 July 26th, 1875, trains on the R. & A. A. L. Road will run daily, Sundays excepted, as follows:

MAIL TRAIN.

Train leaves Raleigh,	4.00 P. M.
Arrives at Sanford,	6.25 "
Train leaves Sanford,	8.30 A. M.
Arrives at Raleigh,	9.20 "

FREIGHT TRAIN.

Leaves Raleigh,	5.15 A. M.
Arrives at Sanford	10.35 A. M.
Leaves Sanford,	11.01 A. M
Arrives at Raleigh	3.5 P. M.

Mail train makes close connection a Raleigh with the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad, to and from all points North

And at Sanford with the Western Railroad, to and from Fayetteville and points on the Cape Fear River.

A. B. ANDREWS,
Superintendent.

—o—

OFFICE FIRST OR TRANSPORTATION,
Seaboard & Roanoke R. R. Co.,
Portsmouth, Va., Jan. 1st, 1875.

On and after this date, trains of this Road will leave Weldon daily, Sundays excepted, as follows:

Mail train at	4 P. M.
No. 1 Freight train at	4 A. M.
No. 2 Freight train at	8 A. M.

ARRIVE AT PORTSMOUTH.

Mail train at	7.15 P. M.
No 1 Freight at	12 00 NOON.
No 2 Freight at	4 00 P. M.

Freight trains have a passenger car attached.

Steamer for Edenton, Plymouth and Land trains on Beckwith's Ferry and Chowan Rivers leave Franklin at 7.30 A. M. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

E. G. GHIO.
Supt. Transportation.

STIEFF

GRAND, SQUARE, AND UPRIGHT

PIANOS

Have received upwards of FIFTY FIRST PREMIUMS and are among the best now made. Every instrument fully warranted for five years. Prices as low as for the cheapest one in the very best materials and in the most thorough workmanship will permit. The principal pianists and composers, and the piano-purchasing public of the South especially, unite in the unanimous verdict of the superiority of the STIEFF PIANO. The DURABILITY of our instruments is fully established by over sixty schools and colleges in the South, using over 300 of our Pianos.

Sole Wholesale Agents for several of the principal manufacturers of Cabinet and Parlor Organs; prices ranging from $50 to $80. A liberal discount to Clergymen and Sabbath schools.

A large assortment of second-hand Pianos at prices ranging from $50 to $200, always on hand.

Send for Illustrated Catalogue, containing names of over 300 Southerners, who have bought and are using the Stieff Piano.

CHARLES M. STIEFF,
Warerooms, No. 9 North Liberty street,
Baltimore, Md.

Factories, 84 & 86 Camden st. and 45 & 47 Perry st.
Dec 16-12m

POPULAR AND USEFUL BOOKS

Royal Diadem, (S. S. Note)	$2
Amaranth, " "	2
Bright Jewels, " "	2
Happy Voices, " "	2
The Choice " "	2
The Morning Star " "	2
Pure Gold, " "	2
Songs of Salvation, " "	2
Wesleyan Catechisms No. 1,	75
Wesleyan " No. 2,	75
Wesleyan " No. 3	1.00
Bibles, (pocket size) from 75 to	3.00
Bibles, Family, from 3.00 to	5.00
Children of the Abbey 12mo cloth,	1.50
Robinson Crusoe, 12mo cloth,	1.50
Shakespeare, 12mo cloth	1.50
Pilgrims Progress, 12mo cloth, pictorial,	1.50
Methodist Hymn and Tune Books, 12mo cloth,	75
Ready Reckoners, from 5 cts to	60
Little Writers, (head covers) 50 to	60
Life of Daniel Boon, 12mo cloth,	1.50
Bible Dictionary, (the best)	1.75
Picture Books (highly illustrated) from 5cts to	2.00
Methodist Hymn Books from 50 cts to	5.00
Baptist Hymn Books, from 75 to	4.50
Presbyterian Hymn Books, from 80 cts	2.50
Episcopal Prayer Books, from 75 cts to	5.00
Photograph Albums, from 75 cts to	6.00
Major Jones Courtship, paper cover,	75
Abbotts Mary Queen of Scotts,	1.20
Abbotts Queen Elizabeth,	1.20
Abbotts Maria Antoinette,	1.20
Aesop's Fables,	1.50
Arabian Knights Entertainment,	1.50

Send cash and add 10 cents on the dollar, and I will mail any of the above.

☞ Order any other book you want.

L. BRANSON,
Raleigh, N. C.

april 8-12m

PREMIUM CHESTER WHITE PIGS.—$15 each, $28 a pair, Chester County MAMMOTH COORN, and Imported BELGIAN OATS. 4 lbs by mail, 40 cts peck $2, ½ bushel $3; bushel $5. Circular and Sample Packages of 8 cts Free for 2 stamps Address,

N. P. BOYER Parkesburg, Chester Co. Pa.
march 3 8-wks

READ THIS

I will give any one an opportunity to make from $2 to $5 per day to work for me. Work easy and light. A boy 10 years old can do the biz. Send stamp for particulars. Apply to

B. I. POWELL, Warrenton N. C.
nov. 25 12m.

OUR GROCERY DEPARTMENT

is complete, and we make FLOUR a specialty and guarantee the lowest prices at retail and wholesale, also the quality to be equal or superior to any offered in the market for the price.

BAGGING and TIES,

SALT and NAILS

always on hand and offered at the lowest market prices.

Consignments solicited, which will receive our prompt and personal attention, and the best prices obtained.

Jan 26-tf

Important Sale

OF

Personal and Real Estate.

We offer for sale on private terms one fine Stallion YOUNG CANTON," a very superior and vigorous horse.

One COW.

Some Plows, Hoes and Gear.

One excellent Magnolia Light Draft Gin and Ball Press, both good as new.

Eleven or twelve hundred Acres of Land, part in wood (oak, hickory, &c.) and part freshly cleared and in cultivation. Will cut it up into small tracts to suit purchasers.

Young CANTON will be sold to the HIGHEST BIDDER on Tuesday of the next term of Court a Pittsboro, unless previously sold.

T. W. HARRIS,
J. B. HARRIS.

Executors of T. B. Harris, Deceased.
March 3-tf

MEDICAL COLLEGE

OF VIRGINIA RICHMOND.

The Spring and Summer Session, 1875, will begin THURSDAY, MAY 11 18TH.

For Annual Announcement, or further information, address

M. L. JAMES, M. D.,
Registrar Adj. Faculty,
No 312 E. Grace Street

Mar. 3 6 w.

A NEW BOOK.

Life, Sermons, and Speeches

OF

Rev. N. F. Reid, D. D.

LATE OF THE

NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

BY HIS SONS

James W and Frank L. Reid.

A handsome volume of 536 pages.

A fine Steel Engraving of Dr. Reid in each copy.

NOW READY FOR DELIVERY.

BE SURE TO GET A COPY.

Price in morocco, gilt edge, $

Raleigh Christian Advocate.

Bobbitt & Gray, Publishers. | Published in the Interests of Methodism in North Carolina. | $2.20 Per Annum, in Advance.

Vol. XXI.---No. 15. | Raleigh, N. C., Wednesday, April 14, 1875. | Whole No. 1,053.

Selected Poetry.

Trust in God and Do the Right

Courage, brother! do not stumble,
Though thy path be dark as night;
There's a star to guide the humble—
Trust in God, and do the right.

Let the road be rough and dreary,
And its end far out of sight,
Foot it bravely! strong or weary,
Trust in God, and do the right.

Perish policy and cunning!
Perish all that fears the light!
Whether losing, whether winning,
Trust in God, and do the right.

Trust no party, sect, or faction,
Trust no leaders in the fight;
But in every word and action,
Trust in God, and do the right.

Trust no lovely forms of passion,
Friends may look like angels bright;
Trust no custom, school, or fashion;
Trust in God, and do the right.

Simple, rule, and safest guiding,
Inward peace, and inward might,
Star upon our path abiding—
Trust in God and do the right.

Some will hate thee, some will love thee;
Some will flatter, some will slight;
Cease from men and look above thee,
Trust in God, and do the right.

NORMAN MACLEOD, D. D., in EVANGEL.

Bethlehem and the Moravians.

But three hours' ride from New York, in the beautiful valley of the Lehigh, lies the quaint old Moravian town of Bethlehem.

An interesting history is that of the Moravian Church and of this town.—The sect came into being among the followers of Huss, more than half a century before Luther's protest. The "apostolic succession" of its episcopate came through some Waldensian bishop consecrated at the Roman Catholic Council of Basle, and has been recognized as valid by the Parliament of Great Britain. Crushed with the other Protestant bodies of Bohemia in the Thirty Years' War, and lying prostrate for a century, the church was reorganized in Germany in 1722 under the patronage of the pious Count Zinzendorf. Wesley passed some time with this people, and introduced some of their usages into his own church. The zeal for foreign missions which has made the name of the Moravians famous among God's people led them, in 1741, to establish an Indian mission on the Lehigh. It was founded at Christmas, and they gave it the name of Bethlehem. Settlers came to it in large numbers from the old country, and it became the headquarters of the church in America. The settlement suffered much during the old Indian wars, lying, as it were, between two fires, the Indians being zealous of all whites and the whites suspicious of men who sought the souls of red-skins instead of their scalps. And there were stirring scenes here during the Revolution. The large church structures were used as hospitals, and great numbers of the Continental soldiers lie buried in the suburban fields.—Here the wounded Lafayette received the tender care of the Moravian sisters, and another interesting local incident is recalled by Longfellow's "Hymn of the Moravian Nuns at the Consecration of Pulaski's Banner."

The town has several railroads now, has large manufactories, has a new college—the Lehigh University, to which Asa Packer has given over half a million: has elegant modern mansions on its broad, well-shaded avenues, and it claims to have grown to a population of eight or ten thousand, but it still retains the charming quaintness of the olden time. Four-fifths of the names on the street signs show the German descent of the people: the merchant and the physician must still be able to speak "Pennsylvania Dutch"; political gatherings must have German oratory, and church services will be in German part of the day. The prevailing domestic architecture is still of the "old revolutionary" pattern. Still flourishes the old Sun Hotel, where have lodged Adams and Hancock, Gates and Greene, Lafayette and Pulaski, Corn Planter and Red Jacket, Lady Washington, and many others of the celebrities of bygone days. And the large ancient church, plain, but remarkably bright and cheerful, the widows' houses, the venerable Seminary building, and other such structures attract the attention of the most careless tourist.

The ancient graveyard is an interesting spot. The graves are in long rows—a little square memorial stone lying flat on each and all are alike—human pride nowhere seeking to escape the great leveling of death. Far back in the last century are the dates of the decease of some of the "rude forefathers of the hamlet," and the missionary origin of the town is seen in such inscriptions as "Samuel, a Delaware boy, died 1746;" "Jonas, a Mohican;" "Otapawanamud, a Wampano;" and "Chitemoqua, the first convert from the Shawanese."

The venerable but still flourishing Female Seminary here has a large army of alumni. The Bethlehem Seminary Souvenir, a volume of 500 pages, will be read with interest by every student of American history.—The Moravians have always had an educational as well as a missionary zeal. Their schools are among the oldest in this country. The Bethlehem Female Seminary and the Boys' School at Nazareth, a few miles distant, were founded in 1785; their Female Seminary at Lititz, Pa., in 1794; their Female Academy at Salem, N C., in 1802; and the Moravian College and Theological Seminary at Bethlehem in 1807. At all their mission stations day-schools as well as Sunday-schools are formed. In Jamaica alone over three thousand children are educated in the mission schools. It is hardly necessary to say that the large congregation at Bethlehem has the look of intelligence.

On Sunday and especially on festival days the German love of music shows itself in the Moravian church services. The congregational singing—fervent and hearty—consists of old German chorals. The church at Bethlehem has a large and sweet-toned organ, which on special occasions is accompanied by an orchestra of violins and trombones. The choir singing can hardly be equalled in our wealthiest congregations. When a member of the church dies the band of trombonists take their position in the church tower and by appropriate music announce the passing of the soul. At the grave also the trombones play the requiem. In the olden time, when the first field of grain of the season was cut the reapers went forth in procession, the trombones playing joyous music. Strains of glad melody greet the Christmas time. On New Year's Eve there is a "watch-meeting," and as the clock strikes twelve the organ and trombones announce in loudest notes the advent of the New Year. And at sunrise on Easter morning the congregation, preceded by a corps of trombonists and singers, moves in solemn procession to the burial ground, and there in sacred worship they celebrate the resurrection of our Lord.

The German love of children shows itself in the Moravian church services. One day of the year is set apart for the Children's Festival. A school-girl's diary of the last century says of one observance of this day: "Early in the morning we were awakened by the sound of the guitar, accompanied by singing. At six the trombonists from the balcony of the Brethren's House proclaimed our festival. At seven we assembled for morning prayer. All of us were draped in white, with pink ribbons in our caps. At nine we met in the children's meeting. After this we led the procession to the meeting-house. At twelve we had an excellent dinner. At two o'clock the trombones summoned us to Love Feast, which was opened with the hymn, "The Lord my faithful shepherd is." Cakes and coffee were handed around. The choir sang delightfully, and we joined in the antiphon. When this was ended we walked with our tutoresses around town amid the sound of trombones from the balcony of the Brethren's House. We were all draped in white, walking two and two. We went to bed at night unspeakably happy." Of a Christmas it says: "In the morning we attended meeting in the chapel.—Towards the close all the children under twelve years received burning wax tapers, and the gallery was illuminated with fifty candles, in commemoration of its being fifty years since Christmas was first celebrated at this place. And at such times are given representations of the stable at Bethlehem and the Virgin mother cradling her infant Saviour in the manger by the beasts of the stall.

The church service of the Moravians is liturgical, consisting of a Litany very much like that of the Anglican Church. This fact, together with their acknowledged fervor, is worth noting by those who think a prescribed liturgy tends to cold formality.

The Sunday we were in Bethlehem the text was, "Rejoice in the Lord always." It was a simple, fervent, joyous discourse. In the afternoon, it being a festival day, a love-feast was held. The hymns—some of them German and some English—were printed on programmes scattered through the house. The services were mostly musical. The anthem-singing by the choir, supported by organ and orchestra, was, if anything, more impressive than the military mass at St. Michael's in Munich or the singing of the choir at St. Peter's. It combined what are often "put asunder"—artistic merit and deep spiritual fervor. In the evening was the communion service, which consisted of an hour of almost uninterrupted singing. The minister and his assistants wore white surplices. The bread was dry unleavened cakes, and as the people simultaneously broke their portions it sounded through the church like the clicking of a thousand bayonets fixing for the charge. The wine, poured from glass decanters, was passed in huge glass mugs. The people seemed determined to exalt the privilege of the cup for the laity, for which their Hussite ancestors, the Calixtines (so called from calix, a cup), contended so strenuously in the days of trial. It seemed strange, moreover, to hear the sound of trombones at a communion service.

The community of goods is no longer maintained among the Moravians in this country. The doctrines of their church are those of the other evangelical sects. But they still have an individuality of Christian character which is worthy of study by their brethren in Christ. They are a historic church, a missionary church, an educational church, and a joyous church. May their influence not be lost! —NORMAN FOX, in The Christian Union.

The Sword of the Spirit.

One of the most encouraging signs of religious prosperity is the increased interest in the study of the word of God. The noted revivalists, such as Moody and Hammond, are expounders of the Scriptures. Dr. Hall, in his Yale lectures, insists upon expository preaching as the most profitable and effective. A topical essay, with a mere catch word from the Scriptures to give it something of authority and weight, is scarcely worthy the name of preaching. Reflections of a philosophical nature; history, science and metaphysics, connected by way of suggestion with some inspired declaration: or lectures on morals, with but little reference to the gospel as the power of God, are very meager diet for souls that hunger for the bread of life.

The sword of the Spirit is the word of God. To wield this weapon is the business of the Christian soldier, and if wielded with intelligence and with faith the strongholds of the mighty will be taken: "For the word of God is quick and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart." The properties of the word are indeed wonderful as set forth in such terms as these. The Savior prays that the disciples might be sanctified through the truth. It would seem to be of the highest moment, from the character of the Scriptures as the means of awakening and purifying, that they should be most fully exhibited in preaching.

There is a reaction of the popular taste in regard to this subject, which we hope will continue until the exposition of Scripture becomes the universal practice. It does seem very much trifling with the word of God to select from it merely a motto for the heading of a discourse, while the great storehouse of spiritual riches is left unopened and unexplored. If the sword of the Spirit is the word of God, it is this that we should have in hand. Without this the weapons of our warfare are carnal and we have no right to expect that God will honor them in the largest results. The Spirit will attend the word of God, while he may be grieved and affronted by the greater eminence given to our own word, and the parade of human forms of thought and eloquence.—New Orleans Christian Advocate.

"Refreshment" Saloons.

In no city are the means of intoxication lacking, but New York provides them on the most gigantic scale. The N. Y. Times gives some startling figures regarding them. The licensed saloons amount in round numbers to 7,000, graded from $250 to $30 fees, each, per annum, and yielding last year a total revenue to the city of $527,380. The average daily receipts to keep up with rents and other heavy expenses cannot be less than $20; probably that is a small average, but it represents a daily total of $140,000 per day paid for drinks. Carrying this through the 365 days that make up the year and the alcoholic aggregate is $51,-100,000. But in addition to these saloons, which pay for their privileges, there are at least 2,000 unlicensed saloons in the city which will bring the total expenditure for stimulants up to more than $65,700,000, or a fraction over $60 for every man, woman and child in the metropolis. Of the hundred dollar grade of licenses there are 3,958 which mark the places frequented by the poorer classes in search of spirituous liquors. In addition to these are 2,058 places that took out ale and beer licenses only at $30 each, and these are the resorts of persons of moderate incomes. It is estimated also that four out of every six dollars wasted in intoxicants come from those who depend upon their daily toil for subsistence.

The Universalists of the North west have arranged for a series of prayer meetings in Michigan, Indiana and Ohio, "for the outpouring of the Holy Spirit upon the churches, and for mutual help and encouragement in Christian life and by the grace of God for the quickening of religious life among the people." This looks like a reaction against "free religion," and indicates an advance in the right direction.

Christian Longing.

Everything that men think desirable starts in them a wish to obtain it. It may be completely out of their reach, or it may be very near, but the longing in the soul to get at it may be equally strong in either case. There is a longing to be rich, strong, distinguished, happy. Hundreds of men have some special wish to gratify, for which they are ready to make almost any sacrifice. There is a desirable end to be gained, others have gained it, and hence they have a passionate desire to do what is thus, not only so good, but possible.

And Christians have their longings like other people. Looking over the history of the Church, they read of many saints who had grown great in grace. They, strong and happy, and having gained certain points of experience and blessing, seemed to live in a region visited by few. "Oh!" says the admiring reader; "if I could only get where they were!" Or look ing around them, they see Christian friends who seem to live in a state of saintly enjoyment of which they themselves have no touch of experience. How they wish to be like them! If they could only get such peace, such trust, and joy and assurance. The "higher state" they are longing after, and believing in a "higher life," they make themselves miserable in feeling they have never reached it.

The difficulty that mostly thwarts the wishes of these good people consists in the fact that they do little else than long. They wish, but they do nothing more. Their desires all go off in reveries and langnors, and the beautiful land they wish to occupy remains far away because they never get to it. If they want the gold, let them dig for it. If they desire the fruits, let them go where they grow, and gather them. If they expect the happy "promised land," let them "go forward." And if they are anxious for the sweet enjoyments of a composed Christian life, let them seek them by the earnest activity of a Christian career.

Such longings are in every case a spiritual hindrance. They cloud the spirit. They beget a disposition to mope and whine, to spend time in musings and melancholy forecastings. Air castles and spiritual day dreams are their brightest products, but very little that is ever substantial and useful is gained by them. And sinking people down into a kind of discontented state they unfit them for the only way by which they can get what they profess so much to admire.

Spiritual eminences are not to be gained by sitting at the foot of them and wishing we were at the top. It takes climbing to get them. Nor will any one ever reach them who climbs simply for the joy of getting them, and reveling in the pleasure of the prospect and elevation. That is a poor motive. Happiness is seldom gained when we set traps for it, or chase it for its own sake. It comes when we do our duty. There is a joy in the work and an added one in its accomplishment, and the fulness of joy comes in the end, under the blessing of God.

Christian readers, are you longing after spiritual blessings? Then remember that you will only obtain them, when leaving off your longing, you rouse up to duty; when you "run with patience the race set before you, looking unto Jesus"—United Presbyterian.

The Witchery of Manner

Almost every man can recall scores of cases, within his knowledge, where pleasing manners have made the fortunes of lawyers, doctors, divines, merchants, and, in short, men in every walk of life. Raleigh flung down his laced coat into the mud for Elizabeth to walk on, and got for his reward a proud queen's favor. The politician who has this advantage easily distances rival candidates, for every voter he speaks with becomes instantly his friend. The very tones in which he asks for a pinch are often more potent than the logic of a Webster or a Clay. Polished manners have often made scoundrels successful, whilst the best men, by their hardness and coldness, have done themselves incalculable injury; the shell being so rough that the world could not believe there was precious kernel within. Civility is to a man what beauty is to a woman. It creates an instantaneous impression in his behalf, while the opposite quality excites as quick a prejudice against him. It is a real ornament, the most beautiful dress that man or woman can wear, and worth more as a means of winning favor than the finest clothes and jewels ever worn. The gruffest man loves to be appreciated; and it is oftener the sweet smile of a woman, which we think intended for us alone, than a pair of Juno-like eyes or "lips that seem on roses fed," that bewitches our heart, and lays us low at the feet of her whom we afterward marry.—Home Guardian.

Rev. Mr. Starved-to-Death.

His congregation have kept him on a small salary, which they did not pay. Noticing that their minister's overcoat was getting shabby, and his wife looked very much troubled, the good people met together and resolved to atone for the past by giving him a donation party. The night came, the sleighs drove up, the people stamped the snow-clods off their heels and the party began. The most of us had not eaten much during the day, in order that our appetites might be sharp and keen. Some had brought smoked beef, and others bread, and others cheese, and other tea, and others coffee, and others turkeys and geese. The few liberal souls who brought largely and generously ate but little, and demanded no thanks; but we who had brought twenty-cents' worth of provision ate fifty cents' worth, and we who had brought forty cents' worth ate nearly to the amount of one dollar, taking away in our handkerchiefs for the chidren at home enough to make up the full dollar. The carpets, which ought to have been replaced three years ago by something better, were about finished that night by the tramping of several hundred feet. We broke a lamp and dropped one tray-full of the crockery of Mrs. Starved-to-death. We left, when we came away, many pieces of fruit-cake with the raisins picked out. Our horses had eight quarts of the minister's oats; for we had come a long way. We left the dominie ten or fifteen book-marks, more than enough to put on the empty plates of the parsonage some day when the fare is short. We added to the minister's library some fine copies of the "Patent Office Reports," which had been franked us by our Congressman in Washington at public expense. We ran our elbow through a pane of glass, which will help in the ventilation of the parsonge when the weather is warm. We left some delicate mementos in the shape of tobacco cuds in various places. In short, we had a donation visit. We all feel better; and if any man in all the world ought to be happy and grateful, it is Dominie Starved-to death. Let others, if they will, support their pastors by contributions of money, which has been the ruin of so many people; but improving on the words of the orator, we cry, "Give us donation parties, or give us death."—REV. T. DEWITT TALMAGE, IN Christian at Work.

COLORADO'S ANTIQUITIES.

Her Lilliputian Dwellings-A Legend of their Inhabitants.

A letter descriptive of the Hayden expedition's explorations in Southwestern Colorado tells the following:

Aside from the interest attaching to the ruins themselves, there are thrown about this rock and its surroundings the romance and charm of legendary association. The story runs thus, as given us by our guide: Formerly the aborigines inhabited all this country we had been over as far west as the headwaters of the San Juan, as far north as the Rio Dolores, west some distance into Utah, and south and southwest throughout Arizona and down into Mexico.

They had lived there from time immemorial—since the earth was a small island, which augmented as its inhabitants multiplied. They cultivated the valley, fashioned whatever utensils they needed very neatly and handsomely out of clay and wood and stone, not knowing any of the useful metals; built their homes kept their flocks and herds in the fertile river bottoms, and worshipped the sun. They were an eminently peaceful and prosperous people, living by agriculture rather than by the chase.

About a thousand years ago, however, they were visited by savage strangers from the North, whom they treated hospitably. Soon these visits became more frequent and annoying. Then their troublesome neighbors—ancestors of the present Utes—began to forage upon them, and, at last, to massacre them and devastate their farms; so, to save their lives at least, they built houses high upon the cliffs, where they could store food and hide away till the traders left.

But on summer the invaders did not go back to their mountains as the people expected, but brought their families with them and settled down. So, driven from their homes and lands, starving in their little niches on the high cliffs, they could only steal away during the night and wander across the cheerless uplands. To one who has traveled these steppes such a flight seems terrible, and the mind hesitates to picture it.

At the cristone they halted, and probably found friends, for the rocks and caves are full of the nests of these human wrens and swallows. Here they collected, erected stone fortifications and watch towers, dug reservoirs in the rocks to hold a supply of water, which in all cases is precarious in this latitude, and once more stood at bay. Their foes came, and for one long month fought and were beaten back, and returned day after day to the attack as merciless and inevitable as the tide.

Meanwhile the families of the defenders were evacuating and moving South, and bravely did their protectors shield them till they were a hundred miles away. The besiegers were beaten back and went away. But the narrative tells us that the hollows of the rocks were filled to the brim with the mingled blood of conquerers and conquered, and red veins of it ran down into the canon.

It was such a victory as they could not afford to gain again, and they were glad when the long fight was over to follow their wives and little ones to the South. There in the deserts of Arizona, on well-nigh unapproachable isolated bluffs they built new towns, and their few descendants, the Moquis live in them to this day, preserving more carefully and purely the history of their forefathers than their skill or wisdom. It was from one of their old men that this traditional sketch was obtained.

Observing the Sabbbath.

The following story is published by a Connecticut paper: "There lived in New Haven County, a few years ago, a man whose wife, Tabathy, was widely known for her strictness in observing the Christian Sabbath as he was for his remarkable patience in bearing with some of her unpleasant ways. One Sabbath morning a barrel of flour stood in the front hall which had been left there late Saturday evening, which to the good old man, seemed to be in the way, and that it would not be very wrong to put it in its proper place before going to church. So after breakfast was over he proceeded quietly to roll the barrel to its place which was up one flight of stairs. No sooner had he reached the stairs and commenced to ascend than his wife came out and forbid him going any further, declaring if he did that God would withdraw his blessing from them, and the whole blame would rest upon his conscience. After pausing a moment to think, he resolved to proceed and let the consequences be what they would. Having succeeded in getting half way up the stairs, Tabathy, determined to have it her way, as usual, reached up and took hold of his feet, pulling them from under him, when he and his barrel of flour came to the bottom, causing the head of the barrel to come out, covering him with the contents. As soon as the poor man could remove the flour from his head sufficiently to speak, he looked up to his wife meekly and penitently, and said: 'Tabathy let us pray.'"

The Origin of Newspapers.

Who thought of the newspaper first? It seems to have had its birth in that land of vivid gesture and grave gossip, Italy, and the first paper of which we have any record was a monthly, published in Venice by order of the government, in manuscript, as printing had not then been invented. It was called a Gazzetta, which word is a derivative of Gazzera, the name of a magpie or chatterer. In the Magliabechian Library, at Florence, are now to be seen thirty volumes of Venetian gazettes, in manuscript, the last of which is dated in the sixteenth century. The Venetian conservatives clung to their script after printing was an accomplished fact.

The epoch of the Spanish Armada, in England, was the epoch of the first English newspaper. In the British Museum are preserved several newspapers which were printed in 1588, while the Spanish fleet lay in the British Channel. The earliest of these is entitled The English Mercurie, which by authority "was imprinted at London by Her Highness's printer, 1588." So to the sagacious forethought of the great Queen Bess, and the wise policy of the great minister BURLEIGH, the English-speaking peoples of the world are indebted for the model of our present necessity, the newspaper. Deprive us—ye sweet little cherubs who sit up aloft, ye weird sisters three who preside over our fates—deprive us of our boots, our breakfast, our funds in bank, but take not from us our morning papers. In this early journal are the news of the day, and a well writ ten article, designed to arouse and stiffen timid loyalty, tells of the discovery of a Spanish plot to murder the queen. There is a heroic poem too, called "Elizabethe Triumphs," by one JAMES ASKER; a critical article on an unfortunate author, entitled "Father Parson's Coat Well Dusted," and various witty sayings, all printed in Roman letter.

To a physician of Paris, RENANDOT, belongs the credit of having first collected in fugitive sheets the news of various countries. This first venture was a weekly, issued in healthy seasons, when patients were few, and the doctor at leisure. He obtained a license to do this in 1632.

The first daily paper, after the accession of WILLIAM and MARY, set its sails to catch the wind of popular favor by printing on its title-page The Orange Intelligencer. Yellow, dusty, insignificent in comparison with our splendid news sheets of to day, we still cannot help regarding with a certain reverence these pioneers of liberty and intelligence, the first newspapers.

Happiness.

It is a false opinion that happiness is not now to be realized, but only to come hereafter. It is in contradiction to God's holy word, as we believe we are blessed now with all things that are really good for us. Yet there are persons who think that when some particular grievance is removed they shall be happy. No! you will be as far from happiness as you are now. This is the folly and weakness of the mind, which anticipates happiness from earthly changes. But, on the other hand, as time passes by and under all circumstances, supposing that we have the knowledge of the truth and are living in holiness and in the love of God, we may have days of heaven upon the earth. Lady Elizabeth Hastings said to the Countess of Huntingdon, "Since I have known the gospel I have been as happy as an angel." That one sentence was the means of the conversion of Lady Huntington, afterward the friend of Whitefield and the founder of chapels all over England. Who can estimate the number and importance of the effects which followed that change of heart and life?

A President for Thirty-six Hours.

A correspondent of the Kansas City Times recently interviewed Hon. David R. Atchison, who, upon the death of William R. King, a month after his inauguration as Vice-President in 1853, succeeded to the Vice-Presidency, when the following strange and forgotten fact in American history was brought to mind—that Atchison was legally President of the United States for about thirty six hours. We extract as follows:

Reporter—You were President of the U. S. for about thirty-six hours, were you not?

General—Yes, you see Mr Pierce's term expired at midnight Saturday, and this being a Christian country, of course nothing was done on Sunday. Mr. Buchanan was inaugurated at noon on Monday. Therefore, as President of the Senate, I succeeded to the Presidency when Mr. Pierce's term was out; but I had no realization of my high position until about ten o'clock Sunday morning. We had been hard at work in the Senate finishing up business, and having lost much sleep, I would probably have slept all day had I not been awakened up by some personal friends who came to congratulate me and secure positions for certain parties. In order to do everything in proper style, I appointed a full cabinet, and then it is said that my administration was the most successful and popular one ever known, there not being a removal or appointment during my whole term.

VARIETIES.

The original greenbacks—frogs.

A patient waiter—a young doctor.

High living for hard times—rooms in the attic.

The latest thing in front door locks—night keys.

It is estimated that every pauper in San Antonio, Texas, owns about seven dogs.

Edgar Poe said: "To villify a great man is the readiest way in which a little man can himself attain greatness. The crab might never have become a constellation but for the courage it evinced in nibbling Hercules on the heel."

When a common Japanese goes into the presence of an office-holder he must say: "Great and distinguished child of the sun, deign to put your foot upon my neck." There's some pleasure in holding an office in that country.

A man who was sentenced to be hung was visited by his wife, who said: "My dear, would you like the children to see you executed?" "No," replied he. "That's just like you," said she, "you never wanted the children to have any enjoyment."

This is the season of the year when the farmer tells his son John, that if he will sort over ten bushels of potatoes, feed the stock, repair that fence and reshingle the corn crib he may have the rest of the day to go rabbit-hunting.—Detroit Free Press.

A Western editor did not wish to hurt the feelings of a gentle poet, but apologized for the non-appearance of a long and tender poem by saying:—"'Beautiful Spring' was crowded out of our Sunday edition to make room for an account of the great snow storm."

When they want to find out in the country if a girl is courting or not, an old lady steps in and remarks: "I say, there ain't no one sick in this here house or nothin', is there? I seen a light burnin' nigh on to twelve o'clock last night; but I don't smell no camphire nor nothin' around."

An aged colored individual stepped into a store on Woodward avenue, and asked how the thermometer stood: "A hundred and forty nine degrees below zero!" replied one of the clerks. "Is dat a fax?" exclaimed the old man; "then I've lost $2. I jist made a bet it war a hundred an' fifty.

In some parts of Indiana they put out paupers to be kept by contract, instead of keeping them in almshouses. An Illinois man, just across the Wabash, borrowed an Indiana neighbor's pauper, and set him at work in the corn field. As none of the people in the neighborhood had ever seen a pauper, they were anxious to get a peep at him. Consequently some twenty of them joined together one day, armed with their guns and rifles, and went over to see the strange creature. They got cautiously over the fence, and came up to where the men were working. 'BILL,' said SILAS BROWN, their spokesmon, "we've heard that you have got a pauper working for you, and we'd like to see it." Bill thereupon pointed out the object of their curiosity. The visitors walked around the astonished pauper and silently surveyed him from every point of view. At last Silas spoke, "Look heee, Bill" said he, "you can't fool us; thet's a man." It would be a good thing if the almshouse authorities generally had the same idea about paupers as Silas had.

It is a ghastly piece of property yet Horace Wilkinson, of Seven Oaks, in England, claims to own the skull of Oliver Cromwell, the genuine one which Cromwell wore when he died. The Prottector died on the 3d of September, 1658, in his sixtieth year, and was buried in Henry VII.'s chapel in Westminster Abbey. It is claimed by Mr. Wilkinson that after the Restoration Cromwell's body was exhumed and hung at Tyburn, and then buried beneath the gallows; but the skull remained on the top of Westminster Hall, and having been embalmed, defied the atmosphere for twenty-five years, when it was blown down one day and picked up by the sentry. It was then purchased by a Mr. Cox for a museum, which sold it for £250. The spear-head that protrudes through the skull is covered with rust, and the skin resembles hard, dry leather.

A good many years ago the Whigs of Schenectady county, N. Y., elected to the office of County Judge and Surrogate an old Mohawk Dutch farmer, who knew no more about law than a street-car mule knows about love. The first case that came before the old Judge was a suit for damages involved in the opening of a road through a man's farm, and it tried before him without any jury. After he had heard all the testimony and the arguments of the attorneys, he elevated his 275 pounds of solemnity to a perpendicular position, and made the following speech:

"Shentlemens: I haf listened to dur teshdimony unt der arguments von der gounsel mit a great teal of batience unt much addenshun, unt I haf become brofowntly imbressed mit der great importance of dot gase. It is a gase vich involfs mony nish boints of jurisbrudence, and vich requires a great teal of teliberashun. Darefore, in view of the great imbortance of dot gase, unt in order dat the teliberashun may be opserfed py dis court, I shall dhake four days in vich to tecite dot gase, but shall effentually find shudgement for der blaintiff!"

It was a good rebuke which Theodore Thomas gave to some ill-bred people who went to his concert in Washington. Four ladies sailed in with a great flourish, just in time to disturb the opening, and so fix the general gaze upon themselves. Shortly after, following in their wake, and marching down to the seats beside them, came four sprigs illustrating the latest fashion-plates. Before long the eight were jabbering bad French, much to the disgust of all about, and of Mr. Thomas in particular. Several times the leader turned toward them with a look of the utmost annoyance; but still the gabble went on. Finally, in the midst of one of the finest parts of the music, he could bear the nuisance no longer, and rapping sharply, he brought the orchestra to a sudden stop. Then, turning directly to the crowd of disturbers before him, he said: "We cannot play if you talk. If you choose to stop, the music will go on." It is needless to say that the ill mannered crowd felt the merited rebuke, and kept still enough the rest of the evening.

A Bible-class attended by over one thousand persons is one of the special effects of religious interest in New York.

The Christian Advocate.

OFFICE—Corner of Dawson & Hargett Sts

THE ORGAN
OF THE
NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE
OF THE
M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

Rev. J. B. Babbitt, R. T. Gray, Esq. } Editors.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

If ONE YEAR, IN ADVANCE, POSTAGE PAID,	$2.20
six months, " "	1.35
If payment be delayed six months,	2.70

All letters on business with this office should be addressed to the Editors of the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

RALEIGH, N. C., APRIL 14, 1875.

The Cross (X) Mark is to remind you that your subscription has expired. Let all renew promptly.

Emotion and Religion.

It is difficult to define the bounds of emotion in religion. The intelligent reader of the New Testament must be profoundly impressed with the conviction that religion—the religion of our Saviour, is something real and solid, that it is the highest standard for the conduct of man in this life. It does not consist in creeds, ceremonials, or even emotion. These are all good and proper when in harmony with God's revealed law, but they are not sufficient within themselves. The heart must be changed by the washing of regeneration and the life must conform to the will of God. But while this is true we hold that emotion is an essential element in religious enjoyment We believe in emotional religion, and in the expression of religious emotion in our worship. A hearty "Amen," or "Glory to God," has no terror for us, when those who shout let "their lives shout" also. In everything, excited emotions demand utterance in some way. This fact is conceded by all, and yet we often meet with persons who object to any expression of emotion, whatever, in matters pertaining to religion. This is especially true in times of religious awakening. The rejoicings of the church over the salvation of sinners, have generally called forth criticism from the ignorant, proud and self-righteous, and will continue to do so to the end of time. This is a result of fallen and depraved nature. But God forbid that the day should ever come when religion shall cease to be a fire in the heart and on the myriad tongues of Methodism!

The gracious revival season through which we are now passing has been marked by a full flow of the emotional—of spiritual joy. It has been an occasion of general rejoicing with God's people, and all who have met with us from day to day have been impressed with the power of the Divine presence, but we have never seen so little excitement in any revival as in this. The church has rejoiced, penitents have been earnest, and the conversions have been universally bright, but there has been no extravagant and undue excitement.

The revival at Person Street Church of this city, which has been in progress for more than three weeks, continues with increased interest and power. More than 125 persons have been the subjects of converting grace since the good work commenced, and there are a large number of penitents inquiring the way of life. Sixty-three have been received into the church.—Many more will join next Sabbath. Rev. R. A Willis has been with us preaching with great earnestness and power. Rev. H. P. Cole has also rendered efficient service. The second quarterly meeting for this charge was held on Sunday last. Rev. J. P. Moore, the Presiding Elder, was present, entering fully into the spirit of the work and preaching with power. The addition to the church building was ready for use on the Lord's day. It was packed to its utmost capacity Sunday afternoon and evening. The great want is more room. The addition does not accommodate all who come to hear the Gospel of Christ.—The work will be carried forward to completion. Will not every subscriber to the Advocate send one dollar to aid us in this work? "God loveth the cheerful giver." Let the whole church pray for the continuance of this gracious season.

Rev. J. C. Granberry, D. D. of Richmond Va., will deliver the address before the societies at Greensboro' Female College at the approaching commencement. A happy selection, since Dr. Granberry is one of the ablest and most eloquent men in the Southern Church. Rev. A. W. Mangum, of Raleigh, has accepted the invitation to preach the sermon before the graduating class. Another fortunate selection.

A writer in the Southern Christian Advocate suggests that his brethren count up their last year's tobacco bills and put the aggregate amount in the missionary box, and that other 'redundancies' and 'superfluities' be made to give way for contributions to church, benevolent and charitable enterprises.

We call attention to the change in the time of holding District Conference for the Wilmington District. Satisfactory reasons control Bro. Black for changing the time from the 4th to 5th Sunday in May.

Vulgar Tastes.

It is to be regretted that in a time of such boasted civilization and refinement there should still be so much exhibition of vitiated and vulgar taste, leading men to buy and read literature indecent and hurtful both in expression and suggestion, and to patronize places of amusement where the chief attraction and entertainment is the violence done to morality and decency. One would think that with the advance of civilization and the increase in opportunities for education and culture, there would be a corresponding moral growth and refinement of taste in the public mind. But high as our civilization is claimed to be and superior to that of former days—despite the new paths and fields that science and art and philosophy have opened for the human mind where it may disport itself and find exercise for its noblest powers and food for its purest cravings—abundant as are the opportunities for pure and refined enjoyment, there is in many respects no improvement on the habits and likings of men who lived five, ten or twenty centuries ago. "Black Crook" was and is patronized with no less avidity than it would have been if offered in the days of the voluptuaries and libertines whom Juvenal and Horace lashed with their scorpion whips of satire, and the French Can-Can, perhaps fashioned after, but worse than the ancient dances on the feast days of Venus and Bacchus, has as many and eager sympathizers as those disgraceful orgies had. The disgusting details of the Tilton—Beecher trial are watched and read with as much prurience as ancient idlers manifested when they discussed the scandals which stained high Roman families who wore the purple. The public mind is mad in its eagerness for such immoralities,—and does not lack opportunity for indulging its vulgar taste. That was a strong and expressive declaration of Henry Varley, the English revivalist who is preaching in Barnum's Hippodrome in New York, when he said that the American popular mind "is a sewer into which the Devil is emptying the filth and impurity of the Brooklyn Tilton Beecher trial." That criticism though caustic, is too true. The popular mind craves the poisonous stream produced by the disgusting details of the great and blighting scandal. The newspapers of New York and some in the West double their reportorial forces and publish the testimony verbatim and unpurged of its indecency, and find eager buyers and readers in the public who devour the pernicious literature to the hurt of their minds, morals and tastes. The indelicacy of the matters involved encourages and invites, rather than prevents their discussion in circles where propriety and good taste would be expected to abound. Though the ends of justice, as between the parties, may be met in that trial, its triumph cannot atone for the demoralization which Society will suffer.

It is deplorable, too, to see the avidity with which a roving and depraved troupe of minstrels—can-can dancers—are patronized by our people. On their tour through the South including Wilmington and Raleigh, their exhibitions have attracted large audiences composed of nearly all classes and conditions of men hungering after scenes and songs that embody and reflect the depravity of human nature. It is a sad reflection that such entertainments, so disgraceful to human nature and poisonous to good morals, should receive encouragement and patronage, while those that are calculated to benefit and refine are greeted with almost empty benches and slim receipts. The world will never have pure tastes until it is converted and refined by the purifying influences of the christian religion.

Effect of Civil Rights Bill.

The Federal Court Judge Dick presiding, is in session in Greensboro.' The Greensboro Patriot says that the Judge in his charge to the Grand Jury expounded fully the Civil Rights bill but declined to express an opinion of the constitutionality of the law. The Patriot says: "He gave about the same construction to the operation of the law as is set forth by the Judges in Ohio and elsewhere, holding that the act gives the colored man no rights in this State that he did not possess before under the old statute laws, with the exception of trial in the Federal Courts, if he so elect. He was positive as to the right of the State to regulate the marriage question; and held that the law only applied to railroads, steamboats, hotels, and theaters, and did not necessarily place negroes and whites together in these, but only entitled the colored man to the same accommodation as the white man if he can afford it. Separate apartments and coaches could be designated for each race, and neither could infringe upon the rights of the other. This is substantially, as we understood it, the position of the Judge."

THE English Wesleyans are providing for the funds for a Mary Fletcher Memorial Church, to be built at Layton, near the scene of her devoted labors and holy life. Mr. Bosanquet, who belongs to Mrs. Fletcher's family, has offered a desirable piece of ground for the edifice, and it is proposed to build a church costing about $30,000. The English Methodist women ought to furnish the fund, and will do so if some one can be found to manage the collection.

A Worthy Enterprise.

In view of the fact that there are many aged and infirm mothers and sisters in the State, deprived of home and friends and means of subsistence, 'with no other prospect for their declining years than that afforded by incessant toil, unwelcome dependence, precarious charity, or the poor-house, a few ladies of North Carolina having consulted together, exchanged information and collected facts in regard, to the need of such a charity, propose to raise a fund, purchase a convenient house with land attached and fit it up for a refuge and home for such needy persons. They have in view a property admirably suited for such a purpose and procurable at a price far below its real value. They desire to enlist all parties and all the several denominations of christians in the State and appeal to them to unite and assist in the work of love. Several hundred dollars have already been subscribed and it is desired to raise the necessary funds at once. They have issued a circular appeal to the public and invoke its help. Communications may be addressed to Mrs. C. P. Spencer, Chapel Hill N. C., who is a sister of Rev. Dr. Chas. F. Phillips of Davidson College, and a lady noted for her intellectual and moral culture.

A correspondent writing us from Wilmington under date of April 6th says: "Last Sabbath's exercises at the Front Street Methodist E. Church, South, of this city, were very interesting and impressive, and the congregations large—much larger than any which has assembled there for years. In addition to the usual Sabbath-school and morning and evening services, the ordinance of baptism was administered to fifteen persons and, by the way, in a more impressive style than I have witnessed before, viz: the candidates were standing around the altar and each one was led into the altar and knelt upon a cushion by the side of a table upon which stood the water in a silver bowl.—Twenty-five were received into church membership, (20 on profession of faith and 5 by letter.) The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered to over two hundred communicants and an afternoon prayer-meeting held.

For the past three weeks daily prayer meetings have been carried on under the auspices of our excellent pastor, who, in addition to the above, most all of the time held an additional prayer meeting for the instruction of penitents. So far there has been no excitement and no extraordinary efforts made, yet in answer to prayer which those present at the first meeting covenanted to make until God should revive His work, the church has been revived and sinners converted. Most, if not all who have so far professed, are connected with our Sabbath school, but as the meetings are still being held, we hope under the blessing of God to reach those of mature years. There have been some thirty or forty converts, among them those who connected themselves with the church in former years, but who felt the necessity of a change of heart and a closer walk with God. To God's name be all the glory! Our pastor, Bro. Mann, though he has been in our city but a short time, has not only won the affections of his own flock, but is deservedly popular with all those of other congregations with whom he comes in contact."

Father Boehm of the Newark conference of the M. E. Church, is the oldest Methodist Minister in the world—within nine weeks of being one hundred years old. At the recent session of his Conference he preached a centennial sermon.

After the singing the hymn commencing "A charge to keep I have," and prayer led by Rev. Dr. J. B. Wakeley, Father Boehm's biographer, Bishop Janes, on introducing the venerable preacher, said:

"This is an unusual occasion. It is one of those occurrences where two extremes meet. We have been paying our tribute to the more youthful ministers who have died; (referring to the memorial services just held;) we expect now to hear from the oldest minister of our Church. I hope it may not be his final message. I hope he may live to speak to us many times yet before closing his glorious career on earth. None of us, perhaps have ever heard a centennial sermon, none of us, in all probability, will ever hear another one. The occasion is, therefore, novel; and I will add, it is instructive and impressive.

I have seen the largest river, the highest mountain, the grandest cataract, in our country; but in all I have seen of the beauty and grandeur of nature I have never looked upon a physical object with so much interest as I look upon this human form here this morning. A human body, so fearfully and wonderfully made, in so many parts, in such delicate correctness, liable to so much exposure, to have been preserved so many years in its usefulness—this to me is the most wonderful physical object I have ever beheld. And this body has been all this while a tabernacle of a rational spirit, the instrument by which that spirit has performed its work. "Strange a harp of a thousand strings could keep in tune so long!" It is no merit of mine that I have had a personal acquaintance with every President of the United States since John Q. Adams, with every Chief Justice since Marshal; I have seen Webster and Clay; have known the principal statesmen, jurists, scholar, divines, and Christians, in this country, and I have stood in the presence of kings and nobles in other countries; but I never felt such an interest, and so profound a reverence, as I feel in the presence of our beloved Father Boehm—this aged servant of our Lord Jesus Christ. I revere him for his personal worth, his strictly moral character."

To Rev. J. R. Brooks.

REV. AND DEAR BROTHER: In your article of the 15th of Feb., you very justly remark, that 'the charge that the theory by which you attempt to prove that the heathen will be saved without a knowledge of the gospel is deism, is a very grave one, and ought to be well sustained by facts." You are certainly correct in that, and yet I fear you do not sufficiently appreciate the consequence involved. When a Christian minister is maintaining a peculiar theory, is reduced to such extremity as to abandon the doctrine of his Church; and to openly avow that if he found no Scripture to sustain his peculiar views he would still adhere to them, the public will not be long in deciding as to how much importance is to be attached to his opinions. But when he goes still further and substitutes deism in place of the doctrines of the gospel, and ignores Christ as the object of saving faith, in order to maintain his peculiar theory, it then becomes time to assign that theory where it properly belongs. It was not my purpose to direct special attention to the fact that your theory was deism. I alluded to it in making an argument and gave the reason why it was deism. Instead of profiting by the hint I gave you, you charge me with making reckless statements. Perhaps it would have been no reflection upon your modesty to have said, that to your mind they seem to be reckless. A statement can only be recklessly made when there is not proof to substantiate it. You ought to have known that when I made a statement, I have the proof at hand, and that it will be forthcoming when called for. I have no desire to make the fact, that your theory was deism, prominent in this discussion.—You owe it to your own temerity in calling for the proof that it is made a principal figure in a piece, in which it might have passed without particular distinction. You will however learn prudence in the future to not attract attention to a theory which can only pass without censure when it passes without notice. I stated in a former communication that deism is a belief in God, but not a belief in Christ:—that Christianity is a belief both in God and in Jesus Christ as the Saviour of the world. I suppose these definitions will not be disputed.

Now let us examine your theory and see which it is. "If his faith embrace and have reference to God's existence and character, especially his merciful disposition toward him, and it move him to confide in and seek God, he will reward him with the blessing of pardon and salvation."—Here then is a faith that we are told is saving in its character, of which Christ is not the object. He is as completely excluded as if he did not exist. And upon the exercise of this faith which leaves Christ entirely out, we are told that God will reward guilty man with the blessing of pardon and salvation. Again you say: "It is maintained that the condition required of them (speaking of the heathen) is faith in God's existence and character." Here Christ is again excluded. But is it said that will do for a heathen, but not for one who has heard the gospel? Let us see. "Also that such is essentially the same kind of faith that is required of men in Christian or Gospel lands." Here Christ is again excluded. The faith we are told required of a heathen is the belief in God's existence and character. And the faith required of man in Christian or gospel lands is essentially the same kind of faith as that required of the heathen. Again you say: "I submit that this is the substance of, and the essential, indispensable thing in saving faith, under all dispensations, and with all men; whether they be heathen, Jew or Christian." I need not ask if that is deism or Christianity which leaves Christ entirely out as the object of faith. If a belief in God's existence and character is the faith required of all men whether heathen, Jew or Christian, the Jews are all saved, for they all believe in God's existence and character, but utterly reject Jesus Christ.

How does that accord with the teachings of Christ? "He that believeth on me is not condemned: but he that believeth not is condemned already because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God." St. John 3rd c. 18th verse. "He that believeth on the Son of God hath everlasting life: and he that believeth not the Son, shall not see life but the wrath of God abideth on him." St. John 3rd c. 36th verse. How does that accord with the doctrine that a belief in God's existence and character "is the substance of, and the essential, indespensable thing in saving faith?" Either you or Christ are mistaken. Again Christ says "If ye believe not that I am he ye shall die in your sins." St. John 8th c. 34th verse. And when he met the man who was blind he asked him, "Dost thou believe on the Son of God? Why did not he ask him if he believed in the existence and character of God? One can scarcely suppress a feeling of regret that the Apostle Paul had not lived in this age of rationalism to have his mind enlightened and his errors corrected on the nature of saving faith. For when the trembling jailor anxiously asked "What must I do to be saved?" Paul told him to "believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved." The Rev. J. R. Brooks I suppose would have told him to believe in the existence and character of God and he would be saved This is an age of progress. But you are not entitled to the credit of discovery in this case. Thomas Paine and other deistical writers are before you. You have only followed in the wake of others.

Wesley, Watson and Dr. Clarke have all followed in the wake of Christ and the Apostle Paul and taught that the Lord Jesus Christ is the object of saving grace.

Mr. Wesley in defining saving faith says, "It is faith in Christ—Christ and God through Christ are the proper objects of faith." Again he says, "Christian faith is then not only an assent to the whole gospel of Christ but also a full reliance on the blood of Christ." "It is a divine evidence or conviction that God was in Christ reconciling the world to himself, in particular, that the Son of God hath loved me, and given himself for me; and that I am now reconciled to God by the blood of the cross."

Mr. Watson says, "The object of that faith which is imputed to us for righteousness is Christ; Christ as having made an atonement for our sins."

Dr. Clarke says, "None can be a child of God but by faith in the Lord Jesus Christ." We might multiply from these standard authorities of our church but it is unnecessary to do so. Now look at that and then look at this.

"It was maintained" (alluding to your previous article) that the condition required of them is faith in God's existence and character." "Also that such is essentially the same kind of faith that is required of men in Christian or gospel land." "I submit that this is the substance of, and the essential, indispensable thing in saving faith, under all dispensations and with all men whether they be heathen, Jew or Christian." "And I am persuaded that God requires nothing more as a condition of pardon, let him be heathen or Christian." I ask can that be Christianity which excludes Christ as the object of saving faith? Comment would be superfluous.

In my next I will show that you have mistaken the truth as widely in your comment upon Scripture as you are at variance with the doctrine of your church on the subject of saving faith.

As ever your friend and brother.

WM. CLOSS.

Ridgeway, April 8th, 1875.

Davenport Female College Commencement.

The commencement of Davenport Female College will take place on Thursday 28th of May.

The Annual Sermon before the graduating class will be preached on Wednesday, by Rev. E. A. Yates, of the N. C. Conference.

The Annual Address before the Eclectic Literary Society will be delivered on Thursday, by Henry T. Jordan Esq., of Person co.

The Annual Meeting of the board of Trustees will be held on Wednesday at 3 o'clock, P. M.

Persons visiting Lenoir at that time will find the best of staging from Hickory Station by inquiring for Clark & Abernethy's line.

All ministers expecting to attend the commencement will please inform me of the fact, and be assured of meeting a cordial welcome and generous entertainment by the citizens of Lenoir.

W. M. ROBEY.

April 7th, 1875.

Programme for meeting of the North Carolina Conference Sunday school Society to be held in Greensboro on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, April 30th and May 1st and 2d, 1875:

Friday April 30th.

10.30 A. M., Meeting of the Society.
11.00 " Address of Welcome, by Rev. T. M. Jones, D. D.
11.30 " Subject for discussion, "What is a Sunday school?" A. H. Merritt, Esq.
12.30 P. M., Subject for discussion, "What books should constitute the Sunday school Library?"
3.30 P. M., Meeting of the Society.—Subject for discussion.—"Who shall attend Sunday school?" Rev. M. V. Sherrill.
4.30 P. M, Subject for discussion—"How shall we increase the spirituality and religious efficiency of the Sunday school?"
7.30 P. M, Opening sermon. By Rev. W. C. Norman. Subject: Filling the Mission assigned us"

Saturday May 1st.

10 to 11 A. M., Meeting of the Society and election of Officers.
11.00 A. M., Address by Rev. J. J. Renn. Subject—"The demands of the Sunday-school for the best talent of the church."
12.00 M., Subject for discussion—"The use of the Blackboard in Sunday schools." By Prof. O. W. Carr of Trinity College.
1.00 P. M., Subject for discussion—"The Teachers' outside work."
7.30 P. M., Address by Rev. J. R. Brooks. Subject "The importance and reward of Sunday-school work."

Sunday, May 2nd.

11 00 A. M., Sermon by Rev. L. S Burkhead, D. D. Subject: "Advantages of Early Piety."
3.00 P. M., Sunday school Concert—By the Greensboro Sunday School.
7.30 P. M., Sermon—by Rev. E. A. Yates. Subject—"The object of all Sunday school instruction."

Educational.

Eight ladies received the degree of Doctor of Medicine at the Medical College and Hospital for Women, in New York week before last.

The chemical apparatus recently purchased abroad for Vanderbilt University cost $30,000.

The library of 35,000 volumes left to Harvard by the late Dr. Walker has been received at the college.

A School of Mines is to be established at Denver.

Engineering students are said to be rapidly entering Union College.

The Ohio Legislature has failed to pass the Compulsory Education bill.

Work on the Vanderbilt University, Tennessee, is being pushed rapidly forward, and the institution will be completed and put into full operation by next fall.

Michigan University recently granted diplomas to 134 graduates of the Law Department and to 604 of the Medical Department. The number graduating from the Medical Department is less than usual.

The Western Advocate says that at a recent public spelling-match in Indianapolis, given for a charitable purpose, the first person who missed a word was Professor W. A. Bell, editor of the School Journal, and formerly Superintendent of Education in that city. He spelled "allege" with a "d," and was presented with a huge cabbage bouquet.

Religious Brevities

Speaker Payne, of the Tennessee State Senate, has arranged with several of the Senators to officiate successively as chaplain in opening the Senate sessions with prayer.

There is a lady in California who owns hens, and who gives the proceeds of all the eggs laid on Sunday to the cause of home missions. The Nashville Advocate pronounces this "Eggsemplary."

The chief of the Delawares is said to be a Baptist minister, and of 1,000 persons composing the tribe, 230 are members of his Church.

Bishop Tuttle has just consecrated at Ogden, Utah, a Protestant Episcopal chapel erected by a New York family, at a cost of some $10,000, as a memorial of a deceased member.

Bishop Chency, of the Reformed Episcopal Church, a few days ago confirmed a class of forty-two persons at Christ Church, Peoria, Ill., whose rector, Rev. J. D. Wilson, read at the same time the names of twenty three persons, who had also united with the Church by letter.

The Church of the Messiah New York, celebrated its centennial a fortnight since. A contribution to the exercises of the occasion was a hymn specially written for it by Mr. Bryant.

In Rome the ceremony of conferring the title of Cardinal upon Archbishop Manning, of England, took place March 31. The services were witnessed by a large congregation, including 1,000 English and American Catholics.

Archbishop McClosky of New York has been appointed as Cardinal by Pope Pius, the ninth. He must wear the scarlet costume and will hereafter be the observed of all observers. This will subject him to considerable annoyance as he is said to be very retiring in his disposition.

It is not probable that the election of Rev. Dr. DeKoven as Bishop of Illinois will be confirmed. The standing Committees of 26 dioceses have voted, and of these, 7 have voted against him, while 19 have voted for him. While he is considered a man of eminent abilities, his views on the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper are not considered orthodox.

Bro. Burke, the assitant editor of the Southern Christian Advocate, has made a trip to Florida, and tells about it in pleasant paragraphs. Here's his account of a Florida pursonage on the St. John's river:

"Passing down to a point about four miles above Mandarin, we were put off in front of the residence of our brother, Rev. T. W. Moore, whom we found waiting for us at his wharf. He gave us a genuine Florida welcome to his comfortable home, situated in a grand forest of Live Oak, a place fit for an English castle. Bro. Moore has on his place, in successful culture, oranges, peaches, bananas, figs, grapes, lemons, limes, strawberries, citrons, and all kinds of garden vegetables. He was selling strawberries, as fine as we ever saw, at two dollars and a half a quart. Of course, these were sold to Northern visitors, who have plenty of money. He had been shipping, for three weeks, green peas at $4 a bushel in the pod. Altogether, we think Bro. Moore is well fixed up. He manages his farm, and fills all the appointments on his Circuit, which he rides in his boat, the appointments all using on the St. John's."

Messrs. Whittle and Bliss, the evangelists who labored so successfully in Louisville for several weeks, have closed their labors there. As estimated in the Courier Journal of the 17th ult., the Presbyterians have received 142 accessions; the Methodists, 105; Broadway Baptist church, 12, Chestnut Street Baptist, several.

The great revival in Louisville continues, in nearly all the churches, and seems destined to spread throughout the State. Lexington is becoming thoroughly aroused.

Bro. A. P. Sturm, of West Virginia Conference, reports a gracious revival on his Circuit (Marion)—85 conversions—106 additions.

NORTH CAROLINA.

There is not a little excitement in Johnston county over the proposed removal of the county seat from Smithfield to the Railroad—a distance of three miles.

Gov. Vance has been invited to deliver his lecture—"The Scattered Nations"—at Wilmington, under the auspices of the Free Brothers' Society of that city, the proceeds of the lecture to be applied to the building of a Jewish Temple.

A daring burglar entered and robbed the store of Mr. Hashagen in Wilmington last week, and after a desperate struggle between him and an officer, was captured.

The citizens of Orange county are requested to meet in Hillsboro' on the 27th day of April to nominate candidates for the Convention which meets in Raleigh in September next.

A new Methodist Church building is being erected near L. K. Rone's, in Union county. It is to be of brick and in size 30x42 feet.

Three years ago Mr. J. R. Dills, a lawyer of Webster, was shot by Henry Cannon, it is claimed accidentally by the latter. Since then a cancer commenced on the wounded place, and lately the man died.

An Exchange says: It must be unpleasant for a stuttering man in Berlin to hail a street ear, because there they call a street car a Pferdestrassenneisennbahnwagen — for short.

Col. Freemont will transport all the military and fire companies passing over the Carolina Central Railroad to the Mecklenburg Centennial free of charge, and the rates for passengers will be reduced to one half.

A WHOLE TOWN FULL OF BABIES.—A gentlemen writing us from Morganton says: "A private census of the town was taken the other day which developed the astounding fact that in a population of not quite 800, 300 are babies, or if not exactly babies the eldest are not able to keep the youngest out of the fire."—"Young man, go West!" CHARLOTTE OBSERVER.

Persons in Forsyth county have sent a quantity of beans and other seeds to relatives and friends in sections of Missouri devastated by grasshoppers last year.

The county commissioners of Forsyth, by resolution, expressed their sympathy with the sister county of Mecklenburg in celebrating the Declaration of Independence, and encourages their citizens to attend.

A Davidson county correspondent of the Winston SENTINEL says:

"The people of Davidson are making great preparation for tobacco crops.—Farmers who never raised tobacco before are going to plant this season. Wheat is looking well. Old wheat is plentier this season than it has been at any time since the war. Corn is also plenty but kept back for a better price. Gardens look green with onions, peas and cabbage plants. The fruit trees are blooming and are very full. The people are in good heart hoping to make some money out of their old wheat and corn"

The schedule of the Western R. R. was changed last week, the accommodation train leaving Fayetteville at 4 in the afternoon, and Egypt at 6½ in the morning.

Sometime in January last a man and woman of more than ordinary intelligence purporting to be man and wife, Smith by name and from Caroline co. Va., went to an obscure neighborhood in Guilford co. and obtained board with Mrs. A. Summers. On February 9th the woman gave birth to a male child and died. The man left the child with Mrs. S. and promised to return in a few days, but has not been heard of since. All efforts to receive intelligence of him having failed, the child was put in the care of the county authorities.

The Charlotte OBSERVER advertises for the largest genuine hornet's nest that can be found to be used at the Centennial.

The railroads have nearly all made half rates to the Mecklenburg Centennial. The R. & D. road and N. C. Division at three cents a mile issuing return tickets.

Dr. Craven will deliver the literary address at Yadkin College commencement, June 17th, and Rev. A. W. Lineberry will preach the Annual Sermon on the 16th.

The N. C. Conference of the M. E. Church, North, has purchased twenty acres of land in Greensboro' where buildings will be erected at an early day for a first class colored school, under the management of Rev. W. J. Parkinson.

At the annual meeting of the Stockholders of the Fayetteville and Western Railroad, held in Fayetteville on the 18th inst., Mr. L. C. Jones was unanimously re-elected President.—The following gentlemen were elected Directors: E. J. Lilly, A. A. McKethan, J. D. Williams, S. J. Hinsdale and W. E. Keyle. L. C. Lineberry, R. M. Orrell, B. I. Howze and T. S. Lutterloh were appointed Directors on the part of the State. A resolution was passed requesting the Directors to devise some plan by which Fayetteville and the county of Cumberland may be relieved from the burdensome tax annually imposed by reason of their subscriptions to the capital stock of the Railroad.

NORTH CAROLINA CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION OF THE MECKLENBURG DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.

PROGRAMME.

One hundred guns, at sunrise, and ringing of city bells, under charge of the Artillery Committee. To march at 10 o'clock a. m., Grand Procession, through the principal streets of the city, under charge of Chief Marshal and thirty Assistant Marshals, as follows: Military Companies, Fire Companies, Masonic Lodges, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Good Templars, Patrons of Husbandry, County Organizations. Other Associations of City, County, State and Citizens, Press Organizations, Various Centennial Committees, Accompanied by Various Bands of Music, and their own Special Banners, Emblems and Insignia.

The Procession will be formed in the following order: Military Companies on both sides of South Tryon street, right front resting in front of Central Hotel. Fire Companies on West Trade street and on Church street, opposite Fireman's Hall. Grand Lodges, County Organizations, other city, county and State Associations, and Citizen's and Press' Organizations, on East Trade street. Masonic Lodges, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias and Good Templars, on North Tryon street, from the Square to be followed by Band of Music with Military Company, to be assigned by Chief Marshal as guard of honor or escort. Last carriages, the following: The President of the United States, Governor of Tennessee and staff, Governors of other States, Governor of North Carolina and staff, United States Senators and Supreme and Superior Court Judges of North Carolina, Mayor of the city, and other invited guests, orators and reader, accompanied by committees. Parade to be through principal streets, to arrive at the Speaking Grounds at 12 o'clock m. After the various companies and organizations, &c., have been arranged by the Chief Marshal and Assistants, the Centennial will be opened with prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. Robt. Hall Morrison, D. D. after which reading of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence by ——— followed by addresses by———. After the addresses there will be, at 3 o'clock p. m. a Grand Ba becue. After which Military and Fire Company display. At night, at 7 o'clock p. m., Grand Torch Light Procession with Chinese Lanterns, Emblems, Transparencies, &c., &c. After which addressess will be delivered from the Stand in Independence Square, on the site of the original Declaration of May 20, 1775, corners of Trade and Tryon streets. There will be general illuminations of houses on principal streets. The Celebration to conclude with a Grand Pyrotechnic Display, consisting of beautiful Emblems, Figures, Mottoes, &c., &c., appropriate to the occasion, under charge of the Artillery Committee. The Chief Marshal, with thirty Assistant Marshals, to be hereafter announced. Approved and adopted by Central Executive Committee, March 24, 1875.

DR. JOSEPH GRAHAM,
Chairman Executive Committee.
THOS. W. DEWEY,
Secretary Executive Committee.

March 25, 1875, ratified and adopted by General Committee of Arrangements.

Personal

Vice-President Wilson will sail for Europe on the 18th inst.

President Grant has been invited to attend the Centennial Celebration of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence.

If it becomes impossible for the Pope to remain in Rome, he will take up his residence in America.

P. T. Barnum has been elected Mayor of Bridgeport, Connecticut.

Gen. T. L. Clingham has been suggested by the Wilmington STAR as an appropriate and competent person to write the history of North Carolina.

Jefferson Davis will deliver the oration at Lexington, Va., on the anniversary of the death of General Lee.

It is reported that Judge Pearson will be the candidate of both parties in Yadkin county for the Convention.

The President has appointed Senator Ransom as one of the visitors to the West Point Military Academy.

Gov. Chamberlain, of South Carolina, Jno. A. Wheeler, historian, Jas. Barron Hope, the poet, of Norfolk, Va., have accepted invitations to attend the Mecklenburg Centennial. Gen. R. F. Hoke, of Raleigh, and Gen. Wm. G. Lewis, of Tarboro, have accepted the position of Assistant Marshals.

Mr. Jno. Dawson Smith, son of W. D. Smith, Esq., of Fayetteville, has just returned from a three years stay in Europe. From the University of Virginia he went to the University of Heidelburg where he pursued his studies with zeal and received high scholastic honors. After finishing his literary and philosophical course, he pursued the study of law and won the high degree of L. L. D.—which seems to be a meritorious, and not a barren honorary title which the German Universities confer.

INDEX TO NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

The attention of those in want of Bells for Churches, Schools etc., is called to the advertisement of Vanduzen & Tift, of Cincinnati, Ohio. Full descriptive catalogues, with prices, etc., will be sent free on application to them.

Another announcement from Messrs W. H. & R. S. Tucker, the Merchant Princes.

Messrs Petty & Jones are receiving their spring Stock of goods, varied in assortment, well selected and sold cheap. As merchants they are gaining a fast hold upon the confidence and patronage of our people.

Messrs Julius Lewis & Co. have a full assortment of sash, blinds and doors and everything that is wanted in the hardware line.

See advertisement of Mason & Hamlin Organs.

Isaac Oettinger, Esq., we can safely say has the most complete select and fashionable stock of millinery in the state. The throng of ladies who daily visit his establishment sufficiently attests the esteem in which he and his excellent lady are held. They are the leading milliners of Raleigh.

Mr. Weikel, the merchant tailor of Raleigh, advertises his large establishment. His assortment of spring goods is complete, and as a tailor Mr. Weikel has no superior. He is to Raleigh in the dressing line what "Baldwin, the Clothier" is to New York—his name is a household word. The form that Weikel connot fit needs reconstruction.

Spinner, Secretary of the Treasury, has resigned, and is to be succeeded by J. N. New, of Indianapolis, Indiania.

The next great engineering achievement is to be a tunnel from New York to Jersey City under the Hudson, upon which work has actually begun.

Delaware has passed an anti-civil rights bill authorizing hotel keepers, theatre managers, railroad and steamboat companies, &c to provide separate accommodations for objectionable parties, without reference to color.

A rich, but parsimonius old gentleman, on being taken to task for his uncharitableness, said: "True, I don't give much, but if you only knew how it hurts when I give anything, you wouldn't wonder.

The Austrian Lower House appropriated $25,000 for 1875, and $50,000 for 1876, to defray the expenses of the representatives of Austria at the Centennial Exhibition of America.

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF RALEIGH EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING.---TERMS $2.20 POSTAGE PAID.

Our Agents.

All the traveling and local preachers in the bounds of the North Carolina Conference are our authorized Agents. Any person sending us ten subscribers, for one year, will receive the paper free.

Our Correspondents.

Communications for publication should be carefully written, and on but one side of the sheet. All letters for publication should be addressed to the Editor.

How to Remit.

In sending money, all amounts should be sent in registered letter, post office order or check. The cost of registration, or Post Office order can be deducted from the amount remitted. If money is sent otherwise than herein specified it will be at the sender's risk.

General News.

The fences on the United States are valued at $1,800,000 000, and are kept in repair at a cost of $98 000 000 a year.

Philadelphia has 10 000 Jews in her midst, but only one in her persons, and that for a trivial offence; which the Jewish Messenger thinks should be made a misde.

During last year there were made at the different foundries in the United States, stoves of all classes amounting in value to nearly $50 000 000.

During 1874 there were six hundred and eighty-seven deaths from cardiac fever in Great Britain.

The Emperor of Brazil talks of abdicating in favor of his eldest daughter and then taking up his residence in this country.

Fifty Indiana editors accompanied by thirty ladies, have been taking a Southern excursion.

The business portion of Ticonderoga, N. Y. was burned on the 31st ult. Loss $200,000.

The three richest men in the British House of Commons are self-made men, with no family name. One is Sir George Elliot, who is worth $2 500 000 his sons say; the others are Messrs. Reed and Allsopp, worth about $1 500 000 a year each.

The population of the chief American cities is over two and one-half millions, but they own no less than 813 877 horses, 6 203 153 head of cattle, and nearly 30 000 000 sheep. This stock is also amongst more than 2 000 000 000 sterling.

Marriages.

Married, on the 30th of March by Rev. T. A. Boone, Mrs Sarah Tyson to H. W. Ledbetter Esq. all of Montgomery co.

Married, on the 30th of March by Rev. T. A. Boone Miss Ella C. Shubrick, of Richmond co. to Mr John M. Ross, of Stanly co.

Married, on the 1st of April by Rev T. A. Boone, his daughter Lizzie J. Boone, to G. H. A. Lilly, all of Montgomery co.

Married in Wayne county N. C. April 8th 1875 by Rev. Jno. E. Brooks Mr. John T. Caraway and Miss Georgia A. Rhodes, oldest daughter of Mr. A. J. K. Rhodes, all of Wayne county.

Deaths.

Obituary notices of twenty lines or less are sent without charge. The excess over twenty lines of ordinary words is charged for at the rate of 10 cents per line. Count the lines and allow eight words to the line. In this way you may always know the amount to be paid. Resolutions of respect must pay in the same rule.

Eld D C Harris was born January 17th 1820 and departed this life in great peace, in Oxford N. C., after a long and lingering illness March 22nd 1875.

The deceased had been a member of the M. E. Church, South, for a number of years. He was of a Methodist family of the truest type. His father before him long held an official position in the Church, and his brother—the late Rev. A. F. Harris, died in the ministry.

The place of Eld D. C. Harris will be difficult to fill in this community. He was sincerely consistent in every relation in life—no cheap talk or suspicion ever tarnished his beautiful character. He leaves a wife two children and a large number of devoted friends, to mourn his irreparable loss.

M. L. Wood.

Departed this life at Eupeptic Springs Iredell co. N. C. after ten weeks of severe suffering, W. Alphons Cheyne, March 23rd 1875. He was—I judge—about thirty years of age at the time of his death. He had been for over two years an earnest seeker after the peace which the christian religion alone can give, and he could see in his Saviour in his latter days, a welcoming and uplifting hand. He died in the hope of the Gospel. He leaves a widowed mother, and one sister, and a goodly number of friends behind.

He and his Uncle were both buried March 24th in the grave-yard of Snow's Creek Church.

M. L. Wood.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

The Church, our Heavenly Father in the wisdom of his providence has removed from the church militant to the church triumpant, our beloved Bro. David Purcell, and where as his family have lost a beloved Father, Counsellor, and Guide; the church one of its most pious and zealous members; this Quarterly Conference one of its most active and honored officials: Therefore Resolved, 1st That we will bow in affectionate remembrance our beloved brother, while we strive to imitate his virtues, and profit by his example.

2nd That we tender to his sorrow stricken relatives, our warmest sympathies in this their great affliction; and prayerfully commend them to Him whose providence though apparently severe is always wise and merciful.

3rd. That a copy of this preamble and resolutions be sent to the bereaved family in the Raleigh Advocate for publication, and that they be spread upon the journal of the Quarterly Conference

Signed in behalf of the Conference on Topsail circuit N C Conference.

W. S. Black P. E.
R. M. Brown P. E.

T. J. A. secretary Sec'y.

Died on the 12th of March 1875, Mrs Eliza J. Lindsay, in the 69th year of her age in certain hope of heaven. She was converted in early life, and connected herself with the M. E. Church South, at Midway in Davidson county N. C. where she lived a consistent member till death. She was a Lady, as well as a christian, possessing great energy, of superior intellect and kind heart, which gave her influence and power to do good in her community.

The last days and hours of her life were the exhorting all the people visiting her, to prepare for death. May her example be followed by all.

Her body was interred in the church yard at Midway, beside her husband, who had passed away previously.

May she, though long dead, yet live and speak.

C. H. Phillips.

Died at his home at Cool Spring New Hanover co. N. C. Jan 31st 1875, Mr. David K. Smith after several months of great physical suffering. Bro. Smith was for many years a member of the M. E. Church South, Topsail Circuit N. C Conference and by an upright life and godly conversation adorned the doctrine of the bible. He had been during the years of his infirmities wasting and unfeeling and he died in the hope of the Gospel. He leaves a widowed mother, and one sister, and a goodly number of friends behind.

He and his Uncle were both buried March 24th in the grave-yard of Snow's Creek Church.

M. L. Wood.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

The Church, our Heavenly Father in the wisdom of his providence has removed from the church militant to the church triumpant, our beloved Bro. David Purcell, and where as his family have lost a beloved Father, Counsellor, and Guide; the church one of its most pious and zealous members; this Quarterly Conference one of its most active and honored officials: Therefore Resolved, 1st That we will bow in affectionate remembrance our beloved brother, while we strive to imitate his virtues, and profit by his example.

2nd That we tender to his sorrow stricken relatives, our warmest sympathies in this their great affliction; and prayerfully commend them to Him whose providence though apparently severe is always wise and merciful.

3rd. That a copy of this preamble and resolutions be sent to the bereaved family in the Raleigh Advocate for publication, and that they be spread upon the journal of the Quarterly Conference

Signed in behalf of the Conference on Topsail circuit N C Conference.

W. S. Black P. E.
R. M. Brown P. E.

T. J. A. secretary Sec'y.

Died on the 12th of March 1875, Mrs Eliza J. Lindsay, in the 69th year of her age in certain hope of heaven. She was converted in early life, and connected herself with the M. E. Church South, at Midway in Davidson county N. C. where she lived a consistent member till death. She was a Lady, as well as a christian, possessing great energy, of superior intellect and kind heart, which gave her influence and power to do good in her community.

The last days and hours of her life were the exhorting all the people visiting her, to prepare for death. May her example be followed by all.

Her body was interred in the church yard at Midway, beside her husband, who had passed away previously.

May she, though long dead, yet live and speak.

C. H. Phillips.

Died at his home at Cool Spring New Hanover co. N. C. Jan 31st 1875, Mr. David K. Smith after several months of great physical suffering. Bro. Smith was for many years a member of the M. E. Church South, Topsail Circuit N. C Conference and by an upright life and godly conversation adorned the doctrine of the bible. He had been during the years of his infirmities wasting and unfeeling and he died in the hope of the Gospel. He leaves a widowed mother, and one sister, and a goodly number of friends behind.

He and his Uncle were both buried March 24th in the grave-yard of Snow's Creek Church.

M. L. Wood.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

The Church, our Heavenly Father in the wisdom of his providence has removed from the church militant to the church triumpant, our beloved Bro. David Purcell, and where as his family have lost a beloved Father, Counsellor, and Guide; the church one of its most pious and zealous members; this Quarterly Conference one of its most active and honored officials: Therefore Resolved, 1st That we will bow in affectionate remembrance our beloved brother, while we strive to imitate his virtues, and profit by his example.

2nd That we tender to his sorrow stricken relatives, our warmest sympathies in this their great affliction; and prayerfully commend them to Him whose providence though apparently severe is always wise and merciful.

3rd. That a copy of this preamble and resolutions be sent to the bereaved family in the Raleigh Advocate for publication, and that they be spread upon the journal of the Quarterly Conference

Signed in behalf of the Conference on Topsail circuit N C Conference.

W. S. Black P. E.
R. M. Brown P. E.

T. J. A. secretary Sec'y.

Letters and Funds.

E Alden $3. Rev J P Simpson, paper continued, Rev S B Andrews papers sent. E Alden for adv 35. N W Ayer & Son. Rev A D Betts for W S Cas 2 20. Mrs E Eddins yes. Miss Susan Smith. [illegible] 1 25 Rev W A Moore for C W Snipes 2 20, Rev S H Helsabeck for Squire Goff, 2 20, Rev J H Grinn for A Watson 2 20. T J Dables 2 20 Rev F L Reid, Rev B B Culbreth papers sent. B J Pickett 2 35, Rev I Wood [illegible] 2 20 J R Currier 2 20 A Bate 2 20, Rev P F W Stanley for Miss M J Fronebergen 2 20 Rev J Tillett for W B Bowe 2 20 P W Wyche sell 2. Rev E A Yates for J P Pigott 2 20 Miss Jo Pigott 2 20, Rev W M Rainey, J A Harisell. Rev T A Boone, Rev D R Bruton, Rev Ira T Wyche for Mrs S McNeil 2 20, R Townsend 2,20 correct, Miss Maggie D Woods. Wm Poisson, Rev J B Ballard sell 2 20, H W Baldwin for adv 40 Rev J F Craven for Mrs L E Barnes 1 35 Rev J S Ervin, Rev G W Ivy paper sent, T W Harris for adv 5. Rev Dr Closs, Rev E A Yates, Rev Dr Jones, Rev Dr Wilson, Rev E S Thompson paper sent. Rev J C Hartsell for D H Peele 1 2, other papers sent Mrs L McKay sell 2 20 E L Perkins, E N Freshman, Rev J R Brooks. Rev Dr Closs, W L Bradshaw sell 2,20. J M Shaver sell 2 20. Rev W H Watkins for J H Thomas 2 20, A M Long sell 1 20.

The following puzzle is again on its rounds: To five and five and fifty-five the first of letters add; twill make a thing that killed the king and drove a wise man mad. It was published first about twenty years ago and has never been correctly answered. But they say there is an answer.

Appointments.

GREENSBORO DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND.

North Guilford at Friendship,	March	20-21
Thomasville, H Point,	"	27-28
Trinity station
Wentworth Carmel,	April	3- 4
Winston sta.	"	10-11
Greensboro,	"	17-18
South Guilford, Bethany.	"	24-25
Randolph, Ashboro.	May	1- 2
Davidson at Mt. Pleasant,	"	8- 9
Madison at Leaksville,	"	15-16
Forsythe at Loves,	"	22-23
Stokes.	"	29-30

N. H. D. Wilson, P. E.
Greensboro, N. C.

WASHINGTON DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND.

Roanoke at Enfield,	April	3- 4
Farboro at White's,	"	10-11
Williamston at Hamilton,	"	17-18
Plymouth and Jamesville, at Plymouth,	"	24-25
Greenville,	"	24-25
Grimesby, at Swepsonville,	May	1- 2
Bath at Hebron.	"	8- 9
Merumuskeet, at Amity,	"	15-16
Washington and Greenville, at Greenville,	"	22-23
Warren, at Bethlehem,	June	12-13

The District Conference for Washington District will hold its session at Plymouth commencing May 27th at 11 o'clock. Opening sermon by Dr. M. Coy.

The District Stewards will please meet me in Plymouth the 27th of May at 3 o'clock P. M.

Wm. Closs, P. E.

NEWBERN DISTRICT.

2ND. ROUND.

Straits,	April	3- 4
Beaufort, Wednesday,	"	7
Kins on,	"	10-11
Jones, Shady Grove, Tuesday.	"	13
Carteret, Adam's Creek,	"	17-18
Agnie at Stantonburg,	"	24-25
Newbern,	May	1- 2
Lenoir, Piney Grove, Tuesday.	"	4
Mt. Olive, (2nd Conf.)	"	6- 9
Snow Hill, Ormond's Chapel.	"	15-16
Goldsboro,	"	22-23
Nahunta and Swift Creek, Bay River,	"	29-30
Raiford, Tues. & Wed	June	1- 2
Wilson.	"	5- 6

The District Conference of the Newbern District will commence its session at Mt. Olive on May the 6th Thursday morning, at 9 o'clock. The general understanding among the brethren is that all will remain until Saturday. Brethren outside of the District are cordially invited, and we confidently expect one or both of the Editors of the Advocate.

E. A. Yates, P. E
Beaufort N. C.

WILMINGTON DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND.

Magnolia at Bryant,	March	20-21
Wilming on, 5th St.,	"	27-28
Cokesbury at Averasboro,	April	3- 4
Clinton at Andrew Chapel,	"	10-11
Kenansville at Richlands,	"	17-18
Smithville at Bethel,	"	24-25
Wilmington Front Street.	May	1- 2
Bladen, Cape Fear Mis. } at Deems Ch'l	"	8- 9
Elizabeth,	"	15-16
Whiteville, Fair Bluff,	"	29-30
Topsail	June	5- 6
Onslow.	"	12-13

The Wilmington District Conference will be held at Magnolia, embracing the 4th Sunday in May, beginning on Wednesday before at 10 o'clock, a. m.

Rev J. Sanford will preach the opening sermon on Wednesday at 11 o'clock, a. m.

W. S. Black, P. E.
Magnolia N. C

HILLSBORO DISTRICT.

2ND. ROUND.

Durham station	March	27-28
Flat River, Mt. Hebron,	April	3- 4
Hillsboro station,	"	10-11
Commerce ct. Bethel,	"	17 18
S. B. & Haw River ct. Ebenezer,	"	24-25
Chisboro ct. Chatham Church,	May	1- 2
Deep River ct.	"	8- 9
Person ct. Mt Tirza,	"	15-16
Roxsburg ct Concord	"	22-23
Yanceyville ct. Shady Grove,	"	29-30

L. L. Hendren, P. E.
Chapel Hill N. C.

CHARLOTTE DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND.

Monroe Sta.	March	20 21
Monroe ct.	"	27 28
Pleasant Grove ct	April	3- 4
South Charlotte at Fair View.	"	10-11
Concord sta.	"	17-18
Concord ct } and Cabarrus sta	"	24-25
Cabarrus ct } and Statesville,	May	1- 2
Statesville, Iredell ct } at Pleasant Hill,	"	8- 9
Bethany Miss } and Statesville	"	15-16
Statesville ct } and Pleasant Hill,	"	22 23
Antioch,	"	29 30
Amsonville,	June	5- 6
Shelby Station.	"	9- 10

Dear brethren, let us work, pray and trust in God.

L. S. Burkhead, P. E.
Shelby, N. C.

SALISBURY DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

Salisbury circuit, Gay's Chapel	May,	1- 2
Alexander circuit, Stony Point,	"	8 9
Wilkes circuit, Bethel.	"	15-16
Yadkinville circuit, Mt Marish	"	22 23
Surry ct & S. Mission, Olive Branch	"	26-27
Mt. Airy Station,	"	29-30
Olin circuit, Clark's Berry,	June	5- 6

D. R. Bruton, P. E.
Statesville, N. C.

RALEIGH DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND, Q. M.

Granville at Tabor	March	20-21
Louisburg Station	"	27-28
Raleigh Edenton St.	April	3- 4
" Person St.	"	10-11
Tar River at Plank Chapel	"	17 18
Henderson at Twitty's	"	24 25
Rolesville at Andrew Chapel	May	1 2
Cary,	"	8- 9
Nashville and Rocky Mount	"	15-16
Smithfield	"	22-23
Youngsville	"	29-30

J. P. Moore, P. E.
Warrenton, N. C

COMMERCIAL REPORT.

WHOLESALE CASH PRICES.

Office of Christian Advocate, April. 13 1875.

REMARKS.

Business continues quiet. Meats and sugars are very firm and quiet.

COTTON.

Transactions in the staple yesterday very light. Low middlings 15¢

General Market.

BAGGING, Domestic 2¾ @ yd. 13 @14.
COTTON TIES, $a9.
FLOUR, North Carolina $6.50 @7.
CORN $1@0
CORN MEAL—$1.00
BACON, N. C. hog round, 11 to 12.
" " hams 15.
BULK C. R. sides, 12 1-4 @12 1-2.
" shoulders, @10
LARD, North Carolina, none.
" Western tierces, 16.
" Kegs, 17.
COFFEE, Prime Rio, 23 1-2
" Fair Rio, 22 1-2.
SYRUP, common, 40.
MOLASSES, Cuba, 50.
SALT $2.25.
CHEESE, Cream, 18 1-2.
" Factory, 17.
" Dairy, none.
NAILS, on time for 10d, $4.00
SUGAR A, 11 1-2.
" Extra C, 11 1-4
" Yellow, 10 @10 1-2.
LEATHER, Sole 27 1-2 @30
HIDES, green, 7@8.
" dry, 13 1-2
TALLOW, 9@10
POTATOES, sweet 75 @1.00
" Irish. $1.00@$1.25.
OATS, shelled, 95. @ 1.00
" sheaf, $1.25.
FODDER, old, $1.50 @1.75
HAY, N. C. baled, good, $1.25.
CHICKENS, grown, 25 @30
EGGS, 15@20.
BUTTER, country, 22 1-2@25.
FISH, Mackrle, $7.00.
" Cut Herrings, none.
" Mackerel, new family, $12.00
BEESWAX, 25.
RAGS, 2to 3
BEEF on foot, 6@3.
" dressed prime, 8@10.

New Advertisements.

THE REPEAL OF THE USURY LAW

will doubtless be the first question that will attract the attention of our next Legislative Assembly, but as that is a long ways ahead, it becomes necessary to learn something exciting for present use. Hence we announce the fact that has returned from the North with a stock of

Weikel, The Irrepressible Merchant Tailor,

FRENCH AND ENGLISH CLOTHS,
DIAGONALS, STRIPED, CHECKED AND PLAIN CASSIMERES,
SPRING AND SUMMER SUITINGS
OF EVERY DESCRIPTON.
LIGHT CASSIMERES FOR PANTS VESTINGS, &c.

the like of which is creating even more excitement on Fayetteville street than

THE CHANGE OF GAUGE

did on the line of the North Carolina Rail Road.

He has in Store and now on exhibition, the largest and most attractive stock ever offered to the

RALEIGH PUBLIC

before and all in want would do well to call early, as the rush has already commenced.

The Manufacturing Department is complete in all its branches, with the best workmen in the State on the bench.

Orders from the Country respectfully solicited and satisfaction guaranteed.

April 14-3m

ISAAC GETTINGER

is now in receipt of his entire stock of

SPRING AND SUMMER
Millinery,

Ladies' Fancy Furnishing and Hair goods, a full stock of NEEDLE GOODS, also

PARASOLS, FANS, LAMA LACE SHAWLS and JACKETS,

in endless variety of

Baby Dresses and Baby Caps and Bonnets.

Kid, Berlin, Silk and Buckskin GLOVES — Dress trimmings, such as Silks, Laces, Fringes and Buttons. Enough children's striped Socks to supply every child in North Carolina with one or two pair. My stock was bought for CASH and can and WILL be sold low; all I ask is a call.

Our opening will be from now until the end of the season.

New goods will be added to my stock every day or two.

MRS. GETTINGER, as usual, can always be found at her post ready to wait on her many friends and customers.

apl 14-4w

1875. 1875.

NEW STOCK SPRING GOODS.

Money lost every day by not buying your Dry Goods at

PETTY & JONES.

If our customers will but call and examine our Stock of SPRING GOODS and then compare our "Cash Prices" with those elsewhere they will be convinced and satisfied that we are the leaders in low prices. WE HAVE OUR PRICE and that is lower than any house in the State.

Our Black Gros Grain Silks at $1 to $2 75 per year, usually sold from $1 25 to $3.50, Japanese Silks and Cloths from 25 to 75 cts, real value 30 to 90 cents per yard.

Black Iron Grenadines, Suit Linen, Silk Pongee

Glace Mohair, Silk Fantasca, Chailies,

Lenoes, Brcss Lawns,

Plaid Poplin for Polonaise,

and all other goods of the

LATEST STYLES

for Ladies. Our white goods department is complete.

Victoria Lawns, Jackonets, Organdies, Swiss Muslin, Lace stripe Pique, Tarlatan, French Nansook, Marc Rine, Soft Finish Cambric. Printed Piquet, &c. &c.

1000 yards of Hamburg Edgings and Insertings, from 10 cents to 75 cents.

Large stock of Ribbons lower than ever known before.

Ladies Linen Collars and Cuffs latest styles.

Spring Cassimeres just opened for Gentlemen.

Five Cases Spring Calicoes, Bleached and Unbleached Cotton at the lowest Price. Coats Cotton 10 cents per ounce.

Our stock of Spring Goods comprises the choice styles of the leading importers and having an old or auction goods to mix is enables us to sell our customers the latest styles of goods at the lowest prices.

PETTY & JONES.

AGENTS WANTED for the best, cheapest and fastest selling Bible ever published. Send for our extra terms to Agents. NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Philadelphia.

apl 14-4t.

"ALWAYS AHEAD IN TIME, AND NEVER BEHIND"

In Desirable Goods at Popular Prices.

JUST RECEIVED

We would call especial attention of the ladies to the beautiful line of

PLAID CAMELS HAIR, CLOTHS AND PLAIN DEBEIGES,

which we are now opening, the most elegant, cool and decidedly popular and fashionable fabrics for Spring suitings.

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

75 DOZ. LADIES' BLEACHED AND brown Balbriggan Hose, extra lengths, silk clocked, and Ladies' striped Hose all the style.

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

A SPLENDID LINE OF LADIES' Handkerchiefs, colored borders in various designs, monograms, initials, hemstitched clear Lawns and Lace.

Ladies' colored Linen Collars and Cuffs, neat, tasty and fashionable

All the above goods to be had at the lowest figures at the Cash House of

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

apl 14-tf

GREATLY REDUCED PRICES

— ON —

Sash, Doors and Blinds.

WE SELL

WHITE PINE SASH.

No Shrinking,

Cheaper than Yellow Pine.

HARDWARE,

PAINTS,

OILS,

GLASS.

Largest stock in the State.

Write for Prices.

JULIUS LEWIS & CO.,

Fisher Building.

RALEIGH, N. C

apl 14 tf.

ELECTION NOTICE

By virtue of an act of the General Assembly of North Carolina, entitled "An Act concerning the city of Raleigh, ratified on the 16th day of February 1875, an election will be held in the city of Raleigh on the 3rd day of May, 1875, for the purpose of selecting seventeen Aldermen for the several Wards in said city, towit:

For the 1st, 2nd, 4th and 5th Wards, 3 Aldermen each, and for the 3rd Ward, 5 Aldermen.

The following persons are hereby appointed Judges of Election in said Wards, and the polling places designated as follows:

FIRST WARD:

C. B. Rice, M. T. Leach, Benj. Brooks and S. B. Harrison.

Polling Place—Howell House, Blount street, between Morgan and Hargett.

SECOND WARD:

A. C. Sanders, V. Ballard, D. A. Wicker and G. W. Brodie.

Polling Place—Jordan Shop, Blount street, between Davie and Cabarrus

THIRD WARD:

C. W. Lambeth, J. R. H. Farmer, Henry Rix and H. T. Closson.

Polling Place—Court House.

FOURTH WARD:

E. E. Harries, N. A. Blake, Henry S. Keith and Norfleet Dunston.

Polling Place—Abey Revell old store House, corner Hillsboro and Person sts.

FIFTH WARD:

R. W. Best Joseph Harries, Jno Nichols and Jno. B. Cathery.

Polling Place—Abey Revell old store House, corner Hillsboro and Person sts.

BOARD COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

April 14 3-t

SUI GENERIS.

MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS.

UNEQUALED if judged critically, UNAPPROACHED in capacity and excellence by any others. Awarded

THREE HIGHEST MEDALS AND DIPLOMA OF HONOR AT VIENNA, 1873; PARIS, 1867.

ONLY American Organs ever awarded any medal in Europe, or which present such extraordinary excellence as to command a wide sale there.

ALWAYS awarded highest premiums at Industrial Expositions, in America as well as Europe. Out of hundreds there have not been six in all where any other organs have been preferred.

BEST Declared by Eminent Musicians, in both hemispheres, to be unrivaled. See TESTIMONIAL CIRCULAR, with opinions of more than ONE Thousand (sent free).

INSIST on having a Mason & Hamlin. Do not take any other. Dealers get LARGER COMMISSIONS for selling inferior organs, and for this reason often try very hard to sell something else.

NEW STYLES with most important improvements ever made. New Solo and Combination Stops. Superb Etagere and other Cases of new designs.

PIANO-HARP CABINET ORGAN an exquisite combination of these instruments.

EASY PAYMENTS, for monthly or quarterly payments; or rented until rent pays for the organ.

CATALOGUES and Circulars, with full particulars, free. Address MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., 154 Tremont Street, BOSTON; 25 Union Square, NEW YORK; or 80 & 82 Adams St., CHICAGO.

apl 14-1 year.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.

Established in 1837.

Superior Bells of Copper and Tin, mounted with the best Rotary Hangings, for Churches, Schools, Farms, Factories, Court Houses, Fire Alarms, Tower Clocks, Chimes, etc. Fully Warranted.

Illustrated Catalogue sent Free.

VANDUZEN & TIFT,

102 and 104 East Second St., Cincinnati.

apr 14-12m

A NICE LOT OF HAMS JUST RECEIVED from Eastern N. C., and for sale especially for table use by

A. G. LEE & SONS.

250 BUSHELS WHITE SPRING OATS FOR sale by

A. G. LEE & SONS.

A LOT OF FRESH MOUNTAIN BUTTER in kits. Call and examine at

A. G. LEE & SONS.

apl 14-1w.

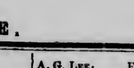
CITY TAX LIST.

I will attend at my office on the 5th of April, 1875, for the purpose of taking the tax list for the city of Raleigh for the year 1875. The books will be kept open during the first twenty working days on and after April 5th, 1875. Those failing to list will be subject to double tax.

JOHN C. GOLMAN,
Mayor.

March 24th 3-w

SHOT-GUNS, RIFLES, PISTOLS & REVOLVERS,



Of any and every kind. Send stamp for Catalogue. Address Great Western Gun and Revolver Works, Pittsburgh, Pa.

april 7-9m.

NEW SPRING GOODS JUST ARRIVED.

D. S. WAITT & BRO.,

Wholesale and Retail

DEALERS IN

READY MADE CLOTHING

For MEN, YOUTHS and CHILDREN.

Latest Styles and Prices Low.

The celebrated MANHATTEN WHITE SHIRTS, which are acknowleged the best Goods and most perfect Fit that is made. A full line constantly on hand.

Gents and Ladies Hose, Gloves, Suspenders, Handkerchief, Neckties, Bows and Silk Scarfs. The latest novelties of the Season paper Linen Cuffs and Collars Ladies Leather Belts, Hamburg Edgings and Insertions, Cashs' Ruffings, and Pluetings, Ladies Neck Ruffs and Collars, Stamped Yokes and Bands, &c.

DOMESTIC AND FANCY DRY GOODS.

PRINTS, PRINTS, PRINTS.

Black Alpacas.

Corded Jackonets, Striped and Figured Lawns, White Piques, Mul Muslins, Check & Stripe Nainsook and Linen Lawns, Corrett Jeans, Cassimeres and Linsays.

HATS HATS HATS.

Newest Styles and Cheap.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

Our Stock is complete in this line. Miles and Taylor's Goods just [illegible] and speak for themselves. Other brands which also give satisfaction.

To Country Merchants who buy in the City, we would say give us a call and we will sell goods for cash as cheap as any House in the City, or this side of Baltimore and New York.

To our numerous friends and patrons we again return our thanks for past favors and as our stock is much larger than ever before, we feel confident that we are prepared to do the best that can be done in this city.

D. S. WAITT & BRO.,
54 Fayetteville st., Raleigh, N. C

mch 17-tf.

MUSIC BOOKS
BEST FOR
QUARTET CHOIRS.

Thomas's Sacred Quartets.
Baumbach's Sacred Quartets.
Buck's Motet Collection.
Baumbach's New Collection
Buck's 2d Motet Collection
Church and Home.
Hayter's Church Music.
Trinity Collection.

Price of each Book, in Boards, $2.50; in Cloth, $2.75

CLARKE'S NEW METHOD FOR REED ORGANS.

By William H. Clarke. Price $2.50.

Mr. Wm. H. Clarke, a distinguished organist and composer, was especially fortunate in the compilation of this fine work, which sprang into popular favor immediately on its issue, has had remarkable success, and continues to be the leading method. Contains, in addition to instructions, a capital collection of Reed Organ Music.

All books sent, post-paid, for retail price.
OLIVER DITSON & CO., C. H. DITSON & CO.
Boston. 711 B'dway, New York

PLEIS' FIT POWDERS.

These Powders have been tested by over 40,000 cases for the cure of Fits (Epilepsy), Spasms, Convulsions, St. Vitus' Dance, Neuralgia, and all Nervous Affections, some over 40 years' standing.

When you ORDER STATE AGE.

PRICE, $5 CENTS PER BOX, or sent to at parts of the United States for One Dollar per Box.—These Powders are prepared and sold only by the proprietor, to whom all orders must be addressed,

JOHN M. PLEIS, Jr.,
861 North Third street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Please mention that you saw this advertisement in The Christian Advocate. mar 31-ly

RESTORE YOUR SIGHT.

Spectacles Rendered Useless.

Save Your Eyes,

RESTORE YOUR SIGHT,
THROW AWAY YOUR SPECTACLES.

Old Eyes Made New.

All diseases of the Eye successfully treated by

Dr. J. BALL & CO.'S

NEW PATENT IMPROVED IVORY EYE CUPS.

Read for yourself and Restore your Sight

Spectacles and Surgical Operations rendered useless. The Inestimable Blessing of Sight is made perpetual by the use of the new Patent Improved Ivory Eye Cups.

Many of our most eminent physicians, oculists, students and divines have had their sight permanently Restored for life, and cured of the following diseases:

1. Impaired Vision; 2. Presbyopia, or Far-sight-dness, or Dimness of Vision, commonly called Blurring; 3. Asthenopia, or Weak Eyes; 4. Epiphora, Standing or Watery Eyes; 5. Sore Eyes—specially treated with the Eye Cups—cure guaranteed; 6. Weakness of the Retina, or Optic Nerve; 7. Ophthalmia, or Inflammation of the eye and its appendages, or imperfect vision from the effects of Inflammation; 8. Photophobia, or Intolerance of Light; 9. Overworked Eyes; 10. Mydriasis—moving specks or floating bodies before the eyes; 11. Amaurosis, or Obscurity of Vision; 12. Cataracts; Partial Blindness; the loss of Sight

Any one can use the Ivory Eye Cups without the aid of a doctor or medicine so as to receive immediate beneficial results and never wear spectacles; or, if using now, to lay them aside forever We guarantee a cure in every case where the directions are followed, or will refund the money.

2,500 CERTIFICATES OF CURE

from honest Farmers, Mechanics and Merchants—some of them the most eminent leading professional and business men, and women of education and refinement, in our country—can be found at our office.

Under date of March 22 Hon. Horace Greely, of the New York Tribune, writes: "J. Ball, of our city, is a conscientious and responsible man who is incapable of intentional deception or imposition."

Prof W. Merrick, of Lexington, Ky., wrote, April 9th, 1869: "Without my spectacles I pen you this note, after using the Patent Ivory Eye Cups thirteen days, and this Morning perused the entire contents of a daily newspaper, and all with the unassisted eye.

"Truly am I grateful for your noble invention. May Heaven bless and preserve you. I have been using spectacles twenty years; I am seventy years old.

Truly yours, PROF. W. MERRICK."

Rev. Joseph Smith, Malden, Mass., cured of Partial Blindness of 18 years' standing, in one minute, by the Patent Ivory Eye Cups.

E. C. Ellis, late Mayor of Dayton, Ohio wrote us, Nov. 15th, 1869: "I have tested the Patent Ivory Eye Cups, and I am satisfied they are good. I am pleased with them. They are the greatest invention of the age.

Wm. Beatty, M. D., Salvisa Ky., writes: "Thanks to you for the greatest of all inventions, my sight is fully restored, after being almost entirely blind for 36 years.

Alex. R. Wyeth, M. D., Atchison, Pa., writes: After total blindness of my left eye for four years, by paralysis of the optic nerve, to my utter astonishment your Patent Eye Cups restored my eyesight permanently a three minutes."

All persons wishing for full particulars, certificates of cures, prices, &c., will please send their address to us, and we will send our pamphlet on the Illustrated Physiology and Anatomy of the Eye sight of one hundred pages, free of charge, by return mail Write to Dr. J. Ball & Co. P. O. Box 957. No 91 Liberty street. New York City, N. Y.

For the worse cases of Myopia or Near-Sightedness use our New Patent Myopic Attachments, applied to the Ivory Eye Cups Has proved a certain cure for this disease.

Send for pamphlet and certificates—free. Waste no more money by adjusting huge glasses on your nose and disfiguring your face.

AGENTS WANTED

Employment for all. Agents wanted, Gentlemen or Ladies, for our New Patent Improved Ivory Eye Cups, just introduced in the market. The success is unparalleled by any other article. All persons out of employment, or those wishing to improve their circumstances, can make a respectable living at this light and easy employment. Hundreds of Agents are making from $5 to $20 a day. To live Agents $30 a week will be guaranteed.

Send your address for full particulars. Sent free of charge to any address. Write immediately to

DR. J. BALL & CO.,
NO. 91 LIBERTY STREET,
P. O. Box 957. New York City, N. Y.
Sept 6-12m.

A. G. Lee. Ed. H. Lee. Cle R. Lee.

A STRICTLY COMMISSION HOUSE,

A. G. LEE & SONS.

RALEIGH, N. C.

We give our entire attention to handling goods on COMMISSION, and therefore can handle to advantage consignments of

Corn,	Corn Meal.	Chickens,
Hay,	N. C. Flour,	Eggs,
Fodder,	" Bacon,	and all the
Shuck,	or Green Pork,	products of
Oats,	Beef,	the farm
Peas,	N. C Hams,	or garden.

All of which we sell for cash, and are therefore able to make prompt returns. We solicit consignments from Western North Carolina, and the State generally.

We call attention to our friends in the city and neighboring country to the fact that we have made arrangements with shippers to have a constant supply of CORN on hand, and almost always have consignments of the other articles mentioned above. We have to sell for cash but will give you good goods—Try us.

Cotton is our Specialty.

We can always obtain the highest market price, and ask our friends who find it inconvenient to accompany their lots to the market to try us. We can beat New York in the nett proceeds of your cotton.

When you bring your cotton to market yourself give us a chance at it. We have orders to fill and can pay the VERY HIGHEST market price for it. Be sure to call and see us before you sell.

We are the Agents for

The ORCHILLA GUANO and The SOUTH SEA GUANO.

The SCHOFIELD COTTON PRESS, the best invented.

The DIAMOND COTTON CHOPPER—Every one warranted.

A. G. LEE & SONS.
P. O. Box 222, Raleigh, N. C.

march 3-tf

A. H. TEMPLE,

(Successor to Lynn Adams,)

Grocer, Cotton Factor

AND

Commission Merchant.

Nos. 5 Martin St. and 5 Exchange Place.

Having succeeded to the business of Mr. Lynn Adams, I am prepared to offer to the public the best inducements in my line and respectfully ask a continuance of the trade hitherto given Mr. Adams, promising to give satisfaction in all cases

In addition to my regular line of goods, I have on hand a full took of the

STINSON WOOL HATS,

made in Wake county, and adapted especially to the farm

Children's Column.

The word 'pearl' is found five times in Revelations. Ada Elliott, Sallie R Thomas, Jimmie R. Betts.

'Distracted' occurs in 88th Psalm 15th verse. Ada Elliott, Sallie P. Betts.

"Jesus wept" is the shortest verse in the Bible, 35th v. 11th ch. John.—Ada Elliott, Mattie J. E. Farrar.

Fred C. Overman for answer to the question gives 1st v. of 1st chap. of 1st Chronicles as the shortest verse in the Bible.

Og owned the iron bedstead. Deut 3d chap. 11th v. Ada Elliott, W. F. Clark.

Saul had seven sons hanged. 2nd Samuel 21st chap. Ada Elliott.

The word 'college' is found in 2nd Kings 22nd chap. 14th verse, and in Chronicles 34th chap. 22nd verse.—Jimmie R. Betts.

The word containing the letters kkhobrtihauaatte is Kibroth-hattaavah. Num. 11 chap. 34th verse.

'Concord'—2nd Corinthian 6th chap. 15th v. Sallie Potter Betts.

The Lord changed Abram's name to Abraham when he was 99 years old. Gen. 17th chap. Willie Cherry, Cora A. Harrison, S. W. L. Connelly, Mattie J. E. Farrar, Emma L. Langly.

St. John "ate the book"—Rev. 10th chap. 10th v. Willie Cherry, S. W. L. Connelly, Mattie J. E. Farrar, Estella Albright, Emma L. Langly.

Word seven occurs forty-five times in the Bible. Cora A. Harrison.

Love, beloveth and beloved—found in 4th chap. 1st Epistle of John. Tom Ashe Clark, Luther Paxton, Pattie B. Clark.

Its, Leviticus—25th ch. 5th verse. W. F. Clark.

The verse containing all the letters ot the alphabet except j is the 21st v. 7th chap. of Ezra. Fisher Paxton, Fred C. Overman.

God opened Lydia's heart. Acts 16th chap. 14th v. Sallie R. Thomas.

Hiel, the Bethite, rebuilt Jericho.—S. W. L Connelly.

Rebecca's destiny was decided at a well of water. Mattie J. E. Farrar, Sallie R. Thomas.

Christ called Herod a 'fox.' Mattie J. E. Farrar.

Moses was excluded from the promised land because he disobeyed the Lord in the matter of bringing water from the rock at Meribah and took the glory of the miracle to himself. Num. 20th chap S. W. Connelly, Mattie J. E. Farrar, Estella Albright.

Adoni-bezek took seventy other kings captive and cut off their great toes and thumbs and fed them with crumbs from his table. Judges 1st chap. 7th verse. S W. Connelly, Addie C. Richmond.

Answer to first Bible Enigma is 'Jerusalem.' Tom Ashe Clark, Pattie B. Clark.

Answer to Bible Enigma proposed by Rachel E. Clayton:

Its 1st is Ham, youngest son of Noah.
" 2nd is Elizabeth, wife of Aaron.
" 3rd is Zacharias, father of John the Baptist.
" 4th is Elisha the prophet, who made iron swim.
" 5th is Keturah, the second wife of Abraham.
" 6th is Ithamar, fourth son of Aaron.
" 7th is Ammon, eldest son of David.
" 8th is Hannah, mother of Samuel.

The initial letters of the above names form the whole which is Hezekiah the 13th king of Judah. Jas. T. Harrison, S. W. L. Connelly, Bettie A. Corbin, M. Addie Clegg.

Questions.

W. A. Betts asks what king built a palace of ivory for himself.

Pattie B. Clark asks where in the Bible is found God's promise to be a husband to the widow.

W. F. Clarke asks where in the New Testment is found a verse containing "yea" six times.

Ada Elliott asks in what chapter of the New Testament the word "Father" occurs 22 times. Also what king had seventy sons beheaded and where an account of it is found.

Mattie J. E. Farrar asks where the word Ebenezer is found and what it means. Also where is found the sentence, "We will drink no wine" and what is its meaning.

Addie C. Richmond asks where is found an account of the dream of a cake tumbling into the camp of an army and over turning a tent. Also how many riddles there are in the Bible, and where they are found.

John R. Brinton asks how many men who crossed the Red Sea crossed the river Jordan, and what were their names.

Estella Albright asks on what Mount did Moses go to view the Promised Land. Also what king had seventy sons beheaded.

W. R. Hambrick asks in what place mentioned in the Bible was there a great earthquake when the sun became black as sack cloth of hair and the moon became as blood.

Bible Enigma.

My 1st begins the name of Laban's father.

My 2nd begins the name of her who was made queen, instead of Vashti.

My 3rd begins the name of Noah's father.

My 4th begins the name of the tenth month as given in the Bible.

My 5th begins the name of Joseph's second son.

My 6th begins the name of the wisest man.

My 7th begins the name of Lot's father

My 8th begins the name of the first high priest of the Jews.

My 9th begins the name of the last king of Judah.

My 10th begins the name of John the Baptist's father.

My 11th begins the name of the second son of Adam.

My 12th begins the name of the son of Solomon.

My whole is the name given to Daniel in the courts of Nebuchadnezzar.

Very Respectfully,
Addie Clegg.

Farm, Garden & Household.

Reclaiming Worn out Lands.

I will give a few reasons why the farm does not pay. A farm well conducted requires a great deal of thought and study, and the best time to study it out is during the long bad winter days, when we can't do much else. The farm should be made so interesting that we will forget to go to town every Saturday. A farmer says, I can't get my hands to work on Saturday, so I will go to town myself. Now this is the very day he ought to stay at home, and thus encourage his hands to do the same. You will bear some farmers say it takes no thought to make cotton.' I never saw one who talked in that way who knew how to make a compost heap, or after it is made who knew how or what quantity to distribute. The successful farmer must make his plans far ahead. This will give time to correct errors, and when work time comes there is no hesitation or delay. He should have his fields allotted, one for clover, another for corn and so on. Also the crops fixed that must follow each other next year. He must watch and keep his land from washing, and have the gullies stopped with brush. In fact, he must almost live in his field.

I will give my plan of improving old land. Take a few acres, plough well with two horse plow if the land will bear it without throwing up too much clay, harrow and manure in drill or cotton. After the cotton is picked, plough cross-ways and sow in wheat and clover. Harrow in wheat with what cotton seed the land makes, and sow clover in February. Next year take up another piece and do likewise, and you will soon have a large field constantly improving. Clover should not be pastured in hot weather: graze it very lightly from October until Spring with sheep and calves. Make hay of first growth cut about 10th of June. Let second growth rot on the land. Cotton does not grow well after clover. I turn under clover sod in January or February, and when, ready to plant corn, harrow well and plant late in April. Cut worms are bad if it is planted sooner Plant cotton or wheat after corn I have had a good stand of volunteer clover after four hoed crops.

Harrisburg N. C; 1875.

Clover

—Hillsboro Recorder.

Sheep on a Farm.

Sheep are undervalued by the mass of land holders as a means of keeping up the fertility of the soil and putting money into the pockets of farmers.—The moment one begins to talk of sheep husbandry, the listener or reader begins to look for wool quotations, as if wool was all that yields profit from sheep. One might as well look for wheat quotations alone when there is talk about the profit of farming.

Sheep on a farm yields both wool and mutton. They multiply with great rapidity. They are the best of farm scavengers, 'cleaning a field' as no other class of animals will. They give back to the farm more in proportion to what they take from it than any other animal, and distribute it better with a view to the future fertility of the soil. Prove this? There is no need of proof to those who have kept sheep, and know their habits and the profits they yield. To prove it to those who have not the experience, it is necessary they should try the experiment or accept the testimony of an experienced shepherd.

But the live stock of a farm should not, necessarily, be sheep, exclusively. Cattle, horses, swine, have their respective places in the farm economy.—How many of each to keep is a question that locality, character of markets, adaptation of soil, predisposition, taste and skill of the husbandman must decide. But one thing ought not to be forgotten, that the more stock a man keeps on his farm the more grass and it ought to, and, if properly managed, it will grow. The rates of increase will correspond with the business tact, technical and practical knowledge, and skill of the husbandman. New York World.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure a Cough in one-half the time necessary to cure it with any other medicine, and it does it, not by drying it up, but by removing the cause—subduing the irritation and healing the affected parts. For all cases of Laryngitis, Hoarseness, Suppression or Loss of Voice, Bronchitis, Severe Chronic or Lingering Coughs, it will be found in surpass any medicine that has ever before been offered to the public. It is sold by all dealers in medicines.
ap 11 14 1t.

1875!
JUST ISSUED:
CROWN OF LIFE!
For the Sunday-school Song Service, Praise and Prayer Meetings. By W. A. Ogden. Contains 160 pages, and has the Richest Melodies, Best Words and, withal, the most complete Sunday-school Song book published. It has a Concert Exercise ("Sacred Places of the Gospel"), both interesting and instructive, which any school can produce.
SEND 50CTS FOR SPECIMEN COPY, IN BOARDS.
Specimen Page Free. Price $4.50 per Dozen.
W. W. WHITNEY, Publisher,
March 24-t-o o w. TOLEDO, OHIO.

A Royal Organ.

The stomach has been well named a "royal organ," since it sways and controls the entire system, every gland, tissue and nerve sympathizing with it as the servants of a palace sympathize with their master. Each one of them is fed and sustained by it—even the brain itself, the centre of sensation, is absolutely dependent upon it for sustenance. Consequently, when the stomach fails to perform its all-important office the subordinate organs also falter in their duty. The reason why Hostetter's Stomach Bitters have such wonderously beneficial effect upon the general health and are such a reliable preventive of disease, is that they specially overcome weakness or disorders of the stomach, and thus insure complete nourishment of the entire system and a healthful performance of its various functions. Unlike those stimulants whose alcoholic principle is unmodified by judicious medication, the spirituous basis of these Bitters, which is of the purest description, holds in solution herbal alteratives and invigorants to which a foremost rank has been assigned in materia medica. But it is not alone the fact that these sovereign botanic elements enter into the composition of the Bitters that constitutes them such a beneficent and corrective, but also that they are so happily combined that the full effect of each is exerted upon the disordered or debilitated system. The digestive and secretive organs are the first to experience their beneficent operation, which extends, by sympathy, to the brain, the nerves and the circulation. The judicious use carried is fruitful of those great sanitary results which have built up the reputation of this truly rational medicine.
mch 17 tf

EAST INDIA HEMP.
And What We Know About It

Instead of devoting a column to the merits of this strange and wonderful plant, we remain silent and let it speak for itself through other tips humorists believing that the who have suffered most can better tell

We will here put the word of word from letter recently received, simply adding our testimony to the rest in saying, that when this pain is properly prepared, we know that it positively cures consumption, and will break up a fresh cold in one day, four hours.

ST. MARY'S BURGH, Allegheny City, Pa., Nov. 16, 1874.

The East Indis Hemp has been taken by Rev. Mathias Bandel, O. S. B., and Rev. Sebastian Arnold, C. S. R., both resident pastors of the above church, and so far has given relief to both. They suffered from affections of the lungs and bronchial organs. We have recommended through charity to sufferers, the Cann has indicated to different persons, and continue recommending it on good evidence. Knowing the effects by experience, Please find enclosed check for twelve bottles of syrup, pills and ointment. We shall let you in due time what further success the medicine shall meet with.

Yours truly,
REV. FERDINAND WOLF, O. S. B.
87 Washington Street

CHINA GROVE, Rowan Co., N. C., Oct. 21, 1874.

Send one dozen Ointment and one of Cannabis Indica. When Mr. J. W. Fisher brought his wife to me for examination, found her on the last point stage of tuberculous consumption. Then it was I concluded to make a full trial of Indis H mp, and now there is a general demand for those remedies. The Ointment excels everything and anything of its kind I ever saw or tried; in many cases it acts like a charm.

Fruit-fruitly yours,
T. A. SIFFORD, M. D.

EDGEVILLE, Caswell, N. C., Sept. 12, 1874.

Incased is $10 for more of the Indian Hemp. I can truly say to you this medicine has done me more good than all the doctors, and I had several of the best in the country. My cough is a great deal better, and my chills and night sweats are gone. You may look for several others soon, as many have seen the effect of this medicine on me.

W. A. FULLER.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct 30 1874

Your treatment for consumption has so improved my condition, that I cheerfully comes every day from my friends, what are you taking? Several are taking my remedy for some of your medicine, and James Hall desires me to order for him $9 worth of the Hemp.

WM. HENT, North High Street.

P. S.—This my opinion that as agent at this place would be valuable for you.

W. H.

DICKSON, Tennessee, Tenn., Sept. 12, 1874.

Send three more bottles of your consumption and bronchitis cure. My son began taking the Hemp last night three weeks ago, and he is improving rapidly. the last two days have made him look of not like another person. I have great hopes.

J. M. BRATTON

DEAR SIRS, Pocahontas, Iowa, Jan. 3, 18 4.

I have just seen your advertisement in my paper. I know all about the Cannabis Indica. I have for years used it for my church and the asthma. She had it very bad for several years, but was perfectly cured.

JASON PROCT

N. B.—The Remedy packs perfect. A single bottle will satisfy the most skeptical. $2.50 per bottle. Three bottles for $5.50. Pills and Ointment $1.25 each. Sold at our Office.

Address
CRAMER & CO., 1027 Race Street, Philadelphia.

DR. M'LANE'S
Celebrated American
WORM SPECIFIC,
OR VERMIFUGE.

SYMPTOMS OF WORMS.

THE countenance is pale and leaden-colored, with occasional flushes, or a circumscribed spot on one or both cheeks; the eyes become dull; the pupils dilate; an azure semicircle runs along the lower eyelid; the nose is irritated, swells, and sometimes bleeds; a swelling of the upper lip; occasional headache, with humming or throbbing of the cars; an unusual secretion of saliva; slimy or furred tongue; breath very foul, particularly in the morning; appetite variable, sometimes voracious, with a gnawing sensation of the stomach, at others, entirely gone; fleeting pains in the stomach; occasional nausea and vomiting; violent pains throughout the abdomen; bowels irregular, at times costive; stools slimy; not unfrequently tinged with blood; belly swollen and hard; urine turbid; respiration occasionally difficult, and accompanied by hiccough; cough sometimes dry and convulsive; uneasy and disturbed sleep, with grinding of the teeth; temper variable, but generally irritable, &c.

Whenever the above symptoms are found to exist,

DR. M'LANE'S VERMIFUGE
Will certainly effect a cure.

The universal success which has attended the administration of this preparation has been such as to warrant us in pledging ourselves to the public to

RETURN THE MONEY
in every instance where it should prove ineffectual: "providing the symptoms attending the sickness of the child or adult should warrant the supposition of worms being the cause." In all cases the Medicine to be given IN STRICT ACCORDANCE WITH THE DIRECTIONS.

We pledge ourselves to the public, that

Dr. M'Lane's Vermifuge
DOES NOT CONTAIN MERCURY
in any form; and that it is an innocent preparation, not capable of doing the slightest injury to the most tender infant.

Address all orders to
FLEMING BROS., PITTSBURGH, PA.

P.S. Dealers and Physicians ordering from others than Fleming Bros., will do well to write their orders distinctly, and take none but Dr. M'Lane's, prepared by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa. To those wishing to give them a trial, we will forward per mail, post-paid, to any part of the United States, one box of Pills for twelve three-cent postage stamps, or one vial of Vermifuge for fourteen three-cent stamps. All orders from Canada must be accompanied by twenty cents extra.

☞ For sale by Druggists, and Country Storekeepers generally.

$100 A Month. Agents Wanted Everywhere for the new book "Success in Business," or MONEY AND HOW TO MAKE IT. This country has money for everybody; for Workingmen, Business Men, Farmers, Young Men, Boys, Women, and all; and this book shows how to get it. Just the book for the times, and will sell fast. Send for circular and terms to agents.
P. W. ZIEGLER & CO.,
Feb 17-3m 518 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa

OLD NORTH STATE
FIRE
Insurance Company.
OF
WARRENTON, - - - N. C.

Capital Stock, $107.600.00

ASSETS:

Mortgages on Real Estate	$ 45 668.00
National Bank Stock	1 100.00
Solvent Stock Notes	51, 5 0 00
Cash and Loans on Call	2 502 98
Due from Agents	2 669.62
Agents Supplies	626 00
Office furniture (sale, &c)	796 16
Accrued Interest	880.08
	$ 122,995 63

LIABILITIES:

Amount necessary to reinsure all unexpired risks on the basis of the New York law, 40.0 p.c. $1 229 Assets to Every $100 of Technical Liabilities.

According to the past experience of the Company we have
$2 458 Assets to Every $100 of such Liabilities

OFFICERS:

Col. W. S. DAVIS President.
N. M. JONES, Vice-President.
H. E. LONG, Secretary.
WM. J. NORWOOD, Treasurer
T. C. WILLIAMS, Supervisor.

1874. FALL STOCK. 1874.
NEW GOODS! GOOD QUALITY!!

LOW PRICES!!!

JOS. P. GULLEY,
RETAILER AND JOBBER OF
Dry Goods, Notions, Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Trunks, Valises, White Goods, &c., &c.,
RALEIGH, N. C.

My large and carefully selected stock for the Fall and Winter is now in store, and I respectfully invite all in search of good goods and low prices, to call and examine for themselves.

BURT'S GAITERS and BOOTS FOR GENTS.

To those who have bought and used these goods we need only to say that we have a full line of them—for durability and neatness of fit they are unexcelled.

Also Misses and Graff's hand made shoes for the Ladies.

PRINTS!
PRINTS!
PRINTS!
A large stock of the latest patterns, at prices that cannot be excelled.
Respectfully,
JOSEPH P GULLEY,
Corner Fayetteville and Market Square
oct 7-1y

M. T. NORRIS, W. A. MYATT.
NORRIS & MYATT,
GROCERS, COTTON FACTORS
—AND—
Commission Merchants.
No. 3 Exchange Place and No. 5 Martin Street,
Consignments Solicited and Prompt Returns Guaranteed.

PLOWS, PLOWS, PLOWS.

Anticipating the Spring season, we now have in stock the following large and varied assortment of Plows, viz: Dunn & Higgan, No. 0 Turn Plow, The celebrated Wilson Cotton Plow and the Role's Cotton Plow. We offer all of these Plows at very lowest figures. Call and examine their merits for yourself.
NORRIS & MYATT.

FLOUR, FLOUR, FLOUR.

We are constantly receiving, and will keep on hand a large lot of Flour, which we guarantee to give perfect satisfaction.
We also keep White Bolted Meal.
NORRIS & MYATT.

MEAT, MEAT, MEAT.

Our stock of Meat, Clear Rib Sides and Shoulders, is complete. We guarantee to MEET the demands of the trade both in quality and prices.
We always have on hand Marshall's Factory Ribbed Salt, only $2.25 per sack.
NORRIS & MYATT

IRISH POTATOES.

10 bbls. Early Rodrich.
10 bbls. Early Rose.
These forward brands of Potatoes are offered very low. Send in your orders to NORRIS & MYATT.
feb 17 tf

FROM
HENRY J. BROWN,
Opposite Masonic Hall.
RALEIGH, N. C.,

UNDERTAKER,
Keeps on hand Fisk's Metallic Burial Cases, Self Sealing Metallic Burial Cases, and Walnut and other Wood Coffins. HEARSE FURNISHED.
Also Dealer in Furniture. Repairing and Varnishing Promptly Executed
ap 19 1y

WIRE RAILING & ORNAMENTAL Wire Works.
Dufur & Co.,
36 North Howard Street, Baltimore, Md
Manufacture WIRE RAILING for Cemeteries, Balconies, &c., SHUTTERS, FENCES, CAGES, SAND AND COAL SCREENS, WOVEN WIRE, &c. ALSO, IRON BEDSTEADS CHAIRS SETTEES, &c., &c
Feb 18-12m

JUST READY—ENTIRELY NEW—AUTHENTIC—COMPLETE
LIFE AND LABORS OF
LIVINGSTONE,
By Rev. J. E CHAMBLISS. This gifted author having free access to the personal writings of Livingstone, publishes early the manuscript of his life-work, the THRILLING ADVENTURES he met, the grand ACHIEVEMENTS he won, as also the CURIOSITIES, WONDERS and WEALTH of that marvelous country. Wide Awake Agents Wanted Everywhere at Once for the ONLY cheap COMPLETE WORK Over 800 pages, (includes his "LAST JOURNALS") 100 SPLENDID Illustrations, &c. &c., only $3.50. It will SELL. Millions want it. For proof and terms, address: HUBBARD BROS., Pubs., 723 Sansom St., Phila., Pa.
Sept 2) 12 m

PROGRESS THE WATCHWORD.

Merit and Success, Hand in Hand.

The Eureka
WASHING MACHINE.
Patented Oct. 13th, 1874.

This machine operates on the same principle as the hand—does the work complete without the hand—works with great ease to the operator and washes rapidly, doing the work in about one fourth the time of the ordinary way, with less injury to fabrics.
Factory price $15 00, with wringer attached $18 00
State and county rights for sale
J. B. FARRAR,
Manufacturer and Patentee,
Cary, N. C.
mch 10-5ms.

SCHEDULES.

PIEDMONT & AIR-LINE RAILWAY.

RICHMOND & DANVILLE, RICHMOND & DANVILLE R. W., N. C. DIVISION, and NORTH WESTERN N. C. R. W.

CONDENSED TIME-TABLE.
In effect on and after Friday, March 19th, 1875

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	MAIL.	EXPRESS.
Leave Charlotte	9 32 P. M	8.55 A. M.
" Air-Line Junc'n	9 34 "	9 20 "
" Salisbury	12.12 A M	11.28 "
" Greensboro'	3 35 "	2.16 P. M.
" Danville	6 20 "	4 48 "
" Dundee	6.30 "	4.57 "
" Burkeville	11 35 "	9 17 "
Arrive at Richmond	2.37 P. M.	11 40 P. M.

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	MAIL.	EXPRESS.
Leave Richmond	1.38 P. M	5.03 A. M.
" Burkeville	4.41 "	8.25 "
" Dundee	9 25 "	12.55 P. M
" Danville	9 28 "	1 00 P. M.
" Greensboro	12.40 A. M.	3.37 "
" Salisbury	3 18 "	6.36 "
" Air Line Junc'n	5.05 "	9 30 "
Arrive at Charlo, N. C.	7.10 A M	9.35 "

GOING EAST		GOING WEST
STATIONS.	Mail	STATIONS.	Mail
Leave Greensboro'	3.35 A. M.	Arrive	11.30 P. M
" Co. Shops	5.10 "	Leave	10.45 "
" Raleigh	8 45 "	Arrive	7.55 "
Arrive at Goldsboro'	11.20 A. M	Leave	2.50 P. M.

NORTH WESTERN N. C. R. R.
(SALEM BRANCH.)

Leave Greensboro'	4.25 P. M.
Arrive at Salem	8 1 "
Leave Salem	9.20 A. M
Arrive Greensboro'	1.15 "

Passenger train having Raleigh at 3.38 P. M. connects at Greensboro with the Northern bound train; making the quickest time to all Northern cities Price of Tickets same as via other routes.
Trains to and from points East or Greensboro connect at Greensboro with Mail Trains to or from points North or South.
Two trains daily, both ways,
On Sundays Lynchburg Accommodation leave Richmond a 9.00 A. M., arrive at Burkeville 12.43 P. M. leave Burkeville 4.35 A. M., arrive at Richmond 7.55 A. M.

No Change of Cars between Charlotte and Richmond, 282 Miles.

Papers that have arrangements to advertise the Schedule of this company will please print as above. For further information address
S. F. ALLEN,
Gen'l Ticket Agent,
Greensboro, N. C.
T. M. R. TALCOTT,
Engineer & Gen'l Superintendent.

CHANGE OF SCHEDULE

RALEIGH & GASTON RAILROAD CO.

On and after Friday, May 22nd, 1874, trains on the Raleigh & Gaston Railroad, will run daily (Sunday excepted) as follows:

MAIL TRAIN.

Leave Raleigh	3.35 A. M.
Arrives at Weldon	8.30 P. M.
Leaves Weldon	9.50 A M.
Arrives at Raleigh	4.45 P. M.

ACCOMMODATION TRAIN.

Leaves Raleigh	5.45 A M.
Arrives at Weldon	5.15 P M.
Leaves Weldon	2.2 A. M.
Arrives at Raleigh	2.45 P. M.

Mail train makes close connection at Weldon, with the Seaboard and Roanoke Railroad and Bay Line at Norfolk, Baltimore, Portland and all points North, West and Northwest, and with Petersburg Railroad via Petersburg, Richmond and Washington City, to and from all points North and Northwest.
And at Raleigh with the North Carolina Railroad to and from all points South and Southwest, and with the Raleigh & Augusta Air Line to Hayw ood and Fayetteville.
A. B. ANDREWS,
Gen. Sup't.

RALEIGH & AUGUSTA AIR-LINE RAILROAD.

SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE,
Raleigh, N. C., Oct 27th, 1874.
On and after Monday, October 12th, 1874, trains on the R. & A. A. L. Road will run daily, (Sundays excepted,) as follows:

MAIL TRAIN.

Train leaves Raleigh,	4.00 P. M.
Arrives at Sanford,	6.25 "
Train leaves Sanford,	6.30 A. M
Arrives at Raleigh	8.50 "

FREIGHT TRAIN.

Leaves Raleigh,	5.15 A. M.
Arrives at Sanford	10.25 A. M.
Leaves Sanford,	12.01 A. M
Arrives at Raleigh	3.50 P. M.

Mail train makes close connection at R. I. Job with the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad, to and from all points South
And at Sanford with the Western Railroad, to and from Fayetteville and points on Western Railroad.
A. B. ANDREWS,
Superintendent.

OFFICE SUPT. OF TRANSPORTATION,
Seaboard & Roanoke R. R Co.,
Portsmouth, Va., Jan. 1st, 1875.

On and after this date, trains of this Road will leave Weldon daily, Sundays excepted, as follows:

Mail train at	4 P. M
No. 1 Freight train at	4 A. M.
No. 2 Freight train at	8 A M.

ARRIVE AT PORTSMOUTH.

Mail train at	7.15 P. M.
No. 1 Freight at	12 00 NOON
No. 2 Freight at	4 00 P M

Freight trains have a passenger car attached.
Steamer for Edenton, Plymouth and Landings on Blackwater and Chowan Rivers leave Franklin at 5 10 A M on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays
E. H. GHIO,
Supt. Transportation.

STIEFF
GRAND, SQUARE, AND UPRIGHT
PIANOS

Have received pearls of FIFTY FIRST PREMIUMS and are among the leading cards. Every instrument fully warranted for five years. Prices as low as the cheapest consistent with perfect and the most thorough workmanship will permit. The principals and employees, and the piano-purchasing public of the South especially, unite in the unanimous verdict of the superiority of the STIEFF PIANO. The DURABILITY of our instruments is fully established by over sixty school and colleges in the South, using over 300 of our Pianos.
Sole Wholesale Agents for several of the principal manufactures of Cabinet and Parlor Organs; prices from $50 to $600. A liberal discount to Clergymen and Sabbath schools.
A large assortment of second-hand Pianos at prices ranging from 5 to 7 octaves, $75 to $150.
Send for illustrated Catalogue, containing names of over 1000 purchasers, who have bought and are using the Stieff Piano.
CHARLES M. STIEFF,
Warerooms, No. 9 North Liberty street,
Baltimore, Md.
Factories, 84 & 86 Camden st. and 45 & 47 Perry st.
Dec 16-12m

POPULAR AND USEFUL BOOKS

Royal Diadem, (S. S. Note)
Amaranth, " "
Bright Jewels, " "
Happy Voices, " "
The Quarry "
The Morning Star "
Pure Gold, "
Songs of Salvation, "
Wesleyan Catechisms	No. 1,
Wesleyan "	No. 2,
Wesleyan "	No. 3,
Bibles, (pocket size) from 75
Bibles, Family, from 3.00 to
Children of the Abbey 12mo cloth,
Robinson Crusoe, 12mo cloth,
Shakespeare, 12mo cloth
Pilgrims Progress, 12mo cloth, pictorial
Methodist Hymn and Tune Books, 12mo cloth,
Ready Reckoners, from 8c cts to Little Writers, (board covers) 50 to
Life of Daniel Boon, 12mo cloth,
Bible Dictionary, (the best)
Picture Books (highly illustrated) from 5cts to Methodist Hymn Books from 50 cts to
Baptist Hymn Books, from 75 to
Presbyterian Hymn Books, from 85 cts
Episcopal Prayer Books, from 75 cts to
Photograph Albums, from 75 cts to
Major Jones Courtship, paper cover,
Abbotts Mary Queen of Scotts.
Abbotts Queen Elizabeth,
Abbotts Maria Antoinette,
Aesop's Fables,
Arabian Knights Entertainment,

Send cash and add 10 cents on the dollar, and I will mail any of the above.
☞ Order any other book you want
L. BRANSOM,
Raleigh, N. C.
april 8-12m

PREMIUM CHESTER WHITE PIGS.—$15 each, $28 a pair, Chester County MAMMOTH COBN, and Imported BELGIAN OATS, 4 lbs by mail, $1 peck $2, bushel $3; bushel $5. Circular and Sample Packages of Seeds Free for 2 stamps Address.
N. P. BOYER Parkesburg, Chester co Pa.
march 3 5-wks

READ THIS

I will give any one an opportunity to make from $2 to $5 per day to work for me. Work easy and light. A boy 10 years old can do the bill. Send stamp for particulars. Apply to
B. L. POWELL, Warrenton N. C.
nov. 25 12 m.

A NEW BOOK.

Life, Sermons, and Speeches
OF
Rev. N. F. Reid, D. D.
LATE OF THE
NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.
BY HIS SONS
James W and Frank L. Reid

A handsome volume of 536 pages.
A fine Steel Engraving of Dr. Reid in each copy.
NOW READY FOR DELIVERY.

BE SURE TO GET A COPY.
Price in morocco, gilt edge, $3.50
" " Cloth, 2 00.
Agents wanted to whom liberal commissions will be made. Single copies sent by mail, postage paid, on receipt of retail price
Address, REV F L REID, Louisburg, N. C.
or JAS. W. REID, Wentworth, N. C.

B. T. LEACH, N. Y. M. T. LEACH
Leach Brothers,
WHOLESALE GROCERS
AND
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
SOUTH-EAST CORNER MARKET SQUARE, RALEIGH, N. C

Again we take great pleasure in presenting our card and returning thanks to the readers of the ADVOCATE for their very liberal patronage during the past two years, and offer to them the largest and best bought stock of Groceries ever offered in any market south of Baltimore, and while just now Bacon, Sugars and Lard are very scarce and high, we have made extra effort and feel sure we have succeeded in bringing other goods equally low and in end giving our friends all the advance in the few goods named
We wish to invite especial attention to our select stock of stanch Shoes and Boots bought direct from the Factories and offered here AT FIRST PROFITS.
We have now in store:
2,000 lbs. Rio Coffees,
10 Mats old Gov. Java,
10 Bbls A Sugar,
14 Bbls E C Sugar,
10 Bbls. B F Yellow Sugar,
20 Bbls Demarara,
20 Boxes Bulk Sides,
10 " Shoulders,
5 Kegs English Soda,
100 Bbls. C. D and Sole Leather,
100 Sides Upper Leather,
50 " Harness Leather,
100 Cases Oysters,
20 " Brandy Peaches,
5,000 Yds. Bagging,
6,000 lbs. Ties,
100 Bbls. Super Flour,
100 Bags American Shot,
50 Bbls Extra Flour,
50 Cases Fornesher's Crackers,
0 " Soda Crackers,
60 Boxes Factory and Dairy Cheese,
6,000 W. P. and C. D. Gun Caps,
1 Kegs Burbel Horse and Mule Shoes,
200 lbs. Horse Shoe Nails,
20 Dozen Best Axes,
50 Boxes Adamantine Candles,
100 Boxes Laundry and Toilet Soaps,
We offer our old customers to country and near-by merchants, and invite an examination of our stock defy competition
Oct 7-12 m LEACH BROS

C. WEST & SONS,
ALADDIN SECURITY OIL.
The best Oil in use.
Warranted 150 Degrees Fire Test.
Water White in Color.
Fully Deodorized.
AND IT WILL NOT EXPLODE.
It burns in all Coal Oil and Kerosene Lamps.
TRY IT. Ask for "Aladdin Security" and take no other.
C. WEST & SONS,
113 and 115 W. Lombard St., Baltimore, Md.
Nov 18-6m

SPECULATORS IN SMOKE
NEW CIGAR PALACE.
LEOPOLD BROS.,
Manufacturers Of Fine Cigars Only.
The Only Legitimate and Straight out Cigar House in Raleigh.
PATRONIZE HOME INDUSTRY.
12 Fine Brands manufactured in all conceivable styles.
The very best IMPORTED and DOMESTIC STOCK used in our Cigars.
Our Brands of Cigars are as follows:
THE ROSE (Unstamped.)
FLOR DE CUBA,
THE FIGARO TWIST, (Celebrated.)
GOLDEN EAGLES, (Imported Stock.)
THE PRINCESS,
THE OPERA ROSE.
FLOR DEL FUMAR
OLD PLANTATION,
LITTLE MAIMEE.
THE PARLOR
All Orders Punctually Attended to.
In course of manufacture, a great brand of Cigar, entitled the "RALEIGH GEM."
Call and sample at
No. 57 Fayetteville Street,
Opposite Market,
RALEIGH, N. C.
L. R. WYATT. B. L. BINGHAM.

Wyatt, Bingham & Co.
Wholesale and Retail Grocers,
COTTON FACTORS
AND GENERAL
Commission Merchants,
No. 4 Market St. and No. 5 Market Exchange,
RALEIGH, N. C.
We tender our many thanks to our several customers and friends for their liberal patronage, and hope to merit a continuance of the same by our strict personal and prompt attention to our business, and by offering to them our large and well selected stock of
BOOTS, SHOES, HATS and CAPS,
Staple Dry Goods,
Cotton Yarns,
Sheetings,
Alamance Plaids, and
General Merchandise,
all of which we guarantee to be as low as needed, and to sell at the lowest prices.

OUR GROCERY DEPARTMENT
is complete, and we make FLOUR a specialty and guarantee the lowest prices at retail and wholesale. Also the quality both of flour superior to any offered in the market for the price.
BAGGING and TIES,
SALT and NAILS
always on hand and offered at the lowest market prices.
Consignments solicited, which will receive our prompt and personal attention, and the best prices obtained.
Jan 29-tf

Important Sale
OF
Personal and Real Estate.
We offer for sale on private terms one fine Stallion YOUNG CANTON," a very superior and vigorous horse.
One COW.
Some Plows, Hoes and Gear.
One excellent Magnolia Light Draft Gin and Ball Press, both good as new.
Eleven or twelve hundred Acres of Land, part in wood (oak, hickory, &c.) and part freshly cleared and in cultivation. Will cut up into small tracts to suit purchasers.
Young CANTON will be sold to the HIGHEST BIDDER on Tuesday of the next term of Court a Pittsboro, unless previously sold.
T. W. HARRIS,
J. B. HARRIS.
Executors of T. B. Harris, Deceased.
March 8-tf

Williams & Haywood,
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN
Drugs, Medicines, Paints, Oils, Dye Stuffs, Perfumery,
Fancy Articles, Garden Seeds, Fine Teas, Spices, Flavoring Extracts
CIGARS, CHEWING TOBACCO &C.
Keep constantly on hand, at lowest market prices, White Lead, Putty, Kerosene Oil, Linseed Oil, Lamp Oil, Tanner's Oil, Window Glass, Varnish, &c., &c.
Dec. 21-tf.

PROGRESS THE WATCHWORD

Merit and Success H

Raleigh Christian Advocate.

Bobbitt & Gray, Publishers. | Published in the Interests of Methodism in North Carolina. | $2.20 Per Annum, in Advance.

Vol. XXI.---No. 16. | Raleigh, N. C., Wednesday, April 21, 1875. | Whole No. 1,054.

Selected Poetry.

Religion and Doctrine.

BY JOHN RAY.

He stood before the Sanhedrin;
The scowling priests gazed at him.
He reeked not of their praise or blame;
There was no fear, there was no shame,
For on him whose dazzled eyes
The whole world poured its vast surprise,
The open heaven was far too near,
His first day's light too sweet and clear,
To let him waste his new-gained ken
On the interdicted law of men.

But still they questioned, Who art thou?
What hast thou been? What art thou now?
Thou art not he who yesterday
Sat here and begged beside the way;
For he was blind.

And I am he.

For I was blind, but now I see.

He told the story o'er and o'er;
It was his full heart's only lore:
A prophet on the Sabbath-day
Had touched his sightless eyes with clay,
And made him see who had been blind,
Their words passed by him like the wind
Which raves and howls, but can not shock
The hut dredfathom-rooted rock.

Their lore is said, they all went wide;
They could not touch his Hebrew pride.
Their sneers at Jesus and his band,
Nameless and homeless in the land,
Their boasts of Moses and his Lord,
All could not change him by one word.

I know not what this man may be,
Sinner or saint; but as for me,
One thing I know, that I am he
Who once was blind, but now I see.

They were all at close of renown,
The great men of a famous town,
With deep brows wrinkled, proud, and wise
Beneath their wide phylacteries;
The wisdom he knew was theirs,
And honor crowned their shaven hairs,
The soul they jeered and laughed to scorn
Was theirs—a proud, and homely born;
But he knew better far than they
What came to him on Sabbath-day;
And what the Christ had done for him
He knew, and told the Sanhedrim.
—HARPER'S MAGAZINE FOR MAY.

Communicated.

For the Advocate.

HEATHEN SALVATION.

BY REV. E. A. YATES.

I address myself to some further elaboration of this subject, not because controversy is pleasant, or a supposed victory an element of rejoicing; but because the general interest awakened by the discussion has led many to solicit me, by letter and otherwise, to develop and finish off a theory, not which vanarice desires to be true," but which they believe to be clearly in accordance with God's word.

In Dr. Closs' reply to Bro. Brooks he uses the following strange language: "Your theory is the affirmative of a proposition, viz: That the heathen will be saved without a knowledge of the gospel. Mine is the negative of that proposition."—See Dr. C.'s last article but one.

Now, I cannot believe that Bro. Brooks ever wrote or affirmed any such strange, not to say nonsensical, proposition! And I am sure I never did. If Dr. Closs maintains "the negative" of such a proposition as that, he is fighting a shadow and maintaining an abstraction! And no ambiguity or sophistry shall prevent me from drawing out the kingbolt from the vehicle in which these good brethren have shipped their fundamental error. Bro. Robey's thesis was, I repeat, can the heathen be saved without the preached gospel? Not will they be saved, but can they. His logical mind has seen the fallacy of maintaining the negative of this; and he "grants" that they can be saved.—That's enough. That excludes Augustinianism, Hobbesism and Calvinism! And as to whether the heathen will be saved—will cultivate the Divine influence—will live up to the light they have—who can tell? Scripture certainly does not commit itself to the folly of stating it; and who has sufficient knowledge to determine such a question? Let those who maintain "the negative" of such a fruitless, shadowy proposition, study the characters of Plato, Socrates, Seneca, and Cornelius, and then answer. Seneca was a heathen who never heard of the gospel, and yet he wrote thus. "We do not find felicity in the veins of the earth, where we dig for gold; nor in the bottom of the sea, where we fish for pearls; but in a pure and untainted mind, which, if it were not holy, were not fit to enter in the Deity." I quote this specimen to show what kind of people are unceremoniously consigned to hell!

In this connection I quote from Dr. Watson: "We indeed know that all heathen are not equally vicious; nay, that some virtuous heathens have been found in all ages; and some earnest and anxious enquirers after truth; and that these were, the rest might have been likewise." Ins. vol. 2 p. 445.

I also quote from the words of Jesus. He was on His way to heal the sick servant of a Centurion—a heathen. This heathen expressed wonderful faith in Divine power, and Jesus said: "I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel. And I say unto you, That many shall come from the east and west, and shall sit down with Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, in the kingdom of heaven; but the children of the kingdom shall be cast out."—Matt. 8 11. Now this heathen, Christ teaches, was in a better state than many of the children of the kingdom, or those who had light and revelation. "Many from the east and west," yes, thank God, more of the heathen will be saved than many will admit; but they "shall come," nevertheless, and sit down in the home of the good!

Yet my excellent and venerable brother Closs maintains that all heathen will be lost—that millions upon millions of immortal souls, have been placed by God where most of them could never hear the gospel even if the church did more than its duty, and yet He will burn them in eternal fire!

Again: Watson, quoting Wesley, says: St. Paul "affirms that the Divine law had not perished wholly from among the heathen: that though they had received no revealed law, yet they had a law "written on their hearts," and that "though they had not the written law, they were capable of doing all the things contained in the law." Ins. Vol. 2 p. 446.

And again: "The possible obedience and possible justification of heathens who have no written revelation, are points therefore distinctly affirmed by the Apostle in his discussion in the second chapter to the Romans." Ins. Vol. 2 p. 446.

Again I quote Wesley—the same sermon from which Bro. Robey quotes—"Now God requireth of a heathen to believe that 'God is;' that He is the rewarder of them that diligently seek Him:' and that he is to be sought by glorifying Him as God, by giving Him thanks for all things, and by a careful practice of moral virtue, of justice, mercy and truth towards their fellow creatures."—Sermon 1st. "Requireth" all this "of the heathen," for what? Of course to save him! But, Mr. Wesley, somebody in North Carolina will charge you with Deism and Legalism!

One more passage from Dr. Clarke: "It is through his influence alone, (the Holy Spirit) that the Gentiles do the things contained in His own law; and it is not to be wondered at, that the work is the same, both in the law and in the heart, when it has proceeded from the same spirit. As he is no respecter of persons, all nations are equally dear to him and He has granted, and will grant to them such discoveries of Himself as have been, and will be, sufficient for their salvation." Com. vol. 6—Rom. 2 13. But, Dr. Clarke, in teaching that God can save the heathen by discovering himself to them otherwise than through the gospel, are you not a Deist?

Now, Dr. Closs intimates, with some caution, that the theory of Bro. Brooks and myself is not the doctrine of the Methodist Church through her standard authors. And the intimation will be taken as an argument by a few who think that age and infallibility are synonymous terms. I mean no offence to Dr. Closs. He is honest but mistaken. I have given the volume and page of these standard authors, and if space would permit, might have quoted from all to the same effect.—Will Dr. Closs re-investigate this point, and give us the volume and page where Wesley, Watson, Clarke, or any other "standards" of the Methodist Church, teach contrary to what I have quoted above? We don't want extracts that simply portray what are called "the corruptions of heathen nations," and which were written or preached for a purpose wholly different from the subject under consideration. We subscribe to most of what is said in such extracts; but they do not touch this subject.

Moreover, Dr. Closs seems to suppose that he achieves a sublime victory when he convicts Bro. Brooks of Deism and myself of Legalism. But has he yet to learn that the Arminian argument according to the above quotations, necessarily makes this precisely the ground of heathen salvation? Heathen that are saved by living in obedience to the 'law,' which our standard authors say, is 'written upon their hearts" according to St. Paul's teaching, are of course Deists or Legalists in that sense. But is it not as plain as common sense can make it, that the error and sin of Deism and Legalism can only exist in a gospel land where Christ is preached; and that it cannot possibly exist in a heathen land. The sin of Deism and Legalism is the rejection of Jesus Christ! The heathen do not reject Christ: for they never heard of him! Wesley, Watson and Clarke, as I have quoted them above, teach, as they affirm by Paul's authority, that the heathen can be saved by living up to the light they have, and obeying the "law written upon their hearts." Is that not "Legalism?" Of course it is; but not sinful because they do not reject the Bible and Christ; which rejection is absolutely necessary to constitute the sin of Legalism and Deism. And how plain it is, that a Theodicy is pitiful, not to say contemptible, which does not embrace in its sweep of universal provisions of grace, a variety in its unity of practical processes, suited to the varied wants of suffering humanity every where and at all times! Such a varied, unit plan is God's love through the prism of the Atonement!

That the heathen can be saved, and the presumptive probability that some of them are saved, by living, as Dr. Clarke says, according to the "DISCOVERIES which God has been pleased to make of Himself to them," and in obedience to the law which St. Paul says is "written upon their hearts," I think I have abundantly proved, 1st. By Scripture. 2nd. By the logic of the subject, and 3d. By our standard authors. I must refer the reader to my former articles.

Now, why send the gospel to the heathen? The reasons for it are Scriptural and Philosophical.

1. The gospel ought to be sent to the heathen, not because they are all lost without it, but because they are saved by it to a higher condition of salvation. No one who understands the subject doubts that there are degrees of happiness in heaven—that men are to "receive the things done in the body"—and be rewarded to a greater or less extent in proportion as they have been abundant or otherwise in good works. "I go to prepare a place for you" is a sweeping, grand truth. The place prepared for a child or an idiot is not as broad and high in its glorious provisions of knowing, and doing, and seeing, and singing, and shining, as the place prepared for the Christian Philosopher! So the place prepared for a heathen who has lived up to the light he has had, is not such a place as that prepared for Dr. Closs or Bro. Brooks. But by sending the heathen the gospel he can furnish the Saviour the materials for a place high up in the eternal home of the good. The Parables of the talents and the pounds, as well as numerous other passages of Scripture, teach this great truth.—And in this process of placing the heathen where they are, and saving some by a "law written on their hearts," and others by a gospel sent by the church, is seen the philosophy of God's glorious sovereignty in preserving the inequalities of position, so as to evolve the highest happiness from the reciprocal relation of giving and receiving good! Dr. Closs attempted to ridicule this position; but wisely abstained from an attempt to show its fallacy. It is one thing to ridicule, but quite another thing to reason.—Almost anybody can open shop on the capital of ridicule; but it requires an investment of a different kind of metal to maintain or refute by solid argument a clear and plain proposition.

2. The gospel ought to be sent to the heathen because, in addition to saving the soul, ten thousand temporal and eternal blessings follow in its train. It is alone by the teachings of Jesus that Woman is taken from the wretched condition of a slave and placed in her proper sphere. It was reserved for the Son of Mary to teach that woman, in her place of family and social equality, constitutes the highest human conservative power over virtue and civilized life! The electric telegraph, propulsion by steam, the invention of the printing press, the testimony of science to the truth of God's word, all sprang from a soil warmed by the Sun of Righteousness, and watered by the grace of the gospel. This is briefly an outline. Dr. Closs thinks this is contemptible as a consideration for the death of Christ. So it would be, if this were all. But this was only offered as a secondary reason for sending the gospel to the heathen.

3. The gospel ought to be sent to the heathen, because of the beneficial effect upon the heart of the sender.—Religion is love. Love sends the heart out to do good to others. Active love is the practical philosophy of the plan. "Come ye blessed of my Father." Why? "Because I (or mine) was hungry and you fed me—naked and you clothed me"—Jesus. But could not God have done all that? Yes, but it would have deprived the Christian's heart of the love-developing process. The heavenly profit of the act was not lodged in the food and its receiver; but in the desire and active communication of the giver.—'Preach the gospel to the heathen," and "visit the widows and fatherless in their affliction," are commands which of course have different effects objectively,—that is, upon the objects to be benefitted; but they are one and the same command in its more important subjective effect upon those who confer the benefit. The command is not given so much mainly to get relief to the widows and orphans, for God could carry that—and does carry it if we do not;—nor to get elements of salvation to the heathen, for God will attend to that—according to St. Paul; but the command is given that a developing process may be set in operation in the Christian's heart, transforming him into the "image of Christ from glory to glory."

1. I object to Dr. Closs' theory that all the heathen who have no knowledge of the gospel are damned, because its tendency is to damage Missionary collections. In a former article I used this language: "It is an axiomatic truth, that incentives and motives to action, become inoperative and lose force, in proportion as they are unreasonable and out of harmony with God's character." Now tell a man that God will damn all the heathen who fail of receiving the gospel from the church, and he will reply: "Very well: that is unreasonable, for many will die who cannot possibly be reached by the church, and the few that the church, doing its whole duty, will thus save by sending the gospel, are, to the great millions who are lost, as two grains of sand are to the Ocean's beach that winds around a world! It is therefore a useless expenditure of money; and I will give my ten dollars to the poor widow at my door." The only answer to this would be, "One soul is worth the world." Very true: but all men are not theologians, and are unable to see that point. But, on the other hand, tell men that the gospel saves the heathen to a higher salvation, which is philosophical and reasonable—that the untold blessings of civilized life follow the gospel as the flowers turn their blushing faces, and the fruits their russet cheeks, to the glorious sun—that sending the gospel develops the heart of the sender into the image of Christ and the glory of godliness; and this being reasonable and in harmony with God's character, they are moved to give, if anything will move them.

2. I object to the theory, because it indirectly charges God with folly! If the theory be true, then it follows that means have been devised by Infinite Wisdom to accomplish a work, which work could not possibly be reached by the means; unless all heathen people were a continuous, stereotyped class of humanity standing the same persons through the ages waiting until the church could get them the gospel. But millions of heathen are dying daily, and what, therefore, become of those who die necessarily beyond human power to get the gospel to them? If the church were to do more than its duty—take all it has and go in a body to heathen lands, still, millions would die without the gospel, simply because it would be impossible to reach but a small number, comparatively! If then, these that die beyond human power to get the gospel to them, have no "discoveries of God," as Dr. Clarke says—have no "law written upon their hearts" sufficient to save them—no ray of God's countenance through the prism of the Atonement to light them to a better world—they must be unconditionally lost! Hence, there being millions of heathen dying absolutely and necessarily beyond gospel reach, even if the church had done in the past, and were to do now, more than its acknowledged duty, it follows, that if Dr. Closs' theory be true, the means devised by God for saving the heathen are manifestly inadequate!

3. Lastly: I object to the theory, that all the heathen without the preached gospel are lost, because its tendency is to make infidels! Tell men that God is good and just, and that the Bible is His Revelation. Then tell them that the Bible teaches that God has created millions of human beings without their consent, placed them where He knew they would die before the gospel could possibly reach them, and thus depriving them of all means of escape, consigns them forever to a hell of chains and darkness and fire! And the inevitable conclusion is, either that God is not just, or the Bible is a falsehood!

For the Advocate.

MESSRS EDITORS: Thinking that you would like to hear from Sampson, I propose to give you a few stray thoughts. In the first place, you will please permit me to say that I think the Advocate is the best religious newspaper published in the State. As an advertising medium its wide circulation makes it equal to any and superior to many of our journals. Its reading matter is so well selected and arranged, that it is of paramount interest to every human being who has the least concern for the soul's salvation; being a good educator of both sexes, old and young. No family should be without it, the moral influence of its reading matter has a great tendency to elevate the mind and refine the manners. Instead of poring over trashy novels which poison the mind and is a great degree corrupt the manners of the young, why will they not read the Bible, Advocate and other religious works, discarding all books which contain immorality and some vainly claiming morality? I mention this because young people are too often deluded and led astray by the trashy novels which are, as it were, deluging the land. Such a course of reading has a decided tendency to incapacitate the mind for nobler pursuits, and trains it to erect air castles as watchless and injurious as any other vicious thoughts. A crusade against this wilful waste of time would, in my humble opinion, be an enterprising and praiseworthy cause for the religious to engage in. Let the Bible become a guide. We should read none but select works,—golden sheaves of knowledge, gathered from the chaff and bound by the reaping hand.

My humble domicile is within two and a half miles of Goshen M. E. Church which tradition says was first founded by the Hon. Wm. R. King's father, as far back as 1820; it was also known as King's Meeting House when it stood near the banks of Goshen Swamp, was afterwards moved to the present site a great many years prior to the war. Good, old, Uncle Daughtry planned and under his supervision a new Church was built in which two hundred and forty members now assemble to worship. Under the superintendence of judicious teachers, a flourishing Sunday School has been in operation several years doing a vast deal of good in various ways. But near this monument of Methodism a Catholic church rears its lofty roof skyward; some unwary Methodists have embraced the Romish belief—have vainly striven to convert their quondam brethren, boldly asserting that Romanism is the only true road to heaven; that Pope Pius IX is infallibly their only hope of absolution from sin, and that he is the God of their fathers.

Father Theiner, the recently deceased archivist of the Vatican, in the course of a correspondence which found its way into the Cologne Gazette, describes Pius IX as reading over and over, with unspeakable pleasure, a satire upon the doings at the Ecumenical Council, the Pontiff holding both his sides for laughter at its sallies. This, remarked Theiner, is quite characteristic of the man and paints him as he lives, moves, and has his being. He is a rare phenomenon. And this man is worshipped by people claiming to be the offspring of the Anglo-American race! If the Catholics in this locality would read the above paragraph, which is a sufficient description of the man, and also sufficent to sicken all meditative minds with involuntary disgust, would it not shake their faith in such a dangerous religious (?) belief?

The tornado of 20th March proved quite destructive in some portions of this county, but I believe no one was killed. A world largely represented by self righteous people need not be unduly astonished at any visitation of a sin avenging God. Who knows but this terrific storm was sent as a warning and a reminder that God reigns supreme and that he is only to be loved feared and obeyed? If we try to live as we wish to die all will be well. The recent inclement weather has retarded our farming operations, but at the present writing the weather is fine, pleasant and lovely. All nature is beginning to wear an aspect of unsurpassing beauty; the blooming of flowers and sweet carols of innumerable birds; the continued humming of insects and the lulling sounds of little rivulets, besides the buds of the trees are beginning to burst the ties which bind up their beauty and will soon array the forest and fields in the gorgeous habiliments of spring; such is superlative loveliness! amid all this sin is boldly stalking over the land. May a merciful Providence save us!

Farmers are at work right manfully and hope their labors will be crowned with success. Many wishes for the success of the cause of Methodism and the Advocate.

C.

The World for Christ.

BY BISHOP MARVIN.

I have been gratified to see so much space in our church papers of late given to the cause of missions. The situation is such as to cause actual alarm, and justify all the earnestness manifested by the secretaries and the board. The board has taken the precautions, indeed, against actual insolvency, but these precautions are of a nature that, if the necessity continues, must cast a blight upon our mission-fields, and by the reaction damage the spirit of the church at home. Even the missions already established must be abandoned or reduced to a mere cipher, unless our revenues can be augmented.

I fear there is widespread misapprehension of the facts as to the demands of our work. One of our most intelligent members, one who takes a real interest in missions, expressed great surprise to me the other day that our treasury should be at so low an ebb. Upon some conversation I found that my friend had some information as to the amount of money received by the board in the last year, and also understood about the extent of our operations in China and Mexico and among the Indians. The amount of money contributed seemed ample for the amount of work done. Indeed so it would be if these were our only fields. But in this case a large part of the field was overlooked. It was not understood that all the German work, and all the new territory in the illimitable West had to be supplied from the resources of the foreign board. The word foreign suggests that the work in charge of the board at Nashville is wholly among the heathen. Not so. It embraces all the new country where, if the church is established at all, it must be by missionary labor.

Take a map of the United States; look at that sweep of country that lies west of the State of Missouri; it is all new, and much of it very thinly inhabited. Most of the inhabitants are emigrants recently gone to a new country; they have not had time to accumulate property; they cannot support preachers, especially as the church is, as in all new countries, unorganized; so that the little wealth there is is difficult to reach for church purposes. The gospel must be sent to them from more favored regions, where the church is already organized and opulent. The board has never had one fourth part the amount of money needed to supply men of this field alone if all foreign work had been abandoned.

The deliberations of the board at its annual sessions, ever since the war, have been, for the most part, painful discussions of two questions: First, which of these fields before us, white to the harvest, shall be totally neglected; and, secondly, how little can those we determined to enter or maintain ourselves in, do upon? How nearly can we approximate nothing and yet keep the field? Instead of generous questions of enlargement, looking to the conquest of the world for Christ, we have had to look each other in the face and say: Which of these Macedonian calls shall we refuse, and how little must we do where we attempt any response? Sometimes I can but wish that every intelligent member of the church might be on the board of missions and get the near view of the crying needs of the work which would be brought to his eyes if he were in that relation to it.

There is only here and there a member of the church apparently alive to this subject. Here and there a poor woman devotes the chickens of one hen to God and his cause. God will greatly honor this painstaking love of his poor, and if there were only one-tenth part of all the poor of the church in this spirit it would swell the revenues of the board so as to set forward the work and cause angels to rejoice. But, alas! how few there are.

Indeed, so far is the membership of the church from being alive to the demands of the cause that it may well be considered doubtful if one in twenty of the preachers is so. Many of them certainly are wanting in any earnest sense of obligation.

It seems impossible that a man who has himself been saved from hell and sin, and who has heard the voice of his Redeemer saying to him. "Go into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature," should be indifferent to the missionary efforts of his church. Is it not cause of alarm as to the salvation of a man himself when he comes short of his highest effort to contribute to the salvation of others?

Enthusiasm for the conquest of the world by Christ is a mark of the genuine spirit of religion. How can a man who loves and adores Christ be unconcerned that, after the lapse of so many ages, a large part of the world is alien to him? Especially must the minister of Christ be an enthusiast for him. If an inspired indifference to the triumph of the gospel comes to mark the spirit of the very men called to preach the gospel, death is already at the heart of the church.

Can it be that there are pastors among us who are content to go through the official round of duties in a perfunctory way and get their own pay, and then go to Conference without a blush, reporting a mere trifle for missions? At the bar of God they will blush. One-half the preachers on fire with the spirit of devotion to Christ would bring about a glorious resolution in the church.

Let us wake out of sleep. The Son of God must conquer the earth. He will; but if we, as a grand division of the army of conquest, fail or fall back and become demoralized, we may check the onward movement; and, though we cannot bring final defeat, another will take our crown.

Enthusiasm for Christ! That is the crying need of the church—of our church to-day—the spirit of Wesley, the spirit of Paul, the spirit of the Master!

The World for Christ! May this become our watchword. The World for Christ! Shame upon every laggard in the host! Do something! Go—or if you cannot go, give. Go or send.—Nashville Christian Advocate.

What is Believing?

BY HORATIUS BONAR, D. D.

'He that believeth is justified from all things,' we repeated, slowly and fully, in the ears of an inquirer.

'Are not these the words of God?'

'Yes, but I am none the better for them.'

'How is that?'

'I don't know.'

'Are the words true words?'

'Yes.'

'Did God mean just what he said when using them?'

'Yes, certainly.'

'Are we to take the words in their simple and ordinary sense?'

'Of course we are.'

'Are you doing so?'

'I hope I am.'

'Let us see; for, if you are, I don't understand why you should still remain burdened and troubled.'

'But what am I to do?'

'Do? Do the words mention doing?'

'No; they speak of believing.'

'Anything else?'

'No; just believing.'

'If God had meant anything more, would he not have said it? Would he not have used another word to prevent mistakes? Did he not use the most exact and suitable word?'

"Undoubtedly. But how does that bear upon my case?'

'We shall see. But keep in mind that God used the world believeth just because he meant believeth, and did not wish you to be mystified. He used two words in this passage (Acts xiii, 39,) 'believe' and 'justify,' and he used them both in their usual sense; for if 'believe' does not mean believe,' then 'justify, does not mean 'justify.'

'Am I, then, to take faith and believing just in their usual meaning, as when they are applied to the things of man?'

'Of course; for God takes our common words, and applies them to the things of God, just that we may know his meaning thoroughly. We think that we must add something to them when we use our common words in connection with religious things; whereas God wishes us just to understand them always in their usual sense.'

'Does believing, then, just mean believing?'

'It does; and if you take it as meaning anything else you corrupt the words of God, and prevent your getting the benefit of his gracious words.'

'Is my believing what a friend writes to me the same as my believing what God writes to me?'

'It is. And now let me apply this to the passage referred to a little while ago. You admit that God says: 'He that believeth is justified from all things."

'Yes; it is written so.'

'But is it true?'

'It must be so.'

'Why?'

'Because God has said it.'

'Then you believe the statement on the authority of God himself?'

'I do.'

'Well, he says: 'He that believeth is justified,' and you say, 'I believe, but I am not justified. Is that the case?'

'No exactly. What I say is: 'I believe, but I am not sure whether I am justified."

'But in as far as God's statement here is concerned, that comes to the same thing; for he has said that he that believeth is justified. So that you must either say, 'I don't believe, and therefore I am not justified,' or, 'I believe, and therefore I am justified."

'Yes; I see that is the alternative.'

'Well, which are you to say? Are you to consent to what God says, and come to the conclusion at once, 'I believe, and therefore I am justified,' or to contradict God, and say, 'I believe, but I am not justified,' or, 'I believe, but I don't know whether I am justified or not?"

'I cannot but consent to what God says. I dare not contradict him. I dare not separate what he has joined together. It is God that says that 'he that believeth is justified;' who am I that I should say, 'I believe, but I am not justified?"

'Is not this, then, the loosing of your bonds?'

'It is. On God's authority I am assured that 'he who believeth is justified.' I believe, and so I must come to the sure conclusion that I am justified.'

'Do not, then, separate what God has joined together—believing and being justified. Remember that the believing man is the justified man.'

'Have feelings, then, nothing to do with my justification?'

'Certainly not; else God would have said: 'Being justified by feeling, we have peace with God."

'Has regeneration nothing to do with my justification?'

'Not, certainly, in the sense of procuring it; else it would have been said: 'Being justified by regeneration, we have peace with God.'

'I see it. In believing I am justified, and God uses the word believing with the common meaning which I as a man attach to it every day in common things.'

'Yes; such is the simplicity of God. Such is the simplicity of all his words, especially of those words on which our salvation hangs.'

A Solemn and Serious Matter.

A Californian, named Aborns published the following card in a San Jose paper:

"NOTICE.

All persons are hereby warned not to trust Mary E. Aborns, (my wife,) as she has left my bed and board without just cause or provocation, and I will not pay any bill contracted by her from and after this date.

JOHN ABORNS.

San Jose, Feb. 6, 1875."

The wife's reply to this notification is so entirely unique that we give it prominence. Such a calculation of matrimonial slavery we have never seen before and never expect to see again; but as something original and pathetic, in the way of connubial mathematics, it deserves all the notoriety possible for the benefit of all whom it may concern. Here is the document:

"Why am I thus published to the world? and what human being on earth has the right to do it?" Let us look at the facts. I have been the wife of John Aborns for about ten years, and lived with him during the whole of that time—the prime of my life. That makes 3,650 days. During that time I have cooked about ten thousand meal of victuals, set the table as many times, and cleared it off and washed the dishes. During the ten years, I have spent between ten and fifteen thousand hours over a hot cook stove, both in Summer and Winter. I have cleaned up and swept the house for him over ten thousand times. During those ten years I have borne to him six children, five of them now living, the youngest two and a half years old. Besides the pains and accidents incident to childbirth (which every mother knows,) what steps, cares and troubles (to say nothing of the sickness and anxious thoughts of my children) it has cost me to bring them up it is impossible for me to say; every mother knows it better than she can possibly tell it. In addition to that, I have made all their clothing (besides my own,) and during that time I have also made clothing and done sewing for others for money, which went into the "community" funds; that is, as I understand it, all the property made by the husband and wife is community property, but in reality belongs to the husband, and it is called in law "community property," to take off the sharp edge of injustice. More than that, during these ten years I have milked, on an average, three cows twice a day, which will make about seven thousand milkings, besides taking care of the milk and making butter from it. I have during the whole of that time, attended to the poultry, and often have assisted Mr. Aborns in loading hay, sewing sacks, and even cleaning out his stable. Now, I have drawn the picture very mildly. I have made allowances for my sicknesses, when I have had help, something after the way that a farmer would hire a horse, if his own was sick and unable to work. I had nothing when I went there, and nothing at the end of those ten years of servitude. I had lived, it is true, and was very moderately furnished with clothing. This is all for my labor. What man is there in the world that would do the work I have done for the same compensation? I make this statement, not out of any feeling of revenge to Mr Aborns, for he has done only what hundreds of others would have done. In many respects he is a good man; industrious, and, like hundreds—yea thousands—of others, honest with everybody except his own family. I choose to live with him no longer; my reasons are my own. And I say again, what right has he to impair my credit by publishing me? In the name of all that is just I solemnly protest against it. MARY E. ABORNS."

The bitterest thing, and no doubt the most truthful, in the above protest is the statement that the man was "honest with everybody except his own family." And that very lack stamps him as a brute of the first (muddy) water, whose published word cannot discredit a wife so abundantly able to answer his card.

I HAVE no hesitation in attributing a very large proportion of some of the most painful and dangerous maladies which come under my notice, as well as those which every medical man has to treat, to the ordinary and daily use of fermented drink taken in the quantity which is conventionally deemed moderate.—Sir Henry Thompson.

ONE may live as a conqueror or a king or a magistrate; but he must die a man. The bed of death brings every human being to his pure individuality, to the intense contemplation of that deepest and most solemn of all relations between the creature and Creator.—Webster.

The Christian Advocate.

OFFICE—Corner of Dawson & Hargett Sts

THE ORGAN
OF THE
NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE
OF THE
M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

Rev. J. W. Hinsdale, } Editors.
R. T. Gray, Esq. }

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

PER ONE YEAR, IN ADVANCE, POSTAGE PAID, $2.50
SIX MONTHS, " " 1.35
If payment be delayed six months, 2.70

All letters on business with this office should be addressed to the Editors of the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

RALEIGH, N. C., APRIL 21, 1875.

The Cross (X) Mark is to remind you that your subscription has expired. Let all renew promptly.

The brethren at Wilson Station and Craven Circuit will notice the change in time of holding their Quarterly Conference.

Rev. Sol. W. Wescott, a Baptist minister of Chapel Hill, formerly of Smithville, died in the former place last week. He was a highly esteemed and much loved minister, talented and pious.

The Southern Christian Advocate announces the death of Rev. J. Scaife, formerly of the Georgia Conference, but more recently of the Alabama Conference, which occurred at Camille, Ga. on the 6th inst.

Rev Dr. Lovick Pierce, in the last Southern Christian Advocate, corrects a mistake that appeared in his Birthday Letter published in that paper. From the published letter, it appeared that he requested his brethren to pray that he "might spend his ninety-second birthday in heaven." He says:

"It would have been very unbecoming in me, and certainly a great strain on my brethren to go to praying that I may die in my 91st year: which must be, if I spend my 92d birthday in heaven. The favor I asked was that if my heavenly Father removed me from earth before my ninety-second birthday here, I might have it in heaven. It must be corrected. It has already excited great surprise.—No, my brethren beloved, I only ask you to pray that when my birthdays end on earth, I may begin my new series in heaven."

THE GREAT REVIVAL.—The revival at Person Street Church of this city continues without any abatement of interest. There have been about one hundred and fifty conversions and a large number of accessions to the church. Bro. Jurney, the pastor of this charge, will give a full account of the meeting after it shall have closed. The indications, at present, are that it will continue for weeks yet to come.—It is, in many respects, the most remarkable revival of God's work we have ever witnessed. Bro. Willis, who has been assisting in the meeting, has greatly endeared himself to the good people of Raleigh by his untiring devotion to this great work.

Again we appeal to our patrons to aid in the enlargement of this church. The people of this charge are limited in means. They have done all they are able to do. Our brethren of Edenton Street have contributed freely, but they too are struggling to build a new church. Other denominations of the city say they have about all they can do to meet the demands upon them from their own churches. It will cost 2,500 or 3,000 dollars to complete the improvements on the church which are now about half finished. When completed it will be one of the neatest church edifices in the city. We feel assured that if our friends outside of Raleigh knew the real claim this charge has upon them they would send in their contributions without delay. Our proposition to subscribers to send $1 each, is being responded to by some. Of course there are many who can send us much larger amounts. Let all help according to their ability. If you cannot send a dollar, send any amount you may feel disposed to contribute. Give something.

Rev J. Claudius Miller, a venerable and devoted minister of the S. C. Conference, was murdered in Union Co., S. C., on the 3d inst. by a highway robber. A correspondent of the Southern Christian Advocate says:

"He was murdered by a highway robber, a few miles south of this place about 11 o'clock in the day, and his body was found lying across the road dead, yet warm, with two bullet holes in the breast. He had been to Santuc, (depot and post office) and returning to his home had gotten within about a quarter of a mile of the house, when he was assaulted and killed. His overcoat, hat, watch, and pocket book, had been taken when his body was discovered, and his horse was also gone, but strange to say, the faithful animal came back to the body of his owner."

A strange negro who had been seen following him was suspected of the fiendish deed and a description of him having been telegraphed to various towns, he was arrested in Spartanburg and the overcoat, watch and hat of the murdered minister found upon his person. He was lodged in jail and awaits his trial in June. It was with difficulty that the indignant and outraged citizens were restrained from inflicting the punishment that his crime deserved and which the courts hold in store for him.

Christian Activity.

An unfailing condition of growth and vigor in all things is activity. In spiritual things it is so, as well as in mind and matter. Sloth enervates, deadens, destroys whatever it attacks. Without exercise the body becomes frail, the cheek wan and the life force faint. Unemployed, the mental faculties dwindle in power and shrink into imbecility. Moral ideas and feelings lose their force and influence on life and character unless they are kept prominent and active. Nor can the christian virtues and graces grow in strength and influence unless they are cultivated and kept in constant use and exercise. If our moral and mental machinery is long disused, its operation becomes difficult—and the accumulating rust and dust do greater hurt than its continuous use. Inaction debilitates more minds and destroys more souls than the wear and tear of a life time's service.

Regeneration is the starting point of a christian's career—sanctification is far ahead. He must grow in grace before he can reach the full stature of the godly man, or attain to the perfection which is his goal; and to grow in grace there must be constant exercise of the gifts of the Spirit and activity in the christian service. When a man is convicted of sin, truly repents of it, and experiences the sense of pardon, he ought to rejoice, for much is done toward his salvation; but he ought not to rest and delude himself with the idea that his salvation is secure and his christian character complete. His new life has then just begun—the germ has just appeared—and its development is a work of the future.

Some persons think that when they unite themselves with the visible church they have nothing further to do than to attend the services, engage in the ordinances, pay their quarterly stipend to the preacher and make their way to heaven "on flowery beds of ease" They do not realize that they have enlisted in a service whose chief feature is campaigning—active aggressive warfare—and not garrison duty. And unless they realize the true nature of their calling and appreciate its demands upon them they are apt to prove inefficient soldiers, and sluggards in battle, if not recreant cowards.

He is a wise minister who takes care that every member of his charge shall have something to do—something, in important or humble capacity, that will produce activity and keep the christian energies in full play. Individual piety will increase with the individual zeal and the aggregate benefits to the Church will be incalculable. The performance of christian work does good not only objectively, but subjectively:—a deed of love—an act of benevolence—not only carries joy and comfort to the beneficiary, but by a reflex influence softens and purifies the heart of the doer: an active endeavor to enlist others into the service of the Lord, stimulates the zeal, increases the loyalty and strengthens the faith of the christian. One reason for the great number of backsliding and lukewarm professors of religion is found in the fact that they are not put to work, in some capacity, in the church. The demand for workers is abundant—the fields are ample and cry out continually for laborers. The Sunday school the prayer meeting, the class-meeting, the choir, the sowing society and other benevolent organizations connected with the church, the church extension society, the official Board and other departments of the church—all afford place and scope for christian activity and zeal "Go work in my vineyard" is the injunction which the great Head of the Church imposes upon his followers—not only because the vineyard, with its broad untilled acres, needs their labor, but also because they themselves stand in need of exercise, activity and development. It is not enough to enter the vineyard,—there is work for all and it must be performed. Idleness in the church is as ruinous to the christian's welfare and progress, as it is in business life to the farmer, artisan, or professional worker. Satan regards his victory won when he sees the christian let fall his implements of labor and weapons of warfare, fold his arms and look listlessly upon his unfinished duties.

Revival Intelligence.

From all parts of the church we continue to learn of seasons of refreshing from the presence of the Lord. The Spirit is demonstrating its work and power in an unusual degree—sinners are being saved and lukewarm christians revived.

From the Southern Christian Advocate we learn of the work in Georgia. In Oxford, Ga., a great revival has been in progress. Dr. O L. Smith writing of it says: "I have witnessed no work for years that had about it more evidences of a genuine work of grace."

Rev. R. W. Bigham writes that Augusta, Ga. is being visited with a time of refreshing from the presence of the Lord, resulting to date, as far as ascertained, in the conversion of 240 souls. The divine work first demonstrated in the meetings of the Young Men's Christian Association, and is permeating the Churches. The Baptist Churches and the Presbyterian have shared largely in accessions; while St. John's, the fountain of Methodism in the city, has been stirred and freshened by the quickening Spirit, and 35 members added; and Asbury's altar is thronged daily with worshipers revived, and souls seeking and finding God. Their pastors, brothers Evans and Kimball, are full of labors and loving faith."

An Appeal.

To the Ministers and Members of the M. E. Church, South, in the N. C. Conference, and especially those living in the bounds of the Shelby District—DEAR BRETHREN: Please hear our case. Please heed our appeal.—Our people in the town of Dallas are few—only 10 male members. We had no house of worship. We were compelled to build or fail We could not afford to fail. Failure is not in our vocabulary. We urged the absolute necessity of building, upon our people. They saw and deeply felt this necessity.

Col. W. G. Morris and J. F. Long, two noble, enterprising men, in very moderate circumstances, became personally responsible for the cost of the church. The church, a neat wooden building, has been erected. It cost $800. What these men paid themselves and raised by subscription only amounted to $500. The people of Dallas and the community have done nobly. We are $300 in debt. The little property of these two noble men is bound for this amount. We earnestly ask our brethren abroad to give us $300. ONLY $300.

Any amount will be gratefully received.

Who will give us $10 or $5 or $1.

If 30 men will give us $10 each, that will pay the debt. Or if 60 men will give $5 each, that will relieve these dear brethren. Or if 300 will give us $1 that will do.

Dear brethren and friends, don't throw this appeal aside and say you can't. Pray over this matter—and may God open your hearts to help the needy. We would not ask you to help if we could get along without it.

Send the money and send it speedily, to Rev. P. F. W. Stamey, Dallas, Gaston co., N. C. He will publish a list of all amounts in the Advocate.

Signed,

P. F. W. STAMEY,
L. S. BURKHEAD.

April 10th, 1875.

Sunday School Conferences.

The District Conferences being about to assemble in various parts of the State and the N. C. Conference Sunday School Society to hold its annual session in Greensboro soon, we deem it a proper time to call the attention of these bodies to a matter which was proposed at the last District Conference for the Wilmington District, being in the form of a report from the committee on Sunday Schools. The following is the report.

The Chairman submitted the report on Sunday Schools, with the following resolutions:

Resolved, That we recommend to the Sunday Schools in this district to form Sunday School Conferences in each county, on the following basis: The Conferences to be composed of the Superintendents and four teachers from each school, as delegates, the Pastors of the churches, and such other members as they may elect, with one Corresponding Secretary in each school, to be selected annually, in such manner as the Conferences, by their by-laws, may decide. The Conferences to meet at such places annually as they may select, the time to be appointed by the President, Vice President, and Secretary.

The Conferences to take into consideration at their annual session, such subjects as may be for the best interests of the Sunday School cause, to compare methods of teaching, ascertain what books are best for teaching and libraries, devise plans for raising money, and discuss all questions calculated to promote the cause of Sunday Schools.

Resolved, That the Conferences invite such preachers and speakers to meet with them as have given the subject their attention, and who may be able to give interest to the occasion by sermons, speeches and exhortation.

That if any school shall be situated in a county which has no Sunday School Conference it shall be at liberty to connect itself with the nearest Conference.

That for the purpose of perfecting the organization during the next Conference year, the preachers in charge of the church at the county site of each other county, and the preacher in charge of Front Street Church for New Hanover county be empowered to call the first Sunday School Conference together and organize them for business."

It will be seen from this report that the plan is to form in each county a Sunday School Conference, for mutual improvement and the general advancement of the Sunday Schools. Now this does not propose to make it a Circuit Conference, because the Quarterly Conference already has authority, but to extend its influence so as to bring into the County Conference all the pastors and all the schools in a county and thus make the body one of sufficient dignity and importance to exercise an extended influence for the cause as well as to increase the general funds by organizing plans for that purpose and to secure such speakers and lecturers as shall press the value of the movement home upon the minds of the people.

We have not time to discuss the merits of the plan fully. We know it will work as well in North Carolina as it does in other States, and that these County Conferences will be valuable adjuncts to the N. C. Conference Sunday School Society, and probably be the means of insuring a fuller attendance at the meetings of that body, by appointing regular delegates and alternates.

Let the matter be carefully considered by all the District Conferences, &c.

A.

How to meet a man of doubtful credit—take no note of him.

An Act to Incorporate the Widows' and Orphans' Benefit Society of the North Carolina Conference, M. E. Church, South.

SEC. 1. The General Assembly of North Carolina do enact, that Rev. T. M. Jones, D.D., Dr. S. G. Ward, J. Baxton Williams, H. B. Hunter, John M. Brame, Col. W. S. Davis, Wm. J. Norwood, T. C. Williams, B. F. Long, Dr. J. J. Garrett, John W. Hays, George S. Cole, W. D. Roumtree, O. W. Carr, E. J. Lilly, J. W. Leak, James Southgate and J. C. Pinnix, their associates and successors are hereby declared a body politic and corporate under the name and style of "The Widows and Orphans' Benefit Society of the North Carolina Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, South," and by that name and style, shall have perpetual succession and a common seal, and be capable in law, of suing and being impleaded, and may hold property, real and personal, to an amount, not exceeding three hundred thousand dollars.

SEC. 2. The corporate powers of said Society shall be vested in, and exercised by a Board of Directors and such officers as the Board of Directors may appoint, and empower.

SEC. 3 The Board of Directors shall consist of not less than twelve nor more than thirty members, who shall be elected by the Society at its annual meetings, five of whom shall constitute a quorum.

SEC. 4. The said corporation shall have power to make such By-laws, Rules and Regulations for its government and the management and disposition of its funds, as from to time may be deemed proper.

SEC. 5. Until the Society is regularly organized under this charter, and elections regularly held, the following persons shall be, and are constituted the Board of Directors, Rev. T. M Jones D.D., Dr. S. G. Ward, J. Baxton Williams, John M. Brame, Col. Wm. S. Davis, Wm. J. Norwood, T. C. Williams, B. F. Long, E. J. Lilly, Col. J. W. Leak, Dr. J. J. Garrett, and W. D. Rountree, and the officers of the Society shall be a President, Vice-President, Secretary, Financial Secretary and Treasurer, who shall be the following persons, viz: Rev. T. M. Jones D.D., President, Dr. S. G. Ward Vice President, B F Long Secretary, T. C. Williams Financial Secretary, Wm J. Norwood Treasurer—and the Treasurer shall be required to give bond at each annual meeting in such an amount as may be required by the Board of Directors, and shall receive such pay as said Board of Directors may allow.

SEC. 6 The said corporation shall have power to receive subscriptions in money or donations by will, or otherwise, of real or personal property, and invest or otherwise dispose of, and use the same, for the promotion of the objects of said corporation.

SEC. 7. That any note given for subscription to the funds of said Society shall be considered as for value received, and the collection thereof may be enforced by law.

SEC. 8 That said corporation shall be located at Warrenton N. C. but its annual meetings may be held at any time and place said Society may direct.

SEC. 9. The Directors and officers of said Society shall hold until their successors are appointed and enter upon the duties of their office.

SEC 10. This Act shall be in force from and after its passage.

In General Assembly, read three times, and ratified the 4th day of March 1875.

BY LAWS.

SEC. 1 The object of this Society shall be to raise money, to be applied as herein after provided, for the benefit of the Widows and Orphans of the ministers of the North Carolina Conference, who may here after die, said ministers having been members of this Society at the time of their death and also for the benefit of indigent ministers who were members of this Society at the time they became indigent.

SEC. 2. Any person may become a member of this Society by the payment of one dollar annually, or a life member by the payment of ten dollars at one time.

SEC. 3. The Society at its annual meetings may apply for the purposes mentioned in Sec. 1. any amount not exceeding one half of its receipts from dues of annual members, together with the interest from investments.

SEC. 4 One half of the receipts from annual members together with all other funds, or property of any kind received by this Society shall be applied for the creation of a permanent fund, which shall be kept safely invested.

SEC. 5. The Secretary of the Society shall appoint one or more Corresponding Secretaries on each pastoral charge, whose duty it shall be to solicit members, receive their dues, and also donations of any kind, transmitting the same, together with the names of ministers who become members, also the names of all life members, to the Financial Secretary, keeping a correct record of members, and of all monies, or other property received and transmitted.

SEC 6. The officers of the Society shall perform the duties usually appertaining to their respective offices, and they shall constitute an executive board under whose direction the Treasurer shall invest the funds of the Society.

SEC. 7. The Secretary, Treasurer, Financial Secretary and Corresponding Secretaries shall make a report, to the Society at its annual meetings.

Newbern District Conference.

The Newbern District Conference will begin its session at Mt. Olive the 6th of May, Thursday morning at 9 o'clock. The opening sermon will be preached on Wednesday night, by Rev. Jas. Willson of Kinston.

The A. & N. C. Railroad and the W. & W. Railroad will pass Delegates and visitors for one fare.

Brethren outside the District are cordially invited.

E. A. YATES, P. E.

Bishop Kavanaugh of the M. E. Church South has accepted the invitation of the graduating class to deliver the commencement address at the coming anniversary of the School of Theology at Boston University, May 26th.

MESSRS EDITORS: I will hope you a few lines to let you hear from us [illegible] your hearts are soft, and the refreshing showers of divine [illegible] upon your fr[illegible] still falling, and full doubtless rejoice with us in our joy, and sympathise with us in our sorrows.

You would have heard from me long ago, but for the extreme illness of my wife, who has been for nearly three months requiring my attention at her bed-side, with the exception of just enough time to get to my appointments and return; but I am glad to say she is better.

Bro. Raven has had a fine work at Washington. He commenced a series of meetings to include his first quarterly Conference, and kept it up with unflagging energy for nearly five weeks. I never saw a clearer evidence of the Spirit's presence. The attendance upon every service was large, and there were no dull meetings. Between thirty five and forty were converted, thirty five have been received into the church, and others are expected to unite with us. The Lord is visiting his people here as well as with you. Last year we thought we had seen great things; may we not hope for an hundred fold more this year?

I have not been able to protract yet for reasons above stated; but my charge is in good condition. I have not forgtten the Advocate, and will send you some subscribers &c., soon.

More anon,

L. L NASH.

Washington N. C., April 8th 1875.

MESSRS. EDITORS: I enclose you a copy of the Charter and By-Laws of the Widows' and Orphans' Benefit Society, which please publish in the Advocate. Every reader is requested to preserve the copy in which they are published for future reference. I desire to say through you, to ministers and members throughout the Conference, that we are now sending out books of blank certificates, and we hope those who receive them will go to work at once soliciting members. In many instances we send the books to preachers because we have not been furnished with the names of persons to appoint as Corresponding Secretaries; each preacher receiving one will place it in the hands of a proper person to represent the Society in his charge. Very often a lady may be appointed, greatly to the advantage of the Society.

In every case, where the preacher is willing to work, we will gladly furnish him with a book. And we think every one ought to be willing, for Brethren, while we are determined to run it, even though it be to a large extent without you, at the same time we can do vastly better with you. Every minister ought at once to become a member, and I think it best for each to become a life member. This will save the trouble of annual payments, and give a fine set off to the enterprise. We desire to impress upon every corresponding Secretary the propriety of urging the life membership feature. Now brethren go to work. And let us see which shall be the banner charge when the reports are read out at Conference.

Very truly,

T. C. WILLIAMS,
Financial Secretary.

Programme for meeting of the North Carolina Conference Sunday school Society to be held in Greensboro on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, April 30th and May 1st and 2d, 1875:

Friday April 30th.

10.30 A. M., Meeting of the Society.
11.00 " Address of Welcome by Rev. T. M. Jones, D. D.
11.30 " Subject for discussion, "What is a Sunday school?" A. H. Merritt, Esq.
12.30 P. M., Subject for discussion, "What books should constitute the Sunday school Library?"
3.30 P. M., Meeting of the Society.—Subject for discussion.—"Who shall attend Sunday school?" Rev. M. V. Sherrill.
4.30 P. M, Subject for discussion—"How shall we increase the spirituality and religious efficiency of the Sunday school?"
7.30 P. M, Opening sermon. By Rev. W. C. Norman. Subject: Filling the Mission assigned us."

Saturday May 1st.

10 to 11 A M, Meeting of the Society and election of Officers.
11.00 A. M., Address by Rev. J. J. Renn. Subject—"The demands of the Sunday-school for the best talent of the church."
12.00 M., Subject for discussion—"The use of the Blackboard in Sunday schools." By Prof. O. W. Carr of Trinity College.
1.00 P. M., Subject for discussion—"The Teachers' outside work."
7.30 P. M., Address by Rev. J. R. Brooks. Subject "The importance and reward of Sunday-school work."

Sunday, May 2nd.

11 00 A. M., Sermon by Rev. L. S. Burkhead, D. D. Subject: "Advantages of Early Piety."
3.00 P. M., Sunday school Concert—By the Greensboro Sunday School.
7.30 P. M., Sermon—by Rev. E. A. Yates. Subject—"The object of all Sunday school instruction."

There is a great demand for the Bible and New Testament in Russia than can be supplied. An edition of 10,000 Testaments has been disposed of, and another in the press.

Religious Brevities.

Nearly a thousand conversions have already been the immediate and more remote results of a revival of religion at St. Johnsbury, Vt., under the united labors of the Evangelical Churches of the place.

The Wesleyan brethren in London are cordially aiding Messrs. Moody and Sankey in their good work. Revs. Gervase Smith, Marmaduke Miller, and others, are prominent in the devotional services.

Within less than fifty years, through the influence of Methodist missions, the Fijians, inhabited by ferocious cannibals, have been transformed into the abode of civilized and Christian people, with churches, schools, various industries, and equal laws, and at last have become a Colony of Great Britain, population from 150,000 to 200,000.

A CATHOLIC association has been formed in Paris, the members of which bind themselves not to buy, sell, work, or cause work to be done by others on Sunday.

THE Reformed Episcopal Church grows slowly. A fourth church has been organized in Chicago, and a third in Philadelphia. A provisional organization has been effected of a church in Baltimore.

THE Pope has issued another encyclical. It denounces Germany and seeks to comfort the ousted bishops in that country. It also excommunicates members of the clergy who accept benefices from the State.

AN ILLUSTRIOUS CONVERT.—The Russian Bishop of Irkutsk, in eastern Siberia, has converted to Christianity a Buddhist Llama priest, who is inferior in rank and importance only to the Grand Llama himself.

THE Cambridge University Union has by a large majority declared that, by his recent pamphlet on the Vatican decrees, Mr. Gladstone has strengthened the political position of Great Britain and the cause of civil and national independence, and deserves the thanks of the country.

THE Rev. Dr. Tarbell, of Lynn, Massachusetts, has been appointed medical missionary to Kiu Kiang, China. We hear also of the appointment of the Rev. Thomas McClintock, of Baltimore, to Buenos Ayres, South America, and of a Mr. Lounsbury, formerly of Bethel, Connecticut, to Bulgaria.

The Pope understands the value of having newspapers devoted to his interest, for, according to a statement made by an Irish Roman Catholic journal, he has issued orders to the apostolic treasury to spend £7,200 more this year than was expended last "on the establishment and extension of Catholic newspapers." How much money was devoted to this object last year is not mentioned.

THE Wesleyan Missionary Society has met with a severe loss in the death of Rev. Luke Wiseman, one of the general secretaries of the association. Dr. Wiseman was an able administrator, and his reports on mission work were always marked with a calm and clear judgment. He died at Islington, England, February 10, in the fifty-fifth year of his age.

THE Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church of the South has just entered upon the work of foreign missions. On January 27 a missionary meeting was held in Due West, South Carolina, the ecclesiastical capital of the denomination, to bid farewell to its first foreign missionary, Miss M. E. Galloway, who goes to Egypt.

THE English Liberation Society have begun the year's operations in favor of disestablishment by inviting the members of Parliament to a soirce. This is to be followed by a special course of lectures to be delivered on the first four Mondays in March, the lecturers being the Rev. J. B. Heard, the Rev. Marmaduke Miller, Mr. Thorold Rogers, of Oxford, and the Rev. J. G. Rogers.

Bro. Kennedy says of the revival in Macon: At the close of the third week, the special week of grace mentioned in these columns, not only presents no indications of declension, but is manifestly increasing in range and power. The genuineness of the work is demonstrated by many infallible marks, and the hearts of the prayerful are buoyant with hope of still more glorious results. Special daily services are being held in the Baptist and Presbyterian Churches, as we learn, under encouraging auspices. Bro. Simmons continues his meeting at Jones' Chapel with growing interest, and during the past week has had numerous and valuable accessions to his membership. At Mulberry St. Bro. Wright is abundant in labors, which are joyously performed under the inspiration of most signal proofs of the divine favor. The double daily services of the past week have been crowned with blessed results. More than a score of additions have been made to the membership during that period, running the aggregate during the meeting to between sixty and seventy; while we do not know that there has been a single service that has not had the seal of divine approval which the conversion of souls affords. These services will be continued through the coming week, and much longer, we doubt not. The meeting is free from everything that even the most fastidious would charge with extravagance, and yet from day to day there are seasons in which the hearts of God's people are "filled unutterably full of glory and of God."

Bishop Keener returned from quite an extended trip in Alabama, on Tuesday morning, April 6. In our next issue he will give us some account of what he saw, and of the state of the church and country. The Bishop dedicated the new church at Enfaula, on Sunday morning, April 4.—New Orleans Advocate.

Recent Publications.

THE SOUTHERN REVIEW. A. T. Bledsoe, L.L.D, Editor, Mrs. S. Bledsoe Herrick, Associate Editor, Baltimore: Bledsoe & Herrick, 34 Metcalf St. $5.00 a year, ministers, $4.00.

The publication of this excellent Review has been moved from St. Louis to Baltimore, from which place it is more promptly delivered. We have received the April number and find that it contains a variety of contents. Having just received it, we have not had opportunity to read the various articles, but the following table shows the richness of the contents: Much more space than usual is devoted to Book Notices, which Dr. Bledsoe always makes interesting. The Idea of God; The Chinese; American Church Music; The Test of Prayer; The Court of George II; Bulwer's Last Works; The Republics of Ants; The Relation of the Will to the Feelings; The Clouds; Notices of Books.

THE METHODIST QUARTERLY REVIEW. D. D. Whedon, L. L. D., Editor, New York: Nelson & Phillips, 805 Broadway. $2.50 a year.

The April number contains the following articles: Ralph Waldo Emerson; The First year of our Mexican Mission; Egypt and the Pentateuch; Protestantism and Romanism Contrasted; Motley and the Netherlands; Missionary Conferences; Passage of Israel Through the Red Sea.

Harper's Magazine for May contains a profusely illustrated and well written account of the Concord fight the Frederic Hudson, which will be welcome reading to thousands at this time. Among its other contents will be found articles on "American Humor," by the Hon S. S. Cox: "The Stone Age in Europe," by Prof. Chas. Rau; and "The First Century of the Republic—Agricultural Progress," by Prof. W. H. Brewer; besides poems by John Hay and others. It is a model number.

FAMILY PRAYERS, FOR MORNING AND EVENING SERVICE, and for SPECIAL OCCASIONS.

Prepared and arranged by Rev. J. W. Wellons, Franklinton N. C. Published by Sherwood & Co., Balt.

Rev. Mr. Wellons is a worthy minister of the Methodist Protestant Church and has done a good work in arranging and compiling this volume of prayers. While, in most instances, we think that each heart knows its own wants best, and can best and most fervently express them in its own language, however simple and rude, yet there are occasions when it is not only proper but necessary to use written forms of prayer. The author fully explains such necessities and having observed them among the people of his own charge and been assured of their existence in other directions, he has deemed its advisable to publish this volume. It is a valuable assistant to family worship—by its use many an altar will be erected upon which the offerings of the heart will be laid morning and evening, in places where it was before unknown or neglected. The price is only $1 25.

The Wilmington Journal says: The ordinance of baptism was administered to five persons at the Front Street Methodist Church, on Sunday last, and eleven persons received into Church membership on profession of faith and one by letter. The services, both morning and evening, were very impressive and were attended by large congregations.

NORTH CAROLINA.

The subject of building a railroad from Henderson to Oxford is being agitated. About $30.000 have been subscribed for the enterprise by the Oxford people. In making a speech upon the importance of a railroad through Granville, Col. J. W. Hayes said that he "would rather own the tobacco lands of Granville than the coalfields of Chatham."

J. W. Schenck, former Sheriff of New Hanover county, who defaulted for a large amount and left the State, was arrested in Texas week before last at the instance of his sureties and brought to Wilmington.

Capt. W. A. Cumming, of Wilmington, has shown to the STAR a revolutionary relic and family heirloom, in the shape of a cup made of horn, lined and bound with silver. It was used through the Revolutionary war by Wm. Cumming, the grandfather of Messrs. W. A., J. D. and Preston Cumming. In his custody it passed through the principal battles of the Revolutionary war, and in the war of 1812 was used by James F. and Jno. R. Cumming, sons of Wm. Cumming, and during the late war it was carried for a short time by W. H. Cumming, another of his sons. Later in the struggle for Southern Independence, it was used by the present owner, W. A. Cumming, and his brothers. It will be used as a drinking cup on the speaker's stand at the approaching Centennial Celebration at Charlotte.

Mr. James Crews, of Granville county, sold his crop of tobacco at forty dollar per hundred.

Dr. Grissom's lecture at Greensboro and Salem on the "Illustrious Insane," attracted large audiences and is highly spoken of by the papers of those towns.

U. S. Revenue officers made a descent upon the illicit distilleries of Yadkin county recently, and destroyed 35 stills and about 10,000 worth of property used in the illicit business.

The CENTRAL PROTESTANT says: "A most melancholy circumstance occurred in the county of Randolph quite recently. Mr. Joshua H. Fentress put an end to his life with a pistol, leaving a wife and six children. We learn that Mr. Fentress was not a member of any church, but had been a habitual reader of certain spiritualist publications which had been sent him by a brother living in the West.

The branch of the Bank of New Hanover, at Tarboro, has been discontinued and it is probable that the branch Bank at Wadesboro, will also follow. A Bank has been organized at Marion, S. C., a branch of the Bank of New Hanover, J. B. Grainger, President, and J. D. Cumming, Cashier.

Receipt is acknowledged by the Secretary of the Centennial Association of $100 sent by a lady of Wilmington, being the sum of small amounts solicited by her from citizens in aid of the Celebration, at that place on the 11th inst.

Hon. Wm. A. Graham will probably be the Conservative candidate to represent Orange county in the Convention.

Caswell sent to the penitentiary a delegation of three colored individuals convicted of larceny at last term of court.

The Reidsville NEWS says Commissioners of Rockingham Co. have decided to sell the bridge known as the Settle bridge, and being willing to recoup expense of repairing it. They also suggests that the proceeds of the sale be appropriated to enable the people of Madison to construct a bridge over the river at that point.

On the 14th inst, the top of Blue mountain was covered with snow.

MAJOR SEATON GALES, of Raleigh, will deliver an address before the Lodge of Odd Fellows, in Fayettville, on the evening of 26th inst.

ANOTHER impostor is thus sketched in the Norfolk VIRGINIAN: He is about five and a half feet high, weighs about 130, is about 40 years old, wears green spectacles, and is now bearing the name H. G. Peed. He calls himself Dr, which title he falsely assumed while peddling medicine that he stole in North Carolina. He was formerly a member of the M. E. Church South, in Beaufort county, North Carolina, and applied for license to preach, but was refused on a charge of theft. He ran away in the night, leaving a wife and a helpless family of small children. He now claims to have been licensed to preach by the M. E. Church, in Illinois, and to have been ordained by Bishop Ames. He is evidently a great fraud.

The Great Mexican Sensation show collapsed in Goldsboro, last week for want of money to go further The tent and other fixtures were seized by creditors and the Mexicans, Moncayo and family, were left in Goldsboro,' thrown upon the charity of the place.

Wilmington proposes to give a Grand Ball in honor of the Press Convention which meets in that city next month. We suggest that it do something more practical and give a grand "spelling match" for the benefit of some of the 'gang.' One Editor spells window WINDER, and fraternity FRATUSNITY. A contemporary speaks of the "WRIT of baptism" being administered in a certain place recently, and several of our exchanges, fulminating against the "change of gauge on the N. C. Railroad" persist in spelling it GUAGE.

We direct attention to the advertisement of the Buffalo Lithia Springs which appears in this issue. The Springs are situated in Mecklenburg county Virginia, and are acquiring an enviable reputation for their health-restoring waters. Several of our best Raleigh citizens make these Springs their annual summer resort and speak in high terms both of the excellent mineral properties of the water and of the refinement and culture of the people who patronize them. The testimonials are from the most worthy and reliable sources.

The following law passed at the recent session of the Legislature will be of interest in the counties affected by it:

SECTION 1. That it shall be unlawful to kill or shoot trap or net any partridges, quails, doves, robins, mocking birds or wild turkeys in the counties named between the first day of April and the first day of October in each and every year, and any person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be fined not exceeding ten dollars for each and every offense.

SEC. 2. That it shall be unlawful for any person to take by net, traps or hill with gun any birds mentioned in section 1 of this act on the lands of any person living within the boundaries of the following named counties, to wit: Davidson, Randolph, Rowan, Anson, Warren, Guilford, Rockingham, Orange, Caswell, Mecklenburg, and Edgecombe counties, without permission from the owner, or his agent of said lands, and any person so offending against the provisions of this act, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be fined ten dollars for each and every offense.

The Winston Sentinel says: "We were shown this week a strand of beads taken from the neck of a skeleton, unearthed by the recent freshets, on the land of N. G. Hunt, Esq., near Huntsville, in Yadkin county. A skull was exposed after the water subsided when Mr. Hunt commenced digging and dug up a number of skeletons, buried in pairs, with the face down, with the knees bent so as to throw the feet up. Some of the skeletons measured nearly seven feet.—This must be a very old Indian burying ground, as it is known that for one hundred and twenty-five years there has been no Indian settlement at that place."

The Wilmington Journal says: We understand that a very interesting series of meetings, all of which have been well attended, have been in progress at Fifth Street M. E. Church during the past week, conducted by the Pastor, Rev. J. T. Gibbs. This gentleman, although in feeble health, has determined to continue the meetings the present week, commencing with this (Tuesday) evening.

Centennial Notes from the Wilmington STAR:

Col. A. M. Waddell, M. C. from this District, has gracefully acknowledged an invitation to the Centennial.

The Governors of Delaware and Kansas reply to invitations to attend the Celebration in the true spirit of patriotism.

Three thousand circulars, petitions and invitations have been sent out by the Ways and Means Committee, as stated by Col. C. R. Jones, the Chairman.

The Mecklenburg Zonaves, a company organized expressly for the approaching Centennial Celebration, have just received 60 Springfield rifles with accoutrements.

In the meeting of the General Committee of the Mecklenburg Centennial last Saturday it was stated that some $2,000 had already been procured by a canvass of only half of the city of Charlotte.

In view of the fact that the people of Charlotte may not be able to accommodate all the visitors at the celebration with sleeping apartments, a recent meeting of the Committee of Arrangements adopted a resolution that the railroad companies be requested to run special trains from Charlotte on the night of the 20th of May.

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF RALEIGH EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING,---TERMS $2.20 POSTAGE PAID.

Our Agents.

All the travelling and local preachers in the bounds of the North Carolina Conference are our authorised Agents. Any person sending us ten subscribers, for one year will receive the paper free.

Our Correspondents.

Communications for publication should be carefully written, and on but one side of the sheet. All letters on business should be addressed to the Editor.

How to Remit.

In sending money, all amounts should be sent in registered letter, post office order or check. The cost of registration, or Post Office order can be deducted from the amount of bond. If money is sent otherwise than herein specified it will be at the sender's risk.

General News

A colored boy was the victor in an Iowa City spelling match.

The Jubilee singers are in this country for Europe early in May.

Forty per cent. of the whole area of Russia is covered with forests.

California University contains among its students thirty-nine young ladies.

A colored lawyer, of Petersburg, Va., has just been admitted to the bar in that city.

Next month 10,000 men will be put to work on the Philadelphia Centennial buildings.

New York is agitating to drive out the telegraph poles and put the wire underground.

Seven young women have graduated M. D. at the Boston University school of Medicine.

Three thousand pounds of paper are consumed daily in the manufacture of postal cards.

Women are now allowed to practice law in four States, Iowa, Wisconsin, Missouri and Maine.

At the recent election in Connecticut, the Democratic candidate for Governor received a majority of 6,611 votes.

Trinity church, New York has an income of seven per cent on seven million five hundred thousand dollars.

A new invention is claimed whereby glass can be made into a building material for house fronts, floors, or pavements, cheaper and more durable than marble.

Commissioner Douglas Cannon, from Utah, ordered for polygamy, was discharged under the statute of limitations, not having committed polygamous marriages within two years.

A young Japanese contortionist, one of several who have studied at the Chauncey Hall School, Boston, took a prize at the late annual exhibition lately. He stands sixth in mathematics in the most brilliant class the school has ever had, and third in English poetry. His teacher does not consider it the highest praise his excellence of deportment, and his moral character.

Nearly $100,000 in money have been sent to Kansas from the other States in aid of the sufferers by the grasshoppers.

A telegram was lately sent from New York to London and back through two circuits, 7,200 miles, in thirty minutes, or 240 miles a minute.

It has been decided that the precise point where a person may clear from the globe is a day in advance of the point 180 degrees from Greenwich.

The Secretary of the Treasury has authorized the coinage of trade dollars to the amount of $4,000,000 during the present month.

The loss of the contents of the bonded warehouse burned at San Francisco, April 8, is estimated at about $3,000,000. Four vessels have been sunk in the harbor and each is being made use of as a receptacle for the salt damaged goods.

The entire amount of premiums paid to fire insurance companies, represented in Boston for the year ending December 31, 1874 was $17,000,000, which is a comparative average of one per cent. for the support of the Insurance Protective Bureau.

The Kinston GAZETTE says that Octavius Adams, near Mr. Richard City a few days since had his arm, near the shoulder, blown almost entirely off by the accidental discharge of his gun.

Births.

In Tenney on the first day of April, 1875, by Rev. D. C. Johnson, Mr Henry Brown and Miss Caroline Davis.

Also by the same, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Enos A. Blair, two miles from Trinity College, on the 28th of April 1875, Mr. William Plumber and Miss Roella Blair, all of Randolph.

Married in Charlotte N. C., April 11th by Rev. P. L. Groseclose, Dr. H. A. Lewis, to Miss Mary Lou, only child of Mrs. A. L. Lewis, all of Charlotte N. C.

Deaths

Persons sending notices of weddings will please send without charge. The excess over ten cents per line of many words is charged for at the rate of 10 cents per line. Count the lines and allow many words to a line. In this way you may always know the amount to enclose. Resolutions of respect are subject to the same rule.

Died on the 29th March 1875 Mrs. Bobbie Lee Hendren, wife of Dr. E. J. Weatherspoon of Craven co N C.

When our little ones die, we are too apt to look upon their work as finished, and to exclaim over the memory of their lives like some sudden crossing out when a young and loveable child is taken, it is meet that their parents and friends should look more calmly upon the matter at our hands. When Bobbie Spencer came to our church in the Watauga Female College, she like a ray of sympathies shone in her countenance. In speaking eye and in her kind tenderness in deed her as the bloom of childhood ripened in her as the fruit of womanhood. And well hoped she would not be called to complete her collegiate course; but the society of her cheerful young companions and the inviting air seemed to infuse new life within her, and she became a bright, lively, interesting woman. She was a faithful, earnest, every day christian, and the full essence of her life was beautifully impressed upon all around her.

Warm hearted, lively and sociable in her disposition, she won an exalted place in every heart. We loved her, and she deserved it. She went out from us crowned with honors equal to the highest, in a class of unusually intelligent young ladies, and full of zeal to enter the service of Christ, but her career is short—she has gone to her home in heaven.

Only a few short months a bride, and the cup of bliss has drained her forth. Her hopes have fallen like a crushed flower. Her aspirations of love for years to the hearts of those who loved her.

A letter from her bereaved husband states, that weeks before she died, her love and happy smiling face of Jesus increased. She expressed herself as willing to go, and felt he was supported by the precious promises of the gospel, and her views were, "He doeth all things well."

In the bosom of her church in the midst of her family, especially her affectionate husband and numerous friends

J.

Died Jan. 19th A. D. 1875, at her son's, B. W. Brown's, near Greenville N. C., after several weeks of intense suffering, Mrs. Zipha B. Browne. As a loss to ours and no doubt to the sons long will we think on her, but in the glance of her loving eyes and the touch of her kind hand. Pure in heart, beautiful in character, her life was a living illustration of christian devotion, being a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, for years, but like a blossom born to die, she has passed away leaving desolate hearts that know and loved her best.

She was willing to die and after hours of self contemplation yielded up her immaculate spirit into the one who gave it." We will miss her cheerful laugh and smiling face but her memory will be embalmed in our hearts until the storm of life subsides unto the calm of heaven.

Sister Nancy H. Allen died near Lanesboro Anson co. N. C., Feb. 11th 1875, aged 67. She had been the wife of Bro. Wm. Allen 38 years.

She was a devoted Christian and member of our church from her youth. She was a great sufferer for a long time but was patient and resigned.

On her death-bed she talked faithfully to all who came near her. Her words touched hearts unused to feel and brought tears from eyes unused to tears.

May her husband and all her children meet her in heaven!

HER PASTOR.

Dr. H. H. Crowell was born near Columbia S C Oct. 1834 and died in Hickory N. C. March 1875. He had early religious training, joined the M E. Church South, when about 18, and lived a consistent christian life his death. He practiced that in life which he enjoyed in his heart (viz) the graces of the spirit.

He frequently spoke of his prospects and was resigned to God's will. He died in the faith and has gone to his reward leaving many dear friends to mourn his loss. May God comfort and sustain the bereaved family!

J. C. HARRELL.

Letters and Funds

Rev E A Yates for T H Billiam $2 20. T C Hodges for O Lyon, E N Freeman 16 58.—Rev L L Nash. W J Craddock. Rev P J Carraway for W A Rose 2 20. Rev D C Johnson Rev J W Lewis for M & N D Sullivan 2 20.—E A Brewer for E H Edwards 2 20—sell 2 20. E P Edwards. A B Goodman. Rev F H Wood for Mrs Z Manley 1 10. T F Goode $15. W W Handy. Rev A H Redd.—Rev Dr Burkhead. Rev E A Thompson for J G Tros 2 20 other papers sent. W M Poisson. Rev W H Bobbitt John Pools, W S G Andrews, E Alden Rev J A Rondee papers sent. J Weaver & Co. Rev I K Brooks. Rev J P Simpson for Miss E Smith 2 20. Rev W J Goodwin for Miss Hunt Duckworth 2 20 George Daniel 2 20. Mrs S H H Biggerstaff Rev P J Carraway for J Morrison 2 20. Rev H F Cope. Rev J S Ervin paper sent and continued. Rev T F D Axtell for H G Allison 2 20 Rev E A Yates. A Robinson Pearsall & Co 1 ready 25 50 Rev L B Stacy paper continued Rev J N Somers, all right. Rev W B Mauney for J K Thompson 2 20 sell 1.05

Appointments.

GREENSBORO DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND.

Scotts Guilford at Friendship,	March	20-21
Bonniville, H Points, and Friendly station	Fair Grove	" 27-28
Fort worth Carmel,	April	3- 4
Mission sta.	"	10-11
Greensboro	"	17-18
South Guilford, Bethany,	"	24-25
Randolph, Asnboro,	May	1- 2
Providence at Mt. Pleasant,	"	8- 9
Madison at Leaksville,	"	15-16
Cross Roads, Lowes,	"	22-23
Salem	"	29-30

N. H. D. WILSON, P. E.
Greensboro, N. C.

WASHINGTON DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

Roanoke at Enfield,	April	3- 4
Tarboro at Whites,	"	10-11
Williamston, at Hamilton,	"	17-18
Plymouth and Jamesville, at Plymouth,	"	24-25
Columbia, at Scuppernong,	May	1- 2
Bath at Bruton	"	8- 9
Swanquarter, at Amity,	"	15-16
Washington and Greenville, at Greenville,	"	22-23
Wilson, at Bethlehem,	June	12-13

The District Conference for Washington District will hold its session at Plymouth commencing May 25th at 11 o'clock. Opening sermon by Dr. M. Foy.

The District Stewards will please meet me in Plymouth the 27th of May at 3 o'clock P. M.

WM. CROSS, P. E.

NEWBERN DISTRICT.

2ND. ROUND.

Neuse,	April	3- 4
Goldsboro', Wednesday,	"	7
Kinston,	"	10-11
Jones Shade Grove, Tuesday,	"	13
Trenton, Adam's Creek,	"	17 18
Cypress at Stantonsburg,	"	24-25
Newbern,	May	1- 2
Lenoir, Piney Grove, Tuesday,	"	4
Mt. Olive, (Dist Conf.)	"	6- 9
Snow Hill, Ormond's Chapel,	"	15-16
Cold Harbor,	"	22 23
Kenansville and swift Creek Bay River,	"	29-30
Rev. Messrs. Ward & Thurs. June		1-2

The District Conference of the Newbern District will commence its session at Mt Olive on May the 6th Tuesday morning, at 9 o'clock. The general rule requiring each preacher to attend will be enforced. Dr. Hunter's rule of the 11th will be cordially invited, and we confidently expect a full attendance of the Elders of the Advocate.

E. A. YATES, P. E
Beaufort N. C.

WILMINGTON DISTRICT

2ND ROUND.

Magnolia at Round,	March	20 21
Kenansville at Ebenezer,	April	3- 4
Salisbury at Andrew Chapel,	"	10-11
Kenansville at Highlands,	"	17-18
Smithfield at Bethel,	"	24 25
Washington Grove Street	May	1- 2
Clinton and Bowens Chpl	"	8- 9
Elizabeth,	"	15-16
Whiteville, Fair Bluff,	"	22-23
Fayetteville	June	5- 6
Onslow,	"	12-13

The Wilmington District Conference will be held at Magnolia, embracing the 5th Sunday in May, beginning on Wednesday before at 10 o'clock, a. m.

Rev J. Sanford will preach the opening sermon on Wednesday at 11 o'clock, a. m.

W. S. BLACK, P. E.
Magnolia N. C

CHARLOTTE DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND.

Monroe Sta	March	20 21
Monroe ct	"	27 28
Pleas at Grove ct	April	3- 4
South Charlotte at Fair View,	"	10-11
Concord sta. and Concord ct	"	17-18
Statesville ct,	"	24-25
Cooleemee sta.	May	1- 2
Pineville ct,	"	4
Cooks Iron and Gilwellville,	"	8- 9
Tryon st. and Calvary Miss	"	15-16
Albemarle and Stanley	"	22 23
Mt Pleasant,	"	29-30
Ansonville,	June	5- 6

J. S. NELSON, P. E
Monroe, N. C

FAYETTEVILLE DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

Carthage, Fairpromise,	March	20-21
Linesboro, Cool spring	"	27-28
Cumberland, Camp Ground,	April	3- 4
Pee Dee, Sardis,	"	10-11
Buckhorn, Hoy Springs,	"	17-18
Fayetteville,	"	24-25
Lumbering, St. John,	May	1- 2
Shoe Heel, Regan's,	"	8- 9
Buckingham, Green Lake,	"	15-16
Uwharrie, Oak Grove,	"	22-23
Montgomery, Mt. Pleasant,	"	29-30

S. D ADAMS, P. E.
Carthage, N. C.

The Fayetteville District Conference will be held at Carthage, embracing the 1st Sunday in June, commencing on Thursday before at 11 o'clock. Bishop Marvin will preside.

HILLSBORO DISTRICT.

2ND. ROUND.

Durham station,	March	27-28
Flat River, Mt. Hebron,	April	3- 4
Hillsboro station,	"	10-11
Alamance ct. Bethel,	"	17 18
C. H. & Haw River ct. Ebenezer,	"	24-25
Pittsboro ct, Chatham Church,	May	1- 2
Deep River ct.	"	8- 9
Person ct. Mt Tirza,	"	15-16
Leasburg ct. Concord,	"	22-23
Yanceyville ct. Shady Grove,	"	29-30

L. L. HENDREN, P. E.
Chapel Hill N. C.

SHELBY DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND.

Shelby circuit,	March	13-14
Double Shoals and South Mt. Miss., at Palmetree.	"	20-21
Cherry Mountain at Salem,	"	27-28
Rutherford and Miss. at Kistler's	April	3- 4
Dallas at Bethesda,	"	10-11
Lincoln, at Zion,	"	17-18
Buck Spring at Hill's Chapel,	"	24-25
Newton,	April 30 and May	1st
South Fork at Pleasant Grove,	"	8- 9
Happy Home at Rutherf'd College	"	15-16
Lenoir at Littlejohn's,	"	22-23
Morganton,	"	29-30
Marion,	June	5- 6
Shelby Station,	"	9- 10

Dear brethren, let us work, pray and trust in God.

L. S. BURKHEAD, P. E.
Shelby, N. C.

SALISBURY DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

Salisbury circuit, Gay's Chapel	May,	1- 2
Alexander circuit, Stony Point,	"	8 9
Wilkes circuit, Bethel,	"	15-16
Yadkinville circuit, Mt Marlah,	"	22 23
Surry ct & S Mission, Olive Branch	"	28-27
Mt. Airy Station,	"	29-30
Olin circuit, Clark's Berry,	June	5- 6

D R. BRUTON, P. E.
Statesville, N. C.

RALEIGH DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND, Q. M.

Granville at Tabor	March	20-21
Louisburg Station	"	27-28
Raleigh Edenton St.	April	3- 4
" Person St.	"	10-11
Tar River at Plank Chapel	"	17-18
Henderson at Trinity's	"	24 25
Rolesville at Andrew Chapel	May	1- 2
Cary,	"	8- 9
Nashville and Rocky Mount	"	15-16
Smithfield	"	22-23
Youngsville	"	29 30

J. P. MOORE, P. E.
Warrenton, N C

COMMERCIAL REPORT.

WHOLESALE CASH PRICES.

Office of CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.
April 20, 1875.

REMARKS.

Business continues quiet Meats and sinners are very firm and quiet.

COTTON.

Transactions in the staple yesterday very light. Low middlings 15¾

General Market.

BAGGING, Domestic 2¾ D yd. 13-12@14.
COTTON TIES, 80@.
FLOUR, North Carolina $6.50 @7.
CORN $1.00
CORN MEAL—$1.00
BACON, N. C. hog round, 14 to 15.
" " hams 18.
BULK C. R. sides, 12 1-2 @13.
" shoulders, @11
LARD, North Carolina, none.
" Western tierces, 16.
" kegs, 17.
COFFEE, Prime Rio, 21 1-2
" Fair Rio, 20 1-2.
SYRUP, common, 40.
MOLASSES, Cuba, 50.
SALT $2.25.
CHEESE, Cream, 18 1-2.
" Factory, 17.
" Dairy, none.
NAILS, on basis for 10d, $4.00
SUGAR A, 11 1-2.
" Extra C, 11-4.
" Yellow, 10 @10 1-2.
LEATHER, sole 27 1-2 @30
HIDES, green, 7@8.
" dry, 13 1-2
TALLOW, 9@10
POTATOES, sweet 75 @1.00
" Irish $1.00@1.25
OATS, shelled, 75 @ 1.00
" sheaf, $1.25.
FODDER, 40, $1.50 @1.75
HAY, N C baled, good, $1.25.
CHICKENS, grown, 25 @30
EGGS, 10@10.
BUTTER, country, 20 1-2@25.
FISH, Mullets, $7.00.
" Cut Herrings, none.
" Mackerel, new family, $12.00
BEESWAX, 25.
RAGS, 2¾ 3
BEEF on foot, 6@8.
" dressed prime, 8@10

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

VIRGINIA BUFFALO SPRINGS,

Mecklenburg County, Virginia.

OPEN 20th OF MAY, 1875.

Some of the most remarkable cures upon record have been made by these waters in affections of the Kidneys and Bladder, in diseases peculiar to women, and in Dyspepsia, in Gout and Rheumatism dependent upon bile acid in the blood, they have given the most decided relief. In derangements of the Biliary Organs, in Chronic Intermittent and Remittent Fevers, and all diseases peculiary incident to the miasmatic regions of the South they are well nigh specific.

To circulars sent to any address on application.

This water is put up in cases of one dozen and gallon bottles at $5 per case.

Passage is for the present leave the cars of the Richmond and Atlantic Air Line Railroad at the Scottsburg Depot in Halifax County, Virginia, where all trains are met by coaches for the Springs, 12 miles distant.

Testimonials of distinguished medical men as to the value of these waters:

By Dr. Wm T. Howard, Professor of diseases of women in the University of Maryland. "Were I called upon to state from what mineral waters I have seen the greatest and most unmistakable amount of good accrue in the largest number of cases, in a general way, I should unhesitatingly say, The Buffalo Springs in Mecklenburg County, Virginia."

By Dr. Hunter McGuire, of the Richmond Virginia Medical College! "Of all the mineral waters in the country, I believe this is one of the most valuable."

By Dr. Wm. H. McKee, of Raleigh, N. C.; "I regard this water as adapted to all functional derangements of the stomach depending upon indigestion by whatever cause produced; to the diseases incident to those sections of the country where levers of a bilio-malarial type prevail, and especially to the peculiar diseases of females. In Chloro Anemic diseases of females it is invaluable. It restores the functions of digestion and assimilation, renews the blood and gives tone to the secretory system As a tonic, Alterative, Diuretic and Diaphoretic, I know of no remedy equal to it.

Spring No 2, recently discovered, is different in its medical properties from the original Spring, and has a special adaptation to diseases of the urinary passages."

By Dr. Alfred Plummer, of Manson, N. C.: "In affections of the stomach, bowels, liver and urinary organs upon systems prostrated by repeated attacks of chills and fevers, and in diseases peculiar to women, these waters produce the happiest and most decided results. It is however, in the diseases of women, especially when attended by nervous prostration that the great remedial powers of these waters are most conspicuous."

THOS. F. GOODE,
Proprietor.

apl 21-1m.

AGENTS WANTED for the best, cheapest and fastest selling Bible ever published, send for our extra terms to Agents. NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Philadelphia.
april 14-4t.

CONSUMPTION CURED

To the Editor of Christian Advocate:—
PASTORS PEARSON:
Will you please inform your readers that I have a positive

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION and all disorders of the Throat and Lungs, and that, by its use in my practice, I have cured hundreds of cases, and will give for a case it will not benefit. Indeed so strong is my faith, I will send a Sample free, to any sufferer addressing me.

$1,000 00

Please show this letter to any one you may know who is suffering from these diseases and oblige,

Faithfully Yours,
DR. T. F. BURT.
63 WILLIAM ST., New York
apl 21 26 t

FITS CURED FREE!!

Any person suffering from the above disease is requested to address Dr. Price, and a trial bottle of medicine will be forwarded by Express.

FREE!

The only cost being the Express charge, which owing to my large business, are small.

Dr. Price has made the treatment of a study for years, and he will warrant a cure by the use of this remedy.

FITS OR EPILEPSY

Do not fail to send to him for a trial bottle—it costs nothing, and

WILL CURE YOU.

no matter of how long standing your case may be, or how many other remedies may have failed.

Circulars and testimonials sent with

FREE TRIAL BOTTLE.

Be particular to give your Express, as well as your Post Office direction, and

Address,
DR. CHAS. T. PRICE,
67 William Street, New York, april 21-5 2t

HEADACHE

It is an established fact that the EXTRACT of CRANBERRIES and HEMP, combined by Dr. J. P. MILLER & Co. 37 Spruce St., Philada., Pa., person to-day cures the most excruciating cases of Dyspepsia, Nervous or Sick Headache, and is an absolute specific for Neuralgia and Nervousness. Prepared in pills, 50 cts. a box. Sent by mail apl 21-11

PORTABLE ENGINES.

The best in use and for Grinding Cotton, Ground Corn, Sawing Lumber and general Farm or Planation purposes. Stationary Engines and Rollers of all sizes for all uses. Grist-mills, Sorghum, Shingle Machines, and Circular Saw Rigs. Satisfaction guaranteed. Send for circulars and price to the CHILLICOTHE FOUNDRY & MACHINE WORKS, CHILLICOTHE, OHIO.

Please say in what paper you saw this.
apl 28-4t

STRAW AND OTHER SUMMER HATS.

Largest Stock ever Purchased

Black Straw for Clergymen.
Jaunty Brown Straw.
The Vendittor
The Windsor Hatter.
The Valve Opener.
The Protector.
The "Z" is just received.

And an Immense stock of High Crown Soft Hats.

FULL LINES FOR YOUTHS AND BOYS.

We have no Misses or Ladies Hats.

apl 21-tf. W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

THE REPEAL OF THE USURY LAW

will doubtless be the first question that will attract the attention of our next Legislative Assembly, but as that is long ways ahead, it becomes necessary to learn something exciting for present use. Hence we announce the fact that

Weikel, The Irrepressible Merchant Tailor,

has just returned from the North with a stock of

FRENCH AND ENGLISH CLOTHS,
DIAGONALS, STRIPED, CHECKED AND PLAIN CASSIMERES,
SPRING AND SUMMER SUITINGS
OF EVERY DESCRIPTON.
LIGHT CASSIMERES FOR PANTS VESTINGS, &c,

the like of which is creating even more excitement on Fayetteville street than

THE CHANGE OF GAUGE

did on the line of the North Carolina Rail Road.

He has in Store and now on exhibition the largest and most attractive stock ever offered to the

RALEIGH PUBLIC

before and all in want would do well to call early, as the rush has already commenced.

The Manufacturing Department is complete in all its branches, with the best workmen in the State on the bench.

Orders from the country respectfully solicited and satisfaction guaranteed

April 14-3m

1875. 1875.

NEW STOCK SPRING GOODS.

Money lost every day by not buying your Dry Goods at

PETTY & JONES.

In our customers will but call and examine our Stock of SPRING GOODS and then compare our prices with those elsewhere they will be convinced and satisfied that for cash buyers we can sell as low prices. WE HAVE all CAN PAY and that is not dear any lower in the State.

Our Black Rose Grain silks sell to 1.75 per yard, usually sold from $1.25 to $1.50. Japanese Silks marked as from 75 to 75 cts, real value 31 to 37 cts per yard

Black Iron Grenadines, Silk Lisse, Silk Poupe

Linen Mohair, Silk Fantasia, Cheviles,

Lenses, Dress Lawns,

Plaid Poplin for Polonaise,

and all other goods of the

LATEST STYLES

for Ladies. Our white goods department is complete.

Victoria Lawns, Jaconets, Organdies, Swiss Muslins, Lace Stripe Plaid Nainsook, Irish Linen, Marc Blue, Soft Finish Cambric, Printed Piques, Checks &c.

1,000 yards of Hamburg Edgings and Insertings from 10 cents to 7 cents

Large stock of Ribbons lower than ever known before.

Ladies Linen Collars and Cuffs latest styles

Spring Cassimeres just opened for Gentlemen.

Five Cases Spring Calicoes, bleached and Unbleached Cottons at the lowest Prices. Coats Cotton 75 cents per dozen.

Our stock of Spring Goods comprises the coolest styles of the leading importers and having no old or shelf goods to work off on our customers the latest styles of goods at the lowest prices.

PETTY & JONES.

apl 14-tf

ELECTION NOTICE

By virtue of an Act of the General Assembly of North Carolina, entitled an Act concerning the city of Raleigh, ratified on the 16th day of February 1875, an election will be held in the city of Raleigh on the 3rd day of May 1875, for the purpose of selecting seventeen Aldermen for the several Wards in said city, to-wit:

For the 1st, 2nd, 4th and 5th Wards, 3 Aldermen each, and for the 3rd Ward, 5 Aldermen.

The following persons are hereby appointed Judges of Election in said Wards, and the polling places designated as follows:

FIRST WARD:

C. D. Rice, M. T. Leach, Benj. Rhodes and R. D. Harrison.

POLLING PLACE—Howell House, Blount street, between Morgan and Hargett

SECOND WARD:

A. C. Sanders, V. Ballard, D. A. Wicker and G. W. Brodie.

POLLING PLACE—Jerkins' Shop, Blount street, between Davie and Cabarrus.

THIRD WARD:

C. W. Lambeth, J. R. H. Carmer, Henry Fix and H. T. Clawson.

POLLING PLACE—Court House.

FOURTH WARD:

E. E. Harris, N. A. Blake, Henry S. Keith and Norfleet Dancy.

POLLING PLACE—the House, corner of Cabarrus and McDowell streets

FIFTH WARD:

R. W. Best, Joseph H. Foles, Jno Nichols and Jno. B. Slaughter.

POLLING PLACE—Alley Bowers' old store House, corner of Salisbury and Hargett streets.

BOARD COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

April 14-3t

"ALWAYS AHEAD, IN TIME, AND NEVER BEHIND"

In Desirable Goods at Popular Prices.

JUST RECEIVED

We would call especial attention of the ladies to the beautiful line of

PLAID CASHMERE, HAIR CLOTHS AND PLAIN DEBEIGES,

which we are now opening, the most elegant, cool and decidedly popular and fashionable fabrics for Spring suitings

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

75 DOZ. LADIES' BLEACHED AND brown Balbriggan Hose, extra lengths, silk clocked, and Ladies' striped Hose, all the style.

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

A SPLENDID LINE OF LADIES' Handkerchiefs, colored borders in various designs, monograms, initials, hemstitched clear Lawns and Lace.

Ladies' colored Linen Collars and Cuffs, neat, tasty and fashionable

All the above goods in be had at the lowest figures at the Cash House of

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

apl 14-tf

ISAAC GETTINGER

is now in receipt of his entire stock of

SPRING AND SUMMER Millinery,

Ladies' Fancy Furnishing and Hair goods, a full stock of NEEDLE GOODS, also

PARASOLS, FANS,
LAMA LACE SHAWLS and JACKETS,

in endless variety of

Baby Dresses and Baby Caps and Bonnets.

Kid, Berlin, Silk and Buckskin GLOVES—Hose Hemmings, such as Silks, Laces, Frinches and Buttons. Enough children's striped Socks to supply every child in North Carolina with one or two pair. My stock was bought for CASH and can and WILL be sold low: all I ask is a call.

Our opening will be from now until the end of the season.

New goods will be added to my stock every day or two.

MRS GETTINGER, as usual, can always be found at her post ready to wait on her many friends and customers.

apl 14-6w

GREATLY REDUCED PRICES

—ON—

Sash, Doors and Blinds.

WE SELL

WHITE PINE SASH.

No Shrinking,

Cheaper than Yellow Pine.

HARDWARE,
PAINTS, OILS,
GLASS.

Largest stock in the State.

Write for Prices.

JULIUS LEWIS & CO.,
FISHER BUILDING.
RALEIGH, N. C
apl 14-tf.

SUI GENERIS.

PALMAM QUI MERUIT FERAT

MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS.

UNEQUALED Judged critically, UNAPPROACHED in capacity and excellence by any others. Awarded

THREE HIGHEST MEDALS AND DIPLOMA OF HONOR AT VIENNA, 1873; PARIS, 1867.

ONLY American Organs ever awarded any medal in Europe, or which present such extraordinary excellence as to command a wide sale there.

ALWAYS awarded highest premiums at International Expositions, in America as well as Europe. Out of hundreds there have not been six in all where any other organs have been preferred.

BEST Declared by Eminent Musicians, in both hemispheres, to be unrivaled. See TESTIMONIAL CIRCULAR, with opinions of more than One Thousand (sent free).

INSIST on having a Mason & Hamlin. Do not take any other. Dealers get LARGER COMMISSIONS for selling inferior organs, and for this reason often try very hard to sell something else.

NEW STYLES with most important improvements ever made. New Solo and Combination Stops. Superb Stagere and other Cases of new designs.

PIANO-HARP CABINET ORGAN An exquisite combination of these instruments.

EASY PAYMENTS. Organs sold for cash; or for monthly or quarterly payments; or rented until rent pays for the organ.

CATALOGUES and Circulars, with full particulars, free. Address MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., 154 Tremont Street, BOSTON; 25 Union Square, NEW YORK; or 80 & 82 Adams St., CHICAGO.

apl 14-1 year.

MUSIC BOOKS
BEST FOR
QUARTET CHOIRS.

Thomas's Sacred Quartets.
Baumbach's Sacred Quartets.
Buck's Motet Collection.
Baumbach's New Collection.
Buck's 2d Motet Collection
Choice and Home.
Hyter's Church Music
Trinity Collection.

Price of each Book, in Boards, $2 50; in Cloth, $2 75

CLARKE'S NEW METHOD FOR REED ORGANS.

By WILLIAM H. CLARKE. Price $2 50.

Mr. Wm. H. Clarke, a distinguished organist and organ expert, whose school for the complete mastery of this fine work, which sprang into popular favor immediately on its being issued, with such success, and continues to be the leading method. Contains in addition to instructions, a full collection of Reed Organ Music.

All books sent, post-paid, for retail price.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston. C. H. DITSON & CO., 711 B'dway, New York.

A. G. LEE. ED. H. L. CLE R. LEE.

A STRICTLY COMMISSION HOUSE,

A. G. LEE & SONS.

RALEIGH, N. C.

We give our entire attention to handling goods on COMMISSION, and therefore can handle on a very close consignments of

Corn,	Corn Meal,	Chickens,
Hay,	N. C. Flour,	Eggs,
Fodder,	" Bacon,	and all the
Shuck,	or Green Pork,	products of
Oats,	Lard,	the coun-
Peas,	N. C. Hams,	try or garden, all of which we sell for cash, and are then forwarded to make prompt returns. We solicit consignments from Western North Carolina, and the State generally.

We call attention to our friends in the city and neighboring country to the fact that we have made arrangements with shippers to have a constant supply of CORN on hand, and almost always have consignments of the other articles mentioned above. We have to sell for cash but will give you good goods.—Try us.

Cotton is our Specialty.

We can always obtain the highest market price, and ask our friends who find it inconvenient to accompany their lots to the market to try us. We can beat New York in the nett proceeds of your cotton.

When you bring your cotton to market yourself give us a chance at it. We have orders to fill and can pay the VERY HIGHEST market price for it. Be sure to call and see us before you sell.

We are the Agents for

The ORCHILLA GUANO and The SOUTH SEA GUANO.

The SCHOFIELD COTTON PRESS, the best in vented.

The DIAMOND COTTON CHOPPER—Every one warranted.

A. G. LEE & SONS.
P O. Box 229, Raleigh, N. C.
march 24-tf

NEW SPRING GOODS JUST ARRIVED

D. S. WAITT & BRO.,
Wholesale and Retail
DEALERS IN
READY MADE CLOTHING
For MEN, YOUTHS and CHILDREN.

Latest Styles and Prices Low.

The celebrated MANHATTEN WHITE SHIRTS. which are acknowledged the best Goods and most perfect Fit that is made. A full line constantly on hand.

Gents and Ladies Hose, Gloves, Suspenders, Handkerchief, Neckties, Bows and Silk Scarfs. The latest novelties of the Season paper Linen Cuffs and Collars. Ladies Leather Belts, Hamburg Edgings and Insertions, Cashs' Ruffling, and Flutings, Ladies Neck Ruffs and Collars, Stamped Yokes and Bands, &c.

DOMESTIC AND FANCY DRY GOODS
PRINTS, PRINTS, PRINTS.

Black Alpacas.

Corded Jackanets, Striped and Figured Lawns, White Pique, Mul Muslins, Check'd Muslins, Nansook and Linen Lawns, Corsett Jeans, Cambrics and Linens.

HATS, HATS, HATS

Newest Styles and Cheap.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

Our Stock is complete in this line. Miles and Taylor's Goods just in and speak for themselves. Other brands which also give satisfaction.

To Country Merchants who buy in the City, we would say give us a call and we will sell goods for cash as cheap as any House in the City, or this side of Baltimore and New York.

To our numerous friends and patrons we again return thanks for past favors and as our stock is much larger than ever before, we feel confident that we are prepared to do the best that can be done in this city.

D. S. WAITT & BRO.,
54 Fayetteville st., Raleigh, N. C
mch 17-tf.

SHOT-GUNS, RIFLES, PISTOLS & REVOLVERS,

Of any and every kind. Send stamp for Catalogue. Address Great Western Gun and Revolver Works, Pittsburgh, Pa.
april 7-9m.

A NICE LOT OF HAMS JUST RECEIVED from Eastern N. C., and for sale especially for table use by

A. G. LEE & SONS.

250 BUSHELS WHITE SPRING OATS FOR sale by

A. G. LEE & SONS.

A LOT OF FRESH MOUNTAIN BUTTER in kits. Call and examine at

A. G. LEE & SONS.

apl 14-1w.

RESTORE YOUR SIGHT.

Spectacles Rendered Useless.

Save Your Eyes,
RESTORE YOUR SIGHT,
THROW AWAY YOUR SPECTACLES

Old Eyes Made New.

All diseases of the Eye successfully treated by

Dr. J. BALL & CO.'S
NEW PATENT IMPROVED IVORY EYE CUPS.

Read for yourself and Restore your Sight.

Spectacles and Surgical Operations rendered useless. The Instituable Blessing of sight is made perpetual by the use of the new PATENT IMPROVED IVORY EYE CUPS.

Many of our most eminent physicians, oculists, students and divines have had their sight permanently Restored for life, as I stated in the following diseases:

1. Impaired Vision; 2. Presbyopia, or Far-sightedness, or Dimness of Vision, commonly called Blurring; 3. Asthenopia, or Weak eyes; 4. Epiphora, Humid, or Watery Eyes; 5. Sore Eyes—specially treated with the Eye Cups—cure guaranteed; 6. Weakness of the Retina, or Optic Nerves; 7. Ophthalmia, or Inflammation of the diseased parts, Rest or change, by return mail Write to Dr. J. Ball & Co. P. O. Box 957, No 91 Liberty Street, New York City, N. Y.

For the worst cases of MYOPIA or NEAR-SIGHTEDNESS, use our NEW PATENT MYOPIC ATTACHMENTS, applied to the IVORY EYE CUPS. Has proved a certain cure for this disease.

Send for pamphlets and certificates—free. Waste no more money by adjusting huge glasses on your nose and disfiguring your face.

AGENTS WANTED

Employment for all. Agents wanted, Gentlemen or Ladies, for our NEW PATENT IMPROVED IVORY EYE CUPS, just introduced in the market. The success is unparalleled by any other article. All persons out of employment, or those wishing to improve their circumstances, can make a respectable living at this light and easy employment. Hundreds of agents are making from $5 to $20 a DAY. To live Agents $5@5 a week or no salary guaranteed.

Send for circulars for fully particulars. Sent free of charge to any address. Write immediately to

Dr. J. BALL & CO.,
No. 91 LIBERTY STREET,
P. O. Box 957. NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.
Sept 6-12m.

Children's Column.

The middle verse in the Bible is the 8th verse of the 118th Psalm. Joseph Daniel, R E Ware.

In restoring Jairus' daughter, the Saviour said "Talitha-cumi" "Damsel I say unto thee, arise." Mark 5th ch. 41st verse. Pattie Clark, Nannie A. Woodburn, T. Edwards, Estella Al bright, Willie Jenkins, S Bobbitt.

"Dancing turned into mourning" is found in Lam. 5th ch. 15th verse. Pattie Clark, J. R Howard, Willie Jenkins.

Ninety words are contained in the 9th v. 8th. ch. of Esther. Pattie Clark, Maggie E. Turner, N. A. Woodburn, J. J. Barrow, S. B. Goode.

The Philistines carried the ark of God to Ashdod from Ebenezer. 1st Samuel 5th ch. 1st v. J. R. Howard, N. A. Woodburn, Georgian B. Wynne.

John is supposed to be the disciple who went in with Peter, following Jesus into the palace of the high Priest. 18th ch. St. John. J. R. Howard, Josephus Daniel, Georgian B. Wynne, Willie Jenkins.

T. Edwards thinks it was Judas

Adoni-bezek was the wicked king who cut off the thumbs and great toes of threescore and ten kings. J. R. Howard, A. L. Merritt, Maggie C. Woods

'Baldhead' is found in 2nd kings 2 ch. 23rd verse. Nannie A. Woodburn, Josephus Daniel, Georgian B. Wynne, Estelle Albright. Willie Jenkins, Sidney Bobbitt.

'The word 'Lord' occurs in the Bible 1855 times. S. B. Goode.

King Ai was hanged on a tree until the sun went down and his body was cast at the gate of the city and a heap of stones raised thereon. Nannie Thornburg, Nannie A. Woodburn, Georgian B. Wynne.

Three chapters begin with the word God, to-wit: the 67th and 82d Psalms, and 1st chap. Hebrews. Maggie E. Turner. Georgian B. Wynne, S. Bobbitt.

In 4th ch. 21st v. of Judges is given an account of Jael driving a nail into Sisera's head. Pattie Clark, J. W. Howard, J. R. Howard, N. A. Woodburn, Georgian B. Wynne, R. E. Ware, Willie Jenkins, Sidny Bobbitt.

Answer to Bible Enigma No. 2.

Its 1st is Ham.
" 2d is Elizabeth.
" 3d is Zacheriah.
" 4th is Elisha.
" 5th is Keturah.
" 6th is Ithamar.
" 7th is Amnon.
" 8th is Hannah.

Its whole is Hezekiah, 13th king of Judah. J. W. Howard, J R. Howard, Z. J. Needham.

Hiel rebuilt Jericho. 16th chap. 1st Kings. M. A. Harrison, Addie Clayton.

John ate the book, taking it from an angel. M. A. Harrison, J. R. Howard, Z. J. Needham, A. L Merritt, Addie Clayton, Maggie C. Woods, C. W. Durant.

The word Maher-shalal-hash baz is found in 8th ch. Isaiah 1st and 3rd verses. Its meaning is 'haste spoil,' 'speed to the prey,'—the name given by Isaiah to one of his sons for a prophetic intimation of the speedy victory of the Assyrians over Syria and Israel. Cora A. Harrison, N. A. Woodburn.

The word 'peep' is found in Isaiah 8th ch. 19th verse. Cora A. Harrison. N. A. Woodburn.

Abram was 99 years old when his name was changed to Abraham. Annie Walker, Z. J. Needham. A. L. Merritt, Addie Clayton, Maggie C. Woods.

The offence for which Moses was excluded from the promised land was smiting the rock instead of speaking to it. Numbers 20th chap. 8th and 9th verses. Annie Walker, J. R Howard, Addie Clayton, Maggie C. Woods.

SCRIPTURAL ENIGMA No. 2.

My 1st is the son of Shealtiel.
" 2d is the wife of Ahasuerus.
" 3d is the husband of Naomi.
" 4th is the youngest son of Noah.
" 5th is the Father of Eliazer.
" 6th is a Book in the new Testament.
" 7th is the father of Zachariah.
" 8th is the Son of Hilkiah.
" 9th is the twelvth king of Judah.

My whole is the name of a Prophet.

QUESTIONS.

Maggie E. Turner asks which is the longest chapter and which the shortest verse in the Bible.

Willie Jenkins asks where is found 'there shall be one fold and one shepherd'

Sidney B. Goode asks how many letters there are in the Bible.

Pattie Clark asks who wrote the first five books of the Bible; what they are called. Also who wrote the book of Job; and why is the Bible so called.

Allie Clayton asks what were the first words of Jesus in his public ministry.

J. R. Howard asks what chapter contains the word 'children' 88 times.

Rosser Wolfe, who says he loves knives and saddles, asks what king used a pen knife and what did he do with it. Also, who first owned a saddle.

Robert E. Ware asks where the word 'Azotus' occurs and its meaning.

Charlie Durant asks where Melchisedek is first mentioned in the Bible.

Annie Lee Merritt asks who the mother of David was; and what books in the Bible end with a curse.

Nannie Thornburg asks where it is mentioned in the Bible that a king was killed in his parlor.

BIBLE ENIGMA—NO. 4.

My 1st begins the name of the place, at which our Lord was born.
My 2nd begins the name of Aaron's son, who succeeded him as high priest.
My 3rd begins the name of the disciple, who did not believe that Christ had risen.
My 4th begins the name of the mountain on which Aaron died.
My 5th begins the name of the prophet, who ate the roll in which was written lamentations, mourning and woe.
My 6th begins the name of the father of Noah
My whole gives the name of the place at which Jacob had a most wonderful dream.

J. R. HOWARD.

Farm, Garden & Household.

HOW TO PRESERVE EGGS.—The Farmer's Advocate, London, Ontario, recently offered a prize for the best method of keeping eggs over winter. The first recipe given below took the prize:—What ever excludes the air prevents the decay of the egg. What I have found to be the most successful method of doing so is, to place a small quantity of butter in the palm of the left hand and turn the egg around in it, so that every pore of the shell is closed; then dry a sufficient quantity of bran in an oven (be sure you have the bran well dried, or it will rust.) —Then pack them with the small ends down, a layer of bran and another of eggs, until your box is full; then place in a cool, dry place. If done when new laid, they will retain the sweet milk and curd of a new laid egg for at least eight or ten months. Any oil will do, but salt butter never becomes rancid, and a very small quantity of butter will do a very large quantity of eggs. To insure freshness, I rub them when gathered in from the nests; than pack them when there is a sufficient quantity.—E. ALEXANDER.

BEE-HIVES.—Of 2,000,000 bee hives in the United States, it is reported: Every hive, yields on an average, a little over 22 pounds of honey, the averge price of which is 26 cents a pound, so after paying their way, the bees present a revenue of $8,000,000. To reckon it another way, they make a clean gain of over 1 pound of pure honey for every man, woman and child in the United States. Over 23,000,000 pounds of wax are made by these industrious workers. Keeping bees is one of the most profitable investments the people can make of their money. The profits arising from the sale of surplus honey averge from 50 to 200 per cent. on the capital invested, says an exchang.—Boston Cultivator.

MOTH PREVENTIVE.—Furs and woollen clothing are in danger of being sown with moth-eggs before the final packing away. No powder or drug is so sure and safe as a brushing and beating, which dislodge the embryo worm. Especially leave no dustfilled fold or seam, no spot encrusted with grease and dirt, for in such places the sly miller loves to make a home for the worm. A small piece of camphor or a little tobacco (one of its few unobjectionable uses) is an additional protection, but will not be sufficient without the beating.

AN UNHEALTHY HOUSE.—A dark house is always an unhealthy house, always an ill aired house, always a dirty house.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Is very strongly recommended by the Medical Faculty and is largely prescribed among their Female Patients It is worthy of all confidence, as may be seen from the following testimonials:

Dr. G. B. CHAPMAN, Plattsmouth, Neb., writes: I have under treatment a lady, who, for the past seven years has been afflicted, and, after trying several physicians without receiving benefit is gaining rapidly on your Favorite Prescription.

ATLANTA, Ill.

Dr. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.: Dear Sir—I have no words to express my gratitude to you for your advice and assistance in my case. There is not one who has used your medicines since they have been brought here, but that can say with me they have been greatly benefited. Since I have been so helped by its use, six or seven around me left off all doctors and other medicines, and now use it in their families, after being cured of the same disease as mine. You do not know what a wonder it created in our city, by restoring my sister I wrote you about, for she had been under the care of three of our best doctors, but could not get up for a few minutes at one time. I begged of her to try your medicines, and her ps she had used half the bottles she could get all around the yard, and has now just come home from a visit five miles away

Mrs. THOS. McFARLAND.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is sold by dealers in medicine generally.

april 21-1-t

A Royal Organ.

The stomach has been well named a "royal organ," since it sways and controls the entire system, every gland, tissue and nerve sympathizing with it as the servants of a prince sympathize with their master. Each one of them is fed and assisted by it—even the brain itself, the centre of sensation, is absolutely dependent upon it for sustenance. Consequently, when the stomach fails to perform its all-important office the subordinate organs also falter in their duty The renowned Hostetter's Stomach Bitters have such wondrously beneficial effect upon the general health and are such a reliable preventive of disease, is that they speedily overcome weakness or disorders of the stomach, and thus insure complete nourishment of the entire system and a healthful performance of its various functions. Unlike those stimulants whose alcoholic principle is unmodified by judicious admixture, the spiritous basis of these Bitters, which is of the purest description, holds in solution herbal alteratives and invigorants to which a foremost rank has been assigned in materia medica. But it is not alone the fact that these sovereign botanic elements enter into the composition of the Bitters that constitutes them such a benign tonic and corrective, but also that they are so happily combined that the full effect of each is exerted upon the disordered or debilitated system. The digestive and secretive organs are the first to experience their beneficent operation, which extends, by sympathy, to the brain, the nerves and the circulation. The influence thus exerted is fruitful of those great sanitary results which have built up the reputation of this truly national medicine.

march 17 1-f

1875!

—JUST ISSUED:—

CROWN OF LIFE!

For the Sunday-school, Song Service, Praise and Prayer Meetings. By W. A. Ogden. Contains 160 pages, and has the Easiest Melodies, Best Words, and is, in fact, the most Complete Sunday-school Song book published. It has a Concert Exercise ("Sacred Pieces of the Gospel"), both Interesting and Instructive, which any school can produce.

SEND 35 CTS. FOR SPECIMEN COPY, IN BOARDS;

Specimen Pages, Free. Price $ 60 per Dozen.

W. W. WHITNEY, Publisher, TOLEDO, OHIO.

March 24 4-t o w.

DR. C. M'LANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS,

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder-blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for a rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, feels cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. M'LANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them A FAIR TRIAL.

Address all orders to

FLEMING BROS., PITTSBURGH, PA.

P. S. Dealers and Physicians ordering from others than Fleming Bros., will do well to write their order distinctly, and take measure Dr. C. M'Lane's pamphlet, by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa. To those wishing to give them a trial, we will forward per mail, post-paid, to any part of the United States, one box of Pills for twelve three-cent postage stamps, or one vial of Vermifuge for fourteen three-cent stamps. All orders from Canada must be accompanied by twenty cents extra.

Sold by all respectable Druggists and Country Store keepers generally.

Dr. C. M'Lane's Vermifuge

Should be kept in every nursery. If you would have your children grow up to be HEALTHY, STRONG, and VIGOROUS MEN and WOMEN, give them a few doses of

M'LANE'S VERMIFUGE,

TO EXPEL THE WORMS.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS

A. MONEY SAVED BY Buying the Comfort Heating Stove.

B. EVERYBODY SHOULD Buy the ROBERT E. LEE Cook Stove, made in Richmond, Va.

C. IT IS A FULL SIZED Cook Stove, having large oven.

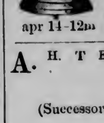
D. BEST ASSORTMENT and largest stock of Buggy Whips in the city.

E. BUY A BOX OF WAX Tapers, large stock, low price.

F. WAGON AND BUGGY material of all kind.—Call and buy of

T. H. BRIGGS & SONS, RALEIGH, N. C.

dec 16-tf



BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY. Established in 1837. Superior Bells of Copper and Tin, mounted with the best Rotary Hangings, for Churches, Schools, Farms, Factories, Court Houses, Fire Alarms, Tower Clocks, Chimes, etc. Fully Warranted. Illustrated Catalogue sent Free. VANDUZEN & TIFT, 102 and 104 East Second St., Cincinnati.

apr 14-12m

A. H. TEMPLE,

(Successor to Lynn Adams,)

Grocer, Cotton Factor

AND

Commission Merchant.

Nos. 5 Martin St. and 5 Exchange Place.

Having succeeded by the business of Mr. Lynn Adams, I am prepared to offer to the public the best inducements in my line and respectfully ask a continuance of the trade hitherto given Mr. Adams, promising to give satisfaction in all cases

In addition to my regular line of goods, I have on hand a full took of the

STINSON WOOL HATS,

made in Wake county, and adapted especially to the farmer's use.

I have just returned from the North where I purchased a full line of choice groceries and am now daily adding to my stock. I promise those who may favor us with their custom to give them as good bargains as they can get elsewhere.

A. H. TEMPLE.

I most respectfully ask my former patrons and friends to go trade Mr. Temple my successor, who will, I am assured, give satisfaction to all who deal with him.

I will still keep my office, as Cotton Factor in the same building.

LYNN ADAMS.

march17 6-m

PLEIS' FIT POWDERS.

These Powders have been tested by over 40,000 cases for the cure of Fits (Epilepsy), Spasms, Convulsions, St. Vitus' Dance, Neuralgia, and all Nervous Affections, some over 40 years' standing.

When you ORDER STATE AGE.

PRICE, 50 CENTS PER BOX; or sent to all parts of the United States for One Dollar per Box.—These Powders are prepared and sold only by the proprietor, to whom all orders must be addressed,

JOHN M. PLEIS, Jr.,

861 North Third street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Please mention that you saw this advertisement in THE CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. mar 31-1y

OLD NORTH STATE FIRE Insurance Company.

OF

WARRENTON, - - - N. C.

Capital Stock, $107,600.00

ASSETTS:

Mortgages on Real Estate	$ 45 050.10
National Bank Stock	1 000.00
Solvent Stock Notes	51, 550.10
Cash and Loans on Call	2 502 98
Due from Agents	2 660.02
Agents Supplies	626 89
Office furniture (Safe, &c)	796.16
Accrued Interest	820.00
	$ 122,995 65

LIABILITIES:

Amount necessary to reinsure all unexpired risks on the basis of the New York law, $10,0 0.

$1,229 Assets to Every $100 of Technical Liabilities

According to the best experience of the Company we have

$2,458 Assets to Every $100 of actual Liabilities

OFFICERS:

Col. W. S. DAVIS, President.
N. H. JONES, Vice-President.
B F. LOSS, Secretary.
WM. J. NORWOOD, Treasurer
T. C. WILLIAMS, Supervisor.

1874. FALL STOCK. 1874.

NEW GOODS! GOOD QUALITY!!

LOW PRICES!!!

—o—

JOS. P. GULLEY,

RETAILER AND JOBBER OF

Dry Goods, Notions, Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Trunks, Valises, White Goods, &c., &c.,

RALEIGH, N. C.

My large and carefully selected stock for the Fall and Winter is now in store, and I respectfully invite all in search of good goods and low prices, to call and examine for themselves.

BURTS GAITERS and BOOTS FOR GENTS.

To those who have bought and used these goods we need only to say that we have a full line of them.—For durability and neatness of fit they are unexcelled.

Also M'le's and Graf's hand made shoes for the Ladies.

PRINTS! PRINTS! PRINTS!

A large stock of the latest patterns, at prices that cannot be excelled.

Respectfully, JOSEPH P GULLEY.

Corner Fayetteville and Market Square

oct 7-1y

M. T. NORRIS, W. A. MYATT.

NORRIS & MYATT,

GROCERS, COTTON FACTORS

—AND—

Commission Merchants.

No. 3 Exchange Place and No. 5 Martin Street,

Consignments Solicited and Prompt Returns Guaranteed.

PLOWS, PLOWS, PLOWS,

Anticipating the Spring season, we now have in stock the following large and varied assortment of Plows, viz: Dunn & Riggan, No. 0 Corn Plow, The celebrated Wilson Cotton Plow and the Rock's Cotton Plow. We off. r all of these Plows at very lowest figures. Call and examine their merits for yourself.

NORRIS & MYATT.

FLOUR, FLOUR, FLOUR.

We are constantly receiving, and will keep on hand a large lot of Flour, which we guarantee to give perfect satisfaction.

We also keep White Bolted Meal.

NORRIS & MYATT.

MEAT, MEAT, MEAT.

Our stock of Meat, Clear Rib Sides and Shoulders, is complete. We guarantee to MEET the demands of the trade both in quality and prices.

We always have on hand Marshall's Factory Filled Salt, only $2.25 per sack.

NORRIS & MYATT.

IRISH POTATOES.

10 bbls. Early Goodrich.
10 bbls. Early Rose
These forward brands of Potatoes we offer very low. Send in your orders to

NORRIS & MYATT.

feb 17-tf

FROM

HENRY J. BROWN,

Opposite Masonic Hall.

RALEIGH, N. C.,

UNDERTAKER,

Keeps on hand Fisk's Metallic Burial Cases, Self-Sealing Metallic Burial Cases, and Walnut and other Wood Coffins. HEARSE FURNISHED. Also Dealer in Furniture. Repairing and Varnishing Promptly Executed.

ap 10-1f

WIRE RAILING & ORNAMENTAL Wire Works.

Dufur & Co.,

36 North Howard Street, Baltimore, Md.

Manufacture WIRE RAILING for Cemeteries, Balconies, &c., SHRUBS, FENCES, CAGES, SAND AND COAL SCREENS, WOVEN WIRE, &c. Also, IRON BEDSTEADS CHAIRS, SETTEES, &c., &c

Feb 19-1ym

JUST READY.—ENTIRELY NEW—AUTHENTIC—COMPLETE

LIFE AND LABORS OF LIVINGSTONE,

By Rev. J. E CHAMBLISS. This gifted author having free access to the personal writings of Livingstone, unfolds greatly the magnitude of his life-work, the THRILLING ADVENTURES he met, the grand ACHIEVEMENTS he won, as also the CURIOSITIES, WONDERS and WEALTH of that marvelous country. Wide Awake Agents Wanted Everywhere at Once for the ONLY cheap COMPLETE work. Over 500 pages, (including his "LAST JOURNALS") 100 SPLENDID Illustrations, &c &c., only $2.00. It will SELL. Millions want it. For proof and terms, address HUBBARD BROS., Pubs., 723 Sansom St., Phila., Pa.

Sept 3-12 m

PROGRESS THE WATCHWORD.

Merit and Success, Hand in Hand.

The Eureka WASHING MACHINE.

Patented Oct. 13th, 1874.

This machine operates on the same principle as the hand—does the work complete without the hand—works with great ease to the operator and washes rapidly, doing the work in about one fourth the time of the ordinary way, with less injury to fabrics.

Factory price $15.00, with wringer attached $23.00. State and county rights for sale

J. B. PARRAR,

Manufacturer and Patentee.

Cary, N. C.

mch 10-6ms,

SCHEDULES.

PIEDMONT & AIR-LINE RAILWAY.

RICHMOND & DANVILLE, RICHMOND & DANVILLE R. W., N. C. DIVISION, and NORTH WESTERN N. C. R. W.

CONDENSED TIME-TABLE.

In effect on and after Friday, March 19th, 1875.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	MAIL.	EXPRESS.
Leave Charlotte	3 23 P. M.	8.55 A. M.
" Air-Line Junc'n	3 30 "	9 30 "
" Salisbury	12.12 A. M.	11.28 "
" Greensboro'	3.55 "	2.16 P. M.
" Danville	6.20 "	4.48 "
" Dundee	6.36 "	4.57 "
" Burkeville	11.35 "	9 17 "
Arrive at Richmond	2.22 P. M.	11.45 P. M.

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS	MAIL.	EXPRESS.
Leave Richmond	1.38 P. M.	5.05 A. M.
" Burkeville	4.41 "	8.35 "
" Dundee	9 05 "	12.55 P. M.
" Danville	9 28 "	1.09 P. M.
" Greensboro'	12.40 A. M.	3.37 "
" Salisbury	3.38 "	6.46 "
" Air Line Junc'n	3.52 "	9 30 "
Arrive at Charlotte	3.16 A M	9.35 "

GOING EAST. GOING WEST

STATIONS.	MAIL.	MAIL.
Leave Greensboro'	3.35 A. M.	Arrive 11.30 P. M.
" Co. Shops	5.10 "	Leave 10.15 "
" Raleigh	8 45 "	5.38 "
Arrive at Goldsboro'	11.20 A M	Leave 2 35 P. M.

NORTH WESTERN N. C. R. R.

(SALEM BRANCH.)

Leave Greensboro'	4 25 P. M.
Arrive at Salem	6 10 "
Leave Salem	9.20 A. M.
Arrive at Greensboro	11.15 "

Passenger train leaving Raleigh at 8 P. M. connects at Greensboro' with the Northern bound train; making the quickest time to all Northern cities. Prices of Tickets same as via other routes.

Trains to and from points East of Greensboro connect at Greensboro with Mail Trains to or from points North of South.

Two trains daily, both ways,

On Sundays Lynchburg Accommodation leave Richmond at 9.00 A. M., arrive at Burkeville 12.48 P. M., leave Burkeville 4.35 A. M., arrive at Richmond 7.58 A. M.

No Change of Cars between Charlotte and Richmond, 282 Miles.

Papers that have arrangements to advertise the Schedule of this company will please print as above.

For further information address

S. K. ALLEN, Gen'l Ticket Agent. Greensboro, N. C.

T. M. E. TALBOTT, Engineer & Gen'l upet Lendent.

—:o:—

CHANGE OF SCHEDULE.

RALEIGH & GASTON RAILROAD CO.

On and after Friday, May 22nd, 1874, trains on the Raleigh & Gaston Railroad, will run daily (Sunday excepted) as follows:

MAIL TRAIN.

Leave Raleigh	2.35 A. M.
Arrives at Weldon	8.30 P. M.
Leaves Weldon	9.50 A. M.
Arrives at Raleigh	3.15 P. M.

ACCOMMODATION TRAIN.

Leaves Raleigh	5.15 A. M.
Arrives at Weldon	5.15 P. M.
Leaves Weldon	2.20 A. M.
Arrives at Raleigh	2.45 P. M.

Mail train makes close connection at Weldon, with the Seaboard and Roanoke Railroad and Bay Line Steamers via Baltimore, to and from all points North, West and Northwest, and with Petersburg Railroad via Petersburg, Richmond and Washington City, to and from all points North and Northwest.

And at Raleigh with the North Carolina Railroad to and from all points South and Southwest, and with the Raleigh & Augusta Air Line to Haywood and Fayetteville.

A. B. ANDREWS, Gen. Sup't.

—:o:—

RALEIGH & AUGUSTA AIR-LINE RAILROAD.

SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE, Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 22d, 1874.

On and after Monday, October 26th, 1874, trains on the R. & A. A. L. Road will run daily, (Sundays excepted,) as follows:

MAIL TRAIN.

Train leaves Raleigh,	4.00 P. M.
Arrives at Sanford,	6.05 "
Train leaves Sanford,	6.30 A. M
Arrives at Raleigh,	9.25 "

FREIGHT TRAIN.

Leaves Raleigh,	5.15 A. M.
Arrives at Sanford	10.35 A. M.
Leaves Sanford,	11.00 A. M
Arrives at Raleigh	3.50 P. M.

Mail Train make close connection at Raleigh with the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad, to and from all points North.

And at Sanford with the Western Railroad, to and from Fayetteville and points on the Western Railroad.

A. B. ANDREWS, Superintendent.

—:o:—

OFFICE SUPT. OF TRANSPORTATION, Seaboard & Roanoke R. R. Co., Portsmouth, Va., Jan. 1st, 1875.

On and after this date, trains of this Road will leave Weldon daily, Sundays excepted, as follows:

Mail train at	4 P. M.
No. 1 Freight train at	4 A. M.
No. 2 Freight train at	8 A. M.

ARRIVE AT PORTSMOUTH.

Mail train at	7 15 P. M.
No 1 Freight at	12 00 NOON
No 2 Freight at	4 00 P. M.

Freight trains have a passenger car attached.

Steamer for Edenton, Plymouth and Landings on Blackwater and Chowan Rivers leave Franklin at 7.40 A. M on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

E. G. GHIO, Supt. Trans. ortation.

STIEFF

GRAND, SQUARE, AND UPRIGHT

PIANOS

Have received awards of FIFTY FIRST PREMIUMS and are among the best now made. Every instrument fully warranted for five years. Prices as low as the excellence of the very best materials and the most thorough workmanship will permit. The preference of the superiority of the STIEFF PIANO. The DURABILITY of our instruments is fully established by over sixty school and colleges in the South, using over $30 of our Pianos.

Sole Wholesale Agents for several of the principal manufacturers of Cabinet and Parlor Organs; prices from $55 to $500. A liberal discount to Clergymen and Sabbath schools.

A large assortment of second-hand Pianos at prices ranging from $50 to $150, always on hand.

Send for Illustrated Catalogue, containing names of over 500 Southerners, who have bought and are using the Stieff Piano.

CHARLES M. STIEFF, Warerooms, No. 9 North Liberty street, Baltimore, Md.

Factories, 84 & 86 Camden st. and 45 & 47 Perry st. Dec 16-12m

POPULAR AND USEFUL BOOKS

Royal Diadem, (S. S. Notes)	35
Amaranth, " "	35
Bright Jewels, " "	35
Happy Voices, " "	35
The Chants "	35
The Morning Star "	35
Pure Gold, "	35
Songs of Salvation, "	35
Wesleyan Catechisms No. 1,	4
Wesleyan " No. 2,	75
Wesleyan " No. 3,	1.00
Bibles, (pocket size) from 75 c	5.00
Bibles, Family, from 3.00 to	9.00
Children of the Abbey 12mo cloth,	1.50
Robinsen Crusoe, 12mo cloth,	1.00
Shakespeare, 12mo cloth	1.50
Pilgrims Progress, 12mo cloth, pictorial	1.25
Methodist Hymn and Tune Books, 12mo cloth,	75
Ready Reckoners, from 31 cts to	60
Little Writers, (board covers) 50 c	60
Life of Daniel Boon, 12mo cloth,	1.50
Bible Dictionary, (the best)	1.75
Picture Books (highly illustrated) from 5cts to	2.00
Methodist Hymn Books from 50 cts to	4.00
Baptist Hymn Books, from 75 to	2.50
Presbyterian Hymn Books, from 50 cts	2.50
Episcopal Prayer Books, from 15 cts to	5.00
Photograph Albums, from 75 cts to	6.00
Major Jones Courtship, paper cover,	75
Abbotts Mary Queen of Scotts,	1.20
Abbotts Queen Elizabeth,	1.20
Abbotts Marie Antoinette,	1.20
Aesop's Fables,	1.50
Arabian Knights Entertainment,	1.50

Send cash and add 10 cents on the dollar, and I will mail any of the above.

☞ Order any other book you want.

L. BRANSON, Raleigh, N. C.

april 6-12m

PREMIUM CHESTER WHITE PIGS.—$15 each, $25 a pair, Chester County MAMMOTH CORN, and Imported BELGIAN OATS. 6 lbs by mail, $1 peck $2. ½ bushel $3, bushel $5. Circular and Sample Packages of Seeds Free for 2 stamps Address.

N. P. BOYER, Parkesburg, Chester Co Pa.

march 3 6-wks

READ THIS

I will give any one an opportunity to make from $2 to $3 per day to work for me. Work easy and light. A boy 10 years old can fill the bill. Send stamp for particulars. Apply to

B. L POWELL, Warrenton, N. C.

nov. 25 13 m.

A NEW BOOK.

Life, Sermons, and Speeches

OF

Rev. N. F. Reid, D. D.

LATE OF THE

NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

BY HIS SONS

James W. and Frank L. Reid.

A handsome volume of 536 pages.

A fine Steel Engraving of Dr. Reid in each copy.

NOW READY FOR DELIVERY.

BE SURE TO GET A COPY.

Price in morocco, gilt edge, $3 50.
" " Cloth, 2 00.

Agents wanted to whom liberal commissions will be made. Single copies sent by mail, postage paid, on receipt of retail price

Address, REV. F. L. REID, Lexington, N. C. or JAS. W. REID, Westward N. C.

G. T. LEACH, N. Y. M. T. LEACH

Leach Brothers,

WHOLESALE GROCERS

AND

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

SOUTH-EAST CORNER MARKET SQUARE, Raleigh, N. C

April, we take great pleasure in presenting our card and returning thanks to the readers of the ADVOCATE for their very liberal patronage during the past ten years, and offer to the trade the largest and best bought stock of Groceries ever offered in any market south of Baltimore, and while just now Bacons, Sugars and Lard are very scarce and high, we have made extra effort and feel sure we have succeeded in bringing other goods equally low and intend giving our friends all the advantage gained thereby to counter balance any advance in the few goods named

We wish to invite especial attention to our select stock of Staple Groceries and Boots bought direct from the Factories and offered here AT FIRST PROFITS.

We have now in store:

5,000 lbs. Rio Coffee,
10 Mats old Gov. Java,
10 Bbls. A. Sugar,
10 Bbls Ex C Sugar,
10 Bbls. B F Yellow Sugar,
25 Bbls Demarara,
20 Boxes Bulk Sides,
10 " Shoulders,
5 Cases English Soda,
1,000 lbs. G. D and Sole Leather,
100 Sides Upper Leather,
50 " Harness Leather,
200 Cases O sters,
50 " Brandy Peaches,
5,000 Yds. Bagging,
6,000 lbs. Tics,
100 Bbls. Super Flour,
100 Bags Assorted Shot,
50 Bbls Extra Flour,
50 Cases Forrester's Crackers,
0 " Soda Crackers,
60 Boxes Factory and Dairy Cheese,
6,000 W. P. and G. D. Gun Caps,
1 Kegs Burden Horse and Mule Shoes,
200 lbs. Horse Shoe Nails,
30 Boxes Best Axes,
50 Boxes Adamantine Candles,
100 Boxes Laundry and Toilet Soaps.

We offer special inducements to country and near-by merchants, and invite an examination of our stock defy competition

Oct 7 12 m LEACH BROS

C. WEST & SONS,

ALADDIN SECURITY OIL.

The best Oil in use.

Warranted 150 Degrees Fire Test.

Water White in Color.

Fully Deodorized.

AND IT WILL NOT EXPLODE.

It burns in all Coal Oil and Kerosene Lamps.

TRY IT. Ask for "Aladdin Security" and take no other.

C. WEST & SONS,

113 and 115 W. Lombard St., Baltimore, Md.

Nov 18-6m

SPECULATORS IN SMOKE.

NEW CIGAR PALACE.

LEOPOLD BROS.,

Manufacturers Of Fine Cigars Only.

The Only Legitimate and Straightout Cigar House in Raleigh.

PATRONIZE HOME INDUSTRY.

12 Fine Brands manufactured in all coucievable styles.

The very best IMPORTED and DOMESTIC STOCK used in our Cigars.

Our Brands of Cigars are as follows:

THE ROSE (Copyrighted.)
FLOR DE CUBA
THE FIGARO TWIST, (Calebras.)
GOLDEN EAGLES, (Imported Stock.)
THE PRINCIPE.
THE OPERA ROSE.
FLOR DEL FUMAR
OLD PLANTATION.
LITTLE MAIMEE.
THE PARLOR

All Orders Punctually Attended to.

In course of manufacture, a great brand of Cigar, entitled the

"RALEIGH GEM."

Call and sample at

No. 57 Fayetteville Street, Opposite Market, RALEIGH, N. C.

b 10-3.o

L. H. WYATT. B. L. BINGHAM.

Wyatt, Bingham & Co.

Wholesale and Retail Grocers,

COTTON FACTORS

AND GENERAL

Commission Merchants,

No. 4 Market St. and No. 5 Market Exchange,

RALEIGH, N. C.

We tender our many thanks to our several customers and friends for their liberal patronage, and hope to merit a continuance of the same by our strict personal attention to our business, and by offering to them our large and well selected stock of

BOOTS, SHOES, HATS and CAPS,

Staple Dry Goods,

Cotton Yarns,

Sheetings,

Alamance Plaids, and

General Merchandise,

all of which we guarantee to be as recommended, and to sell at the lowest prices.

OUR GROCERY DEPARTMENT

is complete, and we make FLOUR a specialty and guarantee the lowest prices at retail and wholesale, also the quality to be equal or superior to any offered in the market for the price.

BAGGING and TIES, SALT and NAILS

always on hand and offered at the lowest market prices.

Consignments solicited, which will receive our prompt and personal attention, and the best prices obtained.

Jan 20-tf

THE JAS. LEFFEL Double Turbine Water Wheel,

Manufactured by

POOLE & HUNT,

Baltimore, Md.

7,000 NOW IN USE!

Simple, Strong, Durable, always reliable and satisfactory.

Manufacturers, also, of Portable & Stationary Engines, Steam Boilers, Saw & Grist Mills, Mining Machinery, Gearing for Cotton Mills, Flour, Paint, White Lead and Oil Mill Machinery, Hydraulic and other Presses, &c. Elevating, Pulleys and Hangers a specialty. Machine made Gearing; accurate and of very best finish. Send for Circulars.

mch 24-6m.

Williams & Haywood,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN

Drugs, Medicines, Paints, Oils, Dye Stuffs, Perfumery,

Fancy Articles, Garden Seeds, Fine Teas, Spices, Flavoring Extracts.

CIGARS, CHEWING TOBACCO &C.

Keep Constantly on hand, at lowest market prices, White Lead, Putty, Kerosene Oil, Linseed Oil, Lamp Oil, Tanner's Oil, Window Glass, Varnish, &c., &c.

Dec. 23 1-t

PROGRESS THE WATCHWORD

M rit and Success Hand in Hand.

BROOKLYN

Raleigh Christian Advocate.

Bobbitt & Gray, Publishers. | Published in the Interests of Methodism in North Carolina. | $2.20 Per Annum, in Advance.

Vol. XXI.---No. 17. | Raleigh, N. C., Wednesday, April 28, 1875. | Whole No. 1,055.

Selected Poetry.

Heavier the Cross.

Heavier the cross, the nearer heaven;
No cross without a heaven within—
Death, judgment from the heart are driven
Amid the world's tears and din.
Oh! happy he, who e'er he passes
Wh-n God hath set upon his cross

Heavier the cross the better Christian;
This is the touchstone God applies.
How many a garden would be wasting
Unwet by showers from weeping eyes!
The good by fire is purified;
The Christian is by trouble tried.

Heavier the cross the stronger faith;
The blood of palm strikes deeper root;
The vine juice sweetly issueth
When men have pressed the clustered fruit.
And courage grows where dangers come,
Like pearls beneath the salt sea foam.

Heavier the cross, the heartier prayer;
The bruised reeds most fragrant are;
Its sky and wind were always fair
The sailor would not watch the star;
And David's psalms had never been sung
If grief no heart had to wring.

Heavier the cross, the more aspiring;
From valleys we climb to mountain crest;
The pilgrim in the desert, tiring,
Longs for the Canaan of his rest;
The dove has here no rest in sight,
And to the ark she wings her flight.

Heavier the cross, the easier dying—
Death is a release from care to see;
To life's decay one bids defying,
From life's distress one then is free.
The cross surely lifts our faith
To unknown and unimpaired breath.

From the Germ.

Communicated.

For the Advocate.

"The Heathen are at Your Door."

BY REV. W. M. ROBEY.

Once it was our good or ill fortune to encounter a scoffer, who, affecting to be very wise, was berating the Church for her folly in taxing her energies and wasting her resources to send the gospel to distant heathen lands, while so many were unconverted and unsaved at home.

The Church, in his view, was but a poor affair at best, imperfectly organized and badly equipped for her work, and she ought not to think of such an enterprise as the conquest of the world till she put herself in better trim: and even then she ought to complete her home work before she branched out into other fields. He reflected severely on the absurdity of leaving here in her bosom some of the vilest sinners under heaven, and going forth to convert the comparatively pure and innocent heathen. "Talk" said he "of going to China to hunt for heathen! "The heathen are at your door."

This wise-acre was not alone in his wisdom. Many pious, well-meaning people have been misled by the same specious reasoning. They see and feel that the church is, on her human side, far below what she ought to be—that she has much work to do at home—that she has only partially conquered where she has marched victoriously. They are, therefore, ready to heed the suggestion that she ought to employ her resources in perfecting her home work before she embarks in new enterprises. These good people are therefore always ready to aid in supporting the gospel, and sustaining home missions, but are inclined to do little or nothing in sending the gospel to the whole world.

Now we maintain that they are greatly in error. We do not deny that the church has a home-work to do, and that it is very important; nor would we persuade any one to do less in this department than he is doing. But we maintain that this home-work is not paramount. The great work of the church is to preach the gospel to the whole world. This is the spirit of her commission. What she does for herself she must do preparatory to her peculiar work. She has no right to enrich herself in order to hoard her wealth—to deck and beautify herself only to feed her own pride—to arm and equip herself with burnished arms only to parade and shine her own glory.

She is God's conquering host. She is to march over the world. She is to know not to stand still. She is not to plant herself and sit down in some goodly land to rule it, and build strong towers, and magnificent temples, and fenced cities. She is to go and beat at the gates of every nation under heaven. She is to plant the cross in every land. She is to tell the story of salvation in the ears of those who have never heard it. These are to be her peculiar care, the objects of her great solicitude; and for the very reason that they have never heard it. For this reason they have peculiar claims upon her, and for this reason she is held peculiarly responsible. They are in darkness, in the very shadow of death, groping their way without light and without hope, guilty, condemned, lost, irrecoverably lost except by the means which she alone can furnish.

She has the remedy for their evil—the balm of Gilead—and she is, under God, the constituted physician. If she does not carry it to them it will not be carried at all, and they must perish.

Their case is a desperate one, and admits of no delay. She must hasten. She must not wait for a convenient time. She must not wait till she has nothing else to do. She must not wait till she is rich and powerful. She must go in her weakness and poverty. She must not wait till rivers are bridged, and walls are broken down, and gates are opened. She must go and bridge the rivers, break down the walls, and open the gates. She cannot afford to wait. The blood of perishing millions is required at her hands. The question is not whether she can go conveniently, but can she go at all?

The church has her responsibilities at home, and they are very great: but those that hang upon her abroad are greater. At home her light is shining, and the more she does abroad the brighter it will shine. At home all eyes have seen the light. All ears have the sound of salvation. She has uttered her warning. She has displayed the Cross, and cried "Behold the Lamb." If men will not look and live it is because they prefer death to life. They deliberately spurn Heaven's last and tenderest mercy. Their blood be upon themselves. She has delivered herself from the curse. To her the same divine voice comes as in the beginning with the same awful import "Go, and as you go, preach." This is the Divine commission—the Divine command—"that repentance and remission of sins be preached to all nations beginning at Jerusalem." This is the peculiar work of the Church, the work which is to take precedence of every other. The building of magnificent temples for the worship of God writing books, sermons, poetry, music, rearing and cunning schools and colleges organizing and training here and there christian societies, pastoral visiting, catechising and instructing, giving line upon line and precept upon precept—in a word by every means indoctrinating and confirming the Church, all this is good and truly Apostolical, but only good and Apostolical as the means of executing the Great command "to preach the gospel to every creature." The Church at home is the camp of instruction and drill. As such she constitutes the basis of the glorious campaign. Her work there must have constant reference to the seat of war, the field of conflict in "the regions beyond." She must be constantly ready to march. Every day she must send forward her reinforcements and supplies. For this purpose she must collect them, and not to consume them in empty parade or wanton feasting. The prisoners bound in chains of darkness cry from the pit. She and she alone is their chosen deliverer. If she fails to knock off their chains and rescue them from death there is no hope, and a just God requires their blood at her hands. To no other than the heathen in his darkness does she owe so much, and for no other is she held to such awful account.

To the Arminian Methodist we appeal especially. The Missionary spirit is the spirit of your church. It was this spirit that in the beginning gave it that impulse which has brought it to its present grand propositions. It was that which brought your Wesley to the wilds of America. It was the same spirit that carried the pioneer preacher to the almost unpeopled West, and to the wigwam of the Red Man. It is her missionary spirit that constitutes her chief glory to-day. Recognizing the obligation laid upon her by her great Head to preach the gospel to every creature as paramount to all others, and feeling that the eternal destiny of countless millions depends upon her faithfulness in executing His great command, she longs to penetrate the darkness of every quarter of the heathen world, and tell the story of salvation by faith in Christ, in the ear of every stranger to the cross. Are you in sympathy with her? or will you meet her earnest appeal with the wretched subterfuge, "The heathen are at your door?"

Beware! The voice of thy brother crieth to thee from the pit.

PARK H. CASSADY, a Baptist layman of Philadelphia, recently deceased, left to his widow the income of the bulk of his property, all of the property to revert at her decease to the Baptist Publication Society. It is believed that the society will ultimately receive $40,000 to $75,000 from the estate.

For the Advocate.

Our Sunday-School Interest.

MESSRS. EDITORS: Now that "the winter is past, the rain is over and gone, the flowers appear on the earth, the time of the singing of birds is come, and the voice of the turtle is heard in the land; the fig tree putteth forth her green figs, and the vine with the tender grape giveth a good smell," there should be a bold and united movement all along the line to rouse up, muster our forces, organize and put them vigorously to work in the noble cause of the Sunday-school. And to contribute some influence in this direction, I propose to write a few articles on the subject. To begin at the beginning, I will briefly notice:

1. THE HISTORY.

It was the custom of the primitive Christian Church to gather the children and youth on the Sabbath for the purpose of teaching them the cardinal doctrines of the Scriptures.—The persons thus taught were called "catechumen." When these catechumen were fully instructed, they were baptized and received into the church. During the past ages, however, this custom very nearly ceased. In 1527, Martin Luther organized schools in Germany for "the instruction of children and youth who could not attend day schools, that they might learn to read the Holy Scriptures." But up to this time the happy idea of a regular Sunday-school had not been suggested to the Christian world, until the time of Robert Raikes, an English philanthropist. In 1781 being annoyed by vicious street children, he rented rooms for Sunday-schools, employed poor women at a shilling a day to teach these neglected children to read, and thus succeeded in making a decided reformation among them. He published in his own newspaper, the Gloucester Journal, the successful results of his efforts, recommending the organization of Sunday-schools throughout the country.

The narrative was copied into other papers, and schools were soon established in all the principal towns. In four years from that time, it was estimated that 250,000 children were receiving Sunday school instruction in Great Britain. In 1786 the venerable Bishop Asbury established the first Sunday school on the plan of Raikes in the United States—five years after Raikes started his in Gloucester. The Friends took up the idea soon after in Philadelphia, and in 1791 the good Bishop White, of the Episcopal Church, became president of a Sunday-school Society in that city. The next year it seems they were introduced into Ohio at a military fort by Mrs. Lake, a christian woman who could not bear to see the children of the garrison spending their Sundays in sinful amusement. She according ly gathered twenty in her school—taught them the Westminster Catechism and lessons from the Bible.—These historical facts are deeply interesting in view of the immense numbers of schools that have grown out of these small beginnings. These were the handful of seeds scattered by the direction of Providence in England and America, that have made the wilderness of the infantile world rejoice and blossom as the rose.

The beautiful metaphor used by David in reference to the growth of the Jewish people may be fitly applied to the rapid progress of the Sunday school. "Thou has bought a vine out of Egypt,...and planted it.—Thou preparedst room before it, and didst cause it to take deep root, and it filled the land. The hills were covered with the shadow of it, and the boughs thereof were like the goodly cedars. She sent out her boughs to the sea, and her branches unto the river." So the vine of the Sabbath-school has grown. Its roots have gone deep down into the heart of the christian world—its fruitful boughs have stretched over the flowery hills and verdant vales of England, Scotland, Ireland, Germany, France, Russia, Italy, Spain, Greece, India, Holland, Belgium, Sweden, Denmark, the isles of the Sea, and the broad Continent of America from the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean. It is filling these countries with the sweet fragrance of youthful piety. But it has not reached its full growth yet. Being nourished by the vital sap of Gospel grace it will spread more and more until all the buds of the infantile world are engrafted into it, and then will come the prophetic period of the word's effulgescence—when it will bloom out into universal spring, and rush into the grand summer of the millennial glory.

To see the abounding fruitfulness of this vine, it may be well to refer to whole numbers of children gathered into the various Sabbath-schools of the christian world. There is nothing that speaks so eloquently as to the success of any enterprise, as reliable statistics, other things being equal. The following figures taken from a reliable source will give the estimate of the Sunday school scholars in the United States.

DENOMINATIONS.	SCHOLARS.
Methodist Episcopal, (North)	1,410,806
Methodist Episcopal, (South)	600,000
United Brethren,	135,950
Regular Baptist,	498,756
Presbyterians, (all kinds)	612,756
Reformed German,	51,210
Reformed Dutch,	51,160
Congregationalists,	368,937
Episcopalians,	253,584
Quakers,	65,000
Roman Catholics,	300,000
Moravians,	9,220
Total,	4,354,279

The above estimate is not complete. There are several denominations whose Sunday school statistics I have not found reported. The current estimate of those who have taken pains to inform themselves is this; that the whole number of Sunday-school scholars in the United States foot up in round number to 5,000,000
The number in Europe, 5,000,000
Total, 10,000,000

Robert Raikes, Bishop Asbury, Mrs. Lake and all the other Sunday school pioneers deserve to have erected to their memory a Sunday-school monument higher than the cloud-piercing Alps, more solid in durability than the rock-built pyramids of Egypt, and as resplendent in beauty as the arching rainbow. But whether the world ever builds it or not, the songs rolling up every Sabbath from ten thousand schools will chant their praise, the armies of children that go trooping over green hills on pic-nic days will unfurl the floating banners of their triumph, and the ten million Sunday-school children in Europe and America will be a more glorious monument to immortalize their memory than that made of marble or brass.

H. T. HUDSON.

(To be Continued.)

For the Advocate.

Jacob's Prayer.

BY REV. E. A. YATES.

How wonderful were the reach, grasp, tenacity, and results of Jacob's prayer! "I will not let Thee go, except Thou bless me," was an empowered humanity presenting a condition precedent upon which Nature's King should go on! It was, under Heaven's own arrangement of spiritual forces—free grace and free will—a hand flung up from earth through its hills and clouds of sin and death and sorrow, and brought down with thunder upon the very horns of the altar, "I will not let Thee go!" It secured to Jacob the new name of "Israel," which means a prince of God, because he prevailed with the Almighty. And all who are Israelites indeed are the children of a prince, and hold their relationship by the tenure of prayer. When, therefore, by reason of neglect, they fail in prevailing prayer, they lose their royalty and enjoyment of princely descent.

Subjectively, prayer is to the soul what the atmosphere is to the lungs. The blood, rushing through the arteries to the utmost extremity of the body, by the process of anastomosis, returns by the veins to the heart, thence into the lungs for contact with the life-giving element of the air; thence, into the heart again, and on around the circuit to the lungs to be again vitalized. Into the lungs, to feel the oxygen of the air, it must go regularly, or death! So the place of secret, prince-like prayer, is the soul's lungs. There, the atmosphere of Heaven is brought into contact with the currents of spiritual, religious life; and when this process ceases, spiritual death results. The post mortem then is easy, "Died from neglect of prayer."

I know a preacher who, having mentally produced a sermon, transfers a picture of it from his mind to a small sheet of paper, and then, with his finger upon each point, prays that God will help him to preach that particular point with power and efficiency. Who can doubt the benefit of this upon the preacher himself, and consequently to some extent upon those who hear? So, likewise, many church enterprises, and individual purposes of good, might be saved from a sickly existence and painful death by the vitalizing process of prince-like prayer. No soul was ever converted or saved without prayer.—The burden of a sigh, or contrite sinner's cry, is the ever-present expression of the throes of the new birth; and it never falls short of mercy's ear, or fails of success at mercy's throne! Prayer is the key that unlocks Heaven. It is heaven's telegraph-wire that reaches from outlying territories to the central home-government, over which messages from contrite hearts for pardon and peace take precedence of those from Angels who are out engineering highways for the universe. Those messages are always answered. Heaven is never crowded with business, nor confused by conflicting claims. The thunder of the cooling process of glowing worlds, or the terrific explosions of gas upon ten thousand suns, furnish no bar to a hearing of the sublime ultimatum laid at heaven's feet by a princely Jacob! Nor can the noise of rushing spheres, or the swell of "the new song," drown the plaintive cry of the pale sufferer as she lies upon a bed of languishing and pain. No! thank God! Our Father always has an ear turned towards earth to catch the first cry of the benighted, the sorrowful and the penitent. Moved by the power of prayer, His hand shakes the clouds of darkness and sorrow over the ramparts of the morning, and pours into the soul the light of salvation from the hill-tops of Zion! Moved by prayer, Heaven speaks, and the timid sufferer grows courageous in the presence of the King of Terrors, as she cries, "Oh death! where is thy sting!" Moved by prayer, mercy descends, and the believing penitent exclaims, "I have found Him, and He is reconciled."

The secret of religious success is found in the formulary of Jacob's prayer, "I will not let Thee go except Thou bless me."

A Pleasant and Profitable Sabbath

It was my pleasure to spend last Sabbath in Concord, and I am glad it was my good fortune so to do; for Concord, though as brisk and lively during the week as any town in North Carolina, is quiet and orderly on Sunday, and offers superior facilities for religious enjoyment. Being a Methodist in theory and faith when the church bells began their inviting calls, I responded to that of my Church, and listened to one of the most interesting, impressive and forcible sermons it has been my privilege to enjoy for sometime, from the pastor of said Church, Rev. O. J. Brent, whose text was the "chain of Christian graces," which he handled with eloquence, pathos and originality. Mr. Brent is a man of natural oratorical powers; magnetic and impressive in his delivery, original in his manner, earnest in his style and very pointed and matter-of-fact in his application. The congregation was very large, as I understand, is usually the case, and attentive. I learn Mr. Brent is held in very high esteem by his flock and the community which is so fortunate as to have him serve them. I cannot close without complimenting the singing. I like the arrangement of the choir. Locating the organ in front of the pulpit is certainly far preferable, in my judgment, to the common custom of hoisting it in an elevated and obscure corner of a church, where the choir almost invariably monopolizes the singing.

We expect to hear good news from Concord Station this year.

A.

April 6th, 1875.

—Concord Register.

THE WANT MET BY CHRIST.—Strauss neglected in his work the point which should have been most essential—the origin of Christianity, the supreme and critical epoch in which the doctrine arose. Liberty and the republic had died in Rome. The philosophers of Greece had been converted, with the Stoics, into practical moralists. Jerusalem, which always endeavored to preserve its God apart from the world, experienced the desire of the Sadducees to give Him in communion to all nations and make Him known to all the world. The deserts were filled with saints, with ascetics and hermits, who clamorously demanded the dew of Heaven for their desolate, thirsting souls. In Egypt, wherever there passed a conqueror, a tribune, or a poet, the people asked if this was he they hoped for. Alexandria brought together the ideas of the East and West, as if to form a new dogma. The Ebionites and Essenes were scattered about Jerusalem, making public profession of poverty, with the presentiment of the rich renovation of the spirit. The Gnostiss brought in vague echoes of the Oriental religions, reflections of the early twilight of the religious conscience. And all this crisis was collected and personified in a youth of the most benighted region, the most oppressed people, the divine Youth who annihilated religious caste and gave His life for the two grandest ideas of future civilization, for the moral liberty of our souls and religious equality before God for all men.—EMILIO CASTELAR, in Harper's Magazine for May.

There was never a hero in this world, there was never anybody that the human race conceived of as royal, who had not suffered for others, who had not given himself in some sense for his fellow men.

A man, seventy seven years old, has made his appearance in Philadelphia, wearing a hat which he put on his head thirty one years ago, vowing he would never remove it until Henry Clay was elected President.

A Bath in the Dead Sea.

C. A. Kingsbury writes as follows for Forest and Stream of a bath in the Dead Sea: "Reaching at length this most remarkable of all seas and lakes on our globe, we prepared to take a bath—and such a bath I can hardly expect ever to take again. I had previously bathed in numerous seas, lakes and rivers, but never did I enjoy such a bath as this. The specific gravity of the water is such, from its holding in solution so large a proportion of salts (twenty-six and a half per cent.) that one floats upon its surface like a cork. At the time there was only a gentle ripple upon the sea, and being a good swimmer I at once struck out into deep water. I soon found that I could not only swim and float with wonderful ease, but that I could actually walk in the water, sinking only to the armpits. Discovering this fact, I made for the shore and taking Dr. C., one of our party, who could not swim, by the hand, led him into the sea where the water was many fathoms deep. At first he was quite reluctant to follow me, but he soon gained confidence on finding there was no danger of sinking, and he enjoyed the novel bath as much as if he had been an expert swimmer. Should the bather allow the water to get into his eyes or mouth he would suffer considerable abatement in his enjoyment, on account of its extremely salt, bitter and irritating nature. No fish can live in this sea, but various kinds of ducks abound here at certain seasons of the year. The water was as clear as ordinary sea water, its temperature was agreeable and it had an oily feeling, and altogether its action on the surface of the body was such as to develop those pleasurable sensations pertaining to the sense of touch, accompanied by the most delightful exhilaration. Of all the baths in the world give me a bath in the Dead Sea.

An Ancient Literature,

For twenty five years students of the Assyrian and Babylonian remains have been working hardest to develop the history of those empires. They have been spurred no to their work by their brilliant success in discovering long and full records of various monarchs mentioned in the Scriptures, and by the invaders accounts of the victories recorded in the Old Testament over the various kings of Judah and Israel. These wonderful confirmations of the sacred history have been carefully developed, and a new and very important chapter of the world's history has been recovered, including tolerably complete annals of successive kings, beginning nearly 2,000 years before the conquest of Babylon by Cyrus. But it is only within a very few years that we have begun to learn what was the real literature of these people, what their books, what their inner life and feelings, what their Iliad or Kalevala, what their omens and exorcisms and star-gazers' prodigies. To these subjects the labor of Assyrian students is now directed, and already a rich store of information has been secured, as important as it is envious. The public attention directed to this subject through the discovery by Mr. George Smith, of the Babylonian story of the Flood, resulted in the commission given to Mr. Smith, first by the publishers of the London "Telegraph," and afterward by the British Museum, to carry on further explorations in Nineveh, with the object of completing the story of the Flood, and of securing other records. He was successful in discovering the only missing fragment of that story, and in adding other mythological and historical tablets of great value, translations of which, as of inscriptions previously in the British Museum, he has given in his important work just published, entitled "Assyrian Discoveries."—Dr. W. H. Ward: Scribner for May.

Only Two.

Only two ways. One broad, the other narrow; one leads to destruction, the other to life; many go by the one, few by the other. Which is your way? Only two sorts of people. Many sorts in man's opinion—many societies, classes, sects, and denominations. Only two in God's sight: the righteous and the wicked, the wheat and the chaff, the living and the dead. Which are you? Only two deaths: the death of the righteous and the death of the wicked. Which do you think you will die? Which do you wish to die? Which would it be if you were to die this moment? Only two sides at the day of judgment; the right hand and the left. Only those two. Those on the right hand will be blessed—"Come, ye blessed of my Father." Those on the left will be cursed—"Depart, ye cursed." All must appear before the judgment-seat of Christ, to receive the things done in the body, whether good or bad. What word shall be spoken to you? On which side of the throne will you stand?

Dr. Livingstone on Fasting.

Dr. Livingstone, in his last journal, writing in a part of Africa where he was compelled to subsist on the coarsest fare, makes the following suggestions in regard to utilizing the power which is often spent in what is called self mortification, but which, in too many cases, becomes a sort of self gratification:

"A couple of Europeans beginning and carrying on a mission without foreign attendants, implies coarse country fare, it is true. But this would be nothing to those who, at home, amuse themselves with fastings, vigils, etc. A great deal of power is thus lost in the church. Fastings and vigils, without a special object in view, are time run to waste. They are made to minister to a sort of self-gratification, instead of being, turned to account for the good of others They are like groaning insickness. Some people amuse themselves, when sick, with continous moaning. The forty days of Lent might be annually spent in visiting adjacent tribes and bearing unavoidable hunger and thirst with a good grace. Considering the greatness of the object to be attained, men might go without sugar, coffee, tea, etc I went from September 1866, to November, 1866, without either."

Sana Mens in Sano Corpore.

The writer of an article on "The Physiology of Authorship," in a London magazine, asserts that most men of genius stimulate their brains by more or less deranging their digestions; that BALZAC, who carried that system to an extreme, had twenty years of full work at his best, against the twelve of SCOTT, who lived a very healthy life; and suggests that GOETHE's hour of inspiration was the theatre, though the morning was his hour of production; so that he is no exception to the rule that the Muse only comes by night. But our writer sadly mixes things; besides, he attempts to prove too much. BALZAC had a good life of it, but was never quite well; and yet who shall say that good, sound health would not have prevented the inequalities of much that he has written! SCOTT wrote Waverly, Antiquary, Guy Mannering, Kenilworth, and Old Mortality in his earlier years. It was when, to lift the burden of debt, he gave his days and nights to writing impromtu novels and histories that his health gave way, and, as Mr. CARLYLE expresses it, "when he departed he took a man's life along with him." As to GOETHE, his inspiration was in him before he squandered away time in the theatre. Besides, he took a wild delight in all sorts of physical exercise—riding, swimming, walking, skating. So, too, HUMBOLDT made his physical health his special care, and accomplished work that few other men have ever done. We might never have had the Memorabilia but for SOCRATES' hardy health. The world is full of examples showing that, as a rule, a sound mind gives the best results when working in a sound body.

Gems of Speech.

Emulation looks out for merit that she may exert herself by victory; envy spies out blemishes that she may have mother by a defeat.

Applause waits on success; the fickle multitude, like the straw that floats along the stream, glide with the current still and follow fortune.

He who freely praises what he means to purchase, and he who enumerates the faults of what he means to sell, may set up a partnership with honesty.

Nothing is rarer than a solitary lie, for lies breed like Surinam toads; you cannot tell one but it comes out with a hundred young ones on its back.

It is not enough that we swallow truth: we must feed upon it as insects do on the leaf, till the whole heart is colored by its qualities, and show its food in every fibre.

Were we to take much pains to be what we ought to be as we do to disguise what we really are, we might appear like ourselves without being at the trouble of any diguise at all.

A Scotch minister, when asked whether he was dying, answered: "Really, friend I care not whether I am or not for if I die, I shall be with God and if I live, God will be with me."—Richmond Christian Advocate.

To young men the road up the hill may be hard, but at any rate it is open, and they who set stout hearts against a stiff hill shall climb it yet. If young men would deny themselves, work hard, and save in their early days, they need not keep their noses to the grindstone all their lives as many do. Let them be teetotallers for economy's sake; water is the strongest drink; it drives mills. It's the drink for lions and horses, and Samson never drank anything else. The beer money would soon build a house.—C. H. Spurgeon.

Presumptive Evidence of Inspiration.

The author of that admirable book, called "THE PARACLETE," in a chapter treating of the inspiration of the Bible, writes as follows:

"The believers in the Bible have been impelled to translate it into all languages and to send it into all regions. The Bible has, as a mere matter of fact, forced its way where no other book has ever gone; and as for the variety of intellect which it has interested in its fortunes, no other writing can bear comparison with it. The coldest and most ardent temperaments have alike sought to extend its influence; the richest learning and the most splendid eloquence have felt honored in its service; and the most valorous men have hazarded their lives to publish its contents in hostile lands. They have done this because of the effect of Bible teaching upon their hearts; necessity was laid upon them; and out of this necessity came their highest joy. Such facts, which can be verified without trouble, show how true it is that the Bible so discloses its subjects as to claim the homage of all nations through all time. This consideration is evidently of some value as a practical test of the presumptive inspiration of the book. If nature be recalled as a witness, we shall be told that universality characterizes all the great gifts of God, and therefore will probably mark any revelation which professes to have been indited by his Spirit."

Colonel Bonaparte.

In the Franco-Prussian war, Colonel Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte [grandson of Jerome Bonaparte, and Madame Patterson-Bonaparte] distinguished himself by his personal bravery and splendid soldierly qualities. After the capture of the Emperor at Sedan, Colonel Bonaparte escorted the Empress through France, and returned to Paris in time to take a conspicuous part in the memorable siege of that city. During the Commune he escaped from Paris just in time to save his life.

At the close of the war, Colonel Bonaparte came back to the United States and visited Baltimore. In the summer of 1871, at Newport, R. I., he married Caroline Le Roy Appleton (Mrs Newbold Edgar), grandaughter of Daniel Webster.

Colonel Bonaparte has all the qualities of a successful leader: he is brave, dashing, and fearless. When we recall the many extraordinary events that have happened in France during the last ninety years—when we remember that a lieutenant of artillery at Toulon became the conqueror of Austerlitz and Emperor of France—that the grandson of the guillotined Beauharnais became Napoleon III.—does it seem impossible that we have a future Emperor of France among us in Colonel Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte of Baltimore?—E. L. Didier; Scribner for May.

Laughing Stock.

Owed to spring—fresh violets.

Something about dogs—fleas.

A doughmestic difficulty—heavy bread.

Spring is on hand. Lettuce have peas.

Ague without fever is no great shakes.

A heavy business—importing elephants.

The worth of woman—double you, O man.

Improving one's time—mending the clock.

It takes a pretty smart man to tell when he is happy.

The home circle—walking around with the baby at night.

What is better than a promising young man? A paying one.

When a man can't find anything to do, he has lived long enough.

Why is the sun like a good loaf? Because it's light when it rises.

A young lady while out walking heard, for the first time, her mother's intention to marry again, and she was obliged to sit right down and cry about it. She could not go a step-fa(r)ther.

"Don't call on me for three days," is what an Ashland girl posted on the front gate, and she further added: "I'm going to eat some onions this week if I never have another beau."—Cleveland Herald.

It is related of a certain minister, who was noted for his long sermons with many divisions, that one day, when he was advancing among his teens, he reached at length a kind of resting-place in his discourse, when, pausing to take breath, he asked the question: "And what shall I say more?" A voice from the congregation earnestly responded, "Say 'Amen!'"

"Have you any eggs?" inquired a peaceful looking old man as he leaned over the counter of a hardware store recently. "No sir,—this is a hardware store; we keep nails, stoves, etc." answered the clerk. "Well, I did want some eggs," slowly drawled the old man, "but I hain't particular, and you may give me a pound of nails."

The Christian Advocate.

OFFICE—Corner of Dawson & Hargett Sts

THE ORGAN
OF THE
NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE
OF THE
M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

Rev. J. B. Robbitt, R. T. Gray, Esq. } Editors.

RATES OF SUBSORIPTION:

FOR ONE YEAR, IN ADVANCE, POSTAGE PAID, $2.20
SIX MONTHS, " " 1.35
If payment be delayed six months, 2.70

All letters on business with this office should be addressed to the Editors of the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

RALEIGH, N. C., APRIL 28, 1875.

The Cross (X) Mark is to remind you that your subscription has expired. Let all renew promptly.

We are pained to learn of the extreme illness of Bishop Paine. Let the whole Church pray that a gracious Heavenly Father may stay his disease and restore him to health.

The last issue of the Nashville Advocate announces the death of Rev. A. G. Stacy, of Austin Texas. He was "a true man—of good learning, devout spirit and great zeal." He died, full of faith in Christ, on the 8th inst.

Rev. A. R. Raveu, in charge of Washington Station, is at present on a visit to his relatives in this city.—He preached an excellent sermon at Person Street Church on Sabbath eveniug.

The new church now in course of erection on Person Street in this city, will be dedicated to the worship of Almighty God on the second Sabbath in June. Bishop E. M. Marvin, D. D. LL. D., will preach the dedicatory sermon.

On the first page of this issue of the Advocate will be found an enter taining article (to be continued next week) from the facile pen of Rev. H. T. Hudson, on the subject of Sunday Schools, to which he brings that careful research and elegance of expression for which he is noted as a writer.

The Young Men's Christian Association of Raleigh will hold a mass meetiog in the First Baptist Church on Sunday night the 2d of May, to promote the interests of the order. Messrs W. W. Holden, D. W. Bain and W. J. Primrose constitute the committee of arrangemeut, from whom the senior acknowledges an invitation to be present.

We are called upon to record the death of Sister Thomas, wife of Brother E. B. Thomas of this city. She had been a consistent member of the M. E. Church, South, for thirteen years. For several weeks previous to her death, she was a patient sufferer. Her disease was consumption. She knew her end was near, and was perfectly resigned to the will of God, and sweetly fell asleep in Jesus on the 22d instant. Her funeral took place from Edenton Street Church, of which she was a member, on Friday afternoon at 3 P. M. She leaves a deeply smitten husband and three children to mourn their loss. May a gracious heavenly Father minister to them in their sad bereavement.

The revival at Person Street Church continues with great interest. The congregation on the Lord's day both morning and evening was unusually large. After the eleven o'clock sermon, a collection was taken to aid in building the new church, and about $550 were secured in subscriptions and cash in a very short time. The ladies of the sewing society of Edenton Street Church gave $50 of this amount. This is the third time this congregation has been appealed to since the commencement of the revival in behalf of the church, and each time they have responded liberally.—If our friends abroad would aid us, as we supposed they would do, the whole amount necessary could be raised without difficulty. The church is to be completed without delay. Bishop Marvin has consented to dedicate it to the worship of Almighty God. This announcement will be received with joy by the citizens of Raleigh and the people generally.

Sunday School Society.

The North Carolina Conference Sunday School Society meets in Greensboro on Friday next. Ample arrangements have been made for the accomodation of delegates and visitors to the pleasant little "city of flowers" and the occasion promises to be one of much interest and enjoyment. The programme of exercises, as published in the Advocate several times, indicates that the addresses, sermons and discussions will be entertaining and profitable. We trust that the attendance may be large and that much good will be done for the Sunday-school cause,—an interest which so materially affects the progress and good of the Church.

While the Sunday-school is not a necessity—a sine qua non—to the persperity of the Church, yet it is a valuable adjunct whose aid the Church cannot well dispense with. The various denominations of the christian Church realize the importance of fostering this branch of their work with tender and jealous care, knowing that upon it they depend in great measure for the reinforcement of their ranks, by young, active and zealous recruits Lotteries.

We opine that the people of North Carolina will hereafter let 'Grand Lottery Schemes' "severely alone," from motives of sound business policy, if not from conscientious scruples. The history of Lottery schemes in North Carolina is such as to give the patrons of such institutions no well grounded hope of coming into the sudden possession of elegantly constructed and well appointed Hotels, fine residences, broad acres or glittering thousands of United States currency notes. The North Carolina Hester-lottery at Raleigh several years ago, a similiar one at Wilmington, and a later one at Wilson, proved if not swindles, at best grand failures both in respect to the objects for which they were originated and to the avaricious hopes of those who invested their round sums or small change in the uncertain turn of ficklo fortune's wheel. A postponement, in each case, of the grand drawing only served to excite the hopes and prolong the dreams of gullible patrons, who thought that the "short and unimportant' delays would only result in more complete and full distributions of Fortune's favors of which each expected his certain share. But a meagre sale of tickets, a consequent heavy scale of prizes, and a slim distribution, mercilessly (why not mercifully?) turned 'great expectations' into grum disappointment, played wild havoc with fanciful air castles and made many sadder and wiser if not better men.

And now cometh, in regular train, the story of the Greensboro "Big Bonanza" — the Benbow House bauble—the promising project—the delayed delusion—the frail foundation on which at one and the same time a Temple was to be raised for Odd Fellows, and fortunes for nnmberless holders of tickets. After two or three postponements, in order to get returns, etc., from agents, it is reported that out of one hundred thousand tickets issued, eighteen thousand were sold and at the drawing the gifts scaled to one sixth of the value. So that those who went to Greenshoro to get the Benbow House, (and we learn they were many) got their supper and breakfast—by paying the regular fare without a reduction or scale—Some of the secular papers that advertised and lauded the scheme, are now pronouncing it a 'swindle' whether from honest conviction or disappointed hopes, we know not.

We find it hard to think that those gentlemen (among the best in Greensboro) who had it in charge, would permit, much less engage in, a well devised swindle, and do not therefore suggest that the scheme was such in its origin or conduct. The end proposed was a quasi-benevolent one and therefore praiseworthy; but the means adopted were as we have before contended, not only visionary and impropet, but unchristian and disreputable. We have no sympathy therefore for the managers in the total failore of their project, or for the ticket holders who will readily recall who it is that, the proverb declares, so easily parts with his money. The project was a magnificent one in its design—as plausible and magnificent as Wilkins Micawber or Col. Beriah Sellers could have devised—but it has happily proven as empty in reality and issues as the grandest schemes of either of those ethereal-minded gentlemen.

The intentions of those who managed the institution may have been and were doubtless good—they proposed to carry out their plans in good faith toward the patrons of the enterprise. They had a laudable object in view, but were visionary and unfortunate in the selection of the means of accomplishing it. The good sense, if not the scruples, of the public prevented the liberal patronage which was necessary to the success of the project, and it failed as it ought to have failed.

The public is generous and benevolent enough, and fraternities are zealous and rich enough, to contribute to the furtherance of all necessary and worthy enterprises, without being induced thereto by false hopes of being reimbursed by the lucky turn of a lottery wheel. Let the public be appealed to in the right way and if it appear right and proper, a grand Temple will go up in Greensboro' in honor of the noble and benevolent Order of Odd Fellows. We would be glad to see it erected, both as an ornament to a town, noted for its cultivated and enterprising people, and as a monument to an Order whose principles are founded in religion and humanity, and whose deeds of love and mercy have given light for darkness and rejoicing for sorrow.

Those who invested in the lottery with the hope of leaping into affluence, have yet to learn (if they have not by this time learned,) that industry, patience, and economy are the only true path to fortune. Riches acquired in any other way are rare and oftener prove a curse than a blessing. It is according to Heaven's economy that toil shall accumulate wealth, and idleness starve—that blessings shall be bestowed where there is merit and not on those whom blind chance points out.

The Sunday school Society of the North Carolina Conference will meet in the town of Greensboro this week. We, the senior, return thanks for several invitations to be present, and would most gladly attend if it were in our power to do so. We have been with the revival at Person Street Church from its commencement, and stand pledged to stand by it till its close.

Dr. W. H. McKee, an eminent and highly esteemed physician of this city, died on last Friday night, after an illness of several days. His death has cast a shadow over the hearts of our citizens by whom he was revered and honored for his medical skill, great integrity and kindly nature.

The Claims of Our Paper.

MESSRS. EDITORS: I desire to make an appeal to our people in behalf of the Advocate. As this fast age is very much averse to long sermons and long articles, I will try to be brief as possible.

First, It is conceded on all hands that the publication of a good paper is a necessity to the prosperity of N. C. Methodism. We may have able ministers in the pulpit, we may have flourishing Sunday-schools, we may have great revivals, we may have a strong membership, yet all these will not supply the lack of a religious journal. These things cannot spread abroad a knowledge of our great enterprises, they cannot supply the thousands of Methodist families with a weekly fund of wholesome, edifying, enlightening, fresh, reading matter. They cannot furnish a medium for making public our quarterly, camp, and conference meetings, nor an organ in whose columns interesting discussions, memoirs, obituaries, revival accounts, church dedications, college commencements, personal notices, and distant correspondence, are published and carried to the firesides of our widely scattered people. These beams of light, that do so much in giving growth, strength and beauty to our cause, can only be reflected from the face of our weekly-coming luminary. Thus it is seen that the Advocate is an absolute necessity to the prosperity and public position of N. C. Methodism.

Secondly. If a well conducted journal is necessary, then the necessity is laid upon somebody to publish it. The rains come, the flowers bloom, and the sun shines, and bless us without money and without price. But while religious journals refresh us like rain, adorn our minds as flowers the trees, and brighten our homes as the sun the world, yet they cannot be published without money and price.—Several thousand dollars must be locked up in the purchase of a press, type and fixtures, before a single cent is realized from the office. Then the current expenses are not only heavy, but are rigid and uniform in their weekly demands. We preachers, when our funds run low, have learned to economize by wearing our old clothes a little longer, feasting on black-eyed peas, fat meat, corn bread, &c. In this way we contrive to float over the shoals of a pecuniary pinch. But editors have no elastic power of shrinking their expenses. Whether the money comes in or not, one thing is certain, it is bound to go out. It must be had from some quarter. The journeyman printer must receive his eighteen dollars every Saturday night—the paper manufacturer must receive his money before the blankpaper is sent—the ink-seller must be paid—the gas that lights up the office must be paid for—and numerous incidental expenses must be paid. I know from personal experience, that there is no way to dodge, postpone, or meet these weekly demands, except by "planking down the cash." And if the money does not come in through subscriptions, then the editors must find it somewhere else, or stop business. It will be seen from these remarks, that it not only requires intellectual labor to write editorials and good taste to make judicious selections, but the most adroit business tact to run a paper as successfully as the Advocate is being run. I am not saying too much when I state that the same business talent, that makes the paper a success, would soon make a handsome fortune in some other honorable business.

Thirdly. If we must have a paper, if the successful running of this organ requires capital, close financiering, brains, and unceasing toil through all the seasons of the year, then it seems to be a duty as clear as the sun in the cloudless heavens, that the whole church, the ministry and laity, should rally unitedly around our editors, and "make a long pull, a strong pull and a pull altogether," to roll up the subscription of the Raleigh Christian Advocate to the highest pitch of prosperity.

H. T. HUDSON.

Shelby, April 20th, 1875.

Trinity Commencement.

Commencement will be on the 9th and 10th of June.

Rev. E. A. Yates will preach the sermon before the Theological Society.

Bishop Marvin will preach the Annual Sermon and dedicate the new Chapel.

Rev. Dr. Munsey will deliver the Literary Address before the Societies.

Further notice will be given as to arrangements, accommodations, &c.

B. CRAVEN.

April 20th, 1875.

For the benefit of "Subscriber" at Wilmington who kindly responded to the appeal made in the Advocate in behalf of Person Street Church, we will say that the sum was received by Sam'l C. White, Cashier of the State National Bank and Treasurer of the Building Committee, and applied to the use of the church.

Rev. L. J. Holden, writing from Toisnot, under date of April 22d, says, "We are having a glorious work at Toisnot. 18 persons have given in their names to join the church, several are still at the altar. Interest still increasing. May God still own and bless!"

The Rev. W. M. Robey, the Rev. Dr. Closs and the Heathen Again.

MESSRS. EDITORS: When I closed my last article concerning the heathen, I hoped I was done writing on that subject for the present. I tried to be done—I was done, but Bro. Robey and Dr. Closs would not let me stay done. Six columns from the former and three from the latter, since my last was written, demand some notice at my hands.

Bro. Robey's wonderful performances during this discussion have forcibly reminded me of the nimble insect, of the genus Pulex, which so effectually eluded the gentleman from Ireland. Every time I thought I "had" this theological "flea," on taking up my hand, I found that "he was not there." The flea aforesaid insists that my failure to "catch" him resulted from a "mistake" as to his whereabouts, rather than from his skillful and frequent "change of base." Well, when I have time not to write "hurriedly," I may put on my polemical spectacles and see if I cannot find his "tracks" at the points at which I put down my pen. And, I now advertise him that if I succeed in tracking and capturing him, I will turn him over to the "tender" but crushing "mercies" of our greatly wronged "standard authors."

On reading the lugubrious effusions of Dr. Closs in to-day's Advocate, over my alleged departnre from the faith, I could almost see the fabled tears of the crocodile coursing down the venerable cheeks of my "first Presiding elder," as he was preparing to devour his quondam protege. And, it was easy to imagine myself in an 'old field school house,' where Dr. C. as the presiding genius, with 'birch' in hand, was 'reading' me a sharp lecture, preliminary to 'flogging' me for my 'temerity' in violating one of his 'rules.' My appreciation of the Doctor's efforts to save me from heresy would have been much warmer had they not been characterized by so much apparent disingennousness and manifest recklessness of statement.—If the Doctor is not careful, his feverish anxiety to defend his reputation, as a theologian and dialectician, may lead him to make one for unfairness and recklessness in argument that will be so well established as to need no defence. I can afford to smile at his disingenuous coupling of my name with that of Tom Paine, and his attempt to show that my theory is the same with the blasphemous one of that noted deist. His course will, I am sure, fail of its designed effect on thinking men, and will receive the condemnation that it so richly merits. But, when the Doctor, in order to support his 'reckless' charge of deism, gives garbled extracts from my articles, the matter becomes a little more serious. I could pass unnoticed his utter failure to support the "reckless statements' he made in his first reference to my theory, if he did not persist in misrepresenting me. Now, the Doctor may think these 'statements' of mine are 'rather reckless,' but 'I have the proof at hand,' and it will now be "forthcoming." I will first give a specimen of the Doctor's garbling. In trying to show that the heathen, if saved at all, are saved by faith, I directed attention to the oneness of saving faith, in nature, everywhere, and with all men—its oneness in principle, but its diversity as to the particular means or fact, by which it is developed. In doing so, I used the language which the Doctor quotes.—Now, let us see how fairly he quotes:

THE DOCTOR'S GARBLED EXTRACT.	WHAT I DID WRITE.
"And I am persuaded that God requires nothing more as a condition of pardon, let him be heathen or Christian."	"And I am persuaded that God requires nothing more, in the principle of faith, as a condition of pardon from any man, let him be heathen or Christian."

The intelligent reader will not fail to see that the five words put in italics, and which I wrote to qualify and fix the meaning of the passage, and which Dr. C. left out, very materially affect its sense. The faith of the Christian may be the same in nature or principle with that of the heathen, and yet be very different as to the particular fact by which it is developed. Hence I added in the very next sentence to the one the Doctor misquoted, the following explanatory language: "The Christian may have more and different facts presented to his faith, as the media through which God's existence and character, and his own duty and privileges are revealed to him; but the effect of such revelation is the same in nature with that produced in the devout heathen, by the same revelation, made through other and different facts." I then went on to speak of faith in the fact of 'Christ crucified,' as being required of men in gospel or Christian lands.

If the Doctor had quoted a little further, then, and had not left out the words referred to, 'comment would' indeed have been 'superfluous.' And as the Doctor has made the attempt to array me in my theory against our standard authors, I commend to his close attention the following passage from Mr. Watson, which I quoted in the article next to the one above quoted from. In speaking of the heathen, he says, "The dispensation of religion under which all those nations are to whom the gospel has never been sent, continues to be the patriarchal dispensation. That men were saved under it in former times we know; and at what point, if any, a religion becomes so far corrupted, and truth so far extinct, as to leave no means of salvation to men, nothing to call forth TRUE FAITH, IN PRINCIPLE, and to obedience to what remains known or knowable of the original law, no one has the right to determine, unless he can adduce some authority from Scripture. That authority is certainly not available to the conclusion that, in point of faith, the means of salvation are utterly withdrawn from heathens."

Now, one word as to the Doctor's 'reckless statements.' In his second letter to Bro. Yates, he used the following language: 'My young friend, Rev. J. R. Brooks, plants himself fully on the platform of the deist.' Again; 'The better class of them [deists] will assign to Christ a more respectable position in their creed than he does.' Again: 'He says that Christ is but the development of one of God's attributes.' Now, here are three distinct statements which I called broad and rather reckless.' The Doctor intimates that 'modesty' ought to have prompted me to say that to my mind they seem to be reckless.' I reproduce them to see how they 'seem' to others. He says, 'a statement can only be recklessly made when there is not proof to substantiate it. You ought to have known that when I made a statement, I have the proof at hand, and that it will be forthcoming when called for.' In reply to the Doctor I called attention to the three statements and referred specially to the latter two, showing that they were 'reckless' in the Doctor's sense, and had the 'temerity' to call 'for the proof.' In response, the Doctor, to punish my 'temerity' and to teach me 'prudence in the future,' gives garbled extracts from my articles in proof of the five general statements, without noticing the two to which I specially objected. Is 'the proof at hand?' If so, why has it not been 'forthcoming?' Will it be given? I think not. For, the Doctor has none, and, after writing two letters on my deism, he goes on to something else. I do not ask for garbled extracts, but for good, honest proof. The Doctor will pardon my 'temerity' in again calling for proof. We are not in a Conference examining committee-room with him to examine us now. And, some of us, in this 'age of progress,' have learned to distinguish between age and theological accuracy. We prefer not to take any man's ipse dixit in matters of theology. We have found, too, that stringing together a long list of Scripture passages that do not bear on the question at issue, is not proof of an unscriptural theory or disproof of a Scriptural one. And, I need hardly say to the intelligent readers of the Advocate that the passages quoted in the Doctor's last letter do not bear against my theory. and that I heartily assent to all of them.

I do not charge the Doctor with purposely garbling my words or misrepresenting me. But the effect of such a course is the same. And it seems a little strange that one who does not write in 'haste,' should commit such blunders.

And what shall I say of the following language used in reference to my theory after he had taken several short passages in my articles out of their qualifying and explanatory connections? He says: 'I ask can that be Christianity which excludes Christ as an object of faith?' On reading this, one would suppose that I made no reference to Christ and his work as the indispensable object of the Christian's faith The reader will probably be surprised to read the following passages in the article following the one from which the Doctor quotes! "My intellect must assent to, and my emotional nature must embrace, the glorious concrete fact that Jesus Christ, as God, so hated sin and so loved me as to die on the Cross in order to conquer sin and save me. * * * In this view of the nature and subject—matter of faith in 'Christ crucified,' do we see the philosophy of God's requirement of faith in that fact" etc. The passages which Dr. C. quotes occur near the close of my third article, and these that I have given occur near the commencement of my fourth, and were added, as I then stated, 'in order to prevent misapprehension.' But I seem to have failed of my object, at least with the Doctor. Shall it be so with your other readers? I trust not.

Now, in a former article, I called similar 'broad' statements of the Doctor 'rather reckless,' and asked for proof. But he objects and seems disposed to punish me for my 'temerity' in doing so. I did not like to charge the Doctor with unfairness, and he would prevent my concluding that his mistakes result from hurry; for he intimates that he does not write 'in haste.' If I were as old as he, or were as old as Bro. Abernethy, I should probably address him in his own chosen words to that brother and say: 'When you shut me up to the alternative to assume that you either' wrote recklessly or disingenuously, I will, in charity, 'assume the former.' And the term 'reckless' is about the softest word I can use to convey my meaning. And if we were of the same age, I should probably make the following comment and suggestion: The Doctor, in referring to my theory and in quoting from me, was either 'reckless' or disingenuous. If the former, he should either get my articles by heart or keep them before him while he is reviewing my theory. If the latter, he might do well to 'study' polemical ethics a little or give all his time to his district. I might suggest, too, that if he don't mind, some uncharitable person will attribute his recklessness to desperation caused by his full failure to fasten his pet theory on the Methodist public.

I will conclude by asking the Doctor the following question:

Will he tell us wether or not he 'grants' with Bro. Robey and Mr. Watson, that there is a possibility of heathen salvation in the absence of the gospel? If not, would it not be well for him and Bro. R. to agree upon a line of defence so as not to come so often in conflict with each other? And if not, who has abandoned the doctrine of his church, as presented by Wesley, Watson, Clarke and others?

The Doctor need not apologize for calling attention to my theory. So far from regretting that he did so, I am gratified at it. It will bear ventilation Discussion will only show its truth and Scriptural character.

Now, as 'one good turn deserve another,' I beg that the Doctor's 'first presiding elder 'take immediate charge of him. He is evidently leaning too much toward Calvinism." Where is Father Blake? Why does he, as Dr. Closs's, 'first presiding elder, tolerate a theological error, though advocated by one of his best friends?'

With fraternal feelings for my mistaken Brethren, I remain,
Faithfully, yours,
JNO. R. BROOKS.

Goldsboro,' 14th April, 1875.

Randolph Circuit.

Raudolph circuit embraces a large territory, beautifully laid out by the Creator, with several hills and mountains rising considerably above the common face of the country. One of these, Mt. Shepherd, may be seen for miles around, and on its summit is to be held a mass meeting for all religious denominations on the fourth Sabbath in May. In sight of this is the beautiful valley of Caraway, a tributary to Uwharrie. Along this valley there are yet many traces of the Indian; in fact, this seems to have been their headquarters for this region. On one knoll there can be found quantities of human bones and teeth, tomahawks and darts, and many other relicts of the passed away tribe.

Near by this ancient settlement there now stands a flonrishing High School called Concord, ably managed by Prof. Skeen, formerly a tutor in Trinity College. This school is growing daily in numbers and popularity, and is bidding fair to be one of the best schools in the country. Located as it is, near the fertile valleys of Caraway and Uwharrie, it will be apt to grow up rapidly. Doubtless this Institution will furnish many candidates for Trinity, which will soon be ready to accommodate three hundred students, and entertain admirably all the visitors on the next commencement occasion. So let them come from all parts of the State to see and hear Bishop Marvin dedicate the new Hall. If we can only succeed in getting the Advocate sowed broadcast over this Circuit to act as a leaven in the hearts of the people, we believe ours will be second to none. Because we are trustiug in the Lord, and waiting for him to be gracious, and fill our hearts with refreshing showers of holy manna.

Finally, may God bless the Advocate, and fill its Editors with holy zeal for the Master's cause!

J. F CRAVEN.

Trinity College.

Bishop Marvin.

A Northern Methodist minister, Rev. C. Adams, heard the Bishop preach at the late session of the Baltimore Conference in Washington City, and writes as follows to Zion's Herald, of the sermon and his impression:

"His opening exercises are not specially noticeable or interesting; yet all is changed when he commences his sermon, and advances with firm and deliberate steps to the unfolding and enforcement of his theme. He now becomes attractive by the sheer strength and pertinency of his statements, the clearness of his logic, and the originality and perfection of his illustrations. His preaching is not the music of some beautiful instrument, and the charm of silvery notes of eloquence is not there; yet every eye becomes fixed; the truths of the gospel, enunciated with great perspicuity, and with a nameless original freshness, are holding, with sure yet gentle grip, the attention of the vast audience. His theme was great, and sublimely majestic, leading to a vivid notice of the superiority of the Christian over the Mosaic dispensation; and the preacher led us on, step by step, as with a firm and determined march he advanced into the very heart of gospel truth and privilege. The great incarnation — God descending to the plane of humanity, and the birth—man ascending to the plane of the divine nature—these two great correlative facts were made to flash before the congregation, with wondrous beauty and power. So, also, was there a vivid setting forth of faith in the great work of man's salvation, and his progressive and far-reaching elevation of possible holiness and goodness. 'Seeing, as in a glass, the glory of the Lord, we are changed into the same image, from glory to glory.' In the best sense it was a great and good sermon, and tearful and holy was the impression as those words of salvation came down upon the listening throng, as the dew of heaven.

"So we do. The 'Church South' is ecclesiastically separate from us; and I suppose my little vote of thirty years ago tended to help on the crisis. I used to be sorry for the breach, and some of the results thereof; but time has greatly modified that sorrow, and now, after the delicious baptism of my poor spirit under this one preaching of Bishop Marvin, I know not that I shall sorrow any more for the Church division. For is not this same division a mere outward arrangement? And may not the 'unity of the Spirit' be just as pure and true as ever? And is not every true disciple, in spite of all trammels of ecclesiasticism, drifting directly and surely toward the final gathering, to listen when the Master shall proclaim: 'Come, ye blessed of my Father?'"

Religious Brevities.

There are seventy-eight Methodist Episcopal Churches in Philadelphia; the value of Church property being $2,259,000.

In addition to the contribution of $5,000 to the Presbyterian Theological Seminary at Chicago, by C. H. McCormick, C. B. Nelson and J. L. Williams have given $5,000 each to the same institution.

A Presbyterian Conference was held in New York on the 8th, in the interest of the proposed great Conference of Presbyterian and Reformed Churches to be held in London, commencing July 24, next.

The Christian at Work says that over 300 persons rose for prayers at the close of preaching service, on a Sunday night recently in Brooklyn Tabernacle. In the inquiry meeting it was found that they were from all parts of the land.

The General Association of General Baptists have called a national convention of all Liberal and Free Communion Baptists to meet in Columbia, Ind., in November, 1875, for the purposes of a thorough organization of all Liberal Baptist forces in the land in benevolent and Church enterprises.

A reunion of the New York East and New England Conferences took place on the 10th in Hartford, Conn. This was the first reunion of the conferences that had occured in a period of seventy seven years, the territory of both conferences at that time being embraced in the New York Conference, which extended from New Jersey to Boston. Bishops Janes, Haven, Andrews and Harris were present.

There are 400 religious journals in the United States. The Methodists have forty-seven, the largest number; then come the Catholics, who number forty one; the Baptists, thirty five; the Presbyterians twenty-nine; the Episcopalians, twenty-one; Lutherans, fourteen; German Reformed, fourteen; Jews, nine: and Congregationalists, eight.

The receipts of the American Bible Society for March reached the sum of $99,297. and the volumes issued were 63 399. The total receipts for the fiscal year ending March 31 were $577,569. The whole number of volumes issued for the year from the Bible House, not including those issued abroad, was 727.537.

During the twenty-nine years of Dr. Cuyler's ministry he has lost but two Sabbaths by bodily sickness. During his fifteen years' pastorate of Lafayette Avenue Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn, he has received into Church fellowship 2,572 persons, baptized 857 persons, buried 133 members, and made over 12,000 pastoral visits. The present membership of the Church is 1,600.

NOTICE.

The Preachers in the Wilmington District will please send me as soon as possible the names of all the Local Preachers and delegates that expect to attend the District Conference

Address, J. W. RANDLE.
Magnolia, N. C.

Personal

Maj. W. J. Montgomery, Superintendent of the Methodist Sunday school in Concord, Solicitor for the Charlotte District and a popular man in the west, declines to be a candidate for the Constitutional Convention, though earnestly solicited thereto by his friends and admirers. R. W. Allison is suggested in his stead.

Gov. Graham and Maj. W. N. Patterson, of Orange county, are suggested as suitable and desirable candidates for the Constitutional Convention.

Isabella T. Armstrong, of England, and a fine lecturer, will deliver temperance lectnres in several towns of this State.

The Greensboro' PATRIOT says that great credit for ability is due J. N. Staples, Esq., in the conduct of the defence of the Blount case, recently tried in the Federal Court at Greensboro.' To his skillful management the acquittal of the defendant is greatly due.

Richmond M. Pearson, Jr., of North Carolina, has been selected to deliver the Annual Address at Princeton University, N. J., on the 5th of June next. He is a graduate of Princeton, and a son of Chief Justice Pearson.

DAILY CAPITAL This is the name of a new candidate for public favor—a Daily Newspaper, published by a company of practical printers in this city. The three or four issues that have appeared are highly creditable to the enterprise of the publishers and the tact of the Editors. Mr. Jno. Bragg, an experienced localist has charge of the city Department, and a writer of ability (whose name does not appear) of the editorial columns. We wish it success, but deprecate and disapprove of the publication of its Monday morning issue on Sunday night.

NORTH CAROLINA.

We have before us the annual statement of the Piedmont and Arlington Life Insurance Co. for 1874, and we are highly gratified to notice the [illegible] this stannch Southern Company.

Notwithstanding the dullness of the insurance business last year, its assets were increased $147.000 and expenses decreased $56.000. It now has assets to the amount of $2.800,000, and a net surplus, above all liabilities, of $271.000. The success of this company has established beyond a possibility of doubt, and we are glad to be able to recommend to the people of N. C. a Southern Company possessing all the advantages of like northern corporations. This company has passed the various "Insurance Departments" of the North and West thus giving it a standing second to no company in our land.

It will no doubt be a source of pleasure to many of our readers to know that the Vice-President of this Company, Rev. J. E. Edwards, D. D., is a native of N. C. He was born in Guilford county, near Greensboro, N. C., tho' he has spent a greater part of his life in Virginia, where he has attained to nreluhess and eminence among our people. We have very great confidence in the Piedmont and Arlington, and can recommend it to parties desiring insurance.

The old buildings of the present hotel at Durham are being removed to make way for a new, elegant and commodious hotel-building.

Richard Lyon, of Dutchville, sold a load of leaf tobacco in Henderson a few days ago for $1.001.40—said to be the finest tobacco ever brought to that market.

The residence of James A. Graham, of Graham, N. C., was burned on the 18th inst. The furniture was saved.

Three negroes confined in the Warrenboro jail made their escape week before last, by entting through the ceiling and letting themselves down by ropes. It is thought that tools were furnished them ontside parties. The jailer awoke in time to give them a parting shot and thus prevent the escape of a fourth prisoner.

A disastrous fire occurred at Charlotte on the 16th inst. It is supposed the sparks from an engine, falling upon cotton stored near the depot, caused the fire. The wind being very high it was impossible to subdue the flames until after great damage had been done. The Charlotte OBSERVER gives the following list of the losses sustained:

Messrs. Sanders & Blackwood are the heaviest losers, in cotton. They had on the platform 1,401 bales, and not more than 175 to 200 bales were saved, as most of that is in a very damaged condition. They were insured for $80[illegible]. Supposing the cotton saved to be worth $12.500, their insurance is $13,000 in excess of their loss. Stenhouse & Mcanly lost only about twelve bales—insured. S. B. Meacham, agent, lost twenty-five bales, valued at $2,200—insured. Burroughs & Springs lost several car loads of guano, fully insured. Companies represented by them are $37,000 insurance in the city. Orr Brothers lost 29 bales, valued at about $2,000. Total loss, no insurance. Messrs. Manney & Bros., of King's Mountain, lost 10 bales, valued at $700, no insurance. Col. J. Y. Bryce lost about 30 bales covered by insurance. Sutherlin & Johnson lost 64 bales, covered by insurance. Mr. Kizer, 9 bales valued at $600, total loss, no insurance. R. A. McDowell lost 9 bales, valued at $[illegible] total loss, no insurance. Mrs. Brem, relict of the late P. M. Brown, lost, buildings not less than $18,500. Total loss, no insurance.

IN ADDITON TO THE ABOVE LOSSES must be added an immense quantity of freight at the depots, and a very large quantity of furniture, which, on being removed from the residences, was, in many instances damaged nearly as much as if destroyed by fire.

HOUSES BURNED

Offices of the North Carolina Depot, The Charlotte Columbia and Augusta Railroad depot. Dwelling belonging to Mrs. Brown, kitchen in yard of same. Blacksmith shop and barn. Three tenement houses belonging to Mrs. Brem Brown's tannery. North Carolina Railroad blacksmith shop. Wood shop and blacksmith shop belonging to Mrs. Brown. Tenement house on Trade street belonging to Mrs. Brown. The old Peter Brown residence. Tiddy's stable. W. R. Myer's stable. C. H. Elm's stable. Residence of Robt. Bailey on Seventh street. The total losses are estimated to reach not less than $300,000, none of which is covered by insurance.

The ladies of Hillsboro propose giving a festival on Tuesday of Orange Court for the benefit of the Mecklenburg Centennial.

There are about twenty orphans at the branch Orphan Asylum at Morrisville in Madison county, and one of the finest ladies of the State is in charge of them.

The residence of Mr. Thos. J. Rhodes at Summerfield, in Guilford co., was destroyed by fire on the 20th inst. with all the furniture.

Mrs. Culor an old lady who lives on the border of Surry is 100 years old, and the mother of 24 children and has moved lid which she has been using for 80 years.—Mt. Airy Watchman.

Wilmington had several fires on Sunday the 18th inst. Among other losses was that of three turpentine distilleries belonging to Messrs. J. R. Blossom & Evans. Loss $1.800; no insurance.

The Grand Lodge I. O. O. F. of the State, meets in Elizabeth City on the 2d Tuesday in May.

INDEX TO NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

WE invite attention to the advertisement of J. M. Rosenbaum, the proprietor of the extensive clothing emporium on the corner of Fayetteville and Hargett Streets. We know whereof we speak when we say that his stock of clothing is as varied and complete as any to be found in the Raleigh market, and that his customers will be pleased with the purchases. He invites an examination of his stock: his accommodating clerks consider it a pleasure to exhibit goods to callers.

We call attention to the advertisement of Messrs Briggs & Sons, hardware dealers of this city. They have a large supply of Wagon and Buggy Materials in connection with their varied stock of hardware.

Mrs. Leopold, an accomplished millliner, has opened a Millinery store on Fayetteville street and is prepared to furnish customers with whatever they need in that line. Her store presents an attractive appearance and she proposes to give great bargains to her patrons.

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF RALEIGH EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING.---TERMS $2.20 POSTAGE PAID.

Our Agents.

All the traveling and local preachers in the bounds of the North Carolina Conference are our authorized Agents. Any person sending us ten subscribers, for one year, will receive a paper free.

Our Correspondents.

All communications intended for publication should be carefully written, and on one side of the paper. All letters or communications should be addressed to the Editor.

How to Remit.

In sending money, or drafts, should be sent in registered letter, post office order or check. The cost of registration, or Post Office order can be deducted from amounts to be sent. In every case otherwise than above mentioned it will be at the sender's risk.

General News.

Rhode Island has a one Representative in the State election.

Yedo is Japan's new name for the first time on the 18th of December.

President Grant was forty-three years of age on the twenty-seventh day of the present month.

The United States has in many miles of railway as all the rest of the States of Europe together.

A Chinese young lady was an applicant for a vacancy among the teachers of a San Francisco school.

Sweet potatoes are fine and cheap, and the surplus over the last year promised to tempt millions of dollars.

The Knedive of Egypt, it is stated has established a society for opening the Soudan to Europeans by English lawyers.

On the 15th of January it snowed for two hours at Rock Hill, in Upper Egypt—something that it is supposed never happened there before.

The Union passenger Depot, at Forty-second street, New York cost two million, and is owned by three important roads. About 60,000 travel to pass through it daily.

The Missouri Synod Committee have ordered that no services in German shall be given in the public schools of their synod. Two lectures a week on that head each, will be given.

Senator Sargent, of San Francisco, elected a large portion of his fortune in his early manhood and was then a poor printer, at Charlotte Amalie, St. Thomas. It is supposed that upon coming to the United States he took it was his until after.

The following are the yearly hand of the Rothschilds: Paris, 1,000,000 francs; Vienna, 1,000,000 florins; Naples, 1,000,000 francs; London, 1,000,000 pounds sterling.

According to the Iron Age, a wedge or plough has been found imbedded in the mud of the ancient Nysonium in Egypt, the inscription being on it, it is said, have been written in the age of Cheops, placed by some at 3,000 years before Christ, and by others as far back as 5,000 years ago.

Two of the most extensive manufacturing establishments in the United States, the Pullman Palace Car Company, of Chicago, and the Corliss Steam Engine Company, of Providence, R. I., are now in the hands of receivers, the former having been in operation for about two years, and the latter for about twenty years.

At the regular communication of Wilson Lodge No 226, held April 19th A. L. 5875, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted.

Whereas It hath pleased the supreme Grand Master of the universe, in His wise and mysterious providence to call from labor to reward our brother Eli D. C. Harrison, etc.

Resolved, That while we humbly submit to the all-wise dispensation of Divine Providence which has taken from our midst our esteemed friend and brother, we will ever cherish in our hearts his memory, as the memory of the just; and we will imitate his uniformly good and beautiful example.

Received Tuesday the death of Brother Morris the Masonic Fraternity has lost one of its most ardent men, that Wilson Lodge, No 226, has lost one of its worthiest and most consistent members, and that the cause of virtue has lost one of its truest and most boundary friends.

Resolved, That we tender to the bereaved family of our deceased brother our heart felt sympathies in this their sad affliction.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be furnished the family of our departed brother; and that a copies be sent to the Landmark, and the Raleigh Christian Advocate, for publication.

M. L. Good,
G. W. Gause,
J. A. Strickland,
} Com.

Died at the residence of Mr. C. B. Green in Hurham, N. C. April 15th 1875, after a painful illness of six weeks, Sis. Carrie R. Cox eldest daughter of Mr and Mrs John A. Cox, of Oxford, in the twenty-second year of her age.

In the fall of last January she came to Durham on a visit, and won lively buoyancy of her youth and her cheerful disposition, soon gave her many friends and relations a welcome guest everywhere. And when disease took her down, away from home, her condition excited the deepest interest. Her devoted parents came, and sisters, grandmother, watched by her bed-side hoping to the last struggle. The physicians exhausted their skill, special prayers were offered in the crowded church asking God to spare her recovery. But God willed otherwise, and after lingering in unconsciousness for a few days she died, leaving on the hearts of all who knew her the savor of a good name.

She professed religion, and joined the M. E. Church, South at the age of thirteen years and remained a consistent member until her death. For several large and stated she was a constant attendant upon the services of the church, and was always found at her post of duty. She took an active part in the various enterprises and the church and Sunday School found in her a faithful and efficient worker. She was a member of the Sisterhood of Charity, and was one of the first to enlist in the work of the Lord. She was a member of the Sisterhood of Charity, and was one of the first to enlist in the work of the Lord. She was a member of the Sisterhood of Charity, and was one of the first to enlist in the work of the Lord.

Marriages.

Married in Randolph county, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. David Coltrane, on the 15th of April, 1875, by the Rev. D. C. Johnson of the N. C. Conference, Mr. W. A. Woollen of Union Factory and Miss Parthie Coltrane.

Married Feb. the 25th, 1875, at the residence of the bride's father, in Surry co., by Rev. R. P. N. Stephenson, Mr. William P. Martin of Anson co. and Miss Mary Woodard.

Deaths

At his residence in Tyrrell county N. C., on the 8th 1875 Rev. Josiah R. Brickhouse, aged 75 years 9 months, and 1 day.

Brother Brickhouse joined the Methodist Episcopal Church early in life; soon after, he received license to preach, and with a short time before his death, (when debarred by sickness), a period of upwards of 40 years he stood a watchman upon the walls of Zion, pointing out to his fellow men the danger to which they were exposed, and exhorting them to take refuge in the Blood of Christ. His brethren of the Columbia circuit, speak of him as having been a good man, and faithful to the interest of his church. He was a regular attendant at the Quarterly Meetings. A long-standing member of the Quarterly Conference told me yesterday, that for many years he had stopped to renew his license, and when the question was asked "anything against Bro. Brickhouse?" it was answered, "nothing against him." May Zion water the seed which His servant has sown, and may "he being dead yet speak." He often expressed himself as being ready and desirous, to depart and be with Christ.—The companion of his life and wife of his bosom is left with behaved children, and a large circle of friends, to mourn his sad bereavement. May God comfort their hearts and sanctify their bereavement to the good of their souls, and may they seek to follow him as he followed Christ.

"Servant of God well done!
Rest from thy loved employ;
The battle fought, the victory won,
Enter thy master's joy."

He was buried on the 27th inst., and neither drive nor load her. In childhood she gave herself to God, and under his guidance she was safe. On the day after her death her remains were carried to her home in Oxford where a large concourse of weeping friends accompanied her funeral and laid her away to rest until the resurrection. May all who loved her so well meet her in Heaven.

J. J. Renn.

Durham Tobacco Plant.

Died at

Children's Column.

Answers.

The word 'peep' is found in Isaiah 8th chap. 19th verse. J. R. Robinson, Wilber E Ormond, Cora V. Lyon

'Baldhead' is mentioned twice in 2d Kings 2d chap. 23d verse. J. R. Robinson, Lillie A. Wade, Nannie E. Guthrie, Sallie Kearns, Wilber E. Ormond, C. V. Lyon.

Maher shalal-hash-baz was the name of Isaiah's son, meaning 'hasty spoil.' Aneva Robinson, Sallie Kearns.

The middle verse in the Bible is 8th verse of 118th Psalm Cora L. Clayton, C. V. Lyon.

Dancing turned into mourning Lam. 5th 15th v. Cora L. Clayton, Wilber E. Ormond.

King of Ai was hanged on a tree till eventide—Joshua 8th chap. 29th verse. Cora L. Clayton, Wilber E. Ormond, Cora V. Lyon.

Talitha-cumi, being interpreted means "Damsel, (I say unto thee,) arise." Mark 5th chap 41st v. Cora L. Clayton, Wilber E. Ormond.

King Solomon built an ivory throne, not a palace, for himself and covered it with gold. 1st Kings 10-18. Anna Lee Merritt.

'Ebenezer' is found in 1st Sam. 7-12 and means the "stone of help." Anna Lee Merritt.

Only two of the men who crossed the Red sea were permitted to cross the river Jordan. They were Caleb and Joshua. Anna Lee Merritt.

The word 'Lord' occurs in the Bible 1855 times. Lillie A. Wade.

The longest verse in the Bible is 9th verse 8th chap. of Esther. Lillie A. Wade, Sallie Kearns.

The Philistines carried the ark of God and set it in the house of Dagon. 1st Sam. 5th ch 2nd v. Lillie Wade, Nannie E. Guthrie, Willlie E. Ormond.

The word God begins in the 1st ch. of Hebrews, 46th Psalm and 67th Psalm. Lillie A. Wade, Fried C. Overman, Willie E. Ormond.

Judas was the other disciple, that went up with Peter. Lillie A. Wade.

King Ahab had seventy sons beheaded. 2nd Kings 10th ch. Lillie A Wade, Fred C. Overman.

Moses viewed the Promised Land from Mt. Pisgah. Dent, 3rd ch. 27th v. Lillie A. Wade, Anna Lee Merritt.

"We will drink no wine" Jeremiah 35th ch. 6th v. Lillie A. Wade.

The word father occurs 23 times in 14th ch. John, Lillie A. Wade, Fred C. Overman.

Abram was 99 years old when his name was changed to Abraham. Nannie E. Guthrie, Florrie Mercer.

Jael the wife of Heber drove a nail into Sisera's head. Judges 4th ch. 21st v. Nanuie E. Guthrie, Willie E. Ormond, C. V. Lyon.

Answer to Bible Enigma proposed by Addie E. Clegg.

Its 1st is Bethuel the father of Laban.

Its 2d is Esther, made queen instead of Vashti.

Its 3d is Lamech, Noah's father.

Its 4th is Tebeth, 10th month as given in the Bible.

Its 5th is Ephraim, Joseph's 2 d son.

Its 6th Solomon, the wisest man.

Its 7th is Haran, Lot's father.

Its 8th is Aaron, the first High Priest of the Jews.

Its 9th is Zedekiah, the last king of Judah.

Its 10th is Zacharias, father of John the Baptist.

Its 11th is Abel, second son of Adam.

Its 12th is Rehoboam, the son of Solomon.

The whole is Belteshazzah name given to Daniel, in the courts of Nebruchadnezzar. Mollie Wood, Willie W. Vines, R. E. Clayton, Annie Lee Merritt.

Questions.

Lillie A. Wade asks what chapter in the Bible contains 39 verses, 21 of which have only 3 words in each.

Aneva Robinson asks who is the only woman whose age is mentioned in the Bible.

Nannie E. Guthsie asks who was the first King of Israel.

Cora V. Lyon asks whose hair weighed two hundred shekels, and where mentioned in the Bible.

Florrie Mercer asks the name of the damsel who knew Peter by his voice.

BIBLE ENIGMA—NO. 4.

1. A woman "very beautiful to look upon."

2. A queen devoted to her people.

3 The mother who "lent her son to the Lord."

4. The daughter who kissed her mother-in law.

5. A grand mother.

6. A heathen goddess, mentioned in the New Testament.

7. The son whom Paul reminded of his mother's faith.

8. The prophetess who foretold the destruction of Jerusalem.

9. The fourth letter in the woman's name, to whom Christ spoke after his resurrection.

10. A woman who danced religiously

11. The fourth letter in Rebekah's nurse's name.

12. What Christ said when he took the hand of the deceased damsel.

13. One of the most ancient cities referred to in the Bible.

14 A king woman of Christ.

15. One of the most lovely of Bible females.

The Initials form the last recorded words of the Savior respecting his mother.

Very Respectfully,
R. E. CLAYTON.

University Station N. C. April the .5781 ht51

KEEPING SUNDAY.—The questions of reading secular books, or taking pleasure excursions, are practically answered in the affirmative by many who still think they are keeping the Sabbath, for the reason that the Sabbath is a day of rest, which was made for man, that in these days people are done with sitting in the "dark shadow of the Hebrew God," and not during to breathe lest they should sin, and that Christ's conversation with the woman of Samaria leads to the conclusion that all places are holy and all days holy da's.

Farm, Garden & Household.

CULTURE OF WATER-MELONS.—Take a soil that is comparatively new, or that has lain without cultivation for several years, the poorest sandy hill you have, break it in the fall and again in spring; lay off each way about 15 feet apart with a bull-tongue or shovel; take well rotted stable manure and put at each crossing three long handled shovel fulls; then take well rotted chip manure and put two shovel fulls, now walk round and round with a hilling hoe; and draw the earth up and incorporate well with the manure, leaving the hill nearly level with the surface of the ground; cultivate with anything to keep the ground clear.

The advantage arising from planting evergreens in orchards are set forth by F. R. Eillott, in the Journal of Horticulture. He says: "The ameliorating influence of the evergreen extends really but abont fifty feet; yet within that distance the bodily action of man feels it perceptibly, and so, reasoning with careful observation of animal and vegetable life, each year tells me more and more that to insure success and perfect development of either, certain warmth and shelter, etc., must be had. In the animal it is by means of artificial shelter and clothing in which they are placed; but in the vegetable it must be the subduing influence of one plant on another, and the evergreen from long experience, is proved the safe guard and ameliorating nurse of the deciduous tree.

HORSES EATING TOO MUCH.—In reply to the query, "will horses eat enough hay to injure them, if left standing in the stable after eating?" the N. E. Farmer answers.

"Yes, sir, if you give it to them, they will. Don't you remember the old adage that 'a horse will die at a hay stack'? None of our domestic animals require more systematic care in feeding than the horse. He may be kept well at a moderate cost, and will be more healthy, perform more labor and live longer than if fed so highly as to double the cost of keeping. A horse will spend most of his time in throwing his feed about, topsy-turvy, in his rack or box, and take a little occasionally, if feed is kept constantly before him. He will not eat with a keen relish, become dissatisfied with all food, and eventually have little appetite, grow thin, become unfit for labor, and in the end diseased and worthless."

A Sound Health Maxim.

"Order is heaven's first law" This great maxim applies with peculiar force to the discharge of the vital function. Disease inevitably supervenes upon physical irregularity, just as calamity is sure to follow want of system and punctuality in the affairs of life. But while it is next to impossible to overcome settled mental habits of disorder, it is quite feasible to remedy habitual irregularities of the body. Discipline the unruly organs by wise and timely meditation, and health will be established upon a permanent basis. Although there are many remedies prescribed for this purpose, there is not one among them can compare in directness and promptitude of action with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. For every affection affecting the bowels, liver and stomach, and for the numerous, sympathetic nervous ailments to which alimentary or bilious disturbances give rise, the Bitters are a most reliable specific. Their wonderful efficacy is attributable to the fact that they first remove the cause of such maladies, irregularity, and then by their tonic operation repair the loss of physical substance produced by sickness. Constipation, biliousness, dyspepsia, heartburn, sleeplessness, intermittent fevers rheumatism and nervous tremors always succumb to the operation of this safe and potent medicine A regular habit of body, a good appetite, sound sleep, and easy digestion are among the blessings which its use confers. It invigorates, relieves depression of mind, and by promoting complete assimilation, materially assists in covering the angles and hollow places of an attenuated, shrunken frame with firm, healthy flesh

Symptoms of Liver Complaint, and of Some of the Diseases Produced by it.

A sallow or yellow color of skin, or yellowish brown spots on face and other parts of body; dullness and drowsiness with frequent headache; dizziness, bitter or foul taste in mouth, dryness of throat and internal heat; palpitation; in many cases a dry, teasing cough, with sore throat; unsteady appetite, rising food, choking sensation in throat; dizziness, heaviness, bloated or full feeling about stomach and sides, pain in sides, back or breast, and about shoulders; colic, pain and soreness through bowels, with heat, constipation alternating with frequent attacks of diarrhœa; piles, flatulence nervousness, coldness of extremities; rush of blood to head, with symptoms of apoplexy, numbness of limbs, especially at night; cold chills alternating with hot flushes, kidney and urinary difficulties; dull eyes, low spirits, unsociability and gloomy forebodings. Only few of above symptoms likely to be present at one time All who use Dr. Pierce's All Ext. or Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets for Liver Complaint and its complications, are loud in their praise of them. They are sold by all dealers in medicines.

apr 23 1-t.

AGENTS WANTED FOR

Cross and Crown

THE SPIRIT AND POWER of the religion of Jesus Christ as shown in the Sufferings and triumphs of His followers. A nobler, sweeter and more thrilling story is not to be found in the whole range of history. Magnificently illustrated on steel with the best engravings of Sartain and Bimm, and splendidly bound in the highest and latest style of the art. The most beautiful and attractive book ever offered to Agents. For circulars, with full description, address NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Atlanta, Ga, or Memphis, Tenn.

March 11-6m

DR. M'LANE'S
Celebrated American
WORM SPECIFIC,
OR VERMIFUGE.

SYMPTOMS OF WORMS.

THE countenance is pale and leaden-colored, with occasional flushes, or a circumscribed spot on one or both cheeks; the eyes become dull; the pupils dilate; an azure semicircle runs along the lower eyelid; the nose is irritated, swells, and sometimes bleeds; a swelling of the upper lip; occasional headache, with humming or throbbing of the ears; an unusual secretion of saliva; slimy or furred tongue; breath very foul, particularly in the morning; appetite variable, sometimes voracious, with a gnawing sensation of the stomach, at others, entirely gone; fleeting pains in the stomach; occasional nausea and vomiting; violent pains throughout the abdomen; bowels irregular, at times costive; stools slimy; not unfrequently tinged with blood; belly swollen and hard; urine turbid; respiration occasionally difficult, and accompanied by hiccough; cough sometimes dry and convulsive; uneasy and disturbed sleep, with grinding of the teeth; temper variable, but generally irritable, &c.

Whenever the above symptoms are found to exist,

DR. M'LANE'S VERMIFUGE
Will certainly effect a cure.

The universal success which has attended the administration of this preparation has been such as to warrant us in pledging ourselves to the public to

RETURN THE MONEY

in every instance where it should prove ineffectual: "providing the symptoms attending the sickness of the child or adult should warrant the supposition of worms being the cause." In all cases the Medicine to be given IN STRICT ACCORDANCE WITH THE DIRECTIONS.

We pledge ourselves to the public, that

Dr. M'Lane's Vermifuge
DOES NOT CONTAIN MERCURY

in any form; and that it is an innocent preparation, not capable of doing the slightest injury to the most tender infant.

Address all orders to
FLEMING BROS., PITTSBURGH, PA.

P. S. Dealers and Physicians ordering from others than Fleming Bros., will do well to write their orders distinctly, and take none but Dr. M'Lane's, prepared by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa. To those wishing to give them a trial, we will forward per mail, post-paid, to any part of the United States, one box of Pills for twelve three-cent postage stamps, or one vial of Vermifuge for fourteen three-cent stamps. All orders from Canada must be accompanied by twenty cents extra.

For sale by Druggists, and Country Storekeepers generally.

FROM
HENRY J. BROWN,
Opposite Masonic Hall,
RALEIGH, N. C.,

UNDERTAKER,

Keeps on hand Fisk's Metallic Burial Cases, Self-Sealing Metallic Burial Cases, and Walnut and other Wood Coffins. HEARSE FURNISHED.

Dealer in Furniture. Repairing and Varnishing Promptly Executed.

dec 19-1y

A. H. TEMPLE,

(Successor to Lynn Adams,)

Grocer, Cotton Factor

AND

Commission Merchant.

Nos. 5 Martin St. and 5 Exchange Place.

Having succeeded to the business of Mr. Lynn Adams, I am prepared to offer to the public the best inducements in my line and respectfully ask a continuance of the trade hitherto given Mr. Adams, promising to give satisfaction in all cases

In addition to my regular line of goods, I have on hand a full lock of the

STINSON WOOL HATS,

made in Wake county, and adapted especially to the farmer's use.

I have just returned from the North where I purchased a full line of clothing, groceries and now daily adding to my stock. I promise those who may favor us with their custom to give them as good bargains as they can get elsewhere.

A. H. TEMPLE,

I most respectfully ask my former patrons and friends to transfer to Mr. Temple my successor, who will, in research, give satisfaction to all who deal with him.

I will still keep my office, as Cotton Factor in the same building.

LYNN ADAMS.

march17 6-m

PLEIS' FIT
POWDERS.

These Powders have been tested by over Eight cases for the cure of Fits (Epilepsy), Spasms, Convulsions St Vitus' Dance, Neuralgia, and all Nervous Affections, some over 20 years' standing.

When you ORDER STATE AGE.

PRICE, $5 CENTS PER BOX; or sent to all parts of the United States for One Dollar per Box.—These Powders are prepared and sold only by the proprietor, to whom all orders must be addressed,

JOHN M. PLEIS, Jr.,
36 North Point street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Please mention that you saw this advertisement in THE CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

may 31-1y

SHOT-GUNS, RIFLES, PISTOLS, & REVOLVERS,

Of any and every kind. Send stamp for Catalogue. Address Gibbons' Western Gun and Revolver Works, Pittsburgh, Pa.

april 2-3m.

MUSIC BOOKS
BEST FOR
QUARTET CHOIRS

Thomas's Sacred Quartets.
Emerson's Sacred Quartets.
Beck's Motet Collection.
Baumbach's New Collection.
Beck's 2. Motet Collection
Church and Home.
Hayden's Church Music.
Trinity Collection.

Price of each Book, in Boards, $2.50; in Cloth, $2 75

CLARKE'S NEW METHOD FOR REED ORGANS.

By WILLIAM H. CLARKE. Price $2.50.

Mr. Wm. H. Clarke, a distinguished organist and composer, was especially fortunate in the completion of this fine work, which sprang into popular favor immediately on its issue, has had remarkable success, and continues to be the leading method. Contains, in addition to instructions, a capital collection of Reed Organ Music.

All books sent, post-paid, for retail price.
OLIVER DITSON & CO., C. H. DITSON & CO.
Boston. 711 Widway, New York.

$250 A MONTH—Agents wanted everywhere. Business honorable and first class. Particulars sent free. Address J. WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

Sept 16-6m

OLD NORTH STATE
FIRE
Insurance Company.
OF
WARRENTON, - - - N. C.

Capital Stock, $107.609.00

ASSETTS:

Mortgages on Real Estate	$ 45 050.01
National Bank Stock	1 100.00
Solvent Stock Notes	50 540.00
Cash and Loans on Call	2 502 25
Due from Agents	2 669.62
Agents supplies	526 89
Office furniture (safe, &c.)	596 16
Accrued Interest	800.0
	$ 123,993.65

LIABILITIES.

Amount necessary to reinsure all unexpired risks on the basis of the New York tax, $[illegible]

$1,229 Assets to Every $100 of Technical Liabilities.

According to the past experience of the Company we have

$2,458 Assets to Every $100 of Supposed Liabilities

OFFICERS:

Col. W. S. Hawkins, President.
N. H. Jones, Vice President.
H. F. Long, Secretary.
Wm. J. Norwood, Treasurer
T. C. Williams, Supervisor.

Whenever the above symptoms are found to exist,

DR. M'LANE'S VERMIFUGE
Will certainly effect a cure.

The universal success which has attended the administration of this preparation has been such as to warrant us in pledging ourselves to the public to

RETURN THE MONEY

in every instance where it should prove ineffectual: "providing the symptoms attending the sickness of the child or adult should warrant the supposition of worms being the cause." In all cases the Medicine to be given IN STRICT ACCORDANCE WITH THE DIRECTIONS.

We pledge ourselves to the public, that

Dr. M'Lane's Vermifuge
DOES NOT CONTAIN MERCURY

in any form; and that it is an innocent preparation, not capable of doing the slightest injury to the most tender infant.

Address all orders to
FLEMING BROS., PITTSBURGH, PA.

P. S. Dealers and Physicians ordering from others than Fleming Bros., will do well to write their orders distinctly, and take none but Dr. M'Lane's, prepared by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa. To those wishing to give them a trial, we will forward per mail, post-paid, to any part of the United States, one box of Pills for twelve three-cent postage stamps, or one vial of Vermifuge for fourteen three-cent stamps. All orders from Canada must be accompanied by twenty cents extra.

For sale by Druggists, and Country Storekeepers generally.

WANTED.

AGENTS, male and female, to sell Pictures every where. Fourteen thousand retailed by one. Another writes: "I can make more money by this business than I can on a $10,000 farm, all stocked."

WHITNEY & CO.,
Norwich, Conn.

april 7-3 m.

RESTORE YOUR SIGHT.

Spectacles Rendered Useless.

Save Your Eyes,
RESTORE YOUR SIGHT,
THROW AWAY YOUR SPECTACLES.

Old Eyes Made New.

All diseases of the Eye successfully treated by

Dr. J. BALL & CO.'S
NEW PATENT IMPROVED IVORY EYE CUPS.

Read for yourself and Restore your Sight

Spectacles and Surgical Operations rendered useless The Inestimable Blessing of Sight is made perpetual by the use of the new PATENT IMPROVED IVORY EYE CUPS.

Many of our most eminent physicians, oculists, students and divines have had their sight permanently Restored for life, and cured of the following diseases: 1. Impaired Vision; 2. Presbyopia, or Far-sightedness, or Dimness of Vision, commonly called Blurring; 3. Asthenopia, or Weak Eyes; 4. Epiphora, amounting to Watery Eyes; 5 Sore Eyes—specially treated without Eye Cups—cure guaranteed; 6. Weakness of the Retina, or Optic Nerve; 7. Ophthalmia, or Inflammation of the Eye and its appendages, or imperfect vision from the effects of Inflammation; 8. Photophobia, or Intolerance of Light; 9. Overworked Eyes; 10. Myiodesopia—moving specks or floating bodies before the eyes; 11. Amaurosis, or Obscurity of Vision; 12. Cataracts; Partial blindness, the loss of Sight

Any one can use the IVORY EYE CUPS without fraud or doctor or medicine so as to receive immediate beneficial results and never wear spectacles; or, if using now, to lay them aside forever We guarantee a cure in every case where the directions are followed, or will refund the money.

2,369 CERTIFICATES OF CURE

from honest Farmers, Mechanics and Merchants—some of them the most eminent leading professional and business men, and women of education and refinement, in our country—can be found at our office.

Under date of March 29 Hon. Horace Greely, of the New York Tribune, writes: "J. Ball, of our city, is a conscientious and responsible man who is incapable of intentional deception or imposition."

Prof W. Merrick, of Lexington, Ky., wrote, April 24th, 1869: "Without my spectacles I can now put this note, after using the PATENT IVORY EYE CUPS thirty days, and this Morning perused the entire contents of a daily newspaper, and all with the unassisted eye.

"Truly am I grateful for your noble invention. May Heaven bless and preserve you. I have been using spectacles twenty years; I am seventy years old.

Truly yours, PROF. W. MERRICK."

Rev. Joseph Smith, Malden, Mass., cured of Partial Blindness of 18 years' standing, in one minute, by the PATENT IVORY EYE CUPS.

E. C. Ellis, late Major of Dayton, Ohio wrote us, Nov. 18th, 1869: "I have tested the PATENT IVORY EYE CUPS, and I am satisfied they are all you have claimed with them. They are the greatest invention of the age.

All persons wishing for full particulars, certificates of cures, prices, &c., will please send their address at once, and we will send our pamphlet on the DISEASES TREATED PHYSIOLOGY AND ANATOMY OF THE EYE—NOT of one hundred pages, free of charge, by return mail Write to DR. J. BALL & CO. P. O. Box 957. No 91 Liberty street. New York City, N. Y.

For the worst cases of MYOPIA or NEAR-SIGHTEDNESS use our NEW PATENT MYOPIA ATTACHMENTS, applied to the IVORY EYE CUPS Has proved a certain cure for this disease.

Send for pamphlets and certificates—free. Waste no more money by adjusting huge glasses on your nose and disfiguring your face.

AGENTS WANTED

Employment for all. Agents wanted, Gentlemen or Ladies, for our NEW PATENT IMPROVED IVORY EYE CUPS, just introduced in the market. The success is unparalelled by any other article. All persons out of employment, or those wishing to improve their circumstances, can make a respectable living at this light and easy employment. Hundreds of Agents are making from $5 to $20 a day. To live Agents $30 a week will be guaranteed.

Send your address for full particulars. Sent free of charge to any address. Write immediately to

DR. J. BALL & CO.,
P. O. Box 957. NO. 91 LIBERTY STREET,
Sept 9-1m NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.

'SUI GENERIS.'

MASON & HAMLIN
CABINET ORGANS.

UNEQUALED UNAPPROACHED
in capacity and excellence by any others. Awarded
THREE HIGHEST MEDALS
AND DIPLOMA OF HONOR, AT
VIENNA, 1873; PARIS, 1867.

ONLY American Organs ever awarded any medal in Europe, or which present such extraordinary excellence as to command a wide sale there.

ALWAYS awarded highest premiums at Industrial Expositions, in America as well as Europe. Out of hundreds there have not been six in all where any other organs have been preferred.

BEST Declared by Eminent Musicians, in both hemispheres, to be unrivaled. See TESTIMONIAL CIRCULAR, with opinions of more than One Thousand (sent free).

INSIST on having a Mason & Hamlin. Do not take any other. Dealers get nanoza commissions for selling inferior organs, and for this reason often try very hard to sell something else.

NEW STYLES with most important Improvements ever made. New Solo and Combination Stops. Superb Etagere and other Cases of new designs.

PIANO-HARP CABINET ORGAN An exquisite combination of these instruments.

EASY PAYMENTS. Organs sold for cash or for monthly or quarterly payments; or rented until rent pays for the organ.

CATALOGUES and Circulars, with full particulars, free. Address MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., 154 Tremont Street, BOSTON; 25 Union Square, NEW YORK; or 80 & 82 Adams St., CHICAGO.

apl 14-1 year.

A NICE LOT OF HAMS JUST RECEIVED from Eastern N. C., and for sale especially for table use by

A. G. LEE & SON.

250 BUSHELS WHITE SPRING OATS FOR sale by

A. G. LEE & SONS.

A LOT OF FRESH MOUNTAIN BUTTER in kits. Call and examine at

A. G. LEE & SONS.

apl 14-1w,

SCHEDULES.

PIEDMONT & AIR-LINE RAILWAY.

RICHMOND & DANVILLE, RICHMOND & DANVILLE R. W., N. C. DIVISION, and NORTH WESTERN N. C. R. W.

CONDENSED TIME-TABLE.
In effect on and after Tuesday, April 20th, 1875

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	MAIL.	EXPRESS.
Leave Charlotte	9 23 P. M	8.20 A. M.
" Air-Line Junc'n	2 09 "	8 50 "
" Salisbury	12.12 A M	10.52 "
" Greensboro'	8.05 "	1.32 P. M.
" Danville	6.20 "	4.05 "
" Raleigh	6.30 "	4.13 "
" Burkeville	10.35 "	8.26 "
Arrive at Richmond	2.25 P. M	11.15 P. M

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS	MAIL.	EXPRESS.
Leave Richmond	1.38 P. M	5.08 A. M.
" Burkeville	4.52 "	8.35 "
" Dundee	9.44 "	1.17 P. M
" Danville	9.48 "	1.21 P. M.
" Greensboro	12.40 A. M.	4.23 "
" Salisbury	3.28 "	6.3 "
" Air Line Junc'n	7.45 "	8.39 "
Arrive at Charlotte	7.10 A M	9.05 "

GOING EAST.		GOING WEST
STATIONS.	MAIL	MAIL
Leave Greensboro'	3.35 A. M.	Arrive 12.25 P. M.
" Co. Shops	5.10 "	Leave 11.57 "
" Raleigh	8.45 "	" 6.22 "
Arrive at Goldsboro'	11.20 A. M	Leave 1.00 P. M.

NORTH WESTERN N. C. R. R.
(SALEM BRANCH.)

Leave Greensboro'	4.25 P. M.
arrive at Salem	6.10 "
Leave Salem	9.20 A. M.
Arrive at Greensboro	11.15 "

Passenger train leaving Raleigh at 6.30 P. M. connects at Greensboro' with the Northern bound train; making the quickest time to all Northern cities Price of Tickets same as via other routes.

For this and from points East of Greensboro connect at Greensboro with Mail Trains to or from points North or South.

Two trains daily, both ways.

On Sunday's the Morning accommodation leave Richmond at 9.00 A. M., arrive at Burkeville 12 45 P. M., leave Burkeville 4.35 A. M., arrive at Richmond 8.25 A. M.

No Change of Cars between Charlotte and Richmond, 282 Miles.

Papers U.S.L. have arrangements to advertise the Schedules of this company will please print as above. For further information address

T. M. R. TALCOTT, Engineer & Gen'l Superintendent.
E. B. ALLEN, Gen'l Ticket Agent, Greensboro, N. C.

:o:

CHANGE OF SCHEDULE.

RALEIGH & GASTON RAILROAD CO.

On and after Friday, May 22nd, 1874, trains on the Raleigh & Gaston Railroad, will run daily (Sunday excepted) as follows:

MAIL TRAIN.

Leave Raleigh,	2.35 A. M.
Arrives at Weldon,	3.30 P. M.
Leaves Weldon,	9.50 A M.
Arrives at Raleigh,	5.40 P. M.

ACCOMMODATION TRAIN.

Leaves Raleigh,	5.15 A. M.
Arrives at Weldon,	5.15 P. M.
Leaves Weldon,	2.40 A. M.
Arrives at Raleigh	2.25 P. M.

Mail train makes close connection at Weldon, with the Seaboard and Roanoke Railroad and Bay Line Steamers via Baltimore, to and from all points North, West and Northwest, and with Petersburg Railroad via Petersburg, Richmond and Washington City, to and from all points North and Northwest.

And at Raleigh with the North Carolina Railroad to and from all points South and Southwest, and with the Raleigh & Augusta Air Line to Hayswood and Fayetteville.

A. B. ANDREWS,
Gen. Sup't.

:o:

RALEIGH & AUGUSTA AIR-LINE RAILROAD.

SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE,
RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 27th, 1873.

On and after Monday, October 27th, 1873, trains on the R. & A. A. L. Road will run daily, (Sundays excepted,) as follows:

MAIL TRAIN.

Train leaves Raleigh,	4.00 P. M.
Arrives at Sanford,	6.25 "
Train leaves Sanford,	6.30 A. M
Arrives at Raleigh,	9.20 "

FREIGHT TRAIN.

Leaves Raleigh,	5.15 A. M.
Arrives at Sanford	10.35 A. M.
Leaves Sanford,	12.00 A. M
Arrives at Raleigh	3.50 P. M.

Mail Train makes close connection at Raleigh with the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad, to and from all points North.

And at Sanford with the Western Railroad, to and from Fayetteville and points on Western Railroad.

A. B. ANDREWS,
Superintendent.

:o:

OFFICE FLEET OR TRANSPORTATION,
Seaboard & Roanoke R. R. Co.,
Portsmouth, Va., Jan. 1st, 1875.

On and after this date, trains of this Road will leave Weldon daily, Sundays excepted, as follows:

Mail train at	4 P. M.
No. 1 Freight train at	4 A. M.
No. 2 Freight train at	8 A. M.

ARRIVE AT PORTSMOUTH.

Mail train at	7.15 P. M.
No 1 Freight at	12 00 noon.
No 2 Freight at	4 00 P. M.

Freight trains have a passenger car attached.

Steamer on Edenton, Plymouth and Landings on Blackwater and Chowan Rivers leave Franklin at 7.30 A. M on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

E. G. GHIO,
Supt. Transportation.

STIEFF

GRAND, SQUARE, AND UPRIGHT

PIANOS

Have received upwards of FIFTY FIRST PREMIUMS and are among the best now made. Every instrument fully warranted for five years. Prices as low as the cheapest one in the city best materials and the most thorough workmanship will permit. The peculiar elastic and sonorous tone, and fine piano-forte touch of the entire piano, gladly, none in the world, an unbiased verdict of the successful of the STIEFF PIANO. The DURABILITY of our instruments is fully established by over sixty years' trial and no longer in the South, as they ever 300 of our 14 now.

Sole Wholesale Agents for several of the principal manufacturers of Cabinet and Parlor Organs; prices from $50 to $300. A liberal discount to Clergymen and Sabbath schools.

A large assortment of second-hand Pianos at prices ranging from $50 to $150, always on hand.

Send for illustrated Catalogue, containing names of over 300 Stieff's, also over bought and are using our Stieff Piano.

CHARLES M. STIEFF,
Warerooms, No. 9 North Liberty street,
Baltimore, Md.
Factories, cor. & ex. Camden st. and 55 & 41 Perry st.
Dec 19-1yr

POPULAR AND USEFUL BOOKS

Royal Diadem, (S. S. Note)	35
Emanuth, " "	35
Bright Jewels, " "	30
Happy Voices, " "	30
The Charm " "	30
The Morning Star "	35
Pure Gold, " "	35
Songs of Salvation, " "	35
Wesleyan Catechism No. 1,	60
Wesleyan " No. 2,	75
Wesleyan " No. 3,	1.00
Bibles, (pocket size) from 75	5.00
Bibles, Family, from 3.50 to	8.00
Children of the Abbey 12mo cloth,	1.50
Robinson Crusoe, 12mo cloth,	1.50
Shakespeare, 12mo cloth	1.50
Pilgrims Progress, 12mo cloth, pictorial	1.25
Methodist Hymn and Tune Books, 12mo cloth,	75
Ready Reckoners, from 31 cts to	60
Little Writers, (board covers) 50	60
Life of Daniel Boone, 12mo cloth,	1.50
Bible Dictionary, (the best)	1.75
Picture Books (highly illustrated) from 5cts to	2.00
Methodist Hymn Books from 50 cts to	4.00
Baptist Hymn Books, from 75 to	2.50
Presbyterian Hymn Books, from 50 cts to	2.50
Episcopal Prayer Books, from 75 cts to	5.00
Photograph Albums, from 75 cts to	6.00
Major Jones Courtship, paper cover,	25
Abbotts Mary Queen of Scotts,	1.50
Abbotts Queen Elizabeth,	1.50
Abbotts Marie Antoinette,	1.50
Aesop's Fables,	1.50
Arabian Knights Entertainment,	1.50

Send cash and add 10 cents on the dollar, and I will mail any of the above.

☞ Order any other book you want.

L. BRANSON,
Raleigh, N. C.

april 8-12m

PREMIUM CHESTER WHITE PIGS.—$15 each, $25 a pair, Chester County MAMMOTH COIN, and Imported BELGIAN OATS. 4 lbs by mail, $1 peck $2, ½ bushel $3, bushel $5. Circular and Sample Packages of 8 cts Free for 2 stamps Address.

N. P. BOYER Parkesburg, Chester co Pa.

march 3 6-wkly

READ THIS

I will give any one an opportunity to make from $2 to $5 per day to work for me. Work easy and light. A boy 10 years old can fill the bill. Send stamp for particulars. Apply to

B. I. POWELL, Warrenton N. C.

nov. 25 12 m.

A NEW BOOK.

Life, Sermons, and Speeches
OF
Rev. N. F. Reid, D. D.
LATE OF THE
NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.
BY HIS SONS
James W and Frank L. Reid.

A handsome volume of 536 pages.
A fine Steel Engraving of Dr. Reid in each copy.

NOW READY FOR DELIVERY.

BE SURE TO GET A COPY.

Price in foreign, gilt edge, $3 50.
" " Cloth, 2 00.

Agents wanted to whom liberal commissions will be made. Single copies sent by mail, postage paid, on receipt of retail price

Address, REV. F. L. REID, Louisburg, N. C. or JAS. W. REID, Wentworth N. C.

G. T. LEACH, N. Y. M. T. LEACH

Leach Brothers,
WHOLESALE GROCERS
AND
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

SOUTH-EAST CORNER MARKET, SQUARE, Raleigh, N. C

Agents, we take great pleasure in presenting our card and returning thanks to the readers of the ADVOCATE for their very liberal patronage during the past ten years, and offer them the largest and best bought stock of Groceries ever offered in any market south of Baltimore, and while just now Bacons, Sugars and Lard are very scarce and high, we have made extra effort and feel sure we have succeeded in bringing other goods equally low and intend giving our friends all the advantages gained thereby to counter balance any advance in the few goods named

We wish to invite especial attention to our select stock of stable Shoes and Boots bought direct from the Factories and offered here AT FIRST PROFITS.

We have now in store

5,000 lbs. Rio Coffee,
10 Mats old Gov. Java,
20 Bbls. A Sugar,
10 Bbls Ex C Sugar,
20 Bbls. H P Yellow Sugar,
20 Bbls Demerara,
20 Boxes Bulk Sides,
10 " Shoulders,
50 Kegs English Soda,
1,000 lbs. G. D and Sole Leather,
100 Sides Upper Leather,
50 " Harness Leather,
10 Cases Oysters,
50 " Brandy Peaches,
5,000 Yds. Bagging,
6,000 lbs. Ties,
100 Bbls. Super Flour,
100 Bags Assorted Shot,
50 Bbls Extra Flour,
50 Cases Forrester's Crackers,
20 " Soda Crackers,
60 Boxes Factory and Dairy Cheese,
6,000 W P. and G. D. Corn Chips,
1 Kegs Burden Horse and Mule Shoes,
200 lbs Horse Shoe Nails,
20 Dozen Boat Axes,
50 Boxes Adamantine Candles,
100 Boxes Laundry and Toilet Soaps.

We offer special inducements to country and nearby merchants, and invite an examination of our stock and fully competition

Oct 7 12 m LEACH BROS

L. B. WYATT. B. L. BINGHAM.

Wyatt, Bingham & Co.

Wholesale and Retail Grocers,

COTTON FACTORS
AND GENERAL
Commission Merchants,

No. 4 Market St. and No. 5 Market Exchange,
RALEIGH, N. C.

We tender our many thanks to our several customers and friends for their liberal patronage, and hope to merit a continuance of the same by our strict personal and prompt attention to our business, and by offering to them our large and well selected stock o

BOOTS, SHOES, HATS and CAPS,

Staple Dry Goods,
Cotton Yarns,
Sheetings,
Alamance Plaids, and General Merchandize,

all of which we guarantee to be as recommended, and to sell at the lowest prices.

OUR GROCERY DEPARTMENT

is complete, and we make FLOUR a specialty and guarantee the lowest prices at retail and wholesale, also the quality to be equal or superior to any offered in the market for the price.

BAGGING AND TIES,
SALT and NAILS

always on hand and offered at the lowest market prices.

Consignments solicited, which will receive our prompt and personal attention, and the best prices obtained.

Jan 23-1

THE JAS. LEFFEL
Double Turbine Water Wheel,
Manufactured by
POOLE & HUNT.
Baltimore, Md.
7,000 NOW IN USE!
Simple, Strong, Durable, always reliable and satisfactory.

Manufacturers, also, of Portable & Stationary Engines, Stone Breakers, Saw

Raleigh Christian Advocate.

Bobbitt & Gray, Publishers. | Published in the Interests of Methodism in North Carolina. | $2.20 Per Annum, in Advance.

Vol. XXI.---No. 18. | Raleigh, N. C., Wednesday, May 5, 1875. | Whole No. 1,056.

Selected Poetry.

It is I: Be Not Afraid.

BY FRANCES MARTINDALE.

I should not faint, for earthly care and loss
Would make me cling the closer to Thy Cross,
Beneath its shelter I should cease to fear,
Or for myself, or those to me more dear,
Patience and hope would enter my heart descend,
To me Thou wouldst be Father, Husband, Friend!
Sorrow and care's sable night dim my eye,
Still through all griefs would sound Thy loving cry—
'It is I,
'Be not afraid!'

'Be not afraid!' E'en when the hour shall come
When I must leave my happy earthly home,
And through the solemn valley take my way
That to the mansions leads of endless day—
Though my heart fail, and though my spirit sink,
The cup of death my Lord for me did drink;
Then should I turn to Him my dying eye,
Calming Death's terrors, I should hear Him cry—
'It is I,
'Be not afraid!'

'Be not afraid!' Ah, with what gracious power
To Thy disciples in the midnight hour,
While tolling on the dark, tempestuous sea,
Came these sweet words of comfort, Lord, from Thee—
Making their former terrors flee away,
Like moonlight fancies, from the morning ray,
When through the storm they felt that Thou were nigh,
And o'er the waters came Thy cheering cry—
'It is I,
'Be not afraid!'

'Be not afraid!' Ah, grant me, Lord, to know
The strength and comfort that these words below:
When blinding storms embarken all my days,
My eye shall turn to Thee with steadfast gaze.
Not to the roaring waves advancing near,
Not to the dark and treacherous midnight drear,
But up to Thee my trembling soul will fly,
And hushing all my fears will hear Thy cry—
'It is I,
'Be not afraid!'

—The Day of Rest.

Communicated.

For the Advocate.

THE POSSIBILITY OF HEATHEN SALVATION, ONCE MORE.

Messrs. Editors: In Bro. Robey's last, he uses the following complimentary(?) language: "We must grant, indeed, it affords us the greatest pleasure to do so, that our opponents in this controversy have said some things 'new' and some things 'elegant.' In fact their productions have literally flashed with these graces, to say nothing of real ability, etc." Now, as I do not wish the reputation for 'elegance' that I have made with Bro. R. to suffer, I must make some grateful return for my share of this valued compliment. "Indeed, it affords me the greatest pleasure to do so." For, it is much more pleasant to commend than to censure, to praise than to blame, even an opponent in discussion. And I do it the more heartily because truth and the facts bear me out in it. For, whatever else Bro. Robey may be deficient in, he is certainly not lacking in finesse, the particular quality of mind for which I would now commend him. (I use the term in its good sense.) He has certainly displayed no little talent for changing or explaining away his positions.

At the outset of this discussion, most of us understood his position to be that the heathen are lost because they do not believe on Christ. When that position was carried by the advocates of the 'standard theory,' he 'explained' that he had not occupied or intended to hold said position; and forthwith opened upon us from the point that the heathen are damned because they are 'sinners.' Since he was driven from that position, he again 'explains,' and says that the question he 'raised'—the position he intended to hold—is not the 'abstract possibility of a heathen being saved,' but that he 'raised the practical one. Are the heathen saved?' Early in the discussion, he was understood to assume an air of independence of, if not contempt for, the opinions of our 'standard authors;' asserting that he did not 'believe' certain things because others have believed,' but that he chose to ask why they have believed. But now, since his Scriptures have proved too weak for him, he has snugly entrenched himself behind the deliverances of these hitherto contemned 'standards.' And, finally, as if he felt that all legitimate argument would prove unavailable, he rises in sheer desperation, and as a last resort, to have 'fallen back' on ridicule, wit and hard names for the opposing theory, as a questionable substitute for argument. So, upon the whole, Messrs. Editors, while I wish to be complimentary, I must, in truth, say that I am at a loss to determine which Bro. Robey deserves most—admiration for his consummate strategy or sympathy because of his perplexing 'difficulties.'—Yet, lest I should make another 'mistake,' I will accord him both. And, I do it the more cheerfully, because his story is more to blame than himself for his signal failure to establish the position with which he was understood to start out. His 'mistake' consisted in his adopting and trying to sustain such a theory.

But, Messrs. Editors, strategy is the only redeeming fact that has marked the career of our hero of the present cause. He has added a lively imagination to the other 'flashing graces' that have recently charmed his admirers. He really seems to fancy himself astride the noble war horse of Bro. Watson, while 'charging' on the enemies of the heathen, who, in his fish or mistaken views, have retarded the sending of the gospel to them. Indeed, he seems to feel that he holds in his avenging hand the fiery broad sword of that mighty Nathan, and that he is about to let it fall on the guilty heads of the aforetime foes of the truth. A man with less inventive genius than that of our hero would probably never have discovered the identity of his cause and that of the distinguished Watson.—Nor would he have confounded that of the advocates of the 'standard theory' with the one maintained by the opponents of that chief. For, practical men can certainly see a difference between the importance of sending the gospel to the heathen as the means of saving more of them than would be saved without it,—the theory of Watson on the one hand, and the absolute necessity of sending it in order to create a possibility of their salvation, —that of Bro. Robey and Dr. Closs on the other. Nor, does it require much discrimination, in a disinterested party, to note the difference between the theory of those who would defend the divine government against the charge of injustice and cruelty to the heathen,—that of Yates, Abernethy and myself—and that of those who would have the church supinely fold her hands and selfishly leave the salvation of the heathen entirely to the Almighty—that of Mr. Watson's opponents. But, we should remember that genius is blind to nice distinctions and minor differences, and looks only to grand and glorious results—especially when pressed with 'difficulties.' And, this skillful utilization of a defect challenges our admiration instead of provoking our censure. A man should be blind to obstacles if his blindness will help him over them. And our admiration is heightened by the manifest pity and reluctance with which he deals his blows upon our heads, and the magnanimity that characterizes the splendid triumphs of his genius. In the sublime greatness and profound sympathy of his soul, he says: "This is hard; but we hope our dear brother will endure it patiently." Again, as if almost overwhelmed with a feeling of commiseration, he tearfully exclaims: 'All this is hard, HARD! And if we consulted only our feelings [boo, hoo! hoo!!] and not the interests of truth, here we might pause, pity and spare. We have no disposition to be cruel [noble soul] and would prefer surrender to cruel and slaughter, if surrender would do as well.' Really this unparalleled magnanimity and compassion are absolutely overpowering! And, if I cannot successfully resist and emulate such nobleness of soul, I can certainly appreciate and admire it.

But, Messrs. Editors, after all that has been said, there are still some drawbacks to our admiration of genius struggling with 'difficulties.' Notwithstanding Bro. Robey's familiarity with the teachings of the naturalist, he seems, for the time, to be blind to the distinction between a genus and a species. He seems to overlook the fact that the terms 'faith,' 'works' and 'gospel' may be used both generically and specifically. He seems to forget that 'faith,' as it refers to God's character, may be generic, while, as it refers to any particular fact, by which that character is revealed, it may be specific—that faith in God, as a saving principle, may be 'one and the same with all men, while, as it refers to the particular means of its development, it may be 'quite another and different' thing. And that 'works,' as a meritorious means of procuring salvation, may be a 'general' condition of acceptance with God, while, as they constitute obedience to the ceremonial or to the moral law, they may be a 'particular' one. Also that as the 'gospel,' as a general revelation of God's goodness and mercy to man, may be generic, while as a revelation of that mercy, through the fact of 'Christ crucified' or some other fact, it is specific. This oversight of Bro. R. accounts for his wonderful 'discovery' of four conditions of salvation in what he is pleased to call my 'harmonious system.' It also throws light on the fact of his confusion as to what I mean by the term 'heathen' and by the 'necessity' of the gospel to his salvation, etc. I use the term gospel generically while he uses it specifically. I apply it to any revelation of God's goodness, be only to the revelation of that good ness made through Jesus Christ. I believe the heathen may have the gospel in some measure, without ever hearing of Jesus, while he does not.

Bro. Robey has also made some reputation for fairness (?) and as a critic, or rather as a hypercritic. As 'almost anybody can open shop on the capital of hypercriticism, I am vain enough to believe that if I had 'studied the science, and if I did not write so 'hurriedly,' I could do almost as well at this as Bro. R. has done. 'I am tempted to 'try my hand' any way, as Bro. R. has furnished me the materials with which to work. That your readers may see which 'beats,' I will give them a specimen of criticism from each. Here is one from Bro. R. Because I, preliminary to an argument, make certain statements, the truth of which is self-evident, he represents me as supposing that I had made a 'startling discovery.'

Now, take a specimen from myself. While writing the article in which the above criticism is given, Bro. R. makes the 'startling discovery' that a man may 'consider' a passage from an author 'as bearing very strongly against' the theory of his opponent, and as being 'perfectly conclusive for his own theory; and yet fail to quote such passage, 'because he knew that it really proved nothing to his purpose.' See first column and third paragraph of his last article. Take another specimen. In commenting on my statement of the question between us, he says, 'If this gospel is not 'indispensably necessary, is it dispensably necessary? And if it is not necessary as a condition of a 'possible salvation,' is it necessary as a condition of an impossible salvation? Now, let me ask Bro. Robey a question or two. If the heathen have an 'abstract possibility' of salvation, without the gospel, will they have a concrete 'possibility' with the gospel? And if the heathen, who know nothing of Christ, can not be saved by a 'partially virtuous' life, can they be saved by an impartially 'virtuous' life, after they hear of Jesus? Is there anybody else besides 'Bro. Brooks' who is 'too metaphysical?'—who 'has spun his thread so fine that he cannot see it?

But, Messrs Editors, Bro. Robey says I have mistaken the question in dispute. He says he 'never raised' the question of the 'possibility' of heathen salvation. He says, 'this we grant.' He says 'Bro. Brooks thought' that was the question he raised and 'discussed,' but that 'here again he was mistaken. Indeed,' continues Bro. R., 'we have never read after a writer who seemed to have such a faculty for being mistaken, except one. Mr. Watson says the true question is, Are the heathen saved? This is the question we have been discussing.' Now, as Bro. R. seems anxious to shift the responsibility for the continuance of this discussion from his shoulders to mine—as he tries to do this by charging me with mistaking the question at issue—I propose to call him to the record. He says the question he raised and has been discussing is not, can the heathen be saved without the gospel, but, are they saved? I will give a short passage or two, bearing on this question, from each of his five articles. The following is from his first article. Indeed, I give the first line he wrote: "Can the heathen be saved without a knowledge of the gospel? If they can, why send them the gospel? If they cannot, who is responsible for their destruction?' What question is asked or 'raised' here? Is it, 'are' they saved or 'can' they be? After arguing this question at some length, he says in the same article: 'We cannot avoid the conclusion that he [the heathen] cannot be saved at all, without a knowledge of the gospel.' What question was he 'discussing' here? —cannot be saved etc. Take a sample from his second article: 'If the church is the only agency by which salvation can be placed in reach of the benighted heathen. * * * Now can they be saved? etc.' Again: 'If she cannot save them, they cannot be saved,' etc. What question was 'raised' and 'discussed' here? Take a short passage from his third article: 'Therefore no unenlighted heathen can be saved.' Was the question 'raised' here the possibility or the certainty of heathen salvation? Hear him in his fourth article: 'The best sinner in a heathen land must be lost, because to him the remedy is inaccessible.' Again: 'The heathen, then, according to the apostle, are to perish. The Jew or Christian who has the written law, is not necessarily to perish, but to be judged.' Now, if the heathen 'must be lost, can he be saved? If he 'necessarily' perish, is there any 'possibility' of his salvation? Indeed, Bro. R. is so tenacious of his favorite question, which he says he did not 'raise' or 'discuss,' that he restates it in his fifth and last article—the one in which he says he did not 'raise' it. Hear him in the first part of that article: 'We then maintain that their only chance for salvation lies in their compliance with the terms of the gospel, which compliance they cannot yield without a knowledge of that gospel.' What question is 'raised' or stated here? It seems in fact that Bro. Robey's 'metaphysics' and 'difficulties' have so perplexed and bewildered him that he does not know what question he 'raised' and 'discussed.' Indeed, he does not seem to know exactly what the question was that Mr. Watson raised. In the same paragraph he represents Mr. W. as raising both the following questions: 'Is it possible for a heathen to be saved?' Again, 'Are the heathen actually saved. Possibly, however, the types misrepresent him or I mistake his meaning. But am I 'mistaken' as to the question that Bro. Robey raised? Just examine carefully the passages I have quoted from his several articles. If I am mistaken, are not nine tenths of your readers in the same category? How did Dr Closs understand Bro. R.? He uses the following language in his first letter to Bro. Yates: 'You must be conscious that the subject of discussion is whether or not the heathen can be saved without the gospel.' Is Dr. C. in the habit of making 'mistakes? And, it does seem to me that one who has 'studied' his subject so profound ly, and who does not write 'hurriedly,' might write so plainly that such men as Dr. Closs and Bro. Yates could understand him, if I do 'mistake' his meaning. I trust that when Bro. R. shall 'raise' another question for discussion, he will get it so high that little and common people, like myself, can see and understand it.

JNO. R. BROOKS.

Goldsboro, 26 April, 1875.

THE SIZE OF ADAM.—We learn from a recent book that Adam was, according to rabbinical tradition, one hundred miles high. If this is really true, every one of us ought to be fervently thankful that the race has dwindled since Adam's day. It is appalling to think of the inconvenience and expense to which we should be subjected if we retained Adam's dimensions. A man would require, we should judge, trowsers fifty miles long, and about four hundred furlongs of suspenders. And if we were to preserve the proper proportions in our dress, we should each require about sixty thousand cubic feet of high hat. When a small family of such men died, they would occupy the entire State of Pennsylvania as a cemetery; and the way the undertaker would accumulate charges for coffins would be simply frightful. So it is better as it is. Adam did very well while he was alone in the world; but just at present a man of his inches, who lived in Philadelphia, could hardly sit down without mashing Lancaster out of existence.

For the Advocate.

Status of the Sunday Schools in N. C.—Unoccupied Territory—The Great Interest Involved, &c.

In my last article, I confined my remarks mainly to the general history of the Sabbath-school, and showed its wonderful progress in the course of about one hundred years. But this rapid progress has not been equally great in all parts of the christian world The present status of the Sabbath-school in North Carolina is not so hopeful as in the larger cities North of us. After due consideration, I am forced to say, that the Sabbath-schools in N. C. are not doing half the work they are capable of. There is nothing to hinder these schools from gathering all the children of the State into their fostering care. There is no insuperable opposition to the universal sway of this system in the State. I find that the larger part of the children in this State are outside of the Sunday-schools. The following statistics gathered from authorized Minutes and other sources tell their story:

Denominations.	Sunday-school pupils.
Methodists,	24,804
Baptists,	19,500
Presbyterians, (estimated at)	10,000
Episcopalians,	2,863
All others (estimated at)	20,000
Total,	77,167
White children in N. C.,	182,938
Not in the Sabbath schools,	105,771

Thus it will be seen that the combined agency of all denominations has not gathered in their Sunday-schools one half of the children that might and ought to be enrolled on their books. And while the Methodist Church is far in the advance of others, yet she is wofully deficient in this momentous interest. It will, perhaps, surprise many to learn that there are 73 regularly organized churches in the N. C. Conference that have not a vestige of a Sabbath school in them.—And half of the churches where Sabbath-schools exist are not doing efficient work; they are defective in numbers, in literature, in competent teachers, and methods of fruitful operation. Our Minutes report a loss of one thousand Sunday school scholars last year. If this declension continues, what an incalculable damage will result to N. C. Methodism! Let us arouse ourselves to the importance of this subject. What a fruitful field the Sabbath-school system throws open to the enterprising energies of the church! Think of one hundred thousand children roaming in our midst, that might be gathered and put under the wholesome instruction and sanctifying influence of the Sabbath-school. "They are small in mind, and in influence, if they are numerous," says one. Yes, they are. Acorns are small in what they are when acorns, but how grand when grown up into acre-covering century oaks! How grand when they become a far-stretching forest, on whose broad foliage the glory of the summer sun spreads its golden brilliancy! There is a moral nature in these children, which when unfolded will shine as the stars in the firmament. These children borne and swept through the world, are as seeds which when planted in the soil of proper culture, might grow into ample harvest, whose golden sheaves will fill the garner of the skies. Look through the telescopic lens of faith, and see the souls of these neglected children that lie folded up now as buds in winter, as they open, expand, and finally under the touch of moral culture, blossom out into a world of beauty and ripen into life's summer of christian usefulness. Every soul of this vast throng of children, though born in a dirt-floor cabin, is transcendently more important in the sight of God than the temporal throne of a crowned monarch, or the material wealth of the mightiest kingdom.—The building up of these children into spiritual temples in which the Holy Spirit may abide and shine upon the world is infinitely more important to God than the erection of Egyptian pyramids, marble cathedrals, palaces filled with paintings, oceanic telegraphs, or Pacific Railways—these visible grandeurs of perishable matter are not to be compared with the vast reach of consequences arising from the Sunday-school training of these children. Right here it occurs to me how much cheaper is the Sunday-school work than the great enterprises of the world. It is not perhaps generally known that in the beginning Sabbath schools were conducted by paid teachers. The price was thirty-three cents for each Sabbath. The teachers of this age are not so sordid as to demand pay. But suppose each teacher was paid the amount stated, then the two hundred and ten thousand officers and teachers would annually receive the sum of three millions, six hundred and forty thousand dollars; yet not one cent is paid for tuition. Was ever such a vast amount of sound instruction and valuable knowledge diffused at so cheap a rate as in the system of Sabbath schools? What a grand power in the hands of the church to be wielded by her without money and without price. Remember then that there are over 100,000 white children in N. C. out of the Sabbath schools; and 10,000,000 in the United States. As the highest estimate of the number of children now belonging to the various Sunday-schools in the Union, is only 5,000,000, and assuming that the school age is from four years to twenty, which would give 15,000,000 children and youth in the country; it is evident that the great field for Sunday-school operation remains yet to be occupied. "The harvest truly is plenteous, but the laborers are few. Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest that He will send forth laborers unto His harvest."

H. T. HUDSON.

(To be Continued.)

For the Advocate.

LUMBERTON N C., April 15th 1875.

DEAR BRETHREN: I send you an extract from a private letter of Bro. S. S. Bryant for publication in the Advocate as it has done my own heart good, and will no doubt do others good; and, while the thousands of Bro. Bryant's old friends will sympathize with him in his bereavement, they will rejoice at the rich consolation which the grace of God affords him in his declining years.

Very truly,
Yours in Christ
IRA T. WYCHE.

WARRENSBURG, MO., March 15th 1875.

DEAR BRO. WYCHE: Your letter was not unexpected. I believed at least in your sympathy. I had indeed at times felt concern because so long time had passed without hearing from you, but I never doubted you. I trust this may reach you when all are in health and in the Master's peace.

YES IRA, after forty years of varied—strangely chequered life in union together, my beloved wife has reached her rest.

I am alone now, save one daughter, that is all—and a great deal, for she is every thing to me now, and in herself worthy of my love. My father's family are all in heaven, and my own wife and four children out of five are buried, and yet I am strong, neither in doubt nor in gloom. There is some light on every grave. I can walk in the 'valley of the shadow' even alone, trustingly.

You ask some account of the past. At the close of the war I was a Local Preacher in the church, and in 1866 determined to give the age of my life as its youth had been given to the ministry of the word. In this I had the hearty co-operation of my wife, who was never happy but when I was doing that work she never doubted was my duty. In the winter of '66—'67 I received unexpectdly an invitation to a vacant charge in St. Louis.

Dr. W. A. Smith, then in St. Louis, started the matter at the suggestion of a Missouri lawyer with whom I had become intimate when he was a member of the Confederate Congress. —Bishop Doggett placed the appointment in my acceptance and I went. I then had one son 18 years old. He was in good business and remained in Virginia.

I soon became interested in the Western work and I and wife and daughter were made to feel at home and so I stayed After some months the health of my son declined and I sent for him.

In St. Louis the disease became aggravated and the physicians said he could not live in the city, but there was hope in the open country. St. Louis Conference was near at hand and Bishop Marvin kindly took the matter in hand and appointed me to a pleasant open city station of about 4000 inhabitants—Independence, near west line of the state. Here we were kindly received and every thing that skill could accomplish for my son's recovery was done, but in the following summer his sufferings ended. Twelve years before I had met the shock of the sudden death of my oldest son, now I had to see the last one dying through long weary months of slow but sure decay.

I have not gone far from that grave since. I served that station two years and then was appointed to the District which I served four years. The latter part of the fourth year on the District I found Eliza's health was giving way; (it began to decline with the death of her boy, between them was the closest bond of love,) and that I could not in justice to her be away from home as District work would demand; so I took this station where I could have the comfort and attention she required. Through the first year on this station her decline was so gradual as not to give me immediate alarm, but when this last winter was established in its intense cold, she and I both felt her inability to go through it to the spring. The knowledge of this gave her no concern.—She was ready, waiting, always cheerful, uncomplaining, trusting in God.

Her last days were very serene, and in possession of every physical comfort. She had gathered friends to her every where we had lived, and where she was known will not soon be forgotten. She was a helper to me as a wise counsellor, and to my work by her lovely christian character. She was beautiful in death, looked younger by years than when living, and now sleeps by the side of the boy she loved. So you see I have less disposition to wander out far from this place of my graves. The opening of my way—the keeping of the way open—my ready access to the hearts and confidence of the people I feel to be every step and in every thing under the leading of God. I have His work to do and do not fear His discipline even when I do not understand it.

I have no complaint of any neglect, nor have I or any of my family been suffered to lack—hardly to feel that we were in a strange land.

It would be a gratification to meet you once more, but I hardly think it may be,—yet we do not know what may be,—whether we meet in this life or not I confidently look to meet you on the other side. Write again. Affectionately your friend and Bro.

SAML S. BRYANT.

Social Card Playing, &c,

BY JOHN E. HOOD.

Although, what is called social card playing is praticed in many parlors, and doubtless without wrong intentions, yet I am forced to believe that it is very dangerous, and has plunged many youths into utter destruction.

Heads of families, though often members of the church, tolerate social card-playing, and many other frivolous games, which are calculated to lead the young astray, and often participate in them themselves, apparently unconscious of the painful result. The young, and even the old, after playing a few games, become deeply interested, in games, and then seek a thorough knowledge or education in the science of games. Then they will not be long in gaining a knowledge of the more fashionable and innocent game, so called. But a knowledge of this will lead them to desire further information, until at last they will be adepts in a variety of games, able to teach others, and will be favorite partners where they go. Many respectable gentlemen have acquired a taste for play in social card-playing, which finally became an all absorbing passion, knowing no bounds, and rapidly hurrying them down the road to ruin where all is misery, desolation, and death. Thousands of gamblers have been made the same way, and tens of thousands have fallen before this terrible vice, in consequence of a taste for play having been formed in the family circle. Young men let me advsie you; though it falls from the pen of a young writer, he is desirous to awaken a profound interest, and hold serious attention: Don't meddle with cards; for a knowledge of card playing will take your fortunes, ruin your reputation, and doubtless damn your souls. Think of some men, with whom you are familiar, who have spent their fortune gambling; think how many noble hearted wives, mothers, and children, have been deprived of their fortune, homes, rest and liberty, whose hearts have been pierced by an unsuccessful gambler's wrath, and quelled by a drunkard's fury! How strange, that men, and even boys, will indulge in these idle games, knowing, or should know, that nothing short of ruin will be the result. How different would have been the fate of thousands of intelligent, and generous men, whose bodies now fill unnoticed graves, had they rejected such as card-playing dram drinking &c.

But alas! they have passed away, leaving behind them no honor or fame; but have blotted their history's page with crime, which is a disgrace to them, and a slur on their posterity. How great must be the remorse of that man, who thus spends his life, when death arrests him in his wild career, brings back to his mind, the multitudinous sins which he has so wilfully committed. But alas! too late to reflect. He has run his race: disgraced his friends; and plunged his soul into hell, which might have been much easier borne up 'on high, to a world of perfect beatitude.

One word more, and I shall be done. Now, youth, the gambler's destiny is before you: may you shun it, and become a pious and useful man. Remember our nation's future hope is in the hands of the young and rising generation.

Lenoir, N. C., March 28th 1875.

An exchange says the Universalists of the North-west have arranged for a series of prayer meetings in Michigan, Indiana and Ohio, "for the outpouring of the Holy Spirit upon the Churches, and for mutual help and encouragement in Christian life; and by the grace of God for the quickening of religious life among the people."

Tricks of Spiritualists Exposed.

The London correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial, Mr. Moncure D. Conway, gives the following instances of exposure of tricks practiced by spiritualists: "The mystery of 'Psycho' has been discovered. You may remember that 'Psycho' is the wonderful automaton exhibited by Maskelyne, the conjuror, which, for a long time, has been puzzling the brain of scientific men by its accurate playing of whist. That 'Psycho' was in some way connected with and guided by a human brain was, for a long time, certain, but as it was completely isolated on the top of a simple glass cylinder, and no possible connection with any one behind the curtain conceivable, it grew to be 'our greatest mystery. The great men of the Royal Society went to examine it, but were all beaten. But finally a young American—W. H. Coffin, son of Dr. G. W. Coffin, a celebrated American dentist in London—after five visits hit upon the secret. Maskelyne himself being unable to submit his figure to the test proposed. The solution is that 'Psycho' is worked by the condensation and dimmution of the column of air in the glass cylinder on the top of which he sits. Beneath the carpet at the bottom of this cylinder is a perforated plate of zinc, connected with the operator behind the scenes, who, at his will, may increase or decrease the column of air, the figure moving one way or another in accordance with the pressure put upon it.

"At the same time the trick of a distinguished Spiritualist has been detected. This medium is a certain Mr. Williams, who has been making a good thing by placing on a table sundry musical instruments, which cut various antics when it is pitch dark. Williams goes out to evening companies, where all present know each other's good faith; his two hands are held by persons on each side, he has no confederate, and yet the movements go on in the center of the table. But a son of the late Baben Powell (one of the writers of the famous 'Essays and Reviews), discovered, a few evenings ago, that Williams was utilizing the peculiar way of joining hands in the dark which he adopts—namely, the hooking of little fingers together. He edges the hands of his neighbors toward each other; he then proposes to one of them softly to rest his little finger by substituting his first finger; when this change is made that neighbor's finger is readily hooked on the forefinger of the same hand whose little finger is already holding the other. In the dark the persons each side of him who fancy they each hold a separate hand, are really holding on to different fingers of the same hand. Williams's other hand is thus left perfectly free to act as it pleases. Last night a friend and myself, fully let into the secret, were present at a seance, and had Williams between us. Sure enough the medium softly proposed a change of fingers, but the change was resisted. The consequence was that the poor medium speedily found that the conditions were unfriendly to any manifestations, left the house as soon as possible, and the seance came to—nothing. And it is by such tricks as these that millions are induced to believe that they are communicating with the invisible world! There is now not a medium of any fame in London whose fraud has not been exposed to the satisfaction of all except the large class of those who wish to be deceived."

International Sunday School Convention.

This body meets in Baltimore on the 11th of May. We have been requested to call the attention of those interested in the convention, to the following points, viz:

1. From States where Union Sunday-School Associations exist, each delegate is expected to bring his written credentials from said Association.

2. From States where such Associations do not exist, delegates may receive credentials as follows: Central States, from Rev. A. J. Baird, D. D., Nashville, Tenn.; Gulf States, from N. D. Cross, Selma, Ala.; South Atlantic States, from S. A. Nelson, Charleston, S. C.; Virginia, from J. L. M. Curry, LL. D., Richmond.

3. Accredited delegates desiring entertainment at Baltimore, please address Rev. H. A. Smeltz, No. 8 North Charles Street, Baltimore, Md., before May 1st.

4. For information concerning traveling accomodation, address as follows:

Alabama: N. D. Cross, Selma.
Georgia: W. B. Hayge, Buford.
South Carolina: S. A. Nelson, Charleston.
Tennessee: Rev. A. J. Baird, Nashville.

The Board of Foreign Mission of the Presbyterian Church closes its fiscal year May 1, and $130,000 must be received to bring the Board, free of debt, through its obligations. In April, 1874, the Board received $104,000.

Episcopalians.

Bishop Talbot, of Indiana, tells a good story on himself, when he resided in Kentucky, before he became Bishop. He was travelling in the southern part of the State, on horseback, and stopped at a hotel over the night. At the supper table he silently asked a blessing before he began to eat. The landlord, observing this, said to him, "Stranger, you are a preacher, are you not?" "Yes," said the stranger. "What church do you belong to?" asked mine host. "Episcopalian," said Mr. Talbot. "The what?" said the astonished landlord. "The Episcopalian church," repeated Mr. Talbot. Well, stranger," said the host, "I thought I knowed all the churches that are around in these parts, but hang me if I ever heard tell of the Episcopian church before." "Oh," said a man at the table, "that is the church that worships its bishops, ain't it?"—Selected.

HUMORS OF HYMNS.—An English clergyman in a recent lecture on Congregational Psalmody gave some amusing instances of the incongruities that used to occur by the awkward divisions in repetition lines. For instance, "Love thee better than before," was divided "Love thee bet,"; "My poor pollted heart" became poor pol"; "We'll catch the fleeting hour" was sung "We'll catch the flee-"; "And take thy pilgrim home" became "And take thy pil-"; "And in the pious he delights" was sung "And in the pi-and in the pi-;" and "Send down salvation from on high" became "Send down sal-". A soprano in one case sang "Oh for a man," and the chorus responded "Oh for a mansion in the skies." In one case the soprano modestly sang "Teach me to kiss"; the alto took up the strain, "Teach me to kiss," while the base rendered it quite prosaic by singing "Teach me to kiss the rod."

Keep in mind that though the library shelves groan with books, whose name is legion, there are in each department only a few great books, in relation to which others are but auxiliary, or it may be sometimes parasitical, and, like the ivy, doing harm rather than good to the pole round which they cling.....Stick, therefore, to the great books, the original books, the fountain-heads of great ideas and noble passions, and you will learn joyfully to dispense with the volumes of accessory talk by which their virtue has been as frequently obscured as illuminated.—Prof. Blackie.

Laughing Stock.

A boy about twelve years old, knocked at the door of a house in Detroit, and when the lady appeared he said: "There'll be a boy around here pretty soon to clean your walk, but don't give him the job. His name's Jim; he's cross-eyed and he blows up cats with powder snaps. I'll be here with my partner pretty soon. We go to Sunday-school, never sass our mothers, and we are going to give half the money to the grasshoppeos." The job was saved for him.

A Detroit gentleman walking behind two school children the other day heard the boy inquire: "Will you be at the party to night?" "I shall be there," answered the miss, "but I may as well tell you now that your love is hopeless. Mamma is determined, father is set, and it isn't right for me to encourage your attention. I can be a sister to you, but nothing more. Therefore you needn't buy me any valentine or give me any more gum."

ONE of the most remarkably unsatisfactory expositions of Scripture on record is that of the colored preacher who was trying to throw light on the miracle of the loaves and fishes. He confusedly said: "My beloved friends, de greatest of all mircles was' bout de loaves and fishes. Dere was 5000 loaves an' 2000 fishes, an' de twelve 'postles had to eat dem all, and de miracle was dat dey didn't bust.'

A PROFESSOR had a particular set of illustrations, from which he could not well deviate without risking a blunder. In illustrating the powerful effects of prussic acid, he was wont to inform the class that a drop placed on a dog's tongue was sufficient to kill him. On one occasion, when lecturing his class, he said, "Mr. BOGGLES," addressing a young man, whose chance for passing was very slender, "what can you say of prussic acid? Is it powerful or otherwise?' "It is rather powerful, said the student dubiously. "Rather powerful!' said the professor, indignantly; "put a drop on your tongue, and it would kill a dog!' The shout of laughter which followed, and BOGGLES's confusion, revealed to the professor his illustration had served a double purpose.

The Baptists of Massachusetts propose to raise for the Centenary Fund at least $300,000.

The Christian Advocate.

OFFICE—Corner of Dawson & Hargett Sts

THE ORGAN OF THE NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE OF THE M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

Rev. J. H. Bobbitt, } Editors.
R. T. Gray, Esq. }

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

POSTAGE PAID, IN ADVANCE. POSTAGE PAID,	$2.20
SIX MONTHS, " " "	1.35
If payment be delayed six months,	2.70

All letters on business with this office should be addressed to the Editors of the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

RALEIGH, N. C., MAY 5, 1875.

The Cross (X) Mark is to remind you that your subscription has expired. Let all renew promptly.

Watchfulness.

The admonitions given in the Bible to watchfulness and diligence on the part of professed Christians are numerous and most solemn and impressive. The Saviour of the world admonishes all: "Be ye therefore ready also:" "let your loins be girded about, and your lights burning:" "blessed are those servants whom the Lord, when he cometh, shall find watching."—Again and again are we exhorted to watchfulness in the writings of the epistles: "be ye therefore sober, and watch unto prayer;" "let us not sleep, but let us watch and be sober." Complete preparation for the end of life is the import of the teachings of God's word.

There is a painful sense of coldness on the part of many members of the church. Duties have been neglected, and spiritual sleep and deadness has come over the soul. Hope is not entirely lost, and yet the evidences of acceptance with God are too faint to inspire joyful experience. They are prayerful in a degree—keep up the ordinary round of religious duties,and lay the flattering unction to their own souls that they are children of God. But when the test hour comes, and eternity unveils itself through the light of God's spirit, there suddenly arises a feeling of uneasiness and a consciousness that something is lacking—that a deeper work of grace is needed to enable the soul to meet the final hour. All believers, we suppose, expect to grow better before they die, and for the reason that they regard their present attainments as below the standard of meetness for heaven.—Their work for Christ has been little in comparison with their gifts and opportunities, and they shrink from appearing in the presence of God with such a meagre account. They must do more and bring the goods bestowed by their Lord to a higher improvement before they can be satisfied to meet the reckoning. Their inward experience is also defective, purity of heart is not clear, and holiness needs to be perfected in the fear of God.—This is the secret conviction, but half expressed to themselves, and seldom or never disclosed to others—that there is a lack which they purpose and hope to make good before the summons comes. It is a sad reflection, nevertheless true, that there are many professed Christians, living carelessly and carnally, who scarcely look for anything better until a crowning grace shall be given at the close of the earthly career. They do not feel themselves to be prepared, nor do they regard it as a present privilege, but they expect all defects of character and all guilt will be graciously removed in death. There are at least these refuges to which religious people resort: the purpose to be better and to experience a deeper work in their hearts, and the persuasion that absolute readiness is impossible until the peculiar grace of the death-hour shall be imparted. Of the Christians who feel the need of a closer communion with God, and of greater faithfulness in his service, how many will carry out their purposes? Unless there is an immediate and vigorous effort made to come fully to Christ, and to give themselves up wholly to him, they are likely to live dissatisfied and to die unprepared.

It is the exalted privilege of all believers in Christ to enjoy the witness of the Spirit, testifying of their readiness for heaven. A consciousness that we are not prepared, fully prepared, should arouse the soul to its danger, and to send every one who has misgivings, with boldness and earnestness to the throne of grace.—If you are not satisfied with your spiritual state, if persuaded that something more is needed, as you value your soul do not repress the conviction, nor quiet it with a languid purpose to mend your ways, but instantly call upon God for a full salvation. For the comfort and guidance of the troubled and awakened believer, we would direct him at once to Christ, especially to that apprehension of him which makes him an all-sufficient Saviour. It is purity of heart that is needed—perfect love that casts out all fear and a sense of devotion and trust without one wicked doubt. "Ye are complete in him." He is alike our "sanctification and our redemption." There can be no spiritual character, no holiness of heart and no boldness in the judgment apart from Christ. When the spirit has wrought in us his perfect work, and when we have reached the utmost consecration, this must still be our comfort: that we are complete in him. The victory over sin and death is through Jesus Christ, and the largest consolation and assurance flow from his atoning and cleansing blood.

Missions.

It will be remembered that the Missionary Secretary, Dr. McFerrin, in view of the urgent demands upon the Board of Missions for funds for the support of our missionaries, some time since requested that money collected for the missionary cause should be forwarded direct to Nashville instead of waiting for the close of the Conference year. From March 25th to April 19th, as we see from "Our Missionary," the sum of $2,731.85 was received. This is only about one thirtieth of the amount of the assessment for 1874; and that for 1875 will certainly not be less. That is a lamentable showing, arguing either a lack of interest in a matter which should be near the heart and conscience of the church, or neglect on the part of preachers in collecting and remitting funds. The last report of the Treasurer, covering the time above stated, shows only two remittances from the North Carolina Conference, one a contribution of $5 from R. Fields, and another from Rev. Ira T. Wyche, of Robeson circuit, of $10 (the Treasurer through mistake, putting the last as from "South Carolina.")

The Board of Missions is in urgent need of money. The missionaries must be supported and the bank account of the Board must be kept up to a figure that will enable it to accept and honor drafts as they are presented. We trust that our ministers will give greater heed to the cause of missions and collect constantly and remit promptly. Bro. Shell, in accepting reports at Conference, will give credit to acknowledgments from the Board of Missions of money received, as readily and cheerfully as he would give credit for currency and checks placed in his own hands. Money is needed now—the Board cannot afford to await the coming of Annual Conference.

The cross mark which many will find on their papers this week are to give notice that the times of subscription have expired or are about to end. We dislike to erase the names of any with whom we have dealt so pleasantly in the past and trust we will not be forced to the necessity of parting company with many. But it costs a great deal to issue the Advocate Our expenses are heavy; printers have to be paid promptly every week—press work and ink and paper and postage bills must be settled upon presentation. We would cheerfully send the paper to subscribers on long credit if we were able to do so, but unfortunately we are not. We hope that our friends will act promptly upon seeing the cross-mark and remit the amount for another year, to wit $2.20. In a week or two we shall erase the names of all who have not renewed by that time.

We urge our ministerial brethren to push the canvass for the Advocate. We want every charge in the Conference to be well supplied with our paper. It will benefit subscribers and the ministers, and will not hurt us. We ought to have more subscribers than we have, though we now claim a larger circulation than any other paper in the State. The terms of subscription of many are about to expire, some have already expired, and we shall be compelled to discontinue sending the paper to many unless they renew at an early date.

The revival at Person street church continues with increased interest. Sabbath was a bright balmy day and the church was filled to its utmost capacity. The communion at the close of the sermon was the largest and the most impressive, we have ever witnessed in Raleigh on any former occasion. The majority of the communicants were from the young converts—the fruits of the great revival which has now been in progress for more than six weeks. Let the whole church pray for the continuance of God's gracious visitation in our midst!

Prof. Stevens, an accomplished and highly respected instructor at Peace Institute, died at his residence in this city last week, from paralysis of the brain. The loss of this gentleman is a serious one both to the community and Peace Institute. He had made teaching a life profession and pursued it with devoted zeal, and it will be difficult to fill his place. His funeral took place from the chapel of Peace Institute and was conducted by Rev. Dr. Smith, of Greensboro.

A union meeting of the Presbyterian, Baptist and Methodist Churches of this city was held in the First Baptist Church in this city last Sunday night, in the interest of the Young Men's Christian Association. Rev. A. W. Mangum was to have delivered the sermon on the occasion, but being absent from the city, his place was filled by Rev. Mr. Atkinson who preached an excellent sermon on Christianity. A good collection was taken up for the benefit of the Association.

Bishop Marvin, in a letter to the Senior, says: "On my way to the Baltimore Conference the car which I was in, was precipitated down an embankment about fifteen feet. I was scarcely hurt at all. I felt very much as if God had made the gift of life to me the second time, to be devoted to His glory."

Rev. A. W Mangum, pastor of Edenton Street Church, and his family, are spending a few days with their friends and relatives in Orange county.

A Missionary Prayer-Meeting.

The following suggestive article, by a lady, we find in the St. Louis Christian Advocate:

Mr. Editor:—I read your article on missionary work, in the Advocate of February 24, with great interest It is a theme in which I have ever been interested since my conversion, and I have observed, with feelings of deep regret, the apathy which rests upon our Church on this important subject. I have been astonished that the soul-stirring and powerful appeals to the Church, through its papers, have produced so little effect. But when we take into consideration that these articles are not read by the majority of the Church, and then so little instruction is given from the pulpit, we need not be surprised at the present state of things: for we need line upon line to be made to know our duty.

I have often thought if I were a pastor, I would take one Wednesday night in every month for a missionary prayer-meeting. I would have prayer for the missionaries and their work: I would read and explain the Scriptures on that subject, and read missionary reports, and impress upon all their individual duty If every pastor would do this, a year would not pass before we would have a mighty power in the Church that would be felt all over the world. Our people must be educated on this subject; and there is no way in which this instruction can be imparted so effectually as by our pastors. There is a very great responsibility resting upon them; the Church is looking to them to lead the mighty hosts to victory. This is a time when every Christian should have on the whole armor. The heathen world is waiting for the gospel, and many are renouncing idolatry and accepting the Saviour. Every week we have the blessed intelligence, from all parts of our missionary work, of the great revivals going on, which should encourage us all to deny ourselves that we may have a share in the salvation of these precious souls for whom Jesus died.

Dear Bros. Bobbitt & Gray: You may say to the readers of the Advocate that we are having the greatest revival in this town ever known here, or at least in the recollection of the members of the church.

I commenced preaching here last Sunday night week. The signs of a good work were visible then, and the Spirit was poured out. We have a prayer meeting at 11 a. m. and preaching every night. Up to this time 23 have been converted, and 22 have joined the M. E. Church, South. The truths of the gospel have reached the hearts of all—great feeling among the men on the water as Christ is calling by his Spirit, the fishermen from their nets and boats—and they are being converted. I trust he may make some of them fishers of men! You know the land and water meets here. Now and for several days the seamen and landsmen meet with one accord, in one place and pray for the promise of the Father, which is being poured out every night, while families have been converted and joined the church. Bro. John Jones has rendered some efficient aid. You will hear from me again soon.

Yours truly,

James Mahoney.

Morehead City, N. C., April 22d, '75.

Mr. Mills and the Orphans.

Messrs Editors: You and your readers remember how a short time since Mr. Mills refused to accept 500 dollars offered to him for the orphans because he thought it was not obtained in accord with strict morality, and you endorsed him, and so did thousands, and tens of thousands of your readers. Now will not they who endorsed Mr. Mills in that act, every christian, every philanthropist, every patriot, and every citizen, who reads this send help and send it at once.—They need it,they must have it at once or suffer. I have sent my mite. "The Lord loves a cheerful giver, and he that giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord, and shall have it back fourfold.

Truly yours,

H. H. Gibbons.

Messrs. Editors: While appreciating the difficulties and trying duties of the printer and proof reader, and while thanking you for the faithfulness with which you have followed "copy" in publishing my articles, I beg that you will correct the following slight errors, occurring in my last—By doing so you may forestall any criticism of what I did not write. In the latter part of my quotation from Mr. Watson, instead of "in point of faith," I wrote "in point of fact." In next paragraph, instead of "five general statements," I wrote "first general statement." Instead of "full failure," etc, in last column, I wrote "felt failure," etc

Fraternally,

Jno. R. Brooks.

April 29th, 1875.

Trinity College.—We learn from a private note from Dr. Craven, that the College Chapel is done, except the painting. It is finely finished in Ionic style, very substantial, and will seat about two thousand persons.—Arrangements will be made to accommodate the great multitude of visitors expected to be present at the approaching Commencement which promises to be an occasion of unusual interest.

"The Curse of Blood."

Messrs Editors: The protracted discussion of this subject in your valuable paper has leveled much of the most able talent of our Conference and elicited a wide and discursive range of thought which I hope will eventuate in much good to our whole connection and the world at large.

Most of the writers have wielded trenchant pens, almost searching analysis, profundity of thought, exuberance of diction—which opened the eyes of the secular world—showing our Methodism not only to be good and great but gifted in facility of expression and cogency of reason.

I do not propose to enter the arena, after so much has been so well and wisely said, but only to throw in my "widow's mite" in this great treasury of thought—giving only a few thoughts in a plain unvarnished style on my view of this profound subject.

To go into all the world and preach the gospel of our salvation was the dictum of our Saviour when on his eventful mission to our fallen race, and it is a most positive injunction and behoof that it should be done by those who are called to His ministry—their bounden duty, and equally the duty of the church to see that they are sent i. e., to provide means necessary to carry out this great scheme of human salvation. As to the question as to whether the heathen will be saved or lost by or without our intervention, it is not pertinent at all and in either event our skirts would not be cleared of the guilt which would be attached by disobedience of a direct behest.

It seems to my mind unnecessary, impotent and unwise for any of God's creatures to argue as to eventualities of His providence—whether the means will justify the end or what will be the end. The question to be met is does God will it—and have we as His instruments commands to carry the vessel—proper vehicles of transmission. Here the curse of blood falls—want of fidelity. If in His providence, He should save the heathen without our action, our want of fealty would be sufficient cause for arragnment and condemnation. So the heathen should have the gospel as a duty on our part, and leave the ends to God. If God in His omniscience had not thought it necessary I don't suppose he would have so ordered, so I think the question is one of duty altogather.

Fraternally yours,

Jno. D. Thorne.

Home Missions—What Use?

Messrs. Editors: I have thought for some years we had little need of Missions in N. C. I think the work might be so arranged as to supply the Gospel to the people without collecting Missionary money for that purpose.

In arranging the Circuits, let weak and strong congregations be put on the same circuit. The spirit of Methodism is for the strong to help the weak.

Let two Pastors be sent to Wilmington and two to Charlotte, and never talk about sending "Missionaries" to those cities. The Methodists of Wilmington have paid enough for years past to support 2 pastors.

As to missions in the country, I want to say: We are under no obligations to send preachers to christians who show no disposition to support their preachers.

A mission, with 2 local preachers and 120 members, should pay their pastor over $115 before they ask us to help them.

We should never send any more money to help 98 members who pay their pastor $38. They have 4 local preachers and can thus have more preaching than they deserve.

I find one church with only 92 members, pays the pastor $800.

Yours, &c.,

A. D. Dreng.

April 1875.

A Wise Son Maketh a Glad Father—The son of Dr. Deems, a graduate of Princeton College, preached his maiden sermon on Sunday evening, the 4th April, in the "Abbott Memorial Chapel," Harrison, Westchester co., N. Y. The effort is spoken of as not only creditable to the young preacher but a remarkably good discourse, and was received with evident satisfaction by the large audience in attendance. It is noteworthy that the father dedicated and preached the first sermon in that church, and now the son, in commencing his career as a herald of salvation, preached his first sermon in the same place.—Wilmington Journal.

Rock Spring Seminary.—The Annual close of Rock Spring Seminary will take place on 2nd and 3rd of June.

The Annual Sermon will be preached on Wednesday the 2nd, by Rev. Paul J. Carraway, of the N. C. Conference.

On afternoon of same day, the Annual Address before the Literary Society will be delivered by Rev. Chas. Phillips, D. D., of Davidson College, N. C.

On Wednesday night, speaking.—Thursday, closing exercises.

D. Matt. Thompson.

April 24th, 1875

Rev. Dr. Whedon, of the Quarterly, who has been spending the cold weather in Jacksonville, Fla., has returned North.

Reduction of Price.

The Life, Sermons and Speeches of Rev. Dr. Reid" will in future be sold at the following prices:

French Morocco, gilt edge,	$3.00
Extra Cloth,	$2.00

Orders Solicited. Agents wanted. Single copies sent to any orders, postage prepaid, on receipt of retail price.

Address,

Rev. F. L. Reid, Louisburg, N. C.
or Jas. W. Reid, Wentworth, N. C.

"Morehead City" holds out inducements to people of the up-country to spend a few months in summer who desire sea breeze—fine fish and trips to the beautiful banks, where a large whale was captured a few days ago. I can recommend the quiet and well kept house of Sister Wade to visitors.

J. Mahoney.

NOTICE.

The Preachers in the Wilmington District will please send me as soon as possible the names of all the Local Preachers and delegates that expect to attend the District Conference.

Address, J. W. Randle,
Magnolia, N. C.

The Rev Dr. Marsh writes to the Nashville Advocate, Aberdeen, Miss., April 24, 1875. "I do not consider Bishop Paine any better. He does not suffer quite so severely as he did, but it is feared his local symptoms are unimproved. He may not be in any immediate danger, but I fear he will not be able to render any service to the Church soon, if ever." Let the prayers of the church go up for the recovery of this venerable and beloved father in Israel, and that the church may be blessed still more with the influence of his wise counsel and godly life.

The Tolsnot Transcript says: "The revival at the Methodist church in this place continues with unabated interest. Up to this time 30 have connected themselves with the church and every night new conversions take place. The whole atmosphere seems to be infused with the spirit of religion and both old and young seem to be looking to the salvation of their souls.—The church is crowded nightly to its fullest capacity, a great many having to walk from three to five miles to be present at the service. Rev. Mr. Holden is deservedly popular with the people which is the secret of his great success. We hope that the good work may continue until every sinner in this neighborhood is converted to God."

The Nashville Advocate of the 1st inst announces the death of Rev. Eugene LeVert, a venerable minister of the Alabama Conference. He was in his eightieth year and Dr. Summers calling him the "patriarch of the Alabama Conference, says "he was one of the best informed ministers of his age and country."

The Wilmington Star of the 3d ult. says:

"Daily prayer meetings at 5 o'clock P. M. are still being held at the Front Street Methodist Church of this city, and as a partial result of the same three more persons were received into church membership and two persons received the ordinance of baptism last Sabbath morning.

Life is not a dream, death is not a phantom, the grave is not a fancy; Heaven is not an illusion, Hell is not a delusion; the soul is not a vapor, God is not an image of the imagination, Eternity is not a speculation. All these are realities and how sad it is that men will sacrifice realities to vanities!—Dr. Rosser.

"Singing the Gospel."

With regard to Mr. Sankey's part in the services in London, a stiffly orthodox divine said he thought it rather "irreverent to sing the Gospel." The reply of an aged minister was happy and decisive: "As to that, my friend, remember that the Gospel was sung before it was preached: when the angels sang, 'Glory to God in the highest! on earth peace, good will to men.'"

Methodist Union in Canada.

The recent union of the Wesleyan and New Connection Methodists in the Methodist Church of Canada has proved so harmonious in action and so hopeful of permanent good as to awaken a more lively interest in other Methodist branches, in the question of joining in the plan of a United Canadian Methodism. Under the spur of this increased interest an influential convention of representatives, lay and clerical, of the Primitive Methodist Church, was held a few days ago in Toronto. Able papers bearing on the question were presented, and carefully considered during a series of sessions lasting through two days. It had been prudently and very wisely arranged in advance that no vote should be taken by the convention either for or against union, but the prevailing sentiment of the representatives was strongly in favor of a general Methodist union. We are glad of it.—N. Y. Advocate.

Rev. J. R. Brooks writing from from Goldsboro, under date of April 29th says "Our daily prayer meetings and night services are increasing in interest. We are hoping and praying for a gracious revival. Pray for us!"

Religious Brevities

It is stated that, according to statistics obtained from Protestant sources, 30,000 Spaniards have been converted to Protestantism since 1868. The Protestant chapels in Madrid and elsewhere in the country continue open.

Church Sold. Dr. John Hall's Presbyterian Church, at Fifth Avenue and Nineteenth street, New York, was sold last week at auction. The first bid was $200,000, which was afterwards increased to $240,000 for which sum the property was sold to C. S. Smith, merchant, of Worth-street.

Presbyterian Eldership.—Additional returns of the vote of Presbyteries on the propositions to institute rotation in eldership show that sixty six Presbyteries have voted for, and twenty-two against it; if eighty eight vote affirmatively it will be carried. Fifteen Presbyteries are in foreign countries, and will not be heard from for some time.

They hope to have a two hundred thousand dollar building ready for the Philadelphia Young Men's Christian Association during the "Centennial" year. A lot costing a little less than this sum has been secured, and a grand "Bazaar of Nations" has been in progress in aid of the project. The Boston Y. M. C. A. building fund was assisted very materially in the same way. The Philadelphia Association has a gift of twenty-five thousand dollars for the purpose; but it is hampered with the sensible condition that it shall be used only to pay off the final sum due on the building. It effectually cuts off the appendage of a debt

The New Orleans Advocate of April 15th announces the death of Rev. Jno. Wilkinson, a member of the Louisiana Conference, and the son-in law of Bishop Keener. Dr. Parker says "he was one of the most eloquent, spiritual and finished preachers in our connection.—In the prime of manhood, and growing in all the elements of greatness and eminence, we had expected for him a long, brilliant, and useful career. But he has been called away almost before his sun had reached the meridian. He was not quite forty-one years old.

The Atlantic Monthly asserts that the Roman Catholic parochial schools in New York have already secured, for building purposes, $15 of public money to every $1 that has been given to other denominations.

At the late Philadelphia Conference, the Rev. W. McLaughlin was sent to the Hancock street church in that city in opposition to the protest of the board of trustees These gentlemen, consequently, closed the doors against him.

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the United States will be held in St. Louis during the month of May.

Rev. Mr. Taylor, the evangelist whose labors have been so successful in India, is in England laboring in connection with Moody and Sankey.

A hundred ministers of all denominations met recently in Liverpool, England, to discuss the fearful prevalence of sin, woe, and crime from the use of intoxicating liquors. They set apart the 30th day of April as a day of humiliation and prayer for deliverance from this curse.

The Central Pennsylvania Conference, by a majority, adopted resolutions requesting the General Conference to make the office of presiding elder elective by each Annual Conference. The action of the General Conference will be watched with interest, as it will indicate the real feeling of the church toward the itinerant system.

The Pacific Methodist Advocate, Portland, Oregon, prints the following which it seems was passed by the Brownsville (Oregon) Baptist Association last June. The resolution, though old, has "kept" remarkably well. It is as follows:

We believe there is but one true church of Christ, to wit, the Baptist Church; and that all His ordinances and their administrations were committed to that church and to no other; and that this trust has never been changed nor abrogated; and hence, that all the administrations of the ordinances of Christ by other organizations claiming to be recognized by us are neither true, nor their officers considered as officers of a gospel church.

Spiritualists, in recent "manifestations" at New Haven, Vermont, came to grief through the indiscretion of one of the audience: he seized the "ghost," called for lights, and then discovered that he had caught the medium—supposed to have been behind a screen.

Born the secular and religious press are calling attention to the extravagant ostentation of funerals in our large cities. Charles Sumner's funeral cost the State of Massachusetts $29,250. In Galveston, it is a financial calamity to have a death in the family. If the husband is in moderate circumstances the extravagance of his obsequies impoverishes the widow and the orphans.

The minutes of the Presbyterian meeting held in Edinburg last November on the proposed federal union of Presbyterian churches have been published, but we have not seen them. A meeting on the subject has been called in London, July 21, to which delegates have been invited from all Presbyterian churches in Great Britain, America, the Continent, the British colonies, "or else where."

We are indebted to the Managers for the compliment of an invitation to the Commencement party to be given to the graduating class of Trinity College on June 10th. Mr. Will G. Bankhead, of Shelby, is Chief Marshall, and Mr. Jas. Clay Wilburn, of Trinity, is Chief Manager. The assistant managers are W. G. Bradshaw, Graham; R. H. Hargrove, Tarboro; C. W. White, Trinity; Will Murrill, Onslow co; W. A. Guttis, Hillsboro; D. E. Langdy. Pactolus; E. M. Wheeler, Rockingham; and Scott Pigford, Duplin co.

Mrs. P. L. Andrews, mother of Rev. F. B. Andrews, aged about 75 years, met with a painful accident a few days ago, by falling from a chair while attempting to rise from it. She is improving slowly, so Bro. Andrews, her son, writes.

Our Living and Our Dead.—We have received the May number of this North Carolina Magazine, and are glad to note that it continues to grow better. It is as completely North Carolinian in its tone, the subject matter of its contributions and editorials, as a Magazine could well be, and deserves to be patronized and fostered by all North Carolinians.

It has four distinct departments, the Historical, Statistical, Literary and Educational. Among the contributors to this number are Rev. J. Paris. S. D. Bagley, Gen. Clingman, Col. DeRossett, Col. Green, Mrs. Harris, Miss Fisher, Capt. W. T. R. Bell, Walter Williamson, T. B. Kingsbury, Editor and others. Terms $3 a year.

NORTH CAROLINA.

Rocky Mount Mail: This excellent contemporary has entered upon its fourth volume, and though it has done well in the past, promises still greater things for its readers in the future. W. L. Thorp, Esq., an esteemed friend of the writer, is the editor, and the paper reflects his tact, good taste and good judgment.—We wish it long life and unmeasured success.

Alexander Ross, living on the upper part of Surry county, was killed a few days ago by a falling tree while he was clearing off a new ground. He leaves a wife and seven children.

Hon. Thos. S. Ashe, of the Charlotte Congressional District, has appointed David Vance, son of the Ex-Governor, to the Naval Academy at Anapolis.

Two white mice, with pink eyes, caught in the corn crib of Mr. John Richardson, are the latest sensation in Monroe.

A High School stock enterprise has been started in Monroe. The stock is placed at $5 per share.

The question "Ought the Usury Law to be repealed?" is engaging the attention of a debating society in Shelby. The President and his associates at the close of the first discussion, could get no further in their decision that that the question had been very ably discussed by both sides. Soothing, if not satisfactory.

Mr. Evans, of the Milton Chronicle, refused to publish the result of a match game of base ball between two Hillsboro' clubs, and rightly says that an account of a game of marble playing would be equally as interesting to his readers.

A meeting will be held in Roxboro' on the second Saturday in this month to select a candidate to represent Person county in the Constitutional Convention.

Near Mt. Mourne, Iredell county, a negro named Byers was killed in peculiar manner, which is as follows: "He was going from his work seated on an ox. The ox had a chain around his horns, one end of which was being carried by Byers in his hand. The negro got tired carrying the chain in his hand and put the end of it around his own neck. The ox took fright, at something, threw the negro off, and dragged him about a hundred yards over a very rocky place.—Both were found sometime afterwards, the ox standing still and the negro perfectly dead, with the chain still around his neck."

The Raleigh News says: There is in the neighborhood of the quiet and well ordered town of Cary, six miles west of this city, an organized band of thieves and robbers that have of late committed a number of depredations on the farms of the good people of that section. They are getting even more bold and have the daring to attack the camps of wagoners on the roadside. A few nights ago they carried of considerable booty from one encampment in a mile of Cary.

A correspondent of the Durham Tobacco Plant, writing from Dutchville, says that "Mrs. R. Coley, wife of T. B. Coley, was found dead in her bed on the morning of the 17th April. She conversed with her husband about an hour before their usual time to rise, and said nothing of being sick. Mr. Coley got up and went forth to superintend outdoor business thinking his wife was asleep. When breakfast was announced her youngest son went to awake her and found she was dead. It is supposed she died of heart disease. Mrs. Coley was a kind mother, good neighbor and will be sadly missed in the vicinity."

The Western North Carolina Railroad is to be sold at Salisbury on June 22nd.

Wm. Braxton, of Chatham county, committed suicide on the 5th April.—Lunacy the supposed cause.

The question of making the 20th of May a holiday throughout the State is being generally discussed.

The Magnolia Record learns that a youth named Faison Shaw, residing with Mr. Mathew J. Faison, killed a young negro man last week, unintentionally no doubt, as it is said he struck him with an ordinary walking-cane on the back of the head only one blow.

The following is a list of delegates to the Cotton States Congress to assemble at Raleigh July 13th: For the State at large—N. W. Woodfin, Gen. D. H. Hill, J. B. Stickney, A. H. Gilliam, J. D. Whitford, Giles Mebane, Wm. Johnston, T. M. Holt, Col. J. L. Bridgers, Dr. G. W. Graham and Capt. R. T. Fulghum.—Congressional Districts: Jesse J. Yates, Wm. A. Graham, B. M. Collins, J. C. Wooten, R. K. Bryan, D. McMillan, L. J. Haughton, M. A. Bledsoe, Jas. C. Williamson, W. B. Meares, Wm. S. Harris, Jasper Stowe, J. D Click, Dr. Clunn J. J. Erwin, James Greenlee, J. L. McElroy, E. T. Kirby and the officers of the State Grange.

The late Methodist festival at [illegible] was a success. Amount [illegible]

Recent concerts and tableaux [illegible] realized $85 for the Methodist church.

The State Fair will open on the 12th October, lasting [illegible] is given thus early, says the [illegible] give contributors and exhibitors [illegible] prepare.

The passenger fare on the N. C. R. R. has been changed. First class [illegible] now four cents per mile instead of [illegible] and a half; and second-class [illegible] half cents per mile, instead of [illegible] as heretofore.

News: We learn that the Commissioners appointed by the Legislature on behalf of Western N. C. Railroad made arrangement satisfactory to [illegible] ties. The sale of the road has been ordered and the State will become purchaser at the limits fixed by the law ($850,000), she being in a position to bid all opposition. As soon as possible after the sale and confirmation the work will be begun to push forward extension west from Old Fort. Pecuniary labor will come usefully into play.

The Morris Minstrel Troupe did not make enough at Goldsboro to pay their taxes and other expenses and were compelled to fold their tents like the Arabs.

There are seven persons confined in the Edgecombe county jail who have been committed for capital offences—four for murder and one for rape. All but one are negroes.

About a dozen disguised men broke into and released a prisoner, confined for debt, from the Ashe county jail.

J. J. Martin, Esq., of Stokes county, has purchased property in Winston and will become a resident of that town.

P. H. Haynes, Esq., of Davie.

Jacob Fare, while attending church at Walnut Cove, Stokes county, had his pocket picked of about $200.

Last Monday, a week ago, the dwelling houses of M. L. Marshall and W. Midkiff, near Brower's Mill in Surry county, were destroyed by fire.

The Winston Sentinel says: The tobacco plants through this section of the State are not materially injured. The ravages of the fly does not destroy so much as there will be an abundance.

We are glad to learn that the late [illegible] snap has not injured the apple crop in this county as badly as was at first thought. The prospect now is good for over half a crop. Peaches will be scarce."

The cost to the State last year for the support of the unfortunate insane who cannot get into the State Asylum, and who are maintained by their respective counties, was $30,750,39.

The Grand Lodge of I. O. O. F. of the Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of North Carolina assembles in Elizabeth City on Wednesday, the 12th of May.—The Grand Secretary, Mr. J. J. Litchford informs us that the various railroads will pass delegates over the round trip for one fare.

Publication having been made by [illegible] take that the Legislature had passed an act giving assistance to soldiers of the Confederacy who lost limbs in its service, the Raleigh Capital states that no such act passed, though it did pass the Senate. That paper says acting on this wrong information several persons had already arrived in Raleigh for this purpose.

Vance's Sketches of North Carolina.—We are gratified to learn that these papers, contributed to the Norfolk Landmark, are to assume a permanent form in an elegant octavo volume, and on fine paper. These papers have already gained a population only equaled by the writer whose fame has reached the remotest sections of our country. The book will also contain the Memorial Poem recited by Mr. James Barron Hope on behalf of the Ladies of Warren county on the unveiling of the monument to Gen. Lee's daughter, in that county, August 8th, 1868, also some sketches that have never before been published. The book promises to be of great typographical excellency, and furnished at a price which will put it within the reach of all classes.

Address

James Barron Hope & Co.,
Publishers Norfolk Landmark,
Norfolk, Va.

The extent of locomotive building in country is indicated by the product of single establishment. In the ten years from 1864 to 1874, inclusive, 2,718 locomotives were made in three establishments at Paterson, N. J., the largest number furnished in one year being 298 in 1873. Last year only 107 were turned out in the three shops.

The city of New York has brought suit against the Broadway Bank for $6,000, which it is claimed is a balance of money deposited in that bank which is [illegible] paid. The bank applied for an order for a bill of particulars, which was granted by Judge Lawrence.

Two States have yet to hold elections for Congressmen. California chooses four members in September, and Mississippi six members in November. Six vacancies have been caused by death. After this year election to members of the lower House will be held on all the States on the Tuesday after the first Monday in November

The celebrated contest for the possession of the Hot Springs of Arkansas and its adjacent, which has been in court ever since 1812, has been decided in the United States Court of Claims against Rector, Bailey and others, claiming the property, in favor of the Government. It being held that the sections in question constitute a reservation reserve, under the act of 1832, and will require another act of Congress to restore it to the public domain. The property is valued at about $4,000,000

One of the last acts of the Virginia legislature was the passage of a new railroad law forbidding undue preferences, and prohibiting common carriers from charging for transportation over the same distance and the same character of trains a higher rate for freight consigned to or from any point in that State than is charged for like freight to or from any point beyond the limits of the State, or more for local than through freight and passengers.

There recently died in Paris, at the age of seventy-eight, a man who had carried the willow basket and hook of a rag-picker in the streets of that city for fifty years. He had gone through a fortune in his youth at Tortoni's house and had studied law subsequently. He fell from point to point till he got to a level below which it was apparently impossible to fall, and there he rested, a great example of conservatism.

Prof. Taylor of the agricultural bureau advises the people to use [illegible] grasshoppers by eating them. They are largely consumed on the East and the Pacific coasts of our plains find them excellent eating. General Sherman has tried them and says they are by no means to be despised. There is Scripture precedent for putting them to this use. John the Baptist ate them, with the addition of a little honey.

"In the bright Lexington of youth he [illegible] no such word as fail." was stopped by the [illegible] tion of a Boston reporter, as he endeavored to reach the centre of the lake-centre of celebration by hanging on the railing of the [illegible] platform of a railroad car.

The Christian [illegible]

PUBLISHED IN THE [illegible] EVERY WEDNESDAY [illegible] TERMS $3.20 POST [illegible]

Our Ag[illegible]

All the travelling and [illegible] of the North Carolina Conference [illegible] Agents. Any person sending [illegible] one year, will receive [illegible]

Our Correspondents

Communications [illegible] critics, [illegible] crowded out [illegible]

How to R[illegible]

In sending money, [illegible] registered letter, [illegible] of registration, [illegible] from the [illegible] than herein specified [illegible]

We have [illegible] ment of Rev. L. [illegible] this issue of the Advocate [illegible] friends who will [illegible] buy of Bro. [illegible]

Improved Farming [illegible] TIVATOR AND TEA [illegible] TACHMENT — [illegible] tisement of [illegible] where in our columns [illegible] that he manufactures [illegible] warrants them [illegible] ly improved [illegible] est testimonials [illegible] ters in every [illegible]

"It is [illegible] thousand [illegible] examination of [illegible] THE PIANO [illegible] superiority [illegible] sent by mail [illegible] and music [illegible] Philadelphia, Pa. [illegible] may 5 1t.

General [illegible]

Poisoned by [illegible] of a family in [illegible] Sunday evening [illegible] were seized with [illegible] ging, but were [illegible] It is believed [illegible] copperas, which [illegible] can

John Harper [illegible] Brothers, is [illegible]

The Spanish [illegible] eighty-five [illegible] the seizure of [illegible]

The former Secretary [illegible] arrested in New [illegible] amount of [illegible]

Attorney [illegible] his resignation [illegible] May 15.

"Is this the [illegible] ger of a [illegible] "it's Adam" [illegible] then it's [illegible]

The second [illegible] Board of Finance [illegible] still [illegible]

Reports from [illegible] tucky, Dema[illegible] so as to [illegible] early fruit [illegible] ously affected [illegible]

Troops are [illegible] Texas border [illegible] while troops [illegible] that it is [illegible] sent to the [illegible] sist.

George [illegible] the General [illegible] of Independence [illegible] land County, [illegible] the national [illegible]

There is [illegible] picked up [illegible] and the [illegible] by accident [illegible]

The first [illegible] coast, and [illegible] still to be [illegible] or five dollars [illegible] spruce gum [illegible] girl

In Richmond [illegible] by Rev. J. [illegible] to Miss Mo[illegible]

Married on Tuesday [illegible] Washington [illegible] Prof. Myers, [illegible] ton Conference [illegible] Iredell county [illegible]

Obituaries [illegible] serted without charge [illegible] ty lines of nonpareil [illegible] rate of 10 cents per [illegible] allow eight words to the [illegible] you may always [illegible] Resolutions of respect [illegible] rule.

Mrs. Sally [illegible] ner, died at the [illegible] on Sunday morning. [illegible] was buried on [illegible] 30th.)

She was married [illegible] 1825, and [illegible] and joined the [illegible] raised a family [illegible] her subsequent life, [illegible] ten children, [illegible] the spirit world. [illegible] wife, mother and [illegible] woman. Full of [illegible] ferer, from [illegible] sumption. During [illegible] admit nothing [illegible] kept her mind [illegible] and when [illegible] ly, she bravely [illegible] leaning by faith [illegible] Saviour. She [illegible] B. and C. M. [illegible] heaven." Her other children were present to [illegible] May they [illegible] on the other side.

Died in Cumberland [illegible] 1875, Benjamin Lloyd [illegible] Z. Pattison aged [illegible] and twenty three [illegible] few days, but a [illegible] nie is gone and he [illegible] absence from us, we [illegible] relations who [illegible] and charming [illegible] with the assurance [illegible] blessed hope of [illegible] the kingdom of [illegible] God for that [illegible]

In Granville county [illegible] morning the 17th of [illegible] Coley, wife of Thos. R. Coley, [illegible] disease in the 43rd year [illegible] leaves a devoted husband [illegible] and an affectionate daughter [illegible] loss of their kind [illegible] sad mother.

The deceased retired [illegible] her usual health [illegible] heart while about [illegible] hand. Not rising at her [illegible] her went to awake her [illegible] had passed away so [illegible] that those in the room [illegible]

She professed religion [illegible] united with the M. E. Church [illegible] ocks on the Granville [illegible] gained sister to [illegible] of our Blessed Redeemer. [illegible] ully to the end. The [illegible] her express her abiding hope [illegible] world and a choice [illegible] hat our sad and unexpected [illegible] eral gain that she has [illegible] with her

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF RALEIGH EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING.—TERMS $2.20 POSTAGE PAID.

Our Agents.

All the travelling and local preachers in the bounds of the North Carolina Conference are our authorized Agents. Any person sending us ten subscribers, for one year, will receive the paper free.

Our Correspondents.

Communications for publication should be carefully written, and on but one side of the sheet. All letters on business should be addressed to the Editor.

How to Remit.

In sending money, all remittances should be sent in registered letter, post office order or check. The cost of registration, or Post Office order can be deducted from the amount remitted. If money is sent otherwise than herein specified it will be at the sender's risk.

We invite attention to the new advertisement of Rev. L. Branson, which appears in this issue of the Advocate. We trust our friends who use books and stationary will buy of Bro. Branson.

IMPROVED DIAMOND GRAIN DRILL CULTIVATOR AND PLANTER.—See card attachment.—We call attention to the advertisement of these valuable implements, over which in our columns. We are glad to see that the machines are now sold with a full warranty, the defects of which have been greatly improved and are offered at least high est terms in this section to intelligent cotton planters at every convention.

"It is PERFECT," is the brief criticism of thousands of church organists after an examination of Church's New Method for the PIANO-FORTE, a work which is rapidly superseding all the old text-books. It is sent by mail for $4.50. Try it. Send for book and list of tunes. Lee & Walker, publishers, Philadelphia, Pa. may 5 1t.

General News

POISON BY CORPSES.—All the members of a family at Philadelphia were poisoned on Sunday week last by eating canned meats, they were served with frequent and violent purging, but were soon relieved. They died until it is feared all the effects produced by coppers, with which the meat is found to be seeded can.

JOHN HARPER, senior partner of the Harper Brothers, is dead, aged 83 years.

The Spanish government has agreed to pay eighty-five thousand dollars indemnity for the seizure of the Virginius.

The former Secretary of James Fisk has been arrested in New York on a charge of stealing the amount of seventy thousand dollars.

Attorney General Williams has tendered his resignation to the Governor, to take effect May 15.

It is the Village Blacksmith, not the manager of a circus, that "looks" was the reason why a man's face is more frequently seen than it raises.

The secret and executive portion of the Centennial Board of Finance has $3,500 in the treasury still to be disbursed.

Reports from the Democratic State Convention, which met in Kentucky, Democrats, give reasons to hope for success in the approaching election. early returns indicate a heavy Democratic gain, and seriously alarming to Republicans.

Troops have been ordered to the frontier of Texas to protect the settlers, who, it is reported, are being murdered by Indians. The Indians that is to say, the Indians are murdering the settlers, not the settlers murdering the Indians, which is the direction of Heaven. We give praise to God for the information.

D. A. BREWER.

In Randolph county, N. C., on Saturday morning the 17th of April, 1875, Mrs. Rowan Cox, wife of Thos. B. Cox, died of heart disease in the 61st year of her age. She was a devoted husband two kind sons and an affectionate daughter to mourn the loss of a kind mother, beloved christian wife and friend. She retired the night before in much as usual, and conversed with her husband, but found she was dead. She passed away so easily and peacefully that the room did not know it

She was married to C. Anderson the 9 th 1825, and lived near after she joined religion and joined the Methodist Church, and in maiden estate, through trying though her subsequent life, was the mother of ten children, three of them preceded her to the spirit world. As a member of the church, wife, mother and neighbor she was a model woman. For three years she was a great sufferer, from an internal tumor, disease or consumption. During her suffering she would admonish nothing by request, for and her grave-keeper her untold sufferings, and when it came down to all trying extremity, she bravely passed the valley of death, leaning by faith on the strong arm of her Saviour. She has left the church militant (Grace, E. and C. H. Anderson) to join the church triumphant in heaven." Her other children and husband are not to hear her parting words. May they treasure them up till they meet her on the other side.

M. R. PASCHAL.

Died in Cumberland co. on the 20th March 1875, Sister Peggie Blackstock, wife of Jno. Z. Blackstock, aged three years ten months and twenty three days. She was sick but a few days but suffered much. Though Peggie is gone and has cause to sorrow over her untimely death, we, his many friends and relatives, sorrow not as those who have no hope. We believe that our loss is her eternal gain. We give praise to God for the victory.

D. A. BREWER.

In Randolph county N. C., on Saturday morning the 17th of April 1875, Mrs. Rowan Cox, wife of Thos. B. Cox, died of heart disease in the 61st year of her age. She was a devoted husband two kind sons and an affectionate daughter to mourn the loss of a kind mother, beloved christian wife and friend. She retired the night before in much as usual, and conversed with her husband, but found she was dead. She passed away so easily and peacefully that the room did not know it

She was married to C. Anderson the 9 th 1825, and lived near after she joined religion and joined the Methodist Church, and in maiden estate, through trying though her subsequent life, was the mother of ten children, three of them preceded her to the spirit world. As a member of the church, wife, mother and neighbor she was a model woman. For three years she was a great sufferer, from an internal tumor, disease or consumption. During her suffering she would admonish nothing by request, for and her grave-keeper her untold sufferings, and when it came down to all trying extremity, she bravely passed the valley of death, leaning by faith on the strong arm of her Saviour. She has left the church militant (Grace, E. and C. H. Anderson) to join the church triumphant in heaven." Her other children and husband are not to hear her parting words. May they treasure them up till they meet her on the other side.

M. R. PASCHAL.

Died in Cumberland co. on the 20th March 1875, Sister Peggie Blackstock, wife of Jno. Z. Blackstock, aged three years ten months and twenty three days. She was sick but a few days but suffered much. Though Peggie is gone and has cause to sorrow over her untimely death, we, his many friends and relatives, sorrow not as those who have no hope. We believe that our loss is her eternal gain. We give praise to God for the victory.

D. A. BREWER.

Letters and Funds.

Wm John L Baker sell 1 .20 S A Nichols E S Peschau 1 Rev H H Cribbs Rev S H Belshaek for Mr. Peacock 2. Rev P F S Stanley Brewster A Smith Rev W H Robbins Rev Jas Wagoner for J P Andrews for W W Batts 2 20. F J Tilley D. Jeffreys 1 Rev W H Hoyle for A Clark 2 20. Rev L S Hill for K Gibbs 2.20. E H Pass 2.20. T C Allen 2.20. all right. J H Zeilin 10. Rev A D Betts for J H Scarbrough 2.00. K S Pope 1 Mrs Mary McDowell sell 2. Rev J J Carden postage on sub 1, 20 papers sent. C H Bullock J L Skeen Z Griffith sell 2.20. N W Ayer & Son Rev P W Stamey paper sent. Rev S A Hunker paper continued F P Gluck Rev E W Thompson for S Sheetz 2 20. D G McDuffie 2.20. Rev J R Brooks Rev J S Burnett J S Sugg Rev E C Williams paper sent Rev I Scudder 1 papers sent. Rev M W Boyles for J Johnson 2 20. Rev J F Moore paper sent. Rev H Culbreth for J Stacey 1.45. W B Gray 2 20. J Reagan 2.40. P H McGee 2.20. Rev T A Rogers paper sent T E Long 2

Appointments.

WILMINGTON DISTRICT.
2ND ROUND.

Magnolia at Bryant.	March 20 21
Wilming on 5 St S..	" 27-28
Coleebure at Abercrombie.	April 3- 4
Brown at Andrew Chapel,	" 10 11
Scott's Ridge at Richlands,	" 17-18
Jacksonville at B tool,	" 24 25
Burlington Street, Street.	May 1- 2
Union	" 8- 9
Point Mass.	" 15-16
Kenansville,	" 22-23
Faison	" 29-30
Duplin	June 5- 6

The Quarterly Conference will be held at Magnolia on the 5th Sunday in March, commencing on Saturday before at 11 o'clock a. m.

Rev. J. Sanford will preach the opening sermon on Wednesday at 11 o'clock a. m.

W. S. BLACK P. E.
Magnolia N. C.

NEWBERN DISTRICT.
2ND. ROUND.

Scrafts,	April 3- 4
Bowden, Cokesbury,	" 7
Kinston,	" 10-11
Bethel, Shady Grove, Tuesday,	" 13
Harriet, Adam's Creek,	" 17 18
Concord, Stantonsburg,	" 24 25
Goldsboro,	May 1- 2
Beaver, Piney Grove, Cheerful,	" 4
Mt. Olive, (1st Quar.)	" 6- 9
Snow Hill, Graham's Chapel,	" 15-16
Goldsboro,	" 22 23
Grace at Salt Rock Ric River,	" 29-30
Grace, Mac Gore Wood & Thurs. June	10-17
Watson,	" 19-20

The District Conference and the Newbern District Conference session at Mt. Olive, commencing on Thursday, May 6th, at 11 o'clock. The general duties pertaining to said Conference will be attended to until Monday. Brethren of said of the District are ordinarily invited, and we confidently expect to meet with Elder Edmonds of the Advocate.

E. A. YATES, P. E.
Beaufort N. C.

FAYETTEVILLE DISTRICT.
SECOND ROUND.

Carthage, Cartwright,	March 20 21
Lumberton, Elon Spring	" 27-28
Fayetteville, Camp Ground,	April 3- 4
Fayetteville, Sedric,	" 10-11
Richmond city Springs,	" 17-18
Fayetteville,	" 24 25
Harrington, St. John,	May 1- 2
Sanford, Regular,	" 8- 9
Buckingham, Corinth Lake,	" 15-16
Fayetteville, Ock Grove,	" 22-23
Montgomery, Mt. Pleasant,	" 29-30

S. D. ADAMS P. E.
Carthage, N. C.

The Fayetteville District Conference will be held at Carthage, embracing the 1st Sunday in June, commencing on Thursday before at 11 o'clock. Bishop Marvin will preside

SALISBURY DISTRICT.
SECOND ROUND.

Salisbury station, Cowan's Chapel	May 1- 2
Concord station, Cox's Bible,	" 8- 9
Concord, Central Camp Ground,	" 15-16
Mocksville,	" 22-23
Statesville,	" 29-30
Statesville,	June 5- 6

J. S. NELSON P. E.
Monroe, N. C.

SHELBY DISTRICT.
2ND ROUND.

Rutherford Circuit at Kistler's	April 3- 4
Mission,	" 8 9
Dallas at Bethesda,	" 10-11
Lincoln, at Zion's,	" 17-18
Rock Spring at Hill's Chapel,	" 24-25
Newton,	April 30 and May 1-2
South Fork at Pleasant Grove,	" 8- 9
Happy Home at Rutherford College	" 15-16
Lenoir at Lindsydale's,	" 22-23
Morganton,	" 29-30
Marion,	June 5- 6
Shelby Station,	" 9- 10

Dear brethren, let us work, pray and trust in God

L. S. BURKHEAD, P. E.
Shelby, N. C.

WASHINGTON DISTRICT.
SECOND ROUND.

Roanoke at Enfield,	April 3- 4
Tarboro at White's,	" 10 11
Williamston at Hamilton,	" 17 18
Plymouth and Jamesville, at Plymouth,	" 24 25
Columbia at Scuppernong,	May 1- 2
Bath at Belhaven,	" 8- 9
Marcus's Keet, at Amity,	" 15-16
Washington and Greenville, at Greenville,	" 22-23
Warren, at Bethlehem	June 12-13

The District Conference for Washington District will meet in session at Plymouth commencing May 27th at 11 o'clock. Opening sermon by Dr. M. Eaty.

Dear brethren, let us work, pray and trust in God

F. J. L. Wm. CLOSE, P. E.

COMMERCIAL REPORT.

WHOLESALE CASH PRICES.

Office of CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, May 4, 1875.

REMARKS.

Business continues quiet. Meats and sugars are very firm and quiet.

COTTON.

Transactions in the staple yesterday very light. Low middlings 15¼

General Market.

BAGGING, Domestic 2¼ D yd. 13-12@14.
COTTON TIES, 7s8.
FLOUR, North Carolina $7.50.@
CORN $1@
CORN MEAL—$1.00
BACON, N C hog round, 15.
" " hams 18.
BULK C. R sides 13 1-2
" shoulders, 11 1-2
LARD, North Carolina, none
" Western Herces, 17.
" Kegs, 18
COFFEE, Prime Rio, 23 1-2
" Fair Rio, 22 1-2.
SYRUP, common, 35.
MOLASSES, Cuba, 50.
SALT $2.25.
CHEESE, Cream, 18 1-2.
" Factory, 17.
" Dairy, none.
NAILS, on basis for 10d, $4.00.
SUGAR A, 11 1-2.
" Extra C, 11 1-4.
" Yellow, 9@10 1-2.
LEATHER, Sole 27 1-2@30
HIDES, green, 7@3.
" dry, 13 1-2
TALLOW, 9@10
POTATOES, sweet 75.
" Irish, $1.60@$1.25.
OATS, shelled 55. @ 1.00
" sheaf, $1.25.
FODDER, old, $1.75
HAY, N C baled, good, $1.25.
CHICKENS, grown, 25 @30
EGGS 10@12.
BUTTER, Country, 22 1-2@25.
FISH, Mullet, $7.00.
" Cod Herrings, none.
" Mackerel, new family, $12.00
BEESWAX, 25
RAGS, 2½ 3
DEER on foot, 6@8.
" dressed prime, 8@10

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

WINNOWED HYMNS.

A new and very popular Music Book for Sabbath-schools.

Price per copy in boards, - - - - 35 cts.

L. BRANSON, Bookseller,
Raleigh, N. C.

apr 8 12m.

THE GEM.

A popular Note Book published at Nashville.—Send for a many dozen as you want.

Price, - - - - - - - 35 cents per copy.

L. BRANSON,
Raleigh, N. C.

apr 8 12m

CLARKE'S COMMENTARY—

6 Vols Splendid sheep binding.

$25.00 per set to Ministers.

L. BRANSON.
Raleigh, N. C.

may 7-12m

12 Chromo for $1. The grandest chance ever offered agents. We will mail to any address, post paid, 12 beautiful oil Chromos, size 9x14, mounted, on receipt of $1. Sell for $3 in an hour. Try a Chromo agency. It is the best paying scenery out. Everybody loves and buys pictures. We have work and money for all, men and women, boys and girls, whole or spare time, day time or evening, at home or traveling. Inclose $1 in a letter, Chromo by return mail. They sell at sight.

WANTED Agents for the best selling Prize package in the world. It contains 15 sheets paper 15 envelopes, Pen, Penholder, Pencil, patent Yard measure, package of Pleasantry, and a piece of Jewelry. Single package with elegant prize post paid, 25 cents.

BEST selling Imitation Gold Watch, in the market. This is a Pure Coin Silver Hunting Cased Watch; Engine turned, rolled Gold plate, sunk Second dial, Fine Jewelled, Expansion Balance, Nickel Movements; beautifully engraved; and is equal in appearance to a Gold Watch that costs from $6 to $100. It sells as fast as we can supply them. If you want a watch for your own use, or to make money on, try this. Price $7 only. We will send this watch C. O. D. subject to examination. If you send $2 with the order, the balance of $15 you can pay the Express Co., if the watch proves satisfactory.

ALL CAN make splendid pay selling our goods. We have other novelties which are sastable to Agents. Send stamp for our illustrated catalogue. Address P. P. GLUCK, New Bedford, Mass. May 5 1-y

Agents Wanted for a New Book,

Present Conflict

OF SCIENCE WITH RELIGION;

or "Modern Scepticism Met on its own Ground." A book for the times The vital question of the day. A subject of the most intense and deepest interest The fight of the century. The Bible triumphs gloriously. Address, P. W. ZIEGLER & CO., 518 Arch St, Philadelphia, Pa. may 5-3t.

20 Superior Music Books.

NATIONAL HYMN & TUNE BOOK

New. For Opening and Closing Schools, 40 cents. For Note Reading in Schools,

American School Music Readers.

Vols I. II and III. 35 c., 50 c., 50 c.

Cheerful Voices. 50 cts.

For Sabbath Schools,

River of Life. New Ed. $30 per 100

For High Schools and Academies,

Hour of Singing. $1.00

Orpheus. $1.00

For Home Entertainment,

Piano at Home. 4 hands. $2.50

Organ at Home. 2.50

Gems of Strauss. 2.50

Cheap Instruction Books,

WINNER'S NEW SCHOOLS (each 75 cts)., for Piano—for Clarinet Organ—for Melodeon,—for Guitar,—for Banjo—for Cornet,—for Fife,—for Accordeon,—for Clarionet,—for Flute,—and for Flageolet. Sold by all the principal Music Dealers. Sent post paid, for retail Price.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston. C. H. DITSON & CO. 711 B'dway, New York.

may 5 tf

The TOLL GATE! PRIZE PICTURE sent free! An Engravings guaranteed objects to find! Address, with stamp, E. C. ABBEY, Buffalo, N. Y. may 5-1y

OPIUM MORPHINE HABIT and DRUNKENNESS (causing weakness of mind and body) strongly CURED by the only known and sure remedies. NO CHARGE for treatment until cured. Call. Confidential Circular of Advice, to DR. STEVENS, 137 Sycamore Street, Cincinnati, O. may 5-4t.

The Diamond COTTON CHOPPER IMPROVED & WARRANTED

At once, Scrapes, Dirts, Weeds and Hoes. Also, Cotton Planter and Distributer, $25. Cultivator, $25. Planter, Distributer and Cultivator combined, $35. COTTON PLANTER, stitch-in-time, $150 extra. All warranted. Agents wanted. Send stamp for terms. Illustrated Circular with warranties and certificates, to RELIABLE CHEAP travel Circular with warranties and certificates, to D. C. & C. Co., FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., or to Local Agt. may 5-4t.

1875 1875

GRAND SPRING OPENING.

NEW MILLINERY STORE.

ENTIRE NEW STOCK!!

Having just arrived from the North with a New and Fashionable assortment of MILLINERY GOODS, of all the latest Parisian modes, I take great pleasure in announcing to the public that I will open my new and elegant stock for inspection, at my new store,

No. 57 Fayetteville Street,

OPPOSITE THE MARKET

ON SATURDAY, 17th APRIL, 1875.

☞ Trusting that a generous public will bestow their patronage on my efforts to please one and all, both in cheapness, style and quality of goods.

I remain, Very Respectfully,
MRS. R. LEOPOLD,
Leader of Low Prices.

Cheapest Millinery Establishment in the City!

IMPORTANT.

Customers to Look to Your Interest.

A. CREECH

Is the man who has no partner in business to divide profits with. That being the case he can, will and does sell Goods at Astonishingly Low Prices.

Just received a large stock of New Goods and at CREECH'S all you will find a Splendid Stock of

DRESS GOODS,

Black Grenadine and Fancy Silks, Japanese Silks, Jaconas Striped and Figured Duplins, New and Desirable Shades, Iron Brocades, Black and Colored Alpacas, Poplins, Mohairs, Linen and Victoria Lawns, Percales, Plaques,

And other Styles of

DRESS GOODS.

Which will be sold at such low prices, they that cannot fail to give entire satisfaction.

Just received at A. CREECH'S, Black and Fancy Cassimeres, Cashmeres, Tweeds, Coatings and Linen Goods for men and boys wear, much the Largest Stock in the city.

A. CREECH is the man that has just received One Hundred Cases of Boots, Ladies, Misses, Boys and Children Shoes, which he is selling at prices which must command the attention of Buyers.

Step in at

CREECH'S MARBLE HALL,

Where you will find Silk, Cassimeres, Felt and Straw Hats, which will fit you or anybody else in size, Style and Quality.

apl 28-tf

J. M. ROSENBAUM,

At Kilne's old stand on the corner of Fayetteville and Hargett streets,

Has received his Spring supply of

Hats, Caps, Boots and Shoes, and everything usually looked for in a

Gent's Furnishing Store.

His stock of

Ready-Made Clothing

(of which he makes a specialty)

For Men and Boys' Wear.

Is large and complete, of the latest styles, selected and bought by Mr. Rosenbaum in person, who from long experience, knows what is suited to the Raleigh market. He has also a full supply of the BEST MAKE of SHIRTS and UNDERCLOTHING. Customers will find whatever they want in the clothing line at and at prices of which they will not find it in their hearts to complain.

ROSENBAUM'S,

Thanking my customers for their past kind and liberal patronage, I trust that they will continue to favor me with their calls and purchases, assuring them that they will not be good bargains by me as they will obtain in any other store in the city.

ap 28-3m

AGENTS! Most Magnificent Gift

EVER OFFERED. LOCAL AGENTS wanted everywhere for THE KING, a weekly family and literary journal, of 16 large pages. Subscription, $2.50. With THE KING is given away the magnificently bound quarto volume, entitled AMERICA Illustrated, a superb delineation of American scenery. Liberal commissions. Magnificently Illustrated Circular free. Address, DAVID WILLIAMS & CO., 1 Chatham St., Box 4,730, New York. may 5 1-3t

WAGON MATERIAL.

SPOKES,
RIMS,
HUBS,
AXLES,
BOLTS,
IRON,
&C.

BUGGY MATERIAL.

SPOKES,
RIMS,
HUBS,
AXLES, SPRINGS,
BOLTS,
IRON,
SHAFTS, BODIES,
&C.

BRIGGS & SONS,

Raleigh, N. C.

Remington Handled Steel Cotton Hoes &c., &c.

Write for CIRCULAR of anything wanted.

apl 28-tf

THE REPEAL OF THE USURY LAW

will doubtless be the first question that will attract the attention of our next Legislative Assembly, but as that has long been stated, it becomes necessary to learn something exciting for present use. Hence we announce the fact that

Weikel, The Irreproachable Merchant Tailor,

has just returned from the North with a stock of

FRENCH AND ENGLISH CLOTHS,
DIAGONALS, STRIPED, CHECKED AND PLAIN CASSIMERES,
SPRING AND SUMMER SUITINGS
OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.
LIGHT CASSIMERES FOR PANTS VESTINGS, &c.

the like of which is creating even more excitement on Fayetteville street than

THE CHANGE OF GAUGE

did on the line of the North Carolina Rail Road.

He has in Store and now on exhibition the largest and most attractive stock ever offered to the

RALEIGH PUBLIC

before and all in want would do well to call early, as the rush has already commenced.

The Manufacturing Department complete in all its branches, with the best workmen in the state on the bench.

Orders from the country respectfully solicited and satisfaction guaranteed

April 14-3m

AGENTS WANTED for the best, cheapest and fastest selling Bible ever published. Send for our extra terms to Agents. NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Philadelphia. april 14-4t.

Thodism in North Carolin day, May 19, 1875.

have a good paper. Your experience s enlarging constantly, and then you are growing "Gray" too, to some extent. Hope you may never diminish in size or interest. I have been much hindered from my work by storms, floods of water and wretched roads; now and then by the shivering produced by malarial influences on the corporeal structure, but the Dr.'s "say never mind, the system is throwing off the malaria," hence the shaking—They know, I guess, so I'll try to bear it patiently, if not steadily, but despite all of these drawbacks, now and then the skies brighten and "heaven's ethereal bow, which spans with bright arch the glittering hills below', tells of a more pleasing future, full of promised joys.

My 2nd Quarterly Meeting has passed. It was held last Saturday and Sunday, May 1st and 2nd, at Chatham Church, a time-honored structure, situated among the hills, South west of Pittsboro. I find scrawled about on the pulpit and the ceiling the names of A. S. Andrews, James Reid, R. T. Heflin, John Rich, P. W. Archer. What a train of reflections is started up by these; how much might be gathered up from these old pulpits for the N. C. Conference Historical Society! Brother Hendren, the P. E., was with us in good time on Saturday,—preached us a capital sermon, rich in unctuous power; his subject the Syrophenician woman's prayer. It was well handled and skillfully applied. Had a fine attendance of the official board, not usual. The 2nd Quarterly Meeting had quite an interesting time discussing Sunday-schools and matters pertaining to the concentrating of churches. On the latter some rich things were brought out; how mind reacted upon mind. The P. C. made a short speech for the Raleigh Christian Advocate—got some money—more to

ISAAC ETTINGER

is now in receipt of his entire stock of

SPRING AND SUMMER Millinery,

Ladies' Fancy Furnishing and Hair goods, a full stock of NEEDLE GOODS, also

PARASOLS, FANS, LAMA LACE SHAWLS and JACKETS,

an endless variety of

Baby Dresses and Baby Caps and Bonnets.

Kid, Berlin, Silk and Buckskin GLOVES—Dress trimmings, such as Silks, Laces, Trimmings and Buttons. Enough children's striped Socks to supply every child in North Carolina with one or two pair. My stock was bought for CASH and can and WILL be sold low: all I ask is a call.

Our opening will be from now until the end of the season.

New goods will be added to my stock every day or two.

MRS ETTINGER, as usual, can always be found at her post ready to wait on her many friends and customers.

apl 14-6w

1875. 1875.

NEW STOCK SPRING GOODS.

Money lost every day by not buying your Dry Goods at

PETTY & JONES.

If our customers will but call and examine our Stock of SPRING GOODS and then compare our Stock Prices with those elsewhere they will be gratified and satisfied that we are the leaders in low prices. WE HAVE OUR PRICE and that is lower than any House in the State.

Our Black Gros Grain Silks at $1 to $2.75 per year, usually sold from $1.25 to $3.50. Japanese Silks and Cordas from 75 to 75 cts, real value 3) to 90 cents per yard.

Black Iron Grenadines, Suit Linen, Silk Lenoge Glace Mohair, Silk Fantasies, Cambies, Lenoes Dress Lawns, Plaid Poplin for Polonaise, and all other goods of the

LATEST STYLES

for Ladies. Our white goods department is complete.

Victoria Lawns, Jaconets, Organdies, Swiss Muslins, Lace Stripe Plaque, Turkish, French Nansook, Mare Blue, Soft Finish Cambric, Printed Piques, &c., &c.

1000 yards of Hamburg Edgings and Insertings, from 2 cents to 7 cents.

Large stock of Ribbons lower than ever known before

Ladies Linen Collars and Cuffs latest styles.

Spring Cloakings just opened for Gentlemen.

Five Cases Spring Calicoes, Bleached and Unbleach ed Cottons at the lowest Price. Coats Cotton 15 cents per reel.

Our stock of Spring Goods comprises the choice styles of the leading importers and having no old or auction goods to mix in sundries as to sell our customers the latest styles of goods at the lowest prices.

PETTY & JONES.

april 14-tf

A. H. TEMPLE,

(Successor to Lynn Adams,)

Grocer, Cotton Factor

AND

Commission Merchant.

Nos. 5 Martin St. and 5 Exchange Place.

Having succeeded to the business of Mr. Lynn Adams, I am prepared to offer to the public the best inducements in my line and respectfully ask a continuance of the trade hitherto given Mr. Adams, promising to give satisfaction in all cases

In addition to my regular line of goods, I have on hand a full lots of the

STINSON WOOL HATS,

made in Wake county, and adapted especially to the farmer's use.

I have just returned from the North where I purchased a full line of choice grocer's and am now daily adding to my stock. I promise those who may favor me with their custom, to give them as good bargains as they can get elsewhere.

A. H. TEMPLE.

I most respectfully ask my former patrons and friends to go home Mr. Temple my successor, who will, I am assured, give satisfaction to all who deal with him.

I will still keep my office, as Cotton Factor in the same building.

LYNN ADAMS.

march17 6- m

A. G. LEE & SONS.

A STRICTLY COMMISSION HOUSE.

A. G. LEE & SONS.

RALEIGH, N. C.

We give our entire attention to handling goods on COMMISSION, and thereby can handle to advantage consignments of Corn, Hay, Fodder, Buck, Oats, Peas, Corn Meal, N. C. Flour, " Bacon, or Green Pork, Meal, N. C. Hams, Chickens, Eggs, and all the produce of the country.

All of which we sell for cash, and are therefore able to make prompt returns. We solicit consignments from Western North Carolina, and the State generally.

We call attention to our friends in the city and neighboring country to the fact that we have made arrangements with shippers to have a constant supply of CORN on hand, and always have complements of the other articles mentioned above. We have to sell for cash but will give you good goods.—Try us.

Cotton is our Specialty.

We can always obtain the highest market price, and ask our friends who find it inconvenient to accompany their cotton to the market to try us. We can beat New York in the nett proceeds of your cotton.

When you bring your cotton to market yourself give us a chance at it. We have orders to fill and can pay the very highest market price for it. Be sure to call and see us before you sell.

We are the Agents for

The ORCHILLA GUANO and The SOUTH SEA GUANO.

The SCHOFIELD COTTON PRESS, the best invented.

The DIAMOND COTTON CHOPPER—Every one warranted.

A. G. LEE & SONS.
P. O. Box 222, Raleigh, N. C.

march 3-tf

NEW SPRING GOODS JUST ARRIVED

D. S. WAITT & BRO.,

Wholesale and Retail DEALERS IN

READY MADE CLOTHING

For MEN, YOUTHS and CHILDREN.

Latest Styles and Prices Low.

The celebrated MANHATTEN WHITE SHIRTS, which are acknowledged the best Goods and most perfect Fit that is made. A full line constantly on hand.

Gents and Ladies Hose, Gloves, Suspenders, Handkerchief, Neckties, Bows and Silk Scarfs. The latest novelties of the Season paper Linen Cuff and Collars. Ladies Leather Belts, Hamburg Edgings and Insertions, Cashs' Ruffling, and Flutings, Ladie Neck Ruffs and Collars, Stamped Yokes and Bands, &c.

DOMESTIC AND FANCY DRY GOODS.

PRINTS, PRINTS, PRINTS.

Black Alpacas.

Corded Jackanets, Striped and Figured Lawns, White Pique, Mul Muslins, Checked Muslins, Nansook and Cabin Lawns, Corsett Jeans, Canonies and Linens.

HATS, HATS, HATS

Newest Styles and Cheap.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

Our Stock is complete in this line. Mites and Taylor's Goods just in and speak for themselves. Other brands which also give satisfaction.

To Country Merchants who buy in the City, we would say give us a call and we will sell goods for cash as cheap as any House in the City, or this side of Baltimore and New York.

To our numerous friends and patrons we again return our thanks for past favors and as our stock is much larger than ever before, we feel confident that we are prepared to do the best that can be done in the city.

D. S. WAITT & BRO.,
54 Fayetteville st., Raleigh, N.

mch 17-tf.

GREATLY REDUCED PRICES

— ON —

Sash, Doors and Blinds.

WE SELL

WHITE PINE SASH.

No Shrinking,

Cheaper than Yellow Pine.

HARDWARE,

PAINTS,

OILS,

GLASS.

Largest stock in the State.

Write for Prices.

JULIUS LEWIS & CO.,

FISHER BUILDING.

RALEIGH, N. C

apl 14-tf.

"ALWAYS AHEAD, IN TIME, AND NEVER BEHIND"

In Desirable Goods at Popular Prices.

JUST RECEIVED.

We would call especial attention of the ladies to the beautiful line of which we are now opening, the most elegant, cool and decidedly popular and fashionable fabrics for Spring suitings.

PLAID CAMELS HAIR, CLOTHS AND PLAIN DEBEIGES,

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

75 DOZ. LADIES' BLEACHED AND brown Balbriggan Hose, extra lengths, silk clocked, and Ladies' striped Hose all the style.

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

A SPLENDID LINE OF LADIES' Handkerchiefs, colored borders in various designs, monograms, initials, unstitched clear Lawns and Lace.

Ladies' colored Linen Collars and Cuffs, neat, tasty and fashionable

All the above goods to be had at the lowest figures at the Cash House of

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

apl 14 tf

A. BAUM,

Professional Butcher,

Wilmington St., opposite East End Market.

Baumtte fattest beeves that can be had. No poor or stricken beef for the corn he his soup. Orders for Monmish stock weekly filled by the carcass. The best and choicest meats to be had in this Market, butchered in first class style, and sold low at apl 28-tf BAUM'S.

LIFE ASSOCIATION OF AMERICA.

PRINCIPAL OFFICE: St. Louis, Mo.

N. C. DEPARTMENT: Office at Raleigh

J. M. TATE, Sec'y. H. W. HOUGH, Treas. J. S. PIERCE, Sec'y. C. M. BUSBEE, Asst.

Assets - - - - - - $4,737,556.89
Surplus - - - - - - $461,402.89

Grants all approved kinds of Insurance, and imposes no unreasonable restrictions. Deals honorably with policy-holders and pays losses promply. And moreover, it keeps your money at Home!

Major S. M. Lenier, Greensboro, N. C., is Agent for the Tobacco Counties. Agents wanted as follows:—One for Charlotte and surrounding counties; one for Wilmington and the Cape Fear country; one for Goldsboro', Kinston and adjoin ing counties.

For Agency or information address

J. M. TATE, Secretary, at Raleigh, N. C.

mar 24-2m

CASH Price $50 00 per ton of 2,000 pounds.

TIME Price $58 00 per 2,000 lbs. Payable Nov. 1.

"THE HIGH STANDARD OF QUALITY HAS BEEN FULLY MAINTAINED, AND IT IS CONSIDERED BY THOSE WHO HAVE GIVEN IT A FAIR TRIAL THE

BEST AND CHEAPEST FERTILIZER MANUFACTURED.

LIBERAL AND ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS

FOR LARGE LOTS, GIVEN ON APPLICATION.

LOCAL AGENTS

At all the Principal Depots

DeROSSET & Co.,

GENERAL AGENTS

For North Carolina and Virginia,

—AT—

WILMINGTON.

Williamson, Upchurch & Thomas, Agents, - - - Raleigh, N. C.
John C. Haigh, " - - - Fayetteville.

jan 27 4m.

CAROLINA COTTON GIN,

McCALLUM, WYCKOFF & HOPE,

SUCCESSORS TO

SPARKS, HICKS & CO.,

Engineers, Iron Founders and Machinists,

RALEIGH, N. C.,

We are manufacturing

The Carolina Cotton Gin.

This Gin combines every quality that constitutes a FIRST CLASS GIN. Every Gin is warranted to gin as FAST or FASTER and as WELL or BETTER, than any other Gin.

For full description and Price List, of both Engines and Gins address

McCALLUM, WYCKOFF & HOPE,
RALEIGH, N. C.

may 5 4m

PHILO ALCOTT. WAYNE ALCOTT.

Excelsior Grocery

AND

COMMISSION HOUSE.

LOOK TO YOUR INTERESTS! MONEY SAVED IS MONEY MADE!

We buy our Goods for CASH!

We are now prepared to fill orders for any goods usually to be had in a First Class Family Grocery. For prices and quality we defy competition.

Having better facilities, we intend to make our House second to none. We guarantee satisfaction in prices, goods and promptness.

We have made the necessary arrangements with our friends in the Western part of the State, so that we are almost daily receiving supplies of Chickens, Turkeys, Ducks, Geese, Eggs, Butter, North Carolina Hams, Shoulders and Sides, Beef Hams, Virginia Hams, Onions, Corn, Irish Potatoes, Dried Fruit Meal, Oats, Shucks, Hay, Fodder, White, black-eyed, Stock and Black Peas, White and Mixed Beans, &c.

We make FINE MEATS a specialty, to be received daily as soon as the weather will permit.—We have made the necessary arrangements with our Norfolk house to furnish the best oysters that market can supply.

As to Liquors you must heartily for the liberal patronage heretofore extended, we are determined, by keeping the experience of those that have been successful in business, and knowing that "Success is Merit," to deserve your increased patronage.

set 5-12 m

Book Agents

WANTED FOR THE

ILLUSTRATED-FAMILY BIBLE.

Including the Apocrypha, a Concordance, Dr. Wm. Smith's complete Bible Dictionary, a History of the religious Denominations of the world, Chronological and other valuable Tables, the History of the Books of the Bible and of their translation, a Family Album a Family Record, Marriage Certificate, Marginal References, Illustrated Pictures of the Lord's Prayer and the Ten Commandments, etc.,

Printed in bold with over 200 fine Scripture Illustrations and several Maps from Gustave Dore and other celebrated artists. Printed on fine calendered paper, in fine white paper, and bound in the most substantial manner, in the most original and "comprehensive Family Bible ever published. Address NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Atlanta, Ga., or Memphis Tenn.

March 31 6-m

SHOT-GUNS, RIFLES, PISTOLS, REVOLVERS,

Of any and every kind. Send for circular. Address Ballard, Quackenbos, Adams Grant & Storrs Gun and Revolver Works, Pittsburgh, Pa. april 28-6m

READ THIS

I believe, am sure, I have opportunity to make from $2 to $5 per day, at home, or to travel. Work easy and light. I do not ask you to take my word for it. Send stamp for particulars. Address

E. L. POWELL, Warr

Children's Column.

The Beautiful Songs.

There's a song in the air!
There's a star in the sky!
There's a mother's deep prayer
And a baby's low cry!
And the star rains its fire while the Beautiful sing,
For the manger of Bethlehem cradles a King!

There's a mirth of joy
Over the wonderful birth,
For the virgin's sweet boy
Is the Lord of the earth.
Ay! the star rains its fire and the Beautiful sing,
For the manger of Bethlehem cradles a King.

In the light of that star
Lie the ages impearled;
And that song from afar
Has swept over the world
Every hearth is aflame, and the Beautiful sing!
In the homes of the nations, that Jesus is King!

We rejoice in the light,
And we echo the song
That comes down through the night
From the heavenly throng.
Ay! we shout to the lovely evangel they bring,
And we greet in his cradle our Savior and King!

Answers.

Moses went up on the mountain of Nebo, to the top of Pisgah, whence he viewed the Promised Land. Deut. 34th chap. 1st v. Mamie Womble, Viola Boddie, J. R. Howard, Eugenie N. Guthrie Florence, Mercer, Eugenia Thomas

The word Father occurs 22 times in the 14 ch. St. John. Viola Boddie, J. W. Howard, Alice Fincher, Eugenie N. Guthrie, J. H. W. Scarboro, Eugenia Thomas.

King Ahab had seventy sons behead. See 10th ch. of Judges. Viola Boddie, R. E. Ware, Fletcher B. Jones, Florence Mercer, Eugenia Thomas.

For an account of a cake tumbling into the camp of an army and overturning a tent, see Judges 7th ch. and 13 v. Viola Boddie, J. W. Howard, R. E. Ware Eugenie N. Guthrie, F. B. Jones.

There are 3 riddles spoken of in the Bible, one in the 14th ch. of Judges, one in the 17th ch. of Ezekiel and another in 1st Corinthians 13th ch. and 2nd v. Viola Boddie.

Eglon was the king who was killed in his parlor. Judges 3rd ch. 21st verse. J. W. Howard.

'Ebenezer' is found in 1st Samuel 7th chap. 12th verse. It means stone of help,' the name which Samuel gave to a stone, commemorative of God's help to Israel. R. E. Ware, Fletcher B. Jones, Eugenia Thomas.

In Revelations 6th ch 12th verse it is said that the sun became as black as sackcloth of hair and the moon as blood and there was a great earthquake. R. E. Ware, J. R. Howard, Florence Mercer.

Moses wrote the first five books of the Bible, called the Pentateuch. Willie W. Vines, J. R. Howard, Eddie G. Brown, Corinna M. Reynolds.

The word children occurs, 88 times in the 7th ch. of Nehemiah. Bessie Herndon.

Answer to Bible Enigma proposed by Addie Clegg, is Bethsbazzar, the name given to Daniel in the courts of Nebuchadnezzar. Mamie Womble J. W. Howard, J. R. Howard, Lena Foust, Eugenie N. Guthrie, M. E. Turner, F. B. Jones, Eugenia Thomas.

"There shall be one fold and one shepherd,' is found in St. John 10th chap and 16th verse. J. R. Howard.

The longest chapter in the Bible is the 119th Psalm, containing 176 verses. J. R. Howard, J. W. Howard.

The first words of Jesus in his public ministry were "How is it that ye sought me? Wist ye not that I must be about my father's business?" St. Luke 2d chap. 49th verse. Eddie G. Brown.

Anna, the prophetess, was about 84 years old. Luke 2nd ch. 36-37 verses. Estelle Brown.

The damsel who knew Peter by his voice was named Rhoda. Acts 12th ch. 13th verse, Estelle Brown.

Saul was the first king of Israel. Estelle Brown.

The 10th ch. of Nehemiah has 29 verse, 21 of which have 3 words in each. Estelle Brown.

In the Old Testament there are 2,728,100 letters, in the New Testament 838, 380. Total 3,566,480. R. K. Williams, Corinna M. Reynolds.

Four chapters in the Bible begin with the word God. viz. 1st chap. of Hebrews, and 46th 67th and 82d Psalms. Lou O. Davis.

"There is a God" is found in 1st Samuel 17th and 46th verse. F. B. Jones.

St John was the other disciple who went in with Peter. F. B. Jones.

We will drink no "wine" is found in Jeremiah 35th 6th v. Eugenia Thomas.

There is no place in the Bible where God has promised to be 'a husband to the widow, Eugenia Thomas.

Answer to J. R. Howard's Bible Enigma.

Its 1st is Bethlehem, 2d is Eleazar, 3d is Thomas, 4th is Hor, 5th is Ezekiel, 6th is Lamech. Its whole is Bethel, where Jacob had a wonderful dream. R. Anne Tate, J. W. Howard, Willie W. Vines, M. E. Turner.

Questions.

Eugenia N Guthrie asks what was the name of the woman who was eaten up by dogs and where in the Bible an account of it is given. Also, what King and his armies destroyed Jerusalem.

J W Howard asks what was the name of the only woman whose age death and burial are recorded in the Bible.

Corrina M Reynolds asks how many words there are in the Bible.

R Annie Tate asks what chapter in the Bible contains the word twelve 23 times and the word sons 30 times.

Bessie Herndon asks J. R. Howard to tell what chapter contains the word children 100 times.

Mattie V. Atwater asks what is the middle book, chapter and verse of the old Testament.

Alice Fincher asks where Solomon built the Temple of the Lord, and where the Lord said, "I will dwell in thick darkness.'

Estelle Brown asks where, and to whom, the name Jews was first given.

BIBLE ENIGMA BY WILLIE W. VINES.

My 1st was the first King of Israel.
My 2d "a King of Persia.
My 3d is what the Israelites ate in the desert.
My 4th was a city of the Chaldees
My 5th was Abraham's oldest son.
My 6th was the husband of Adah
My whole is the name of a prophet

BIBLE ENIGMA BY M. E. TURNER.

My 1st is the son of Urijah.
My 2nd is the father of Ahirah.
My 3rd is Mary's brother.
My 4th is the father of Zedekiah.
My 5th is a king of Syria.
My 6th is the father of Sarah.
My 7th is the country that Achish gave to David.
My 8th is the one whom Eli blessed with his wife.
My 9th is the son of Jesse.
My 10th is the name of the stone set between Mizpah and Shen.
My 11th is a part of the number that returned from Babylon.
My whole is one who was a King and High Priest, without father, mother or descent, having neither beginning of days nor end of life.

BIBLE ENIGMA BY BESSIE HERNDON.

My 1st the son of Pethuel.
My 2d the governor of Ahab's house.
My 3d the man who tried to buy the power to do miracles.
My 4th the grandson of Eli.
My 5th the second son of Samuel.
My 6th the son of Cush.
The whole is the name of the King of Judah who was the nearest perfect in the sight of the Lord.

BIBLE ENIGMA BY FLETCHER B. JONES.

My 1st is Abraham's first wife's father.
My 2d the fifth son of Jacob, by Leah.
My 3d the city where Joseph was sold.
My 4th the murderer of 85 priests.
My 5th city treasurer of Corinth.
My 6th a son of Esau by Aholibumah.
My 7th a noted preacher of the christian religion at Phillippi.
My 8th the city where Timothy was born.
My whole is a river that flows into the Euphrates.

Rural and Domestic.

Remedy for Hard Times

1. Hard work. Relief will come from hard, persistent, well directed labor. It is God's method for relief from all crises. Sweat must come from mental or physical labor before bread is eaten, or debts are paid.—It is a singularly effective way of fighting hard times.

2 Economy in all things. This must be added to hard work, or as the prophet saith, your wages will be "put into a bag with holes." Right now, nothing will pay better than judicious economy. Watch your tables, your person—your expenditures every way. Don't be "penny wise and pound foolish." Deny yourselves the gratification of every artificial want. Natural wants are but few; artificial ones are legion, and the latter produce, mainly, the hard times—such crises as are now upon the whole country.

3. Discard the credit system. Pay the cash for what you purchase, or let it alone. Laziness and want of economy have slain their thousands, but the credit system has slain its tens of thousands. Stop it, else the whole country will go to financial ruin.

The reader has, briefly, our remedies for the evils that afflict men's pockets so sadly. Will he take our three pills?

PUFF CAKE.—Two cups of flour, two cups of sugar, one cup of sweet milk, two eggs, two tablespoonfuls baking powder; add the milk last.

NICE SPONGE CAKE.—One cup of sugar, one cup of flour, four eggs. Beat the eggs twenty minutes, then add the sugar; beat fifteen minutes; then mix all together and beat ten minutes.

FLAVOR FOR FROSTING.—In frosting for cakes or puddings a little lemon juice, tartaric acid or cream of tartar is a very pleasant addition to the taste, besides making the frosting much lighter.

LAMB CUTLETS.—Trim the slices free from fat, beat up the yolk of an egg with rusped bread or crackers, season with pepper and salt, dip in the cutlets and fry in butter gently, until thoroughly done.

FOOD FOR CHILDREN.—At a recent medical congress, held at Marseilles, the majority of the doctors agreed that the best possible diet for children was oat meal porridge and sweet milk.

COLDSLAW.—Yolks of two eggs; a tablespoonful of cream; a small teaspoonful of mustard; a little salt; two tablespoonfuls of vinegar. If cream is not used, put in a small lump of butter rubbed in a little flour. Cut the cabbage very fine; heat the mixture and pour it on hot.

FLANNEL ROLLS.—One cup of sweet milk, whites of two eggs, two-thirds of a cup of butter, flour to make a thick batter, one-half cup of yeast, two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Raise over night; add the butter and eggs in the morning, work in some flour, making a limber dough; form into rolls, and after a second rising bake.

CURE FOR HOARSENESS.—When the voice is lost, as is sometimes the case from the effects of a cold, a simple and pleasant remedy is furnished by beating up the white of one egg, adding to it the juice of one lemon, and sweetening to taste. Take a teaspoonful from time to time. It has been known to effectually cure the ailment.

The Wear and Tear of City Life.

The wear and tear of city life are a severe tax upon the strongest constitutions. The hurry and bustle and anxieties of business keep the nervous system in a state of unnatural tension during business hours, and in the end impair the elasticity and vigor of the vital organization. The penalty of all undue excitement is subsequent exhaustion. The best remedy for it, whatever the cause, is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the tonic and alterative properties of which rapidly diffuse themselves through the entire system, revive and reinforce every dormant faculty, and restore a natural condition of body and mind. Some moral reformers insist upon the disuse of all stimulants. This, to say the least of it, is irrational. All competent physicians admit that a pure medicated stimulant is one of the most useful remedies known. As a tonic and invigorant for the aged and languid, Hostetter's Bitters has no equal. It is the sheet-anchor of the feeble and debilitated. In all climates and in every species of disorder which breaks down the bodily strength, it is an absolute specific. It is also an invaluable remedy for sea-sickness. The nausea and retching caused by the pitching and rolling of a vessel at sea perplexes the boldest and mostever-gle and those who suffer from it would do well to test to the Bitters as a means of ease and permanent relief. No steamer should sail without a supply of the article. Among the botanic ingredients of which it is compounded are some of the most powerful blood depurents within the vegetable kingdom afford. Consequently, it not only tones and invigorates, but also purifies the system through the natural sluices which nature has provided.

May 3 6 m

Consumption

the scourge of the human family, may in its early stages be promptly arrested and permanently cured.

RAVENSWOOD, W. Va.

Dr. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.:

SIR—For the last year I have been using your Golden Medical Discovery. I owe my life to it having been afflicted for years. Did not hope but a short time before I was benefited, at that time I was very bad, not able to sit up much, was suffering greatly, with my lungs, was losing blood, had a dry cough, and much pain in my lungs. I have used twelve bottles of the Discovery and am almost well.

KATE T. WARDNER.

A son of Mr. J. H. Messick, of Chatham Four Corners, N. Y., has been cured of Consumption by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.—he says Mr. C. B. Caulfield, editor of the Chatham Courier

S. R. EGLAR, druggist, of West Union, O., writes to state that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has effected a wonderful cure of consumption in his neighborhood.

may 5th 1 y.

DR. C. M'LANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS,

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder-blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for a rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the liver to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. M'LANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them A FAIR TRIAL.

Address all orders to

FLEMING BROS., PITTSBURGH, PA.

P. S. Dealers and Physicians ordering from either Fleming Bros., will do well to write their order distinctly, and take special Dr. C. M'Lane's genuine Liver Pills, Pittsburgh, Pa. To those wishing pamphlets and testimonials, we will mail them, any part of the United States, one box of Pills receive three-cent postage stamps, or ten full of Vermifuge for fourteen three-cent stamps. All orders from Canada must be accompanied by twenty cents extra.

Sold by all respectable Druggists and Country Store keepers generally.

Dr. C. M'Lane's Vermifuge

Should be kept in every nursery. If you would have your children grow up to be healthy, strong, and vigorous Men and Women, give them a few doses of

M'LANE'S VERMIFUGE,

TO EXPEL THE WORMS.

Beware of imitations.

PLEIS' FIT POWDERS.

These Powders have been tested by over 30,000 cases for the cure of Fits (Epilepsy), Spasms, Convulsions, St. Vitas' Dance, Neuralgia, and all Nervous Affections, some over 10 years' standing.

When you ORDER STATE AGE.

PRICE, $1 PER PACKET BY MAIL or send to any parts of the United States for One Dollar per Box—These Powders are prepared and sold only by the proprietor, to whom all orders must be addressed,

JOHN M. PLEIS, Jr.,

867 North Third street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Please mention that you saw this advertisement in THE CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. mar 31-1y

1875!

JUST ISSUED:

CROWN OF LIFE!

For the Sunday-school Song Service, Praise and Prayer Meetings, by W. A. Ogden. Contains 160 pages, and has the Easiest Melodies, Best Words, and Cheapest, without the most complete Sunday-school Song-book published. It has a Concert Exercise ("Sacred Flowers of the Gospel"), both interesting and instructive, which any school can produce.

SEND BOOKS FOR SPECIMEN COPY, IN BOARDS;

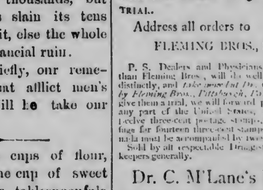
Specimen Pages Free. Price $8.60 per Dozen.

W. W. WHITNEY, Publisher,

TOLEDO, OHIO.

March 24 4-t o w.

SUI GENERIS.



MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS.

UNEQUALED in Tone and UNAPPROACHED in capacity and excellence by any others. Awarded THREE HIGHEST MEDALS AND DIPLOMA OF HONOR AT VIENNA, 1873; PARIS, 1867.

ONLY American Organs ever awarded any medal in Europe, or which present such extraordinary excellence as to command a wide sale there.

ALWAYS awarded highest premiums at Industrial Expositions, in America as well as Europe. Out of hundreds there have not been six in all where any other organs have been preferred.

BEST Declared by Eminent Musicians, in both hemispheres, to be unrivaled. See TESTIMONIAL CIRCULAR, with opinions of more than One Thousand (sent free).

INSIST on having a Mason & Hamlin. Do not take any other. Dealers get LARGER COMMISSIONS for selling inferior organs, and for this reason often try very hard to sell something else.

NEW STYLES with most important improvements ever made. New Solo and Combination Stops. Superb Etagere and other Cases of new designs.

PIANO-HARP CABINET ORGAN An exquisite combination of these instruments.

EASY PAYMENTS. Organs sold for cash; or for monthly or quarterly payments; or rented until rent pays for the organ.

CATALOGUES and Circulars, with full particulars, free. Address MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., 154 Tremont Street, BOSTON; 25 Union Square, NEW YORK; or 80 & 82 Adams St., CHICAGO.

apl 14-1 year.

A NICE LOT OF HAMS JUST RECEIVED from Eastern N. C., and for sale especially for table use by

A. G. LEE & SONS.

250 BUSHELS WHITE SPRING OATS FOR sale by

A. G. LEE & SONS.

A LOT OF FRESH MOUNTAIN BUTTER in kits. Call and examine at

A. G. LEE & SONS.

apl 14-1w,

OLD NORTH STATE

SCHEDULES.

PIEDMONT & AIR-LINE RAILWAY.

RICHMOND & DANVILLE, RICHMOND & DANVILLE R. W., N. C. DIVISION, and NORTH WESTERN N. C. R. W.

CONDENSED TIME-TABLE.

In effect on and after Tuesday, April 20th, 1875

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	MAIL.	EXPRESS.
Leave Charlotte.....	9 23 P. M	8.30 A.M.
" Air-Line J'nct'n	9 30 "	8 40 "
" Salisbury.....	12 12 A. M.	10.52 "
" Greensb'o'.....	3 35 "	1.35 P. M.
" Danville.....	6 20 "	4.35 "
" Danbe'r.....	6.50 "	4.55 "
" Barksville.....	11.35 "	8.36 "
Arrive at Richmond...	2.22 P. M	11.17 P. M

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS	MAIL.	EXPRESS.
Leave Richmond.....	1.38 P. M.	5.08 A. M.
" Burkville.....	4.52 "	8.35 "
" Danbe'r.....	9.44 "	1.17 P. M.
" Danville.....	9.48 "	1.21 P. M.
" Greensboro'....	12.10 A. M.	4.23 "
" Salisbury.....	3.38 "	6.53 "
" Air Line J'nct'n	5.05 "	8.59 "
Arrive at Charlo, N.C.	7.10 A. M	9.05 "

GOING EAST. GOING WEST

Leave Greensboro'..	2.15 A. M	Arrive	1.55 P. M
" Co. Shops....	3.58 "	Leave	11.57 "
" Raleigh.....	7.05 "	Arrive	7.52 "
Arrive at Goldsboro	10.05 A. M	Leave	5.00 P. M.

NORTH WESTERN N. C. R. R.

(SALEM BRANCH.)

Leave Greensboro'..... 4 31 P. M.
Arrive at Salem..... 6 13 "
Leave Salem..... 9.20 A. M.
Arrive at Greensboro..... 1.19 "

Passenger train leaving Raleigh at 6.52 P. M. connects at Greensboro' with the Northern bound train, making the quickest time to all Northern cities. Rates of Tickets same as via other routes.

Trains to and from points East of Greensboro connect at Greensboro with Mail Trains to or from points south or South.

Two trains daily, both ways.

On Sundays Lynchburg Accommodation leave Richmond at 9.00 A. M., arrive at Burkeville 12.45 P. M., leave Burkeville 4.35 A. M., arrive at Richmond 7.55 A. M.

No Change of Cars between Charlotte and Richmond, 282 Miles.

Agents that have arrangements to advertise the schedule of this company will please print as above. For further information address

S. K. ALLEN,
Gen'l Ticket Agent,
Greensboro, N. C.

M. R. TALCOTT,
Engineer & Gen'l Superintendent.

CHANGE OF SCHEDULE

RALEIGH & GASTON RAILROAD CO.

On and after Friday, May 22nd, 1874, trains on Raleigh & Gaston Railroad, will run daily (Sundays excepted) as follows:

MAIL TRAINS.

Leave Raleigh,	9.35 A. M.
Arrives at Weldon,	3.30 P. M.
Leaves Weldon,	9.50 A. M.
Arrives at Raleigh,	3.45 P. M.

ACCOMMODATION TRAINS.

Leaves Raleigh,	5.15 A. M.
Arrives at Weldon,	5.15 P. M.
Leaves Weldon,	2.21 A. M.
Arrives at Raleigh	2.45 P. M.

Mail train makes close connection at Weldon, with Seaboard and Roanoke Railroad and Bay Line from Baltimore, to and from all points North, East and Northwest, and with Petersburg Railroad to Petersburg, Richmond and Washington City, to and from all points North and Northwest.

And at Raleigh with the North Carolina Railroad to and from all points South and Southwest, and with the Raleigh & Augusta Air Line to Haywood and Fayetteville.

A. B. ANDREWS,
Gen. Sup't.

RALEIGH & AUGUSTA AIR-LINE RAILROAD.

SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE,
Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 27th, 1873.

On and after Monday, October 27th, 1873, trains on the R. & A. A. L. Road will run daily, (Sundays excepted,) as follows:

MAIL TRAIN.

Train leaves Raleigh,	4.00 P. M.
Arrives at Sanford,	6 25 "
Train leaves Sanford,	6.30 A. M
Arrives at Raleigh,	9.20 "

FREIGHT TRAIN.

Leaves Raleigh,	5.15 A. M.
Arrives at Sanford	10.35 A. M.
Leaves Sanford,	11.00 A. M.
Arrives at Raleigh	3.50 P. M.

Mail Train makes close connection at Raleigh with the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad, to and from all points North.

And at Sanford with the Western Railroad, to and from Fayetteville and points on Western Railroad.

A. B. ANDREWS,
Superintendent.

OFFICE AGENT OF TRANSPORTATION,
Seaboard & Roanoke R. R. Co.,
Portsmouth, Va., Jan. 1st, 1875.

On and after this date, trains of this Road will leave Weldon daily, Sundays excepted, as follows.

Mail train at	4 P. M.
No. 1 Freight train at	4 A. M.
No. 2 Freight train at	8 A. M.

ARRIVE AT PORTSMOUTH.

Mail train at	7 15 P. M.
No 1 Freight at	12 00 NOON.
No 2 Freight at	4 00 P. M.

Freight trains have a passenger car attached.

Steamer for Edenton, Plymouth and Landings on Blackwater and Chowan Rivers leave Franklin at 7.30 A. M. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

E. G. GHIO.
Supt. Transportation.

STIEFF

GRAND, SQUARE, AND UPRIGHT

PIANOS

Have received upwards of FIFTY FIRST PREMIUMS and are among the best now made. Every instrument fully warranted for five years. Prices as low as the excellence and quality of the very best materials and the most thorough workmanship will permit. The patronage of pianists and composers, and the planoforte loving public of this and especially, invite to the unbiased verdict of the unerring judge—the PUBLIC. The PUBLIC ABILITY of our instruments is fully established by over sixty years, and colleges in the South, using over 300 of our Pianos.

Sole Wholesale Agents for several of the principal manufacturers of Cabinet and Parlor Organs; prices from $35 to $600. A liberal discount to Clergymen and Sabbath schools.

A large assortment of second-hand Pianos at prices ranging from $75 to $150, always on hand.

Send for Illustrated Circulars, containing names of over 300 Southerners, who have bought and are using the Stieff Piano.

CHARLES M. STIEFF,
Warerooms, No. 9 South Liberty street,
Baltimore, Md.

Factories, 84 & 86 Camden st. and 45 & 47 Perry st.
Dec 16-3m

AGENTS WANTED FOR

Cross and Crown

THE STRIFE AND POWER of the religion of Jesus Christ as shown in the sufferings and triumphs of His followers. A richer, sweeter and more thrilling story is not to be found in the whole range of history. Magnificently illustrated on steel with the best engravings of Sartain and Illman, and splendidly bound in the handsomest and latest style of the art. The most beautiful and attractive book ever offered by Agents. Send for circulars with full description, and see NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Atlanta, Ga., or Memphis Tenn.

March 1-6m

PREMIUM CHESTER WHITE PIGS.—$15 each, $28 a pair, Chester County MAMMOTH COIN, and Imported BELGIAN Oats, 4 lbs by mail, $1 peck $2, ½ bushel $3, bushel $5. Circulars and Sample Packages of 3 cts Free for 2 stamps Address.

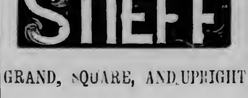
N. P. ROYER Parkesburg, Chester, co Pa.
march 3 8-wks

FROM

HENRY J. BROWN,

Opposite Masonic Hall,

RALEIGH, N. C.,



UNDERTAKER,

Keeps on hand Fisk's Metallic Burial Cases, Self-Sealing Metallic Burial Cases, and Walnut and other Wood Coffins. HEARSE FOR HIRE.

Also Dealer in Furniture. Repairing and Varnishing Promptly Executed

ap 19-1y

$250 A MONTH—Agents wanted everywhere. Business honorable and first class. Particulars sent free. Address J. WORTH & CO., St Louis Mo.

Sept 16-3m

A NEW BOOK.

Life, Sermons, and Speeches OF Rev. N. F. Reid, D. D. LATE OF THE NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

BY HIS SONS James W. and Frank L. Reid.

A handsome volume of 536 pages.

A fine Steel Engraving of Dr. Reid in each copy.

NOW READY FOR DELIVERY.

BE SURE TO GET A COPY.

Price in Morocco, gilt edge, $3 50.
" " Cloth, 2 00.

Agents wanted to whom liberal commissions will be made. Single copies sent by mail, postage paid, on receipt of retail price.

Address, REV. F. L. REID, Lenoir, N. C. or JAS. W. REID, Wentworth N. C.

G. T. LEACH, N. Y. M. T. LEACH

Leach Brothers,

WHOLESALE GROCERS

AND

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

SOUTH-EAST CORNER MARKET, SQUARE, RALEIGH, N. C

Again we take great pleasure in presenting our card and returning thanks to the readers of the ADVOCATE for their very liberal patronage during the past few years, and offer them the largest and best bought stock of Groceries ever offered in any market south of Baltimore, and while just now Bacons, Sugars and Lard are very scarce and high, we have made extra effort and feel sure we have succeeded in bringing other goods equally low and intend giving our friends all the advantages gained thereby to counter balance any advance in the few goods named.

We also invite especial attention to our select stock of stanle Shoes and Boots bought direct from the Factories and offered here AT FIRST PROFITS.

We have now in store:

5,000 lbs. Rio Coffees,
10 Mds old Gov. Java,
10 Hhds. A Sugar,
10 Bbls EXC Sugar,
10 Hhds. B F Yellow Sugar,
24 Bbls. Demarara,
20 Boxes Bulk Sides,
10 " " Shoulders,
50 Kegs English Soda,
1,000 lbs. G. D and Sole Leather,
100 Sides Upper Leather,
50 " Harness Leather,
100 Cases Oysters,
20 " Brandy Peaches,
5,000 Yds. Bagging,
6,000 lbs. Ties,
100 Bbls. Super Flour,
100 Bags Assorted Shot,
50 Bbls Extra Flour,
50 Cases Forrester's Crackers,
9 " Soda Crackers,
60 Boxes Factory and Dairy Cheese,
9,000 W P. and G. D. Gun Caps,
1 Kegs Burden Horse and Mule Shoes,
200 lbs. Horse Shoe Nails,
20 Dozen Best Axes,
25 Boxes Adamantine Candles,
100 Boxes Laundry and Toilet Soaps.

We offer especial inducements to country and nearby merchants, and invite an examination of our stock and only competition

Oct 7 12-m LEACH BROS

I. R. WYATT. B. L. BINGHAM.

Wyatt, Bingham & Co.

Wholesale and Retail Grocers,

COTTON FACTORS

AND GENERAL

Commission Merchants,

No. 4 Market St. and No. 5 Market Exchange,

RALEIGH, N. C.

We tender our many thanks to our several customers and friends for their liberal patronage, and hope to merit a continuance of the same by our strict personal and prompt attention to our business, and by offering to them our large and well selected stock of

BOOTS, SHOES, HATS and CAPS,

Staple Dry Goods,
Cotton Yarns,
Sheetings,
Alamance Plaids, and

General Merchandise,

all of which we guarantee to be as recommended, and to sell at the lowest prices.

OUR GROCERY DEPARTMENT

is complete, and we make FLOUR a specialty and guarantee the lowest prices at retail and wholesale, also the quality to be equal or superior to any offered in the market for the price.

BAGGING and TIES,

SALT and NAILS

always on hand and offered at the lowest market prices.

Consignments solicited, which will receive our prompt and personal attention, and the best prices obtained.

Jan 28-tf

THE JAS. LEFFEL Double Turbine Water Wheel,

Manufactured by

POOLE & HUNT,

Baltimore, Md.

7,000 NOW IN USE!

Simple, Strong, Durable, always reliable and safe.

Manufacturers also, of Portable & Stationary Engines, Steam Boilers, Saw & Grist Mills, Mining Machinery, Gearing for Cotton Mills, Flour Patch, White Lead and Oil Mill Machinery, Hydraulic and other Presses, &c. Shafting, Pulleys and Hangers a specialty. Machine made Belting. Illustrated and descriptive catalogue of very best finish. Send for circular.

mch 24-6m.

Williams & Haywood,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN

Drugs, Medicines, Paints, Oils, Dye Stuffs, Perfumery,

Fancy Articles, Garden Seeds, Fine Teas, Spices, Flavoring Extracts.

CIGARS, CHEWING TOBACCO & C.

Keep constantly on hand, at lowest market prices, White Lead, Putty, Kerosene Oil, Linseed Oil, Lard Oil, Tanner's Oil, Window Glass, Varnish, &c., &c.

Dec. 23-1

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.

Established in 1837.

Superior Bells of Copper and Tin, mounted with the best Rotary Hangings, for Churches, Schools, Farms, Factories, Court Houses, Fire Alarms, Tower Clocks, Chimes, &c. Fully Warranted.

Illustrated Catalogue sent Free.

VANDUZEN & TIFT.

102 and 104 East Second St., Cincinnati.

apr 14-12m

1874. FALL STOCK. 1874.

NEW GOODS! GOOD QUALITY!!

LOW PRICES!!!

—o—

JOS. P. GULLEY,

RETAILER AND JOBBER OF

Dry Goods, Notions, Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Trunks, Valises, White Goods, &c., &c.,

RALEIGH, N. C.

My large and carefully selected stock for the Fall and Winter is now in store, and I respectfully invite all in search of good goods and low prices, to call and examine for themselves.

BURT'S GAITERS and BOOTS FOR GENTS.

To those who have bought and used these goods we need only to say that we have a full line of them.—For durability and neatness of fit they are unexcelled.

Also Miss's and Graff's hand made shoes for the Ladies.

PRINTS!
PRINTS!
PRINTS!

A large stock of the latest patterns, at prices that cannot be excelled

Respectfully,
JOSEPH P GULLEY.
Corner Fayetteville and Market Square
oct 7-1y

PROGRESS THE WATCHWORD

Merit and Success Hand in Hand.

BROOKLYN LIFE

INSURANCE COMPANY,

NO. 141 BROADWAY,

NEW YORK.

Assets- - - -$1,500,000.00!!

CHRISTIAN W. BOUCK, President.
D. P. FACKLER, Actuary.

Wm. M. COLE, Secretary
DANIEL AYRES, M.D., LL.D., Med. Exam.

POLICIES VALUABLE IN LIFE, AS WELL AS AT DEATH!

The BROOKLYN LIFE is the only Company in America which guarantees

DEFINITE CASH SURRENDER VALUES,

In case a Policy is forfeited for nonpayment of Premium

THE BROOKLYN LIFE enjoys the highest reputation for SUCCESSFUL INVESTMENT, ECONOMY OF MANAGEMENT, AND CARE IN THE SELECTION OF RISKS,—upon all elements of administration the security of a Life Insurance Corporation depends.

The laws of New York compel Companies in that State to calculate the cash value of its Policies, each and every year, and in a certain legal standard of reserve and accumulation to be held by the Companies to meet all their liabilities

Insurers in looking around for Companies in which to insure, should carefully see to this important safeguard. IT WILL BE FOUND IN THE BROOKLYN LIFE

WM. LITTLE, M.D., MEDICAL EXAMINER.

A. W. LAWRENCE,

General Agent for North Carolina,
Office at Raleigh.

may 18-tf

MOSELEY'S CONFECTIONERY

RALEIGH, N. C.

Is the Place to Buy

French and Plain Candies,

Foreign and Domestic Fruits,

RAISINS, NUTS, etc.,

Fine Cigars, Smoking Tobacco, Chewing Tobacco, Fine Cut Chewing Tobacco, Fancy Good. Childrens Toys, Carriages for the Little Folks,

CROQUET SET,

BASE BALLS AND BATS.

Marbles, Tops, and Kites,

All at MOSELEY'S

INSURE AGAINST FIRE!

In PESCUD & SON'S

Agency, Raleigh, N. C.

Money and time saved to those who insure through us in the following strong and prompt Companies, viz:

Home, N. Y. Georgia Home
N. C. Home. City Fire, Richmond,
New Orleans, Amazon,
Atlas, Hartford, Atlantic, New York.
Firemans Fund, Cal., Penn of Philadelphia,
Franklin of Philadelphia.

Extra inducements offered to all who want insurance on Cotton and Tobacco Factories, Mills, Gins, Farm property and dwellings and country stores.—Send for a blank application, instructions and terms to Pescud & Son Raleigh, N. C.

P. F. PESCUD. P. F. PESCUD, Jr.

jan 20-tf

J. G. WILLIAMS, Pres. S. C. WHITE, Cashier.
W. S. PRIMROSE, Assist. Cashier.

NORTH CAROLINA State National Bank,

RALEIGH.

Deposits Received

SPECIAL CARE AND ATTENTION GIVEN TO COLLECTIONS.

COLLECTIONS MADE IN THIS, AND

ALL THE SOUTHERN STATES

At Cost, and remitted for in Eastern Exchange, at the Lowest Market Rates.

dec 8-12

ESTABLISHED 1816.

CHAS. SIMON & SONS,

88 NORTH HOWARD ST., BALTIMORE, MD.

Dealers in

FOREIGN & DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,

would call special attention to their splendid stock of Dress Goods, Linen Goods, Embroideries, Laces, and Hosiery; the best assortment of Mourning Goods in the city.

SAMPLES SENT FREE!

All orders amounting to $20.00 or over, will be sent free of freight charges by Express, but parties whose orders are not accompanied by the money, and having their goods sent C. O. D., must pay for return of the money.

J. C. S. LUMSDEN,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

TIN AND SHEET IRON WARE.

Stoves, &c., in Great Variety.

THE STONEWALL is the Largest, Heaviest and Best Cook Stove in the Market.

Tin Roofing, Guttering & Piping a Specialty,

Fayetteville St., opposite the Market Pump,

oct 14 12m RALEIGH, N. C.

FURNITURE

W. H. Morris & Co

No 8 Fayetteville Street.

RALEIGH, N. C,

Dealer in all kinds of furniture, such as Walnut Chamber Sets, Cottage Chamber Sets, Parlor Sets, Dining Room Sets, Bedsteads, Bureaus, Wardrobes, Washstands, Tables, Chairs, Sofas, Lounges, Spring Beds of various patterns, Cribs and Cradles in great variety of styles, patterns and prices. Wood and Marble top centre tables &c.

ALSO

keeps constantly on hand and make to order all kind of Mattresses, such as pure Curled Hair, Cotton and Shuck. Excelsior and Shuck Mattresses. Old Hair Mattress renovated and made as good as new.

No trouble to show goods. Call and examine before purchasing elsewhere

W. H. MORRIS & CO

nov 20-tf

$100 A Month. Agents Wanted

Everywhere for the new book "Scenes in Bankruptcy," by

MONEY AND HOW TO MAKE IT

This country has money for everybody; for Workingmen, Business Men, Farmers, Young Men, Boys, Women, and all; and this book shows how to get it. Just the book for the times, and will be a last. Send for circular and terms to agents.

P. W. ZIEGLER & CO.,
518 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa

feb 17-3m

$5 TO $20 per day! Agents wanted! All classes of working people, of either sex, young or old, making more money at work for us in their spare moments, or all the time, than at anything else. Particulars free. Address G Stinson & Co., Portland, Maine.

Sept 16-12m

NEW JERSEY MUTUAL LIFE

Insurance Company.

HOME OFFICE, NEWARK NEW JERSEY.

$1,000,000.00 Annual Income $1,000,000.

6 977 Policies Issued in 1873

Raleigh Christian Advocate.

Bobbitt & Gray, Publishers. | Published in the Interests of Methodism in North Carolina. | $2.20 Per Annum, in Advance.

Vol. XXI.---No. 19. | Raleigh, N. C., Wednesday, May 12, 1875. | Whole No. 1,057.

Selected Poetry.

The Rest in Hope.

BY REV. ARTHUR J. LOCKHART.

Yes, I shall live, and I shall rise again,
Yield to the dust its dust; let sun and rain
With flowery beauty hide my place of rest,
Or wrap me with the snow-drift's fleecy vest;
The book of God and Nature, not in vain,
The dying saint's consummate hope attest.

Yes, I shall rise, though there be some who say
Beyond the night of death there is no day—
That the pale face, and dark, dishevel'd tress
Shall come not from the land Forgetfulness;
But these walk on in night, without one ray,
From the broad sun of truth and righteousness.

Yes, I shall rise! Oh, let no envions doubt
Come o'er my mind, to shut the promise out—
No dark browed skeptic seal my faith from me;
For I the face of Him I love shall see.
When wakened by th' archangel's joyful shout,
To put on blissful immortality.

Yes, I shall rise; for my Redeemer came,
Ere morning touched the dewy hills with flame,
Up through the rock-hewn portal of the tomb;
New songs were sung where bowers of Eden bloom;
And heaven shall ring with sweet and fond acclaim
When Christ for me shall break its mortal gloom.

Yes, I shall rise! The day is listening on;
Come! quickly come, Thou ever glorious One
Who tread'st on clouds whom every eye shall see.
And rear Thy throne in sovereign majesty;
But till Thy righteous will on earth be done
My flesh shall rest in hope, and wait for Thee.

Then I shall rise and this frail dust of mine,
Touched with the glory of that day, shall shine.
The world may lose these cheeks; these eyes Decay
May waste while the long ages roll away;
But in my flesh, in vigor and divine,
Shall I behold my God on that great day.

Pembroke, Me.

Communicated.

For the Advocate.

Ministerial Agency in the Sunday-School Cause.

Our Discipline says: "Let Sunday-schools be formed in all our congregations, where ten children can be collected for that purpose." This means that every church should have its Sunday-school, for there is hardly a single congregation in the bounds of our Conference where ten children could not be collected, if proper efforts be made. But who shall take the initiatory steps? There must be a moving wheel to start the machinery. It is a work that needs an organizing hand in the very beginning. It is not a self-forming institution.—On whom then does the important duty rest? The Discipline is very specific on this point. It says: "And it shall be the special duty of preachers having charge of circuits and stations, with the aid of other preachers, to see that this be done." That what be done? That "Sunday-schools be formed in all our congregations."

The Disciplinary requirement implies that the preacher should put forth vigorous and untiring exertion in the work. But right here is the general ground of failure. After a few faint, languid efforts, such as would not conquer a wasp's nest, too many preachers abandon the field for the whole year, and report at the District Conference, that at such and such churches there is no school—that after repeated trials they could not enlist the co-operation of the laity. But if a history of these trials were written out, they would be a complete burlesque on all the laws of success. The year rolls by and nothing is done. The next year other preachers, whose hearts and heads are absorbed in the work, come upon the same fields and have flourishing schools at every point. Comment is unnecessary here, and so I pass on, and say a word to those who have a mind to work in this fruitful field.—Don't wait to get up some grand organization. What hinders a preacher from getting a few Christian fathers, mothers, and young men and ladies, with ten children, and organizing at once a school, and putting them to work? Let them meet statedly, sing, repeat the Lord's prayer, read the Bible, get lesson leaves, study religiously for an hour, and that's a Sunday-school. Who could not conduct one on this simple plan? Don't imagine that the people must be idle until they can do something grand.

"Line it, Brother!" is the heading a correspondent puts to a communication; the substance and point of which will be appreciated: A missionary of the American Sunday-school Union in Kansas writes to the Sunday-school of the Allen street Presbyterian church in New York, of a new settlement, where he was trying to start a Sunday-school at a meeting called for that purpose. "The singing would have pleased you. There being but two hymn-books, I tried to make a selection that would be familiar; but, failing, was about to change it, when one cried out: 'Line it, brother!'" So he gave out, and they sang, two lines at a time; and all went on so well that a Sunday-school was started with thirty-five members, and grew, in one week, to sixty-eight. All who have been in country meetings in thinly-settled regions of the West and South are familiar with this practice of lining out hymns, growing out of the scarcity of hymn books. And has not the cry, "Line it, brother!" need of a wider hearing?

It is seldom that current Sunday-school news has more than a local interest, but such facts as the following have a general bearing, and would, presumably, be cheering and suggestive to every friend of the institution: A missionary of the American Sunday-school Union, in Michigan, writing from a log-cabin, twelve feet square, with a roof of elm-bark and floors of hewed logs, and having only one room for all purposes, situated in the depth of dark woods—the thickest he had ever seen—says, "In ten days I have walked seventy-three miles, visited thirty-five families, (all I have found), lectured six times, and organized three Sunday-schools." Another, in the same State, prosecuting his work in the wilderness, slept out in the woods two nights, living on berries. He found ten families settled on a beautiful lake, twelve miles long and five miles wide, fifty miles from a post-office, and organized a Sunday-school among them.—A missionary in South Carolina reports that a school organized among the freedmen, only a few months before, has increased from twenty to seventy scholars, and constitutes the nucleus of a church. They have opened a subscription for a meeting-house, the superintendent (colored) giving a lot and $100; his two sons $20 each; other members $25 and $50 each." In the way of "returns" from distant campaign fields, these and all similar items have their effect in encouraging the cause everywhere."

Rev. H. Clay Trumbull speaks of a school in the Sunday-school World as one of the best he has ever heard of, and he tells about it "for the possible benefit of its encouraging example." It is held in a country school-house in Waterford, Conn., in a district where the houses are far apart, and where the few children who attend it have to go over rough roads. It has been kept up as an independent and undenominational school for nearly forty years, has had the same superintendent from the beginning, who lives four miles away, in another township, and the average attendance of its scholars and teachers is less than fifty. When this school was started the surrounding neighborhood was not a promising one; but in time a marked change was wrought, and the district came to be as well known for its sobriety and high moral tone as it had been for its vicious practices.—Although no church has existed within several miles of the school-house, nearly one-fourth of the entire membership is known to have been brought to Christ, and at least four persons who joined it as scholars have since entered the ministry. These are part of the facts, and certainly they are not very dry ones. They derive additional interest from the circumstance that its superintendent is Hon. Henry P. Haven, of New London, who is not a stranger to friends of the Sunday-school anywhere. Although he is superintendent of the large Sunday-school of his home church, he never forgets to go back and forth over the long road between home in the city and this little country school-house in Waterford Sunday after Sunday. He has taken as much pains with it as if there were five hundred scholars in it. A normal class—a matter only beginning to be made prominent—was started by the Waterford teachers as far back as in 1836. They, and all who chose to meet with them, assembled there immediately after the close of the school session each week, and took up the next Sunday's lesson for mutual study. A teachers' library, as separate from the scholars' library, was started with the opening of the school. All the records have been well kept, and the enthusiasm for the school has been sustained from first to last. In view of all this, Mr. Trumbull may well say: "Let no superintendent feel that a small school is beneath his best efforts, or that it must be inferior, either in its influence or in its methods, to a larger school. In it he may work as systematically, as effectively, and as usefully, as in one of many times its scanty but precious membership."

I have given these extracts to show how Sunday schools may be formed under circumstances exceedingly discouraging. "Where there is a will there is a way," and this is true in reference to organizing schools as well as other matters. If the preacher cannot get a male superintendent, let him get some sister to take charge.—There are many flourishing schools under female superintendency. A christian woman of East Tennessee established a Sunday school in her neighborhood, which grew up into permanent prosperity, and sixty children have already been converted through its agency. "But we can't get enough good teachers to take hold," you say. Well, if you can't get many, take four, three, two, one. Yes, one may teach forty scholars very well. There is a lady in Mr. Spurgeon's Sunday-school who superintends and teaches sixty children without any help. If a man can teach forty children in a day school, why not in a Sunday school? There is a superfluity of teachers, any way, in most of our schools. I have pursued this line of thought to show that the failure of success in the Sunday school interest, grows mainly out of the lack of zeal and energy, and not because of insuperable difficulties. Human energy glowing with the fires of enthusiasm accomplishes wonders. It has piled up the mountain—like pyramids of Egypt—it has built railroads across vast continents—girdled the earth with telegraphic wires—tunnelled through rock-ribbed mountains—turned frightful wildernesses into blooming gardens, fruitful farms and splendid cities. The same enthusiastic energy exercised in behalf of Sunday-schools would soon dot our land from the seaboard to the mountains with these nurseries of youthful piety.

H. T. HUDSON.

(To be Continued.)

For the Advocate.

Killing the Preachers.

MESSRS. EDITORS: You noticed the case of brother Miller of the South Carolina Conference, who came to his death not long since by the hands of a miserable negro. Such crimes are too horrible to contemplate. They show the dreadfully demoralized state of society and call for constant vigilance and the most rigid enforcement of the criminal law.

But preachers are killed sometimes in another way. I refer to the popular clamor for Sunday preaching, by which the preacher is tied by the neck and trotted around to two, and often to three different appointments on the same day. This too over rough roads, many miles, under whip and spur, through rain or sunshine, heat or cold, as the case may be, and often without dinner for self or horse. This is the gibbet on which they expire.—Indeed it is enough to kill!

Who shall be held to answer for killing the preachers after this fashion? I reply, first, The people for demanding; secondly, The preachers for obeying. The demand is without law, the obedience is without merit.—Both are responsible, both are to blame, and both should reform. This terrible evil must be checked, or premature inefficiency and death must continue to reign.

What is the remedy? Let two or three congregations unite numerically and financially, select the most eligible locality and build a good church on it, sell the old ones or move them to the new church and build a good school house out of them for educational purposes, and thus let the people do some of the traveling and not the preacher all of it. This is one possible way for the great mass of the people to get Sunday preaching without running the preacher to death.—Another way is to double your preachers and quadruple your quarterage, which is utterly impracticable. But, shall week-day preaching cease with us? By no means. Let the poor and the far off be visited and preached to in the week, but let the entire salary of the preacher be levied upon the Sunday appointments.

There is hardly a circuit of medium size and upwards in the Conference, I dare say, where a change like the above would not be abundantly advantageous to both preacher and people. Is not the plan entirely practical too? Why not then inaugurate it at once? Just think of the necessity for it in those large circuits which have 10, 12, 14 and 16 appointments, with 780 members, 790, 845, 850, 945, 972, and so on. Why, some of these circuits should have been halved and others quartered long ago. And many others should have the rule of concentration applied to them at once.—Some of the Districts would also be improved by a similar treatment.—They are too large for one man to develop and cultivate, it is killing to undertake it. Yet from every point in every field the cry pours in upon the preacher, "give us Sunday preaching."

Do not the facts in the case suggest and demand an early move in the direction above indicated?

ITINERANT.

For the Advocate.

Heathen Salvation.

MESSRS. EDITORS: If the interest awakened in the subject of heathen salvation demands a continuation of the discussion by Rev. E. A. Yates and Rev. J. R. Brooks, which, we do not question, it occurs to us that their persistency in error equally demands an occasional protest from us. We are glad to know that such an interest has been awakened, but we are equally sorry to see so much being done by those who have awakened this interest to render it nugatory of good results.

Nothing could more clearly evince the dissatisfaction of these brethren with themselves than their disposition to keep hammering at us. They seem to have forgotten that their engagement is entirely voluntary, and that they are at liberty to retire at any time. We thought at one time that Bro. Yates had determined to go into seclusion to write a book, and we rejoiced at the prospect of having rest at least during the season of incubation; but his feeling of unrest is too intense to allow even the temporary quiet so necessary to the healthy development of the embryo, and if the fledgling is ever hatched at all, we fear it will scarcely be able to create a "flutter."

Nor is he alone in this dissatisfied feeling. His "friends" are no better satisfied with his "supposed victory" (?) than he is. Of course they are not, and we do not wonder. They have reason to be dissatisfied. They know he has not answered our argument, and that he is not likely to do so. They know that he came forth the professed champion of Methodist theology and Methodist standards, and that he excited their jealousy by crying "Calvanism," and their confidence by talking about logic. In the end they have seen him fail to meet the main issues involved, and at last overwhelmed by the very authorities which he claimed as friends. They are disappointed, and of course dissatisfied.

We were willing that Bro. Yates should make the best of his defeat, and when he went to the wall under the fire of Watson and Wesley that he should cover his retreat by saying that he agreed with them. After having referred to them so often that was all that he could say. We were willing that he should return to the platform of Methodism and say that he agreed with us. But we are not willing that he shall now say that Watson and Wesley agree with him, and that we have surrendered at discretion. Watson and Wesley do not agree with him, nor can they be made to, by any sort of torture. For proof we refer to our last article on "The curse of blood." Nor have we conceded any point which we have ever maintained, for the simple reason that we have seen no reason to do so.

We have not granted that the heathen can be saved without the gospel. We have steadily maintained with Mr. Watson that "we must send them the gospel or there is no hope" for them. We have sustained this position by a chain of argument which to the present has proved irrefragible. In fact, our logic has not been touched. Several opposing theories have been advanced, which we have not had opportunity to review, but every one of which is answered in our argument, to which again the inquiring reader is referred. What we have asked from the beginning was an answer, not an opposing theory—an answer to the argument not an array of imagined consequences; and this is what we ask now, and to this task we challenge our opponents at their leisure.

What is the real issue? It is this:—We maintain that we, the church, are commanded to preach the gospel to all nations as a means of salvation, and where we fail to do it the heathen perish for lack of it, and their blood is required at our hands.

Our opponents deny that the preaching of the gospel is a means of salvation, but maintain that it is only a means of a higher salvation, and consequently that no one perishes for lack of it. Nevertheless Rev. E. A. Yates admits in his first article that more heathens will be saved if the gospel is preached to them than would be saved without it; but in his last he reforms his theory by expunging this from his reasons for preaching the gospel to the heathen, having discovered, I suppose, that such an admission is fatal to his whole theory, while it effectually establishes ours. For if more heathen would be saved by preaching the gospel to them than without it, why, then it follows that some are lost for lack of it. This being granted, it follows that the preaching of the gospel is essential to the salvation of some heathen, and if essential to the salvation of some, then it is essential to the salvation of all, because they all sustain the same relation judicially to God and his law. But we leave the work of general review to our venerable friend and father in the Gospel, Dr. Closs, whose ability is a perfect guarantee of complete satisfaction.

We are sorry that Bro. Brooks has been obliged to tax his time and his readers with another impromptu. So far as we know his friends were satisfied with him. His theory is undoubtedly popular, for he has advocated all sides of all possible questions, and, at some point or other, has pleased every body, and at the same time has not established anything in particular. There is, consequently, in his theory nothing exclusive, and, therefore, nothing offensive to any body's religious or irreligious principles. Besides his most ardent admirers do not require things to be supported by sound reasoning, nor even to be clearly or accurately stated. They admire a "flowing style" and a "ready writer," no matter what he says or what he believes; nor is it possible by any kind of logical process to break the spell of their admiration.

Bro. Brooks has therefore betrayed an over anxiety. He is more than dissatisfied. He is positively very restless. As the constituted custodian of sound doctrine he evidently desires to magnify his office. And although he despises the poor abilities and childish blunders of his competitors, he certainly has a suspicion that his theories are in some danger of damage.

But the worst feature about his case is that he has lost his temper, and that too over alleged "misrepresentations" and "garbled extracts."

Now this is wonderful—that a man who has conducted a lengthy discussion in which he has misrepresented his opponents at almost every point from beginning to end (not intentionally I believe) without rebuke or complaint from one of them, should himself be so sensitive on the same point. It smacks of a little arrogance which is unseemly at least.

We repeat that we do not believe Bro. Brooks has misrepresented us intentionally. On the other hand he does not believe he has done it. His time has been so occupied that he could not study the subject sufficiently to comprehend the real issue, or to discover our meaning. And then he wrote impromptu, and we could not discover his.

Under such circumstances we regret exceedingly that Bro. Brooks has allowed himself to be drawn out again; and in the interests of peace and good feeling we beseech him, if his "friends" will allow it, to be quiet till he has leisure and recovers his equanimity. A man who cannot bear to be beaten in debate, without getting furious, ought not voluntarily to enter the field of controversy; and if by mistake he gets into it, he ought to avail himself of the first favorable opportunity to retire.

In the mean time while our dear Brother has our unqualified consent to rest from his labors, we trust he will be magnanimous enough to allow us to do our own thinking, and excuse us if we prefer to adhere to our own mature and deliberate convictions, rather than to embrace his impromptu crudities and inconsistencies.

W. M. ROBEY.

April 27th, 1875.

The Secret Springs.

There was a season of painful dryness two or three years before the last sad Summer. The garden borders had wasted and spoiled, but in front of my window a lovely convolvulus still climbed and flourished on its trellis. Every morning it was covered with scarlet, star like blossoms. It was a daily joy, and came to be in the withering air a perpetual surprise. Why should this vine live and thrive when hardier plants wilted and withered on every hand?

I took great comfort in watching the bright, brave beauty, for I knew that below the parched surface soil there must be vital moisture at the root. What special advantage this spot of earth had for retaining moisture I could not know; but there my beauty was, in heat and drought, a living witness to a secret, life preserving power. It was a blessed reminder through a season of feebleness and suffering, of that quiet, hidden grace of Christ, which sustains the believer at all times and seasons, and through most dangerous straits.

Sorrow does not conquer the spirit, woes without and distresses within cannot destroy when a rill from the living waters flows to the deepest root. Truly says the Psalmist, and truthfully echo our hearts in all conditions of earthly being, "All my springs are in thee."—Advocate and Guardian.

In most quarrels there is fault on both sides. A quarrel may be compared to a spark, which cannot be produced without a flint as well as a steel; either of them may hammer on wood forever, no fire will follow.—South.

North Carolina as it was.

Mrs. C. P. Spencer, of Chapel Hill, has found in the University Library an old copy of a history of an Englishman's travels in Virginia and North Carolina, and sends some interesting extracts to the Presbyterian. The writer says:

"About the beginning of November 1 departed from Halifax, where with great satisfaction I had enjoyed a very agreeable society on my route to Hillsboro, which is just 122 miles distant. I called at Edmundson's tavern to bait my horse and breakfast; which is about ten or eleven miles from Halifax. At this house I saw the largest and strongest woman, perhaps, in the world: she was six feet two inches and a half in height, well built in proportion, strong, robust, and muscular as a man of the same stature. She possessed a boldness and spirit inferior to no man's; and there was no bully, bruiser, wrestler, or any person that excelled in athletic power and agility for fifty miles round, whom she had not complimented with a fair and complete drubbing. In short she was a perfect virago, of great courage and astonishing strength and ill nature. I submitted to some small imposition in her charge, rather than enter the lists with her in dispute, and run the risk of experiencing her powers. The contribution she coins antly levies on all that frequent this house, of which she is master as well as mistress, her insignificant husband being an absolute cypher."

His observations on the face of the country, its scenery, soils, products, native growth, capabilities, the people, their habits, manners, disposition, are all in the highest degree interesting, and not a little amusing from a sort of [natvete, or innocence of character, such as a cultivated, highly bred Englishman, utterly inexperienced in backwoods ways, might be expected to exhibit.

Our principal towns then in existence in central North Carolina are thus portrayed:

"Halifax is a pretty town on the south side of the Roanoke, and enjoys a tolerable share of commerce in tobacco, pork, butter, flour, tar, turpentine, skins, furs, and cotton. There are many handsome buildings in the town and its vicinity.

Tarburg is not half so large as Halifax, about forty miles due South, has not been built many years, and is a very insignificant place indeed. The chief produce is tar, Indian corn and hogs.

Hillsborough is situated in a very beautiful spot, is healthy, enjoys a good share of commerce for an inland town, and is in a very promising state of improvement. In its vicinity are a great many very fine farms, and a number of excellent mills. Large quantities of exceeding good butter and flour are exported in wagons to Halifax and Petersburg, besides multitudes of fat cattle, beeves and hogs. Almost every man in the province of North Carolina has been the fabricator of his own fortunes, and many of them are very opulent. Some have obtained their riches by commerce, others by the practice of the law which in this province is peculiarly lucrative, and extremely oppressive, but most of them by farming and industry.

Salisbury is larger than Hillsborough, and less than Halifax, but does not share an equal degree of commerce with the least of them.

Charlottsburg is an inconsiderable place, and in England would not be thought deserving of even the name of a village. Its trade and share of commerce is very insignificant."

Here our Englishman stops to describe the appearance and every day costume of the men of these backwoods. As I presume he drew his sketch in full view of the Charlotte backs and dandies of that day, I shall here reproduce it for the benefit of this generation, in case any part of the celebration at Charlotte next month shall consist in a revival among the gentlemen of the costumes, as well as the principles of 1775. I am only sorry he left us no note of the dress of the ladies of North Carolina, as he saw them:

"All the male inhabitants habituate themselves constantly to carry along with them everywhere, the rifle-barreled fire lock and the tomahawk, the latter of which they use to blaze their path through the forests, and is an instrument that serves every purpose of defence and convenience, being a hammer at one side and a sharp axe at the other. Their dress is a hunting shirt, somewhat resembling a wagoner's frock, sometimes dyed red or brown and ornamented with a great many fringes, tied round the middle with a broad belt, much decorated also, in which is fastened their tomahawk, shot-bag and powder-horn, and on their heads a flapped hat of a reddish hue. Sometimes they wear leather breeches of dressed deer-skin, but more frequently their cloth trousers. On their legs they have Indian boots or leggings, made of coarse woolen cloth, either wrapped round tightly, and tied with garters, or laced up on the outside, and always come better than half way up the thigh. Their feet are generally covered with Indian moccossons, made of strong buck's skin, dressed soft, lacing round the foot without a seam, yet fitting close, and are indeed perfectly easy and pliant. Thus habited and accoutered with his rifle on his shoulder, or in his hand, he is completely equipped for visiting, courtship, travel, hunting or war, and conceives himself of equal consequence, more civilized, polite, and more elegantly dressed than the most brilliant peer at St. James in a splendid birth day suit of the first fashion and taste, and of the most costly materials."

Who is Mr. Sankey.

During our first pastorate, at New Brighton, in 1862-3, a fine-looking young man from New Castle used to come down occasionally and sing with our choir. He always brought sunshine in his face and made music in the souls of all with whom he mingled. He sang like a Christian; and he seemed entirely free from the petty envies which too commonly crop out in choirs, and thrust discord over into the communion of the church. There was a frankness in this young man's countenance, and a zeal in his tones and manner, which enlisted the confidence of all with whom he associated. Our choir were always glad when he dropped in among them. That was the beginning of an acquaintance which we have cherished ever since. Afterward we met our friend in New Castle and elsewhere, and always found him the same warm-souled and radiant Christian man. He was not a professional singer. He loved music for its own sweet sake, and used it as he moved among the people, simply, religiously, and as a Gospel gift. His power in the church to which he belonged was equal to that of the pastor, and his life was one of harmony and peace. He bore about with him an unconscious influence which was positive, practical and irresistible. The children clustered around him when he sang, and tears of joy attested the spirit which accompanied the service.

And, so, we do not wonder at all that this same young man, now in the maturity of middle life, a developed Christian, endowed with a special gift from heaven, is so blessed in singing salvation to the masses in Great Britain. We feel honored to number Brother Sankey, who is the fellow worker with Brother Moody, as our personal and beloved friend. He is a genuine evangelist, and the multitudes are moved by his voice, as never by the pomp and liturgy of the Succession!—Methodist Recorder, Pittsburg.

Domesticity of German Ladies.

A recent visitor to the rural retreat of Prince Bismarck made a morning call and expressed himself much surprised at being introduced to the wife of the great statesman, with a bunch of keys hanging from her girdle. But she was quite as proud of these while attending to her domestic duties as of her diamonds when receiving the diplomatists of the world, in her evening receptions while at the capital. And he who is privileged to see the empress herself during the morning hours would most likely find her engaged in arranging or dusting her private apartments; for this duty she is said to attend to regularly. It is no wonder, therefore, that any system of bringing up young girls which would result in these good customs obsolete is received with disfavor. The general feeling of the Germans of the better class is decidedly adverse to the wife and mother having any duties outside of the house except those of general benevolence and of charity, in which woman's hands and presence are most effective. But while demanding this, they are by no means in favor of confining their mental or moral activity to narrow limits. The instructress and example for the children, and the guide of youth, has a task that is by no means compatible with any internal narrowness.

THE RIGHT MOTIVE.—It is related that when Andrew Fuller went into his native town to collect for the cause of missions, one of his old acquaintances said, "Well, Andrew, I'll give five pounds, seeing it's you." "No," said Mr. Fuller, "I can take nothing for this cause, seeing it's me"—and handed the money back. The man felt reproved, but in a moment he said, "Andrew you are right. Here are ten pounds, seeing it is for the Lord Jesus Christ."

There are some things which cannot be postponed to a more convenient season; they must be done now or never. There are opportunities of doing good which, if not improved as they are presented, now, pass by for ever. Save that young man, that young woman now, it may be now or never. We must improve this moment NOW OR NEVER.—Christian's Pathway.

SCIENCE.

SHORTLY after the recent war, a new form of vegetation appeared in France. This is now said to be disappearing rapidly.

INVESTIGATIONS have been made by the MM. Becquerel, of France, into the temperature of the soil in Winter, under different conditions. They report that it is much higher in soil covered with turf, than in that whose surface is naked.

THE following very simple directions for marking iron tools are taken from Scribner's Monthly: "To mark rub the steel with wax, or hard tallow, till a film gathers. Then scratch your name on the wax, cutting through to the steel. A little nitric acid poured on the marking will quickly eat out the letters. Wipe acid and wax off with a hot, soft rag, and the letters will be securely etched."

A DELICATE surgical operation is described by the New York Evening Post, as follows: "General John F. Miller, of San Francisco, while in the Union service at Liberty Gap, Tennessee, on the 24th of July, 1863, received a bullet in the eye, and was expected to die of the wound. Though his life was spared, he never entirely recovered; the injured eye has often suffered neuralgic pains, and of late the whole one threatened to become weak through sympathy. He consulted Dr. Gruening, a San Francisco surgeon, and his worst fears were confirmed. The only resort which offered itself to save the sound eye, was to subject the other to an operation. Abont a week ago the general consented to adopt the doctor's proposition. An incision was accordingly made, and the eyeball was raised. Behind it was a dark substance which, upon examination, proved to be the tapering end of an Enfield rifle ball. The ball had adhered to the bone in one place, and was fast in its place; but as it yielded to the instrument, it was speedily abstracted. The eye was then dressed, and the general was left in a comfortable situation. The ball was found to weigh just one ounce."

Laughing Stock.

Hard drinking—chewing ice.

Staving business—making barrels.

An executive office—the hangman's.

Common pleas—please shut the door.

The scale of good-breeding—B natural.

A poor relation—telling an anecdote badly.

Sure to produce short crops—the barber's shears.

Carpets are bought by the yard and worn by the foot.

Precocious boy maunching the fruit of the date tree: "Mamma, if I eat dates enough will I grow up to be an almanac.

"What's your business?" said the magistrate of a police court, the other morning, to a prisoner. "I'm an observationist, your worship." "An observationist! what is that?" "One who looks around in the daytime to see what he can steal at night, if it pleases your worship."

A Scotchman went to a lawyer once for advice, and detailed the circumstances of the case. "Have you told me the facts precisely as they occurred?" asked the lawyer. "Oh, aye, ser!" replied he, "I thought it best to tell you the plain truth. Ye can put the lies into it yourself."

"Shut your eyes and listen mit me," said Uncle Van Heyde. "Vell, de first night I open store I counts de monies and finds him nix right; I counts him and dere be tree gone; and vat you dink I does den?" "I can't say." Vy, did not cont him any more, and he comes out shoost right ever since."

A reverend gentleman, during a sojourn among the hills of New Hampshire, stopping at a cottage, inquired of the occupant if there was any Episcopalians in the neighborhood. "I don't exactly know," replied the dame, "but I believe John shot one in the garden last week, but he thought it was a chipmunk."

The other day a postmaster, on entering his office, had his olfactory nerves disagreeably assailed. On questioning a boy in the office as to the canse, the facetious youth replied: 'I don't know, sir; but perhaps the smell comes from some of the dead letters.'

Eye-ronical.—Waiter—Beg pard'n, sir! Languid Swell—We-ell, what is it, James! Waiter—Beg pard'n, I'm sure, sir; but d' yon know, sir, is there a gentleman here with one eye named Walker? Languid Swell—Don't know, m' sure. Say, what's the name of the other eye?

A little four-year-old urchin strayed into a neighbor's house the other day. When he got home he told his mother that he saw shutters in the floor, and when he stood on them lots of hot came out.

The Christian Advocate.

OFFICE - Corner of Dawson & Hargett Sts

THE ORGAN
OF THE
NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE
OF THE
M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

Rev. J. B. Babbitt, } Editors.
R. T. Gray, Esq. }

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

FOR ONE YEAR, IN ADVANCE, POSTAGE PAID, $2.20
SIX MONTHS, " " 1.35
If payment be delayed six months, 2.70

All letters on business with this office should be addressed to the Editors of the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

RALEIGH, N. C., MAY 12, 1875.

The Cross (X) Mark is to remind you that your subscription has expired. Let all renew promptly.

Rev. J. P. Moore held his second quarterly meeting for Cary circuit last Sunday. He preached an excellent sermon at Person Street Church on Sabbath evening.

The approaching Commencement at Trinity College will be a brilliant occasion. Bishop Marvin will preach [illegible] and Dr. Munsey will deliver the literary address. The sermon before the Theological Society on Sunday before Commencement is to be preached by Rev. E. A. Yates The new chapel will be completed by that time and the crowd will be the largest ever assembled at the College on Comcencement occasion

We repeat our request that the ministers in charge of stations and circuits, as well as the Presiding Elders, will use their influence to extend the circulation of the Advocate. In many places there are people who only need to be asked to subscribe to the paper, and in all, strong exhortations in behalf of the Advocate will be successful. There are many subscriptions expiring now and we trust renewals will be ordered in all cases, and that at once. If subscribers have not the money at present, let them order the continuance of their subscription, through their ministers, to whom we will charge the amount for collection to be paid over during the summer and fall, or at Conference.

We regret to learn that Bro. Mangum, who has been on a visit with his family, to his relatives in Orange county, for the past three weeks, met with a sad accident on Monday of last week. On returning from a visit to a brother-in-law a few miles distant, the horse attached to the vehicle in which he and two of his children were, became frightened, ran and collided with the carriage in which Mrs. Mangum, her little son and a friend were riding. The injury to Bro. and Sister Mangum was comparatively slight, but one of the little daughters was badly hurt From the latest information received, we are glad to learn that she is fast recovering.

Attentive Hearers.

Many of the best prepared sermons fail in the accomplishment of good for want of attentive listeners. This fact is apparent to cultivated persons, and it has often fallen upon the minister's mind and heart as a ponderous weight oven in the sacred desk. The Presbyterian Weekly has an excellent article upon this subject which we heartily commend to our readers. There is great want of improvement at this point among all denominations:

The success of the speaker depends very largely on the attitude of the hearer. The bond connecting the orator with his audience is a very close and sympathetic one. This is apt to be forgotten. Have we been inspired by the tones and thoughts of some gifted speaker, till our whole nature was set aglow? it has been when every eye in the audience was riveted on him, and every mind responded to the touch of genius. Suppose a man gifted with great natural eloquence to appear before an assembly of people who gave him no welcome, withheld attention, on whose countenance rested not the faintest indication of approval and interest; his inspiration would fail him, and his effort would be abortive. An attentive audience will make an ordinary man eloquent, while it will steal the charm from the most eloquent. Then there is a duty resting on those who speak. If in one assembly more than another this is essential, it is in a religious congregation. People are not slow to complain of dull preaching, forgetting that in the majority of cases the blame to a great extent rests on themselves. Listless, inattentive hearers, dull the edge of the preacher's thought and dampen his ardor. If our congregations would listen with the eagerness and enthusiasm of the mass meeting and political gathering, dull preaching would be rare. It might not be learned or cultured—decked with the treasures of poetry, or strung with the pearls of rhetoric—for not to every man has God given the choicest gifts, but it would be interesting, full of enthusiasm. Among the many reasons why we should take heed, this is not the least, the influence on the speaker's mind in stimulating or depressing. Forget not while the preacher is responsible for what he says, the hearer is responsible for how he hears. Cultivate the art of attentive hearing as a duty.

Now is the time to subscribe for the Advocate. Price $2.20 per annum in advance, postage paid.

The Club.

Of the genus club there are many species. There is the war-club which is receding with the Indian as he is pushed toward the waters of the Pacific, or becoming antiquated as Colt's pistols and Sharpe's rifles find their way into the favor of the South Sea Islanders. There is the political club organized in heated campaigns to husband the strength, excite the enthusiasm and direct the plans of party adherents. There is the college club formed for the purpose of promoting literary culture and strengthening friendship. There is the base-ball club, and boating club, and reading club, club of subscribers (to editors the most charming species of clubs) and club of fists, the merry game of childhood. We do not refer to any of these, all of which may possibly have some good use or object. We shake our quill at a more monstrous club. It is the social club, supporting billiard-tables, bagatelle boards, card tables and cards, dice and dice box, roulette wheels, faro tables and other games and paraphernalia of gambling saloons. It is found in almost every town that aspires to city proportions and apes [illegible] affording a retreat for those who grow tired of the endearments and attractions of home and prefer the excitement of gaming, the rude jest and ribald song to the charms of books or the attractions and sweet domestic bliss that the presence of wife, mother, or sister throws around the sacred precincts of home.

The advocates and defenders of such 'clubs' say that they are an antidote to or preventive of vices that are so ruinous to men: that by affording an attractive retreat where rational amusement can be had and where only gentlemen assemble whose qualifications and fitness have been passed upon by the careful decision of the ballot, the members are restrained from visiting lower haunts and engaging in the worse forms of dissipation.

It is said that there are many young men gathered in the cities who at the close of their day's labor, have no place to which they can repair as 'home' and that it is necessary to afford them a place for recreation and refined pleasures. Even if it were true that the 'Club' afforded such recreation and pleasure, we have noticed that its chief patrons and supporters are not among those who are homeless, but those who have attractive homes and families, and are beguiled by the exciting and questionable amusements of the Club, to neglect the circles where their presence is a duty and would be a charm.

We object to the Club because, first, it affords no rational and substantial enjoyment. It is usually a place of games, requiring, in some cases, skill of a certain kind, but effecting no good purpose; and in most cases, games of chance, exciting and time-killing. A library or reading room is sometimes attached, but cobwebs, spiders and dust are its chief inmates. We have one 'Club' in mind which set up business in excellent style. Magazines, American and foreign, leading news and illustrated papers were subscribed for--reading tables and other conveniences supplied, and it appeared that a nucleus was forming for historians, philosophers and poets. It worked well for a while, but soon the room assumed that quiet, dreary look which deserted castles wear with their idle suits of armor, decaying draw bridge and dry moat. The billiard and card room across the way got all the patronage, and publishers received from the post master the polite note that "the magazine addressed to ——— Club is not taken from the office. Reason—not called for" or "refused."

Secondly, we object because of the expense to which its members are uselessly subjected. The dues, assessments, etc., etc., of a fashionable club amount to not less than twenty five or thirty dollars a year—sometimes fifty. And men endure this expense who give nothing to charity uses, and when approached for a donation for a new church, or the pastor's support, grumble while giving and mumble something about a "priest ridden people."

We object, thirdly, because it deprives the home circle of the presence of those who should be its pride and ornaments. The husband or brother or son, down street all day at his counter or office, dispatches his evening meal, walks to the Club, shuffles cards or strikes billiard-balls until eleven or twelve o'clock and then returns to his home, if not muddled in brain by potations from the social glass, at least unfit, and too late, to make the waiting ones happy and cheerful. The wife sighs and counts the long hours for the return of him who she fondly hoped would always remember the vow at the altar to love cherish and protect her. The mother proud of her noble boy, yet thinks it hard to be deserted by him upon whom she lavished a mother's care and love, and who she always thought would be the solace and comfort of her old age. We do not wonder that, women clamor for more rights and wish to move in other spheres, when their husbands do so little to render them happy and contented in their homes. We do not wonder that many wear sad, unsatisfied, weary faces and grow tired of life and prematurely old, since they are the victims of such cruel indifference and neglect on the part of their husbands and sons and brothers whose Club takes the place of their home.

We object in many other particulars to the Club; but, finally, that they are demoralizing and dangerous. The conversation at the Club is seldom refining; though it may not always be gross it borders upon grossness and leads to it. If the games of billiards and cards are not wrong per se, they are such ready and open avenues to vice as need to be avoided. The atmosphere and influences that surround them are dangerous and poisonous. If not a haunt of vice in itself, the Club is too often the vestibule where the candidate is schooled in and prepared for the orgies and revels that make up the round of worship in the courts and temple of vice and sin.

As will be seen from the communication of Bro. Bain in another column, the organization of the North Carolina Conference Sunday-school Society has been discontinued and the interests of Sunday-schools transferred to the care of District Societies which are thought to be more manageable and better adapted to the practical supervision of Sunday-school matters. In one or two of our Districts, such Societies have been organized and we notice that they are in use in Georgia and other States.

It was not because the N. C. Conference Sunday School society had become useless or incapable of good, that its meetings were discontinued, but because it was thought that the purposes for which it was established could be as well, if not better, subserved by the district societies to which its work is remitted. The meeting at Greensboro week before last was well attended and was a very interesting occasion, as we learn from some who attended. In Bro. Bain's communication will be found a full and lucid account of the meeting.

DEAR BRETHREN: Since my last meeting the good Lord has again visited us on my work with the outpouring of his spirit, in awakening and converting sinners. Last Saturday and Sunday I held a two days' meeting at Bethlehem church, on Bogue Sound. On Saturday we had a good congregation, and good feeling. Sunday morning we had prayer meeting at 9 o'clock;—at eleven the crowd was large; in the close of the sermon the holy ghost came down. The result, in answer to prayer and faith was, many were convicted, some converted, and 14 joined the church; all adults—8 men and 6 women, nearly all of them professing to be converted—the others truly penitent seekers of religion. Two joined by certificate—some 4 or 5 others will come in very soon.—Among the accessions are 3 or 4 of the most promising and influential men of that section of country. We have a large and promising Sunday-school just organized there. The members at that appointment I found cold and backslidden—doing wrong things. I read the rules by rote to them, and proceeded to exercise Discipline—and the result will be improvement. We must probe old sores, if we would heal, and have a healthy church. The Lord help us all to do this important duty in the right way!—He will then bless the work. Up to this time I have received 41 into the church. I am sure we ought and will praise the Lord, and take courage and go on. Pray for us away down here. We are not where my good Bro. H. said some time ago he was, "standing high" guarding the outposts at the "jumping off place," as called by some, but we are standing low down here, guarding the coast at the jumping on place. More from old Carteret ere long.

JAMES MAHONEY.

Contributions to Person Street M. E. Church, South, Outside of Raleigh.

E. J. Lilly	$ 10.00
Henry Lilly	10.00
Rev. E. W. Thompson from his congregation—public collection	24.00
Rev. W. C. Gannon from his congregation—public collection	6.00
W. F. Strond	5.00
C. C. Barbee	1.00
Miss M. R. McKinnie	2.00
"A subscriber to the Advocate"	1.00
"A Wilmington Lady"	2.00
W. M. Poisson	3.00
Thos. B. Long	5.00
N. C. Conference S. S. Society	35.50
Rev. P. J. Wray	5.00

The above amount is all that has been received outside of Raleigh to aid in the building of Person Street Church. I make my grateful acknowledgemnts to the persons mentioned above for their contributions. Will not others aid us?

N. M. JURNEY, Pastor.

NOTICE.

The Fayetteville District Conference will meet at Carthage on Thursday, the 3d of June.

The introductory sermon will be preached at 11 o'clock.

We earnestly request a prompt attendance on the part of all the members, and let all make arrangements to remain over Sunday.

Bishop E. M. Marvin has kindly promised to preside.

S. D. ADAMS.

The Preachers in charge, in the Washington District, will please send to me the names of Local Preachers and Delegates who expect to attend the District Conference.

Please do not delay as the time is short.

Address,
W. S. ROSE.
Plymouth, N. C.

Meeting of the Sunday-School Society.

The Sunday school Society of the North Carolina Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, South, held its annual meeting in the city of Greensboro, April 30th and May 1st, 1875.

Rev. L. S. Burkhead, D. D., President, officiating.

By the order of the Society a brief account of its proceedings is herein given, in connection with other interesting exercises of the occasion.

The Society having been opened with appropriate services conducted by the President, Rev. T. M. Jones, D. D., President of Greensboro Female College, delivered an address of welcome which made the delegates and visitors feel at home at the outset.

The attendance of delegates and visitors from a distance was larger than usual, and increased interest in the Sunday-school cause was manifest from the commencement of the meeting. The Committee of Arrangements (whose names I do not now remember,) had executed their duties creditably in the preparation of an exceedingly appropriate and interesting programme for conducting the business of the Society and for Sabbath services.

The first subject announced for discussion was "What is a Sunday-school?" This question was very satisfactorily answered by A. H. Merritt, Esq., of Pittsboro, in an address abounding in sound argument, happy illustrations, and wholesome suggestions. The subject was discussed by others at length with unusual interest and profit.

Rev. T. M. Jones, D. D., Rev. J. J. Renn, and D. W. Bain were appointed a committee on revision of the constitution and by-laws of the Society, whose report appears elsewhere in this communication.

The second subject for discussion as announced for the afternoon session, "Who shall attend Sunday-school?" had been assigned to Rev. M. V. Sherrill, of Mt. Pleasant, as the principal speaker, whose discourse was very well received, and, no doubt, accomplished good. The effect of the discussion of this subject by other brethren also, was manifestly beneficial.

Rev. W. C. Norman, of Ruffin, N. C., delivered the opening sermon at 8 o'clock, P M., in the Methodist Church. Subject—"Filling the Mission assigned us." A grand theme and successfully treated.

Rev. J. J. Renn, of Durham, repeated on Saturday morning, by special request, an address delivered by him at a former meeting of the Society. Subject—"The demands of the Sunday school for the best talent of the Church." The known character of the address and the reputation of the speaker drew a large congregation to hear him. All listened and were profoundly impressed with the excellency of the effort. The general style of the address marks the author as a man of genius and varied talent, while his delivery is pleasing. Such was the encomium of his hearers. This notice is specially merited.

Several other subjects of importance with respective speakers, had been selected, but it is to be regretted that unavoidable circumstances precluded the attendance of the speakers, and that the programme could not be fully carried out These omissions were, however, supplied by the committee of arrangements and officers of the Snnday-school, with excellent music.

The committee on revision of constitution and by laws, referred to above, submitted their report as follows:

To the North Carolina Conference Sunday-school Society, M. E. Church, South:

The committee to whom were referred the constitution and by-laws of this Society for revision, if necessary, report the same back without amendment

The committee have gone beyond the limit of duty stated in the motion under which they were appointed, and, in deference to expressed views of delegates present, considered the status of the Society towards the Church.—They recommend the adoption of the following preamble and resolutions:

WHEREAS, By the action of the late General Conference, the Sunday-school work is now placed directly under the control of the authorities of the Church, therefore,

Resolved 1st, That the necessity for this organization no longer exists, and it is hereby declared dissolved.

2nd. That we earnestly recommend to the Quarterly Conferences of all the Circuits and Stations in the North Carolina Conference to hold annual mass meetings, and the District Conferences to hold in each respective District an annual meeting, with regular programme, for the purpose of discussing the general interests of the Sunday school work, and the means of carrying it forward—said District meetings to be composed of delegates from the several pastoral charges in the District.

3rd. As members of this Society we feel a deep and an abiding interest in the religious training of the young, and will heartily co operate in any plan which may be inaugurated by the Annual Conference for the prosecution of the Sunday school work.

Respectfully submitted,
T. M. JONES,
J. J. RENN,
D. W. BAIN, } Com.

The report fully explains itself.—The action of the Society in the adoption of the report dissolved itself in the midst of one of the most pleasant, successful and profitable meetings it had ever held. The full explanations given by the Chairman of the Committee and others as to the reasons for this action, were accepted as satisfactory and legitimate. The object of the committee in its recommendations, and of the Society in its endorsement of them, was the enhancement of the Sunday school interest within the bounds of the North Carolina Conference by the use of more attractive and feasible means. Further, as expressed in the report, it was generally considered that the action of the late General Conference in reference to the Sunday-school work, rendered the further existence of the Society impracticable. The Society promulgates this plan of operation with a view to enlist the early attention of Presiding Elders, Pastors and Sunday school workers, and with the hope that steps may be taken without delay to have meetings in as many of the charges and Districts as possible during the approaching summer.

It was ordered by the Society that the Treasurer donate to Person Street M E. Church, South, Raleigh, for the purpose of aiding in the construction of its new church building, any funds remaining in his hands after paying the expenses of this meeting.

Thanks were unanimously tendered to the citizens of Greensboro for their liberal hospitality extended to the delegates and visitors; also to Railroad Companies for the usual courtesies of reduced rates of travel.

The Society then adjourned with the benediction by the President, and prayer of all for the Divine blessing upon the labors of this final session.

The Sabbath services afforded a rich treat to all present.

The Sunday school at 9 o'clock was the first occasion. The Methodists of Greensboro can congratulate themselves on having a successfully managed and prosperous Sunday-school. Its Superintendent, W. C Doub, Esq. is fully alive to his work—he is one of the most zealous workers in the State. He has a fine corps of co-laborers. The success of the school is attributable to the systematic management of its officers and teachers, the many attractive features, one of which is monthly Sunday concerts, and the support and countenance given it by the church. The school is deserving of more minute reference, but I have not special facts.

The sermon at 11 o'clock, A. M., was preached by Rev. Dr. Burkhead—Theme—Advantages of Early Piety. It was a discourse directed particularly to the young—was much commended for its ability.

In the afternoon the Sunday-school gave its monthly concert, which was attended by several of the schools of the city. The occasion was delightful, and will ever remain fresh and green in the memory of those who saw and heard. The beauty and innocence there displayed presented a scene for Angels to smile upon.—While your correspondent is not in the habit of making undue individual discrimination, or indulging in extravagant encomiums or description, yet it would be pleasant to particularize as to persons and performances in connection with this concert, but unfortunately he has no programme before him, and names do not recur to him. Thus much is said in sincere praise of the Sunday-school work in Greensboro.

Methodism in that city may well be proud of her congregation, pastor (Rev. W. H. Bobbitt) and Sunday-school.

The services of the day were closed by a discourse of much merit from Rev. J. J. Renn, who was heard with interest by a large congregation.

The citizens of Greensboro have lost none of the genuine hospitality for which they have always been proverbial. The writer can positively speak from experience and observation that which he has always heard as to this characteristic of that community, for while he was the happy recipient of it in one household, especially, its full enjoyment was perceptible in others who were elsewhere entertained.

The very limited moments allowed for the preparation of this synopsis have prevented as minute and satisfactory account of the deliberations of the Society and attendant exercises, as should have been given.

A digression is admissible in order to speak of another interest of the church, which is dear to the hearts of North Carolina Methodists—Greensboro Female College. A visit to this institution was rendered exceedingly pleasant by the courtesies extended by the President, Rev. Dr. Jones, who escorted us through the corridors and chapel of the building. Nothing that can be said here will add to the renown to which this institution has attained. Its long established character sounds its praises far and wide. It is to be regretted, however, that the new edifice is allowed to remain in an unfinished state. Although its stately walls stand as a monument to the liberality of its friends, although the country is receiving the benefits of its high educational facilities, yet the unpainted interior, the lack of thorough completeness presented by the exterior, and the unadorned grounds of natural beauty appeal loudly to the Methodists and friends of education in the State for the needed aid. If those who have not seen what has already been done were impressed as those who have seen, an incentive to greater liberality would be felt.

Notwithstanding these detractions in respect to appearance, an air of comfort and neatness is seen in every department. The institution is certainly deserving of the liberal patronage of the church especially, for with the present President and faculty it affords educational advantages of no secondary order.

Let the appeals sent up for aid by the friends of the College through the worthy Conference agent and other mediums, receive the response of the people. The aid extended will be a safe investment

D. W. BAIN.

To Rev. John R. Brooks.

DEAR BROTHER: In the Advocate of last week you have invoked brother Closs' first presiding elder to aid you in your controversy with him. You address me by name, as having had the honor of holding that relation to him, which was true in 1833. It was only nominally so, and did not affect my personal, or my ecclesiastical relations to him. I did not at any time disturb him in the enjoyment of one of the happiest years of his life. I left him alone to preside over a people who loved him to that degree, and whom he so loved that he uttered a farewell prayer, characteristic of the preacher, and the people, who were about to part, and perhaps to meet no more. Brother Closs having, before our late Annual Conference in Raleigh, recognized me as having been his first presiding elder, I accepted the honor, and took the consequences, though I repelled the inferences. I have therefore now no special authority for speaking to him by reproof, by correction or instruction, in conducting a controversy. I prefer to leave the rod of correction in the hand of his former pupils; and for asmuch as brother Closs has seen proper no longer to rely on his authority as having been your first presiding elder, but for the first time in his life has entered the arena of controversy with the young preachers, in order to counteract their evil communications, he must take the consequences, though they in turn should apply the rod to his naked fallacies.

I must therefore decline the invitation to come to your help. You have recklessly rushed into the lion's den, but you are more scared than hurt. You need not fear his teeth or his claws. Time has fulfilled his commission. But beware of his rampant tail. If you provoke his royalty to wrath you may look for a castigation. I can't help you; you must wriggle yourself out of the dilemma, either conditionally or unconditionally, or you will be eternally disgraced as a polemic.

But you need not be alarmed, the controversy will be harmless to those who do not hurt themselves. It will teach many wholesome lessons which it will do well for us to heed. It will teach you that when you enter the arena of controversy, an instrument with a sharp point is the first and most important weapon both for the offensive and defensive. He who handles it must keep his eye steadfastly fixed on the point and there hold the debate. If, however, your antagonist seizes a pitchfork and dashes the trash in your face, though it may be made up of unadulterated Deism and Beecherism mixed with Tom Paine legalism or Arminian Universalism, prudence will dictate to you that it is wiser to put yourself under the protection of the laws of honor, to decline the conflict, and retire from the contest with dignity and grace. For, be you well assured, that if you obstinately persist in achieving a victory, you will be under a strong temptation to seize a rail, and go at your adversary as if you were fighting a crocodile. No Bro. Brooks I can't help you. You must stick to the point and the point will soon be hid, by a mortal stab in the heart of your adversary, which will soon put an end to the copious flow of matter from the Curse of Blood. No, I can't help you, my eyes are dim, my hearing fails, my hand trembles, my grinders are all gone, my mind is volatile; like the newly born butterfly it prefers to warp its mystic flight among things of beauty as God has made them. In this age of skepticism, when the most certain things are set aside, and wild chimeras are proposed as the best food for the nourishment of human souls, I have no chameleon appetite to be gratified. I choose rather to feed on the moral certainty of existing facts in the government of God, than to regale myself by wandering in the labyrinth of speculation, in hope of finding truths more absolute than those which God has planted within me, and nourished into activity by his inspiration. God is good, his tender mercies are over all his works, He is loving to every man, not willing that any should perish. He gave his Son to taste death for every man, and he is the savior of all men, and by the merit of his oblation and sacrifice I have a strong sentiment of humanity, a clear sense of right and justice, which inspire me with the hope that some of his poor children will be saved though they can not believe in him of whom they have not heard; who can not hear without a preacher, who will not go where he is commanded to go because the christian church will not send him.

In the exciting conflict all the wounded have the love and sympathy of Brother Closs'

FIRST PRESIDING ELDER.

Oaky Grove, 4th May, 1875.

Fayetteville District Conference.

The Fayetteville District Conference will commence at Carthage on Thursday. June 3rd.

Members of the Conference upon their arrival will report at the Carriage Manufactory of Tyson & Jones, to be assigned to their homes.

If any of the brethren desire to come by rail road, and will inform me of their intention to do so, I will secure the attendance of vehicles at Jonesboro. to convey them to Carthage.

L. H. GIBBONS.

Carthage, May 3d, 1875.

Religious Brevities.

Rev. W. H. Christian writes to the Richmond Christian Advocate of May 1st, that a revival of great power is in progress in Centenary Church, of Lynchburg, Va., Rev. Dr. Rosser is conducting the revival. More than two hundred souls have been converted during the meeting.

A RELIGIOUS revival of great interest has been going on at Camborne, England, in connection with the Established Church, in which the vicar and his daughter have taken the leading part.

Rev. A. B. Earle, the evangelist, after holding very successful revival meetings in Chicago, returned a fortnight since to his home, in Newton, Mass

Mr. Moody said in one of his London addresses: "We should become child-like, and have the faith of the little boy who, after asking God to grant a certain request, added: 'You, will, Lord; I know you will.'"

Mr. Sankey is a son of the Hon. David Sankey, of West New Castle, Pennsylvania, and the Democrat of that place says:

"Whatever may be said of him, no one can accuse him of ever having attempted to mix politics with religion. He is an intelligent Christian gentleman, a singer of the highest excellence, and in point of mental culture far superior to Mr. Moody.'

At a recent Protestant Episcopal diocesan convention in Buffalo a private conference was held to discuss the question: "The relation of Episcopal clergymen to clergymen of other denominations, and how far they can consistently unite with them in services and works of Christian love and mercy." Why not let the the public know the result!

The Toisnot Transcript says: "The Methodist revival at this place, presided over by the Rev. L. J. Holden, is still going on with the brightest prospect. There has been fifty-odd conversions, and forty five accessions to the church. May it still go on."

The University.

The Board of Trustees of the University of North Carolina met at the Executive office in this city on the 4th of May. Present, His Excellency Gov. C. H. Brogden, Chairman ex-office, W A Graham, B. F. Moore, Rev. C. B. Hassell, Rev Dr Neil McKoy, Paul C Cameron, John Manning, J J Davis, R L Patterson, Jas A Graham, Dr John McIver and Kemp P Battle.

Mr P C Cameron stated that the work on the buildings, &c. is in a fair state of progress and that accommodations for 200 students can be furnished by July 1st.

The following resolutions were considered seriatim and adopted.

Resolved, 1st, That the university be opened for the admission of pupils on the 1st Monday in September next, and that the term continue, with two weeks vacation at Christmas, until the 2nd Thursday in June, 1876.

Resolved, 2. The charge for tuition shall be $60 for the term with $10 for room rent, servant hire and deposit money, of which one half shall be paid in advance, the other half on or before the opening of the session in January.

Resolved, 3. That for the present there shall be established six colleges, at the head of each of which there will be a Professor (unless the Board shall decide to elect a President and place one of them under his charge) viz:

I. College of Agriculture.
II. College of Engineering and the Mechanic Arts.
III. College of Natural Science.
IV. College of Literature.
V. College of Mathematics.
VI. College of Philosophy.

Resolved, 4. That said Colleges shall be sub-divided into schools according to the schedule annexed, over each of which shall be placed separate instructors, as soon as the means of the University shall be sufficient, viz:

I. The College of Agriculture into, 1st. School of Scientific Agriculture; 2nd, School of Practical Agriculture; 3rd, School of Horticulture.

II. The College of Engineering and the Mechanic Arts, into, 1st, School of Mechanical Engineering, 2nd, School of Civil Engineering; 3d, School of Mining, 4th, School of Military Science and Tactics.

III. The College Natural Science into 1st, School of Chemistry; 2nd, School of Zoology and Botany; 3rd, School of Geology and Mineralogy.

IV. The College of Literature into, 1st, School of English Language and Literature; 2nd, School of Ancient Languages; 3rd, School of Modern Languages.

V. The College of Mathmatics into, 1st, School of Pure Mathematics; 2nd, School of Natural Philosophy; 3rd, School of Commercial Science.

VI. The College of Philosophy into, 1st, School of Metaphysics and Logic; 2nd, School of Moral Science: 3rd, School of History, Political Economy, International and Constitutional Law.

Resolved 5, That further details in regard to the course of instruction in the University, the granting of diplomas, certificates of proficiency, &c., shall be adjusted by the Board on consultation with the members of the Faculty to be hereafter elected.

Resolved 6, That the Professors shall be allowed a salary of $2,000 per annum, each, payable semi annually with house rent.

Resolved 7, The question whether a President of the University shall be elected by the Trustees or the Faculty shall choose a chairman of their body with executive power, is postponed to the next meeting of the Board.

Resolved 8, That when the Board adjourns, it shall adjourn to meet again in the Executive Office in the city of Raleigh on Wednesday the 16th June next, and that at that meeting the Professors shall be elected, of which fact the Secretary shall give public notice.

Resolved On motion of Mr. R. L. Patterson, that the Secretary and Treasurer negotiate a loan of $5000 to be expended for repairs of the building, &c. of the University, and that the first receipts into the Treasury, except from the Agricultural Land Scrip Fund, shall be applied to indemnity of such persons as may become sureties for the Trustees for said loans.

NORTH CAROLINA.

We call special attention to the advertisement of J. C. Slocumb, Executor of the estate of Mrs. H. A. Husted. The property advertised is well located and very valuable. Persons wishing to invest in city property will do well to correspond with Mr. Slocumb at Goldsboro, or W. H. Crow, Esq., of this city.

CITY ELECTION.—The municipal election of Raleigh took place on the 3d inst, under the amended charter, resulting in the election of 11 Democratic and 4 Republican Aldermen, thus throwing the control of the city government into the hands of the Democrats where it has not rested for many years The new Board met at 5½ o'clock on Tuesday morning, and organized before an injunction which was threatened, could be served in behalf of the old Board. Mr. J. H. Spark, a worthy mechanic and christian gentlemen, was elected Mayor, the chief contestant for the position being Maj. Basil Manly. The latter was afterward elected chief of Police. George Williams, Esq., was elected city clerk, and Leo D. Heartt, Esq., city Treasurer, A better order of things is hoped for under the new REGIME.

The municipal election of Fayetteville passed off quietly, resulting in the election of a Democratic Mayor and commissioners by a large and unexpected majority. Capt. A. B. Williams is the Mayor elect.

The Daily EAGLE.—Maj. M. J. McSween has removed the publication of his paper, the EAGLE, from Fayetteville to Charlotte and now issues it daily. Mr. McSween has long news paper experience and energy, and we trust he will receive a large share of the public patronage.

Col. Jno. L. Bridgers will deliver the address before the Agricultural Congress which meets in Raleigh on the 13th July.

A. M. Noble, Esq., of Selma, offers the county of Johnston 25 half acre lots and two acres for the site of the Court House, if the Commissioners of the county will make Selma the county seat.

Mr. Lyons, of Charlotte, died in that city recently, from the effects of a murderous assault by robbers, it is supposed.

R. A. Foard, of Concord, has been nominated by Mr. Ashe for a West Point cadetship.

Hons. W. A. Graham and Josiah Turner, Jr., have been nominated for the Convention by the people of Orange county.

The Statesville American claims to have the frame of the printing press on which the Mecklenburg Declaration was printed in 1776.

The bill for advertising the State debt bill in two leading papers was $7,200, the London Times charging $5.000 and the New York Journal of Commerce $2,200. By changing it to the weekly issues, the bill was reduced to $1,800.

The post-office at Walkertown in Forsyth county has been discontinued.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY.—Under a charter granted by the late General assembly a meeting was held at the Yarboro' House last week to organize a North Carolina Historical Society. Some twenty gentlemen were present including several who have been conspicuous for their interest in the history of the State, among whom where the Hon. Wm. A. Graham, Hon. W. H. Battle, Col. J. H. Wheeler and Gen. T. L. Clingman. The meeting was organized by the selection of Hon. W. A. Graham as chairman and Col. S. D. Pool as secretary. Mr. Graham in taking his seat as chairman addressed the meeting in a most interesting manner, dwelling particularly upon the gaps and deficiences in the early history of the State and the cause therefor.

Mr. John Nash, of Beaver Dam, Union co., was severely injured by jumping from the train when in motion. "Haste makes waste."

John Satterwhite, Esq., of Granville co., who some months ago was thought to be dying from consumption, has been restored to health, as he says, by drinking a tea made from mullen, in the place of coffee at breakfast and supper.

The correspondent of the Greenville News has interviewed Walker, the murderer of the Rev. Claudius Miller, and found him chained by the neck to the floor of the jail. His confession is a long list of crime, the murder for which he is now in prison being the most brutal and cold-blooded of all.

Wm. H. Hall, charged with killing A. J. Gillespie, was found guilty at Asheville Court last week.

On Saturday, the 17th ult., John Rodgers was shot by Thomas Colbert in Robbinsville, Graham county, and is supposed to be fatally wounded. Colbert was jailed.

On Sunday last the dwelling of Mr. J. J. Gudger, on the island in front of Marshall, Madison county, was totally destroyed by fire. Loss about $2,500. No insurance.

Maj. L. H. Hunt, Inspector General of Wilcox's Division in the late Confederate army, and a favorite staff officer of the lamented Pender, has returned from Alabama and settled near Milton.

We learn by the Asheville PIONEER that the trial of Clara Hall, wife of William Hall, the convicted murderer, was postponed till next term of the court. She is charged with conspiring with her husband to murder her stepfather, A. J. Gillespie.

Two Philadelphia firms present $100 to the Mecklenburg Centennial.

Judge Brooks delivered an opinion at the recent term of the Federal court in Elizabeth city against the Civil Rights bill, agreeing substantially with Judge Emmons of Tennessee.

Durham has been excited over municipal elections, busied with marriages and disgusted with lotteries.

A depot is to be established at University Station, six miles above Durham. The shipments of iron ore from the mine at Chapel Hill require it.

The large factory of Blackwell & Co at Durham has been completed. It is surmounted by a battery front on which are painted life size portraits of the three members of the firm. J. S. Carr, Esq., the financial manager of the immense business and one of the best business men of the State, is represented as seated at a table on which the books of the firm are spread. Mr. Day is represented as sampling a pile of tobacco.

When a man moves to Durham, he is expected, according to the Plant, to "bull up" the town and talk Durham or run the risk of being 'howled' on.

Four acres of land in Durham that 11 months ago sold for $550, sold week before last for $1681.

PATRIOT: We understand that Col. Buford has signified to Gov. Brogden his intention to begin the change of gauge on the North Carolina road east of Greensboro.—This is perhaps the shortest way to test the validity of the recent legislative enactment.

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF RALEIGH EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING.---TERMS $2.20 POSTAGE PAID.

Our Agents.

All the traveling and local preachers in the bounds of the North Carolina Conference are our authorized Agents. Any person sending us ten subscribers, for one year, will receive the paper free.

Our Correspondents.

Communications for publication should be carefully written, and on but one side of the sheet. All letters on business should be addressed to the Editor.

How to Remit.

In sending money, all amounts should be sent in registered letter, post office order or check. The cost of registration, or Post Office order can be deducted from the amount to send. If money is sent otherwise than herein specified it will be at the sender's risk.

Personal

The Prince of Wales was installed Grand Master of the Masonic fraternity of England on the 28th ult.

Carl Schurz has gone to spend some time in Europe. They banqueted him in New York before he left.

The Doctors are keeping Frank P. Blair alive by transfusing other men's blood into his veins.

Judge Pierrepont, of N. Y. takes the place of Williams as Attorney-General. This is said to be one of Grant's most sensible appointments.

Mr. Edward Merrimon, a son of Senator Merrimon of this city, has received the position of second clerk to Admiral Reynolds, of the man-of-war Tennessee.

Ex-Senator Nye, of Nevada, has been sent to the Bloomingdale Insane Asylum, affected with softening of the brain, from which it is thought he will not recover.

DEATH OF JAMES T. MOREHEAD, SR.—We record with sorrow the death of James T. Morehead, Sr., which occurred at his residence yesterday afternoon about 6 o'clock. He returned from Rockingham county about 2 o'clock, P. M. Monday, complaining of chills, cast his vote and went home, and took remedies. The following morning the chills were very severe, followed by fever. During the day the chills assumed congestive form and he died about six P. M. He reached his 76th year on the 11th of last January, and in his time was one of the first men of his native State. He was an able lawyer, a profound thinker, a deep student and had filled positions of public trust honorably to himself, and with benefit to his State.—GREENSBORO PATRIOT May 6th.

General News.

Maine expended $1 181,712 on her common schools last year.

David Sinton, of Cincinnati, O., has decided to erect, at a cost of $50 000, a granite tower 100 feet high, crowned by a colossal statue of Cincinnatus.

A convention of the colored people of Tennessee will be held in Nashville, May 19, to consult as to the best measures to be taken regarding emigration in a body to Kansas.

President Lerdo, of Mexico, in his speech to the Congress of that government said that measures would be taken to make education compulsory.

The miners and laborers of the coal mines in Pennsylvania persist in striking for higher wages. Sympathising associations render them substantial aid in the way of money and provisions to continue the war against capital.

The corner-stone of the monument to the Confederate dead was laid at Augusta, Ga., and Gen. Evans made a loyal and fraternal speech. The graves of Union and non Union men were then decorated by the Ladies' Memorial Association.

Judge William D. Kelly, of Pennsylvania, has just returned from an extended tour through the South. The result of his observations is expressed in the sentence, "The vote I most regret during my four ears' service in Congress is that which I cast last winter in favor of the Force Bill."

More outrages are reported from Texas. The Mexican banditti are raiding, robbing and murdering yet. Texas, however, will get the best of it in the end.

The Alleghany Work House at Claremont Penn., was totally destroyed by fire on the 28th ult. It is said that out of 350 inmates very few escaped. Loss $50,000.

A misunderstanding has arisen between the Governors of Tennessee and Georgia on account of Gov Smith of Georgia refusing to recognize a requisition of Gov. Porter for a criminal named Knight Porter however retaliates by refusing to give up a man named Saunders.

Oshkosh, Wisconsin was burned on the 28th April. A square mile of houses, including mills, hotels and railroad depots gone. Loss $2,500 000. A powder magazine was also blown up during the progress of the fire and several lives were lost.

The steamers "Kyle," "Bodman" and "Express" caught fire in New Orleans on the 23rd ult and burned to the water's edge. Between 30 and 40 lives were lost. One of the boats was loaded with oil which floated on the water in one vast sheet of flame thus killing many who would otherwise have been saved.

Statesville Landmark: We regret to learn that the dwelling and outhouses of Dr. Sherrill, near Catawba Station Catawba County, were burnt on Sunday night, April 18th. A large lot of property, valuable to the unfortunate gentleman, was destroyed.

At an enthusiastic meeting held in Cabarrus county last Saturday it was resolved that all Cabarrus should attend the Centennial, camp and eat together. A cavalry company is forming, and arrangements are making for the county to provide the marshals with fine horses. Hurrah for noble Cabarrus, which never does things by halves.

The telegraph of the 4th May gives the following information of a mutiny on board the schooner 'Jefferson:'

The schooner Jefferson Borden, Patterson master, sailed from New Orleans March 5th, for London. When eighteen days from the former port, a mutiny broke out. Capt. Patterson and his officers fought the men with revolvers and knives. After a terrible struggle in which the first and second mates were killed, the Captain succeeded in disarming and securing all the men who resisted. He hailed passing vessels and obtained sufficient hands to work the ship and proceeded on his voyage to London—The mutineers seized an opportunity to carry out their plot when on watch with the first mate and boy. The latter was gagged. The men struck the first mate from behind and fractured his skull; the second mate coming to his rescue, was seized and thrown overboard alive. The boy in the mean while got free and alarmed Captain Patterson, who came up from the cabin with two revolvers and began firing with effect. One of the mutineers received seven bullets, another was wounded in the stomach, and one who was reported dying may live until the vessel reaches London.

We have received from the manufacturers a box of the Esterbrook Steel pens, which we find to be of the best quality and deserving of a more extended notice than we can at present give. They are adapted to every style of writing; their cheapness in price, joined to the excellence of temper and quality of material, will ensure universal approbation and defy competition.

Their School and Business pens are especially adapted to their respective purposes, being of different degrees of flexibility, and with Fine Medium, and Broad Points, suitable for all the various kinds of Penmanship Used in Schools. Sold at Retail by all Booksellers and Stationers in the United States, and at Wholesale at the Works, Camden, N. J., and at 19 Maiden Lane, New York Richard Esterbrook President. Rich and Esterbrook, Jr., Secretary.

In purchasing a Parlor Organ, buyers have a choice to a number of reliable instruments from different makers. Geize's School for the Parlor Organ has the reputation of being the best instructor, earned by its merit. Teachers everywhere use and endorse it Sent by mail or $2.50 Lee & Walker, publishers, Philadelphia, Pa. may 12-1t.

Marriages.

Married by Rev T. A. Boone on the 28th April, Dr. Edmond J. Dellery of Anson, to Miss Cornelia A. Timms of Montgomery.

Married at the residence of the bride's father, J. P. Little Esq., in the county of Richmond N. C. on the 28th April 1875, by Rev. T. W. Guthrie, Rev. Joseph Wheeler of the N. C. Conference, to Miss Lizzie Little.

Married, in Chatham County, N. C., March 18th, 1875, by Rev. C. C. Dodson, Mr. John Harman and Miss Bettie Griffin, all of Chatham.

In Pittsboro, April 28th, 1875, by Rev. C. C. Dodson, Mr. B. W. Mann and Miss Myra Dismukes, all of Chatham County, N. C.

Deaths.

☞ Obituary notices of twenty lines are inserted without charge. The excess over twenty lines of count words is charged for at the rate of 10 cents per line. Count the lines and allow eight words to the line. In this way you may always know the amount to enclose Resolutions of respect are subject to the same rule.☜

TRIBUTE TO WM. W. SHERROD.

We the undersigned Committee appointed to draft resolutions, expressing the deep grief of this Quarterly conference at the death of Wm. W. Sherrod do present the following viz:

WHEREAS, It has pleased God in the inscrutable wisdom of his providence to call from our midst W. W. Sherrod for several years a Steward in our church, therefore,

Resolved, That in the death of Brother Sherrod this Quarterly Conference has lost one of its most honored members, the Methodist church one of its warmest friends and the community one of its best citizens.

Resolved, That this Conference feel the deepest grief at the loss of our beloved Brother, and tender to his family our heartfelt sympathies in their sad bereavement.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be furnished the family of the deceased; that they be spread on the minutes of this Conference, and a copy sent to the Raleigh Christian Advocate for publication.

R. E. WEATHERBEE, } Com,
W. F. WATTS, }

MEMORIAM

Ellen J. daughter of Jeremiah Hart. Was born in Charleston Pagan Co. Penn. June 16th 1839, died in Davidson Co. N. C. April 20th 1875 join of the M. E. Church South, in 1871, lived a consistent member, her end was peace she leaves a devoted father and two sisters to mourn, but they hope to meet in the bye and bye. Ellen was a great sufferer for many months, she did not murmur but patiently endorsed, as seeing Him who is invisible." A large concourse of friends attended her remains to the grave at Fair Grove Church May God comfort and bless the surviving relatives, may they so live and imitate her example that they may meet her in heaven.

P. L. HERMAN.

Letters and Funds.

Rev W S Black, F A Brothers self $2 20, Rev R G Barrett paper continued R H Skeen for J C Skeen 1 N W Ayer & Son, Dr P Koonce self 2. Rev M V Sherrill for Miss S Cunningham 2 20, D Tucker 2 20, Monroe Dowd 1 10 D W Shumacher 1.10 Rev M L Wood for J G Click 2 20, John G Dailey 2 20 Mason & Hamlin, Rev W H Bobbitt papers continued, E S Starrett paper continued, Rev L J Holden paper sent, R E Weathersbee, W H Phifer paper changed, W P Ware paper changed, Rev Z Rush paper changed, Rev J W Jenkins for M Hightower 2, J T Barton 2 20, W E Wingstaff 2 20, I B Blagstaff 2 20, Rev L G Gibbons, Rev C C Dodson for M G Elmore 1 10, R N Green 2 20, Rev B F Dixon for A M Patterson 2 20 other paper renewed and charged to you, G T Jones, B Brock for Mrs R 2 Rev T A Boone, H Parnell self 2 20 Horace Waters & Sons Rev A D Betts papers sent, Rev J Mahoney for Mrs P M Bridges 2 20, Rev T W Guthrie for Miss Jennie McKenzie 2 20 P H Walker & Co. for ady 25,00 E Alden, Rev W J Rone Rev T W Guthrie, Rev C C Dodson the papers have been regularly sent. F G Smith, R R Wakefield for Mrs W 2 20, E J Lilly for Mrs J L Lilly 2 20, Rev I T Wyche paper sent, Rev J P Moore for S S Moore 2 20.

Appointments.

RALEIGH DISTRICT.

3RD ROUND, Q. M.

Nashville and Rocky Mount	May	15-16
Smithfield at Clayton,	"	22-23
Youngsville,	"	29-30
Granville at Bullocks,	June	5-6
Raleigh at Peeson st.	"	12-13
Louisburg station,	"	19-20
Raleigh at Edenton st.	"	26-27
Tar River at Trinity,	July	3- 4
Henderson at Zion,	"	10-11
Rolesville at Oaky Grove,	"	17-18
District Conference at Oxford, inclusive,	"	22-25
Nashville and Rocky Mount,	August	7- 8
Gary,	"	14-15
Smithfield,	"	21-22
Youngsville,	"	28-29

The introductory sermon at the District Conference will be preached by Rev. J. E. Thompson.

The District Stewards will please meet me at the Methodist Church in Oxford on Saturday July 24th.

J. P. MOORE, P. E.
Warrenton, N. C

WILMINGTON DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND.

Magnolia at Bryant,	March	20-21
Wilmington, 5th S.,	"	27-28
Cokesbury at Averasboro,	April	3- 4
Clinton at Andrew Chapel,	"	10-11
Kenansville at Richlands,	"	17-18
Smithville at Bethel,	"	24-25
Wilmington Front Street.	May	1- 2
Bladen at Deems Clp't	"	8- 9
Cape Fear Miss.	"
Elizabeth,	"	15-16
Whiteville, Fair Bluff,	"	22-23
Topsail,	June	5- 6
Onslow.	"	12-13

The Wilmington District Conference will be held at Magnolia, embracing the 5th Sunday in May, beginning on Wednesday before at 10 o'clock, a. m.

Rev J. Sanford will preach the opening sermon on Wednesday at 11 o'clock, a. m.

W. S. BLACK, P. E.
Magnolia N. C

NEWBERN DISTRICT.

2ND. ROUND.

Straits,	April	3- 4
Beaufort, Wednesday,	"	7
Kinston,	"	10-11
James, Shady Grove, Tuesday,	"	13
Carteret, Adam's Creek,	"	17-18
Waynesat Stantonburg,	"	24-25
Newbern,	May	1- 2
Lenoir, Piney Grove, Tuesday,	"	4
Mt. Olive, (Dist Conf.)	"	8- 9
Snow Hill, Ormond's Chapel,	"	15-16
Goldsboro,	"	22-23
Neuse and Swift Creek, Bay River,	"	29-30
Craven, Macedonia, Wed. & Thurs.	June	16-17
Wilson.	"	19-20

☞ The District Conference of the Newbern District will commence its session at Mt. Olive on May the 6th, Thursday morning, at 9 o'clock. The general understanding among the brethren is that all will remain until Monday. Brethren outside of the District are cordially invited, and we confidently expect one or both of the Editors of the Advocate.

E. A. YATES, P. E.
Beaufort N. C.

GREENSBORO DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND

North Guilford at Friendship,	March	20-21
Thomasville, H. Point, and Trinity station	Fair Grove	27-28
Wentworth, Carmel,	April	3- 4
Winston sta.	"	10-11
Greensboro.	"	17-18
South Guilford, Bethany.	"	24- 25
Randolph, Ashboro.	May	1- 2
Davidson at Mt. Pleasant,	"	8- 9
Madison at Leaksville	"	15-16
Forsythe at Loves.	"	22-23
Stokes,	"	29-30

N. H. D WILSON, P. E.
Greensboro, N. C.

SALISBURY DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

Salisbury circuit, Gay's Chapel	May,	1- 2
Alexander circuit, Stony Point,	"	8- 9
Wilkes circuit, Bethel,	"	15-16
Yadkinville circuit, Mt Mariah	"	22-23
Surry ct. & S Mission, Olive Branch	"	26-27
Mt. Airy Station,	"	29-30
Olin circuit, Clark's Berry.	June	5- 6

D. R. BRITON, P. E.
Statesville, N. C

FAYETTEVILLE DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

Carthage, Fairpromise,	March	20-21
Jonesboro, Cool Spring.	"	27-28
Cumberland, Camp Ground,	April	3- 4
Pee Dee, Sardis,	"	10-11
Buckhorn, Holly Springs,	"	17-18
Fayetteville,	"	24-25
Laurinburg, St. John,	May	1- 2
Robeson, Regan's,	"	8- 9
Rockingham, Green Lake,	"	15-16
Uwharrie, Oak Grove,	"	22-23
Montgomery, Mt. Pleasant,	"	29-30

S. D. ADAMS, P. E.
Carthage, N. C.

The Fayetteville District Conference will be held at Carthage, embracing the 1st Sunday in June, commencing on Thursday before at 11 o'clock. Bishop Marvin will preside.

HILLSBORO DISTRICT.

2ND, ROUND.

Flat River, Mt. Hebron,	April	3- 4
Hillsboro station.	"	10-11
Alamance ct. Bethel,	"	17 18
C. H. & Haw River ct. Ebenezer,	"	24-25
Pittsboro ct, Chatham Church,	May	1- 2
Deep River ct.	"	8- 9
Person ct. Mt Tirza,	"	15-16
Leasburg ct. Concord,	"	22-23
Yanceyville ct. Shady Grove,	"	29-30

L. L. HENDREN, P. E.
Chapel Hill N. C.

CHARLOTTE DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND.

Pleasant Grove ct	April	3 4
South Charlotte at Fair View,	"	10-11
Concord sta. and Concord ct	"	17-18
Wadesboro sta.	"	24-25
Pineville ct,	May	1- 2
Wadesboro and Lilesville,	at Pleasant Hill, "	8- 9
Pryon st. and Calvary Miss	"	15-16
Albemarle and Stanley	"	22 23
Mt Pleasant,	"	29 30
Ansonville,	June	5- 6

J. S. NELSON, P. E
Monroe, N. C.

SHELBY DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND.

Rutherford C and Miss.	at Kistler's April	3- 4
Dallas at Bethesda,	"	10-11
Lincoln, at Zion's,	"	17 -18
Rock Spring at Hill's Chapel,	"	24 25
Newton,	April 30 and May	1 2
South Fork at Pleasant Grove,	"	8 9
Happy Home at Rutherf'd College	"	15 16
Lenoir at Littlejohn's.	"	22 23
Morganton,	"	29 30
Marion,	June	5- 6
Shelby Station,	"	9- 10

Dear brethren, let us work, pray and trust in God.

L. S. BURKHEAD, P. E.
Shelby, N. C.

WASHINGTON DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

Roanoke at Enfield,	April	3- 4
Tarboro at White's,	"	10-11
Williamston, at Hamilton,	"	17-18
Plymouth and Jamesville, at Plymouth,	"	24-25
Columbia, at Scuppernong,	May	1- 2
Bath, at Hebron,	"	8- 9
Mattamuskeet, at Amity.	"	15-16
Washington and Greenville, at Greenville,	"	22-23
Warren, at Bethlehem,	June	12-13

The District Conference for Washington District will hold its session at Plymouth commencing May 27th at 11 o'clock. Opening sermon by Dr. M. Foy.

The District Stewards will please meet me in Plymouth the 27th of May at 3 o'clock P. M.

WM. CLOSS, P. E.

COMMERCIAL REPORT.

WHOLESALE CASH PRICES.

Office of CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. } May 12, 1875.

REMARKS.

Business continues quiet Meats and sugars are very firm and quiet.

COTTON.

Transactions in the staple yesterday very light Low middlings 15

General Market.

BAGGING, Domestic 2¼ ₱ yd. 13 -12@14.
COTTON TIES, 7a8.
FLOUR, North Carolina $7.50.@
CORN 95@100
CORN MEAL—$1.00
BACON, N. C. hog round, 15.
" " hams 15.
BULK C. R. sides, 13 1-2
" shoulders, 11 1-2
LARD, North Carolina, none.
" Western tierces, 17 1-2@
" " kegs, 17 1-2
COFFEE, Prime Rio, 21 1-2
" Fair Rio, 20 1-2.
SYRUP, common, 35.
MOLASSES, Cuba, 50.
SALT $2.25.
CHEESE, Cream, 18 1 2.
" Factory, 17.
" Dairy, none.
NAILS, on basis for 10d, $4.00.
SUGAR A, 11 1-2.
" Extra C. 11 1-4.
" Yellow, 9@10 1-2.
LEATHER, Sole 27 1-2@30
HIDES, green, 7@8.
dry, 15 1-2
TALLOW, 9@10
POTATOES, sweet 90@0
" Irish, $1.00@$1.25.
OATS, shelled, 85. @90
" sheaf, $1.25.
FODDER, cbl, $1-75
HAY, N. C. baled, good, $1.25.
CHICKENS, grown, 25 @30
EGGS, 17 1 2@22 1 2
BUTTER, country, 22 1-2@25.
FISH, Mullets, $7.00.
" Cat Herrings, none.
" Mackerel, new family, $12.00
BEESWAX, 25.
RAGS, 2@3
BEEF on foot, 6@8.
" dressed prime, 8@10.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

FOR SALE.

The House and Lot, in the city of Raleigh, formerly owned by Mrs. H. A. Hostel, on corner of Person and Martin Streets. Six rooms in the Dwelling—Office, kitchen, &c. A well of good water. Also 25 shares in the Paper Mill property, on Neuse River. May 1st, 1875.

Apply to J. C. SLOCUMB, Executor, Goldsboro.
or W. H. CROW, Esq., Raleigh.
May 12-4t.

A GREAT OFFER! HORACE WATERS & SONS (3) BROADWAY, NEW YORK, will dispose of 100 PIANOS & ORGANS of first class makers, in exchanging WATERS, AT EXTREMELY LOW PRICE for cash, DURING THIS MONTH, or part cash, and balance in small monthly payments. The same to let.

WATERS' New Scale Pianos, are the best made. The touch elastic, and a fine singing tone, powerful, pure and even WATERS' Concerto ORGANS are and be excelled (alone or beauty; they defy competition; The Concerto Stop is a fine imitation of the Human Voice. Agents Wanted.

A liberal discount to Teachers, Ministers, Churches, Schools, Lodges, etc. Special inducements to the trade. Illustrated Catalogues Mailed.
May 12 4-t.

12 Chromos for $1. The grandest chance ever offered agents. We will mail to any address, post paid, 12 beautiful Oil Chromos, the full, mounted, on receipt of $1. Sell for $3 in an hour. Try a Chromo agency, it is the best paying agency out. Everybody loves and buys pictures. We have work and money for all, men and women, boys and girls, whole or spare time, daytime or evening, at home or traveling. Inclose $1 in a letter, Chromos by return mail. They sell at sight.

WANTED Agents for the best Selling Prize packages in the world. It contains 15 sheets paper, 15 envelopes, Pen, Penholder, Pencil, patent Yard Measure, package of Perfumery, and a piece of Jewelry. Single package with elegant prize post paid, 25 cents.

BEST Selling Imitation Gold Watch, in the market. This is a Pure Coin Silver Hunting Cased Watch; English reflectoid plate; sunk Second Dial; Full Jewelled; Expansion Balance; Nickel Movements; beautifully engraved Cases; and is equal in appearance to a Gold Watch that costs from $50 to $100. It sells and trades readily, for from $25 to $60. If you wish a watch for your own use, or to make money on, try this. Price $17 only. We will send this watch C. O. D. subject to examination. If you send $2 with the order, the balance of $15 you can pay the Express Co., if the watch proves satisfactory.

ALL CAN make splendid pay selling our goods. We have other novelties which are salable as Flour. Send stamp for our illustrated catalogue.

Address F. P. GLUCK, New Bedford, Mass.
May 5 1-y

WINNOWED HYMNS.—A new and very popular Music Book for Sabbath-schools.

Price per copy in boards, - - - - 35 cts.

L. BRANSON, Bookseller,
Raleigh, N. C.
apr 8-12m.

THE GEM.

A popular Note Paper published at Nashville.—Send for as many dozen as you want

Price, - - - - - - 35 cents per copy.

L. BRANSON,
Raleigh, N. C.
apr 7-12m.

CLARKE'S COMMENTARY—

6 Vols Splendid sheep binding.

$3.50 per set to Ministers.

L. BRANSON,
Raleigh, N. C.
may 5-12m.

IMPORTANT.

Customers Look to Your Interest.

A. CREECH

Is the man who has no partner in business to divide profits with. That being the case he can, will and does sell Goods at Astonishingly Low Prices.

Spring and Summer opening of New Goods at A. CREECH'S you will find a Splendid Stock of

DRESS GOODS,

Black Gros-Grain and Fancy Silks, Japanese Silks, Japanese Striped and Colored Poplins New and Handsome Shades, Iron Grenadine, Black and Colored Alpacas, pure Mohairs, Linen and Victoria Lawns Percales, Piques,

And other Styles of

DRESS GOODS.

Which will be sold at such low prices, that they cannot fail to give entire satisfaction.

Just received at A. CREECH'S, Black and Fancy Cassimeres, Cashmeres, Tweeds, Cottonades and Linen Goods for men and boys wear, much the Largest Stock in the City.

A. CREECH is the man that has just received One Hundred Cases of Mens, Ladies, Misses, Boys and Childrens Shoes, which he is selling at prices which must command the attention of Buyers.

Step in at

CREECH'S MARBLE HALL,

Where you will find Silk, Cassimeres, Felt and Straw Hats, which will fit you or anybody else in size, price, Style and quality.
apl 28 8t.

J. M. ROSENBAUM,

At Kline's old stand on the corner of Fayetteville and Hargett streets,

Has received his Spring supply of Hats, Caps, Boots and Shoes, and everything usually looked for in a Gent's Furnishing Store.

His stock of

Ready Made Clothing

(of which he makes a specialty.)

For Men and Boys' Wear,

is large and complete, of the latest styles, selected and bought by Mr. Rosenbaum in person, who from long experience, knows what is suited to the Raleigh market. He has also a full supply of the BEST MAKE OF SHIRTS and UNDERCLOTHING. Customers will find whatever they want in the clothing line at and at prices of which they will not find it in their hearts to complain.

ROSENBAUM'S,

Thanking my customers for their past kind and liberal patronage, I trust that they will continue to favor me with their calls and purchases, assuring them that they will get as good bargains from me as they will obtain in any other store in the city.
apl 28-3m

20 Superior Music Books.

NATIONAL HYMN & TUNE BOOK

New. For Opening and Closing Schools, 40 cents.

For Note Reading in Schools,

American School Music Readers.

Vols 1, 11 and III 35 c., 50 c., 50 c.

Cheerful Voices. 50 cts.

Per Sabbath Schools,

River of Life. New Ed. $30 per 100

For High Schools and Academies,

Hour of Singing $1.00

Orphean. $1.00

For Home Entertainment,

Piano at Home. 4 hands. $2.50

Organ at Home. 2.50

Gems of Strauss. 2.50

Cheap Instruction Books,

WINNER'S NEW SCHOOLS (each 75 cts), for Piano—for Cabinet Organ—for Melodeon,—for Guitar,—for Banjo,—for Clarionet,—for Flute,—and for Flageolet.

Sold by all the principal Music Dealers. Sent post paid, for retail Price.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston. C. H. DITSON & CO. 711 B'dway, New York.
may 5 tf

The Diamond COTTON CHOPPER.

IMPROVED & WARRANTED To Cut, See Warranted Cotton Planter. RELIABLE CHEAP

D. C. C. & C. Co., FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., or to Local Agt.
may 5-4t.

PHILO ALCOTT. WAYNE ALCOTT.

Excelsior Grocery AND COMMISSION HOUSE.

LOOK TO YOUR INTERESTS! MONEY SAVED IS MONEY MADE!

We buy our Goods for CASH!

We are now prepared to fill orders for any goods usually found in a First Class Family Grocery. For price and quality we defy competition.

Having increased capital and facilities, we intend to make our House second to none. We guarantee satisfaction in price, quality and promptness.

We have made the necessary arrangements with our friends in the West to part of the State, so that we are almost daily receiving on consignment, Chickens, Turkeys, Ducks, Geese, Eggs, Butter, North Carolina Hams, Shoulders and Sides, Beef Hams, Venison Hams, Bacon, Corn, Irish Potatoes, Dried Fruit Meal, Oats, Shucks, Hay, Fodder, White, Black-eye, Stock and Black Peas, White and Mixed Beans, &c. Will make rice and hay a specialty, to be received daily as soon as the weather will permit.—We have made the necessary arrangement with our Norfolk house to furnish the best oysters that market can supply.

Again thanking you most sincerily for the liberal patronage heretofore extended we are determined, by a strict attention to business and close prices, to merit a continuance of the same, and knowing that "Success is Merit," to deserve your increased patronage.

oct 7-12m

VIRGINIA BUFFALO SPRINGS,

Mecklenburg County, Virginia.

OPEN 20th OF MAY, 1875.

Some of the most remarkable cures upon record have been made by these waters in affections of the Kidneys and Bladder, in diseases peculiar to women, and in Dyspepsia, in Gout and Rheumatism dependent upon Uric acid in the blood, they have given the most decided relief. In derangements of the Biliary Organs, in Chronic Intermittent and Remittent Fevers, and all diseases peculiarly incident to the miasmatic regions of the South they are well nigh specific.

Testimonials sent to any address on application.

This water is put up in cases of one dozen half gallon bottles at $6 per case.

Passengers for this place leave the cars of the Richmond and Atlantic Air Line Rail Road at the Scottsburg Depot in Halifax County, Virginia, where all trains are met by coaches for the Springs, 12 miles distant.

Testimonials of distinguished medical men as to the value of these waters:

By Dr. Wm T. Howard, Professor of diseases of women in the University of Maryland. "Were I called upon to state from what mineral waters I have seen the greatest and most unmistakable amount of good accrue in the largest number of cases, in a general way, I should unhesitatingly say, The Buffalo Springs in Mecklenburg County, Virginia."

By Dr. Hunter McGuire, of the Richmond Virginia Medical College! "Of all the mineral waters in the country, I believe this is one of the most valuable."

By Dr. Wm. H. McKee, of Raleigh, N. C.; "I regard this water as adapted to all functional derangements of the stomach depending upon indigestion by whatever cause produced; to the diseases incident to those sections of the country where levers of a bilio-malarial type prevail, and especially to the peculiar diseases of females. In Chloro Anemic diseases of females it is invaluable. It restores the functions of digestion and assimilation, renews the blood and gives tone to the secretory system. As a tonic, Alterative, Diuretic and Diaphoretic, I know of no remedy equal to it.

Spring No. 2, recently discovered, is different in its medical properties from the original Spring, and has a special adaptation to diseases of the urinary passages."

By Dr. Alfred Plummer, of Manson, N. C.: "In affections of the stomach, bowels, liver and urinary organs upon systems prostrated by repeated attacks of chills and levers, and in diseases peculiar to women, these waters produce the happiest and most decided results. It is however, in the diseases of women, especially when attended by nervous prostration that the great remedial powers of these waters are most conspicuous."

THOS F. GOODE,
apl 21-4m. Proprietor.

WAGON MATERIAL.

SPOKES,
RIMS,
HUBS,
AXLES,
BOLTS,
IRON,
&C.

BUGGY MATERIAL.

SPOKES,
RIMS,
HUBS,
AXLES, SPRINGS,
BOLTS,
IRON,
SHAFTS, BODIES,
&C.

BRIGGS & SONS.

Raleigh, N. C.

HARDWARE,
PAINTS, OILS,
GLASS.

Remington Handled Steel Cotton Hoes &c., &c.

Write for CIRCULAR of anything wanted.
apl 28 tf

THE REPEAL OF THE USURY LAW

will doubtless be the first question that will attract the attention of our next Legislative Assembly, but as that is a long ways ahead, it becomes necessary to learn something exciting for present use. Hence we announce the fact that

Weikel, The Irrepressible Merchant Tailor,

has just returned from the North with a stock of

FRENCH AND ENGLISH CLOTHS,
DIAGONALS, STRIPED, CHECKED AND PLAIN CASSIMERES,
SPRING AND SUMMER SUITINGS

OF EVERY DESCRIPTON.

LIGHT CASSIMERES FOR PANTS VESTINGS, &c.

the like of which is creating even more excitement on Fayetteville Street than

THE CHANGE OF GAUGE

did on the line of the North Carolina Rail Road.

He has in Store and now on exhibition the largest and most attractive stock ever offered to the

RALEIGH PUBLIC

before and all in want would do well to call early, as the rush has already commenced.

The Manufacturing Department is complete in all its branches, with the best workmen in the State on the bench.

Orders from the Country respectfully solicited and satisfaction guaranteed.
April 14-3m

PEARL Printing Press

Hand-Inking, Self-Inking and Self-Delivering. Hand, Foot or Steam Power. For printing cards, billheads, labels, statements, circulars, etc., it has no superior. It is unequalled for ease and rapidity of operation, completeness, durability, beauty of design and mechanical construction. Prices, from $145. Send for Catalogue of Printing Outfits.

GOLDING & CO. 14 Kilby St. Boston.

$5 to $60 DIAMOND $5 to $60

For the newest, simplest and cheapest press ever invented for printing Cards, Labels, Circulars, etc. Presses and Outfits, $3 up. Catalogue free.

GOLDING & CO. 14 Kilby St. Boston.
April 28 3m o

Agents Wanted for a New Book,

Present Conflict

OF SCIENCE WITH RELIGION;

or "Modern Scepticism Met on Its Own Ground." A book for the times The vital question of the day. A subject of the most intense and deepest interest. The final contest. The Bible triumphs gloriously. Address, P. W. ZIEGLER & CO., 518 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.
may 5-9t.

A. G. LEE. ED. H. L. E. CHS R. LEE.

A STRICTLY COMMISSION HOUSE.

A. G. LEE & SONS.

RALEIGH, N. C.

We give our entire attention to handling goods on COMMISSION, and therefore can handle to advantage consignments of

Corn,	Corn Meal,	Chickens,
Hay,	N. C. Flour,	Eggs,
Fodder,	" Bacon,	and all the
Shucks	or Green Peas,	products of
Oats,	Beef,	the farm
Peas,	N. C Hams,	or garden.

All of which we sell for cash, and are therefore able to make prompt returns. We solicit consignments from Western North Carolina, and the State generally.

We call attention to our friends in the city and neighboring country to the fact that we have made arrangements with shippers to have a constant supply of CORN on hand, and almost always have consignments of the other articles mentioned above. We have to sell for cash but will give you good goods.—Try us.

Cotton is our Specialty.

We can always obtain the highest market price, and ask our friends who find it inconvenient to accompany their lots to the market to try us. We can beat New York in the nett proceeds of your cotton.

When you bring your cotton to market yourself give us a chance at it. We have orders to fill and can pay the VERY HIGHEST market price for it. Before to call and see us before you sell.

We are the Agents for

The ORCHILLA GUANO and The SOUTH SEA GUANO.

The SCHOFIELD COTTON PRESS, the best invented.

The DIAMOND COTTON CHOPPER—Every one warranted.

A. G. LEE & SONS.
P. O. Box 222, Raleigh, N. C.
march 8-tf

NEW SPRING GOODS JUST ARRIVED.

D. S. WAITT & BRO.,

Wholesale and Retail DEALERS IN

READY MADE CLOTHING

For MEN, YOUTHS and CHILDREN.

Latest Styles and Prices Low.

The celebrated MANHATTEN WHITE SHIRTS, which are acknowledged the best Goods and most perfect Fit that is made. A full line constantly on hand.

Gents and Ladies Hose, Gloves, Suspenders, Handkerchief, Neckties, Bows and Silk Scarfs. The latest novelties of the Season paper Linen Cuffs and Collars Ladies Leather Belts, Hamburg Edgings and Insertions, Cashs' Ruffings, and Plaitings, Ladies' Neck Ruffs and Collars, Stamped Yokes and Bands, &c.

DOMESTIC AND FANCY DRY GOODS.

PRINTS, PRINTS, PRINTS.

Black Alpacas.

Corded Jackanets, Striped and Figured Lawns, White Pique, Mul Muslins, Checked Muslins, Nansook and Linen Lawns, Cornett Jeans, Cambrics and Linens.

HATS, HATS, HATS

Newest Styles and Cheap.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

Our Stock is complete in this line. Miles and Taylor's Goods just in and speak for themselves. Other brands which also give satisfaction.

To Country Merchants who buy in the City, we would say give us a call and we will sell goods for cash as cheap as any House in the City, or this side of Baltimore and New York.

To our numerous friends and patrons we again return our thanks for past favors and as our stock is much larger than ever before, we feel confident, that we are prepared to do the best that can be done in this city.

D. S. WAITT & BRO.,
54 Fayetteville st., Raleigh, N.
mch 17-tf.

GREATLY REDUCED PRICES

— ON —

Sash, Doors and Blinds.

WE SELL

WHITE PINE SASH.

No Shrinking,

Cheaper than Yellow Pine.

Largest stock in the State.

Write for Prices.

JULIUS LEWIS & CO.,

FISHER BUILDING.

RALEIGH, N. C
apl 14-tf

"ALWAYS AHEAD, IN TIME, AND NEVER BEHIND"

In Desirable Goods at Popular Prices.

JUST RECEIVED.

We would call especial attention of the ladies to the beautiful line of which we are now opening, the most elegant, cool and decidedly popular and fashionable fabrics for Spring suitings.

PLAID CAMELS HAIR, CLOTHS AND PLAIN DEBEIGES,

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

75 DOZ. LADIES' BLEACHED AND brown Balbriggan Hose, extra lengths, silk clocked, and Ladies' striped Hose—all the style.

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

A SPLENDID LINE OF LADIES' Handkerchiefs, colored borders in various designs, monograms, initials,

Children's Column.

Answers.

There are 3,566,480 letters in the Bible. G. E. Prince, F. B. Jones, Josephus Daniel, Bessie Griffin, Kate McKenzie, Willie Cherry.

"One fold and one shepherd" is found in John 10 chap. 16th verse.—Fletcher B. Jones, Josephus Daniel, Bessie Griffin, Kate McKenzie, Alice Peebles, Pattie Peebles, Willie Cherry Nannie E. Guthrie.

The largest chapter in the Bible is 119th Psalm. F. B. Jones, Josephus Daniel. Bessie Griffin, Kate McKenzie, Mattie J. E. Farrar, Nannie E. Guthrie.

Answer to Enigma No. 4 is Bethel. F. B. Jones, Kate McKenzie, Pattie E A. Peebles, Alice J. C. Peebles, Mattie J. E. Farrar, C. W. Hunt, Nannie E. Guthrie, W. A. Betts.

The 10th ch. of Nehemiah has 39 verses, 21 of which have 3 words in each. Park Kinsey, Mattie J. E. Farrar, J. R. Ervin.

Saul was the first king of Israel.—Park Kinsey, Mattie J. E. Farrar, Georgian B. Wynne, J. R. Ervin.

Absolom's hair weighed 200 shekels after it was cut. Park Kinsey, Georgian B. Wynne, J. R. Ervin, Mary J. Byerly.

Rhoda was the damsel who knew Peter by his voice. Park Kinsey, Mattie J. E. Farrar, Maggie McCoy, J. R. Ervin.

Azotus was the Greek name of Ashdod. Acts 8th 40th. The temple of Dagon was in this city where the Philistines deposited the captured ark. 1st Samuel 5th 2nd. It is now an insignificant village called Eshdud, having realized the denunciation of the prophet, Amos 1st ch. 8th verse, Zeph. 2d chap 4th v. David A. Clayton, Kate McKenzie, W. A. Betts.

The first five books of the Bible called the pentateuch, were written by Moses with the exception of a few verses added after his death. Next to Genesis, in order of time, the book of Job follows, written (as is generally believed) by Moses. Cora L. Clayton, Josephus Daniel, Bessie Griffin, Kate McKenzie, Nannie E. Guthrie.

The Book of Malachi ends with a curse. Alice Fincher, Josephus Daniel, Bessie Griffin.

The first words of Christ's public ministry were 'Repent for the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand. St. Mathew 4th ch. 17th v. Josephus Daniel, Bessie Griffin, Kate McKinzie, Alice and Pattie Peebler.

ANSWER TO BIBLE ENIGMA.

Its first is Bathsheba, a woman very beautiful to look upon. Its 2d is Esther, a queen devoted to her people. 3d Hannah, who lent her son to the Lord. Its 4th Orpha, who kissed her mother-in law. Its 5th Lois. Its 6th Dina. Its 7th Timothy. Its 8th Huldah. Its 9th the 4th letter in the woman's name to whom Christ spoke after his resurrection—Mary Magdalene. Its 10th Miriam, a woman who danced religiously. Its 11th, the fourth letter in Deborah's name. Its 12th Talithacumi. Its 13th Haran; an ancient city. Its 14th Elizabeth. Its 15th Rebekah. The initials form the last recorded words of our Saviour respecting his mother. 'Behold thy mother.' Georgian B. Wynne.

In Revelation 6th chap. 12th verse it is said that there was a great earthquake and the sun became black as sackcloth of hair, and the moon became as blood. George W. Grubbs.

The 11th verse of 7th chap, of 2nd Corinthians contains the word 'yea' six times. George W. Grubbs.

Questions.

Nannie E. Guthrie arks which Evangelist in speaking of John the Baptist calls him "John Baptist."

George W. Grubbs asks where in the Bible is found a verse containing the words "Lo. I come in the volume of the book it is written of me."

Alice and Pattie Peebles ask where Paul was called a babbler.

Josephus Daniel asks what chapters in the Bible end with a blessing.

G. H. Griffin Jr. asks in what verse and chapter in the Bible is Christ called the well of living water, and where he is called a "bundle of Myrrh."

G. C. Prince asks how many words verses and chapters there are in the Bible.

BIBLE ENIGMA, BY F. F. JONES.

1st who was it that supplicated Jehoakin not to burn Jeremiah's Roll.

2nd who was it that was struck dead for touching the ark of God?

3rd Who was it that said to the jailor "do thyself no harm, we are all here?"

4th who was the first of the three Jewish prophets who flourished after the captivity?

5th which was the most noted city of Italy about 3,254 A. M.

6th who was it that killed Ishbibenob, a noted Philistine?

7th to whom did St Luke direct the Acts of the apostles?

8th who was killed by a fall while Paul was preaching?

9th who was the chief ruler of the synagogue at Corinth in Acts 19th chap.

The initial letters of the answers to the above questions form my whole which is the name of the river mentioned in Ezra 4th chap. 10th v.

BIBLE ENIGMA BY MATTIE J. E. FARRAR

My 1st begins the name of one of Beda.

My 2nd begins the name of one of the sons of Hushim.

My 3rd begins the name of one of the sons of Noah.

My 4th begins the name of the father of Peleg.

My 5th begins the name of one of the dukes of Edom.

My 6th begins the name of one of Jacob s sons.

My 7th begins the name of one of the descendants of Abraham.

My 8th begins the name of the mother of Ishmael.

My whole is the name of one of the books in the Bible.

BIBLE ENIGMA BY NANNIE WOMBLE.

Who was the wife of Elimelech?
Who was the father of Samuel?
In what land did Job live?
By what river was Ezekiel when the word of the Lord came to him?
What king had fifteen years added to his life by praying unto the Lord?
What king was almost persuaded to be a christian?
Who betrayed Sampson into the hands of the Philistines?
By what captain of the host of the king of Syria did the Lord give deliverance unto Syria?
What sorcerer was smitten with blindness at Paphos?
Who was Leah's handmaid?
Who was the mother of Tubulcain?
Who was the father of Asa?
Where did Amalek fight with Israel?

The initials of the answers form the name of the king who was driven from among men, and did eat grass as oxen, and his body was wet with dew till his hair had grown like eagles' feathers and his nails like birds' claws.

"Better Take A Sheep Too."

A valued friend and able farmer, about the time the temperance reform was beginning to exert a healthful influence, said to his newly hired man.

'Jonathan, I did not think to mention to you when I hired you that I shall try and have my work done this year without rum. How much must I give you to do without it?'

'O,' said Jonathan, 'I don't care much about it. You may give what you please.'

'Well,' said the farmer, 'in the Fall I will give you a sheep if you do without rum.'

'Agreed.'

'Father, will you give me a sheep too if I do without rum?' asked the elder's son.

'Yes, you shall have a sheep if you do without.'

The youngest son then said, 'if I do without, father, will you give me a sheep?'

'Yes. Chandler, you shall have a sheep, too.'

Presently Chandler speaks once more. 'Father, hadn't you better take a sheep too?'

The farmer shook his head; he hardly thought that he could give up the 'critter' yet; but the appeal came from a source not easily to be disregarded, and the result was that the demon rum was then forth banished from the premises, to the great joy and ultimate happiness of all concerned.—Richmond Christian Advocate.

Rural and Domestic.

Venison Steaks.—Cut them from the neck; season them with pepper and salt. When the gridiron has been well heated over a bed of bright coals, grease the bars, and lay the steaks upon it. Broil them well, turning them once, and taking care to save as much of the gravy as possible. Serve them up with some currant jelly laid on each steak.

A Good Cake when Eggs are Scarce.—One pint of cream, one pint of sugar, yolks of three eggs, soda, if cream is sour, and soda and cream of tartar, if cream is sweet; flavor to taste; flour enough to form a moderately stiff batter; bake in a louf if you want a plain cake, or in layers if you want a jelly cake or cocoanut cake; make stiffer and put in two cups of fresh, best currrants, and you have a nice plain fruit cake. This cake receipt should be named 'hard times cake,' as it is valuable to a person whose supply of butter, sugar and eggs is limited.

Pimples.—Pimples on the face usually indicate some defect of nutrition, or some error in food. Many persons on the adoption of a wise and reasonable diet become for the first time free from pimples on the face; therefore, instead of doctoring them with medicines you should look well to your habits of life, improve your digestion, wisely regulate the diet, and keep the skin active by proper bathing and much life out of doors. Few people, especially women, appreciate the good effects of out door life, unconstrained by tight dresses.

The Wear and Tear of City Life.

The wear and tear of city life is a severe tax upon the strongest constitutions. The hurry and bustle and anxieties of business keep the nervous system in a state of unnatural tension during business hours, and in the end impair the elasticity and vigor of the vital organizations. The penalty of all undue excitement is subsequent exhaustion. The best remedy for it, whatever the cause, is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the tonic and alterative properties of which rapidly diffuse themselves through the entire system, renew and reinforce every dormant faculty, and restore a natural condition of body and mind. Some moral reformers insist upon the disuse of all stimulants. This, to say the least of it, is irrational. All competent physicians admit that a pure medicated stimulant is one of the most useful remedies known. As a tonic and invigorant for the aged and infirm, Hostetter's Bitters has no equal. It is the slave master of the feeble and debilitated. In all climates and in every species of disorder which breaks down the bodily strength, it is an absolute specific. It is also an invaluable remedy for sea-sickness. The nausea and reeling caused by the pitching and rolling of a vessel at sea yield to the bodily and mental credentials of those who suffer from it would do well to resort to the Bitters as a means of sure and permanent relief. No steamer should sail without a supply of the article. Among the botanic ingredients of which it is composed are some of the most powerful blood depurents which the vegetable kingdom affords. Consequently, it not only tones and invigorates, but also purifies the system through the natural sluices which nature has provided.

may 5 1-m

A. BAUM,

Professional Butcher,

Wilmington St., Opposite East End Market.

Buys the fattest beeves that can be had. No poor or stocked beef to be seen in his shop. Orders for Mountain stock weekly filled by his agents. The best and choicest meats to be had in this Market, butchered in first-class style, are sold you at apl 28-tf BAUM'S.

Let the People Speak.

MANHATTAN, Kan.

R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.:

Dear Sir—Your Favorite Prescription has done my wife a world of good. She has taken nearly two bottles and has felt better the past two weeks than at any time in the past two years. No more periodical pains, more of that ebing back or dragging sensation in her stomach she has been accustomed to for several years. I have so much confidence in it that I would be perfectly willing to warrant to certain customers of ours who would be glad to get hold of relief at any expense. I have tried many Patent Medicines, but never had any success to speak of as one before.

Very truly yours,
EDO. B. WRITING.

Mrs. E. P. DALY, McPropolis, Ill., writes:
"Dr. R. V. Pierce—My sister is using the Favorite Prescription with great benefit."

MARY ANN FARNUM, Lebanon, Pa., writes:
"Dr. R. V. Pierce—What I have taken of your medicine has been of more benefit to me than all others and hundreds of doctors' bills."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is sold by dealers in medicines generally.

may 12 1-t

DR. M'LANE'S

Celebrated American

WORM SPECIFIC,

OR

VERMIFUGE.

SYMPTOMS OF WORMS.

THE countenance is pale and leaden-colored, with occasional flushes, or a circumscribed spot on one or both cheeks; the eyes become dull; the pupils dilate; an azure semicircle runs along the lower eyelid; the nose is irritated, swells, and sometimes bleeds; a swelling of the upper lip; occasional headache, with humming or throbbing of the ears; an unusual secretion of saliva; slimy or furred tongue; breath very foul, particularly in the morning; appetite variable, sometimes voracious, with a gnawing sensation of the stomach, at others, entirely gone; fleeting pains in the stomach; occasional nausea and vomiting; violent pains throughout the abdomen; bowels irregular, at times costive; stools slimy; not unfrequently tinged with blood; belly swollen and hard; urine turbid; respiration occasionally difficult, and accompanied by hiccough; cough sometimes dry and convulsive; uneasy and disturbed sleep, with grinding of the teeth; temper variable, but generally irritable, &c.

Whenever the above symptoms are found to exist,

DR. M'LANE'S VERMIFUGE

Will certainly effect a cure.

The universal success which has attended the administration of this preparation has been such as to warrant us in pledging ourselves to the public to

RETURN THE MONEY

in every instance where it should prove ineffectual: "providing the symptoms attending the sickness of the child or adult should warrant the supposition of worms being the cause." In all cases the Medicine to be given IN STRICT ACCORDANCE WITH THE DIRECTIONS.

We pledge ourselves to the public, that

Dr. M'Lane's Vermifuge

DOES NOT CONTAIN MERCURY

in any form; and that it is an innocent preparation, not capable of doing the slightest injury to the most tender infant.

Address all orders to

FLEMING BROS., PITTSBURGH, PA.

P. S. Dealers and Physicians ordering from others than Fleming Bros., will do well to write their orders distinctly, and take none but Dr. M'Lane's, prepared by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa. To those wishing to give them a trial, we will forward per mail, post-paid, to any part of the United States, one box of Pills for twelve three-cent postage stamps, or one vial of Vermifuge for fourteen three-cent stamps. Orders from Canada must be accompanied by twenty cents extra.

☞ For sale by Druggists, and Country Storekeepers generally.

1875. 1875.

NEW STOCK SPRING GOODS.

Money lost every day by not buying your Dry Goods at

PETTY & JONES.

If our customers will but call and examine our goods, usually sold from $1.25 to $2.50, Japanese Silks and Cloths from 25 to 75 cts, real value 50 to 90 cents per yard.

Black Iron Grenadines, Salt Linen, Silk Pongee

Glace Mohair, Silk Fantasea, Chailles,

Leaders, Dress Lawns,

Plaid Poplin for Polonaise,

and all other goods of the

LATEST STYLES

for Ladies. Our white goods department is complete.

Victoria Lawns, Jaconets, Organdies, Swiss Muslin, Lace Stripe Piqué, Tarlatan, French Nansook, Marc Blue, Soft Finish Cambric, Printed Piqué, &c., &c.

1,000 yards of Hamburg Edgings and Insertings, from 10 cents to 75 cents.

Large stock of Ribbon lower than ever known before.

Ladies Linen Collars and Cuffs latest styles.

Spring Cassimeres just opened for Gentlemen.

Five Cases Spring Galloons, Bleached and Unbleach ed Cottons at the lowest Price Coats Cotton 75 cents per dozen.

Our stock of Spring Goods comprises the choice stock of the leading importers and jobbers, and at auction goods in our line enables us to sell our customers the latest styles of goods at the lowest price.

PETTY & JONES.

apr 11 6-tf

ISAAC GETTINGER

Is now in receipt of his entire stock of

SPRING AND SUMMER Millinery,

Ladies' Fancy Furnishing and Hair goods. A full stock of NEEDLE GOODS, also

PARASOLS, FANS, LAMA LACE SHAWLS and JACKETS,

an endless variety of

Baby Dresses and Baby Caps and Bonnets.

Kid, Berlin, Silk and Buckskin GLOVES.—Dress trimmings, such as Silks Laces, Fringes and Buttons. Enough children's striped Socks to supply every child in North Carolina without one of two pair. My stock was bought for CASH and can and will be sold low; all I ask is a call.

Our opening will be from now until the end of the season.

New goods will be added to my stock every day or two

MRS GETTINGER, as usual, can always be found at her post ready to wait on her many friends and customers.

apl 14-6w

PLEIS' FIT POWDERS.

These Powders have been tested by over 40,000 cases for the cure of Fits (Epilepsy), Spasms, Convulsions, St. Vitus' Dance, Neuralgia, and all Nervous Affections, some over 40 years' standing.

When you ORDER STATE AGE.

PRICE, 50 CENTS PER BOX; or sent to all parts of the United States for One Dollar per Box.—These Powders are prepared and sold only by the proprietor, to whom all orders must be addressed,

JOHN M. PLEIS, Jr.,

867 North Third street, Philadelphia, Pa.

☞ Please mention that you saw this advertisement in THE CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. may 31-1y

OLD NORTH STATE

FIRE

Insurance Company.

OF

WARRENTON, - - - N. C.

Capital Stock, $107,600.00

ASSETS:

Mortgages on Real Estate	$ 45 050.00
National Bank Stock	1 000.00
Solvent Stock Notes	51, 850.00
Cash and Loans on Call	2, 502.98
Due from Agents	2,669.02
Agents Supplies	626 89
Office furniture (Safe, &c.)	796.16
Accrued Interest	850.00
	$ 122,995.65

LIABILITIES:

Amount necessary to reinsure all unexpired risks on the basis of the New York law, $10,000.

$1,229 Assets to Every $100 of Technical Liabilities.

According to the past experience of the Company we have

$2,458 Assets to Every $100 of Actual Liabilities

OFFICERS:

Col. W. S. DAVIS President.
N. B. JONES, Vice President.
B. F. LONG, Secretary.
WM. J. NORWOOD, Treasurer.
T. C. WILLIAMS, Supervisor.

WANTED.

AGENTS, male and female to sell Pictures everywhere. Fourteen thousand retailed by one. Another writes: "I can make more money in this business than I can on a steamboat, all smoked."

WHITNEY & CO.,
Norwich, Conn.

april 7-3 m.

RESTORE YOUR SIGHT.

Spectacles Rendered Useless.

Save Your Eyes,

RESTORE YOUR SIGHT,
THROW AWAY YOUR SPECTACLES.

Old Eyes Made New.

:o:

All diseases of the Eye successfully treated by

DR. J. BALL & CO.'S

NEW PATENT IMPROVED IVORY EYE CUPS.

Read for yourself and Restore your Sight.

Spectacles and Surgical Operations rendered useless. The Inestimable Blessing of Sight is made perpetual by the use of the new PATENT IMPROVED IVORY EYE CUPS.

Many of our most eminent physicians, oculists, students and divines have had their sight permanently Restored for life, and cured of the following diseases: 1, Impaired Vision; 2, Presbyopia, or Farsightedness, or Dimness of Vision, commonly called Blurring; 3, Asthenopia, or Weak Eyes; 4, Epiphora, Running or Watery Eyes; 5, Sore Eyes—specially treated without the Eye Cups—cure guaranteed; 6, Weakness of the Retina, or Optic Nerve; 7, Opthalmia, or Inflammation of the Eye and its appendages, or Imperfect Vision from the effects of Inflammation; 8, Photophobia, or intolerance of Light; 9, Overworked Eyes; 10, Muscæ Volitantes—moving specks or floating bodies before the eyes; 11, Amaurosis, or Obscurity of Vision; 12, Cataracts; Partial Blindness; the loss of Sight.

Any one can use the IVORY EYE CUPS without the aid of a doctor or medicine so as to receive immediate beneficial results and never wear spectacles; or, if using now, to lay them aside forever. We guarantee a cure in every case where the directions are to be followed, or will refund the money.

2,500 CERTIFICATES OF CURE

from honest Farmers, Mechanics and Merchants—some of whom the most eminent in the professions and business men, and women of education and refinement, in our country—can be found at our office.

Under date of March 29 Hon Horace Greely, of the New York Tribune, writes: "J. Ball, of our city, is a conscientious and respectable man who is incapable of intentional deception or imposition."

Prof W. Merrick, of Lexington, Ky., writes, April 8th, 1873: "Without my spectacles I can see; without, after using the PATENT IVORY EYE CUPS thirteen days, and this Morning perused the entire contents of a daily newspaper, and all with the unassisted eye.

"Truly am I grateful for your noble invention. May Heaven bless and preserve you. I have been using spectacles twenty years; I am seventy years old.

Truly yours, PROF. W. MERRICK."

Rev. Joseph Smith, Malden, Mass., cured of Partial Blindness of 15 years' standing, in one minute, by the PATENT IVORY EYE CUPS.

E. C. Ellis, late Mayor of Dayton, Ohio, wrote us, Nov. 15th, 1873: "I have tested the PATENT IVORY EYE CUPS, and I am satisfied they are good. I am pleased with them. They are the greatest invention of the age."

Wm. Beatty, M. D., Salvisa, Ky., writes: "Thanks to you for the greatest of all inventions, my sight is fully restored, after being almost entirely blind for 26 years."

Alex. K. Wyeth, M. D., Atchison, Pa., writes: After total blindness of my left eye for four years, by paralysis of the optic nerve, to my utter astonishment your PATENT EYE CUPS restored my eyesight permanently in three minutes."

All persons wishing for full particulars, certificates of cures, prices, &c., will please send their address to us, and we will send our pamphlet on the ILLUSTRATED PHYSIOLOGY AND ANATOMY OF THE EYE, 100 of one hundred pages, free of charge, by return mail. Write to DR. J. BALL & CO. P. O. Box 957. No 91 Liberty Street, New York City, N. Y.

For the worst cases of MYOPIA or NEAR-SIGHTEDNESS use our NEW PATENT MYOPIC ATTACHMENTS, applied to the IVORY EYE CUPS. Has proved a certain cure for this disease.

Send for pamphlets and certificates—free. Waste no more money by adjusting huge glasses on your nose and disfiguring your face.

AGENTS WANTED

Employment for all. Agents wanted, Gentlemen or Ladies, for our NEW PATENT IMPROVED IVORY EYE CUPS, just introduced in the market. The success is unparalleled by any other article. All persons out of employment, or those wishing to improve their circumstances, can make a respectable living at this light and easy employment. Hundreds of Agents are making from $5 to $20 A DAY. To live Agents $30 a week will be guaranteed.

Send your address for full particulars. Send free of charge to any address. Write immediately to

DR. J. BALL & CO.,
NO. 91 LIBERTY STREET,
P. O. Box 957. NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.
Sept 6-12m

SUI GENERIS.

PALMAM QUI MERUIT FERAT.

MASON & HAMLIN

CABINET ORGANS.

UNEQUALED UNAPPROACHED

in capacity and excellence by any others. Awarded

THREE HIGHEST MEDALS

AND DIPLOMA OF HONOR AT

VIENNA, 1873; PARIS, 1867.

ONLY American Organs ever awarded any medal in Europe, or which present such extraordinary excellence as to command a wide sale there.

ALWAYS awarded highest premiums at International Expositions, in America as well as Europe. Out of hundreds there have not been six in all where any other organs have been preferred.

BEST Declared by Eminent Musicians, in both hemispheres, to be unrivaled. See TESTIMONIAL CIRCULAR, with opinions of more than One Thousand (sent free).

INSIST on having a Mason & Hamlin. Do not take any other. Dealers get LARGER COMMISSIONS for selling inferior organs, and for this reason often try very hard to sell something else.

NEW STYLES with most important improvements ever made. New Solo and Combination Stops. Superb Etagere and other Cases of new designs.

PIANO-HARP CABINET ORGAN an exquisite combination of these instruments.

EASY PAYMENTS. Organs sold for cash; or for monthly or quarterly payments; or rented until rent pays for the organ.

CATALOGUES and Circulars, with full particulars, free. Address MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., 154 Tremont Street, BOSTON; 25 Union Square, NEW YORK; or 95 & 97 Adams St., CHICAGO.

apl 14-1 year.

A NICE LOT OF HAMS JUST RECEIVED from Eastern N. C., and for sale especially for table use by

A. G. LEE & SONS.

250 BUSHELS WHITE SPRING OATS FOR sale by

A. G. LEE & SONS.

A LOT OF FRESH MOUNTAIN BUTTER in kits. Call and examine at

A. G. LEE & SONS.

apl 14-1w,

SCHEDULES.

PIEDMONT & AIR-LINE RAILWAY.

RICHMOND & DANVILLE, RICHMOND & DANVILLE R. W., N. C. DIVISION, and NORTH WESTERN N. C. R. W.

CONDENSED TIME-TABLE.

In effect on and after Tuesday, April 20th, 1875

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	MAIL.	EXPRESS.
Leave Charlotte	9 23 P. M	8.20 A. M.
" Air-Line Junc'n	9 30 "	8.50 "
" Salisbury	12 12 A. M.	10.02 "
" Greensboro'	3.35 "	1.32 P. M.
" Danville	6 20 "	4.26 "
" Dundee	6.30 "	4.33 "
" Burkville	11 35 "	8.26 "
Arrive at Richmond	2.22 P. M	11.17 P. M

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS	MAIL.	EXPRESS.
Leave Richmond	1.38 P. M.	5.08 A. M.
" Burkville	4.52 "	8.35 "
" Dundee	9.41 "	1.17 P. M.
" Danville	9 48 "	1.23 P. M.
" Greensboro	12.40 A. M.	4.23 "
" Salisbury	3.28 "	6.54 "
" Air-Line Junc'n	7.05 "	8.29 "
Arrive at Charlotte	7.10 A. M	9.05 "

GOING EAST.		GOING WEST
....IONS.	Mail	Mail.
Leave Greensboro'	2.15 A. M	Arrive 1.25 P. M
" Co. Shops	3.58 "	Leave 11.50 "
" Raleigh	7.00 "	7.22 "
Arrive at Goldsboro	10.05 A. M	4.10 P. M.

NORTH WESTERN N. C. R. R.

(SALEM BRANCH.)

Leave Greensboro'	4.31 P. M.
Arrive at Salem	6.15 "
Leave Salem	9.20 A. M.
Arrive at Greensboro	11.19 "

Passenger train leaving Raleigh at 6.52 P. M. connects at Greensboro' with the Northern bound train, making the quickest time to all Northern cities. Price of Tickets same as via other routes.

Trains to and from points East of Greensboro connect at Greensboro with Mail Trains to or from points North or South.

Two trains daily, both ways.

On Sundays Lynchburg Accommodation leave Richmond at 9.00 A. M., arrive at Burkeville 12.43 P. M., leave Burkeville 4.35 A. M., arrive at Richmond 7.58 A. M.

No Change of Cars between Charlotte and Richmond, 282 Miles.

Papers not have arrangements to advertise the Schedule of this company will please print as above. For further information address

S. K. ALLEN,
Gen'l Ticket Agent,
Greensboro, N. C.

T. M. R. TALCOTT,
Engineer & Gen'l Superintendent.

:o:

CHANGE OF SCHEDULE

RALEIGH & GASTON RAILROAD CO.

On and after Friday, May 22nd, 1874, trains on the Raleigh & Gaston Railroad, will run daily (Sunday excepted) as follows:

MAIL TRAIN.

Leave Raleigh	9.35 A. M.
Arrives at Weldon	3.30 P. M.
Leaves Weldon	3.50 A. M.
Arrives at Raleigh	5.45 P. M.

ACCOMMODATION TRAIN.

Leaves Raleigh	5.15 A. M.
Arrives at Weldon	9.15 P. M.
Leaves Weldon	2.20 A. M.
Arrives at Raleigh	2.45 P. M.

Mail train makes close connection at Weldon, with the Seaboard and Roanoke Railroad and Bay Line Steamers via Baltimore, to and from all points North, West and Northwest, and with Petersburg Railroad via Petersburg, Richmond and Washington City to and from all points South and Northwest.

And at Raleigh with the North Carolina Railroad to and from all points South and Southwest, and with the Raleigh & Augusta Air Line to Raywood and Fayetteville.

A. B. ANDREWS,
Gen. Sup't.

:o:

RALEIGH & AUGUSTA AIR-LINE RAILROAD.

SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE,
Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 25th, 1873.

On and after Monday, October 27th, 1873, trains on the R. & A. A. L. Road will run daily, (sundays excepted,) as follows:

MAIL TRAIN.

Train leaves Raleigh	4 00 P. M.
Arrives at Sanford	6 25 "
Train leaves Sanford	6.30 A. M
Arrives at Raleigh	9.25 "

FREIGHT TRAIN.

Leaves Raleigh	5.15 A. M.
Arrives at Sanford	10.35 A. M.
Leaves Sanford	11.00 A. M.
Arrives at Raleigh	3.50 P. M.

Mail Train makes close connection a Raleigh with the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad, to and from all points North.

And at Sanford with the Western Railroad, to and from Fayetteville and points on Western Railroad.

A. B. ANDREWS,
Superintendent.

:o:

OFFICE SUPT OF TRANSPORTATION,
Seaboard & Roanoke R. R. Co.,
Portsmouth, Va., Jan. 1st, 1875.

On and after this date, trains of this Road will leave Weldon daily, Sundays excepted, as follows:

Mail train at	4 P. M.
No. 1 Freight train at	4 A. M.
No. 2 Freight train at	8 A. M.

ARRIVE AT PORTSMOUTH.

Mail train at	7 15 P. M.
No 1 Freight at	12 00 NOON.
No 2 Freight at	4 00 P. M.

Freight trains have a passenger car attached.

Steamer for Edenton, Plymouth and Landings on Blackwater and Chowan Rivers leave Franklin at 7.30 A. M. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

E. G. GHIO.
Supt. Trans. ortation.

STIEFF

GRAND, SQUARE, AND UPRIGHT

PIANOS

Have received awards of FIFTY FIRST PREMIUMS and are among the best now made. Every instrument fully warranted for five years. Prices as low as the exclusive use of the very best materials and the most thorough workmanship will permit. The principal artists and composers, and the piano-playing public of the south, especially, unite in the unanimous verdict of the superiority of the STIEFF PIANO. The DURABILITY of our instruments is fully established by over sixty second hand pianos in use in the South, ranging over 8 to 10 years.

Sole Wholesale Agents for several of the principal manufacturers of Cabinet and Parlor Organs; prices from $50 to $600. Illustrated circulars to Clergymen and Sabbath schools.

A large assortment of second-hand Pianos at prices ranging from $50 to $250, always on hand.

Send for Illustrated Catalogue, containing names of over 600 Southerners, who have bought and are using the Stieff Piano.

CHARLES M. STIEFF,
Warerooms, No. 9 North Liberty street,
Baltimore, Md.
Factories, 84 & 86 Camden st. and 45 & 47 Perry st.
Dec 16-12m

AGENTS WANTED FOR

Cross AND Crown

THE SPIRIT AND POWER of the religion of Jesus Christ as shown in the Sufferings and Triumphs of His followers. An older, society and more thrilling story is not to be found. In the whole range of history. Wordsworth's Illustrated on steel with the best engravings of Christian Himself, and splendidly bound in the highest and latest style of the art. The most beautiful and attractive book ever offered to Agents. For circulars, with full description, address NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Atlanta, Ga., or Memphis Tenn.

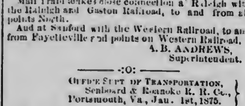
March 11-6m

FROM

HENRY J. BROWN,

Opposite Masonic Hall,

RALEIGH, N. C.,



UNDERTAKER,

Keeps on hand Fisk's Metallic Burial Cases, Self-Sealing Metallic Burial Cases, and Walnut and other Wood Coffins. HEARSE FURNISHED.

Also Dealer in Furniture. Repairing and Varnishing Promptly Executed.

ag 19-tf

$250 A MONTH—Agents wanted everywhere. Business honorable and first class. Particulars sent free. Address J. WORTH & CO., St Louis, Mo.

Sept 16-6m

$5 TO $20 per day! Agents wanted! All classes of working people, of either sex, young or old, making more money at work for us in their spare moments, or all the time, than at anything else. Particulars free. Address G Stinson & Co., Portland, Maine,

Sept 18-12m

A NEW BOOK.

Life, Sermons, and Speeches

OF

Rev. N. F. Reid, D. D.

LATE OF THE

NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

BY HIS SONS

James W. and Frank L. Reid.

A handsome volume of 536 pages.

A fine Steel Engraving of Dr. Reid in each copy.

NOW READY FOR DELIVERY.

BE SURE TO GET A COPY.

Price in Morocco, gilt edge, $3 00.
" " Cloth, 2 00.

Agents wanted to whom liberal commissions will be made. Single copies sent by mail, postage paid, on receipt of retail price.

Address, REV. F. L. REID, Lenoir, N. C.
or JAS. W. REID, Wentworth N. C.

G. T. LEACH, N. Y. M. T. LEACH

Leach Brothers,

WHOLESALE GROCERS

AND

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

SOUTH-EAST CORNER MARKET SQUARE, Raleigh, N. C

Again we take great pleasure in presenting our card and returning thanks to the readers of the ADVOCATE for their very liberal patronage during the past two years, and offer them the largest and best bought stock of Groceries ever offered in any market south of Baltimore, and while just now Beans, Sugars and Lard are very scarce and high, we have made extra effort and feel sure we have succeeded in bringing other goods equally low and intend giving our friends all the advantages gained thereby to counter balance any advance in the few goods named.

We wish to invite especial attention to our select stock of staple Shoes and Boots bought direct from the Factories and offered here AT FIRST PROFITS.

We have now in store:

5,000 lbs. Rio Coffee,
10 Mats old Gov. Java,
10 Bbls. A Sugar,
10 Bbls Ex C Sugar,
10 Bbls. B F Yellow Sugar,
20 Bbls Demerara,
30 Boxes Bulk Sides,
10 " " Shoulders,
50 Kegs English Soda,
1,000 lbs. G. D. and Sole Leather,
100 Sides Upper Leather,
50 " Harness Leather,
100 Cases O store,
50 " Brandy Peaches,
5,000 Yds. Bagging,
6,000 lbs. Ties,
100 Bbls. Super Flour,
100 Bags Assorted Shot,
50 Bbls Extra Flour,
50 Cases Forrester's Crackers,
0 " Soda Crackers,
60 Boxes Factory and Dairy Cheese,
6,000 W. P. and G. D. Gun Caps,
1 Kegs Burden Horse and Mule Shoes,
200 lbs. Horse Shoe Nails,
20 Dozen Best Axes,
50 Boxes Adamantine Candles,
100 Boxes Laundry and Toilet Soaps.

We offer especial inducements to country and near-by merchants, and invite an examination of our stock defy competition

Oct 7 12-m LEACH BROS

L. R. WYATT. B. L. BINGHAM.

Wyatt, Bingham & Co.

Wholesale and Retail Grocers,

COTTON FACTORS

AND GENERAL

Commission Merchants,

No. 4 Market St. and No. 5 Market Exchange,

RALEIGH, N. C.

We tender our many thanks to our several customers and friends for their liberal patronage, and hope to merit a continuance of the same by our strict personal and prompt attention to our business, and by offering to them our large and well selected stock of

BOOTS, SHOES, HATS and CAPS,

Staple Dry Goods,
Cotton Yarns,
Sheetings,
Alamance Plaids, and

General Merchandise,

all of which we guarantee to be as recommended, and to sell at the lowest prices.

OUR GROCERY DEPARTMENT

is complete, and we make FLOUR a specialty and guarantee the lowest prices at retail and wholesale, also the quality to be equal or superior to any offered in the market for the price.

BAGGING and TIES,

SALT and NAILS

always on hand and offered at the lowest market prices.

Consignments solicited, which will receive our prompt and personal attention, and the best prices obtained.

Jan 28-tf

THE JAS. LEFFEL

Double Turbine Water Wheel,

Manufactured by

POOLE & HUNT.

Baltimore, Md.

7,000 NOW IN USE!

Simple, Strong, Durable, always reliable and satisfactory.

Manufacturers also, of Portable & Stationary Engines, Steam Boilers, Saw & Grist Mills, Mining Machine & Gearing for Cotton Mills, Flour, Paint, White Lead and Oil Mill Machinery, Hydraulic and other Presses, &c. Shafting, Pulleys and Hangers a specialty. Machine made Gearing Cut and of very best finish. Send for Circulars.

mch 24-6m.

Williams & Haywood,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN

Drugs, Medicines, Paints, Oils, Dye Stuffs, Perfumery,

Fancy Articles, Garden Seeds, Fine Teas, Spices, Flavoring Extracts.

CIGARS, CHEWING TOBACCO &C.

Keep constantly on hand, at lowest market prices, White Lead, Paris Green, Kerosene Oil, Linseed Oil, Lamp Oil, Turner's Oil, Window Glass, Varnish, &c., &c. Dec 7-12-m

EUCLID BELL FOUNDRY.

Established in 1837.

Superior Bells of Copper and Tin, mounted in the best Rotary H

Raleigh Christian Advocate.

Bobbitt & Gray, Publishers. | Published in the Interests of Methodism in North Carolina. | $2.20 Per Annum, in Advance.

Vol. XXI.---No. 20. | Raleigh, N. C., Wednesday, May 19, 1875. | Whole No. 1,058.

[Selected.]

There's Room Enough in Paradise.

The following beautiful chanson spirituelle, was composed by the famous Judge Longstreet. It is said that being present at a camp-meeting, he heard the touching and plaintive air to which these words are set, sung to some unmeaning doggerel, as is often the case in negro minstrelsy. As he rode home, the tune ringing in his ears, the beautiful hymn as below, crystalized, and he gave it to the world:

Sweet lords may chant melodious lays,
And fame may tell the story;
I envy not their fading praise,
I hope to sing in Glory!
Oh, Glory! Oh, Glory!
There's room enough in Paradise
For all a home in Glory.

Let hammered hosts in mortal strife;
And broidered vestments gory;
Seared laurels buy, with ebbing life,
I seek a crown of Glory!
Oh, Glory! Oh, Glory! etc.

For heaps of gold let others toil,
From blooming years to weary;
Nor rust, corrupt, nor thieves can spoil
My treasured home in Glory!
Oh, Glory! Oh, Glory! etc.

No city have I here, no home,
Where all is transitory;
But the o'er earth I houseless roam,
I have a home in Glory!
Oh, Glory! Oh, Glory! etc.

When near the Cross the Savior stood,
He said, "I go before ye,
A mansion to prepare," that you
May dwell with me in Glory!
Oh, Glory! Oh, Glory! etc.

The conflict of Gethsemane,
In bloody sweat why bore he?
He drank but bitter cup that we Might have a home in Glory!
Oh, Glory! Oh, Glory! etc.

The empurpled robe of mocking scorn,
And crown of thorns, why wore He?
Sin wove that robe, sin grew that thorn,
Yet we may share his Glory!
Oh, Glory! Oh, Glory! etc.

When on the Cross, His gushing blood,
Why did on Calvary pour He?
That grace might wash me in that flood,
And make me meet for Glory!
Oh, Glory! Oh, Glory! etc.

May love refine my heart from dross,
By grace to shout the story:
Then in that robe, that crown, that cross,
I will forever Glory!
Oh, Glory! Oh, Glory!
There's room for all in Paradise,
For all a home in Glory.

Communicated.

For the Advocate.

The Co-Operation of the Laity in the Sunday-School.

The Discipline says: That the preacher shall "engage the co-operation of as many of our members as he can" in this work. The obligation upon the laity to respond to the call of the ministry is weighty, solemn and sacred.

First, the law of the church now makes every one joining the church promise to use his powers and influence in promoting the kingdom of Christ. One of the condition of membership is to continue in doing good of every possible sort, and as far as possible, to all men: to their bodies by giving food to the hungry, clothing to the naked, and visiting the sick;—to their souls, by instructing, reproving, or exhorting all we have any interest with; trampling under foot that enthusiastic doctrine, that "we are not to do good unless our hearts be free to it." Here we see that the law of christian usefulness is laid upon every member of the church. Yet how few ever feel the power of this law, or act in obedience to its Scriptural demands! There is nothing so lamentable in the Methodist Church of this day as the unused, latent, slumbering talents among its members. There are some churches where the pew holders surpass the pulpit in activity and christian usefulness, but in the Methodist the pulpit is the throne of all power. The few preachers are expected to organize and run the whole machinery of the church. But it is utterly impossible for the swarming youthful population of this country to be instructed by the ministry. The work is too immense. The militia of the church must be called into the field, armed and drilled, to fight the grand battle of the Sunday-school cause. All the members of the church are called to teach the gospel in the Sabbath school. The judge, the lawyer, the physician, the mechanic, the farmer, the young clerk, the maiden, the father and mother, are called to this noble work. "My son, go work in my vineyard to-day," is as clear a call as any minister ever had to preach the gospel. There are thousands in our midst, having ability and experience, who are all hands in the church. They are like granaries full of seed corn, not one grain of which is scattered upon the rich soil of the youthful population. Children grope in darkness around them, but their candle is hid under a bushel. The land is parched and athirst, but they are clouds without rain. The enemy of souls with his legion and banners of victory crowds down upon us, captures the children and desolates the beautiful altars of Zion, but these hero soldiers of the Cross sapinely sleep in their tents, hearing not the trumpet call of the preachers, nor hearing the thundering conflict going on in their midst. Was the bugle call of Isaiah ever so pertinent as it is to day? "Awake, awake; put on thy strength, O Zion; put on thy beautiful garments, O Jerusalem." "Awake to righteousness and sin not; for some have not knowledge of God. I speak this to your shame." Is it not a burning shame upon you to allow so many children to wander about in total ignorance of the Bible, where you could so easily gather them in and instruct them in the enlightening truths of religion? Do you still persist in saying: "I have no call to the work?" Is it not a call that you have the ability to teach? Is not a call that your services are needed? Is it not a call that the church demands your influence? Why have you not a call? You are like one putting his fingers in his ears and saying, "I do not hear anything. Jonah had a call, but it required a storm to wake him up to a sense of its responsibility.—The times need your work,—the church says, 'come and help.'

Secondly, look at the good you may do in staying the tide of infidelity now flooding the land. Men are busy in trying to abolish the faith of the world in the inspiration of the Bible When this foundation stone is removed then the grand temple of Divine truth falls Strauss has written to sap the foundation of faith in the miracles. Renan endeavors to turn the life of Jesus into an oriental romance. Lyell has attempted to prove the book of Genesis to be radically untrue. Darwin finds no other creator than progressive development—Herbert Spencer has deposed the Almighty from the throne of universal government. Spiritualism is spreading its subtle poison abroad. The plausible heresy of universalism is having free course over the land.—The printing press is throwing off by the million these faith destroying publications, and the mails are carrying them to every nook, corner, and rural district of the land. They are being eagerly seized, read and believed. The great battle is going on, and we must call the reserves of the laity to the front in order to make a successful resistance. And the best method of success is to pre occupy the ground by so instructing the children as to have them rooted and grounded in the truths of the Bible. The Sunday-school shields them from these fiery darts. A speaker address ing a society in New York organized to propagate infidelity, said: "We never can succeed until we get the children out of the Sunday-schools and under our influence." A Catholic bishop said, that "Romanism would take America when it obtained the power of educating the children." John Randolph said, "that he would have been wrecked in the dark sea of French infidelity but for the early Bible instruction of his christian mother." Against all this array of skepticism, we must erect the Sunday school battery. Against all this darkness, we must unveil the bright sun of righteousness. The best argument against atheism, pantheism, positivism, and all other isms, is to lead the children into the kingdom of experimental Christianity. Then they will believe in the Bible because it is a shining light to their feet and a lamp to their path. They will believe in prayer because it is a channel bringing divine love into their hearts. They will believe in Christ because they have experienced his pardoning mercy. They will believe in the gospel just as men believe in bread that satisfies and nourishes them, just as men believe in medicine that cures them, just as men believe in the sun when it shines in brightness around them, and they feel his warming beams thawing them into life and activity.—The grand remedy to all forms of infidelity is experimental religion. I have thought it necessary to make this appeal to the lay brethren, for they have not yet waked up to their responsibility on this subject. The complaint comes up from all parts of our work, that the preachers cannot enlist the general co-operation of the laity in this work. In a membership of fifty thousand, we have only about three thousand Sunday-school teachers in the whole bounds of the Conference. The Minutes put down 3,395—a decrease of 331 from last year's report. This gives only 16 teachers to every thousand members, or about 1 teacher out of every sixty members. Now, dropping off a large per cent of this number, who cannot be teachers by reason of old age, lack of qualification, and other hindrances, yet then it must appear to all, that a vast amount of our lay talent lies buried in shameful idleness. This very large reserve of unused power in the church remains to be brought into active work, and what more fruitful field for it than the Sabbath school?

H. T. Hudson.

(To be Continued.)

An advertisement in the Washington Star reads: "If you want to be well dressed wear a Warwick collar; and have your boots blacked." It must be warm weather at the capital to admit of such a wardrobe.—Boston Post.

For the Advocate.

Revivals—No. 1.

From the earliest days of Christian ity religious influence has swept over communities in waves, so that there is some resemblance between the operations of the spiritual and the natural world. Our atmosphere is sometimes denominated calm, windy, or stormy, according to the waves that are passing, or the absence of waves altogether. The seas lash the beach by waves, that burst in "foaming thunders on the shelving shore." Vegetation has its times of leaf and blossom, and its times of apparent rest. The blood carries its life sustaining influence to all parts of the animal frame by waves. Nature seems to do all its work by impulses, and God's order seems to be the same in the spiritual as in the natural world.

The first great wave of Christian influence recorded, after the ascension of Christ, was that of the day of Pentecost, when the excitement was so great that the Christians were accused of being "drunk with wine." Some time after this event we find the preaching of Paul and his colaborers in Asia minor attended with the most powerful results, so much so that in one instance it was said, the city was in an uproar. It is a very noteworthy description of Barnabas, that, "he was a good man, and full of the Holy Ghost and of faith: and much people was added to the Lord." Something like a great tidal wave of spiritual influence accompanied the preaching of Paul, Silas and Barnabas -there was an uproar.

Such awakenings are in these latter times called revivals. Bad men and formalists have in all cases repudiated those great outbursts of religious influence. Luther and his colaborers felt the baneful effects of influential opposition to sudden and powerful awakenings. D'Anbigne says, "The reformation had to fight three enemies, Priest Craft, Rationalism and the reveries of enthusiasts." The same may be said of the awakenings of the present time.

At no time, since the great commission was given, to "preach the gospel to every creature," have skeptics and formalists been more active in their opposition than at present. While one class have been trying to prove, from scientific demonstration, that all spiritual influence is a myth, and accounted for by the caprice of weak and unballanced minds, another class bewails such movements upon the grounds, that it is a perversion of truth by the overwrought immaginations of fanatical temperaments.

In the year 1874 a wave of religious influence was set in motion, and the year 1875 shows early signs that this wave is rising higher, and is likely to sweep forward with a power, over the nations of the earth, that will bring the grandest results to the Church of God. The times are pregnant with the signs of what is coming. While true Christians rejoice at the prospect, bad men and formalists are alarmed, and coalesce to strangle the work by every possible means of argument and contemptuous epithet.

The London 'World' calls Moody and Sankey, "blasphemers and dangerous impostors," while 'Punch' suggests that they should join a circus. The New York 'World' seems to en joy such criticisms, and gives aid in pulling down revivals, by writing a long editorial to show the chances of evil resulting from such meetings. Of course it is predicted that the great body of these suddenly reformed people go back to a life more wicked than at first. High church pulpits hurl their anathemas, and Irish Catholics throw stones at the attendants of revival meetings.

Outraged convictions are always furious, and we may expect to see the opposition culminate in brute force in more places than the Irish quarters in Liverpool. But these are all hope ful signs, for wild beasts seldom quit their favorite jungle until overcome by the fury of the occasion, which state of feeling is announced by a roar of defiance.

In the mean time all true Christians become more united, and a union of prayers and praises will not shake the earth from centre to circumference, and wake the slumbering nations to a sense of their duty. Let the pulpit and the press pre, are for the storm; for when the battle is fought, and the storm is over, the skies will be clear, and the true church of God will be wrapped in a halo of glory, and the corruscations of victory will distinguish her banners from the torn rags of defeat that float over the heads of her enemies.

E. L. P.

(To be Continued.)

Dr. Miller says: "The system of Romanism is throughout, a system of tyranny on the part of the priest hood, and an abject submission and servitude on the part of the people. It is a fixed enemy to civil and religious liberty in every form. It denies and takes away the right of conscience. It prohibits the people from reading the Scriptures in their vernacular tongue, and judging for themselves what the inspired oracles teach.

For the Advocate.

The Open Door.

The life of a coaster is a dangerous one, and is attended with many perplexities, but is not so magnanimous as that of the mariner who sails over the trackless waters of the briny deep itself. Example has had, in all ages, much to do in shaping the conduct of men. By pursuing the course of conduct marked out by another for a time it becomes a habit, and a habit once formed has much to do in relation to the future of men in this life, and consequently with his ultimate destiny. It is a singular fact that so few men try, at once and with might, to far excel their exemplars. Leaving example out of the question, it is remarkable that so few persons desire to move onward far in advance of their contemporaries pursuing the same calling or profession. True there are differences in men of the same craft, and this may be natural, or acquired, or both, but how seldom used as a legitimate means to entitle them to the "roll of honor." Men need something as a prestige in order to do much good. Especially do they need it in order to do valiant service in the noblest cause that en gages the minds and hearts of men. The door to the minister of the gospel is wide and opens out to fields white and inviting.

That there is a tardiness to thrust in need not be argued. There is a hesitancy in crossing the Bar, so to speak, and launching out into the deep. This is clear to every observer. Why is this? Some view it in the light of an absurdity that much more can be done than is already accomplished. Hence no onward move ment—satisfied with doing what others have done and no more. Some times contented with less than that, presuming that there will be no reflection upon their character. This may be. And there may be no reflection from their character.

Others contend that it would not look well to be ahead. While they may see no reason against the probabilities of such a move they would not like to be forerunners lest some should deride. An unwillingness to put forth laudable efforts in order to surpass others in the ministry—to stand singly and alone, if need be, if others are not of the same mind, may be alleged as the chief cause why so few are eminently bright and shining lights in the world. The origin of the matter lies, no doubt, in the depravity of the human heart creating a stupid ity that sickens before engaging in any extraordinary gospel work.

To work by rule, as every itinerant minister is required to do, is the surest way to a glorious success. That he does not succeed is to say that he does not perform his duty. For want of diligence to perform what is prescribed, or the performance of a part and then something else, irrelevant to him as a man of one work, is vastly detrimental to his success. Look what an opening there is to day in the bounds of the North Carolina Conference for the accomplishment of a great work that shall cause the ears of them that hear to tingle—a work wide spread, terrible and all-glorious to behold. How few care! How few crowd the way, and as they go cry, "Ho, every one that thirsteth, come!" There are now many who but seldom hear the gospel preached, yet these with a little pains-taking could easily be reached. An extra sermon occasionally where there has been a "famine of the word"—a visit or a short call from a minister would be highly appreciated, and set in motion an influence that might result in the conversion of many souls.

I fear too many ministers have too much regard for their own comfort ever to arrive at anything above mediocrity. There is a time in the life of every earnest public servant of God, if he nourishes his gift, when he will rise above every thing that allures him from his appropriate work, and his sole aim shall be at the chief good. His energies shall be bent on a work that shall extract shouts of praises to God from great and small all over the field he carefully cultivates.

D. C. Johnson.

Hickory Slope, N. C., May 6th, 1875.

For the Advocate.

Messrs. Editors: I have been much entertained during the long and inclement winter and spring by reading the Advocate. You seem to be awakening a deep interest among all classes of writers and readers, from the able and logical Dr. Closs down through all the ranks of the church, even to the tender freshness of childhood. The moral selections have been of a pure and exalted type, while the original articles have been flowing from able and astute minds and would grace the columns of the "Grand Central," to use the language of another. The Religious Brevities, General News, Local Items, etc., etc., have been full of interest, to say nothing of information imported. You ought to have a good paper. Your experience is enlarging constantly, and then you are growing "Gray" too, to some extent. Hope you may never diminish in size or interest. I have been much hindered from my work by storms, floods of water and wretched roads; now and then by the shivering produced by malarial influences on the corporeal structure, but the Dr.'s "say never mind, the system is throwing off the malaria," hence the shaking—They know, I guess, so I'll try to bear it patiently, if not steadily, but despite all of these drawbacks, now and then the skies brighten and "heaven's ethereal bow, which spans with bright arch the glittering hills below', tells of a more pleasing future, full of promised joys.

My 2nd Quarterly Meeting has passed. It was held last Saturday and Sunday, May 1st and 2nd, at Chatham Church, a time-honored structure, situated among the hills, South west of Pittsboro. I find scrawled about on the pulpit and the ceiling the names of A. S. Andrews, James Reid, R. T. Heflin, John Rich, P. W. Archer. What a train of reflections is started up by these; how much might be gathered up from these old pulpits for the N. C. Conference Historical Society! Brother Hendren, the P. E., was with us in good time on Saturday,—preached us a capital sermon, rich in unctuous power; his subject the Syrophenician woman's prayer. It was well handled and skillfully applied. Had a fine attendance of the official board, not usual. The 2nd Quarterly Meeting had quite an interesting time discussing Sunday-schools and matters pertaining to the concentrating of churches. On the latter some rich things were brought out; how mind reacts upon mind. The P. C. made a short speech for the Raleigh Christian Advocate—got some money—more to come yet. We have our next Quarterly Meeting at Pittsboro. We shall have the District Conference in connection with it. We shall also expect the editorial corps of the Advocate.—Saturday closed upon us, dark and stormy, but night fled and with it went the clouds and the Sabbath broke upon us serene and glorious as if to pay nature for its weeping and raving in the storm of the night; the birds from tree-trops poured upon us a gush of song that made the "tense chords of the heart quiver." Arriving at Church we found a large and devout congregation waiting with songs upon their lips for the ministration of the word. The P. E. preached us a rich, warm, gospel sermon. Subject—the Wisdom that comes from God and its effects and fruits. The congregation glowed with religious warmth under the sermon, while through the crystal of tears, faith could realize something of wisdom's costly merchandize. The 2d service was devoted wisely and appropriately to the administration of the Lord's Supper. The broad, catholic invitation of our Church brought crowds of earnest communicants to the altar. It was a time of joyous power. Zion seemed to be moving under the "banner of love." We expect visible, living results from this occasion. May God be with us in great power! You must lend us the genial presence of the Advocate at our coming District Conference. You shall have a good home and not a very long walk. God be with you!

Fraternally,

C. C. Dodson.

Pittsboro, May 4th, 1875.

Special Providence.

A REMARKABLE ILLUSTRATION.

BY T. S. DOOLITTLE, D. D.

During the late civil war there lived in a Western town a widow lady whom, for the sake of convenience, we will call Mrs. A——. This lady had a claim of several thousand dollars against the Government, which was unexpectedly paid on a certain day. Now it so happened that her son, who resided a considerable distance away, took a fancy to visit his mother on this very day. This fancy was quite strange, inasmuch as he was accustomed to go home only at regular intervals, and this was not one of those intervals; nor was he aware of the fact that any money had been paid to his mother. His fancy, however, had seized him rather late in the afternoon, and so he just lost the train in which he usually went. It is important to note this; because on the next train, which he took, his attention was exceptionally attracted by two rough-looking individuals. He felt impelled, somehow, to observe their movements, and to speculate upon their characters and possible business Upon arriving at the station, he started for home; but on thinking how far the night had advanced, and fearing that his sudden appearance might painfully surprise his mother, he changed his mind and brought up at the village hotel. Here he was not a little interested to find that the two ugly-looking customers he had observed so curiously on the cars were seeking rooms for the night. The more he thus saw of them the more his suspicions were aroused, until he was forced to the uneasy conclusion that they were bent upon mischief; and now for the first time the thought flashed through his mind that possibly his mother had received the money about which both he and she had been so anxious. And the thought became so absorbing and intense that he did not feel like retiring after he had been shown to his room. This room was on the ground floor, and he judged from the movements heard above that the two suspicious looking customers had a room directly over his own. Having determined that they would bear watching, he sat waiting in the darkness, with the disturbed feeling or half assured expectation that the night would not pass without an adventure. Nor did he watch and wait in vain. After sufficient time had elapsed for every one in the hotel to fall asleep, he heard cautious noises proceeding from the floor above, and pretty soon was thoroughly startled by discovering that his two car companions were now descending to the ground, in a most stealthily manner of course, by means of the piazza columns, out upon which looked the window of his own chamber. Instantly the fear that his own home might be the objective point of their plundering mission, and that the life of his mother might be endangered, shot through his soul like a revelation from above, as indeed the Christian is bound to believe it was. He sprang from the hotel, and rushing "across lots" arrived at the back door of his mother's house in time to gain entrance before the rascally strangers, following a circuitous route, appeared at the front gate. Hastily acquainting his startled mother with his suspicions, and learning from her that she had actually the money in hand, he snatched a gun which he had left loaded in the house, and stationed himself by the front window. Nor was he a moment too soon in his place. Presently a loud knocking at the front door was heard. Mrs. A—— was instructed to keep the door shut, but to inquire what was wanted. The strangers replied that they had lost their way, and asked for lodging. Mrs. A—— directed them to the tavern. They persisted that they were hungry and wanted something to eat, if they could not have lodging. Upon being refused, they bluntly commanded her to open the door, or they would break it down and take her life; and hereupon the son of Mrs. A—— fired. But, alas! his arm was too nervous to do deadly execution. The shot took indeed, partial effect in the limb of one of the scoundrels, but not sufficient to keep them from escaping. The house, however, had not been robbed, the widow had been guarded, and her fortune preserved.

And now what believer in God can fail to see the remarkable chain of special providences by which the murderous plunderers had been thwarted, and the home of the widow protected? How came the son of Mrs. A——to be seized with the sudden impulse to visit home; how came he to lose, by a few seconds, the first train; how came he to enter the same car in which the ugly-looking customers sat; how came he to fix his attention on them so inquiringly; how came he to change his intention, fetching up thus at the hotel after all in stead of his own home; how came he to be placed by the landlord where he could not help seeing the villains in the act of climbing down the columns; how came he to fear and spring for his mother?—all these were links in the providential chain by which the Disposer of all events drew the widow that trusted in Him out of danger, and made her to rejoice in His loving kindness. And this is not fiction, but a simple narration of facts by one who can vouch for their unvarnished accuracy.—Christian at Work.

Three Hints Worth Taking.

1. Never attempt to do any thing that is not right. Just so surely as you do, you will get into trouble. Sin always brings sorrow sooner or later. If you even suspect that any thing is wicked, do it not until you are sure that your suspicions are groundless.

2. When you do attempt any thing that is right, go through with it. But not easily discouraged. Form habits of perseverance. Yield not to sloth and sleep and and fickleness. To resist all these will not be easy, but you will feel that you have done right when you get through.

3. Do not waste your money. Perhaps you have very little. Then take the more care of it. Besides helping to spread the Gospel, buy some good books and read them well. A good book is one of the best things in the world. If you can not buy as many as you need, borrow from others and return them safe and sound. Never let a book lie where it may be injured.—Sunday school Visitor.

Dry-Good Christians.

There seems to be in the churche a great strife raging. It is an Austerlitz of ribbons. The carnage of color is seen all over our religious assemblages. Along on the outskirts of the Sabbath audiences you see, here and there, a picket of fashion. But down in the middle of the church are the solid columns, blazing away all through the service. Five hundred "broken and contrite hearts" covered up in rainbows and spangles. Followers of the "meek and lowly Nazarene" all a jingle and a-flash. Ten cents for the missionary cause, and two hundred and fifty dollars for trappings. Church of God hung by the neck with gold chains, diamond locketed. Unsophisticated person travelling on two yards of silk, dragged by the lady going up the aisle in front of him. Diamonds enough to give all India the Gospel. The item of dress among Christian people on the Sabbath day is an outrage on the Christian religion.

For grace ful apparel we have admiration But this strife in Christian circles as to who shall excel in costly millinery, and who shall dash up to the church door in gayest turn-out, and who shall make the most blazonment of wardrobe, is one of the great hindrances to religious advancement Our ladies' bats and shawls are so fine that on rainy days we are afraid to go to church, lest we get a drop on them. Our head gear is worth more than our souls We teeter and swagger up the aisle, to the disgust of good men and the grief of angels. Enough money is expended by the Christians of our city, in excess of the requisite outlay for dress, to relieve all the poverty, and educate all the ignorance, and balk all the crime. Much of the piety of our churches is being smothered under shirred basques and jabot ruffles and Louisues Some of our Christian gentlemen have boots so tight they can hardly walk in pathes of righteousness, and they feel in church more like swearing than praying, because their corns hurt; and our Christian women shut out the sun of righteousness by twenty-dollar parasols, lace-trimmed, silk-lined, silver-mounted. The poor are kept out of church because their plain apparel looks so bad in the contrast.

We want a great ecclesiastical reformation in this matter of Sabbath accoutrement. Shoo these religious peacocks out of the house of God. By your example make subdued and modest costume more popular than gaudy apparel. Do not put so much dry goods on your back that you cannot climb into glory. You cannot sail into the harbor of heaven with such a rigging as that. They would level their guns at you as being a blockade runner—Coming up to the celestial door, the gate keeper would cry, "Halt! you cannot go in with such regimentals." And as you answered, "I got those jewels from Tiffany' and that dress from Arnold and Constable, and those shoes from Bemis" the gate keeper would say to one of the attendants, "Take this soul down to one of the "out-houses and tear off those puffs and ruffles, and knife-pleatings and Hamburg embroideries, and put on her more appropriate Sunday attire; for, going in as she now is, all heaven would burst out a laughing!"—Talmage in Christian at Work.

Concerning Ruts.

The Church is divided into two parties. The Ruts and the Anti-Ruts. The former are in favor of driving along in just the way that all the preceding religious vehicles have gone. They want ministers to run their sermons along the same established grooves, and their prayers. Anything new in manner or modes is frightful. They say, "Who ever heard of such a thing? My father and my grandfather and my great-grandfather never did. These young fellows are disorganizers and iconoclasts Their front wheels have got out of the ruts. Pull these innovators off of the box They are not fit to drive. By some strong ecclesiastical pry let us get the clerical wagon down up to the hubs in the old crevices."

But the Anti-Ruts would rather be out than in the old grooves. Yet they want to be sure that they are on the right road. It is the terminus they are looking after, not so much the way of reaching it They have rougher riding than those who keep in the ruts. The vehicle sometimes bounces fearfully—Obstacles are apt to be thrown in their way. These persons get now and then a sound jolt; but that is good for dyspepsia. Besides, roughnesses in the road are apt to keep a man wide awake and observant of the scenery. The University of Hard Knocks graduates the best scholars. The Anti-Ruts can more easily change their course if they desire so to do. We like them better than their antagonists. We see no reason why a sermon should have the stereotyped three heads when one head, or ten heads, would be more convenient and effective; nor why they should begin with an exordium preparing an audience for a discourse, if they happen to be already prepared; nor of postponing the application of a sermon to the close, if you feel like making a running application; nor of sticking to stale modes of illustrating truth, when you know of something else that will shake the people up more effectively; nor why a Church should be conducted like all other Churches, when you think you have a better plan. Three cheers for the Anti-Ruts.

Let us say to young men that their safety depends in never starting in the old grooves. Get once in the regular ruts, and you cannot get out without breaking the shafts, or twisting the tire off the wheel. We have seen teamsters by the quarter of an hour trying to get the carts out of the old track; and the horses sweated, and the driver lost his patience. If a young man starts in the rut at eighteen, he will be in the rut at eighty. An old fogy at twenty-one is fearful. He is an Egyptian mummy, fit only for the shelf of a museum and to be laid away amid fossiliferous specimens.—Talmage in Christian at Work.

Conversation.

Among home amusements the best is the good old habit of conversation, the talking over events of the day, the bright and quick play of wit and fancy, the story which brings the laugh, and the speaking the good and kind and true things, which all have in their hearts. It is not so much by dwelling upon what members of the family have in common, as by bringing each to the other something interesting and amusing, that home life is to be made cheerful and joyous. Each one must do his part to make conversation genial and happy. We are too ready to converse with newspapers and books, to seek some companion at the store, hotel, and club-room, and forget that home is anything more than a place to sleep and eat in. The revival of conversation, the entertainment of one another, as a roomful of people will entertain themselves, is one secret of a happy home. Wherever it is wanting, disease has struck into the root; there is a want which is felt with increasing force as time goes on. Conversation in many cases is just what prevents many people from relapsing into utter selfishness at their firesides. This conversation should not simply occupy husband and wife, and other older members of the family but extend itself to the children. Parents should be careful to talk with them, to enter into their life, to share their trifles, to assist in their studies, to meet them in the thoughts and feelings of their childhood. It is a great step in education, when around the evening lamp are gathered the different members of a large family, sharing their occupations with one another, the older assisting the younger, each one contributing to the entertainment of the other, and all feeling that the evening had passed only too rapidly away. This is the truest and best amusement. It is the healthy education of great and noble characters. There is the freedom, the breadth, the joyousness of natural life. The time spent thus by parents, in the higher entertainment of their children, bears a harvest of eternal blessing, and these winter evenings furnish just the time—Churchman.

How Often May We Eat.

It has been demonstrated that, at certain intervals, when food is received into the stomach, gastric juice is secreted to digest it, and that no more gastric juice is secreted than is required for the digestion of the proper quantity of food.

If a person eats twice or thrice at day, at regular periods, the gastric juice is secreted by the stomach to digest the food it has received. If, while the food is being digested, more food is introduced into the stomach, its relation to the food already in the stomach, is arrested. For instance, a person takes in the morning, a piece of bread and several potatoes; now, it will take about three hours for the stomach to dispose of that food. Suppose the person, about an hour after eating this food, takes a piece of bread and an apple or two: what would happen? The digestion that was going on in the stomach would immediately stop, and be resumed until the food that was received last was brought into the condition of the first. Suppose he took food every hour, what would be the consequence? The stomach would become prematurely worn out, and could do nothing perfectly—working all the time without rest. But if the person possessed a good constitution and a large amount of vital power, he would not feel, at first, this drain upon his system, but sooner or later he would have to pay the penalty of outraged nature. Some persons have an enormous amount of vitality—good constitutions. It is said of these persons, nothing hurts them; they can eat and drink any thing with impunity. This is a fatal mistake.—Science of Health.

The Christian Advocate.

OFFICE - Corner of Dawson & Hargett Sts

THE ORGAN
OF THE
NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE
OF THE
M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

Rev. J. B. Babbitt, } Editors.
R. T. Gray, Esq. }

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

If paid in advance, postage paid,	$2.00
If not paid, " "	1.35
If payment be delayed six months,	2.70

All letters on business with this office should be addressed to the Editors of the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

RALEIGH, N. C., MAY 19, 1875.

The Cross (X) Mark is to remind you that your subscription has expired. Let all renew promptly.

Anxiety for the Future.

Anxiety about future results should never distract our attention from the surrounding sphere of duty, nor despoil us of the enjoyment of present blessings. The future brings with it its duties and responsibilities, and our best plans and endeavors and our greatest anxiety cannot free us from meeting the issues of life as they come upon us. Anxious care for to morrow is too often exercised in regard to the contingencies of life, or what may come to pass. This is the commonest field of human anxiety. There is no condition of wealth or honor which is permanent in this revolving wheel of changing fortune. As civilization advances, anxieties and responsibilities increase, and when one member of society suffers, all members of such society are affected by it. When the lightening flashes in the East, its light shines in the West.

When misfortune overtakes a man, his mind is apt to run back through a series of years and events, and he sometimes imagines that if he had done this or that, the misfortune or affliction would not have come upon him. Such complaints are quite common, and they savor strongly of murmurings against Providence. No human eye can penetrate the future. No human prudence can tell the effect of one glance of the eye, one uttered syllable, one forward or backward step. No one can tell what drifting current of the atmosphere shall seize upon the floating object when it has gone from our hand. The very shelter we fly to from the storm may expose us to the crashing thunderbolt. Men desire to penetrate the future and see and know what is in store for them, but a kind and gracious providence wisely conceals all this from the eye and from the understanding. The field of future possibilities is boundless, and things of weightiest moment must remain hidden.

If at last the "fine web is woven," and every thread fitted to its place, the soul trembles lest some breath of wind shall move the outermost thread. The image of anxious care moulded by divine grace looks back upon the past, and says, 'I might have done this or that:' it looks forward to the future, and makes itself responsible for the plans of omniscient wisdom. The dove of peace never alights upon its aching brow, and the fountain of a serene bliss never wells up in the throbbing breast. But he who obeys the teaching of Jesus will perform the present duty as the will of the Father. It is ever before him and he accepts it willingly and cheerfully. If God's will be obeyed he has no fears of the future. His only fear is that perchance his own intermingling of wishes and selfish desires may mar the beautiful texture of the great divine artist. The christian man would not voluntarily make an arbitrary choice of events to suit his own desires, even if it were possible for him so to choose. Each moment of life brings with it duties and responsibilities. Our chief concern then is to live right - to "love God and keep his commandments," and not to let our minds be distracted by the events hid in the future. We should strive to meet life's duties through strength Divine, with serene self possession—fixedness of purpose—vigor of will, and then will our troubles and temptations flee like mists before the rising of the sun.

We learn from Bro. Yates, Presiding Elder of the Newbern District that the recent session of the District Conference at Mount Olive was a very interesting occasion. The attendance was good, the preaching likewise and much good was accomplished. We suppose we will receive un official account of the Conference from Rev. J. P. Simpson, the Secretary.

We are glad to say that our request that the ministers in charge of circuits and stations would urge the interests of the Advocate, has been granted in many instances. We have received many orders for renewals and a gratifying number of new subscribers. Keep the ball moving!

For good sense, good taste and kindly spirit commend us to the man who, seeing the cross mark on his paper, says: "I see that ugly cross mark on my Advocate. Stop it immediately —that is, the cross mark, not the paper, for the latter I cannot dispense with. Herewith find $2 20 to lift the cross." Such a man will do.

In the acknowledgment in last issue of the Advocate, of the funds contributed by parties outside of Raleigh to Person Street Church, we unintentionally omitted the donation of $10 by our young friend Julius S. Carr, Esq. of the firm of W. T. Blackwell & Co., of Durham.

We Sound a Truce.

Following the suggestion of many friends of the Advocate and the request of others, as well as our own ideas of the propriety of the step, we have concluded to close our columns against the further discussion of the questions raised by Bro. Robey's articles which appeared last October, on "The Curse of Blood." We have for some time wished that the controversy would close without resort being had to this action on our part. There were indications at one time that the contestants were about to "turn their swords into ploughshares and their spears into pruning hooks," but the prospect was delusive. The war would continue to be waged, we know not how long, did we not interpose with kindly hand and voice and exclaim, mildly but firmly, "Let us have peace!"

We are not unmindful of, and no little gratified at, the fact that the discussion has been carried on, in the main, with good feeling, and has exhibited much learning, astuteness and polemical strength on the part of all the controversialists. In saying this we are sure we utter the opinion and feeling of the great majority of our readers. But we are equally sure that we are endorsed in the opinion that the controversy has proceeded far enough. The discussion has had wide range and the ground has been fully occupied. What good there was to be accomplished has already resulted from the controversy, and the further continuance of it would, we fear, be only a trial of strength between the contestants as polemics, which we have no disposition to encourage. The discussion has occupied, in space, more than seventy columns of the Advocate - in time, more than seven months. Were we convinced that even a large minority of the readers of the Advocate were intensely interested in the controversy we would, perhaps, keep our columns open; but we have assurances from all directions that such is not the case.

We trust that our action will not be misconstrued by any one, or be thought unkind, for we certainly do not intend it to be so. We act in all kindness, and as neither of the Macbeths nor McDuffs shows any signs of quailing, we are forced by the appalling sight of flowing ink to cry in the interest of peace and humanity, "Hold, enough!"

We would be glad to have the brethren who have written so ably upon this question, to furnish articles for the Advocate on other subjects, feeling assured that their contributions would be highly appreciated by our readers.

We were pleased to welcome into our sanctum, on Saturday morning, Rev. V. A. Sharpe, the energetic agent of Trinity College, who was en route to Oxford. He is looking well and is in fine spirits.

Rev. A. W. Maugum, who has been absent from the city for some time, returned last week and occupied his pulpit on Sunday. We are glad to know that the injuries he and his family sustained, referred to in our last, were not of a serious character.

Rev. J. J. Renn, in charge of Durham Station, made us a visit the past week. From him we learn that our Methodist people at Durham contemplate building a large and elegant brick Church at that place at no distant day.

As will be seen from the Plan of Episcopal visitation published in an other column, Bishop McTyeire will hold the next annual Conference of our Church in North Carolina, which meets on the 1st of December. Bishop McTyeire is distinguished for his fine executive ability and thorough knowledge of ecclesiastical law and will receive a welcome from our people.

Rev. L. J. Holden writing from Toisnot, under date of May 13th, says: "The meeting at this place closed Sunday night, having lasted four (4) weeks, resulting in over sixty conversions and fifty-four (54) accessions to the Church."

BISHOP PAINE.—The latest from this venerable and beloved man of God is from the Nashville Advocate of the 8th.

"Dr. Murrah writes us, Aberdeen, April 30: 'I think Bishop Paine was a little better a few hours ago when I last saw him, but liable to drop back any moment. Condition very critical; I think the days of his effectiveness are past.'"

The New York Conference of the M. E Church, and the Presbytery of New York, each at their recent sessions passed resolutions most emphatically protesting against appropriating the public money to the support of Roman Catholic or other sectarian schools. These resolutions were sent to the Board of Education of New York City.

NOTICE.

Arrangements have been made on the Seaboard & Roanoke R. R. and on the Blackwater Steamship Line, to pass and repass Delegates and visitors to the Washington District Conference, in Plymouth, for one fare.

Parties from the upper part of the District should buy through tickets, in Weldon, with this understanding.

Members of the Conference coming by private conveyance will report at the "Latham House," to be assigned to their homes: those by Steamer will be met at the wharf.

W. S ROSE.

Plymouth, May 13th, 1875.

Memorial Day

It is a beautiful custom that the people of the South have for the last ten years observed, (and which we trust will never be omitted), of devoting one day in the year to the commemoration of the virtues of our noble Southern dead, and of decorating their graves with the first and freshest flowers of spring. If victors, whose objects have been attained and whose hearts are full of the pride of conquest; whose banners wave from the turrets and strongholds of the crushed and fallen, and whose country waits to crown their return with garlands and feasts and strains of triumph, may raise the shaft of clear cut marble and inscribe thereon the history of their battles and success, surely it cannot be wrong or claiming too much, for the defeated, who have lost all, to gather in the consecrated cities of the dead, to talk of the hopes which once were bright, to weave the cypress wreath and deck the plain pine boards which show where lies the valor that deserved success but met defeat. If there be one who objects surely it is only he whose craven heart never felt the warm impulse of chivalry, whose arm never aided in planting the tree of victory whose fruits he seeks to enjoy and whose spirit can claim no kinship with what is high and noble, magnanimous and good. The custom of observing "Memorial Day" is now an established one in the South and is every year growing more popular

The writer happened in Fayetteville on Monday the 10th inst., where the ceremonies were imposing and interesting and engaged in by a large gathering of the refined people of the patriotic and noble old town.

The Military companies marched to the Seminary, on Hay Street, where a large concourse of people had assembled to witness the presentation of a beautiful and costly flag to the La Fayette Light Infantry, donated by the people of Fayetteville. Col. J. W. Hinsdale made the presentation speech and was responded to by Mr. J. H. Myrover, of the Gazette, on behalf of the company. The procession moved thence to the cemetery where after prayer by Rev. Mr. Hill, Maj. Jas. McRae pronounced one of the most tasteful, timely and beautiful addresses we have ever listened to on such an occasion. The military companies fired several salutes over the graves of fallen heroes, after which the ladies strewed the mounds with a wealth of flowers. As the procession moved along Hay Street, we noticed that nearly all of the stores were closed, black crape hanging in graceful festoons over the doors and windows.

In Raleigh on the 12th, the Military and Fire companies turned out in force, the Artillery firing salutes during the afternoon. The procession formed at the east gate of the capitol and marched to the cemetery, the Band playing Bethoven's beautiful "Spirit March" and other appropriate airs. On the Memorial Mound was gathered a choir of singers who chanted several appropriate and touching odes. Rev. Mr. Rich, of the Episcopal Church, offered a prayer, and Capt. Sam. A. Asbo delivered the oration of the day. Among other tasty decorations, the most noticeable, at least in the eyes of the writer, was a beautiful bouquet, formed in the shape of badge of the Zeta Psi fraternity, made by the always deft hands of Miss P and placed by heron the monument which has recently been erected to the memory of H. K. Burgwyn, who was killed at the age of 22 years, being one of the youngest and most gallant colonels in the Confederate service.

Meeting of the Board of Trust of the Vanderbilt University.

The Board of Trust of the Vanderbilt University held its annual meeting in Nashville, May 3d and 4th. There were present, Bishop McTyeire, President of the Board; Dr. R A Young, Dr D C Kelley, Judge E H East, Col D T Reynolds, Rev W C Johnson, Dr S W Moore, Hon R J Morgan, Hon L Q C Lamar, Dr C D Oliver, Dr A R Winfield. The following were elected Vice Presidents: Hon E H East, Hon R J Morgan, Hon W B Wood, Hon L Q C Lamar, A R Wingfield, D. D., Rev Geo A Dannelly, Hon W W Floyd, R A Young, D. D., was re-elected Secretary and Financial Agent. D Weaver, Esq., was re elected Treasurer. The Executive Committee consists of Bishop McTyeire, R A Young, D. D., D C Kelley, D.D., Hon E H East, and Col D T Reynolds. The Chair of Geology, Mineralogy, Zoology, and Botany, was filled by the election of Jas M Safford, Ph. D., Yale; and Alex Winchell, LL.D. The Chair of Modern Languages and Literature was filled by the election of James A Harrison, A. M., of the University of Virginia. The Chair of English Literature and Historical Criticism was filled by the election of A. A. Lipscomb, D.D., LL.D., late Chancellor of the University of Georgia. The Chair of Pastoral Theology and Homiletics was filled by the election of John C Granberry, D.D. The Chair of Vocal Music was filled by the election of Prof. R M McIntosh. The first Announcement, with other matters, will in due time be spread before the public.

Now is the time to subscribe for the Advocate. Price $2.20 per annum in advance, postage paid.

Martyrs of Science and Religion

We clip the following well written article from the Galveston Christian Advocate, one of our most highly esteemed and valued exchanges:

Since the days of Sydney Smith, avowed unbelievers and pseudo Christians have made the zeal of the missionary the target for their wit. Unable to appreciate the heroism of a man that sacrifices all that makes life cheerful in an earthly sense, to bear to nations coarse and filthy in their surroundings and debased as brutes in their moral natures, that gospel that will make them men on earth and angels in heaven, they see only narrow-minded fanatics going forth on a fool's errand to elevate people who in their estimation are not worthy a moment's thought. The secret of their antipathy to the mission work is their unbelief in the reality of the gospel, or a selfishness that renders them indifferent to the misery of their fellow men.

Recently, in the interest of science, three men went up in a balloon from the city of Paris. Although fully conscious of the terible risk incurred, sustained by their eagerness to add yet another truth to the wonders of scientific discovery, with firm hands they lightened the balloon as the air grew lighter; up, up they went, though their hands were benumbed with cold, and failing lungs and throbbing brains told them they were not only opening a new field of knowledge, but possibly entering the mysterious boundaries of the realms of death. When that balloon came to earth, it bore to waiting friends the lifeless bodies of two of the gallant voyagers, and the third insensible and almost dead. When the remains of the dead were borne to the tomb, their funeral cortege was composed of men whose names are held in honor among the learned of earth. Scientific bodies sent deputations to do honor to men who gave their lives in an effort to extend the boundaries of human knowledge. Our own land offered its tribute, and the wires tell us that "M. Somat, representative of the Smithsonian Institute at Washington, made a speech tendering the homage of that institute to the martyrs of science." Correct words were chosen: they were martyrs, and the homage of their associates was their due. Men die in the cause of knowledge; men die for their country! Their grateful associates reverently gather around their biers and scatter garlands over their tombs. Men die for Christ and for souls redeemed by his blood! Although the dull eye of unbelief fails to see the glory of the offering and lays no tribute upon their sepulchres, the Master marks their burial place and the heraldry of heaven will preserve the record of their devotion and reward.

"Hold the Fort."

Below we present one of the favorite hymns sung by Mr. Saukey in his meetings. Recently in Dublin, after the excitement of the personal visit of Messrs. Moody and Sankey had somewhat subsided, at a theater of that city, in the course of the performance, one of the actors said that he felt a little Moody, and another had had symptoms of being decidedly Sankey-monious. At first the audience showed surprise; then they hissed and kept things lively as they gave testimony against the insult to the evangelists. At length a stentorian voice, like the call of a bugle, started brother Sankey's most stirring and contagious song:

O! my comrades, see the signal
Waving in the sky!
Reinforcements now appearing,
Victory is nigh!

CHORUS—
"Hold the fort, for I am coming,"
Jesus signals still,
Wave the answer back to heaven,
"By thy grace we will."

See the mighty host advancing,
Satan leading on;
Mighty men around us falling,
Courage almost gone.

CHORUS - "Hold the fort," etc.

See the glorious banner waving,
Hear the bugle blow;
In our Leader's name we'll triumph
Over every foe.

CHORUS—"Hold the fort," etc.

Fierce and long the battle rages,
But our Help is near;
Onward comes our Great Commander,
Cheer, my comrades, cheer.

CHORUS—"Hold the fort," etc.

When the chorus was reached the whole audience joined in, and the actors, shrunk out of sight, and the curtain fell for the night.—Baptist Weekly.

DEAR BRETHREN: You can say to the lovers of Zion that "the Lord has done great things for us, whereof we are glad." In our missionary labors over in "Brooklyn"—North-west of the city—twenty (20) persons have professed faith in Christ, and many more are still groaning to be delivered from the burden of sin. Nineteen gave in their names yesterday as members of the church.

Our Sabbath school is well attended, from 50 to 60 are in regular attendance. The Lord has indeed blessed our humble efforts to do good. Some of the old and hardened sinners of the neighborhood are among those that have been recently converted.

The Lord indeed sometimes blesses the simplest means. To Him be all the glory! Pray for us!

E. B. T.

May 10th, 1875.

Sunday Work in Nashville.

BISHOP DOGGETT preached at McKendree to a very large congregation on Sunday morning, and a collection of over five hundred dollars was taken up for Missions. In the afternoon Bishop Keener and Dr. Winfield addressed a Sunday-school mass-meeting, and a missionary collection was raised among the children. Bishop Pierce preached at Elm Street on Missions, to an overflowing congregation, and the whole amount of missionary money assessed to the Church was raised. Thirteen persons (two by certificate) were received into the Church—several leading citizens were among them. In the afternoon Dr. Haygood addressed the Sunday school. Bishop Marvin preached at Tulip Street, and raised the whole amount assessed for Missions. Dr. Kelley was present, also, in the afternoon, when Bishop Marvin and Dr. McFerrin addressed the Sunday school, and the children contributed to the cause of Missions. The Rev. J. Atkins preached at North Edgefield, and Dr. Winfield at North Nashville, where the whole amount for Missions was raised. Bishop Keener preached at West End, received several members, and raised about the amount assessed for Missions. Dr. Carlock preached at the Factory for Brother Sawrie. Bishop Kavanaugh preached at Hobson's, Bishop Wightman at Arlington. Bishop Pierce preached at night at the Exposition building, as noted elsewhere. Dr. Oliver preached at the First Presbyterian Church, and some sixty members were received. Dr. Young preached at the Second Presbyterian Church, and witnessed the reception of a member. The Rev. C D. Donaldson preached at the First Baptist Church. The Rev. R. H. Mahon preached at the First Presbyterian Church, Edgefield.—Nashville Advocate.

Greensboro' Female College Commencement.

On Wednesday, June 2nd, at 8 o'clock, P. M., Rev. A. W. Mangum of Raleigh, will preach the Annual Sermon to the Senior Class in the College chapel.

On Thursday 3rd, at 10 o'clock, A. M., graduating exercises.

At 12 o'clock, Address by Rev. J. C. Granbery, D. D., of Richmond, Va.

Concert at night.

The Trustees will hold their annual meeting on Wednesday 2nd June, at 9 o'clock. A. M., in their session room in the College.

N. H. D. WILSON,
Pres. Board of Trustees.

THE GREAT REVIVAL.—A CHRISTIAN CONVENTION LONDON MAY 12.—The Christian Convention met to day in the Haymarket Theatre Mr. Moody, the American revivalist, was chosen Chairman. Canon Battersba, of the See of Carlisle; Canon Fremantle, chaplain of the Archbishop of Canterbury; Lord Cholmondelep, the Rev. Mr. Aiken, and many hundreds of other clerical delegates, representing the principal towns in the Kingdom, were present. The Rev. Mr. Kilman, of Edinburgh, in an address stated that the results of the work of Moody and Sankey in that city were truly marvellous. Three thousand persons had been converted, and the number of drunkards and theatre goers who had been reclaimed was remarkble. The Rev. Mr. Van Meter, delegate from Rome, gave an interesting account of the progress of revivalism there. Addresses were also delivered by delegates from other points on the Continent.

Plan of Episcopal Visitations for 1875.

BISHOP MARVIN.

Denver Conf.,	—July 29	—Helena, Montana.
Western "	—Sept 1	—Council Grove, Ks.
Kentucky "	— " 17	—Maysville, Ky
Alabama "	—Nov. 17	—Birmingham, Ala.
Alabama "	—Dec 8	—Greenville, Ala.
Baltimore "	—Mar. 2	—Winchester, Va

BISHOP WIGHTMAN. [Va.

Western Va Conf.	—Sept 15	—Guyandotte, W.
Tennessee "	—Oct 6	—Fayetteville, Tenn.
Arkansas "	—Nov 24	—Lewisburg, Ark
Little Rock "	—Dec. 8	—Mineral Springs, Ark
Florida "	—Jan. 5	Quincy, Florida

BISHOP DOGGETT.

Illinois Conf.	—Sept. 22	—Litchfield, Ill.
Louisville "	—Oct 6	—Cloverport, Ky.
Memphis "	—Nov. 17	—Paducah, Ky.
White River "	—Dec. 1	—Helena, Ark.
S Georgia "	—Dec. 15	—Americus, Ga.

BISHOP KEENER.

St. Louis Conf.	—Sept 22	—Salem, Mo.
Missouri "	—Oct 6	—Glasgow, Mo.
S. W. Missouri "	—Oct. 20	—Neosho, Mo.
North Georgia "	—Dec. 1	—Griffin Ga. [C.
South Carolina "	—Dec 15	—Orangeburg, S.

BISHOP PIERCE. [N.

Indian Miss'n Conf.	—Oct 6	—Atoka Chickasaw
West Texas "	—Oct. 20	—San Antonio, Tex
North Texas "	—Nov. 3	—Paris, Texas.
North-west Tex.'	—Nov 17	—Corsicana, Tex
East Texas "	—Dec 1	—Carthage, Texas
German Mission "	—Dec. 8	—Galveston, Tex
Texas "	—Dec. 15	—Brenham, Tex.

BISHOP PAINE.

N Mississippi Conf.	—Nov. 24	—Kosciusko, Miss.
Mississippi "	—Dec. 15	—Canton, Miss.

BISHOP KAVANAUGH. [Oregon.

Columbia Conf.	—Sept. 15	—Brownsville,
Pacific "	—Oct. 12	—San Jose, Cal.
Los Angeles "	—Oct. 27	—Los Nietos, Cal,

BISHOP MCTYEIRE.

Holston Conf.	—Oct 20	—Knoxville, Tenn
Virginia "	—Nov. 27	—Danville, Va.
N. Carolina "	—Dec. 1	—Wilmington, N. C
Louisiana "	—Dec. 15	—New Orleans, La

Bishop Keener has charge of the Mission in Mexico.

Bishop McTyeire is charged with matters pertaining to the Mission in China.

A new society has been formed at Chicago, known as the "Good Samaritans," the design of which is to aid struggling women, and prevent their fall into vice.

Religious Brevities

The Missionary Society of the M. E. Church was organized April 5, 1819, and in July following the Female Missionary Society of the M. E. Church, the first auxiliary, was organized.

Two class-meetings are held each Sabbath in the Chinese Mission-house, San Francisco, in which religious experiences are related, and in which Chinese women take part.

Rev. Dr. Schon is to preach the Commencement sermon of Warren College, Ky., on the first Sunday in June.

Whoso robbeth his father or his mother, and saith, It is no transgression, the same is the companion of a destroyer.—Proverbs xxxviii. 24.

At the Round Lake Camp Meeting to be held in July, board can be had upon the ground at the following prices: Breakfast and supper, 50 cts. each; dinner, 65 cents; per day $1.25; per week, $7; lodging per night, 50 cents. Clergymen with their wives and children will be allowed 20 per cent discount on board. Furnished tents can be secured by addressing Joseph Hillman, Esq., Troy, New York."

The Sunday School Times declares truthfully that the teacher must first be a learner of that which he would teach and also that the teacher should be a learner of those whom he would teach

Rev. Dr. Whedon, editor of the Methodist Quarterly Review has returned from his winter residence in the South.

Rev. Dr. Lachlin Taylor, late Wesleyan Corresponding Missionary Secretary in Canada, is still lecturing in Great Britain, on "Canada and the North west Territories."

Mr. Robert Bonner, of the New York Ledger, has given the large sum of $100,000 toward the erection of Dr. John Hall's new church, in New York.

THE Board of Church Extension of the Methodist Church has a loan fund of $202,000, now lent to 286 churches, in sums ranging from $50 to $8,000, being an average of about $700 to each church.

REV. DR. W. ARTHUR of the Wesleyan Conference, England, is on a visit to Rome, Italy, partly for his health, but chiefly to complete an important work which he is writing on the Vatican Council.

ACCORDING to the statistics by the London Methodist, during the last half century, Methodism in agricultural districts of England is gaining on the population.

A Hindoo girl recently preached to a congregation of Hindoo ladies on the subject, "We worship only one God."

THERE is no abatement of interest in the revival meetings of Moody and Sankey in London.

Rev. Dr. Curry, of Richmond, Va., will shortly sail for Europe to spend the summer.

The Southern Baptist Convention met in Charleston, S. C. May the 6th. Over 300 delegates were present. Dr J. P Boyce, of Louisville, was elected President.

Rev. Mr. Hammond, a noted revivalist, who has labored with great success in San Francisco, at a meeting in that city said:

"If there is an infidel in the house, a man who says, 'I don't believe in the Bible or in Christianity,' let him rise up. A young man, a civil engineer, arose. Rev. Dr. Cox sought out this young man in the inquiry meeting, and finding him to be honest in his skepticism, he urged him to seek the solution of his doubts by prayer and the reading of the Bible. The young man finally promised the doctor that he would go home and read the fifty first psalm on his knees. He kept his promise, and while reading he was convicted of sin. His skepticism vanished. He sought and found salvation through Christ, and last night stood up before the great congregation and told his experience. Dr. Cox says quaintly that the fifty-first psalm is his favorite prescription in such cases."

A correspondent of the London Watchman (Wesleyan) contributes a short letter upon the condition of the Methodist work in that city to its columns. Within the postal district of the city there are 21,199 members and 1,055 probationers. The net increase for the last year has been 578. The number of new members received during the year has been 2,518. The question is naturally asked, how it occurs that, with all their chapels and earnest preachers and teachers, so small a net increase is returned less than 600 persons. To this question, as interesting to us in Boston as to the Wesleyans in London, and one constantly forcing itself upon thoughtful minds, the correspondent of the Watchman responds that during the year, while the net gain was small, they had gathered out of the world 2,518, and in addition to this had graduated numbers of triumphant souls to the Church of the first-born in heaven, and had contributed also a large number to the Church of England, and to the Congregational and Baptist Churches. Some such answer may, in a degree, abate the anxiety of those with us who marvel over the slow increase of our city Churches. Still we feel much that a want of hearty consecration and efficient personal service for Christ and the building up of His kingdom, is the chief occasion of the slow growth of municipal Churches.—Zion's Herald.

NORTH CAROLINA.

Mr. Frank J. Woodard who was indicted and tried in Wilson county, for the murder of Joe Hinson, was acquitted as having acted in self defence.—Hon. W. T. Dortch was of counsel for the defence.

Willie J. Covington, Esq., of the Wadesboro HERALD, died on the 8th inst. He was an upright man and good citizen.

The Superior Court of Gaston County was held week before last in the Presbyterian Church at Dallas, the court house having been burned last winter. That recalls the fact that the Legislature held its sessions in the Presbyterian Church in Raleigh for a while after the burning of the State capitol.

Col. Wm. Johnston was elected Mayor of Charlotte by a majority over his competitor, W. F. Davidson, Esq., of 59 votes. Nine white and three colored men constitute the Board of Aldermen. At the request of the newly elected Mayor his salary was reduced from $1.000 to $500.

NEWMAN'S PROLIFIC STRAWBERRY.—Messrs. C. W. Westbrook & Bro. of Wilson, N. C., were kind enough to send us, last week, a basket of large and luscious strawberries called the New man Prolific. It is unnecessary to say that we enjoyed them. These strawberries, we are informed by the Messrs W., bloomed and ripened since the cold snap a few weeks ago. The plants were covered with old bagging, and three weeks ago ripe berries were gathered from them. The berry is a seedling of the Wilson's Albany, originated at Charleston, S. C. and is grown largely for the Northern market and ships well. Messrs Westbrook can furnish plants, by wholesale or retail, in September or October.

A large steam saw mill situated near Washington, N. C., owned by Dr. McAllum of Raleigh, was destroyed by fire on last Thursday. There was no insurance. The work of rebuilding has already commenced, and the mill will again be in operation within a month.

Gladden who was convicted of murder, at the late term of the Superior Court in Cleaveland county, was the first ever convicted in that county for murder.

The Democratic gain in Charlotte at the recent city election was 202.

The Observer thinks that Charlotte has between 8,000 and 10,000 inhabitants.

Shelby election: Dr L N Durham, Mayor; J W Gidney, D D Suttle, and Andrew C Miller, Commissioners.

The Conservatives carried Concord municipal election, chosing I. J. Cross for Mayor, and J. M. Alexander, M. L. Ritch, J. F. Willeford, D. M. Fink, Councilmen.

Hickory Municipal Election: A H Shuford, Mayor; N M Seagle, A A Shuford, R W Johnston, A W Marshal, J G Hall, and A L Shuford, Commissioners.

The Asheville Expositor says: We have been told that the celebrated Cranberry Iron works have been recently sold for $150,000.

It is reported on the authority of the Lincoln Progress that Judge Mitchell of the 9th Judicial District will shortly resign his position in consequence of ill health.

The Tar River Navigation Company having been disbanded, the steamer "North East" has been removed to the Cape Fear, where she will remain till Fall, when she will return.

Hon. Joseph J. Davis, of Louisburg, has consented to deliver the Commencement Address at the Wilson Collegiate Institute on the 25th of June.

Three of the most respected citizens of Cabarrus, who escorted the Marquis de La Fayette from the Virginia line to South Carolina, when he passed through the State, are living, to wit: Charles J. Harris, Gen. W. C. Means and Col. D. M. Coleman.

Mr. John Armstrong was killed while returning home from Court at Dallas week before last, by his horse taking fright and running away, throwing him from the buggy and breaking his neck. He resided in the neighborhood of South Point, Gaston county.

Rev. Dr. Peck, of the Union Theological Seminary, Virginia, will preach the Baccalaureate Sermon at Davidson College at the Commencement in June, and the Rev. Dr. Smith of Greensboro, N. C., the Missionary Sermon. As heretofore announced, Bishop Atkinson will deliver the Annual Address before the Literary Societies on Wednesday evening, June 23d.

FRIENDS OF TEMPERANCE.—The State Council of the Friends of Temperance met in Goldsboro on Tuesday the 11th inst., and was in session two days, adjourning Wednesday evening the 12th.

Rev. George B. Wetmore presided.

Twenty two Councils were represented by about 60 delegates, besides a large number of visiting members.

The President's Report represented the order as being in a very flourishing condition in North Carolina, and contained many important recommendations looking to a still greater degree of success.

The Order has made an actual increase of ten Councils in the State since the Fall session, and the harmony and zeal manifested during the recent session by delegates and visitors, are the sure harbingers of continued prosperity.

The finances are on a sound basis, and the State Council laid plans for an active and vigorous Spring and Summer campaign.

There have been 240 Councils organized in the State, a very large majority of which are in a prosperous condition.

This Order was instituted in Petersburge, Va., in 1865, and is, consequently, ten years old. It has organized nine State Councils, and its subordinate Councils reach from the Potomac to the Rio Grande. It is based on white membership, and thus far the question of color has not disturbed its harmony or impeded its progress. It is doing a good work in the South.

The next session of the State Council will be held in Lincolnton, N. C.—Raleigh News.

The Jewish youth of Wilmington N. C. presented Gov. Z. B. Vance with a beautiful goldheaded cane as a testimonial of their regard and appreciation of his lecture on "The Scattered Nations."

A DESERVED TRIBUTE.—Mr. J. H. [illegible] park, who was recently elected Mayor of the city of Raleigh, is a mechanic of the first class, and his brother mechanics of the city held a meeting week before last and passed the following resolutions:

RESOLVED, That we [illegible] thanks to the Board of Aldermen of the city of Raleigh for the [illegible] worthy mechanic to the high position of Mayor. Mr. Separk is a man of high character, of fine mechanical skill, and is one that every mechanic may be proud of irrespective of party. We pledge ourselves to sustain him in removing the nuisance of liquor from our once happy city.

Mr. Separk was the Democratic candidate for Superintendent of Public Works at the State election in 1867. He is a member of Edenton Street Methodist Church.

We learn that two of Mr. [illegible] children, in Goose Creek township, this county, came very near being killed a few days ago, in the following singular manner: Mr. Orr has been in the habit of compost heap about ten feet high, in the spring, and in hauling it out on his fields, he had dug under the heap to get at the bottom, and while the wagon was being loaded his children went into the hole for the fun of it, in completely burying two of them, and a third was left outside who gave the alarm. They were gotten out in time to prevent any serious consequences, save one broken leg.—Monroe Enquirer.

The Durham PLANT has its hands full. Not upon a county in middle N. C. this time, but upon a county in middle N. C. itself, being robbed daily by its own citizens, and is collecting evidence which it will soon present to the public.

Col. Duncan Kelly, of Bladen, has committed suicide by shooting himself in the head. No cause is assigned for the rash act. He was a member of the Constitutional Convention of 1865.

The Charlotte Democrat feels sure in saying that there will be no court in Charlotte during this week, inasmuch as it is the week of the Centennial, and no business could be well transacted.

INDEX TO NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

We call special attention to the advertisement of Mr. C. A. Hart which appears in to day's issue. Mr. Hart has many years experience in the hardware business. He has just opened a large and entirely new stock of goods, which he offers at extremely low prices. Give him a call.

See the new advertisement of Messrs. Lewis & Co., Hardware dealers, who are doing a very large business in that line and desire the patronage of cash and [illegible] dantly receive.

We call attention to the attractive advertisement of Messrs Petty & Jones, excellent business firm who keep on hand at all times an equally excellent and attractive stock of goods.

Messrs McCallum, Wyckoff and Hall advertise anew their extensive [illegible] works. Look at and read their advertisement. It gratifies us to know that this firm is meeting with such decided success in the conduct of their business and in the manufacture and sale of their engine, gins and cotton presses. The "Hope Engine" invented by the junior member of the firm was highly commended by the committee at our last State Fair and received a gold medal as the best steam engine for general use. It is being extensively introduced to the favor of those who have need of steam power.

A STRANGE PHENOMENON.—[illegible] living in Essex County, Va., a gentleman of [illegible] remarkable exemplification of the [illegible] so often told that a man's hair will sometimes turn gray in a single night. This is peculiarly illustrated in the case of the man usually reported the particular subject [illegible] influence of some powerful excitement, but this instance there was no mental [illegible] the gentleman having retired [illegible] usual frame of mind to walk up [illegible] rising and find his hair, which [illegible] been only streaked with gray [illegible] white.

Louisville, May 12. An important [illegible] operation was performed upon General [illegible] C. Breckenridge at his home at [illegible] Ky., on Tuesday by Dr. Gross of Philadelphia, and Dr. Sayre, of N. Y. His chest was penetrated by tubes inserted between the ribs, and some relief was afforded. Physicians are of the opinion that the [illegible] liver was injured by a blow received [illegible] the war in a fragment of a shell and [illegible] his present suffering is one entirely [illegible] cause. The physicians entertain hopes [illegible] the operation will prove of positive advantage to the patient.

LATER.

A dispatch received says that General C. Breckenridge is sinking rapidly and death is expected at any moment.

The Richmond Howitz is to have a reception to attend the Mecklenburg proclamation of Independence at Charlotte, N. C., on the 20th May.

BERLIN, May 12th.—Czar and Emperor [illegible] a long consultation to-day. The Roman Catholic bishops of Prussia have decided to dissolve even the religious orders, where the State tolerates, being unwilling to be subject to Government supervision.

The bureau of statistics at Washington reports for 1874 a revenue amounting to $186,407, while in 1875, the expenses of the bureau only $192 250.

There are 3917 students in the agricultural colleges of the United States.

A Chinaman, Wah Lee who has laundry establishments in New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago, Pittsburgh and Indianapolis has an income therefrom of more than a million dollars.

Ex Congressman Bowen, of South Carolina has been arrested on the charge of [illegible] the murder of Colonel White seven years ago. He was bailed in $4 000. On charge the News and Courier was prosecuted by Bowen for libel but the jury acquitted.

The value of the wedding gift of the Comte d'Albe to the Empress Eugenie is to reach the pleasant amount of $ 600,000. One of these gifts is a diamond ring which belonged to Charles V.

The silver inkstand which supplied the pens of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, is now in the possession of Governor Hartranft of Pennsylvania and efforts are making to procure it from him as an original institution in Independence Hall.

The Chinese are evidently going to celebrate all their holidays by paying off debts, forgiving their enemies and shaking hands all around. The civilized people have gone to China have not yet succeeded in getting them to relinquish the old and barbarous habits.

Bismarck intimated recently that Germany was near the end of its anti-papal legislation.

Mr. John C. New goes into the Treasury Department well recommended by his friends. Senator McDonald, of Indiana, writes him: "I think the appointment a good one in every respect. He fills Jefferson's definition of honesty and capability."

The ship Niagara lately arrived at New York from Liverpool with a cargo of arsenic, and other things in bulk. On some terrible rocks the ship was [illegible] were broken and the contents [illegible] mixed with the sand, so the last was recovered before any of the mixture could reach the general public.

Postmaster-General Jewell proposes as a remedy for abuses in the mail contracts a law which shall provide for the publication of the names of the contractors with their routes, and the prices paid by the government in every case. Persons who [illegible] want to buy these routes from contractors can do so understandingly.

The Ohio Senate has passed a bill fixing the compensation of members of the legislature at $500 per annum.

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF RALEIGH EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING.---$2.20 POSTAGE PAID.

Our Agents.

The travelling and local preachers in the bounds of the Conferences are our authorized agents. Any person wishing to send subscribers, or to discontinue the paper, must address the Editor.

Our Correspondents.

Communications should be carefully written, and on one side of the sheet. All letters to be addressed to the Editor.

How to Remit.

Money, if at all possible, should be sent in registered letters or Post-office orders. The cost of a Post-office order can be deducted from the money sent otherwise than in registered letters or Post-office orders.

General News

Mr. J. H. S. was elected Mayor of the city of Raleigh on the first ballot, receiving a majority of the votes cast. He succeeds Mayor [illegible] before last and is a gentleman of mechanical skill, an honest mechanic and a true democrat. He will make a good Mayor.

The Democratic convention of Pitt county met in Greenville on the 17th inst. and nominated a full ticket. The convention was composed entirely of Democrats

Children's Column.

Answers.

The 10th chapter of Nehemiah contains 39 verses, 21 of which have only 3 words in each.—Rachel E Claytor, Sudie Walker, Florence Mercer, N. E. Guthrie.

Saul was the first king of Irsael—Rachel E Claytor.

Absalom's hair weighed 200 shekels. 2nd Sam. 14th chap. 20th verse.—Rachel E Claytor, J W Howard.

Rhoda was the name of the damsel who knew Peter by his voice. Rachel E Claytor, N E Guthrie, J R Howard.

There are 3.566.490 letters in the Bible—C W Hunt.

The longest chapter in the Bible is the 119th Psalm which has 176 verses. Sudie Walker, Florence Mercer.

Moses wrote the first five books of the Bible—Sudie Walker, Florence Mercer.

Sarah was the only woman whose age, death and burial are mentioned in the Bible. S W L Connelly, Florence Mercer, Nannie E Guthrie, J R Howard.

Jezebel was the woman who was eaten up by the dogs, an account of which is given in 2d Kings, 9th chap. 33d verse. Eddie G Brown.

Nebuchadnezzar and his armies destroyed Jernsa'em. Eddie G Brown, J R Howard.

There are 773.692 words in the Bible. J W Howard, J R Howard.

The word 'children' occurs 100 times in the 2nd chap. of Ezra. J R Howard.

The middle book in the Old Testament is Proverbs. The middle chapter is the 29th chap. of Job. The middle verse is the 17th verse of 20th chap. of 2d Chronicles. J R Howard.

It was Ahab who built a house of ivory. 1st Kings 22d chap. 39th v.—Mollie Joyce.

Questions.

Florence Mercer asks what chapter in the Bible has 26 verses, all of which end alike.

Eddie G Brown asks how many kings Benhadad had with him when he went up to besiege Samaria.

Rachel E. Claytor asks the following: Whom did David remember upon his bed?

Who is the first man mentioned in the Bible that died a natural death before his father?

How old was Solomon when he laid the foundation of the temple, and and how long was he in building it?

BIBLE ENIGMA BY ADDIE CLAYTOR.

1st was the first king of Israel.
2nd " the father of "James the Less."
3rd " the oldest daughter of Saul.
4th " the place of Abraham's birth.
5th " a distinguished prophet of the Lord.
6th " the beloved physician.

The whole gives the name of one of the last Judges of Israel.

BIBLE ENIGMA BY C. W. HUNT.

My 1st begins the name of the king of Noah.
" 2nd " the name of the father of Rebecca.
" 3rd " the name of the place from which the spies were sent.
" 4th " the name of the first high priest of the Jews.
" 5th " the name of the wife of Elimelech.
" 6th " the name of the second son of Adam.
" 7th " the name of the son of Jeremiah.

My whole is the name of the father of Samuel.

BIBLE ENIGMA BY J. R. HOWARD.

I am composed of nine letters.

My 1st begins the name of the son of Nebuchadnezzar.
" 2d " the name of the son of Baasha, king of Israel.
" 3d " the name of the son of Shaphat.
" 4th " the name of the 5th son of Jesse.
" 5th " the name of the man who "went down and dwelt in the top of the rock Etam."
" 6th " the name of the father of Caleb.
" 7th " the name of the husband of Peninah.
" 8th " the name of the 8th month as given in the Bible.
" 9th " the name that Ashpenaz gave to Azariah.

My whole gives the name of the place at which Jacob offered sacrifice while on his way to Egypt.

BIBLE ENIGMA BY S. W. L. CONNELLY.

My 1st begins the name of the father of Baruch.
" 2d " the name of the father of Elijah.
" 3d " the name of the father of Ezekiel.
" 4th " the name of the third son of Barak.
" 5th " the name of the second son of Pahathmoab.
" 6th " the name of the father of Jeremiah.
" 7th " the name of the fourth son of Pebai.
" 8th " the name of the second king of Israel.
" 9th " the name of the mother in-law of Ruth.
" 10th " the name of the Zebulonite who judged Israel.
" 11th " the name of the father of John the Baptist.
" 12th " the name of the father of Joab.
" 13th " the name of the son of Dodo.
" 14th " the name of the father of Uzai.

My whole is the king who ate grass like an ox.

Rural and Domestic.

Mixed Husbandry.

No matter how much money may have been made certain years by certain parties in certain localities by the cultivation of special crops, or the following of certain special branches of husbandry, the conviction is gaining stronger and stronger hold each year in the minds of agriculturists, that a mixed husbandry is the safest and most profit able, all considered. Those who live near large markets, and who have their regular and reliable customers and the best prices, may safely and profitably adhere to specialties. But those who are remote from markets, and who have no such established reputation, and whose profits on their products are not uniformly large in consequence, are not safe in risking all the work of a year and the capital necessarily invested, in a single crop or product. Besides, it is a well established fact that, unless the farmer is near to manurial resources, constant cropping with a single product depreciates the value of his farm, and the producing capacity of his soil deteriorates.

The cotton growers of the Southern States are fast learning that half the usual area devoted to cotton may be cultivated in crops that will yield food for men and animals, that more stock may be grown, more domestic manure made, and the profits of plantations thus increased with far less risk, far fewer failures, and a far greater certainty that they will not have to hypothecate their crops a year in advance, in order to life comfortably.

This is also the prevailing conviction in the North. Judging by the expressions of the Northern farmers, made in conventions, farmers' clubs, etc., specialties are 'going out," and mixed husbandry is being "taken up."

It is, however, wise for a farmer to have a speciality, even with mixed farming. He should multiply his resources; but he can do this and yet make one crop or product the leading feature of his husbandry. If a man's soil is expressly adapted to the production of a certain crop of superexcellence, or to keeping, sheep, cattle, or the production of butter or cheese, it is not unwise to make such, whatever it is, the leading feature in his farm economy; but it is not wise to rely wholly upon it, unless he is in a position relative to markets, such as we have described above.

Prudence should teach farmers that the more varied the products that they can put on the market, the more certain they will be to have something to rely upon for an income; that the fewer the products they have for market, as to variety, the greater risk they run as to profit from any of them. This is the fact, entirely independent of the consideration that the cultivation of a variety of crops involving rotation insures a better condition of soil, and the sustaining of its fertility. These are all important suggestions, to be considered now that the seeding time is at hand, and because they are timely as well as important, they ar given.—New York World.

Plain Diet,

This is what children ought on every account to be accustomed to from the first; it is vastly more for their present health and comfort than little nice things with which fond parents are so often apt to vitiate their appetites, and it will save them a deal of mortification in after life. If you make it a point to give them the best of every thing; to pamper them with rich bakes, sweetmeats, and sugar-plums; if you allow them to say with a scowl, "I don't like this or that, "I can't eat that," and then go away and make them a little toast, or kill a chicken for their dainty palates—depend upon it you are doing a great injury, not only on the score of denying a full muscle and rosy cheek, but of forming one of the most inconvenient habits that they can carry along with them in after life. When they come to leave you they will not half the time find any thing they can eat—and thus you will prepare them to go chafing and grumbling through life, the veriest slaves in the world. Mothers, listen, and be warned in time; the time will come when you will repent; seeing your sons and daughters make their homes miserable by complaint, and raising them up in the same way.—Evangelical Mess.

"From the Depths of the Heart."

WELLINGTON, Lorain Co., O., Aug 21, 1871.

Dr R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N.Y.:

Dear Sir—Your medicines, Golden Medical Discovery, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, have proved of the greatest service to me. Six months ago no one thought that I could possibly live long. I had a complication of diseases,—scrofula, manifesting itself in eruption and great blotches on my head that rendered such sores that I could not have my hair combed without causing me much suffering; also causing swollen gland, tonsils enlarged, enlarged or "thick neck," and sage and numerous boils. I also suffered from a terrible Chronic Catarrh, and in fact I was so diseased that life was a burden to me. I had tried many doctors with no benefit. I finally procured one-half dozen bottles of your Golden Medical Discovery and one dozen Sage's Catarrh Remedy and commenced their use. At first I was badly discouraged, but after taking four bottles of the Discovery I began to improve, and when I had taken the remaining I was well. In addition to the use of Discovery I applied a solution of Iodine to the Goitre or thick neck, as you advise in pamphlet wrapping, and it entirely disappeared. Your Discovery is certainly the most wonderful blood medicine ever invented. I thank God and you, from the depths of my heart, for the great good it has done me.

Very gratefully,
MRS. L. CHAFFEE.

Most medicines which are advertised as blood purifiers and liver medicines contain either mercury, in some form, or potassium and iodine variously combined. All of these agents have strong tendency to break down the blood corpuscles, and debilitate and otherwise permanently injure the human system, and should therefore be discarded. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, on the other hand, being composed of the fluid extracts of native plants, herbs and roots, will in no produce injury in effects being strength ening and curative only. Sarsaparilla, which used to enjoy quite a reputation as a blood purifier, is a remedy of thirty years ago, and may well give place as it is doing, to the more positive and valuable alterative which later medical investigation and discovery has brought to light. In Scrofula or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflamations, Indolent Inflammation, Mercurial affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin and Sore Eyes as in all other blood diseases Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has shown its great remedial power, curing the most obstinate and intractable cases. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

may 19 1-t

The Wear and Tear of City Life.

The wear and tear of city lifeare a severe tax upon the strongest constitutions. The hurry and bustle and anxieties of business keep the nervous system in a state of unnatural tension during business hours and in the end impair the elasticity and vigor of the vital organization. The penalty of all undue excitement is subsequent exhaustion. The best remedy for it, whatever the cause, is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the tonic and alterative properties of which rapidly diffuse themselves through the entire system, revive and reinforce every dormant faculty, and restore a natural condition of body and mind. Some moral reformers insist upon the disuse of all stimulants. This, to say the least of it, is irrational. All competent physicians admit that a pure medicated stimulant is one of the most useful remedies known. As a tonic and invigorant for the aged and languid, Hostetter's Bitters has no equal. It is the sheet-anchor of the feeble and debilitated. In all climates and in every species of disorder which breaks down the bodily strength, it is an absolute specific. It is also an invaluable remedy for sea-sickness. The nausea and retching caused by the pitching and rolling of a vessel at sea paralyses the bodily and mental energies of those who suffer from it would do well to resort to the Bitters as a means of sure and permanent relief. No passenger should sail without a supply of the article. Among the botanic ingredients of which it is composed are some of the most powerful blood depurents which the vegetable kingdom affords. Consequently, it not only tones and invigorates, but also purifies the system through the natural sluices which nature has provided.

May 5 1m

A. BAUM,

Professional Butcher,

Washington St., Opposite East End Market.

Buys the fattest beeves that can be had. No poor or stracked beef to be seen in his shop. Orders at the Mountain city weekly filled by his agents. The best and cleanest meats to be had in this Market. Butchered in first class style, are sold you at the lowest prices.

apl 28 tf BAUM'S

DR. C. M'LANE'S
CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS,
FOR THE CURE OF
Hepatitis or Liver Complaint,
DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder-blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for a rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, feels cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. M'LANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them A FAIR TRIAL.

Address all orders to

FLEMING BROS., PITTSBURGH, PA.

P. S. Dealers and Physicians ordering from others than Fleming Bros., will do well to write their orders distinctly, and take none but Dr. C. M'Lane's, prepared by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa. To those wishing to send a trial, we will forward per mail, postpaid, to any part of the United States, one box of Pills receipt of fourteen three-cent stamps, or one vial of Vermifuge for fourteen three-cent stamps. All orders from Canada must be accompanied by twenty cents extra. Sold by all respectable Druggists and Country Store keepers generally.

Dr. C. M'Lane's Vermifuge

Should be kept in every nursery. If you would have your children grow up to be healthy, strong, and robust, Boys and Women, give them a few doses of

M'LANE'S VERMIFUGE,

TO EXPEL THE WORMS.

BE WARE OF IMITATIONS.

1875. 1875.

NEW STOCK SPRING GOODS.

Money lost every day by not buying your Dry Goods at

PETTY & JONES.

If our customers will but call and examine our Stock of SPRING GOODS and then compare our "Cash Prices" with those elsewhere they will be convinced and satisfied that we are the leaders in low prices. WE HAVE OUR PRICE and that is lower than any house in the State.

Our Black Gros Grain Silks at $1 to $2.75 per year, usually sold from $1.25 to $3.50, Japanese Silks and Goods from 25 to 75 cts, real value 30 to 90 cents per yard.

Black Iron Grenadines, Suit Lines, Silk Poque

Glace Mohair, Silk Fantazea, Challies,

Lenses, Dress Lawns,

Plaid Poplin for Polonaise,

and all other goods of the

LATEST STYLES

for Ladies. Our white goods department is complete.

Victoria Lawns, Jaconette Organdies, Swiss Muslin, Lace Stripe Plaice, Turlatan, French Nansook, Marcelline, Soft Finish Cambric, Printed Pique, &c., &c.

1,000 yards of Hamburg Edgings and Insertings from 10 cents to 75 cents.

Large stock of Ribbons lower than ever known before.

Ladies Linen Collars and Cuffs latest styles.

Spring Cashmeres just opened for Gentlemen.

Five Cases Spring Calicoes, Bleached and Unbleached Cottons at the lowest Price. Costly Cotton 75 cents per dozen.

Our stock of Spring Goods comprises the choice styles of the leading importers and having an old or auction goods to sell in cambles us to sell our customers the latest styles of goods at the lowest prices.

PETTY & JONES.

april 14-tf

PLEIS' FIT
POWDERS.

These Powders have been tested by over 40,000 cases for the cure of Fits (Epilepsy), Spasms, Convulsions, St. Vitus' Dance, Neuralgia, and all Nervous Affections, some over 40 years' standing.

When you ORDER STATE AGE.

PRICE, $9 CENTS PER BOX; or sent to any part of the United States for One Dollar per Box.—These Powders are prepared and sold only by the proprietor, to whom all orders must be addressed,

JOHN M. PLEIS, Jr.,
809 North Third street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Please mention that you saw this advertisement in THE CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

mar 31-1y

Agents Wanted for a New Book,
Present Conflict
OF SCIENCE WITH RELIGION;
or "Modern Scepticism Met on its own Ground." A book for the times. The vital question of the day. A subject of the most intense and deepest interest. The final contest. The Bible triumphs gloriously. Address, P. W. ZIEGLER & CO., 518 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

may 5-3t,

OLD NORTH STATE
FIRE
Insurance Company.
OF
WARRENTON, - - - N. C.

Capital Stock, $107.600.00

ASSETS:

Mortgages on Real Estate	$ 45 050.00
National Bank Stock	1 000.00
Solvent Stock Notes	51,256.10
Cash and Loans on Call	2,502 98
Due from Agents	2,660.62
Agents Supplies	226 89
Office furniture (Safe, &c)	796.16
Accrued Interest	810.08
	$ 122,995.63

LIABILITIES:

Amount necessary to reinsure all unexpired risks on the basis of the New York law, $18,899.

$1,329 Assets to Every $100 of Technical Liabilities.

According to the past experience of the Company we have

$2,458 Assets to Every $100 of Actual Liabilities.

OFFICERS:

Col. W. S. DAVIS President.
N. B. JONES, Vice-President.
R. F. LEGG, Secretary.
WM. J. NORWOOD, Treasurer.
T. C. WILLIAMS, Supervisor.

WANTED.

AGENTS, male and female to sell Pictures everywhere. Fourteen thousand retailed by one. Another writes: "I can make more money in this business than I can on a good farm, if stocked."

WHITNEY & CO.,
Norwich, Conn.

april 7-3 m.

RESTORE YOUR SIGHT.

Spectacles Rendered Useless.

Save Your Eyes,
RESTORE YOUR SIGHT,
THROW AWAY YOUR SPECTACLES.

Old Eyes Made New.

All diseases of the Eye successfully treated by
Dr. J. BALL & CO.'S
NEW PATENT IMPROVED IVORY EYE CUPS.

Read for yourself and Restore your Sight

Spectacles and Surgical Operations rendered useless. The Inestimable Blessing of Sight is made perpetual by the use of the new PATENT IMPROVED IVORY EYE CUPS.

Many of our most eminent physicians, oculists, students and divines have had their Sight permanently restored for life, and cured the following diseases:

1. Impaired Vision; 2. Presbyopia, or Far-sight ness, or Dimness of Vision, commonly called Blurring; 3. Asthenopia, or Weak Eyes; 4 Epiphora, Rambling or Watery Eyes; 5 Sore Eyes—specialty treated with the Eye Cups—cure guaranteed; 6. Weakness of the Retina, or Optic Nerve; 7. Ophthalmia, or Inflammation of the Eye and its appendages, or impaired vision from the effects of Inflammation; 8. Photophobia, or Intolerance of Light; 9. Overworked Eyes; 10. Myiasenia—moving specks or dazzling bodies before the eyes; 11. Amaurosis, or Obscurity of Vision; 12. Cataracts; Partial Blindness; the loss of Sight.

Any one can use the IVORY EYE CUPS without fear of doctor or medicine so as to receive immediate beneficial results and never wear spectacles; or, if using now, to lay them aside forever. We guarantee a cure in every case where the directions are followed, or will refund the money.

2,309 CERTIFICATES OF CURE

from Governors, Farmers, Mechanics and Merchants—some of them the most eminent leading professional and business men, and women of education and refinement, in our country—can be found at our office.

Under date of March 29 Hon. Horace Greely, of the New York Tribune, writes: "J. Ball, of our city, is a conscientious and responsible man who is incapable of intentional deception or imposition."

Prof W. Merrick, of Lexington, Ky., wrote, April 24th, 1869: "Without my spectacles I pen you this note, after using the PATENT IVORY EYE CUPS thirteen days, and this Morning perused the entire contents of a daily newspaper, and all with the unassisted eye.

"Truly am I grateful for your noble invention. May Heaven bless and preserve you. I have been using spectacles twenty years; I am seventy years old.

Truly yours, PROF. W. MERRICK."

Rev. Joseph Smith, Malden, Mass., cured of Partial Blindness of 18 years' standing, in one minute, by the PATENT IVORY EYE CUPS.

E. C. Ellis, late Postmaster of Dayton, Ohio, writes us, Nov. 15th, 1869: "I have tested the PATENT IVORY EYE CUPS, and I am satisfied they are good. I am pleased with them. They are the greatest invention of the age."

Wm. Beaty, M. D., Salem, Ky., writes: "Thanks to you for the greatest of all inventions, my sight is fully restored, after being almost entirely blind for 26 years.

Alex. R. Wyeth, M. D., Atchison, Pa., writes: After total blindness of my left eye for four years, by paralysis of the optic nerve, to my utter astonishment your PATENT EYE CUPS restored my eyesight permanently in three minutes."

All persons wishing for full particulars, certificates of cures, prices, &c., will please send their address to us, and we will send our pamphlet on the ILLEGITIMATE PHYSIOLOGY AND ANATOMY OF THE EYE, containing one hundred pages, free of charge, by return mail. Write to Dr. J. Ball & Co., P. O. Box 957, No 91 Liberty Street, New York City, N. Y.

For the worse cases of MYOPIA or NEAR-SIGHTEDNESS use our NEW PATENT MYOPIC ATTACHMENTS, applied to the IVORY EYE CUPS. Has proved a certain cure for this disease.

Send for pamphlets and certificates—free. Waste no more money by adjusting huge glasses on your nose and disfiguring your face.

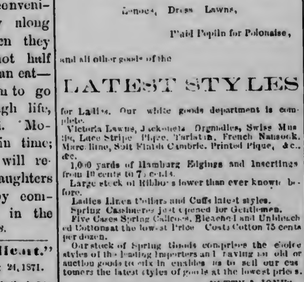
AGENTS WANTED

Employment for all. Agents wanted, Gentlemen or Ladies, for our NEW PATENT IMPROVED IVORY EYE CUPS, just introduced in the market. The success is unparalleled by any other article. All persons out of employment, or those wishing to improve their circumstances, can make a respectable living at this light and easy employment. Hundreds of Agents are making from $5 to $20 A DAY. To live Agents $20 a week will be guaranteed.

Send your address for full particulars. Sent free of charge to any address. Write immediately to

DR. J. BALL & CO.,
No 91 LIBERTY STREET,
P. O. Box 957. New York City, N. Y.
Sept 6-12m

SUI GENERIS.



MASON & HAMLIN
CABINET ORGANS.
UNEQUALED in quality, UNAPPROACHED in capacity and excellence by any others. Awarded
THREE HIGHEST MEDALS
AND DIPLOMA OF HONOR AT
VIENNA, 1873; PARIS, 1867.
ONLY American Organs ever awarded any medal in Europe, or which present such extraordinary excellence as to command a wide sale there.
ALWAYS awarded highest premiums at Industrial Expositions, in America as well as Europe. Out of hundreds there have not been six in all where any other organs have been preferred.
BEST Declared by Eminent Musicians, in both hemispheres, to be unrivaled. See TESTIMONIAL CIRCULAR, with opinions of more than One Thousand (sent free).
INSIST on having a Mason & Hamlin. Do not take any other. Dealers get LARGER commissions for selling inferior organs, and for this reason often try very hard to sell something else.
NEW STYLES with most important improvements ever made. New Solo and Combination Stops. Superb Etagere and other Cases of new designs.
PIANO-HARP CABINET ORGAN—exquisite combination of these instruments.
EASY PAYMENTS. Organs sold for cash; or for monthly or quarterly payments; or rented until rent pays for the organ.
CATALOGUES and Circulars, with full particulars, free. Address MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., 154 Tremont Street, BOSTON; 25 Union Square, NEW YORK; or 95 & 96 Adams St., CHICAGO.

apl 14-1 year.

A NICE LOT OF HAMS JUST RECEIVED from Eastern N. C., and for sale especially for table use by

A. G. LEE & SONS.

250 BUSHELS WHITE SPRING OATS FOR sale by

A. G. LEE & SONS.

A LOT OF FRESH MOUNTAIN BUTTER in kits. Call and examine at

A. G. LEE & SONS.

apl 14-1w,

SCHEDULES.

PIEDMONT & AIR-LINE RAILWAY.

RICHMOND & DANVILLE, RICHMOND & DANVILLE R. W., N. C. DIVISION, and NORTH WESTERN N. C. R. W.

CONDENSED TIME-TABLE.
In effect on and after Tuesday, April 20th, 1875

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	MAIL.	EXPRESS.
Leave Charlotte	9 25 P. M	8.30 A. M.
" Air-Line Junct'n	9 36 "	8.51 "
" Salisbury	11.12 A. M	10.22 "
" Greensboro'	3.35 "	1.35 P. M.
" Danville	6.30 "	4.35 "
" Dundee	6.38 "	4.43 "
" Burkeville	11.35 "	9.26 "
Arrive at Richmond	2.29 P. M.	11.17 P. M

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS	MAIL.	EXPRESS.
Leave Richmond	1.58 P. M.	6.03 A. M.
" Burkeville	4.52 "	8.55 "
" Dundee	9.44 "	1.17 P. M
" Danville	9 45 "	1.21 P. M.
" Greensboro	12.40 A. M.	4.23 "
" Salisbury	3.58 "	6.53 "
" Air-Line Junct'n	7.05 "	8.59 "
Arrive at Charlotte	7.19 A. M	9.05 "

GOING EAST.		GOING WEST
STATIONS.	Mail		Mail.
Leave Greensboro'	2.15 A. M	Arrive	1.5 P. M
" Co. Shops	2.35 "	Leave	11.5 "
" Raleigh	7.05 "		7.5 "
Arrive at Goldsboro	11.05 A. M	Leave	5.00 P. M.

NORTH WESTERN N. C. R. R.
(SALEM BRANCH.)

Leave Greensboro' 4.31 P. M.
Arrive at Salem 6.15 "
Leave Salem 9.20 A. M.
Arrive at Greensboro 11.19 "

Passenger train leaving Raleigh at 6.52 P. M. connects at Greensboro' with the Northern bound mail; making the quickest time to all Northern cities. Price of Tickets same as via other routes.

Through freight from points East of Greensboro connect at Greensboro with Mail Trains to or from points North or South.

Two trains daily, both ways.

On Sundays Lynchburg Accommodation leave Richmond at 9.00 A. M., arrive at Burkeville 12.43 P. M., leave Burkeville 4.35 A. M., arrive at Richmond 7.55 A. M.

No Change of Cars between Charlotte and Richmond, 282 Miles.

Papers that have arrangements to advertise the Schedule of this company will please print as above. For further information address

S. K. ALLEN,
Gen'l Ticket Agent.
Greensboro, N. C.

T. M. R. TALCOTT,
Engineer & Gen'l Superintendent.

CHANGE OF SCHEDULE

RALEIGH & GASTON RAILROAD CO.

On and after Friday, May 22nd, 1874, trains on the Raleigh & Gaston Railroad, will run daily (Sunday excepted) as follows:

MAIL TRAIN.

Leave Raleigh	9.35 A. M.
Arrives at Weldon	3.30 P. M.
Leaves Weldon	9.50 A. M.
Arrives at Raleigh	3.45 P. M.

ACCOMMODATION TRAIN.

Leaves Raleigh	5.15 A. M.
Arrives at Weldon	5.15 P. M.
Leaves Weldon	2.21 A. M.
Arrives at Raleigh	2.45 P. M.

Mail train makes close connection at Weldon, with the Seaboard and Roanoke Railroad and Bay Line Steamers via Baltimore, to and from all points North, West and Northwest, and with Petersburg Railroad via Petersburg, Richmond and Washington City, to and from all points North and Northwest.

And at Raleigh with the North Carolina Railroad to and from all points South and Southwest, and with the Raleigh & Augusta Air Line to Raymond and Fayetteville.

A. B. ANDREWS,
Gen. Sup't.

RALEIGH & AUGUSTA AIR-LINE RAILROAD.

SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE,
Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 27th, 1873.

On and after Monday, October 27th, 1873, trains on the R. & A. A. L. Road will run daily, (Sundays excepted,) as follows:

MAIL TRAIN.

Trains leaves Raleigh,	4.00 P. M.
Arrives at Sanford	6.25 "
Train leaves Sanford,	6.30 A. M
Arrives at Raleigh,	9.2? "

FREIGHT TRAIN.

Leaves Raleigh,	5.15 A. M.
Arrives at Sanford	10.25 A. M.
Leaves Sanford,	11.00 A. M
Arrives at Raleigh	3.50 P. M.

Mail Train makes close connection a Raleigh with the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad, to and from all points North

And at Sanford with the Western Railroad, to and from Fayetteville and points on Western Railroad.

A. B. ANDREWS,
Sup'rintendent.

OFFICE SUPT. OF TRANSPORTATION,
Seaboard & Roanoke R. R. Co.,
Portsmouth, Va., Jan 1st, 1875.

On and after this date, trains of this Road will leave Weldon daily, Sundays excepted, as follows:

Mail train at	4 P. M.
No. 1 Freight train at	4 A. M.
No. 2 Freight train at	8 A. M.

ARRIVE AT PORTSMOUTH.

Mail train at	7.15 P. M.
No 1 Freight at	12.00 NOON
No 2 Freight at	4.00 P. M

Freight trains have a passenger car attached.

Steamer for Edenton, Plymouth and Landings on Blackwater and Chowan Rivers leave Franklin at 7.30 A. M on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

E. G. GHIO.
Supt. Transportation.

STIEFF

GRAND, SQUARE, AND UPRIGHT

PIANOS

Have received awards of FIFTY FIRST PREMIUMS and are among the best now made. Every Instrument fully warranted for five years. Prices as low as are consistent use of the very best materials and the most thorough workmanship will permit. The principal artists and composers, and the piano-playing public of the south especially, unite in the unanimous verdict of the superiority of the STIEFF PIANO. The DURABILITY of our instruments is fully established by over sixty school and colleges in the South, using over 300 of our pianos.

Sole Wholesale Agents for several of the principal manufacturers of cabinet and Parlor Organs; prices ranging from $50 to $500. A liberal discount to Clergymen and Sabbath schools.

A large assortment of second-hand Pianos at prices ranging from $50 to $150, always on hand.

Send for Illustrated Catalogue, containing names of over 100 Southerners, who have bought and are using the Stieff Piano.

CHARLES M. STIEFF,
Warerooms, No. 9 North Liberty street,
Baltimore, Md.
Factories, 84 & 86 Camden st. and 45 & 47 Perry st.
Dec 16-2m

AGENTS WANTED FOR

Cross and Crown

The Saviour and Powerof the religion of Jesus Christ as shown in the Sufferings and triumphs of His followers. A nobler, more inspiring and more thrilling story is not to be found in the whole range of History. Magnificently illustrated on steel with the best, finest type and paper. Sells with full description, address NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Atlanta, Ga., or Memphis Tenn.

March 18-6m

FROM
HENRY J. BROWN,
Opposite Masonic Hall,
RALEIGH, N. C.,

UNDERTAKER,

Keeps on hand Fisk's Metallic Burial Cases, Self-Sealing Metallic Burial Cases, and Walnut and other Wood Coffins. HEARSE FURNISHED.

Also Dealer in Furniture. Repairing and Varnishing Promptly Executed.

mr 19-1f

$250 A MONTH—Agents wanted every where. Business honorable and first class. Particulars sent free. Address J. WORTH & CO., St Louis, Mo.

Sept 14-6m

$5 TO $20 per day! Agents wanted! All classes of working people, of either sex, young or old, making more money at work for us in their spare moments, or all the time, than at anything else. Particulars free. Address G Stinson & Co., Portland, Maine.

Sept 18-13m

A NEW BOOK.

Life, Sermons, and Speeches
OF
Rev. N. F. Reid, D. D.
LATE OF THE
NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.
BY HIS SONS
James W. and Frank L. Reid

A handsome volume of 536 pages.
A fine Steel Engraving of Dr. Reid in each copy.

NOW READY FOR DELIVERY.

BE SURE TO GET A COPY.

Price in Morocco, gilt edge, $3 00.
" " Cloth, 2 00.

Agents wanted to whom liberal commissions will be made. Single copies sent by mail, postage paid, on receipt of retail price

Address, REV. F. L. REID, Lealsburg, N. C. or IAN. W. REID, Wentworth N. C.

G. T. LEACH, N. Y. M. T. LEACH

Leach Brothers,
WHOLESALE GROCERS
AND
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
SOUTH-EAST CORNER MARKET, SQUARE, Raleigh, N. C

Again we take great pleasure in presenting our card and returning thanks to the readers of the ADVOCATE for their very liberal patronage during the past four years, and offer them the largest and best bought stock of Groceries ever offered in any market south of Baltimore, and while just now Sugars and Lard are very scarce and high, we have made extra effort and feel sure we have succeeded in bringing other goods equally low and intend giving our friends all the advantages gained thereby to counter balance any advance in the few goods named.

We wish to invite especial attention to our select stock of staple Shoes and Boots bought direct from the Factories and offered here at VERY PROFITE.

We have now in store:

5,000 lbs. Rio Coffees,
10 Mats old Gov. Java,
10 Bbls. A Sugar,
10 Bbls Ex C Sugar,
10 Bbls. B & Yellow Sugar,
20 Bbls Demarara,
20 Boxes Bulk Sides,
10 " " Shoulders,
50 Kegs English Soda,
Lace Bs. G. D and Sole Leather,
100 Sides Upper Leather,
50 " Harness Leather,
10 Cases O-sters,
50 " Brandy Peaches,
2,000 Yds. Bagging,
8,000 lbs. Ties,
100 Bbls. Super Flour,
100 Bags Assorted Shot,
50 Bbls Extra Flour,
50 Cases Forrester's Crackers,
0 " Soda Crackers,
Millstone Factory and Dairy Cheese,
5,000 W P. and G. D. Gun Caps,
1 Kegs Barden Horse and Mule Shoes,
200 lbs. Horse Shoe Nails,
20 Dozen Best Axes,
50 Boxes Adamantine Candles,
100 Boxes Laundry and Toilet Soaps.

We offer special inducements to country and nearby merchants, and invite an examintion of our stock daily competition

Oct 7-12-m LEACH BROS

L. H. WYATT. B. L. BINGHAM.

Wyatt, Bingham & Co.

Wholesale and Retail Grocers,

COTTON FACTORS

AND GENERAL

Commission Merchants,

No. 4 Market St. and No. 5 Market Exchange,
RALEIGH, N. C.

We tender our many thanks to our several customers and friends for their liberal patronage, and hope to merit a continuance of the same by our strict personal and prompt attention to our business, and by offering to them our large and well selected stock of

BOOTS, SHOES, HATS and CAPS,

Staple Dry Goods,
Cotton Yarns,
Sheetings,
Alamance Plaids, and
General Merchandise,

all of which we guarantee to be as recommended, and to sell at the lowest prices.

OUR GROCERY DEPARTMENT

is complete, and we make FLOUR a specialty and guarantee the lowest prices at retail and wholesale, also the quality to be equal or superior to any offered in the market for the price.

BAGGING and TIES,

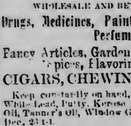
SALT and NAILS

always on hand and offered at the lowest market prices.

Consignments solicited, which will receive our prompt and personal attention, and the best prices obtained.

Jan 29-tf

THE JAS. LEFFEL
Double Turbine Water Wheel,
Manufactured by
POOLE & HUNT,
Baltimore, Md.
7,000 NOW IN USE!



Simple, Strong, Durable, always reliable and satisfactory.

Manufacturers, also, of Portable & Stationary Engines, Steam Boilers, Saw & Grist Mills, Mining Machinery, Gearing, Cotton Mills, Flour, Paint, White Lead and Oil Mill Machinery, Hydraulic and other Pressing, Shafting, Pulleys and Hangers a specialty. Machine made Gearing: accurate and of very best finish. Send for Circulars.

mch 24-6m.

Williams & Haywood,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN

Drugs, Medicines, Paints, Oils, Dye Stuffs, Perfumery,

Fancy Articles, Garden Seeds, Fine Teas, Spices, Flavoring Extracts

CIGARS, CHEWING TOBACCO &C.

Keep constantly on hand, at lowest market prices, White Lead, Putty, Kerosene Oil, Linseed Oil, Lamp Oil, Tanner's Oil, Window Glass, Varnish, &c., &c.

Dec. 23-1-1

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.

Established in 1837.
Superior Bells of Copper and Tin, mounted with the Celebrated Rotary Hangings, for Churches, Schools, Farms, Factories, Court Houses, Fire Alarms, Tower Clocks, Chimes, etc. Fully Warranted.
Illustrated Catalogue sent Free.
VANDUZEN & TIFT,
102 and 104 East Second St., Cincinnati.

apr 14-12m

1875. SPRING STOCK. 1875.
NEW GOODS! GOOD QUALITY!!
LOW PRICES!!!
—o—
JOS. P. GULLEY,
RETAILER AND JOBBER OF
Dry Goods, Notions, Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Trunks, Valises, White Goods, &c., &c.,
RALEIGH, N. C.

My large and carefully selected stock for the Spring and Summer is now in store, and I respectfully invite all in search of good goods and low prices, to call and examine for themselves.

BURTS GAITERS and BOOTS FOR GENTS.

To those who have bought and used these goods we need only to say that we have a full line of them.—For durability and neatness of fit they are unexcelled.

Also Mile's and Graff's hand made shoes for the Ladies.

PRINTS!
PRINTS!
PRINTS!

A large stock of the latest patterns, at prices that cannot be excelled.

Respectfully,
JOSEPH P. GULLEY,
Corner Fayetteville and Market Square

oct

Raleigh Christian Advocate.

Bobbitt & Gray, Publishers. | Published in the Interests of Methodism in North Carolina. | $2.20 Per Annum, in Advance.

Vol. XXI.---No. 21. | Raleigh, N. C., Wednesday, May 26, 1875. | Whole No. 1,059.

Original Poetry.

For the Advocate.

Lines to Pisgah.

[illegible] mount Nebo's top,
The promised land doth vive,
His eye [illegible] with age,
As sparkling as new.

He stood on Calvary, he looks beyond
The Jordan's seething foam,
And there at dawning beauty sees,
Israel's longe-sought home.

As over the hills and fell to earth,
With all its to [illegible]
Where God sits His spirit home,
He offers heart felt prayers.

He sees for those he leaves behind,
His friends, and kindred dear,
And God in answer to his prayers,
Doth send down, his heart to cheer.

On Pisgah's dizzy height he meets,
His maker face to face,
And [illegible] spirit takes its flight,
Forever resting place.

Washington in wisdom hides from man,
His body 'neath the sod,
And all this day, no one doth know
Where he is hid, but God.

Asheville, N. C. May 10th 1875.

Communicated.

For the Advocate.

The Year 1900.

Messrs. Editors: In a little over a year from this time the Great Centennial Anniversary of our national independence will have rolled around and in order that the day and the event may be properly regarded, preparations are now going forward on a scale, that for expenditure, magnitude and magnificence, will probably eclipse everything of the kind that has hitherto been attempted in the world. Not only will this be true of our own nation, but the nations are that other nations will largely participate, and contribute to give interest, variety and magnitude to the occasion. It is a rather remarkable circumstance that the scheme, notwithstanding the project of a free people, and prompted by a desire to strengthen, enlarge and perpetuate republican principles—still commands itself to nations and people outside of us—many of whom might not be expected to sympathize with these feelings and purposes.

In the midst of the interest and substantial aid and co-operation that is being evoked almost everywhere to inaugurate and carry forward this grand enterprise—intended to be a befitting expression of a free people's appreciation, and an exponent of a free people's love for their government, and the principles upon which it is founded one might well ask, "As a people or as a nation are we ready for it?" Do our people see and feel the full importance and bearing this centennial anniversary may have upon the nations around us?

These are grave questions, and if in their investigation it shall be found that we are not ready, that our nationality is marred by sectional divisions and internal strifes, or that our government rulers and officers in the administration of our laws are corrupt and impartial, or finally that our boasted freedom is abused and perverted until it exists only in name; if these things abound we will do well—say, it is even now high time to inaugurate measures of reform.

All such abuses and wrongs would make a sad exhibit to the nations around us, and would not be calculated to call forth their admiration or respect for our government or its institutions, prominent among which, it is to be remembered, is our Christianity.

However much our neighboring nations may distrust the policy of human freedom, the ability of men to govern themselves, as long as we profess to be a christian nation, relying more upon Divine direction than human wisdom, many of them are no doubt watching our progress with intense interest—and their ideas of our security as well as in regard to the success of our policy, will for the future be largely measured and approved—or disapproved—according to the impressions we may make upon our respective delegations sent up to visibly to participate in our approaching Centennial Celebration.

But even this is a day and an age of grand exhibitions, celebrations, &c.; and our own people, with wonderful spontaneity and enthusiasm, are now listening to celebrate an important historical fact of no less importance than the claim of the fore fathers of this United State to the honor of being the first to break off the yoke of tyranny and enunciate to the world the doctrine of right ought to be free.

The honor of being the first to resist and throw off the yoke of tyranny and oppression, to the maintainance of which they pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honors," is a precious noble inheritance left us by our fore fathers—and in view of the magnitude of the benefits it has secured to us, it is eminently appropriate for the people of the State, the heirs of so precious a legacy, to celebrate the day and the deeds that gave it to them.

As the wheels of time roll onward, and the nations and peoples of the earth give prominence to this and that day in their history—intended to signalize and perpetuate the events connected therewith—I have found my mind and contemplations running forward to the ushering in of the year 1900.

Judging from the present feelings of the nations of the earth as evinced by their desire to exhibit their industries—open up commerce and establish friendly intercommunications with one another,—may we not expect the ushering in of that event to be marked by grand events—more especially if in the next 25 years as great advances are made in the arts and sciences, improvements and inventions, education and morality, &c., as has been achieved in the past 25 years? It would not be wild speculation to anticipate that the ingress of the year 1900 will be heralded in and signalized by some grand projection—whose fame and influence will reach around the entire globe, and probably bring together representations from every nation and kindred of man.

The influence it might exert and that would probably grow out of such gathering together of the nations of the world, having in view one common purpose would give an interest and importance to the centennial of the year 1900 of which at this day and distance we cannot have scarcely a faint idea—the mind staggers under its mere contemplation. Many of us who feel that we are nearing the threshold of that auspicious event would like to be permitted to live to see it: to see and hear what our civilization, freedom and our holy christianity had accomplished for the world up to that date—might well beget in us a desire to be there. But oh, we will not be there—our "three score years and ten" will have been told off; a large proportion of the human race now living will be hid away in the earth—and though that memorable day may be ushered in with the booming of cannon and the shouts of the nations till they reverberate in answering echoes around the globe. These will not hear it. But there are those now living, thousands of them, who will be there to join in the mighty shout—and upon whose shoulders will then rest the wonderful and ever-increasing destinies of an advanced and still advancing world.

The point I desire to make in this communication is to impress upon the minds and hearts of those concerned the important fact that the heaviest portion and largest measure of the duties and responsibilities of Society, of Church and State will fall upon the shoulders of the young men who are now filling our colleges and high schools, and those who have recently passed from the halls of learning into the more active and practical duties of life. These are now in the full vigor of youth—prepared or preparing themselves for the graver, heavier, duties and responsibilities of manhood. Twenty-five years hence will not only usher in, amid the acclamations of a world, the year 1900, but will roll upon the shoulders, the minds and hearts of our educated young men, the full meaning of duty and destiny.

An age which is even now preeminently practical and progressive—a humanity whose interests are becoming more and more identical—the dissemination of a christianity which alone can save the world, challenge our educated young men not only to great zeal and activity, but to an untiring emulation to be prepared for that event. If they would keep pace with the age in which they live—a large proportion of whose destinies are committed to their hands, and leave the impress of their character and example upon its history—there must be no lagging behind or loitering on the way. The wants of their fellow men—the voice of duty as well as the voice of God bids them, "Go work to day in my vineyard." "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might—for there is no work, nor device nor knowledge nor wisdom in the grave whither thou goest."

O that our educated young men and women would lay these things to heart—that they were fully awake to the magnitude of the duties and responsibilities that must so soon claim their attention, and will demand preparation, courage and persevering effort, if they would rise up to the full measure of a manhood, commensurate with the wants and progress of the age in which they live whose culminating glory will be probably seen in the episode in its history to which we have so imperfectly cast a prospective glance.

WATCHMAN.

Cedar Grove, May 1875.

Time is money, and many people pay their debts with it.

For the Advocate.

Newberne District Conference.

The 9th session of the Newberne District Conference commenced in the Methodist Church in Mount Olive, in Wayne co., 14 miles south of Goldsboro, on the W. & W. R. R. at 9 o'clock a. m. 6th May. Rev. E. A. Yates, P. E. in the chair, J. P. Simpson was elected secretary, and Thos. D. Gay, assistant.

1st. With two exceptions every charge in the District was represented. The attendance of Lay Members was not very large, but in numbers sufficient to make the session agreeable and profitable to our people.

2nd Nearly every charge was reported in a good spiritual condition. Some had been visited recently, with a gracious revival of religion. The attendance upon the ordinances and social meetings of the church, indicated a general improvement. A decided advance was observable in the piety and morality of our people in respect of worldly amusements, and the use of intoxicating beverages—few comparatively of our members indulge in either of them. This statement is carefully and cautiously made up from authoritative reports of the Pastors in the District.

3rd. The subject of Missions received a careful consideration by an intelligent committee, and was freely discussed in the Conference. The resolutions relating thereto, adopted unanimously, indicate an advance step in the spirit and policy of the preachers and laymen of the District. The two most important are subjoined

Resolved; That the best success in this great work of the church demands good talents imbued with the Missionary spirit; and that we request the Bishop and his Council, through our P. E., to send as far as possible, men the most competent and full of holy zeal in charge of our "Home Missions."

4th The Sunday School is in some places very prosperous, in others it languishes. A very lively interest was elicited in an extended discussion of that subject, and the following resolution was adopted: that we hold a District Sunday School Convention, that the P. E. appoint the time and place, and that the Pastoral charges be requested under the direction of their Pastors, to send a delegate from each Sunday School in the circuits, and two or more from the Sunday Schools in the stations.

5th. The financial exhibit shows the District is advancing in providing for its Pastors, and in contributions to the support of the Institutions and Enterprises of our church. This District for several years past has been paying more per member than most of the Districts in our Conference. The reported statistics however, in our late minutes do not give a correct statement of its finances. All the charges are self sustaining, save one. There is but one Mission in the District. An average of two thirds of the membership support (by pecuniary contributions) our church Institutions. This proportion considering the peculiar condition of this people, is large, and it is believed will compare favorably with other Districts in our church. Two of our charges had lifted collections for Missions, and one charge had collected all the assessments for Bishops, Missions, and widows and orphans.

6th. The agents for Trinity and Greensboro F. Colleges, were present, and labored earnestly in the interest of their respective enterprises. The Conference by a series of resolutions pledged itself to the support of both Institutions,

7th. Rev. J. B. Webb, a local preacher from Kinston station offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

"Believing that our local preachers, may to a great extent accomplish the object of Domestic Missions, and that the knowledge of the labors and success of one would encourage effort on the part of others; therefore resolved; that all our local preachers within this District be requested to report either in person, or by letter, to this Conference at its next annual session, the extent and success of their labors."

8th. The Raleigh Christian Advocate was presented and the Conference unanimously passed the following in relation to its support and success: —

Resolved, That this District Conference is as much as ever persuaded, that the Raleigh Christian Advocate is an efficient arm of service in the operation of our church in the bounds of the N. C. Conference; and that we will endeavor, so far as practicable, to extend its circulation among the people in the bounds of our several Pastoral charges.

9th. The Secretary was directed to prepare (from material supplied by Rev. N A. Hooker) an obituary of Rev. W. H. Cunninggim, deceased, and spread the same on the minutes of the Conference, and furnish a copy for publication in our Conference Organ. Rev W. H. Cunninggim, a local elder in the M. E. Church South, was born August 10th 1804, and died September 22nd 1874. He joined the Methodist Church in 1830, and soon afterward obtained the witness of his justification before God. He was licensed to preach in 1830, and by his studious habits and methodical life, became a sound theologian and a practical and useful preacher. His piety was not a fitful glare; but a steady and burning light. He was a great help in the Pastoral charge in which he lived—and was useful to his pastors, as counsellor and to the people as a preacher. He was liberal in his pecuniary support of Methodism. His business habits were very judicious and economical. His integrity was above and beyond suspicious. He reared a large and pious family, and having finished his work on earth died in great peace and hope.

10th. The "Life Sermon and Speeches" of Rev. Numa F. Reid, were highly reccommended to our people.

Resolutions of thanks were unanimously passed in favor of the people of Mount Olive—our brethren of the Baptist Church, and the W. & W. R. Road, after which the 9th session of the Newberne District Conference ended in great harmony and good feeling.

In summing up the proceedings of the Conference, the Secretary may be allowed to say that the conduct of the Conference under Rev. E. A. Yates, the P. E., was very acceptable and highly approved by both preachers and laymen. The spirit of the Conference too, was in full accord with the design and requirements of the work upon their hands. Differences of opinion on questions of policy produced no acerbity of temper, but served only to promote a good spirit of emulation. Our venerable and revered brethren, Daniel Culbreth, Joseph H. Wheeler, and R. P. Bibb were actively employed in making the sessions of Conference pleasant and profitable. The Conference requested them to furnish as far as they could some reminiscences of their lives for the history of Methodism in N. Carolina.

The ministration of the Word was eminently evangelical, instructive and edifying. In tone, temper and doctrine it was Methodistic, spiritual, forcible and impressive.

The generosity and hospitality of the good citizens of Mount Olive was a large contribution to the interest and success of our District Conference. The village is beautifully situated; the streets are spacious and well arranged; the buildings are in good taste, and some of them are elegant; the yards and gardens are pretty evidences of woman's refinement and delicate skill; the people are hospitable, sociable and wonderfully clever. They are enterprising, thrifty and prosperous. Our Presbyterian and Baptist brethren and friends all show us kindness and brotherly love.—Long live the people of Mount Olive to bless and encourage the ministers and laymen of God's cause and His Church! They are a people of good cheer—a happy social band of warm hearts and open hands.

The next Conference is to be held at Kinston.

The following named brethren were elected Delegates to the next ensuing session of the N. C. Conference: A. B. Thompson, W. F. Kornegay, Willie Arendall, and Rufus W. Bell. Rev. J. B. Webb and Thos. D. Gay were elected Alternates.

JAS. P. SIMPSON,
Secretary.

For the Advocate.

Revivals—No. 2.

If Christianity is God's work, why is it that its diffusion is subject to so many fluctuations, sometimes advancing as a storm, at other times apparently languishing? This is a pertinent question, and one that must be met in the struggle between the friends and enemies of revivals

The promotion of Christianity in the earth is God's work and man's work. God uses man as the agent, and his word as the instrument by which the work is to be carried on.—Men are to be brought to God by the preaching of the gospel. This is God's appointed means for awakening men's minds. The success is in proportion to the energy with which the work is carried on, provided the workers are all in the spirit of their master. A zeal for extending party lines may be very energetic, but it is not in the spirit of true Christianity. Names may be enrolled, but sinners not converted. Conversions take place under a spiritual ministry. The minister, who, like Barnabas, is "a good man, and full of faith and of the Holy Ghost," will "add many to the Lord." The minister that lacks these qualities has a spiritual languishing under his ministry. Hence it is that while the church rejoices in one place, it mourns in another. The difference is in the spiritual power used in the energies put forth. A man full of the Holy Ghost will accomplish more in building up the church of God, with less apparent effort, than ten men whose might is merely in argument and eloquence, yet lacking in the spirit of the Master's work.

It seems strange to worldly minded men, that such great results should attend such simple means as those often used by a very spiritual minded minister. There is a hidden power in a spiritual ministry that becomes a puzzle—it cannot be explained by ordinary principles. For this reason such men become the subjects of envy and vindictive rage. In this way we account for those malicious attacks of the London World upon the present movement in England. The movement is called "a poor compliment to civilization," and the chief actors are denounced as dangerous humbugs," and many scurrilous epithets are applied. One high-churchman fulminated his holy thunder from his pulpit, declaring that, "revivals were the pest of the age"

These vindictive sentiments have found an echo in the brains of numerous editors on this side of the Atlantic. There is manifestly a restless desire to destroy the influence of religious awakenings. They do not allow the sleeping conscience, that sweet undisturbed repose that sin had promised its possessor, and formal Christians feel that the line of distinction is made too wide between the form and the power of Godliness.

Revivals have always been subject to such malice. It is the same spirit that crucified Christ; that stoned Stephen; that buffeted and martyred the apostles; that kindled the fires around the martyrs of the reformation; that threw stones at Wesley and Whitfield, and now spits venom upon all who earnestly endeavor to hasten the time of salvation to all men. A cowardly ministry will yield the field to strong influence in the opposition, but one who feels his master's presence, will face the foe, whether he be weak or strong, for if God blesses the work, worldly influence for or against is of but little effect.

The work then is in the hands of God's agents, and the slow or rapid progress it makes is according to the efficiency of the agency. From the general awakening, exhibiting signs of a greater and deeper work of grace all over Christendom, we conclude that the work will advance, and by constant and fervent prayers for its spreading influence we should look for but one result—a steady onward march of the revival spirit, until the millenium dawns, and the struggle between holiness and unholiness is closed by the final triumph of the redeemed.

E L. P.

For the Advocate.

The Beautie's of Nature.

BY M. B. H. B.

There's beauty in the firm gray rock,
  There's beauty in a flower;
And all along through life we see
  New beauties every hour.

There's beauty in the violet,
  The lillies blue and white;
The wood bines climbing o'er the door,
  So green, so fresh, so bright.

The cedar in its dress of green,
  The lilac's purple bloom,
The dew-kissed lips of roses red
  Yield such a rich perfume.

The stately oak, the stern old pine,
  The grand old forest trees;
Among whose branches now doth play
  A gentle April breeze.

Each day that comes, new beauties bring,
  To tell us of "His power."
Who can create and then unfold
  New beauties every hour.

Who could such power and beauty place
  Upon this sin-cursed sod,
But he whom we so much adore
  And who is "Nature's God?"

A man became entangled in a fast revolving water-wheel in a mill at Georgetown, Ky., and was whirled around at the rate of eighty revolutions a minute. He was unconscious when rescued, but was not badly hurt. He said that his sensations while being carried in a circle at such a velocity were very peculiar. At first he was terribly frightened, expecting instant death, but his perception was perfectly clear. Then he grew dizzy, and it seemed to him that he was rising higher and higher in the air. Next he felt as though in a dream, with a dim sense of imagining that he was being transported to the moon at a terrible speed. That was the last he remembered. A calculation showed that he had been carried an aggregate distance of thirteen miles in about eight minutes.

In reply to a recent anti-Papal manifesto of Karl Blind, Garibaldi writes: "I believe there is not in all the world a country less Catholic than Italy. Government and the upper classes affect a Catholic devotion which they do not feel. As to the masses of the people, they neither do believe in Catholicism; and in the Popish churches one only sees bigoted old women."

For the Advocate.

The Co-operation of Parents in the Sunday-School.

What can the fathers and mothers do to help in the Sunday-school interest? Much every way.

In the first place, many of them have the qualification and time to be active workers in this department. Their experience, age, and weight of character would give dignity and power to the influence of the School. Too often our schools are left entirely to the management of the younger portion of the church.

Secondly, much can be done by the parents creating at home a Sunday-school influence. Speak favorably of the importance of the work—impress on the minds of the children its high value—induce them to study the lessons assigned them by the teachers—train them to punctual, obedience to the rules of the school, and never suffer them to stay at home when it is possible for them to be at school. Indifference on your part to these things will have a freezing influence on the school—will tend to break it down in spite of the efforts of the teachers.

Thirdly, let the influence at home co-operate with the efforts of the pastor and Sunday-school teachers in getting the children converted. There is much lost right here. Too many parents seemed to be afraid of Sunday-school revivals and the early conversion of their children. They say in acts and some times in words, that they don't want their children to profess religion while young. "Let them wait," they say until they become old enough to know what they are doing. This is foolish and dangerous. Suppose the son of a shepherd comes in and says: "Father, I have found a lamb out in the woods, shall I bring it in and put it in the fold?" "No," says the shepherd, "let it remain in the woods, and if the cold does not kill it, and the wolf does not devour it, and it proves itself able to take care of itself, then bring it in the fold and feed it." But how foolish and cruel. If the lamb can live in spite of the wintry snows, can escape the prowling wolf, and grow up without the shepherd's care there will be no necessity of bringing it in then. It is in the age of its tenderness, and for this reason needs most the shepherd's care.

The command—Feed my lambs—is based upon this fact. Children are buds—buds of immortality—and are easily blighted by the biting frost of neglect.

Nurserymen know when to graft their scions with trees—it is just that season when the bark slips easily and the sap flows to nourish the engrafted twig. They know too, that there is but one period in the year when this work can be effectually done. But parents are slow to learn, that the best time for engrafting their children into the great vine of Divine life, is while they are young and tender. Being engrafted at this age, they grow up more readily into Christ, blossom more beautifully in the fragrance of youthful piety, and bear fruit more richly in after life. The sapling bends easily to your hand, turning this or that way as you will. But when the summers of fifty years have turned its juices into hard wood, and built it up into pillared majesty and storm defying strength, what giant's arm can bend or break its sturdy trunk? That tree symbolizes the pliancy of childhood when young, and the unyielding stubbornness of manhood when old. How easy it is to turn the bleating lamb when standing around the gate into the green pasture, but if this lamb is kept out side, and allowed to wander away over the hills and mountains, and remain there where it contracts habits of wildness, how exceeding difficult it is to get it back into the home pasture, and keep it there! So it is with children. When lambs, they can be easily turned into the green pasture of Gospel grace, but when grown up into sinful habits and worldly love, how hard is the work of conversion with them.

"Ill habits gather by unseen degrees,
As brooks run rivers, rivers run to seas."

Childhood is a silver fountain of immortal existence, that can be easily turned to flow into the "dead sea" of wickedness, or into the river of Gospel salvation, that flows to spread beauty and fruitfulness over the earth. But the work must be done when the crystal stream is manageable, or it will soon swell into the rushing torrent of youthful impetuosity, thence into the river channels of settled manhood, and then hurling down all opposition, it goes as a resistless flood carrying havoc and death before it.

Again, It is sometimes said—"Ah, what if our children should fall away after they make a profession, and disgrace the church." But why not suppose that they would do well, if properly cared for? The majority of early conversions become the most fruitful christians. Look at the fruitfulness of David, Joseph, Josiah, Daniel and his three companions who maintained their purity amid the seductions of a heathen court, and many that might be mentioned. What fruitful trees of righteousness, they are, standing in the garden of the Lord! Along the sides of great rivers there lie alluvial lands, rich in all the elements of fertility. Far back in former ages, great floods swept the glens and hill-sides and carried in their muddy waters wealth to these bottoms On these flat lands, the farmers gather year after year bountiful crops. And so when parents lay line upon line, precept upon precept of holy instruction upon the minds of their children, and sow the seeds of eternal life into this rich soil, and bestow upon it careful cultivation, they will see ample harvests of righteousness growing there year after year until angel-reapers gather these golden sheaves into garners of the skies. Will parents then co-operate with the pastor and teachers in using all possible means to get their children converted and established in the faith? We ought to have all the children in the Sunday-school, and thence into the grace of the Gospel. It is the young recruits that make the best soldiers—the early apprentices the most skillful mechanics, and the best christians are those trained by such mothers as Lois and Eunice who trained Timothy "from a child" to know the Holy Scriptures.

H. T. HUDSON.

Sermons and Stupid People

The biographer of the late Dr. Bloomfield relates that on one occasion, while yet a curate, he preached in a Suffolk village church from the text, "The fool hath said in his heart there is no God;" and having, as he supposed, made himself very intelligible, and wishing to ascertain the effect of his discourse, asked one of the intelligent hearers, as he left the church, what he thought of the sermon, receiving for answer, "Well, Mr. Bloomfield, arter all you have said, I do believe there be a God!" "One of the brightest of our New England pastors," says the Independent, "preached a carefully-written sermon the other day, in which he argued that the spiritual realm has its own facts and laws, and that they are just as clear and legible as the facts and laws of the material realm; and, therefore, that the attempt of modern scientists to rule out all the subject-matter of faith, is an impertinence. The sermon was undoubtedly understood by people of average intelligence; but the perverse stupidity of a class that has its representatives in all our congregations found expression in a comment of one hearer made to the pastor after the service, 'I was very much interested in your sermon, Brother X., but I can't help thinkin', after all, that mind is superior to matter.'" If there is no excuse for such perverse "hearers" of sermons, how much less for people who read printed discourses, about which, one would think, there could be no mistake, and understand the authors to mean the very opposite of what was said. If this be the state of mind of many of the hearers and readers of sermons, what wonder that preachers make so little impression! Thoroughly stupid people are certainly very trying to those teachers who have ever so little sense.

HELPING OTHERS.—It seems a strange thing, but it is nevertheless true, that sharing another's burden will lighten our own. If you begin doing little things for your neighbor, it will very soon be easy for you to perform great deeds in his behalf. No man is sufficient unto himself. Trust in Providence is nothing but higher belief in humanity. You may feel very much depressed some day, discouraged and well nigh despairing, when some kind friend happens in—God sent, and you are soothed, cheered and encouraged; the veil is lifted, and you are happy once more. Many are able to give substantial help to those who are in need; money, to tide over some financial trouble; food, to keep a family from starving; gifts that nourish the heart with assurances of love something that may be a trifle in itself, but helps make up the sum of human happiness. But perhaps you cannot do this; you have a large family and limited income, or are otherwise prevented from making the hand the almoner of the heart. Well then draw on the spiritual treasury. Give kind words to those who need them; comfort those who are bowed down; speak lovingly to little children, and encouragingly to those who faint for this support. Stand ready to help everybody.

The California Advocate says that at a lovefeast and sacramental service held at the Chinese Methodist Episcopal Mission in San Francisco, over fifty persons were present, and all seemed deeply interested.

ELEPHANTS live for two hundred, three hundred, and even four hundred years.

The Grave of "Highland Mary."

The Rev. Dr. Cuyler gives the following sketch of a jaunt in Scotland:

"One more hour brought us to the Tontine Hotel, at Greenock. This morning we sailed out through the rain to visit the one spot in Greenock which every man or woman who has a soul must visit—the tomb of Burn's Higland Mary. This poor dairy-maid—immortalized in the sweetest of all love songs—came from Montgomery Castle to Greenock, died here and was buried in the Presbyterian kirkyard, just out of Crawford street. We soon found the tomb, to which a well trodden foot-path leads. A graceful marble monument, twelve feet high, covers the gentle lassie's dust. It bears a sculptured medallion which represents Burns and the young lady clasping hands and plighting their troth, he holding a Bible in his hands. Beneath is this inscription:

ERECTED OVER THE GRAVE OF HIGHLAND MARY
IN 1842.

O Mary, dear departed shade,
Where is thy place of blissful rest?

"These lines are from the impassioned verses, 'To Mary in Heaven,' and have been read through tears by many an eye. Wonderful is the charm of genius which could beat a pathway trodden by thousands of feet to the grave of an humble dairy-maid who lived nearly a hundred years ago."

BE EXACT.—I have seen very serious mischief done through some one's want of care in answering questions. But instead of mentioning serious cases we will take a small one. Suppose a father is going to take two, of his children out for a ramble. They are to start by a train at a certain minute, and they are going to botanize at a place where they will be glad to have brought some refreshments with them. The father is working till within a short time of the start. All in good time he tells Bob to ask Jessy to pack the sandwiches, the cake and the coffee in a certain satchel that they well know. "Tell her at once," says he, and Bob does. Within a short time of the hour for starting the father says to Bob: "Has Jessy made up the satchel?" and giddy Bob answers: "Oh, yes." But at the last moment it is found that Jessy has not packed the satchel; the train is missed and the little holiday has to be put off. What Bob meant to say was that, he having told Jessy to pack the satchel, he took it for granted she had done so.

Now that is not only a little case; it is purely imaginary. Yet things of the kind happen every day, and some of them are very awkward.—Good Words for the Young.

A country paper gives the following advice to a correspondent: "We shall have to decline your article on the 'Decline of Aristocracy.' We have left out several of our own articles this week, and yours is worse than any of them. Take our advice, and write a few short pieces; write plainly; write only on one side of the sheet; and then take your pieces and burn them in the kitchen-fire." That editor must be a real Diogenes, or else he must have had some sore temptation of a sort with which we are not unacquainted.

THE Nashville Advocate says:

We were amused in reading in an obituary notice, the words "he was a pillow to the Church." Of course "pillar" was meant; but in many instances with what propriety may it be said that one zealous member is a pillow to the Church—for all others seem to rest upon him. Then on the other hand, how often is it that the Church is a pillow on which many recline, instead of being a field in which to work. "Woe to them that are at ease in Zion!" If we had fewer pillows and more pillars, the cause of God would be better sustained.

DON'T be above the work that is at your hand. Some people think that, in order to sustain their professional or official dignity, they must not stoop to certain kinds of work. Did Chalmers injure his dignity when he went with a few earnest Church members and held little meetings for religious conversation and prayer in some lowly and poverty-stricken homes of Edinburgh? We need never fear of stooping in the doing of the service of Christ, however humble it may be. We advise those whose backs are somewhat stiff from the effect of that kind of dignity, to read now the thirteenth chapter of the Gospel by St. John.

"O gracious, no!" exclaimed Mrs. Marrowfat to Mrs. Quoggs, raising her hands and speaking in a very excited tone. "She was so ill when her new bonnet came home that she couldn't get up; but, dear sakes! Jane, that didn't matter nothing, for she just put her hat on, and lay with her head out of the window the whole afternoon."

Yesterday as an old citizen was nailing a "To Rent" card on a vacant house, a pedestrian halted and remarked that "howze" was not the right way to spell "house." "How long have you lived in Detroit?" asked the old citizen, scowling savagely. "Fifteen years," was the reply. "Well, I've lived here for thirty," continued the old man, "and I guess I know how to spell as well as you do." —Detroit Free Press.

The Christian Advocate.

OFFICE - Corner of Dawson & Hargett Sts

THE ORGAN
OF THE
NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE
OF THE
M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

Rev. J. B. Bubbitt, } Editors.
R. T. Gray, Esq.. }

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

IF ONE YEAR, IN ADVANCE, POSTAGE PAID,	$2.20
SIX MONTHS, " "	1.35
If payment be delayed six months,	2.70

All letters on business with this office should be addressed to the Editors of the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

RALEIGH, N. C., MAY 26, 1875.

The Cross (X) Mark is to remind you that your subscription has expired. Let all renew promptly.

A Pleasant Episode.

The Methodist Sunday school at Fayetteville. one of the best organized and conducted schools in our church, W. W. Cole, Esq., Superintendent, celebrated an anniversary of its organization on Sunday the 16th inst. An election of officers for the ensuing year was held:—gratifying reports of its various officers concerning its past operations were read, and other pleasant exercises indulged in. The singing of the scholars, under the direction of Mr. Sheetz and led by the accomplished organist, Miss H, was exceptionally good. There is a fervor and freedom about the joyous Sunday-school singing, so different from the operatic efforts of some church choirs, and the halting and dragging singing of some congregations, that refreshens and charms the hearer and gives him something of a foretaste of that free and unrestrained melody that shall fill Heaven's courts, intended as it shall be for the pleasure of the King and not for critics' ears.

After some handsome words of encouragement to the children from the pastor, Rev. E. W. Thompson, and an appeal for the sympathy and interest of parents in the Sunday school, followed by a short talk from the writer, not the least interesting feature of the exercises and one which had attracted a large audience was proceeded with. This was the presentation of a beautiful and costly gold-headed cane from the officers and children of the school, to Mr. J. C. Thomson who has been for thirty years connected with the Sunday-school as Librarian and assistant superintendent. It was a beautiful and touching testimonial of their appreciation of his faithful and devoted services covering so long a period. The presentation speech was made by the pastor and abounded in beautiful conceptions and pathetic allusions, clothed with words that rush only to a genuine orator's mind and tongue. Mr. Thomson, to whom the present was almost a matter of surprise, responded in a speech happily conceived, and with a manner full of deep and earnest feeling.—Such an occasion could not but prove pleasant and entertaining to the large congregation that had assembled and will be remembered by all with pleasure and profit.

A little girl, very much interested in the children's column, has requested the photograph of the Senior and promises to send us one new subscriber if he will grant the request. A friend suggests that it would be well to offer the photograph of either the Senior or Junior to all the little girls and boys who will send one new subscriber to the Advocate for one year. We are half inclined to make the offer, but we are afraid no one would send for our pictures, and then we should feel bad. It also occurs to us that if the offer were made and accepted those sending the subscribers, upon receiving the photographs, might consider that they had got the worst end of the bargain, inasmuch as neither of the Editors makes any strong claims to good looks.

The Senior or Junior will endeavor to attend the District Conferences on the several Districts where they do not conflict with each other. We trust all the preachers will remember the Advocate and bring up a good list of subscribers.

We cordially invite our friends who feel an interest in the children's column to send us short communications for that department of the paper.

Bishop Marvin will preside over the Fayetteville District Conference which is to be held at Carthage, N. C., commencing 3rd of June.

PERSON STREET CHURCH.—This church will be completed in a few days. It will be dedicated the second Sabbath in June by Bishop Marvin.

The Wilmington and Washington District Conferences will convene this week and continue over Sabbath.

There is much truth in what Mr. Moody, the evangelist, says in the following:

"When a man goes into a prayer-meeting and stands up and says, 'how cold you all are,' you may be sure that he is the one that is cold. A man whose own heart is warm never talks that way. The man who make it his rule that never shall a day pass without his saying something to somebody of Christ is the man who is always in a healthy spiritual condition and who has no crimination against the brethren." We have no doubt that the experience of many a pastor would confirm the truth of these words.

The Centennial.

From the daily news-papers and some friends who attended the celebration of the Mecklenburg Declaration, at Charlotte, we learn that it was a decided success and a pleasant occasion, barring some sad accidents that occurred, and which are mentioned in another column. The attendance of visitors was large, the crowd being variously estimated at from twenty to thirty thousand. Distinguished visitors, from other States, whose names and deeds fill fame's glad trumpet, were present with large delegations, to do honor to the memory of the men who, in 1775, first declared against the usurpations and cruelties of the British Government,

It is contended by some that it was on the 31st and not the 20th of May 1775 on which the men of Mecklenburg met in convention. But the difference is a matter of small import—the gratifying fact remains that they were the first to declare themselves free and independent of the mother country.

We regard the celebrations which have already occurred, of noted events in our history, as well as those which are to follow in the next year or two, as eminently proper and profitable, "to the use of edifying" as well as of increasing our love of country and veneration for the defenders of civil liberty and the founders of our government. They cause our people to lose sight of sectional prejudices and points of asserted superiority, and to regard only those historical incidents in which the nation feels a common pride and interest. If these celebrations result in softening or removing the asperity of feeling which has so long existed between the sections, North and South, and has been the cause of so much grief and suffering, a great point will have been gained and the trouble and expense which have attended them will not have been uselessly incurred.

It is gratifying to the patriotic American, and begets a laudable pride, to take a retrospect of our State and national lives, to regard the "small beginnings" and contemplate the wonderful progress which we, as a people, have made in everything that constitutes national growth and greatness. The enthusiastic Livy, as he began to pen the history of his beloved Rome, dwelt with mingled wonder, tenderness and pride upon the "small beginnings" which the Roman Empire had, in order to show by contrast, as his story developed, the great power and glory of its maturer years. But he glanced back over a period embraced by the sweep of centuries: while Americans surveying the events of scarcely a hundred years, see the nation, born in the throes of a revolution, develop its giant strength and clothe itself with greatness in the first flush of its youth.—Almost every decade, nay, almost every year, is marked by some triumph of civilization, in government, art or science, and now the nation stands forth as the most prominent among the nations of the earth. Her power is feared and her favor courted by even the strongest among governments, and on every sea and in every mart where the ships and representatives of nations gather, her flag receives the respectful salute that is due the symbol of national greatness and prowess.

What will be our history at the end of the next hundred years? Will the love of liberty glow as brightly in the hearts of Americans then, as it does now? And will the heroism and the sacrifices of the pioneers of our present liberty and greatness as a country, be venerated and celebrated as they are now? We trust that it will be so. If religious liberty is guarded and our people remain a christian people, the progress and triumphs of their christianity will be surely followed by national safety and happiness.

Giving the Pitch,

We are glad at the increasing effort everywhere being made to sing the race to heaven. There are tens of thousands of people who cannot be touched by argument or facts or rhetoric, who immediately surrender to sacred song. Mr. SANKEY in England, Mr. BLISS at the West, and PHILLIP PHILLIPS everywhere, and many other Christian men whose names do not this moment occur to us, are with silver wedge of music splitting open the barred dungeons of the soul to let God and heaven go in and take full possession. Let us band together the sweet singers of our Churches and Sunday schools, not into stilted and formal choirs, but into crusading parties, whose business it shall be to rouse prayer meetings, and visit sick-rooms, and serenade with sacred carols the homes of the unbelieving. When preaching and solemn admonition and a square talk fail of their work, try singing. Thousands have already climbed heavenward on the eight notes, and we imagine that in coming time a large proportion of the race are to go up on the same ladder.—Talmage.

We are indebted to Messrs. E. J. Hale & Son, New York, for a beautiful little volume, reflecting credit upon the publishers, entitled The Address of the Hon. Wm. A. Graham, on the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence of the 20th of May 1875.

This address, delivered at Charlotte last February, and published in the Southern Home, is an exhaustive consideration of the arguments which sustain the claim of North Carolinians to the honor of having been the first to assert independence of the British Government It ought to be in the hands of all patriotic North Carolinians.

Denominational Colleges.

The following from the British Quarterly is worth a careful reading. The article discusses an important question—one upon which our people need often to be reminded. We have ever been an advocate for denominational schools and colleges. Methodist people should patronize Methodist institutions, and so of other denominations. The religious element in a college should have much to do in deciding the question by parents and guardians, as to what college they will patronize:

"The denominational college having its origin in religious zeal, drawing to it, both as instructors and pupils, a larger proportion of earnest Christians than the State institution, will furnish an atmosphere more favorable to Christian development and training for Christian work. Its curriculum can be arranged with direct reference to the end sought—development of Christian manhood, womanhood, equipment for Christian service. The standard and tone of morality maintained by it may be kept high and pure, and thus it will exert an influence upon the State institutions. Colleges constitute a kind of fraternity, and acquaintanceship becomes intimate. By means of college periodicals and intercourse between the members of their faculties they come to be well acquainted with each other's moral character and scholarship. This is especially true of colleges within the boundaries of the same State.

Denominational colleges enlist many in the higher education who would not otherwise become enlisted. Often we do not feel our need of a thing till it is placed within our reach. Denominational colleges awaken a feeling of need, and so a desire for a liberal education, by bringing it with in the reach of many who would not be reached by a State university.

There are reasons why Christian young men should choose for themselves, and Christian parents for their sons, a college belonging to their own denomination in preference to a State university. The religious influence may be presumed to be stronger and more positive in a college sustained in the interest of religion than in one supported by the State, and hence more favorable to conversion and Christian growth and culture. The Christian young man will find more congenial companions in such a college, and the acquaintance and friendship formed during his course of study will be a source of pleasure and profit and usefulness in subsequent life, as he will have opportunity to co operate with those whose friendship he formed in a college in Christian and denominational enterprises. In this way, too, Christian men give the best endorsement to their own institutions. This they ought to do, provided they are worthy of such endorsement—not otherwise. A young man, whose usefulness and success in life are so largely dependent on the character of the training he receives in college, ought not to be asked to patronize an inferior institution. He cannot afford to cripple himself for life by helping to carry a weak and sickly college The children ought not to provide for the parents, but the parents for the children. Let those to whom God has given the means make the institution worthy of patronage. Why should not those who are preparing to do service in the kingdom of Christ receive a discipline in all respects as thorough and complete as those who strive for earthly honors and rewards? Is Cæsar so much richer than Christ, or are Cæsar's subjects more just to him than Christ's to him?"

A Great Blessing.

Oh! what a blessing is a merry, cheerful woman in a household! One whose spirits are not affected by wet days, or little disappointment, or whose milk of human kindness does not sour in the sunshine of prosperity. Such a woman in the darkest hours brightens the house like a little piece of sunshine weather. The magnetism of her smile, the electrical brightness of her looks and movements, infect every one. The children go to school with a sense of something great to be achieved, her husband goes into the world in a conqueror's spirit. No matter how people worry and annoy him all day, far off her presence shines and he whispers to himself, "At home I shall find rest." So day by day she literally renews his strength and energy, and if you know a man with a beaming face a kind heart, and a prosperous business, in nine cases out of ten you will find he has a wife of this kind. For nothing is more certain than that the man who is married must ask his wife for permission to be happy and wealthy.—Occident.

Commencement at Pleasant Garden Academy.

June 3rd 1875.—Annual Sermon at 11 A. M, by Rev. Jesse H. Page of Cary.

Literary Address at 3 P. M. by Hon J. T. Morehead of Greensboro.

8 P. M. General Exercises.

June 4th.—Exercises begin at 9½ A. M.

R. P. TROY.

Wisdom does not show itself so much in precept as in life, in firmness of mind as in mastery of appetite. It teaches us to do as well as to talk, and to make our words and actions all of a color.—Selected.

Notice.

Shelby District Conference will convene in Shelby, July 22nd 1875, at 9 o'clock A. M.

The Introductory Sermon will be preached by Rev. R. J. Barrett, Thursday July 22nd at 11 o'clock A. M. Let all the members be present at the opening of the session. I hereby request pastors to present written reports of the state of their work. Let their reports be as short specific and comprehensive, as possible.

Report No. I. Spiritual state of the church. Let this be an answer to the following questions: viz:

1. Do your members regularly attend public preaching?

2. Do they regularly attend prayer-meetings, class meetings, the sacrament of the Lord's Supper, and church conferences! If not, why?

3. Are all your members blameless in life and character?

4. What are the special hindrances to piety and spiritual growth, in your charge!

5. How many souls have been converted in your charge, during this ecclesiastical year? How many additions to the church?

Report No. II Finances.

1. What amounts have been assessed to your charge for the support of the ministry?

2. What amounts for Bishops. Conference claimants, and for Missions?

3. How much of these claims has been paid up to date?

4 What methods have been adopted by your church conferences and stewards to raise the salaries of the pastor and the P. Elder? What plan have you adopted to raise the collections ordered by the Annual Conference?

5 What is the condition of your houses of worship, and parsonages?

Report No. III. Sunday Schools.

1. Have you a Sunday School at each appointment? If not, why?

2. Do all your schools use the publications of our own church?

3. What are the chief obstacles to the success of the S. School work?

4. What proportion of your members are at work in the Sunday School?

Report No. IV. Education in general.

1. Who are educating the children of Methodists in your charge?

2 Have you brought the claims of our Conference Colleges prominently before your people?

5. How much have your people contributed to build up these institutions of the church—in donations, or in patronage?

4. To what extent is the Raleigh Christian Advocate—and other Methodist papers circulated?

Report No. V. Missions.

1. Are our people in your charge properly awake to the interests of the cause of Missions? If not, why?

Dear Brethren, please write these reports on separate sheets—so that they may be presented one by one, as called for. When reports on the "spiritual state of the church," are called for—we desire to have all the reports from the several charges read—and thus have, before the Conference, the spiritual condition of the whole district, in advance of any speeches. In the same order—the other reports will be called for.

L. S. BURKHEAD, P. E.

Shelby N. C., May 17th, 1875.

P. S. Let each pastor preserve this notice and make his reports according to these suggestions.

L. S. B.

Board of Missions.

NOTWITHSTANDING the financial gloom which so widely overspreads our beloved South, it is with devout thankfulness to Almighty God that we are able to report an advance in the funds of the Board. This is not our crowning joy. From all parts of the Church assurance comes to us of more intelligent interest and inquiry into our Mission-work. Added to this the reports from our Missions, almost without exception, are of a most gratifying character, while laborers in abundance are standing ready, saying to the Bishops and Board, 'Here am I, send me." And this notwithstanding we assure them, as truth compels us to do, that their support will be inadequate, and hardships in many cases great. We regard the missionary spirit in the Church, as shown in the willingness of men to go, the highest index of Church-life and the presence and favor of God. The calls in all our Mission-fields are most imperative for additional laborers. The voice of the Church, in the form of contributions, will secure a glorious and triumphant expansion. To help forward the tide of Church interest the Board determined to bring itself, through its Secretaries, more directly into contact with the pastors and people. Every pastor in the Church, whose post-office we can obtain, will soon hear from the Secretaries, and be furnished with details for so carrying out the assessment plan of the General Conference as to reach every member of the Church and congregation. The gospel doctrine that all must help must be made to interpenetrate the Church, both in theory and practice. Brethren, we must and can accomplish this. We write on our banner, "Every man a witness;" and, through praying, preaching, and methodical labor, must and will make our motto a fact. We invite unlimited correspondence upon the part of the friends of Missions, specially of Sunday school Superintendents, and others, who desire to do special missionary work. We will take great pleasure in pointing to you particular objects of interest, and giving you reports from time to time of results from your investments. Write, however, definitely, and, as far as may be, concisely.

Dr. Haygood found it necessary to resign the position of Associate Secretary, to which the Board unanimously re elected him. He had nobly filled his place, and all part with him with deep regret. The undersigned accepted the office as Dr. Haygood had done, without any salary attached. He cannot give full time, but, in the service of the grandest cause of earth, and in the name of the Master, he is ready to render any aid he may be able to the long-tried and trusted veteran Senior Secretary, Dr. McFerrin.

"Our Missionary" the Board thought it best to discontinue. It will be closed after a short life, as we trust not in vain, so soon as present obligations to subscribers will allow. We shall therefore make heavy drafts on the well-known kindness of our various Church-papers. We shall often call on them for room for us, and trust they will more often speak from their own warm interest in the cause. "Every man in his sphere a witness."

D. C. KELLEY, Associate Sec.,
Board of Missions M. E. C, S.

MESSRS. EDITORS: As you have closed the columns of the Advocate against the further discussion of "The Curse of Blood," etc., to which I do not object, you will allow me to "rise" for a minute "to a question of personal privilege."

In Bro. Robey's last, he represents me as having "lost my temper over alleged 'misrepresentations' and 'garbled extracts;' and with having 'misrepresented' him and Dr. Closs "at almost every point from beginning to end." And, he intimates that I have become 'furious' because I have been 'beaten in debate.' As to the first part of the above statement, I have only to say that while I am not conscious of having lost my temper, I trust that the injustice that has been done me, either purposely or unwillingly, by my opponents, has developed a larger measure of patience and forbearance toward my 'mistaken' brethren. While I am not insensible to wrong, I trust that in writing the rejoinder to Dr. Closs's strictures, I was as cool and dispassionate as a Christian should be; and that I cherished no unkinder or harsher feeling for him than I should for my own father, if he were living. Not having realized that I was "beaten in debate," I have felt no temptation to become 'furious' over it. Possibly Bro. Robey has judged me in this matter of 'temper' and 'fury' by his own feelings.

As to 'alleged misrepresentations,' etc., I will simply say that when I have made such a charge, I have generally supported it with specifications and proof. Can as much be said of Bro. R.'s sweeping charge of misrepresentation twice made?

I will now "make a virtue of necessity' and act on Father Blake's suggestion to "retire with dignity and grace" from the contest with a man who not only throws the "trash of Deism," etc. into my face, but who tries to throw the sand of ridicule into the eyes of your readers.

With kind feelings for all, I remain,
Fraternally yours,
JNO. R. BROOKS.

Goldsboro, 20th May, 1875.

Greensboro' Female College Commencement.

On Wednesday, June 2nd, at 8 o'clock, P. M., Rev. A. W. Mangum of Raleigh, will preach the Annual Sermon to the Senior Class in the College chapel.

On Thursday 3rd, at 10 o'clock, A. M., graduating exercises.

At 12 o'clock, Address by Rev. J. C. Granbery, D. D., of Richmond, Va.

Concert at night.

The Trustees will hold their annual meeting on Wednesday 2nd June, at 9 o'clock, A. M., in their session room in the College.

N. H. D. WILSON,
Pres. Board of Trustees.

NOTICE.

Arrangements have been made on the Seaboard & Roanoke R. R. and on the Blackwater Steamship Line, to pass and repass Delegates and visitors to the Washington District Conference, in Plymouth, for one fare.

Parties from the upper part of the District should buy through tickets, in Weldon, with this understanding.

Members of the Conference coming by private conveyance will report at the "Latham House," to be assigned to their homes: those by Steamer will be met at the wharf.

W. S. RONE.

Plymouth, May 13th, 1875.

Rev. A. W. Mangum, of Edenton Street Church, has been quite ill for the past week and is at present confined to his bed. We trust he will be fully restored to health this week, inasmuch as, besides the continual demands that his church makes upon him, he will be needed at Greensboro' next week, at the commencement exercises. Rev. Mr. Meacham occupied the pulpit of Edenton Street Church on Sunday morning, and Rev. J. P. Moore at night.

Assessments of the Board of Missions for 1875 6

THE Board of Missions, at its annual meeting recently held, instructed the Committee on Estimates, A. H. Radford, D. C. Kelley, and John S Bransford, to make out the assessment of one hundred thousand dollars, for the ensuing year, to the Annual Conferences on the basis heretofore adopted, viz., that for the support of the Bishops, adopted by the General Conference. The Committee have performed their task, and the following is the schedule:

Baltimore Conference	.....	$5,625
Virginia	"	6,220
Western Virginia	"	1.040
North Carolina	"	5,830
South Caro ina	"	2,910
North Georgia	"	5,620
South Georgia	"	4,160
Florida	"	830
Alabama	"	4,730
North Alabama	"	3,750
Louisiana	"	3,330
Mississippi	"	3,540
N. Mississippi	"	3,540
Memphis	"	5,000
Holston	"	2,900
Tennessee	"	6,860
Kentucky	"	4,160
Louisville	"	5,000
Denver	"	2,08
St. Louis	"	2,280
S. W. Missouri	"	2,280
Missouri	"	4,370
Western	"	416
Little Rock	"	2,500
Arkansas	"	1,250
White River	"	1,250
Indian Mission	"	104
Texas	"	1,800
North Texas	"	1,870
East Texas	"	1,460
N. W. Texas	"	1,730
West Texas	"	1,040
Columbia	"	208
Los Angeles	"	104
Pacific	"	625
Illinois	"	1,040
German	"	420
		$100,900

Religious Brevities

The health of Bishop Payne, we are glad to learn, is improving.

Rev. Dr. Curry, of the New York Christian Advocate, sailed for Liverpool on Saturday the 16th inst., to be absent three months. Dr. DePuy, his associate, will have editorial control of the Advocate during that time.

The Bishops of the M. E. Church, South, at their recent meeting in Nashville, appointed a "Week of Prayer," to begin Aug. 8, Friday included, to be observed as a day of fasting and prayer for God's special blessing upon the missionary labors of the Church, and for the institutions of learning.

The votes of the several annual conferences on the question of a change of General Rule on temperance, submitted by the last General Conference, were declared to be against the change

The Bishops, with other well known ministers, accepted an invitation to attend a reception given to Hon. Henry Wilson, Vice-President of the United States, at the residence of Col. Cole, President of Nashville and Chattanooga Railroad. The Governor and other dignitaries were present.

In a recent speech in Liverpool Dr. Punshon, alluding to missionary work, said he knew that this was rather an unquiet age, but he did not fear for the missionary cause. As to popery, it was broken in the head of its power; and if the Protestant Church was faithful there would very soon be made a path for the Bible chariot down the broadest street of the modern Babylon.

The statistical summaries of the British Wesleyan Church in London furnish the following:

Total number of members	21,199
On trial	1,055
Net increase in the year	578
Number of new members received during the year	2,518

The losses consisted almost entirely of deaths and removals.

The following are the appropriations for the ensuing year:

China	$ 7,500
Mexico	11,300
Indian Mission Conference	9,000
German Mission Conference in Texas and Louisiana	4,500
Western Conference	2,000
Denver Conference	3,000
Los Angeles Conference	3,000
Pacific Conference	5,000
Columbia Conference	4,000
Florida, including Cuban Mission at Key West	2,000
Brazil	1,000
Incidental and Contingent Fund	5,000

A Scotch lady of superior intelligence, who first heard Mr. Moody in Edinburgh, after visiting his meetings recently in London, writes under date of April 13, describing him as having greatly improved, both in manner and matter, during the last year and a half.

I have no doubt the society he has mingled within those eighteen months, with his natural shrewdness and power of discriminating, have combined to improve his manners. I must say it is a true improvement.

He has given up a great deal of those peculiar out-of-the way things he was wont to say at the beginning of his work.

He is much calmer, and exceedingly self possessed; he is what I would call "combed down," though not a whit less fervent and earnest; but he is certainly improved of peculiarities he used to have, which marred (to me at least) his utterances exceedingly.

Commendable Liberality.

The North Carolina "Home" Fire Insurance Company, the "Lynchburg Insurance and Banking Company of Lynchburg, Virginia, and the "Old North State" Fire Ins. Co., have each given a policy of $800.00 for one year, on the new Person Street Methodist Church in this city. The donations from the two first named companies were obtained through the aid of Maj. J. M. Tate, who is the General Agent for this State of the Lynchburg Insurance and Banking Co., and also a local agent for the N. C. "Home." The donation of the policy from the "Old North State" was secured through the influence of Rev. B. F. Long, the efficient secretary of that company.

As the conductors of the church organ in N. C., we wish to make this public acknowledgement, and to recommend our friend Maj Tate and the above companies, which we believe are thoroughly reliable, and as good as any in the State, to our readers and the public at large, as most worthy of confidence and patronage. These companies have agencies throughout the State. Hunt them up and insure your property. This gives the church a liberal insurance for the year, and for it the congregation is indebted to the liberality of the three companies named, which we feel sure they will remember, when they want other insurance—and not only that congregation, but others, who appreciate such acts of kindness.

If it were not so, I would have told you." Precious words! How much we may infer from what the Saviour has not told us. Not only is no abatement to be made from the words of Jesus, but they are surcharged with latent meaning. It is impossible that he should deceive his loving children. Yea, he will not permit them to deceive themselves. Their expectations shall not perish. All that they have hoped for will be theirs in full fruition, by and by. Respecting things which are unseen and eternal, there need be no anxiety. Embrace them in perfect peace and trust. If any failure or disappointment were possible here, "I would have told you." In these words of Jesus is a fountain of blessing from which we may draw without limit.

Rev. Dr. Peck, of the Union Theological Seminary of Virginia, will preach the baccalaureate sermon at Davidson College at the commencement in June, and the Rev. Dr. Smith, of Greensboro', the missionary sermon. As announced heretofore, Bishop Atkinson will deliver the annual address before the literary societies on Wednesday evening, June 23d.

An exchange says: "They have an advanced way of punishing drunkenness in Burmah. The druukard is paraded through the streets by the State ministers, who read the crime at the street corners, and lash him with thongs. He is then taken to the high court, flogged more severely and then sent home. If he is found guilty a second time he is treated in the same way, and then banished from the country."

A little girl being asked, "Can you tell me what bearing false witness against thy neighbor is?" replied, "It is when no body did anything, and somebody went and told of it."

NORTH CAROLINA.

A special term of the Superior Court will commence in Granville County on the 1st Monday in July.

A colored woman in Oxford was committed to prison, by Mayor Crews, to await her trial for an attempt to poison a little girl.

Once upon a time, not long ago, there was a cat near Oxford, N. C., that had three pretty little kittens. Two of them grew sick and lay down and died, to the great grief of the mother cat. But after this catastrophe the old cat for the purr puss of consoling herself for the loss of her children, went out into the field and caught two little rabbits, took them home and adopted them as members of her family. As the old cat's appetite is taken away by her grief and the third kitten has not grown hungry enough yet to feed upon ra(re)bits, the whole family live in peace and quiet. As soon as hunger begins to gnaw, the final claws will be added to this "feline tale," for which the Oxford TORCH LIGHT is responsible.

A colored woman died in Rockingham County recently, at the age at 108 years.

In Concord recently, Mr. John M. Long was shot in the leg by Mr. J. S. Henderson.

Chas. F. Harris, of Concord, editor of the AGRICULTURAL JOURNAL and Concord SUN, died in Wilmington on the 15th inst. just after the adjournment of the Press Association.

Gov. Montfort Stokes was once elected to the United States Senate and declined the honor.

The grounds adjacent to the Mineral Springs in Hickory, are being ornamented by the young men of the town.

Col. John L. Bridgers is to deliver the Agricultural address before the Agricultural Congress at Raleigh on the 13th of June.

At a land sale at Rocky Mount, the MAIL informs us that W. S. Battle bid off a beautiful lot and presented it to the Episcopal Church, a large amount having been already subscribed to build a church.

The steamer Schiller, which was shipwrecked last week on its trip across the ocean, contained among its three hundred lost passenge s, two North Carolinians Joseph Wile, of Greensboro, and Miss Sue Dimmock of Washington.

Judge Moore at the late term of Tarboro court, we learn from the SOUTHERNER, decided that Mr. Norfleet was entitled to the position of Superior Court Clerk instead of Mr. Staton, appointed by Mr. Hilliard while he was acting in the capacity of Judge.

A squad of troops has been sent into Yadkin county at the request of a number of citizens and officials, for the better enforcement of the Revenue laws.

A FOUL MURDER.—The Salisbury WATCHMAN gives an account of the heinous murder of Mrs. Sarah Heilig, near Salisbury, N. C, by her son-in-law William Meisimer. On the morning of the 15th inst., in the absence of the grand son of Mrs Heilig, Meisimer supposing that Mrs. H. had a large sum of money in her possession, approached the house and committed the foul deed by repeated blows upon her head, crushing her skull, and then throwing the dead body into the well. The body was discovered the next day and suspicion pointing to Misheimer as the murderer, he was arrested while attempting to escape. He obtained only five dollars as the reward of his greed but will find his other reward on the gallows and in the Hereafter. Mrs. Heilig was about 70 years of age and a lady of great respectability.

George M. Cunningham who was convicted some six months ago for the murder of Daniel Sternbergh, in Buncombe county, was re-sentenced to be hung on the 28th May.

The following items relating to the Centennial celebration at Charlotte are taken from the Richmond ENQUIRER of the 20th inst:

Governor Thomas A. Hendricks, of Indiana, in reponse to the toast, "The United State our Common Country," said he had not known until he entered the door that he was to speak, but that was a toast he was ever ready to respond to; his reponse he knew would be as well received here as in his own State of Indiana. On the soil where the declaration of Mecklenburg was made he felt sure there was as great a love of liberty and equality of States as anywhere. The equality of States had not been respected, and that was the only cause of difference between the States. The Governor excused himself from further speaking and was warmly and enthusiastically applauded.

The Richmond battalion of infantry and artillery has won golden opinions for soldierly bearing and proficiency. Fayetteville and Raleigh have also sent companies. The Howitzers were compelled to leave their guns in park to-day for want of horses, though they exercised great enterprise in efforts to secure them.

The celebration was closed to night by a grand centennial mass-meeting around the Liberty pole erected yesterday on Independence Square. Governor Brogden presided and introduced Governor Chamberlain, of South Carolina, who made a temperate and patriotic speech.

He was followed by Governor Hendricks in a stiring address, full of fraternal feeling.

Then came Governor Vance with a speech of characteristic fervor and eloquence.

Loud calls were then made for ex-Governor Walker, who, although not on the stand, was induced to respond. His speech was one of the most effective of the day or night, and the manner of its reception was most enthusiastic.

Colonel H. M. Polk, of Tennessee, and others, followed, and the celebration ended at a late hour amid patriotic and pyrotechnic demonstrations of various kinds.

We learn from the Warrenton GAZETTE that a Mr. Curran, who had charge of Mr. Thomas Flemming's mill, near Gardner's Church, took his hammer and went down under the large water wheel to wedge up some of the machinery. This was while the mill was grinding. Soon after his disappearance, the mill stopped and an investigation revealed the horrible spectacle of Mr. Curran's multilated body ground to a pulp in the wheels.—His clothing was doubtless caught in the cogs, and he was found with a knife in his hand, evidently having used it to liberate himself from his perilous position. He was heard to call his wife, but the unhappy lady could not reach him until life was extinct.—Mr. Curran was about 35 years old, and leaves a wife and several children.

We learn that several of the emigrants who have recently left this section of the State for Indiana and other western States have not found the Eldorado they expected, and will return home to the Old North State as soon as they can make their way back. They report that the demand for labor is light and that there are more hands than can find employment.—WINSTON SENTINEL.

A SAD ACCIDENT.—While attending the Centennial Celebration at Charlotte last week, as a member of the Raleigh Light Artillery and engaged in firing a salute of one hundred guns on the morning of the 20th, Mr. Wiley Williams, a brother of one of the most trusted printers in the ADVOCATE office, was severely injured by the premature firing of a cannon which he was loading. Being an expert gunner he had gained one shot over the others, and the cannon from the frequent and rapid firing having become very hot, the charge of powder exploded prematurely, the ramrod tearing his left fore arm off near the wrist, as well as two or three fingers of his right hand. He had fired about fifty shots and was on the point of being relieved when the sad accident occurred. He was attended by Drs. Graham and Gibbon and taken to the house of Thos. Dewey, Esq., where the most kindly attention has been bestowed upon him. Immediately after the accident, the Raleigh Companies raised a subscription of seven hundred dollars for his benefit, and we learn that it was afterwards swelled to thousands by the sympathizing visitors and people at Charlotte. Of this generosity Mr. Williams knew and perhaps now knows nothing. He was a gallant soldier during the late war, and as a member of the brave and famous "Manly's Battery," for four years stood undaunted at the cannon's mouth and "rammed the cartridge home," receiving no wounds during the long danger to which he was exposed.

On Friday evening a similar accident happened to Mr. Bingham, of the same company, by which he lost his left arm.

We direct attention to the advertisement of the 'Old North State Fire Insurance Company of which W. S. Davis, Esq. is President and Rev. B. F. Long, Secretary. The showing that the report of its condition makes, is a good one and we are glad to know that its business is large and increasing. It is a 'home' company and should be patronized liberally by our people, especially when it is considered as safe as any company doing business in the State.

In 1854 the wool exported from San Francisco was 175,000 pounds, valued at $74,000 In 1874 there were 36,088,701 pounds exported, valued at $8,182,000.

Of the 221,042 teachers in the county, 125,713 are women.

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF RALEIGH EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING.---TERMS $2.20 POSTAGE PAID.

Our Agents.

As the traveling and local preachers in the bounds of the North Carolina Conference are authorized to act. Any person sending us ten subscribers, for one year, will receive the paper free.

Our Correspondents.

Communications for publication should be carefully written, and on but one side of the sheet. All letters intended for this office should be addressed to the Editor.

How to Remit.

In ordering money, all amounts should be sent in Registered letters, postoffice order or check. The cost of Registration, or Post Office order can be deducted from the amount remitted. If money is sent otherwise than registered it will be at the sender's risk.

General News.

Some one pretends to have gotten rich to the tune of $6 000 in the whisky frauds at Richmond, Va.

The soldier Singers left New York for Cuba, May 1st.

A million dollars in coin is according to the estimate of the mint weight just about two tons.

A new two cent silver piece is to be issued from mints authorized by the act of Congress of March 3 1875.

The Clarkson University, which already has a Medical and a Theological depart ment, has opened a law school with the Massachusetts Agricultural College at Amherst.

Miss Sumner Sellner, which left New York, for Hamburg was wrecked off the Scilly Islands on the coast. A dense fog prevailed in the regions of the Islands being the days lives were lost.

Crown Princess of Germany is a devoted reader of a great portion of her time to the study of Shakespeare and translating passages from the Bard into German for electoral purposes.

A resolution in Washington Territory has been introduced in the Legislature to prohibit the killing of deer for the next seven years. The object is to increase the number of deer in the Territory.

Mr. Jefferson Davis has received from Mr. Gladstone, the Liberal Premier of England, a letter of sympathy in his present affliction. Mr. Gladstone writes from his hair, which consists of large tufts on the centre of the head, while the remainder of the head is covered with short hair.

The Secretary of the Treasury has received from the Secretary of State the sum of $1,000 paid by France to Germany, amounting to about one billion dollars. The money was paid within twenty-seven days. The papers regarding the matter are interesting as showing the rapidity of financial achievements of any kind.

Governor Hendricks, of Indiana, has revoked the pardon granted by Governor Baker to Benjamin Young $500 per year, giving as the reason that Young had violated the conditions of the pardon in that he had left the State, and that there was no legal authority for his return.

Lord Derby, in reply to the English Liberals who were pleased at a certain Russian and Austrian seated expressed his belief that he was conscientiously opposed to the measure, and the Liberals dismissed him in his family and friends over his perhaps.

The Duke of Cleveland, one of the Queen's Commissioners to the recent Agricultural Show at Dublin, said that Ireland could yield more than four times as much as it now does, if the agriculture of that country were known at the present day. He instanced Louisiana as the place where the finest crop he saw was ever produced.

The first cotton bale of the season was recently sent from Atlanta to Birmingham, Ala., at a cost of only $1 more per ton than it would cost to take the same to Liverpool. This shipment was sold at $95 per ton, leaving a small margin, and the Rolling Iron Company, of Cedar Bluff Furnace, are preparing to ship a number of such cargoes to the English market.

Rumors come before the activity as he could, the editor's duties, accepted the position of the principal of the industrial school to be connected with the University, and he is working with great zeal upon his Measures, which he expects to execute in two years. Besides he is engaged upon a History of Art, of which he has completed only the Italian portion.

Rev. Moses Point (Miss.) Times says the Delta prospect for a crop is more promising at this time than any year since the war. The seed and cut crop is better than ever before. The largest acreage of wheat in some years, and heading out beautiful.

Two cities of wood produced in different parts of the State for more numerous than ever before. At the Paris Exhibition of 1867, there were from forty five countries, no less than 3,760 different articles exhibited, 205 coming from the United States, 55 from Asia, 366 from Africa, 55 from Asia, 366 from Australia and the remainder from Europe.

Contributions are coming in from all parts of the country for the relief of the colored persons. A new Orleans, Hon. H. Stephens, Colonel of the Macon Telegraph and Messenger, Rev. Dr. Tyng, Rev. Dr. Cuyler, Rev. Dr. Talmage, Peabody, ex-Governor Hamilton, and distinguished lawyer of Augusta, Ga., by one of those cars, on the Georgia train from Griffin. These cars, however, were informed that they were not allowed to occupy the car, and were compelled to occupy the smallest aside for the colored. The local of this road were not loud in their praise.

Deaths.

Obituary notices of twenty lines are inserted free of charge. The excess over twenty lines or words is charged for at the rate of 10 cents per line. Count the lines and words to the line. In this way you can always know the amount to enclose when you desire respect as subject to the same rule.

Died, at the Parsonage in Snow Hill, May 5th, in the 5th year of his age, Edgar Lawson, son of Jas P. and Nannie W. Simpson. A sweet, chaste pure and refined, peaceful home with its fragrant breath, and has caught up to heaven. We miss him.

THE PARENTS.

Mrs. S. J. Rekem, wife of Mr. John A. Rekem, of Fayetteville, was born in Cumberland Co. Feb. 7th 1819, removed to town with her husband in Feb. 1873, and has months suffering with consumption died at 2 o'clock on the morning of the 17th, 1875. It can be truly said of her that she "fell asleep" for while she remembered her, Creator, she accomplished his spirit, leaned upon him in affliction and sustained sufferer, never murmured but had readiness to go and even said that she only waiting the welcome above. Dear husband mourn and regret their sad loss, but be to her, death is gain. Earth is far, far Heaven resplendent. May her dear husband look to Jesus her friend through the once idol of his heart through Christ he can see that she is gain in the skies. May that consolation hand that took her, send to Heaven open, direct and unerring little book through earth to the realms of glory spirit that new numbers with sacred Heaven's crown. Tell her dear and sister when they hear the sad Departure though far away from embrace in death, and friends around when from earth Jesus took her.

A FRIEND.

Died on April 5th 1875, of cancer, Mrs. Rhoda of several months. Aisey wife of Lawrence Moore.

She possessed religion and joined Church some two years ago, always been very pious for several possessed all of those beautiful to make up a christian character was more prominently than a perfect resignation to the Heavenly Father.

Since and we visited her often and a message and strengthen her in mercy of God to his children, and was very happy in the enjoyment of the blessed hope. Her death was calm and peaceful. Our sister has fallen in the 17th year of life and has added her testimony with many others that God will never leave nor forsake those that trust Him.

CLASS LEADER

Burned to Death.—At Kenakeet, Dare Co., N. C., May 3rd 1875, Miss Esther Scarborough, aged 19 years, was burned to death. While engaged in preparing supper about 12 o'clock, her dress caught fire, it is supposed from the fireplace at which she was cooking, and before the flames could be subdued, her clothes had been entirely burned off her.

She lingered until 12 o'clock the next day, perfectly conscious, but without any sense of feeling, or pain. And then fell asleep.

Miss Cenie Scarboro, another young lady was severely burned, in attempting to rescure her.

Esther, was a young lady, in whom seemed to be centered all those beautiful traits that would naturally conspire to form a truly good and noble character, and she was a consistent member of the Methodist Church South.

P. J. DELAMAR

Col. Francis Watkins, was born 13th of Oct. 1812, and died at his home in Rockingham co. 29th of March 1875, For forty years he was a member of the Methodist Church in whose communion he peacefully died.

A short time before expiring he announced to his wife that he was done with this world and expressed his willingness to depart. In the latter part of his illness his sufferings were great, but now his suffering time has ended.

Col. Watkins was a man of more than ordinary mind, not demonstrative but quiet and unobtrusive. Thus has passed from our midst an honored and valuable citizen and a christian gentleman.

He leaves an affectionate wife and a host of friends and relations to mourn his loss.

May God grant them all a happy reunion with him in heaven!

W. C. NORMAN.

Letters and Funds.

Rev A B Bett- for S W Barns $2.20, P A Hoyle 2 20, D N McLean, Rev T P Rigsand for J Shankle 2 20, W H Smith 2 20, B F Lilly 2.20, Mrs M E Waddill 2 20 J H Ivey 2.20, Miss J Eddleman 2,20 Mrs M S Parker 2.20, Rev A A Boshamer for J J Riggan 2.20 Rev W D Rone P Scarboro, Rev J P Campson, W E Best sell 2 20, E E Smith, A J Brincefield, Geo P Rowell & Co N W Ayer & Son, Rev J N Somers for H W Miller 2,20 Rev E A Yates, Rev B F Long for adv 20, B I Powell, Rev C C Dobson for R Dorsett 2 20 H H Durham 2 20, Rev J P Simpson, Rev R A Willis pap r sent. H W Robinson paper has been regularly sent. B Batty sell 2 20, Rock Bros. Rev V A Gregson for J A Brown 2 20, Rev M L Wood for J A Finkebaiher 2 20 J H Howard sell 1. S Neal, B H Hearne, Rev J J Carden paper sent, Rev F D Swindell papers sent, Rev M V Sherrill paper continued Rev Dr Burkhead, P H Walker & Co. F P Hauck, June 2 Weller sell 1 10 Rev J P Simpson for R Smith 2.20 Rev A Gregson sell 2 20 Rev P F W Stamey, Rev N M Jarvey C D Eason, W D Rountree, Rev R S Webb for S Puryear 2,20 other paper sent Miss F A Beckham sell 2. 20, Rev Z Rash papers sent, Rev T Page Rhoad paper sent. Rev J F Craven for A Gray 2 20. R Rowley N W Ayer & Son, Rev L W Crawford for Mrs H L Murphy 2 20.

Moody and Sankey creating such a revival furore in Great Britain,doubtless owe much of their success to the popularity of their hymn tunes. Sankey's best efforts are in the "Gospel Singer," Philip Phillips' new books for Sunday Schools Sample copy by mail, 35 cents. Lee & Walker, publishers, Philadelphia, Pa. May 26-1t.

Appointments.

SHELBY DISTRICT.

3RD ROUND, 1S PART.

Cherry Mountain, Hopewell,	June 19 20
Shelby ct Sulphur Springs,	" 26 27
Dallas, Sandy's Chapel,	July 3- 4
Rutherford Pleasant Grove,	" 10-11
Lincoln Co-roger,	" 17-18
Shelby District Conference,	" 22-25

L. S. BURKHEAD, P. E.
Shelby, N. C.

RALEIGH DISTRICT.

3RD ROUND, Q. M.

Granville at Bullocks,	June 5- 6
Raleigh at Person st.	" 12-13
Louisburg station,	" 19-20
Raleigh at Edenton st.	" 26 27
Fair R ver at Trinity,	July 3- 4
Henderson at Zion	" 10-11
Asheville at Oaky Grove,	" 17-18
District Conference at Oxford, inclusive.	" 22 25
Nashville and Rocky Mount,	August 7- 8
Gary,	" 14-15
Smithfield,	" 21-22
Youngville,	" 28-29

The introductory sermon at the District Conference will be preached by Rev. J. E. Thompson.

The District Stewards will please meet me at the Methodist Church in Oxford on Saturday July 24th.

J. P. MOORE, P. E.
Harrenton, N. C

WILMINGTON DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND.

Magnolia at Bryant,	March 20 21
Wilming on, 5 h St.,	" 27-28
Colesbury at Aweasboro,	April 3- 4
Clinton at Andrew Chapel,	" 10-11
Kenansville at Richlands,	" 17-18
Smithville at Bethel,	" 24-25
Wilmington Front street,	May 1- 2
Bladen at Deems Chp'l	" 8- 9
Cape Fear Miss.	" 15-16
Elizabeth,	" 22-23
Whiteville, Fair Bluff,	June 5- 6
Topsail,	" 12-13
Onslow,	" 19-20

The Wilmington District Conference will be held at Magnolia, embracing the 5th Sunday in May, beginning on Wednesday before at 10 o'clock, a. m.

Rev J. Sanford will preach the opening sermon on Wednesday at 11 o'clock, a. m.

W. S. BLACK, P. E.
Magnolia N. C

NEWBERN DISTRICT.

2ND. ROUND.

Straits,	April 3- 4
Beaufort, Wednesday,	" 7
Kinston,	" 10-11
Jones, Shady Grove, Tuesday.	" 13
Garnett, Adam's Creek,	" 17-18
Wayne at Stantonburg,	" 24-25
Newbern,	May 1- 2
Lenoir, Piney Grove, Tuesday.	" 4
Mt. Olive, (Dist Conf.)	" 6- 9
Snow Hill, Ormond's Chapel,	" 15-16
Goldsboro,	" 22-23
Nonse and Swift Creek, Bay River,	" 29-30
Craven, Macedonia, Wed. & Thurs. June	16-17
Wilson,	" 19-20

The District Conference of the Newbern District will commence its session at Mt. Olive on May the 6th. Thursday morning, at 9 o'clock. The general understanding among the brethren is that all will remain until Monday. Brethren outside of the District are cordially invited, and we cordially expect one or both of the Editors of the Advocate.

E. A. YATES, P. E
Beaufort N. C.

WASHINGTON DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

Roanoke at Enfield,	April 3- 4
Tarboro at Whites,	" 10-11
Williamson at Hamilton,	" 17-18
Plymouth and Jamesville, at Plymouth,	" 24-25
Columbia, at Scuppernong,	May 1- 2
Bath, at Hebron,	" 8- 9
Rattan-keet, at Amity,	" 15-16
Washington and Greenville, at Greenville,	" 22-23
Warren, at Bethlehem,	June 12-13

The District Conference for Washington District will hold its session at Plymouth commencing May 27th at 11 o'clock. Opening sermon by Dr. M. Foy.

The District Stewards will please meet me in Plymouth the 27th of May at 3 o'clock P. M.

WM. CLOSS, P. E.

CHARLOTTE DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND.

Pleasant Grove ct	April 3- 4
South Charlotte at Fair View.	" 10-11
Concord sta. and Concord ct.	" 17-18
Wadesboro sta.	" 24-25
Pineville ct,	May 1- 2
Wadesboro and at Pleasant Hill,	" 8- 9
Lilesville,	"
Tryon st. and Cedar ry Mis.	" 15-16
Ashmore and Stanley	" 22 23
Mt Pleasant,	" 29-30
Anconville,	June 5- 6

J. S. NELSON, P. E.
Monroe, N. C.

GREENSBORO DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND.

North Guilford at Friendship, Thomasville, H. Point, and Trinity station	March 20-21
Wentworth, Carmel,	April 3- 4
Winston sta.	" 10-11
Greensboro,	" 17-18
South Guilford, Bethany.	" 24-25
Randolph, Ashboro,	May 1- 2
Davidson at Mt. Pleasant,	" 8- 9
Madison at Leaksville,	" 15-16
Forsythe at Loves,	" 22-23
Stokes,	" 29-30

Fair Grove " 27-28

N. H. D. WILSON, P. E.
Greensboro, N. C.

SALISBURY DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

Salisbury circuit, Gay's Chapel	May, 1- 2
Alexander circuit, Stony Point,	" 8 9
Wilkes circuit, Bethel.	" 15-16
Yadkinville circuit, Mt. Mariah.	" 22-23
Surry et S. Mission, Olive Branch	" 26-27
Mt. Airy Station,	" 29-30
Olin circuit, Clark's Berry,	June 5- 6

D. R. BRUTON, P. E.
Statesville, N. C

FAYETTEVILLE DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

Carthage, Fairpromise,	March 20-21
Jonesboro, Cool Spring,	" 27-28
Cumberland, Camp Ground,	April 3- 4
Pco Dee, Sardis,	" 10-11
Buckhorn, Holly Springs,	" 17-18
Fayetteville,	" 24-25
Laurinburg, St. John,	May 1- 2
Roseson, Regan's,	" 8- 9
Rockingham, Green Lake,	" 15-16
Uwharrie, Oak Grove,	" 22-23
Montgomery, Mt. Pleasant,	" 29-30

S. D. ADAMS, P. E.
Carthage, N. C.

The Fayetteville District Conference will be held at Carthage, embracing the 1st Sunday in June, commencing on Thursday before at 11 o'clock. Bishop Marvin will preside.

HILLSBORO DISTRICT.

2ND. ROUND.

Flat River, Mt. Hebron, Hillsboro station,	April 3- 4
Alamance ct. Bethel,	" 10-11
C. H. & Haw River ct. Ebenezer,	" 17 18
Pittsboro ct. Chatham Church,	May 24-25
Deep River ct.	" 1- 2
Person ct. Mt Tirza,	" 8- 9
Leasburg ct. Concord.	" 15-16
Yanceyville ct. Shady Grove,	" 22-23

L. L. HENDREN, P. E.
Chapel Hill N. C.

COMMERCIAL REPORT.

WHOLESALE CASH PRICES.

Office of CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, May 25, 1875.

REMARKS.

Business continues quiet. Meats and sugars are very firm and quiet.

COTTON.

Transactions in the staple yesterday very light Low middlings 15¼

General Market.

BAGGING, Domestic 2¼ to 2½ yd. 13 -12@14.
COTTON TIES, 7s8.
FLOUR, North Carolina $7.50.@
CORN 95@100
CORN MEAL—$1.00
BACON, N. C. hog round, 15.
" hams 18.
BULK C. R. sides, 13 1-2
" shoulders, 11 1-2
LARD, North Carolina, none.
" Western tierces, 11 1-2@0
" kegs, 12 1-2
COFFEE, Prime Rio, 23 1-2
" Fair Rio, 22 1-2.
SYRUP, common, 40.
MOLASSES, Cuba, 50.
SALT $2.25.
CHEESE, Cream, 18 1-2.
" Factory, 17.
" Dairy, none.
NAILS, on basis for 10d, $4.00.
SUGAR A 11 1-2.
" Extra C. 11 1-4.
" Yellow, 9@10 1-2.
LEATHER, Sole 27 1-2@30
HIDES, green, 7@8.
" dry, 13 1-2
TALLOW, 9@10
POTATOES, sweet 90@100
" Irish. $1.00@$1.25.
OATS, shelled, 85. @90
" sheaf, $1.25.
FODDER, old, $1.75
HAY, N. C. baled, good, $1.25.
CHICKENS, grown, 25 @30
EGGS, 17 1-2@12 1-2
BUTTER, country, 22 1-2@25.
FISH, Mullets, $7.00.
" Cut Herrings, none.
" Mackerel, new family, $12.00
BEES WAX, 25.
RAGS, 2@3
BEEF, on foot, 6@8.
" dressed prime, 8@10.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

OLD NORTH STATE FIRE Insurance Company. OF WARRENTON, ----- N. C.,

This Company has closed its third year in a condition of GREAT PROSPERITY, and entered upon its fourth year under the MOST PROMISING AUSPICES.

It deserves the liberal patronage which it is receiving because

It is a home Institution.
It has ample Capital and Reserves.
It pays its losses promptly.

ASSETS.

Cash on hand and in Bank,	$ 8 621 53
Cash in hands of Agents,	4,954 00
Stock Notes,	45,670 00
Real Estates Mortgage,	59,908 50
Loaned on Collaterals,	7,647 68
Due for premiums,	3,720 68
Interest due and accrued,	914 78
	$130,397 19

LIABILITIES.

All liabilities including full re-insurance Reserved,	$18,499 91
Surplus,	111,816 88
	$130,397 19

WM. S. DAVIS, President.
B. F. LONG, Secretary.

NEW ARRIVALS.

FRESH GOODS AT THE CHEAP CASH HOUSE. —OF— W. H. & R. S. Tucker.

We have just received 8 cases of 4-4 Bleached Cotton, at 10, 11 1-2, 12 1-2, 14 and 16 cents. Greater bargains never offered before Also 9-4, 9-4, 10-4, 11-4 and 12 4 Bleached Shirtings.

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

GUANPRURE, HONITON AND HAMBURG NETS, Of the most desirable fashionable and stylish goods for Ladies' Over Jackets and Overskirts, just received at

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

BURT'S CLOTH BUTTON BOOTS FOR Ladies. Burt's Cloth Laced Boots, for Ladies Burts' Buttoned and Lace Kid Boots for Ladies. A full line of this celebrated make of goods always kept by

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

FANS! FANS!! FANS!!!

We have just opened a beautiful and well selected line of Folding Fans, Japs Bamboo, Rattan Silk Linen and Satin from 10 cents to $10 00

2,000 Natural Handle Palm Fans, three for 10 cents, at the unprecedented low price cash house of

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

$5 TO $20 per day. Agents wanted. All classes of working people of both sexes, young and old, make more money at work for us, in their own localities, during their spare moments, or all the time, than at any thing else. We offer employment that will pay handsomely for every hour's work. Full particulars, terms, &c., sent free Send us your address at once. Don't delay. Now is the time Don't look for work or business elsewhere, until you have learned what we offer. G. STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

May 26 1-y

AGENTS WANTED for the fastest selling book ever published Send for circulars and our extra terms to Agents. NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Philadelphia, Pa. may 26 4-4

STUDY YOUR INTEREST!

We strive to increase our trade by giving our customers the best bargains to be had in the city.

PETTY & JONES.

LATEST STYLES AND NOVELTIES in FANS, including Centennial, Thermometer, Turkish, Morocco and Silk, just opened and offered at lowest prices, by

PETTY & JONES.

PRINTS! PRINTS!! PRINTS!!

Large quantities late t patterns, at

PETTY & JONES.

REAL LISLE THREAD UNDERWAISTS for Gentlemen and Silk Mitts for Ladies, just opened at

PETTY & JONES.

5000 YARDS BEST AMERICAN LAWN, solid and figured—large variety—this season's patterns, this day opened; worth 2¢ cents, but rapidly selling at 12 1-2 cents, by

PETTY & JONES.

COTTONADES! COTTONADES! COTTONADES!!!

Several new cases handsome assortment of patterns and variety, lower than at any time of the season, at

PETTY & JONES.

BELDING BROTHERS SPOOL SILK—best in the market—all colors warranted as represented or money refunded at PETTY & JOHES.

ANOTHER LARGE LOT OF those elegant Grass Cloths, 36. 38 and 40 inches wide. Latest shades in plain and cords, at prices which make them cheaper than calicos. Ordered this day at

PETTY & JONES.

WE DO NOT HESITATE TO say that all who examine our stock and prices will be convinced that we keep only new and desirable goods, and sell at lowest prices.

PETTY & JONES.
No. 29 Fayetteville Street.

may 26-tf.

THE BROOK WALTER ENGINE

Three Horse Power,	$250.00
Four and-a-half do.,	300.00

Twenty-Five Now Running in the State

JULIUS LEWIS & CO.

SOLE AGENTS.

Write for Circulars.

WE DEAL IN ALL KINDS OF STEAM Engines, Saws and Belting, Sash, Doors and Blinds.

We guarantee BEST GOODS at Rock-Bottom Prices!

We also guarantee our goods to be thoroughly seasoned, or no sale.

Write for price.

Largest stock in the State!

HARDWARE HOUSE OF

JULIUS LEWIS & CO.,
Fisher Building, Raleigh, N. C.

IN SEASON AND JUST RECEIVED

Fly-Traps,
Ice Cream Freezers,
Water-Coolers,

JULIUS LEWIS & CO.

LIME, LIME, LIME!

Received Weekly Fresh!

may 19-tf JULIUS LEWIS & CO.

TO THE PUBLIC.

The undersigned would respectfully announce to the citizens of Wake and adjoining counties, that he has taken the store formerly occupied by Messrs. Wyatt, Hughes & Co., (directly opposite the "Daily News" office, on Market and Martin streets,) and has opened an entire new stock of House Furnishing Goods,

HARDWARE,
CROCKERY,
HOLLOW WARE, AND TIN WARE,
LAMP CHIMNEYS,
WICK, AND KEROSENE OILS,

of the most approved brands, at retail.

Having been engaged in this business for many years in Newbern, N. C., and being one of the first to introduce Stoves in Eastern North Carolina, I shall make this branch

A SPECIALTY.

Among which may be found the

FARMER COOK STOVE,

which has been the LEADING STOVE for many years in the Eastern section of the State. Also the Superb NIAGARA and QUAKER CITY—all of which are having a very large sale.

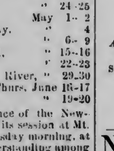
Persons wishing to make purchases in my line of Goods, I will try and make it to their advantage to give me a call.

Very respectfully,

C. A. HART.

may 19-3m

The Diamond COTTON CHOPPER. IMPROVED & WARRANTED



Cotton Planter.

Weeds and Blades, $15. Cotton Planter and Guano Distributer, $25. Cultivator, $20. Planter, Distributer and Cultivator combined, $35. COTTON PLANTER attachment, $7.50 extra. All warranted. Agents wanted. Send stamp for illustrated Circular with warranties and certificates, to D. C. C. & C. Co., FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., or to Local Agt.

may 5-4t.

A GREAT OFFER! HORACE WATERS & SONS 481 BROADWAY, NEW YORK, will dispose of 100 PIANOS & ORGANS of first class makers, including WATERS', at EXTREMELY LOW PRICES for cash, DURING THIS MONTH, or part cash, and balance in small monthly payments. The same to let. WATERS' New Scale Pianos, are the best made. The fourth dimple, and a fine singing tone, powerful, pure and even WATERS' Concerto ORGANS cannot be excelled in tone or beauty; they defy competition; The Concerto Stop is a fine imitation of the Human Voice. Agents Wanted.

A liberal discount to Teachers, Ministers, Churches, Schools, Lodges, etc. Special inducements to the trade. Illustrated Catalogues Mailed.

May 12 4-t

12 Chromos for $1. The grandest chance ever offered to agents. We will mail to any address, post paid, 12 beautiful Oil Chromos, size 9x11, mounted, on receipt of $1. Sell for $3 in an hour. Try a Chromo agency. It is the best paying agency out. Everybody loves and buys pictures We have work and money for all, men and women, boys and girls, whole or spare time, daytime or evening, at home or traveling Inclose $1 in a letter. Chromos by return mail. They sell at sight.

WANTED Agents for the best selling Prize package in the world. It contains 15 sheets paper, 15 envelopes, Pen, Penholder, Pencil, patent Yard Measure, package of Perfumery, and a piece of Jewelry. Single package with elegant prize sent paid, 25 cents

BEST Selling Imitation Gold Watch, in the market. This is a Pure Coin Silver Hunting Cased Watch; English reticed gold plate; sunk second Dial; Full Jewelled; Expansion Balance; Nickel Movements; beautifully engraved Cases; and is equal in appearance to a Gold Watch that costs from $60 to $100. It sells and trades readily, for from $25 to $60. If you wish a watch for your own use, or to make money on, try this. Price $17 only. We will send this watch C. O. D. subject to examination, if you send $2 with the order, the balance of $15 you can pay the Express Co., if the watch proves satisfactory.

ALL can make splendid pay selling our goods. We have other novelties which are salable as Flour. Send stamp for our illustrated catalogue.

Address F. P. GLUCK, New Bedford, Mass.

May 5-1-y

FOR SALE.

The House and Lot, in the city of Raleigh, formerly owned by Mrs. H. A. Husted, on corner of Person and Martin Streets. Six rooms in the Dwelling—fine floor, kitchen, &c. A well of good water. Also 25 shares in the Paper Mill property, on Neuse River.

May 1st, 1875.

Apply to J. C. SLOCUMB, Executor, Goldsboro. or W. H. CROW, Esq., Raleigh.

May 12 4t.

VIRGINIA BUFFALO SPRINGS,

Mecklenburg County, Virginia.

OPEN 20th OF MAY, 1875.

Some of the most remarkable cures upon record have been made by these waters in affections of the Kidneys and Bladder, in diseases peculiar to women, and in Dyspepsia, in Gout and Rheumatism dependent upon Uric acid in the blood, they have given the most decided relief. In derangements of the Biliary Organs, in Chronic Intermittent and Remittent Fevers, and all diseases peculiarly incident to the miasmatic regions of the South they are well nigh specific.

Testimonials sent to any address on application.

This water is put up in cases of one dozen half gallon bottles at $6 per case.

Passengers for this place leave the cars of the Richmond and Atlantic Air Line Rail Road at the Scottsburg Depot in Halifax County, Virginia, where all trains are met by coaches for the Springs, 12 miles distant.

Testimonials of distinguished medical men as to the value of these waters:

By Dr. Wm T. Howard, Professor of diseases of women in the University of Maryland. "Were I called upon to state from what mineral waters I have seen the greatest and most unmistakable amount of good accrue in the largest number of cases, in a general way, I should unhesitatingly say, The Buffalo Springs in Mecklenburg County, Virginia."

By Dr. Hunter McGuire, of the Richmond Virginia Medical College: "Of all the mineral waters in the country, I believe this is one of the most valuable."

By Dr. Wm. H. McKee, of Raleigh, N. C.; "I regard this water as adapted to all functional derangements of the stomach depending upon indigestion by whatever cause produced; to the diseases incident to those sections of the country where levers of a billo-malarial type prevail, and especially to the peculiar diseases of females. In Chloro Anemic diseases of females it is invaluable. It restores the functions of digestion and assimilation, renews the blood and gives tone to the secretory system. As a tonic, Alterative, Diuretic and Diaphoretic, I know of no remedy equal to it."

Spring No. 2, recently discovered, is different in its medical properties from the original Spring, and has a special adaptation to diseases of the urinary passages."

By Dr. Alfred Plummer, of Manson, N. C.: "In affections of the stomach, bowels, liver and urinary organs upon systems prostrated by repeated attacks of chills and levers, and in diseases peculiar to women, these waters produce the happiest and most decided results. It is however, in the diseases of women, especially when attended by nervous prostration that the great remedial powers of these waters are most conspicuous."

THOS F. GOODE,
apl 21-4m. Proprietor.

WAGON MATERIAL.

SPOKES,
RIMS,
HUBS,
AXLES,
BOLTS,
IRON,
&C.

BUGGY MATERIAL.

SPOKES,
RIMS,
HUBS,
AXLES, SPRINGS,
BOLTS,
IRON,
SHAFTS, BODIES,
&C.

BRIGGS & SONS.

Raleigh, N. C.

Remington Handled Steel Cotton Hoes &c., &c.

Write for CIRCULAR of anything wanted.

apl 28-tf

THE REPEAL OF THE USURY LAW

will doubtless be the first question that will attract the attention of our next Legislative Assembly, but as that is a long ways ahead, it becomes necessary to learn something exciting for present use. Hence we announce the fact that

Weikel, The Irrepressible Merchant Tailor,

has just returned from the North with a stock of

FRENCH AND ENGLISH CLOTHS,
DIAGONALS, STRIPED, CHECKED AND PLAIN CASSIMERES,
SPRING AND SUMMER SUITINGS

OF EVERY DESCRIPTON.

LIGHT CASSIMERES FOR PANTS VESTINGS. &c.

the like of which is creating even more excitement on Fayetteville Street than

THE CHANGE OF GAUGE

did on the line of the North Carolina Rail Road.

He has in Store and now on exhibition, the largest and most attractive stock ever offered to the

RALEIGH PUBLIC

before and all in want would do well to call early, as the rush has already commenced.

The Manufacturing Department is complete in all its branches, with the best workmen in the State on the bench.

Orders from the Country respectfully solicited and satisfaction guaranteed.

April 14-3m

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT.

What are Your Symptoms? Are they pain in the right side, yellowness of the eyes, nausea, debility, irregularity of the bowels and headache? If so, your liver is wrong; and to set it right and give tone and vigor to your system, the one thing needful is Tarrant's Seltzer Aperient.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

May 19 2-t

A. G. LEE. ED. H. LEE. GEO R. LEE.

A STRICTLY COMMISSION HOUSE.

A. G. LEE & SONS.

RALEIGH, N. C.

We give our entire attention to handling goods on COMMISSION, and therefore can handle to advantage consignments of

Corn,	Corn Meal,	Chickens,
Hay,	N. C. Flour,	Eggs,
Fodder,	" Bacon,	and all the
Shuck,	or Green Pork,	products of
Oats,	Beef,	the farm
Peas,	N. C. Hams,	or garden.

All of which we sell for cash, and are therefore able to make prompt returns. We solicit consignments from Western North Carolina, and the State generally.

We call attention to our friends in the city and neighboring country to the fact that we have made arrangements with shippers to have a constant supply of CORN on hand, and almost always have consignments of the other articles mentioned above. We have to sell for cash but will give you good goods.—Try us.

Cotton is our Specialty.

We can always obtain the highest market price, and ask our friends who find it inconvenient to accompany their lots to the market to try us. We can beat New York in the net proceeds of your cotton.

When you bring your cotton to market yourself give us a chance at it. We have orders to fill and can pay the VERY HIGHEST market price for it. Be sure to call and see us before you sell.

We are the Agents for

The ORCHILLA GUANO and The SOUTH SEA GUANO.

The SCHOFIELD COTTON PRESS, the best invented.

The DIAMOND COTTON CHOPPER—Every one warranted.

A. G. LEE & SONS.
P. O. Box 222, Raleigh, N. C.

march 3-tf

NEW SPRING GOODS JUST ARRIVED.

D. S. WAITT & BRO.,

Wholesale and Retail DEALERS IN

READY MADE CLOTHING

For MEN, YOUTHS and CHILDREN.

Latest Styles and Prices Low.

The celebrated MANHATTEN WHITE SHIRTS, which are acknowledged the best Goods and most perfect Fit that is made. A full line constantly on hand.

Gents and Ladies Hose, Gloves. Suspenders, Handkerchief, Neckties, Bows and Silk Scarfs. The latest novelties of the Season paper Linen Cuffs and Collars Ladies Leather Belts, Hamburg Edgings and Insertions, Cashs' Ruffling, and Flutings, Ladies Neck Ruffs and Collars, Stamped Yokes and Bands, &c.

DOMESTIC AND FANCY DRY GOODS.

PRINTS, PRINTS, PRINTS.

Black Alpacas.

Corded Jacknets, Striped and Figured Lawns, White Pique, Mal Muslins, Checked Muslins, Nansook and Linen Lawns, Corset Jeans, Cambrics and Linens.

HATS, HATS, HATS.

Newest Styles and Cheap.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

Our Stock is complete in this line. Misses and Taylor's Goods just in and speak for themselves. Other brands which also give satisfaction.

To Country Merchants who buy in the City, we would say give us a call and we will sell goods for cash as cheap as any House in the City, or this side of Baltimore and New York.

To our numerous friends and patrons we again return our thanks for past favors and as our stock is much larger than ever before, we feel confident that we are prepared to do the best that can be done in this city.

D. S. WAITT & BRO.,
54 Fayetteville st., Raleigh, N.

mch 17-tf.

ATTENTION HOUSEKEEPERS!

— AND —

Ladies Generally.

Why will you try to eat with dull SCISSORS, and use dull KNIVES when only twenty-five cents will get a perfect sharpener, which will last a lifetime and never get out of order? Every Housekeeper in England owns one, or has ordered one, and I REFER TO THIS FACT to prove the real value of the articles offered. Young men wishing an agency that will PAY would do well to order one for Sample, with price list to agents. All orders should be addressed to

GEO. W. HEPTINSTALL,
Enfield, N. C.

P. S.—The best GLASS CUTTER known can also be bought of me for 25 cts. postpaid. G. W. H.

may 19-tf

NEW MUSIC BOOKS.

GERMAN FOUR PART SONGS. For MIXED VOICES. Just published, is an unusually good collection of entirely new music, by the best modern German composers. Just right for Musical Societies. Price $1.50.

ORIGINAL HYMN TUNES, By H. K. Oliver, the veteran composer of "Federal St" and other favorite tunes, contains 100 Tunes, Chants and Anthems, all original and of the best quality. Price, Boards, 80 cts; Cloth, $1.00.

SEVEN PART SONGS. For Mixed Voices, by J. C. D. Parker, contains new Glees which were successes, when sung by the "Parker Club." Price 60 cents.

PIANO AT HOME, A large collection of Piano forte piece for Four Hands, is full of good and most entertaining music for practice or home recreation, Price $2.50.

Praises of the River of Life, our popular Sabbath School Song Book, come from all quarters, indeed from all who have used it. Sabbath School Men recommend it highly. Price $60 per hundred.

All books sent post-paid, for Retail Price.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., C. H. DITSON & CO.
Boston. 711 B'dway, New York.

may 19-tf

J. M. ROSENBAUM,

At Kline's old stand on the corner of Fayetteville and Hargett Streets,

Has received his Spring supply of Hats, Caps, Boots and Shoes, and everything usually looked for in a Gent's Furnishing Store.

His stock of

Ready-Made Clothing

(of which he makes a specialty)

For Men and Boys' Wear,

is large and complete, of the latest styles, selected and bought by Mr. Rosenbaum in person, who from long experience, knows what is suited to the Raleigh market. He has also a full supply of the BEST MAKE OF SHIRTS and UNDERC

Children's Column.

The Child and the Sea.

BY MARY MAPES DODGE.

One summer day, when birds flew high,
I saw a child step into the sea:
It glowed and sparkled at her touch,
And softly plashed about her knee.

It held her lightly with its strength,
It kissed and kissed her silken hair,
It heaved with tenderness to know
A little child was in its care.

She, gleeful, dipped her pretty arms
And caught the sparkles in her hands;
I heard her laughter as she soon
Came skipping up the sunny sands.

"Is this the cruel sea?" I thought,
"The merciless, the awful sea?"
Now hear the answer, soft and true,
That rippled over the beach to me:

"Shall not the sea, in the sun, be glad
When a child doth come to play?
Had it been the storm-time, what could I,
The sea, but bear her away—
Bear her away on my foaming crest,
Toss her and hurry her to rest!

"Be it life or death, God ruleth me;
And he loveth every soul;
I've an earthly shore and a heavenly shore,
And toward them both I roll;
Shining and beautiful both are they,
And a little child will go God's way."

Answers.

Lo, I come: in the volume of the book it is written of me," is found in 40th Psalm 7th verse. Nannie E. Guthrie, Geneva Thompson.

Christ is called the bundle of myrrh in songs of Solomon 1st chapter 13th verse. Nannie E. Guthrie.

Paul was called a babbler by certain Epicureans and Stoics,as is mentioned in Acts 17th chap, 18th v. Nannie E. Guthrie, Geneva Thompson.

Absalom's hair weighed 200 shekels, 2nd Sam, 14th chap 26th v. Nannie E. Guthrie.

Melchisedec was the high priest without father or mother, descent beginning of days &c. Hebrews 7th chap 3rd v. Nannie E. Guthrie.

Sarah, the wife of Abraham is the only woman whose age, death and burial are mentioned in the Bible. Genesis 24rd chap, 29th verse.

Answer to the Bible Enigma propos ed by Manie Womble. The third letter was omitted in the enigma as published which she afterwards wrote to correct.

Naomi was the wife of Elimelech. Elkanah was the father of Samuel (B the third letter omitted) Uz was the land Lot lived in. Chebar was the name of the river by which Ezekiel was when the word of the Lord first came to him. Hezekiah had his life prolonged by praying to the Lord.

Agrippa was the name of the man who was almost permaded to be a christian.

Delilah betrayed Sampson.

Naaman was the Captain by whom the Lord gave deliverance to Syria.

Elymas was the sorcerer smitten with blindness.

Zilpha was Leah's handmaid.

Zillah was the mother of Tubal Cain.

Abijam was Asa's father. Rephidim was the place where Amalek fought with Israel.

The initials of the foregoing names form Nebuchadnezzar.

ANSWER TO BIBLE ENIGMA PROPOSED BY F. F. JONES

Its 1st was Ebnathan.
" 2nd was Uzzah.
" 3rd was Paul.
" 4th was Haggai.
" 5th was Rhegium.
" 6th was Abishai.
" 7th was Theophilus.
" 8th Eutychus.
" 9th was Sosthenes.

Its whole is Euphrates, the name of the river mentioned in Ezra 4 chap and 10 verse.

RACHEL E. CLAYTOR

Questions.

Nannie Guthrie asks who helped Jesus bear the cross.

Geneva Thompson asks who was the orator that appeared before Felix against Paul; and what was the name of the prophet who foretold how Paul should be bound.

BIBLE ENIGMA BY RACHEL E. CLAYTOR.

1st. One of the Hebrew youths, who was carried captive to Babylon.

2nd. A paralytic, on whom Peter performed a miracle of healing.

3rd. "A seller of purple."

4th. A seer or prophet who recorded the events in the life of Solomon and Abijah.

5th. A city in the wilderness built by Solomon.

6th. A kinsman and fellow prisoner of Paul.

My whole is the name of the island on which the vessel, which was conveying Paul as a prisoner to Rome, was wrecked.

"THAT'S How!"—After a great snowstorm a little fellow began to shovel a path through a large snowbank before his grandmother's door. He had nothing but a small shovel to work with.

"How do you intend to get through that drift?" asked a man passing along.

"By keeping at it," said the boy cheerfully; "that's how!"

That is the secret of mastering almost every difficulty under the sun. If a hard task is before you, stick to it. Do not keep thinking how large or hard it is, but go at it, and little by little it will grow smaller and smaller until it is done.

A LAZY FELLOW once declared in a public company that he could not find bread for his family. "Nor I," replied an industrious man; "I am obliged to work for it."

Rural and Domestic.

Prolific Corn.

If he is a benefactor who produces two blades of grass where one grew, why should he not be a greater one who will make eight ears of corn grow on the stalk that now produces but one? Which I think can be accomplished by selecting always our seed from the most prolific stalks in the field, and selecting seed that is the best of each season, and cultivate highly, improving as we go on, till perfection is attained Our Western farmers are, as a class, too indifferent as to the seed they sow, generally not selecting with that care and judgment that the subject deserves, but taking such stuff as is piled upon them by unreliable seed dealers; and if we are fortunate enough to obtain a superior article occasionally, we are ourselves to blame for not retaining a sufficient supply to reproduce or exchange with our neighbors, and thus keep up the original or improve on it.It must beconfessed that we are rather slipshod out here, and need some thirty Yankee or English farmers to set us examples. High farming in this country would pay well. One of my neighbors described to me the amount of labor he was compelled to put upon his sugar fields to raise a crop of sugar on his plantation in Louisiana. I told him if he displayed half the energy and expense on his land here, it would pay better than a sugar crop. He could find as ready market for his hay at $25 per ton, and his oats would sell readily at 75 cents, corn as high as 85 cents per bushel, potatoes $1.00. He could raise splendid crops with less work than he gave his sugar, and I am of the opinion a much more certain profit, with one half the risk of frost, rain or drouth, would be the result. I have succeeded in getting as many as eight ears of fair corn a stalk this season; of course all the stalks were not so productive? some bore seven and many five, and none less than two ears per stalk. I think this pays well for the little extra attention I gave it, which was merely making a compost of .01 part of hen house manure, mixed with some fine upper scrapings of the barnyard mould, and dropping a double handful in each hill, harrowing the ground with a Thomas smoothing harrow, after the corn was up three inches, and then giving it four plowings afterwards—J. C. K., in Rural World.

Manure for Potatoes.

In the Journal of the Royal Agricultural Society, England, Dr. Voelker, the well known agricultural chemist, records the following conclusions from careful experiments in special fertilization of the soil for potatoes:

1. The greatest came from the application to an acre of 400 pounds of mineral superphosphates, 200 pounds of potash salts, and 200 of sulphate of ammonia.

2. Dung did about as well.

3. The absence of ammonia was attended with a marked falling off, and nitrate of soda cannot replace it.

4. The compound above named excels Peruvian guano.

5. Common salt does no good, but harm to potatoes.

6. The above mixture gave a crop of twelve tons or 448 bushels to the acre on light land, and the same, unmanured, yielded but half.

The Northward Progress of Summer.

Some interesting contributions to climatology, the Canada Farmer says, have been made by M. Hoffmann, during a journey through Italy. He found from numerous data, that a difference of latitude of one degree corresponds, in general, to an acceleration or retarding of the development of vegetation about three days and three quarters. M. Hoffman considered twelve different plants, which, growing at railway stations, were specially suitable for the investigation. The generally received notion on the American Continent is that summer advances northward in steps of about twelve miles a day; and we have seen numerous and flowery editorial statements of the fact. M. Hoffmann's observations tend to show that, in Europe, summer gets northward more quickly than it does here by four miles a day.—Rural Carolinian for May.

The Wear and Tear of City Life.

The wear and tear of city life are a severe tax upon the strongest constitutions. The hurry and bustle and anxieties of business keep the nervous system in a state of unnatural tension during business hours and in the end impair the elasticity and vigor of the vital organization. The penalty of all undue excitement is subsequent exhaustion. The best remedy for it, whatever the cause, is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the tonic and alterative properties of which rapidly diffuse themselves through the entire system, revive and reinforce every dormant faculty, and restore a natural condition of body and mind. Some moral reformers insist upon the disuse of all stimulants. This, to say the least of it, is irrational. All competent physicians admit that a pure medicated stimulant is one of the most useful remedies known. As a tonic and invigorant for the aged and languid Hostetter's Bitters has no equal. It is the sheet-anchor of the feeble and debilitated. In all climates and in every species of disorder which breaks down the bodily strength, it is an absolute specific. It is also an invaluable remedy for sea-sickness. The nausea and reeling caused by the pitching and rolling of a vessel at sea paralyses the bodily and mental energies; those who suffer from it would do well to resort to the Bitters as a means of sure and permanent relief. No steamer should sail without a supply of the article. Among the botanic ingredients of which it is composed are some of the most powerful blood depurents which the vegetable kingdom affords. Consequently, it not only tones and invigorates, but also purifies the system through the natural sluices which nature has provided.

may 5-1 m

Agents Wanted for a New Book,

Present Conflict

OF SCIENCE WITH RELIGION;

or "Modern Scepticism Met on its Own Ground." A book for the times The vital question of the day. A subject of the most intense and deepest interest. The final contest. The Bible triumphs gloriously. Address, P. W. ZIEGLER & CO., 518 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

may 5-3t,

DR. M'LANE'S

Celebrated American

WORM SPECIFIC,

OR

VERMIFUGE.

SYMPTOMS OF WORMS.

THE countenance is pale and leaden-colored, with occasional flushes, or a circumscribed spot on one or both cheeks; the eyes become dull; the pupils dilate; an azure semicircle runs along the lower eyelid; the nose is irritated, swells, and sometimes bleeds; a swelling of the upper lip; occasional headache, with humming or throbbing of the ears; an unusual secretion of saliva; slimy or furred tongue; breath very foul, particularly in the morning; appetite variable, sometimes voracious, with a gnawing sensation of the stomach, at others, entirely gone; fleeting pains in the stomach; occasional nausea and vomiting; violent pains throughout the abdomen; bowels irregular, at times costive; stools slimy; not unfrequently tinged with blood; belly swollen and hard; urine turbid; respiration occasionally difficult, and accompanied by hiccough; cough sometimes dry and convulsive; uneasy and disturbed sleep, with grinding of the teeth; temper variable, but generally irritable, &c.

Whenever the above symptoms are found to exist,

DR. M'LANE'S VERMIFUGE

Will certainly effect a cure.

The universal success which has attended the administration of this preparation has been such as to warrant us in pledging ourselves to the public to

RETURN THE MONEY

in every instance where it should prove ineffectual: "providing the symptoms attending the sickness of the child or adult should warrant the supposition of worms being the cause." In all cases the Medicine to be given IN STRICT ACCORDANCE WITH THE DIRECTIONS.

We pledge ourselves to the public, that

Dr. M'Lane's Vermifuge

DOES NOT CONTAIN MERCURY

in any form; and that it is an innocent preparation, not capable of doing the slightest injury to the most tender infant.

Address all orders to

FLEMING BROS., PITTSBURGH, PA.

P. S. Dealers and Physicians ordering from others than Fleming Bros., will do well to write their orders distinctly, and take none but Dr. M'Lane's, prepared by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa. To those wishing to give them a trial, we will forward, mail, post-paid, to any part of the United States, one box of Pills for twelve cents,one three-cent stamps. All orders from Canada must be accompanied by twenty cents extra.

☞For sale by Druggists and Country Storekeepers generally.

PLEIS' FIT POWDERS.

These Powders have been tested by over 40,000 cases for the cure of Fits (Epilepsy), Spasms, Convulsions, St. Vitus' Dance, Neuralgia, and all Nervous Affections, some over 40 years' standing.

When you ORDER STATE AGE.

☞ PRICE, $2 CENTS PER BOX; or sent to a parts of the United States for One Dollar per Box.—These Powders are prepared and sold only by the proprietor, to whom all orders must be addressed,

JOHN M. PLEIS, Jr.,

581 North Third street, Philadelphia, Pa.

☞ Please mention that you saw this advertisement in THE CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. mar 31-1y

PHILO ALCOTT. WAYNE ALCOTT.

Excelsior Grocery

AND

COMMISSION HOUSE.

LOOK TO YOUR INTERESTS! MONEY SAVED IS MONEY MADE!

We buy our Goods for CASH!

We are now prepared to fill orders for any goods usually found in a First Class Family Grocery. For price and quality we defy competition.

Having increased capital and facilities, we intend to make our House second to none. We guarantee satisfaction in price, quality and promptness.

We have made the necessary arrangements with our friends in the Western part of the state, so that we are almost daily receiving on consignment, Chickens, Turkeys, Ducks, Geese, Eggs, Butter, Newspaper Hams, Shoulders and Sides, Beef Hams, Venison Hams, Tallow, Corn, Irish Potatoes, Dried Fruit, Meal, Oats, Shucks, Hay, Fodder, Whiskey, Blackeye, Buck and Black Peas, Walnuts and Mixed Beans, &c. We will make this a specialty, to be received daily as soon as the weather will permit.—We have made the necessary arrangements with our North Carolina houses to furnish the best oysters that market can supply.

Again thanking you most heartily for the liberal patronage heretofore extended, we are determined to adopting the experience of those that have been successful in business, and knowing that Success is Merit," to deserve your increased patronage.

oct 7-12m

1875 1875

GRAND SPRING OPENING.

NEW MILLINERY STORE.

ENTIRE NEW STOCK!!

Having just arrived from the North with a New and Fashionable assortment of MILLINERY GOODS, of all the latest Parisian modes, I take great pleasure in announcing to the public that I will open my new and elegant stock for inspection, at my new store,

No. 57 Fayetteville Street,

OPPOSITE THE MARKET.

ON SATURDAY, 17th APRIL, 1875.

☞ Trusting that a generous public will bestow their patronage on my efforts to please one and all, both in cheapness, style and quality of goods.

I remain, Very Respectfully,

MRS. E. LEOPOLD,
Leader of Low Prices.

Cheapest Millinery Establishment in the City!

CLARKE'S COMMENTARY—

6 Vols. Splendid sheep binding.

$25.00 per set to Ministers.

L. BRANSON,
Raleigh, N. C.

may 2-12m.

READ THIS

I will give any one an opportunity to make from $3 to $5 per day to work for me. Work easy and light. A boy 10 years old can fill be bill. Send stamp for particulars. Apply to

R. L. POWELL, Warrenton N. C.

nov. 25 12 m,

OLD NORTH STATE FIRE Insurance Company.

OF

WARRENTON, - - - N. C.

Capital Stock, $107.600.00

ASSETTS:

Mortgages on Real Estate	$ 15 050.00
National Bank Stock	1 00o.00
Solvent Stock Notes	50, 550 00
Cash and Loans on Call	2 500 00
Due from Agents	2 669.02
Agents Supplies	626 50
Office furniture (Safe, &c.)	756.16
Accrued Interest	850.00
	$ 122,995 63

LIABILITIES.

Amount necessary to reinsure all unexpired risks on the basis of the New York law, $10,000.

$1 229 Assets to Every $100 of Technical Liabilities.

According to the past experience of the Company we have

$2,458 Assets to Every $100 of Actual Liabilities

OFFICERS:

Col. W. S. DAVIS President.
N. R. JONES, Vice President.
H. F. LONG, Secretary.
WM. J. NORWOOD, Treasurer
T. C. WILLIAMS, Supervisor.

WANTED.

AGENTS, male and female to sell Pictures everywhere. Fourteen thousand retailed by one. Another writes "I can make more money in two business than I can on a good farm, all stocked."

WHITNEY & CO..,
Norwich, Conn.

april 7-3 m.

RESTORE YOUR SIGHT.

Spectacles Rendered Useless.

Save Your Eyes,

RESTORE YOUR SIGHT,
THROW AWAY YOUR SPECTACLES.

Old Eyes Made New.

All diseases of the Eye successfully treated by

Dr. J. BALL & CO.'S

NEW PATENT IMPROVED IVORY EYE CUPS.

Read for yourself and Restore your Sight.

Spectacles and Surgical Operations rendered useless. The Inestimable Blessing of Sight is made perpetual by the use of the new PATENT IMPROVED IVORY EYE CUPS.

Many of our most eminent physicians, oculists, students and divines have had their sight permanently Restored for life, and cured of the following diseases:

1. Impaired Vision; 2. Presbyopia, or Far-sightedness, or Dimness of Vision, commonly called Blurring, 3. Asthenopia, or Weak Eyes; 4. Epiphora, Humid, or Watery Eyes; 5 Sore Eyes—specially treated with the Eye Cups—cure guaranteed; 6. Weakness of the Retina, or Optic Nerve; 7. Ophthalmy, or Inflammation of the Eye and its appendages, or Impert ct vision from the effects of Inflammation; 8. Photophobia, or Intolerance of Light; 9. Overworked Eyes; 10. Mydesopia—moving specks or floating bodies before the eyes; 11. Amaurosis, or Obscurity of Vision; 12. Cataracts; Partial Blindness; the loss of Sight

Any one can use the IVORY EYE CUPS without the aid of doctor or medicine so as to receive immediate beneficial results and never wear spectacles or, if using now, to lay them aside forever We guarantee success in every case where the directions are followed, or will refund the money.

2,369 CERTIFICATES OF CURE

from honest Farmers, Mechanics and Merchants—some of them the most eminent leading professional and business men, and women of education and refinement, in our country—can be found at our office.

Under date of March 29 Hon. Horace Greely, of the New York Tribune, writes: "J. Ball, of our city, is a conscientious and responsible man who is incapable of intentional deception or imposition."

Prof W. Merrick, of Lexington, Ky., wrote, April 8th, 1866: "Without my spectacles I pen you this note, after using the PATENT IVORY EYE CUPS thirteen days, and this Morning perused the entire contents of a daily newspaper, and all with the unassisted eye.

"Truly am I grateful for your noble invention. May Heaven bless and preserve you. I have been using spectacles twenty years; I am seventy years old.

Truly yours, PROF. W. MERRICK."

Rev. Joseph Smith, Malden, Mass., cured of Partial Blindness of 18 years' standing, in one minute, by the PATENT IVORY EYE CUPS.

E. C. Ellis, late Mayor of Dayton, Ohio wrote us, Nov. 15th, 1869: "I have tested the PATENT IVORY EYE CUPS, and I am satisfied they are good. I am pleased with them. They are the greatest invention of the age."

Wm. Beatly, M. D., Salyisa Ky., writes: "Thanks to you for the greatest of all inventions, my sight is fully restored, after being almost entirely blind for 26 years."

Alex. R. Wyeth, M. D., Atchison, Pa., writes: After total blindness of my left eye for four years, by paracentesis of the optic nerve, to my utter astonishment your PATENT EYE CUPS restored my eyesight permanently in three minutes."

All persons wishing for full particulars, certificates of cures, prices, &c., will please send their address to us, and we will send our pamphlet on the Ivory PHYSIOLOGY AND ANATOMY OF THE EYE(sent of one hundred pages, free of charge, by return mail Write to Dr. J. Ball & Co P. O. Box 957. No 91 Liberty street, New York city, N. Y.

For the worst cases of MYOPIA OR NEAR-SIGHTEDNESS use our NEW PATENT MYOPIC ATTACHMENTS, applied to the IVORY EYE CUPS Has proved a certain cure for this disease.

Send for pamphlets and certificates—free. Waste no more money by adjusting huge glasses on your nose and disfiguring your face.

AGENTS WANTED

Employment for all. Agents wanted, Gentlemen or Ladies, for our NEW PATENT IMPROVED IVORY EYE CUPS, just introduced in the market. The success is unparalleled by any other article. All persons out of employment, or those wishing to improve their circumstances, can make a respectable living at this light and easy employment. Hundreds of Agents are making from $5 to $24 A DAY. To live Agents $30 a week will be guaranteed.

Send your address for full particulars. Sent free of charge o any address. Write immediately to

DR. J. BALL & CO.,
NO. 91 LIBERTY STREET,
NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.

P. O. Box 957.
Sept 6-12m

PLEIS' FIT POWDERS.

These Powders have been tested by over 40,000 cases for the cure of Fits (Epilepsy), Spasms, Convulsions, St. Vitus' Dance, Neuralgia, and all Nervous Affections, some over 40 years' standing.

When you ORDER STATE AGE.

☞ PRICE, $2 CENTS PER BOX; or sent to a parts of the United States for One Dollar per Box.—These Powders are prepared and sold only by the proprietor, to whom all orders must be addressed,

JOHN M. PLEIS, Jr.,

581 North Third street, Philadelphia, Pa.

☞ Please mention that you saw this advertisement in THE CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. mar 31-1y

SUI GENERIS.

MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS.

UNEQUALED in Europe, UNAPPROACHED in capacity and excellence by any others. Awarded

THREE HIGHEST MEDALS

AND DIPLOMA OF HONOR AT VIENNA; 1873; PARIS, 1867.

ONLY American Organs ever awarded any medal in Europe, or which present such extraordinary excellence as to command a wide sale there.

ALWAYS awarded highest premiums at Indus-trial Expositions, in America as well as Europe. Out of hundreds there have not been six in all where any other organs have been preferred.

BEST Declared by Eminent Musicians, in both hemispheres, to be unrivaled. See TESTIMONIAL CIRCULAR, with opinions of more than One Thousand (sent free).

INSIST on having a Mason & Hamlin. Do not take any other. Dealers get LARGER COMMISSIONS for selling inferior organs, and for this reason often try very hard to sell something else.

NEW STYLES with most important improvements ever made. New Solo and Combination Stops. Superb Etagere and other Cases of new designs.

PIANO-HARP CABINET ORGAN, an exquisite combination of these instruments.

EASY PAYMENTS, for monthly or quarterly payments; or rented until rent pays for the organ.

CATALOGUES and Circulars, with full particulars, free. Address MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., 154 Tremont Street, BOSTON; 25 Union Square, NEW YORK; or 80 & 82 Adams St., CHICAGO.

apl 14-1 year.

A NICE LOT OF HAMS JUST RECEIVED from Eastern N. C., and for sale especially for table use by

A. G. LEE & SONS.

250 BUSHELS WHITE SPRING OATS FOR sale by

A. G. LEE & SONS.

A LOT OF FRESH MOUNTAIN BUTTER in kits. Call and examine at

A. G. LEE & SONS.

apl 14-1w,

SCHEDULES.

PIEDMONT & AIR-LINE RAILWAY.

RICHMOND & DANVILLE, RICHMOND & DANVILLE R. W., N. C. DIVISION, and NORTH WESTERN N. C. R. W.

CONDENSED TIME-TABLE.
In effect on and after Tuesday, April 20th, 1875

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	MAIL.	EXPRESS.
Leave Charlotte	9 23 P. M	8.20 A. M.
" Air-Line Junc'n	9 30 "	8 50 "
" Salisbury	12.12 A. M.	10.52 "
" Greensboro'	3.53 "	1.32 P. M.
" Danville	6 20 "	4.05 "
" Dundee	6.30 "	4.13 "
" Burkeville	11.35 "	8.36 "
Arrive at Richmond	2.22 P. M.	11 17 P. M.

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS	MAIL.	EXPRESS.
Leave Richmond	1.38 P. M.	5.05 A. M.
" Burkeville	4.52 "	8.35 "
" Dundee	9.44 "	1.17 P. M.
" Danville	9.48 "	1.21 P. M.
" Greensboro'	12.40 A. M.	4.20 "
" Salisbury	3.58 "	6.53 "
" Air Line Junc'n	7.05 "	9 19 "
Arrive at Charlotte	7.10 A. M.	9.55 "

GOING EAST.		GOING WEST
STATIONS.	MAIL	MAIL.
Leave Greensboro'	Rest 2.15 A. M	Arrive 1.15 P. M
" Co. Shops	3.38 "	Leave 11.5 "
" Raleigh	7 00 "	" 1.02 "
Arrive at Goldsboro'	Third 9.A. M.	Leave 5.00 P. M.

NORTH WESTERN N. C. R. R.

(SALEM BRANCH.)

Leave Greensboro'	4.31 P. M.
Arrive at Salem	6.15 "
Leave Salem	9.20 A.M.
Arrive at Greensboro	11.19 "

Passenger train leaving Raleigh at 6.52 P. M. connects at Greensboro' with the Northern bound train making the quickest time to all Northern cities. Also Tickets to and from points East of Greensboro connect at Greensboro with Mail Trains to or from points North or South.

Two trains only, both ways,

On Sundays Lynchburg Accommodation leave Richmond at 9.00 A. M., arrive at Burkeville 12.43 P. M., leave Burkeville 4.35 A. M., arrive at Richmond 7.58 A. M.

No Change of Cars between Charlotte and Richmond, 282 Miles.

Papers that have arrangements to advertise the Schedule of this company will please print as above. For further information address

S. K. ALLEN,
Gen'l Ticket Agent,
Greensboro, N. C.

T. M. R. TALCOTT,
Engineer & Gen'l Superintendent.

CHANGE OF SCHEDULE

RALEIGH & GASTON RAILROAD CO.

On and after Friday, May 22nd, 1874, trains on the Raleigh & Gaston Railroad, will run daily (sunday excepted) as follow:

MAIL TRAIN.

Leave Raleigh,	9.35 A. M.
Arrive at Weldon,	3.30 P. M.
Leaves Weldon,	3.50 A. M.
Arrives at Raleigh,	8.45 P. M.

ACCOMMODATION TRAIN.

Leaves Raleigh,	5.15 A. M.
Arrives at Weldon,	9.15 P. M.
Leaves Weldon,	2.2 A. M.
Arrives at Raleigh	2.45 P. M.

Mail train makes close connection at Weldon, with the Seaboard and Roanoke Railroad and Bay Line Steamers via Baltimore, to and from all points North, West and Northwest, and with Petersburg Railroad via Petersburg, Richmond and Washington City, to and from all points North and Northwest.

And at Raleigh with the North Carolina Railroad to and from all points South and Southwest, and with the Raleigh & Augusta Air Line to Haywood and Fayetteville.

A. B. ANDREWS,
Gen. Sup't.

RALEIGH & AUGUSTA AIR-LINE RAILROAD.

SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE,
Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 27th, 1873.

On and after Monday, October 27th, 1873, trains on the R. & A. A. L. Road will run daily, (Sundays excepted,) as follows:

MAIL TRAIN.

Train leaves Raleigh,	4.00 P. M.
Arrives at Sanford,	6.25 "
Train leaves Sanford,	6.30 A. M
Arrives at Raleigh,	9.20 "

FREIGHT TRAIN.

Leaves Raleigh,	5.15 A. M.
Arrives at Sanford	10.35 A. M.
Leaves Sanford,	11.00 A. M
Arrives at Raleigh	3.50 P. M.

Mail Train makes close connection at Raleigh with the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad, to and from all points North.

And at Sanford with the Western Railroad, to and from Fayetteville and points on Western Railroad.

A. B. ANDREWS,
Superintendent.

OFFICE SUPT. OF TRANSPORTATION,
Seaboard & Roanoke R. R. Co.,
Portsmouth, Va., Jan. 1st, 1875.

On and after this date, trains of this Road will leave Weldon daily, Sundays excepted, as follows:

Mail train at	4 P. M.
No. 1 Freight train at	4 A. M.
No. 2 Freight train at	8 A. M.

ARRIVE AT PORTSMOUTH.

Mail train at	7 15 P. M.
No 1 Freight at	12 00 NOON
No 2 Freight at	4 00 P. M.

Freight trains have a passenger car attached.

Steamer for Edenton, Plymouth and Landings on Chowan and Chowan Rivers leave Franklin at 7.0 A. M on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

E. G. GHIO,
Supt. Transportation.

STIEFF

GRAND, SQUARE, AND UPRIGHT

PIANOS

Have received upwards of FIFTY FIRST PREMIUMS and are among the best in use today. Every Instrument fully warranted for five years. Prices as low as the excessive use of the very best materials and the most thorough workmanship will permit. The principal soloists and composers, and the piano-purchasing public of the south especially, unite in the unanimous verdict of the superiority of the STIEFF PIANO The DEPARTMENT of our Instruments is truly established by over sixty annual and enlarged in the South, using over 350 of our Pianos.

Sole Wholesale Agents for several of the principal manufacturers of Cabinet and Parlor Organs; prices from $54 to $600. A liberal discount to Clergymen and Sabbath schools.

A large assortment of second-hand Pianos at prices ranging from $50 to $200, always on hand.

Send for illustrated Catalogue, containing names of over 600 Southerners, who have bought and are using the Stieff Piano.

CHARLES M. STIEFF,
Warerooms, No. 9 North Liberty street,
Baltimore, Md.

Factories, 84 & 86 Camden st. and 45 & 47 Perry st. Dec 16-12m

AGENTS WANTED FOR

Cross and Crown

THE SPIRIT AND POWER of the religion of Jesus Christ as shown in the sufferings and triumphs of His followers. A nobler, sweeter and more thrilling story is not to be found in the whole range of History. Magnificently illustrated on steel with the best engravings of Sartain and Illman, and splendidly bound in the richest and latest style of the art. The most beautiful and attractive book ever offered to Agents. For circulars, with full description, address NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Atlanta, Ga.; or Memphis Tenn.

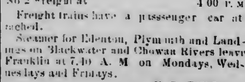
March 11-6m

FROM

HENRY J. BROWN,

Opposite Masonic Hall,

RALEIGH, N. C.,



UNDERTAKER,

Keeps on hand Fisk's Metallic Burial Cases, Self-Sealing Metallic Burial Cases, and Walnut and other Wood Coffins. HEARSE FURNISHED.

Also Dealer in Furniture. Repairing and Varnishing Promptly Executed.

apl 19-1y

$250 A MONTH—Agents wanted every where. Business honorable and first class. Particulars sent free. Address J. WORTH & CO., St Louis, Mo.

Sept 16-3m

$5 TO $20 per day! Agents wanted! All classes of working people, of either sex, young or old, making more money at work for us in their spare moments, or all the time, than at anything else. Particulars free. Address G Stinson & Co., Portland, Maine.

Sept 16-1m

A NEW BOOK.

Life, Sermons, and Speeches

OF

Rev. N. F. Reid, D. D.

LATE OF THE

NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

BY HIS SONS

James W. and Frank L. Reid.

A handsome volume of 536 pages.

A fine Steel Engraving of Dr. Reid in each copy.

NOW READY FOR DELIVERY.

BE SURE TO GET A COPY.

Price in morocco, gilt edge. $3 00.
" " Cloth, 2 00.

Agents wanted to whom liberal commissions will be made. Single copies sent by mail, postage paid, on receipt of retail price.

Address, REV. F. L. REID, Lealeburg, N. C.
or JAS. W. REID, Wentworth N. C.

G. T. LEACH, N. Y. M. T. LEACH

Leach Brothers,

WHOLESALE GROCERS

AND

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

SOUTH-EAST CORNER MARKET, SQUARE, Raleigh, N. C

Again we take great pleasure in presenting our card and returning thanks to the readers of the ADVOCATE for their very liberal patronage during the past ten years, and offer them on the largest and best bought stock of Groceries ever offered in any market south of Baltimore, and while just now Sugars and Lard are very scarce and high, we have made extra effort and feel sure we have succeeded in bringing other goods equally low and intend giving our friends all the advantages gained thereby to counter balance any advance in the few goods named.

We wish to invite especial attention to our select stock of Tobaccos and Cigars bought direct from the Factories and offered here AT FIRST PROFITS.

We have now in store:

5,000 lbs. Rio Coffees,
10 Mats old Gov. Java,
10 Bbls. A Sugar,
10 Bbls. A C Sugar,
10 Bbls. B F Yellow Sugar,
20 Bbls Demerara,
20 Boxes Bulk Sides,
10 " Shoulders,
50 Kegs English Soda,
1,500 lbs. G. D and Sole Leather,
100 Sides Upper Leather,
50 " Harness Leather,
300 Cases O ster,
50 " Brandy Peaches,
5,000 Yds. Bagging,
6,000 lbs. Ties,
100 Bbls. Super Flour,
100 Bags Assorted Shot,
50 Bbls Extra Flour,
50 Cases Forrester's Crackers,
0 : Soda Crackers,
Oil Boxes Factory and Dairy Cheese,
6000 W P and C. D. Gun Caps,
1 Kegs Burden Horse and Mule Shoes,
200 lbs. Horse Shoe Nails,
20 Dozen Bent Axes,
50 Boxes Adamantine Candles,
100 Boxes Laundry and Toilet Soaps.

We offer especial inducements to country and nearby merchants, and invite an examination of our stock defy competition

Oct 7 12 m LEACH BROS

L. R. WYATT. B. L. BINGHAM.

Wyatt, Bingham & Co.

Wholesale and Retail Grocers,

COTTON FACTORS

AND GENERAL

Commission Merchants,

No. 4 Market St. and No. 5 Market Exchange,

RALEIGH, N. C.

We tender our many thanks to our several customers and friends for their liberal patronage, and hope to merit a continuance of the same by our strict personal and prompt attention to our business,and by offering to them our large and well selected stock o

BOOTS, SHOES, HATS and CAPS,

Staple Dry Goods,
Cotton Yarns,
Sheetings,
Alamance Plaids, and

General Merchandise,

all of which we guarantee to be as recommended, and to sell at the lowest prices.

OUR GROCERY DEPARTMENT

is complete, and we make FLOUR a specialty and guarantee the lowest prices at retail and wholesale, in the quality to be equal or superior to any offered in the market for the price.

BAGGING and TIES.

SALT and NAILS

always on hand and offered at the lowest market prices.

Consignments solicited, which will receive our prompt and personal attention, and the best prices obtained.

Jan 20-1

THE JAS. LEFFEL Double Turbine Water Wheel,

Manufactured by

POOLE & HUNT,
Baltimore, Md.

7,000 NOW IN USE!

Simple, Strong, Durable, always reliable and satisfactory.

Manufacturers, also, of Portable & Stationary Engines, Steam Boilers, Saw & Grist Mills, Mining Machinery, Gearing for Cotton Mills, Flour, Paint, White Lead and Oil Mill Machinery, Hydraulic and other Presses, &c. Shafting, Pulleys and Hangers a specialty. Machine made Gearing; accurate and of very best finish. Send for Circulars.

mch 24-6m.

Williams & Haywood,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN

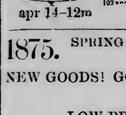
Drugs, Medicines, Paints, Oils, Dye Stuffs, Perfumery,

Fancy Articles, Garden Seeds, Fine Teas, Spices, Flavoring Extracts.

CIGARS, CHEWING TOBACCO &C.

Keep constantly on hand, at lowest market prices, White Lead, Putty, Kerosene Oil, Linseed Oil, Lamp Oil, Turpentine, Window Glass, Varnish, &c., &c.

Dec. 23-1



BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.

Established in 1837.

Superior Bells of Copper and Tin, mounted with the Celebrated Rotary Hangings, for Churches, Schools, Farms, Factories, Court-houses, Fire Alarms, Tower Clocks, Chimes, etc. Fully Warranted.

Illustrated Catalogue sent Free.

VANDUZEN & TIFT,
102 and 104 East Second St., Cincinnati.

apr 14-12m

1875. SPRING STOCK. 1875.

NEW GOODS! GOOD QUALITY!!

LOW PRICES!!!

—o—

JOS. P. GULLEY,

RETAILER AND JOBBER OF

Dry Goods, Notions, Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Trunks, Valises, White Goods, &c., &c.,

RALEIGH, N. C.

My large and carefully selected stock for the Spring and Summer is now in store, and I respectfully invite all to search of good goods and low prices, to call and examine for themselves.

BURT'S GAITERS and BOOTS FOR GENTS.

To those who have bought and need these goods we need only to say that we have a full line of them.—For durability and neatness of fit they are unexcelled.

Also Mlle's and Graff's hand made shoes for the Ladies.

PRINTS! PRINTS! PRINTS!

A large stock of the latest patterns, at prices that cannot be excelled.

Respectfully,
JOSEPH P. GULLEY,
Corner Fayetteville and Market Square.

oct 7-1y

PROGRESS THE WATCHWORD

Merit and Success Hand in Hand.

BROOKLYN LIFE

INSURANCE COMPANY,

NO. 141 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

Assets- - - -$1,500,000.00

CHRISTIAN W. BOUCK. President.
D. P. FACKLER. Actuary.

Wm. M. COLE, Secretary
DANIEL AYRES. M.D., L.L.D., Med. Director

POLICIES VALUABLE IN LIFE, AS WELL AS AT DEATH!

The BROOKLYN LIFE is the only Company in America which guarantees

DEFINITE CASH SURRENDER VALUES,

In case a Policy is forfeited for nonpayment of Premium

THE BROOKLYN LIFE enjoys

Raleigh Christian Advocate.

Bobbitt & Gray, Publishers. | Published in the Interests of Methodism in North Carolina. | $2.20 Per Annum, in Advance.

Vol. XXI.---No. 22. | Raleigh, N. C., Wednesday, June 2, 1875. | Whole No. 1,060.

Selected Poetry.

Enough.

BY FRANCES RIDLEY HAVERGAL.

I am so weak, dear Lord! I cannot stand.
One moment without thee;
But oh! the tenderness of thine enfolding,
And oh! the faithfulness of thine upholding,
And oh! the strength of thy right hand!
That strength is enough for me.

I am so lonely, Lord! and yet I know
All things dwell in thee;
And hour by hour that never fading treasure
Supplies and fills in overflowing measure
My last, my greatest need; and so
Thy grace is enough for me.

It is so sweet to trust thy word alone!
I do not ask to see
The unveiling of thy purpose, or the shining
Of future light on mysteries unwinding;
Thy promise-roll is all my own.
Thy word is enough for me.

The human heart asks love; but now I know
That my heart hath from thee
And real and full and marvelous perfection,
So near, so human! Yet divine affection
Fairlie gloriously the mighty glow.
Thy love is enough for me.

There were strange soul-depths, restless, vast and broad,
Unfathomed as the sea,
And infinite craving for some infinite filling;
But now thy perfect peace is perfect filling;
Lord Jesus Christ, my Lord, my God!
Then, and for ever, art thou me.

Communicated.

For the Advocate.

Revivals—No. 3.

While the enemies of spiritual progress are using their strength to crush the revival spirit that is now manifesting itself in nearly every part of the world where the gospel has been preached, it is well for the friends of vital godliness to be wide awake, and seeking every possible means of promoting the work. This is not the time to yield, lest perchance we might fall under the frowns of scoffers.—While the enemies are using their heaviest ordnance, the friends of the work should push their columns forward with such rapidity as to silence the batteries of sin, and spike the guns of an impudent but impotent foe.

This brings us to the question, what can the church do to render revivals more common and more lasting. By revivals we do not mean more spasmodic excitements, that like a meteor, soon vanish and leave no trace behind but on awakening, in which the church seeks a deeper work of grace, and sinners are brought carefully to seek the pardon of their sins.

The Discipline of the Methodist Church directs, that we should notice those places where God seems pleased to prosper the work, and there to labor more abundantly. This is a good rule. The Church should also at this time pray more especially for those who are engaged in revivals—that they may have both wisdom and grace to manage the work prudently, that there be no room for gainsayers to find fault, within the domain of reason. The best regulated revival in the world will present scenes sometimes that appear awkward. Where people are excited this is to be expected. Christ was solicited to stop the shoutings of the people, but he objected, affirming that if they should hold their peace the very stones would cry out. Nothing can be more exciting to the human mind than for those who are in imminent danger suddenly to discover the means of escape. In case the besieged fort, in which General Havelock expected his troops and their families all to be soon massacred, when they heard and saw the British relief, the shouting and rejoicing beggared all description. A subject involving eternal life or death cannot be void of excitement. But let it be deep and earnest, and its results will be good.

But the object of this article is more especially to call the attention of the church to the importance of selecting and sending out evangelists for the work, by two and two. Christ sent out sixty by twos and Paul generally had with him a ministerial companion. Sometimes Barnabas—sometimes Silas, and sometimes other preachers. The apostles often went in pairs.—Luther often had Melancthon. Lefevre had Farre; John Wesley had Charles and others often to accompany him. Moody and Sanky are now times that cannot be well separated. Any a neighborhood revival has come to a close for the want of a second man to aid in the work. Where two warm hearted, prudent men unite in revival, the work is more likely to go on in good order, than where strangers are frequently coming in to help excite enriosity, and going out to produce despondency. Would it not be a worthy experiment for the Conference to appoint two revivalists at large? Men whose hearts are in the special work.

E. L. P.

For the Advocate.

MESSRS. EDITORS: Permit me to give through the columns of the Advocate a few more facts to the reading portion of mankind if they will patiently "hear me through." An old gentleman who resided in this county recently died, having lived to a ripe old age in single bliss. A few months prior to his death he was stricken by disease, which, doubtless was the effects of a wound received from a vicious horse three or four years ago. While he was sick, a Catholic priest, accompanied by a devotee of Romanism, visited him, and through much persuasion induced him to don the symbol of that mystical denomination, assuring him by their strongest arguments that it was the thing necessary to his future happiness. They then endeavored to persuade him to give half of his possessions, which is estimated to be worth ten thousand dollars, to the Catholic church. To their chagrin, he did not comply with their request. He survived the first attack, but a few days ago he was summoned hence. Father somebody was immediately telegraphed for before his soul made its exit, but arrived too late to perform a 'miracle.' However, he came equipped in his priesthood's "fixins," and on his way from R. R. Depot, being accompanied by a young man who occasionally 'indulged,' his royal fathership drew a glass piece of artillery and shelled him heavily with what the young man termed the best liquor he ever drank. The weather being inclement they kept up an incessant running fire of "grape and tickler" till they reached their destination, when, of course, the usual anointing operation was performed on the person of the deceased, to the consternation of the good people, who, doubtless, had never before heard or read of such proceedings, which will be the theme of amusing gossip for a month or so. Many of your readers may not be cognizant of the growth of Roman Catholicism in this country which is fearful and astonishing. The Catholic church in the United States probably numbers eight million communicants. They occupy 6,920 stations, chapels and churches, and have the service of 4,873 priests, 6 apostolic vicars, 49 Bishops, 6 archbishops and one cardinal. They have 18 theological seminaries with nearly 1,500 students: over 2,000 schools of all grades, and more than 3,000 asylumns and hospitals. There are among them 7 different orders of monks and friars, 12 of nuns, 8 different institutions such as Jesuits and Redemptorists, 12 congregations of priests and brothers and 30 sisterhoods. A rumor has been put in motion to the effect that Pius IX will take up headquarters in this country. The Roman Catholics are making strong efforts to gain the ascendency; and every spire of a catholic church that is reared aloft is but a step toward monarchy and every convert an advocate, in principle, of a Monarchical form of government.—Roman Catholicism instituted the persecution of the old countries and burned the Divines who were teaching their fellow man by precept and example the religion of Jesus Christ.—The Romans already claim the great valley of the Mississippi, the richest region of this country. The student of history may see with prophetic eye the course they are persuing will eventually, when they gain the power, result as in other countries in Imperialism. The horrible disclosures of convent life made by escaped nuns should be sufficient warning to our people to let Roman Catholicism severely alone. It will prove at the last day as flimsy and self condemning as Atheism, and all of their Roman tomfoolery will vanish like mist in a tornado. May a merciful God save the present and rising generation from the belief in Roman Catholicism, and be thoroughly enlightened in the religion of Him who died for all mankind. Last Sunday (9th inst.,) it was announced that a meeting called "The Retreat," would commence at the Catholic Church at Newton Grove; in the course of which two "high priests," who, I suppose, are in Virginia, would deliver discourses directly explaining the faith and order of Romanism. A little curiosity and a weak desire to hear and see something prompted me to attend for the first time in my life. On my way to the "amphitheatre," I learned that only one priest would show his nose, which proved 'correct,' consequently a large, respectable and intelligent congregation were sadly disappointed. The next appointment is the second Sunday in June, when we are promised a grand and fantastical Retreat. Everybody and his family have a special invitation. These Romans promise a great time just ahead in order to gather a large crowd.

C.

A great many ways are tried to make the gospel sweet-oil and sugar-plums. You are told that he who believes and is baptized shall be saved; but there some preachers stop; it must be remembered that he who does not is damned.—Rev. T. D. Talmage.

John Wesley.

His death scene was one of the most peaceful and triumphant in the annals of the church. Prayer, praise, and thankfulness were on his lips. Many golden sentences, worthy to be had in everlasting remembrance, were uttered during his last hours. "Our friend Lazarus sleepeth." "He is all! He is all!" "There is no need for more than what I said in Bristol; my words then were—

"I the chief of sinners am,
But Jesus died for me."

"We have boldness to enter into the holiest by the blood of Jesus." "How necessary it is for every one to be on the right foundation!" "The Lord is with us, the God of Jacob is our refuge." "Never mind the poor carcass." "The clouds drop fatness." "He giveth His servants rest." "He causeth His servants to lie down in peace." "I'll praise: I'll praise." "Lord, thou givest strength to those that can speak, and to those that cannot: Speak, Lord, to all our hearts, and let them know that thou loosest the tongue." "Jesus! Jesus!" His lips are wetted, and he says his usual grace, "We thank thee, O Lord, for these and all thy mercies. Bless the church and king; and grant us truth and peace, through Jesus Christ our Lord for ever and ever." Those who look out of the windows are darkened, and he sees only the shadow of his friends around his bed. "Who are these?" "We are come to rejoice with you; you are going to receive your crown." "It is the Lord's doing," he calmly replies, "and marvellous in our eyes." "I will write," he exclaims, and the materials are placed within his reach; but the "right hand has forgot her cunning," and "the pen of the once ready writer' refuses to move. "Let me write for you, sir,' says an attendant, "What would you say?' 'Nothing, but that God is with us.' 'Now we have done all. Let us all go.' And now, with all his remaining strength, he cries out, "The best of all is, God is with us!' And again, lifting his fleshless arm in token of victory, and raising his failing voice to a pitch of holy triumph, he repeats the heartreviving words, "The best of all is, God is with us!' A few minutes before ten o'clock on the morning of the 2nd of March, 1791, he slowly and feebly whispered, 'Farewell! Farewell!'—and literally, "without a lingering groan,' calmly 'fell asleep, having served his generation by the will of God."—H. Moore.

Sanitary Effects of Iron.

Muspratt gave to iron the name of "Nature's scavenger," and Professor Medlock justifies the appellation by means of recent observations and analyses. By placing water in contact with a large surface of iron, he discovered that in about two days every trace of organic matter had disappeared or was rendered insoluble, in which state it could be removed by by filtration. It was also discovered that water, which had been conveyed through iron mains, instead of being contaminated, was actually rendered more pure, that which contained, on entering the pipes, iron to the extent of nearly one-half grain per gallon was found to contain on issuing scarcely a trace of this metal. Water, containing 2.10 organic matter and 96 of iron, after standing in contact with iron for some time, was found by subsequent analysis to be virtually pure, the organic matters having either been decomposed or precipitated.—These results would seem to suggest a simple and effective method for obtaining pure water, and, if we mistake not, their publication will soon be followed by an advertisement setting forth the claims of some new filter and water-purifier.—Appleton's Journal.

VERBAL VICES.—Indulgence in verbal vice soon encourages corresponding vices in conduct. Let any one of you come to talk about any mean or vile practice with a familiar tone, and do you suppose, when the opportunity occurs for committing the mean or vile act, he will be as strong against it as before? It is by no means an unknown thing that men of correct lives talk themselves into crime, into sensuality, into perdition. Bad language easily runs into bad deeds. Select any iniquity you please; suffer yourself to converse in its dialect, to use its slang, to speak in the character of one who relishes it, and I need not tell how soon your moral sense will lower down to its level. Becoming intimate with it, you lose your horror of it. To be too much with bad men and in bad places is not only unwholesome to a man's morality, but unfavorable to his faith and trust in God. It is not every man who could live as Lot did in Sodom, and then be fit to go out of it under God's convoy. This obvious principle of itself furnishes a reason not only for watching the tongue, but for keeping ourselves as much as possible out of the company of bad associates.—Indian Arcana.

National Salutations.

The Japanese salutes by taking the slipper off his foot. In Hindostan, one salutes a man by taking him by the beard. The king of Ternate stands during his audiences, and his subjects sit down to salute him. The inhabitants of the Philippine Islands take your hand to do you honor, and then rub their faces with it. The Laplanders push their noses vigorously against those of the persons whom they accost. In New Guinea, when they wish you good evening, they place green leaves on your head. The Ethiopian takes the robe of him whom he approaches, and covers himself over with it as far as he can. The black kings of the African coast press the middle finger three times as a sign of salutation. The Chinese have a whole series of salutes, from merely bending the knee to complete prostration.—They used formerly to repeat the salutations for forty days to the ambassadors, that they might be acquainted with them before they were admitted to court. The sons of Araucania, in order to salute a venerated person, open their veins and offer him their blood to drink. At Cairo people say to you, "Do you perspire? because a dry skin is considered a symptom of a mortal malady. The Dutchman says, "Do you eat with an appetite?" The German says, "How do you find yourself?" The English ask each other, "How do you do?" The proud Spaniards ask each other if they hold themselves upright. The Greeks of ancient days used to accost each other by saying, "Work and prosper." The Romans simply said, "How do you go?" The German say, "May you live well." The Poles, "I fall at your feet." The Italians, "I kiss your hands." The Chinese, "Have you eaten your rice?" The Turks, "Salutation and health." The French, "How do you bear (or carry) yourself?" The Hebrew "Shalm" has been copied in the Christian ritual, "May peace be with you."—Ill. Christian Weekly.

Macaulay.

It was not until Macaulay stood up that I was aware of all the vulgarity and ungainliness of his appearance; not a ray of intellect beams from his countenance: a lump of more ordinary clay never inclosed a powerful mind and lively imagination. He had a cold and a sore throat, the latter of which occasioned a constant contraction of the muscles of the thorax, making him appear as if in momentary danger of a fit. His manner struck me as not pleasing, but it was not assuming; unembarrassed, yet not easy; unpolished, yet not coarse; there was no kind of usurpation of the conversation, no tenacity as to opinions or facts, no assumption of superiority, but the variety and extent of his information were soon apparent, for whatever subject was touched upon he evinced the utmost familiarity with it; quotation, illustration, anecdote, seemed ready in his hands for every topic. * * * Macaulay is a most extraordinary man, and his astonishing knowledge is every moment exhibited, but (as far as I have yet seen of him, which is not sufficient to judge) he is not agreeable. His propositions and his allusions are rather too abrupt; he starts topics not altogether naturally; then he has none of the graces of conversation, none of that exquisite tact and refinement which are the result of a felicitous intuition or a long acquaintance with good society, or more probably a mixture of both. * * * Sydney Smith calls Macaulay "a book in breeches."—Greville's Memories.

Evangelical Arminianism, as preached and written by Wesley, Fletcher, Watson and their true successors, is the accepted theology of the Methodism that affiliated with Wesley in his lifetime and of its branches and off, shoots in various parts of the world.—It is a theology worth preserving. It is destined, we believe, to endure to the end of time, and to modify very materially, if not to assimilate to it all other Protestant doctrinal systems.—It is sound, it is philosophical, it is evangelical, it is Scriptural; it harmonizes free agency and grace, it is equally adapted to the evangelism and to the edification and perfecting of the Church: it is the theology which to-day is preached by evangelical Protestants during every revival and earnest religious movement in Christendom, and at every mission-station in heathendom. It is full of "Christ crucified, unto the Jews a stumbling-block, and unto the Greeks foolishness;" but nevertheless, "Christ the power of God and the wisdom of God," to save unto the uttermost all who come unto God by him.—Western Advocate.

The authorities of Jesus College, Oxford, have offered to endow a professorship of the Celtic language and literature, upon certain conditions. The offer will probably be accepted by the University.

Matches in Grammar.

We are pleased with the spelling contests in which all our villages and cities have participated. We think good will come from them, not only in the boisterous hilarities which have been created, but in the improved mental calibre of the people.

Now we propose a new form of amusement, namely, a grammar match. It is amazing how many of the best Christian laymen in all our Churches are so deficient in grammatical accuracy as to excite the mirthfulness of the young people. We speak not for ourselves. We sometimes positively enjoy the brawny smashing of the English language by some old Christian man who never saw a grammar in all his life, but whose heart is so full of holiness that he can sway a religious meeting and carry everything before him. But we consider it a positive shame, when a grammar will cost only fifty cents, and one hour's study a day for one year would make an ordinary mind capable of understanding the structure of our English language, that so many of our young men and middle-aged men go blundering through their prayers and exhortations, thus depleting their influence for good by one half. The little children of this day are having so many opportunities of perfecting themselves in the study of grammar, that when in our religious assemblages they hear men distorting and outraging the language at every step, putting 'them' for 'those,' and 'is' for 'are,' and 'I seen' for 'I saw,' and 'I done it' for 'I did it,' and 'they was,' for 'they were,' the young people turn their heads away and say within themselves: 'That man cannot teach me anything. 'for I know more than he does now.' It would be well for ministers of the Gospel to purchase fifty or a hundred English grammars and distribute them among those who take part in religious service. If the pastor has the confidence of the people they would gladly take his suggestion. Laymen go on from year to year with this little "dead fly in the 'ointment' of their public services, because the fly has never been pointed out to them.

Suppose, then, we have a few grammar matches? Let us choose sides, and see who can parse a sentence without breaking down. What wonder if some little child should carry off the premium for being the best grammarian.—Christian at Work.

THE death of Gen. John C. Breckinridge will be deeply regretted by the people of the South. He was a gallant soldier, an able and honest statesman, and a jurist of extensive attainments. Cultivated, refined and noble, there was no blot on his escutcheon. He was the son of John Breckinridge, who filled the posts of United States senator and Attorney General. He was born in 1821, served with distinction in the Mexican war, elected to Congress in 1851 elected Vice President in 1856. In 1860 he was the Democratic candidate for President, and in 1861 he was a member of the United States Senate. He entered the Confederate army with the rank of brigadier general at the close of 1861, and in January, 1865, was appointed Secretary of War. After the war he resided for two or three years in Europe. He died at his home in Lexington, Ky., May 17, 1875.

STUDY THE SCRIPTURES.—A silver egg was once prepared as a present to a Saxon queen. Open the silver by a secret spring and there was found a yolk of gold, and it flew open and disclosed a beautiful bird. Press the wings of the bird and in its breast was found a crown, jeweled and radiant. And even within the crown, upheld by a spring, like the rest, was a ring of diamonds, which fitted the finger of the princess herself.

Oh, how many a promise there is within a promise in the Scripture, the silver around the gold, the gold around the jewels; yet how few of God's children ever find their way far enough among the springs to discover the crown of his rejoicing, or the ring of his covenant of peace.

THE first years of every man's business or professional life are years of education. They are intended to be, in the order of nature and Providence. Doors do not open to a man until he is prepared to enter them. The man without a wedding garment may get in surreptitiously, but he immediately goes out with a flea in his ear. We think it is the experience of most successful men who have watched the course of their lives in retrospect that whenever they have arrived at a point where they were thoroughly prepared to go up higher, the door to a higher place has swung back of itself, and they have heard the call to enter. The old die, or voluntarily retire for rest. The best men who stand ready to take their places will succeed to their position, and its honors and emoluments.—Dr. Holland.

The Fire That Old Nick Built.

INTEMPERANCE.—This is the fire that old Nick built.

MODERATE DRINKING—This is the fuel that feeds the fire that old Nick built.

RUM SELLING—This is the ax that cuts the wood that feeds the fire that old Nick built.

LOVE OF MONEY—This is the stone that grinds the ax that cuts the wood that feeds the fire that old Nick built.

PUBLIC OPINION—This is the sledge with its face of steel that batters the stone that grinds the ax that cuts the wood that feeds the fire that old Nick built.

A TEMPRANCE MEETING—This is one of the blows that we quietly deal to fashion the sledge with its edge of steel that batters the stone that grinds the ax that cuts the wood that feed's the fire that old Nick built.

TEMPERANCE PLEDGE—This is the smith that works with a will to give force to the blow that we quietly deal to fashion the sledge with its face of steel that batters the stone that grinds the ax that cuts the wood that feeds the fire that old Nick built.

ETERNAL TRUTH—This is the spirit so gentle and still that nerves the smith to work with a will to give force to the blow that we quietly deal to fashion the sledge with its face of steel that batters the stone that grinds the ax that cuts the wood that feeds the fire that old Nick built.

P. T. Barnum.

In a temperance address at his Hippodrome in Philadelphia, on Sunday, the 18th inst., Mr. P. T. Barnum made the following statement, which of itself forms one of the most impressive appeals for the cause of temperance that could be made:

"I will undertake, and give bonds for the fulfilment of the contract, that if the city of Philadelphia will stop selling liquor and give me as much as was expended here for liquor last year, I will pay all the city expenses; no person living within her borders shall pay taxes; there shall be no insurance on property; a good boy, girl, man and woman; all the educational expenses shall be paid; a barrel of flour shall be given to every needy and worthy person, and I will clear a half million or a million dollars myself by the operation."

Shrewd Retorts.

A Romanist once said to a Christian, "You Protestants could not prove your Bible if it were not for the Holy Catholic Church, and her great men."

"True," said the Christian, "for the Bible would predict there would be such an apostate church and priesthood, and here you are just as the Bible said."

After hearing a discourse in which much was said by the preacher about God, a skeptic said to him, "What is this God about whom you have been saying so much?"

The preacher replied, "God is a spirit."

The skeptic fiercely followed up, "What is a spirit?"

The preacher quickly turned on him, and inquired, "what is a cornstalk."

"Why—why—why, it is a cornstalk."

"Yes, sir," replied the preacher, "a spirit is a spirit, and if you cannot tell what a cornstalk is, which you have seen thousands of times, and know has an existence, why do you ask me to tell you what the Infinite Spirit is, or doubt his existence?"

A Missouri woman, who applied for a situation as car driver, being asked if she could manage mules, scornfully replied: "Of course I can. I've had two husbands!"

LORD OF ROANOKE.—The history of North Carolina is full of curious and romantic incidents. Among the most curious is the circumstance of the creation of a peerage in the person of an Indian Chieftain. Sir Walter Raleigh, on the Island of Croatan on the 13th of August 1587, attended the baptism of Manteo, a faithful Indian Chief, and afterwards made him a feudal Baron under the name of the Lord of Roanoke. This was the first and last Peerage ever created by English authority on American soil.

The name of Manteo is preserved in the title of the Lodge of Odd Fellows in Raleigh.

Postmasters have received instructions from the Postoffice Department authorizing them to receive as mail matter small parcels of sugar or flour, which heretofore have been excluded. The parcels must be done up securely in tin boxes, and will cost one third letter postage. This will be a convenience to grocery merchants, who may wish to order or send specimens.

Writing on the subject of pulpit elocution, Mr. Spurgeon says:—"B natural is the best note for a preacher, but this we cannot expect from A FLAT."

Earnest Thoughts.

There is a second youth for man, better and holier than his first, if he will look on, and not look back.

Sin is never overcome by looking at it, but by looking away from it to Him who bore our sins, yours and mine, on the cross.

A Prescription in three parts for a nervous disorder: "First, occupation; second, occupation; third, occupation." The prescription was written by a celebrated physician and will serve as a remedy for many of the ills to which flesh is heir.

It was a remark of President Edwards derived from his own observation during an extraordinary revival of religion, that "nothing seemed to promote greater effects on the mind of his own congregation, than recitals of the prevalence of religion in other places."

A minister has no ground to hope for fruit from his exertions until in himself he has no hope—until he has learned to put no faith in the point and energy of his sentences—until he feels that a man may be mighty to compel the attention, mighty to regale the imagination, and mighty to silence the gainsayers, and yet not mighty to the pulling down of the strongholds. —Chalmers.

I FORGOT.—What? a business appointment? O, no. Was somebody to pay you money, and the hour appointed slipped by? Was it a concert, a wedding, an evening party?—No! somehow people never forget these things. It was only a Church service; an appointment made with God for his worship; a promise on his part to meet you with a blessing. The day, the hour came, and you forgot. Bells rang to remind you, but were unheeded. It does not trouble you at all. But think again; was it a trifle? What did you forget? Whom did you forget?

"IT is finished." We are ever taking leave of something that will not come back again. We let go, with a pang, portion after portion of our existence. However dreary we have been here, yet when that hour comes—the winding up of all things; the last grand rush of darkness on our spirits; the hour of that awful sudden wrench from all we have ever known or loved; the long farewell to sun, moon, stars, and light—humbly and fearfully, what will then be finished? When it is finished, what will it be? Will it be the butterfly existence of pleasure, the mere life of science, a life of uninterrupted sin and selfish gratification; or will it be, 'Father, I have finished the work which thou gavest me to do!" —Robertson.

Literature, Art and Science.

The naval monument, upon which Simmons, the sculptor, has been engaged for some time, is almost finished.

An autograph letter of Queen Elizabeth to Henry IV. brought what is accounted the large price of £82, at a recent London auction.

It is said that an edition of the Bible is to be printed in London, with the proper names accented, to indicate their correct pronounciation.

A picture representing a body of horsemen, recently painted by Meissonier, and covering a canvas less than a foot square, was lately sold for $24,000 in gold.

It is announced that the statue of the late William H. Seward, ordered from Randolph Rogers for the Central Park, New York, will be ready in August.

The May number of the Art Journal will contain an engraving of the Bryant testimonial vase, and also of the unsuccessful designs, submitted to the committee.

The London Law Times says that American legal literature has attained superior excellence, and that far more American lawyers than British ones write from love of study.

The monumental figure of Robert E Lee has been completed in marble by Valentine. The likeness is said to be admirable. The figure is recumbent, and is represented as dressed in the Confederate uniform.

The Boston Art Club has the happy faculty of providing very entertaining exhibitions, by supplementing the works of its own members with pictures loaned by citizens and painted by noted American and European artists. Its Spring exhibition is now open.

Sir Charles Lyell has left a fortune of about $150.000. To the London Geological Society he willed $10,000, the annual interest of this sum to be applied to the encouragement of geology or allied sciences. The money, it is provided, is to be appropriated partly for travelling expenses or for memoirs and papers, and without reference to the sex or nationality of the authors.

It is announced that the committee appointed to decide upon the true character of the statue of St. John the Baptist, recently brought to light in the Rosselmini-Gualandi palace, at Pisa, have given it as their decided opinion that it is a genuine work of Michael Angelo.

A book of religious meditations by Mrs. H. B. Stowe, will be published by J. B. Ford & Co., in the Autumn. The first edition of Mrs. Stowe's "We and Our Neighbors" numbers 22,500 copies. Fifty thousand copies of her story, "My Wife and I," of which the former is a sequel, have been sold.

As it has been reported that Miss Elizabeth Thompson, the famous painter of calvary, in England, had a field trodden down by horses that she might draw the bruised grass, some one has revived an old anecdote about Meissonier, somewhat similar, but evidently containing more fiction than fact. The story reads thus: "To paint Cuirassiers,' said Meissonier, 'I must needs see them.' He accordingly took a dozen of this corps to his country house, where they were required to charge down the park every morning, but the evolution did not last long, and before the artist had sketched an outline of the group, the gallant fellows were out of sight. :You must follow them by train,' said a friend. No sooner said than done. An engineer was summoned, rails were laid down, rolling stock purchased, and for several weeks Meissonier accompanied the charge of his models by train. But it was Summer, and historical accuracy required that the Cuirassiers should dash over snowy ground. Thousands of bushels of flour were then laid down in the park, and the Cuirassiers, as they charged, became enveloped in clouds of farina. The illusion was complete, the studies admirable, and the finished picture sold for millions."

Laughing Stock.

— An affecting sight—barrels in tiers.

— A natural revolutionist — the earth.

— The sun says, with a lisp, "I thaw it."

— Something that ought to be put down—carpets.

— A muff—a thing that holds a young lady's hand without squeezing it.

— "Orthogrammania," is what they are calling the rage for spelling matches.

— The greatest feat in eating ever recorded is told of a man who commenced by bolting a door, after which he threw up a window, and swallowed a whole story.

— A man is said to be absent-minded when he thinks he has left his watch at home and takes it out of his pocket to see if he has time to return home and get it.

— A Brown County editor bought his ink by the jug full, because he could get it cheaper, but his wife went to fill the inkstand one morning and found it wasn't ink by a jugfull.

— A certain Western editor, who was presented with a box of collars in pay for an advertisement, is waiting in daily expectation that some one will present him with a shirt.

— The saddest thing in life is the spectacle afforded by a young person who has burnt all her hair off her forehead with a hot slate pencil, and cannot afford to buy a row of curls.

— It was an Irish Coroner who, when asked how he accounted for an extraordinary mortality in Limerick, replied sadly: "I cannot tell. There are people dying this year that never died before."

— Visitor: "Well, Mrs. Flanagan, what did the doctor say about your poor husband's deafness?" Mrs. F.: "Faith, Miss, the doctor says Tom will never hear again; but (whispers) please don't speak loud; it might make him depressed loike!"

— There was a women's rights meeting in Colorado, recently, to which no gentlemen were admitted. Somebody, however, put a live rat in the room from the ceiling, and with a hurried "Resolved, that we adjourn," and some shrieks and confusion, the gathering scattered.—Rochester Democrat.

A man will carry five hundred dollars in his vest pocket, but a woman needs a morocco portmonnaie as large as a fist, and too heavy to carry in the pocket, to escort a fifty cent script, a recipe for making jelly-cake, and two samples of dress goods down town and back, every pleasant afternoon.

A correspondent of the Kingston East Tennessean reports that about one hundred Northern families have settled in Cumberland county, and by their industry and energy, they have materially aided in developing the country. Some are engaged in raising fine cattle, hogs and sheep. A Northern gentleman has purchased five thousand acres of land, and proposes to stock it with two thousand sheep. Experienced sheep farmers from Pennsylvania say that the business is bound to pay in this section.

The Christian Advocate.

OFFICE—Corner of Dawson & Hargett Sts

THE ORGAN
OF THE
NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE
OF THE
M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

Rev. J. B. Babbitt, } Editors.
R. T. Gray, Esq. }

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

FOR ONE YEAR, IN ADVANCE, POSTAGE PAID,	$2.20
SIX MONTHS, " "	1.35
If payment be delayed six months,	2.70

All letters on business with this office should be addressed to the Editors of the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

RALEIGH, N. C., JUNE 2, 1875.

The Cross (X) Mark is to remind you that your subscription has expired. Let all renew promptly.

The Fayettville District Conference convenes at Carthage on Thursday the 3rd instant. Bishop Marvin to Preside.

Bishop Marvin will dedicate Person Street Church of this city on the 2nd Sabbath in June. Our friends, ministerial and lay, from a distance, are cordially invited to be present on the occasion.

Rev. R. A. Willis writes, May 20th that he is in the midst of a gracious revival of religion at Black Creek. A full account of the meeting, we hope to receive at an early date.

We acknowledge the receipt of an invitation to the Annual Commencement of Wake Forest College, June 8th, 9th and 10th. Hon. A. M. Waddell will deliver the address before the Literary Societies, and Rev. Thos. E. Skinner, of Athens, Ga., delivers the sermon before the Graduating Class.

N. C. Local Ministers' Conference for 1875 will meet at Kinston, on Thursday the 15th day of July, and continue until Sunday night following. Rev. Peter H. Joyner of Winston will preside at the Conference.

The commencement exercises of Thomasville Female College, H. W. Reinhart, Esq., President, will take place on the 24th and 25th of this month. The annual concert will be given on the evening of the 24th and the commencement exercises proper will be on the 25th. Hon. John Kerr, the well known North Carolina orator, will deliver the address before the young ladies on the 25th.

The District Conferences of the Wilmington and Washington Districts were held last week, and from the Secretaries we hope to receive full accounts of the proceedings at both. The editors had made arrangements to attend these Conferences, but a combination of circumstances interfered with our plans. We trust that the sessions were pleasant to all who attended, as well as profitable to them and the Church.

At a recent Sunday school celebration at Polkton, in Anson county, in which the Sunday-schools of Wadesboro, Lilesville, Monroe and Polkton participated, there were, says the Argus, about 2500 people in attendance. The Monroe brass band was present and rendered enlivening music. Speeches were made by various persons, among them our friend Rev. B. B. Culbreth, who "made a short but most excellent address, one that was highly spoken of by all who heard it, and that will not soon be forgotten."

Mrs. Dr. Green, of Nashville, has presented to Bishop Marvin the official seal of Bishop McKendree, which the latter wore habitually with his watch. Bishop Marvin in writing to the Nashville Advocate says of the seal: "The center is occupied by the Bishop's monogram in large capitals, Roman script. Just within the upper periphery is the legend, filling somewhat more than half the circumference, "Take heed unto thyself." This is in small capitals of the style of the printed Roman characters.

"Take heed unto thyself." I pray for grace to receive the admonition.

This seal, coming to me through a family of the Bishop's most cherished friends, I accept as a memento of him and them; and to me it will constitute a treasure to be preserved along with Bishop's Asbury's razor, bequeathed to me by Bishop Andrew in his very last days."

The National Convention of the Young Men's Christian association met in Richmond, Va., last week. Thirty States, and provinces were represented and about 350 delegates attended. J. W. Wallace, of Ga., addressed the Convention. The subscription of Miss M. C. Lee, the General's daughter, in behalf of the Washington Lee University Association, was received with prolonged applause, and thanks returned by unanimous rising vote. W. P. Munford, of Va., J. A. Hardie, of Ala., are on the Executive Committee. The Convention meets next at Toronto, Canada.

We hail with pleasure the prosperity and increase of this noble order. It affords a ground upon which all Christians, of whatever denomination, may meet with fraternal feeling and work with harmony and success for the promotion of morality and the good of men.

Short but lively, was the motto a certain preacher kept pasted on the inside of his pulpit for himself and his exchanges. A good motto for Sunday school addresses everywhere.

Love to God.

Love to God is represented in the Bible as forming the primary and grand requirement of the Divine law. The first great command of God is, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind." Thus is seen wisdom and goodness in the Father in presenting himself as the only proper and lawful object of love. We say it was wise because, had he placed the object of supreme affection lower than himself, it would have been to have elevated an inferior object above himself. It was good because a lesser object of affection could never have met the desires and aspirations of an immortal mind. God has so constituted man, implanting in him such a capacity for happiness, and such boundless and immortal desires for its possession as can find their full enjoyment only in infinity itself. He never designed that the intelligent and immortal creature should sip its bliss at a lower fountain than himself It was therefore infinitely wise and good in God, that he should have presented himself as the sole object of supreme love and worship, to his intelligent creatures. His wisdom saw the necessity of having one centre of supreme and adorning affection, and one object of supreme and spiritual worship to angels and to men.—His goodness suggested that that centre and that object should be himself; the perfection of infinite excellence, the fountain of infinite good. That as from him went forth all streams of life to all creatures, it was but reasonable and just that to him should return, and in him should centre all the streams of love and obedience of all intelligent and immortal creatures: that, as he was the most intelligent, wise, glorious, and beneficent object in the universe, it was meant that the first, strongest, and purest love of the creature should soar towards, and find its resting place in him.

Love to God forms the grand requirement, and fundamental precept of the Divine law. It is binding upon all intelligent beings. From it no consideration can release the creature. No plea of inability, no claim of inferior objects, no opposition of rival interests, can lessen the obligation of every creature that hath breath to love the Lord his God with all his heart, and with all his soul, and with all his mind. It grows out of the relation of the creature to God, as his Creator, moral Governor and Preserver; as being in himself the only object of infinite excellence, wisdom, holiness, majesty and grace. This obligation, too, to love God with supreme affection, is binding upon the creature irrespective of any advantage which may result to him from so loving a God. It is most true that God has benevolently connected supreme happiness with supreme love, and has threatened supreme misery when supreme affection is withheld. But independent of any blessing that may accrue to the creature from its love to God, the infinite excellence of the Divine nature, and the eternal relation in which he stands to the intelligent universe, render it obligatory on every creature to love him with a supreme, paramount, holy and universal affection.

The word of God clearly teaches the truth that love expels all fear from the heart. "There is no fear in love; but perfect love casteth out all fear, because fear hath torment. He that feareth is not made perfect in love," is the plain teaching of inspiration.—No one will deny the truth that "fear hath torment." The fear of death, of judgment and of condemnation—the fear engendered by a slavish view of the Lord's commandments, a defective view of the believer's relation to God,—imperfect conceptions of the work of Christ—unsettled, unsatisfactory apprehensions of the great fact of acceptance with God, through Christ—yielding to the power of unbelief—the retaining of guilt upon the conscience, or the influence of any concealed sin, will fill the heart with the torment of fear. But "perfect love casteth out all fear;" he that feareth is not perfect in the love of Christ.

A correspondent of the Wilmington Star of the 26th ult., writing from Smithville, says:

"Quite an enthusiastic revival has been in progress the entire week past, at the M. E. Church at that place, under the auspices of Rev. T. P. England. Morning and evening meetings have been held the entire week. The Church has been filled to overflowing day and night. A large number have been converted, and as yet there appears to be no diminution of interest or numbers on the part of the people.

Among the many who have professed religion was an old lady, aged 80 years, well known to the people of Smithville and esteemed for her frequent acts of kindness and humanity."

The Richmond Advocate says, Dr. Rosser called in the office for a few moments last week. He was just out of the great Lynchburg revival, and on his way to Danville, where he is now at work. He looked fresh and well, but we gave him a word of warning against over-work. He says he has learned to do a great deal of work without much wear and tear. Happy discovery We hope to hear glorious news from Danville.

The International Sunday school convention assembled in Baltimore, May 11th. The attendance was very large, and enthusiasm great.

The Season of Commencements.

This is a gala season in colleges and schools. The busy labor of preparation for Commencement exercises is relieved of its tedium by the anticipations of pleasure, dreams of joyous meetings with friends and kinspeople and the sans souci freedom of vacation days. Music-rooms are ringing with the "concord of sweet sounds," as graceful fingers and musical throats translate the creations of Strauss, Mendelssohn and Donizetti, and the professors with waving hand and moving baton perfect the chorus for the 'concert' night. Groves and chapels resound with the tones of Sophomores and Seniors as they rehearse their polished sentences to the dull ears of trees and walls, and run up and down the gamut to catch the key that will be most effective on Commencement day. Presidents and professors begin to relax their severity of face, speech and discipline in order to give the boys and girls time and scope to prepare for and enjoy the festivities of the closing session. It is a pleasant sight to look upon, the buoyant, hopeful, blooming faces of youth, with minds and bodies full of health and vigor, just emerging from the training school to enter upon the active affairs that engage the world's attention. It is meet that the occasion of quitting the preparatory and entering upon the practical side of life should be celebrated in such a way as to exhibit the perfection of the training and to make the close of school life pleasant to present experience and memory.

The "honors" of Commencement occasions, conferred by the College, Literary Societies or fellow students, upon the most meritorious, are a great incentive to studious habits, cultivation of natural gifts, and upright, courteous and gentlemanly deportment. A drone in the school room cannot hope for the Commencement wreath of scholastic honors; a cipher in the Debating Society cannot expect to be put forward as the representative of the eloquence and learning of a society, jealous of its good name, and to gather from the rostrum the bonquets showered upon him by the admiring throng. Nor can the rough, ill-mannered and graceless boor, who cultivates neither moral sense nor politeness, hope to be awarded by his fellows a position for which dignity and grace, courtesy and good sense, are necessary qualifications. Remove these "honors"—these laurel wreaths, that hang above the rostrum on commencement Day ready to drop upon the brow of merit, and the two or three or four years at College would seem long and dull, and destroy that zest and generous rivalry in study which the ambition for 'honors' now stimulates.

As the collegian closes his books, gathers his laurels and steps out of the classic hall a full fledged graduate, let him not think that his work is closed and that his College honors will ensure him the continued respect of men and the higher honors which the world has to bestow. Many young men upon leaving College with a brilliant record, delude themselves with the idea that the world will run after them with its honors, and render themselves disgusting by laying claims to positions of honor, responsibility and profit which only belong to experience, wisdom and tested fidelity. The world is willing to call a young man 'promising,' but reserves its favors until he proves worthy of them after a trial of his integrity, industry, and intellectual strength. The close of student life is only the beginning of a higher life, intenser study and more persistent work; the beginning of a race for more substantial rewards and that is more hotly contested—a race in which drones and sluggards and creatures of mere sense, are trampled upon or cast aside and left behind to satisfy themselves with the worthless gewgaws and tasteless bits that they may pick up along the course;—a race in which favoritism has little or no abiding influence—where the strong nerves are relaxed only by the dissolving hand of death, but in which manliness, courage, energy and integrity are sure to win the goal.

We have received the second number of the Monthly Messenger, edited by Rev Messrs. J. S. Nelson and C. M. Pepper, published by W. C. Wolfe, at the Enquirer office in Monroe, and devoted to the interests of Methodism on the Charlotte District. The first number failed to reach us; hence, the seemingly tardy notice of its appearance. It is, though of small size, neatly published and well edited, and we wish the editors great success in their undertaking, and trust that much good will be accomplished for the cause of religion.

Rev. George R Crooks, L. L. D., for 15 years past the accomplished and learned editor of the N. Y. Methodist, has retired from the editorial charge of that paper. By his labors, the Methodist attained to great popularity and wielded a marked influence in the country, and by his retirement journalism will be the sufferer.

A lady and her husband, it is said, who recently arrived at Baltimore from New York, forgot her baby and left it behind in the cars. When the loss was discovered they were some distance from the Depot, and the husband just managed to reach the cars in time to recover the child before the train moved off

Notes.

—A terrible disaster occurred in Boston last week by an explosion in a drug store. About seven o'clock on the 26th ult., a deafening noise was heard proceeding from the store on the corner of Washington and La Grange streets, stunning many people on the sidewalks and streets and even causing a street car to overturn on the street, every window being broken and the passengers rendered insensible by the force of the concussion.—The building, four stories high, toppled to its fall and settled down into a conglomerated mass of ruins. The upper stories were used as tenement rooms and a great many of the inmates perished in the ruins. It is not known as yet what caused the strange and terrible explosion. Some attribute it to the bursting of a powerful soda-fonntain which was in the store. Others say that it was a gas explosion, bnt that theory receives but little support. Again, it is claimed that there was nitro-glycerine in the cellar with which the clerks were in the habit of experimenting, and that the explosion proceeded from that source. Whatever it was, it teaches the necessity of great care and caution, and the employment of skilled and competent clerks in a drug store, whose chemicals contain such powerful forces of destruction.

—A Catholic Church in Mass., was burned last week, the drapery about the altar catching fire from the tapers burning near it. There was at the time an immense crowd in the Church and of course a panic ensued upon the discovery of the fire. In the rush for the doors men, women and children were trampled upon and crushed to death, the pile of human beings, weak and fainting, being six or seven feet high near the door. More than seventy persons are known to have been killed and it is more than probable that the real number far exceeds that estimate.

DEAR ADVOCATE: I know it will afford the Senior Editor much pleasure to know that near by the place of his boy-hood, there is now a flonrishing Collegiate Institute. Mr. C. G. Davenport, a graduate of Trinity College, has been teaching nearly five months, and has succeeded beyond the expectation of all. He is a fine teacher, and greatly beloved by all who know him, especially the students. On the 3rd June next, the first commencement will be held, Mr. P. H. Winston of the Albemarle Times will deliver the Literary address. The Collegiate Minstrel Association will also give a concert for the benefit of the Orphan Asylum.

Your many friends at Bethel and Littleton would be pleased to see the Advocate represented at that time by one or both of the Editors.

We are anticipating a nice time. Would it not be well for the Advocate to send a "fine specimen of humanity" into our midst to renew acquaintances, and form new ones? I think it would swell your subscription list from this circuit considerably.

As ever your friend,
F. B. ANDREWS.

Trinity Commencement.

The sermon before the Theological Society, will be preached by Rev. E. A. Yates, of N. C. Conference on Sunday morning June 6th at 11 o'clock A. M.,

Wednesday June 9th—The Trustees will meet at 9 o'clock A. M.

At 11 o'clock, the annual sermon to the graduating class will be preached by Rev. Bishop Marvin D.D., of Missouri.

At the conclusion of the service, the New Chapel will be dedicated by the Bishop.

At 8½ o'clock P. M. the address before the Alumni, will do delivered by J R Webster, Esq. of Reidsville N. C., Class of 1869.

Thursday, June 10th—Commencement exercises will begin at 10 o'clock, A. M.,

At 12 M. The literary address will be delivered by Rev. W. E. Munsey D.D, of Tenn.

Ample arrangements have been made to accommodate visitors.

Stages and other means of conveyance, will meet all trains at High Point, from Tuesday til' Thursday morning.

Return tickets for one full fare have been promised.

Preachers and Trustees, who intend to be present, will please notify us.

B CRAVEN.

May 28 1875.

We are requested by Dr. Jones to state that all persons attending G. F. College Commencement can go and return for one full first class fare, on the N. C Div. of the R. & D. R. R. and also on the Salem Road This applies to all who go from June 1st to 3rd inclusive.

Dr. Nagley's Physical "Life of Woman" is written in chaste and elegant style and full of valnable information. I send it to any post office post—paid on the receipt of $2.20.

L. BRANSON, Bookseller,
Raleigh N. C.

LOCAL MINISTERS CONFERENCE.—All members attending the approaching session at Kinston, N. C. July 15th, will please forward their names to me as soon as possible.

JAS. WILSON.

Kinston, N. C., May 25th, 1875.

Now is the time to subscribe for the ADVOCATE.

The Champions of Civil Liberty.

MESSRS EDITORS: I have just read a Centennial Sermon preached by Rev. Dr. Miller—pastor of the Presbyterian church in Charlotte. The whole tenor of the sermon is a labored effort to establish the fact, that the Calvinistic creed and the government of the Presbyterian church are the pioneers of civil liberty, and then the Dr. claims the lion's share for the Presbyterians of the glory due to the fathers of American liberty. The Doctor dilates with great satisfaction on the thought, that the Presbyterians of Mecklenburg planted the acorn, that produced the great tree of American liberty whose branches now extend from the Atlantic to Pacific ocean. Well, it is readily conceded that the Presbyterians have always been a liberty-loving people, and that the citizens of Mecklenburg county who proclaimed the celebrated Declaration of Independence, were mainly members of the Presbyterian church. But I think the Doctor ought to have been a little more generous towards others, who acted a conspicuous part in winning American Independence, that were not Presbyterians in their denominational adherence. George Washington, who is justly called the father of our national liberty, was a staunch Episcopalian. Thomas Jefferson, who was the author of the great Fourth-of July Declaration of Independence was a decided skeptic; Benjamin Franklin, who was a giant in starting and rolling on the Revolution, stood in antagonism to the Calvinistic creed; John Adams, whose Herculean shoulders pushed on the car of civil liberty, was an Arminian; Peyton Randolph, who was so conspicuous in the Revolution as to be elected President of the Continental Congress assembled in Philadelphia, was a zealous Episcopalian; Richard Henry Lee, whose eloquent voice rang all over Virginia, was also an Episcopalian. Gen. Nathaniel Greene who led the Southern army over so many gory fields, was born and raised in a Quaker family. Even Tom Paine's political writings contributed largely to the success of the Revolution. The History of the Revolution shows that the atheists, deists and skeptics of that day were in favor of our Independence. There were Lutherans, Catholics. Congregationalists, and Baptists. who entered into the struggle for American Independence with all their hearts. There are no Methodists mentioned in the History, who took any very prominent part, for the obvious reason, that the Methodist church was in that day in her infancy. There was but a handful of them in the whole country. From these historical facts, which Dr. Miller strongly ignores in his glorification of Presbyterianism, we are compelled to infer that it was not anything peculiar in the Presbyterian creed and government that hatched out the American Eagle of liberty, but the innate love of liberty, that acted alike on all denominations, and on infidels and atheists—the same great principle of civil liberty, which produced a Republic in Greece, Rome, and other parts of the earth, long before the Presbyterian church was born.

H. T. HUDSON.

Shelby, June 1st, 1875.

NOTICE.

TO THE GRADUATES OF RANDOLPH MACON COLLEGE:

I earnestly request every Alumnus of this Institution to send me his address as soon as possible. A simple postal card, containing name, post-office, occupation, and year of graduation, will be sufficient. I desire to make a complete Catalogue of our Alumni. It is expected that our approaching Commencement will be one of unusual interest. The Society of Alumni will be addressed by Rev. Mr. Mangum, of North Carolina, and a general reunion is greatly desired.

Let every Alumnus of the College begin at once to make his arrangements to be present.

Will the newspapers of the South do us the kindness to publish this notice?

W. H. CHRISTIAN,
Prest. Society of Alumni.
Lynchburg, Va., May 12, 1875.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES WESLEYAN FEMALE INSTITUTE, STAUNTON, VA.—Commencement Sunday, June 13th, 11 A. M.,—Commencement Sermon by Rev. Chas. F. Deems, of New York City.

Monday, June 14th, 8 P. M.,—Final Exercises of the Young Ladies' Christian Association.

Tuesday, June 15th, 8 P. M.,—Final Exercises of the Lee and Jackson Literary Society. Address by Hon. R. Q. Mills, of Texas.

Wednesday, June 16th, 8 P. M.,—Annual Soiree Instrumental and Vocal Music.

Thursday, June 17th, 8 P. M.,—Commencement Day. Distribution of Gold Honors, Diplomas, &c.

W. A. HARRIS,
President.

Trinity College Alumni Association will meet at the College on the 9th of June at 5 P. M.

John R. Webster of Reidsville will deliver the Alumni Address on Wednesday night, which night will be appropriated exclusively to the Association.

The new college chapel will be opened this commencement, and it is desirable that all the Alumni should be present.

L. BRANSON,
GEO. B. EVERETT, } Com.

Wesleyan Missionary Anniversary.

The Dean of Canterbury was one of the speakers at the late Wesleyan Missionary Anniversary in Exeter Hall. The address of the Dean was clear and hearty, and the fact that he could venture to make such a one is full of significance. The following is a part of his speech.

"While your President of the Conference was speaking of the great growth of spiritual life that marks this present time, I could not help feeling that we owe very much of the life that exists amongst us to that example, to that charity which was first held up in this country by John Wesley. (Cheers.) It has been said that if he had lived in the present day he would have continued within the bounds of our Church.—But supposing he had done so, it would have been because he would have found in our Church now that which he did not find then—that is to say, thorough earnestness on the great question of religion, and freedom for the exercise of deep, real godliness. Supposing that God had not interfered then, what would have been our fate to-day? I ask whether we do not owe it to your great founder, and to the example and work of your great body, that we in our Church have roused ourselves to more active exertions, and endeavored to live more thoroughly for the honor of Christ and to do his work upon earth? I feel, therefore, in being present to-day, I am doing no more than my duty—(hear, hear)—in offering my thanks both to your founder, and to your body for the great good that you have done to us; and that good has not ceased." (Hear, hear.)

DEAR ADVOCATE: For the last two weeks we have enjoyed a good season of Grace at Beaver Creek on Cumberland Circuit. There were over 30 conversions and 21 additions to the church. Several backsliders reclaimed and the church greatly blessed.—We were assisted by Bro. Wm. J. Johnson, local preacher of that circuit. There is manifest interest at other points on the circuit. May the good Lord continue to help and save. To His name be all the glory! Pray for us!

Yours in Christ,
I. W. AVENT.

DEAR ADVOCATE: The present session of the Shelby Seminary will close June 10th. with appropriate literary exercises and music. The institution is steadily growing. About 60 pupils matriculated this term.—Good health and fine progress among the pupils. We are expecting a large increase next term, which will begin July 12th.

S. R. TRAWICK.

May 27th, 1875.

Commencement at Pleasant Garden Academy.

June 3rd 1875 —Annual Sermon at 11 A. M, by Rev. Jesse H. Page of Cary.

Literary Address at 3 P. M. by Hon. J. T. Morehead of Greensboro.

8 P. M. General Exercises.

June 4th.—Exercises begin at 9½ A. M.

R. P. TROY.

DISPOSAL OF THE NASHVILLE CLAIM CASE.—On Wednesday of last week the United States Court of Claims, at Washington, announced an opinion in the case of Alexander L. P. Green, who in 1862 was domiciled in Nashville, but just before the capture of that city went further South, taking with him a large amount of money of a firm for whom he was indorser. When leaving he was possessed of certain buildings in Nashville, which in 1864 were seized by supervising treasury agents as abandoned property. The claimant averred in his petition that he was always a loyal citizen, but this the court said did not strengthen his case, as he voluntarily entered the enemy's lines. The act of seizure of the property was a war measure, and it made no difference whether it was seized by the army or by a treasury agent. The claimant sought to recover on the ground of an implied contract and the liability of the Government for the acts of its officers.

The court says no action can be maintained on that ground, and that if the claimant was entitled to recover he ought to have prosecuted his case under the abandoned property act, which he failed to do. The case was dismissed.—N. Y. Advocate.

The building committee, appointed by the last Quarterly Conference, to superintend the erection of the Methodist church at this place organized last week by electing Wm. Lindsey President, J. R. Webster Secretary and Treasurer.—The committee decided to build a brick church 40x60. They selected a site on the corner lot North of Mr. Crafton's residence. A most eligible situation, we think.—Reidsville News.

ANOTHER MAGAZINE CONSOLIDATION.—The consolidation of the well-known Boston Magazine "Old and New," with SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY, has just transpired.

In connection with the purchase of "Old and New," Scribner & Co. have made special arrangement for contributions by its distinguished Editor, EDWARD EVERETT HALE; one of the leading serial stories of SCRIBNER for next year will be from his pen.

In the peculiar vein of his short stories ("The Man Without a Country," "My Double, and How He Undid Me," etc.), Mr. Hale is unequaled, and the public will anticipate with interest what promises to be his most important effort in fiction.

Religious Brevities.

At the third Annual Council of the Reformed Episcopal Church, in Chicago last week, Revs. Edward Cridge and James A. Latane, were elected bishops.

The Twentieth Annual Convention of the Young Men's Christian Association of the United States and British Provinces was held at Richmond, Va., May 26th to 29th.

During the twenty-nine years of Dr. Cuyler's ministry he has lost but two Sabbaths by bodily sickness. During his fifteen years' pastorate of Lafayette Avenue Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn, he has received into Church fellowship 2,472 persons, baptized 857 persons, buried 134 members, and made over 12,000 pastoral visits. The present membership of the Church is 1,600.

At the International Sunday school Convention, Rev. G. A. Peltz was elected President. The responses to the calling of the roll of States for reports on Sunday-school work were, without exception, most satisfactory and encouraging. The delegate from Kansas reported that Sunday-schools were organized in every county in Kansas, except those inhabited only by wild Indians and buffaloes.

The Christian Convention met on the 5th inst., in the Haymarket Theater, London, England. Mr. Moody, the American revivalist, was chosen Chairman. Many hundreds of delegates, representing the principal towns in the Kingdom, were present. Rev. Mr. Kelman, of Edinburgh, in an address, stated that the results of the work of Moody and Sankey in that city were truly marvelous. Three thousand persons had been converted, and the number of drunkards and theatergoers who had been reclaimed was remarkable. The delegate from Rome gave an interesting account of the progress there.

No book can be found, written by so many different authors in so many different ages when so many different customs prevailed, that produces such wondrous harmony as does the Bible. And yet infidels have laid their impious hands upon it and have pronounced it false, because they found a few seeming contradictions and discrepancies. We say seeming, for we shall find upon a closer examination that these apparent discrepancies strengthen the narrative, as the testings of several witnesses given in their own language in a court of justice, varying in some slight particulars, give additional weight, and prove there was no mutual agreement to deceive.—Buffalo Christian Advocate.

Gen. Warren Randolph, in his report on the subject of uniform lessons for Sunday schools, said that in addition to these lessons being in general use all over our own country, they are studied in France, Germany, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, the Netherlands, Switzerland, Turkey, Italy and Greece, and in Syria, Hindostan, Burmah and China and old Mexico is sitting down with us to the study of the Scriptures. One set of Sabbath studies is going with them around the globe to unify the nations.

There are three sources of education, the family, the workshop, and the Sabbath. The family is the first in the order of time, it is also first in the order of influence.—Pere Hyacinthe.

Some traveler says of the Font of St. John's Church, Ephesus, that it proves conclusively the early Christians poured in baptism instead of immersing, the receptacle for water being ten inches deep, and extending to the rim of the vessel all around.

Books Received.

We have received from Messrs Nelson and Phillips, New York, the following valuable books, recently published, for which we make our grateful acknowledgements and which we will notice more fully when we have perused them thoroughly:

LOVE ENTHRONED: ESSAYS ON EVANGELICAL PERFECTION. By Daniel Steele, D.D., Nelson & Phillips, New York 1875, $1,50.

BINNEY'S THEOLOGICAL COMPEND IMPROVED, containing a synopsis of the Evidences, Doctrines, Morals and Institutions of Christianity. Designed for Bible Classes, Theological Students, and young Preachers. By Rev. Amos Binney and Rev. Daniel Steele D. D. Nelson and Phillips, New York 1875. 90 cents.

GLAUCIA. A STORY OF ATHENS IN THE FIRST CENTURY. By Emme Leslie. Nelson & Phillips, New York 1875, $1.25.

QUADRATUS. A TALE OF THE WORLD IN THE CHURCH. By Emmie Leslie, Nelson & Phillips, New York, $1.50.

FLAVIA; OR "LOYAL UNTO THE END" A tale of the church in the second century. By Emma Leslie, Nelson & Phillips, New York, 1875. $1,50.

THE LIVING WESLEY, as he was in his Youth and Prime. By James H. Rigg, D.D. With an introduction by John F. Hurst, D.D., Nelson & Phillips, New York, 1875, $1 25.

OUR KING AND SAVIOUR, or The Story of our Lord's Life on Earth. By Daniel Wise, D.D Nelson & Phillips, New York, 1875, $2.00

COMMENTARY ON THE OLD TESTAMENT. Vol. IV. Kings to Esther. By Rev. M. S. Terry, A. M.. D. D Wheedon L.L D. Editor. Nelson & Phillips New York 1875, $2.50.

The Asheville Expositor says: The first census taken in Buncombe county was in the year 1800 75 years ago. It then contained 6,512 inhabitants. In the year 1810 it contained 9,277; 1820, 10,542; 1830, 10,281; 1840, 10,084; 1850, 13,425; 1860, 12,654; 1870, 15,412. Asheville contains 1,500, of whom 829 are white and 571 colored.

NORTH CAROLINA.

The Hillsboro Recorder says: During the Centennial Celebration, the Hon. W. A. Graham sat for his photograph surrounded by his seven sons. This will be a valuable memento of the occasion.

The Monroe Enquirer says: Mr. J Kindly Griffin, of Olive Branch, has a cow that gave birth to three calves on the 14th inst.; all fine, well shaped, and doing well. Two are exactly the same color and size, the other a little smaller.

The Raleigh News says: His Excellency Gov. Brogden never owned or wore a pistol, a pair of boots or a watch; he never owned a dog, went fishing or shot at a squirrel. He is by no means hotately, and it is said he has been discarded by sweethearts oftener than any other man of his age, having never been able to get the answer "yes."

"Taking the full of the tide of the grand Mecklenburg Celebration," the people of Fayetteville are preparing for the centennial celebration of the declaration of independence made at Liberty Point in that town on June 21st, 1775.—"Liberty Point" is at the intersection of two streets in Fayetteville and derived its name from the fact that, at that place some bold resolves were made before the Revolution.

The N. C. Medical Association held its annual meeting in Wilson last week, and, we learn, the meeting was largely attended and of great interest to the profession. Rev. Dr. Hooper delivered the address of welcome, which was well received, and responded to by Dr. J. W Jones of Tarboro, the President of the Association. The officers for the ensuing year are: President, Dr. Peter E Hines; 1st V P. Dr. J. H. Baker; 2nd V. P., Dr. G. G. Smith; 3rd V. P., Dr. T. D. Haigh, 4th V. P., Dr. J. K. Hall; Treas. Dr. H. T. Bahnson; Sec'y, Dr. J. McKee; Orator, Dr. Willis Alston. After a two days session the Association adjourned to meet at Fayetteville in May, 1876.

Truck farming is likely to become quite a feature in the vicinity of Raleigh, says the NEWS.

Last week in Davidson county Press Brown struck Mr. Epps, overseer for Dr. Shelton, with a singletree, inflicting a dangerous wound.

The Alamance Gleaner is informed that on last Wednesday morning, at her home in Guilford county, Miss Emnie Worth dropped dead.

The Salem Press learns that John Smith, son of Levi K. Smith, and aged about 20 years, was drowned in Shenk's mill pond, near Hall's ferry, on Saturday last, it is supposed in a cramp.

The Reidsville News says We record the total destruction by fire on last Thursday evening of the residence of our townsman, R. G. Gladstone. Nothing was saved, not even a piece of wearing apparel. A purse of something over three hundred dollars has been made up for him.

Among the many offerings at the Mecklenburg Centennial, was a wreath from Mt. Vernon. The evergreens in the wreath were cut from trees that Washington planted more than a hundred years ago, and the ivy came from his tomb.

The Lodge of I. O. G. T. at Long Pine numbers 55 members in good standing.

The Toisnot TRANSCRIPT says: that the merchants of Toisnot have bought since the 1st of January 7:800 dozen of eggs.

Four acres of land were sold at Durham, N. C., last week for $1 681. Fourteen months ago, the same land sold for $550. Good for Durham.—Plant.

That's nothing. A thousand dollars was refused last week for a town lot, 50 x100, in Winston that was bought for $175 00 a little over a year ago. Winston SENTINEL.

The Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows assembled at Elizabeth City elected the following officers for the ensuing year: R K Speed, of Elizabeth Cicty, M W Grand Master; I B Palamountain, of Tarboro, R W Dep. G M.; John Taylor, of Goldsboro, R W Grand Warden; J J Litchford, of Raleigh, R W Grand Secretary; R J Jones, of Wilmington, R W Grand Treasurer; W H Bagley, of Raleigh, R W G Representative G L U S.

The next session will be held in Raleigh.

Mr. S. H. Webb, a young lawyer, is revising the town charter and ordinances of Durham, and preparing them for publication.

The taxable property of Durham has increased 50 per cent in valuation since last year.

The dwelling and kitchen of Mrs. E. McNeill in Cumberland county, were destroyed by fire on the 12th ult. The people in her neighborhood are very kindly contributing to the relief of her necessities, rebuilding her house, &c., says the Robesonian.

A KIDNAPPED BOY RESTORED.—Nearly eleven years ago the Yankee army carried off from here a boy named Edward Alston, the son of Mrs. Emily Alston, who was then Mrs. Emily Jones, and lived in this county about twelve miles from Raleigh. Ed at that time was just eleven years old and a bright and promising lad. The family mourned him as dead, and nothing was heard or known of his fate till twelve months after he wrote to Dr. James Beckwith, his uncle, from a place called Vermilion in Edgar county, Illinois. The boy had a hard time of it. He worked in the field awhile, next in a blacksmith shop, then in a carriage shop, and from there he joined the United States army. As a soldier he fought the Indians two years on the Yellow Stone River, and from there he was ordered to Shreveport in the Louisiana troubles. It was from here he was finally restored to his home in this county. His friends worked faithfully after him. Mrs. Dr. Beckwith, his aunt, who has just left this office, and who told us the news, made untiring efforts in behalf of her sister's son. During his absence both Dr. Beckwith, his uncle, and Mr Lee Jones, his father in law, had died. The ear of government was besieged by ex Gov olden, Gov. Pennington, Hon. Sam. Phillips, and also Hon. A. M. Waddell, and the boy's history was told, how he had been stolen the same as a fine horse or a rosewood piano, and the government immediately ordered his discharge from the army, and Edward Alston, weighing 160 pounds and 22 years of age, landed at home last week, a man every inch, and knows a thing or two about this old world that they don't teach in school books.—Raleigh Sentinel.

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF RALEIGH EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING.---TERMS $2.20 POSTAGE PAID.

Our Agents.

All the traveling and local preachers in the bounds of the North Carolina Conference are our authorized Agents. Any person sending us ten subscribers, for one year, will receive the paper free.

Our Correspondents.

Communications for publication should be carefully written, and on one side of the sheet. All letters relative to the paper should be addressed to the Editor.

How to Remit.

In sending money, all amounts should be sent in registered letters, post office order or check. The cost of registration, or Post Office order can be deducted from the amount remitted. If money is sent otherwise than herein directed it will be at the sender's risk.

INDEX TO NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of the Wilmington Eye and Ear Institute which has been in successful operation for a year and was the first of its kind established South of Baltimore. Its patronage is constantly increasing, and we trust that it will become an institution receiving the support and confidence of the Southern people.—Those who have it in charge are competent physicians and worthy gentlemen, and the afflicted may hope for the most kindly and skillful attention.

We direct attention to the new advertisement from Julius Lewis & Co., Hardware dealers of this city. They have an extensive stock on hand and do a deservedly large business, at what they expressively call "rock-bottom" prices.

THE TOLEDO BLADE.—Attention is called to the card of the Toledo (O.) BLADE which appears in another column of this issue.

General News

A county official once made a will, leaving his entire estate one to be divided among the young ladies who courted and refused him "For to them" he said he owed largely, "I owe all my early happiness."

A special in Kansas whose unpleasant duty it was to put a widow and her children on out a house on which she had failed to complete payment, hinted to another house for her and paid immediate attendance.

The locomotive Swedenmath factory has been burned. It was crowded with workmen and more than sixty occupants were cut off. Forty perished in the flames or were killed by leapin.

A man was lately arrested in Baltimore who went in a state of drunkenness, pulled his head and face from a tub of water, and had been prepared for the grave and stripped the coming business body, rudely vociferating, 'some comfort' pay no possum will he him.'

The Rome (Ga.) Commercial says that a merchant of Resaca employs a number of his from to collect rags from the neighborhood. He pays four cents a pound, and has already shipped to Baltimore several thousand pounds at a good profit. He has on hand several thousand pounds more.

Through coaches will soon run from Baltimore to New Orleans via the Virginia Midland Railroad.

The Union passenger Depot at Forty-second street, New York, cost two millions, and is as ugly three important words. About 60,000 travellers pass through it daily.

Mrs. Abraham Lincoln has been adjudged insane, and sent to the Insane Asylum at Batavia Illinois.

There was an entire block burned in Marshall Texas on May 7 to. Loss $110,000.

The Virginia fair are been settled by Spain paying the full indemnity agreed upon

Mrs. Lincoln upon the petition of her son Robert, has been sent to an insane asylum Her property exceed $75,000, which she is incapable of managing.

A special train on the Piedmont Air Line Road returning from Charleston on the night of the 21st was thrown from the track near South Boston, Va., by a broken wheel and smashing several cars. The train was conveying the Richmond Howitzers home.

The Wilmington Journal understands that the Wilmington cotton mills are about ready to commence operations.

A watch case was killed on the Carolina Central Railroad, near Lumberton, a few days since.

A remarkable thing was the contribution of $50 by Miss Elizabeth Hooper to Williams, the wounded member of the Raleigh Battery.

The supposition American claims to have the honor of the printing press on which the Declaration of Independence was printed in 1776.

It is proposed to erect in the public square in the town of Shelby a monument to commemorate the valor and heroism of Cleveland county's fallen sons in the late war.

A colored woman was lodged in jail a few days ago in Oxford, for attempting to poison the child.

The Reidsville News says: Leaf tobacco was never higher than it is at present in this market. Speculators were on hand to look to specimens of leaf by having it stripped of the tobacco. Mr. E. Scales, of Reidsville, were decided to have their crops stripped and ready for market by the 12th inst. The crops of tobacco are very much improved over last year.

The Asheville Citizen says: On Monday morning between the hours of two and three o'clock Cunningham convicted of the murder of Daniel Stringfield on the night of the 4th of June last, was taken from jail at the county sheriff Sweed and a posse of 10 men, and hurried to Marshall, in Madison county, where he will be resentenced and, in all probability, executed.

A southern educational convention is to be held at Chattanooga, commencing June 23, and continuing until July 1 inclusive. Besides the addresses of the State Teachers' Association of Tennessee, Educators and friends of education from Alabama, Mississippi, Missouri, Kentucky and Virginia will participate in the proceedings. The citizens of Chattanooga have taken great pains to secure a reduction in railroad and hotel rates.

The Russians are discussing the construction of a canal to join together the Caspian and Black seas. The Caspian is a salt lake ten feet below the level of water, which is constantly below the level of that of the Black sea, owing to the vast evaporation under the fierce summer heat. The canal is to be about 750 miles long, thus constituting a waterway, rail and other enterprises than the Suez canal.

The grasshoppers have penetrated the heart of Kansas City, moving in a vast army, going North. Trenches are being dug and millions are slaughtered, but nothing can stop the red legged pests in their march. Many drive them from their grounds with water from hydrants. Large depredations are becoming very serious. The lawns are being stripped of grass and garden truck destroyed. Nothing can be raised except in green houses.

The orators of the National Centennial to be celebrated at Philadelphia June 15th, 1876 are to be Charles Francis Adams of Massachusetts, and L Q C Lamar of Mississippi. Henry W Longfellow will be the poet, General W T Sherman will be the Marshal, and General Joseph E Johnston Military Commander. President Grant will preside, and President is Mr Samuel F Hoar of South Carolina.

Mr. David A. Ray has been elected Mayor of Fayetteville, vice Maj. Hinsdale who declined re-election.

The Centennial Celebration at Charlotte was fully reported in the New York papers.

The Hickory Press says: Dr. A. M. Powell, of Catawba, showed us some fine specimens of gold ore a few days ago. He had one lump that weighed seven pwts. This was found in his mine near Catawba Station. This mine was formerly known as the old "Shuford mines," but it is now owned by Dr. Powell. He says the mine is very rich, both on the surface and in the veins. Several hands are now at work, and other large pieces of value have been recently found.

The Statesville American says: Mr. M. E. Hyams, the Botanical Superintendent of Wallace Brothers' Warehouse, is rapidly arranging the large number of medical and other plants gathered in Western North Carolina, and which it is his intention to place on exhibition at the Centennial to be held in Philadelphia next year.—Already he has over four hundred different varieties of herbs, plants, seeds and woods neatly boxed and tastefully labeled.

Mills, Bristow, Carter, and hundreds of other popular musicians and teachers, heartily endorse and commend CLARKE'S New Method for the PIANO FORTE, as being in all particulars the best. Sent by mail, price $3.75. Lee & Walker, publishers, Philadelphia, Pa.

June 2 1t.

Marriages.

Married, May 16th 1875, by the Rev. Wm. R. Wine, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Charley M. Tighman to Miss George C. Broadway, daughter of J. W. Broadway, all of Lenoir county.

Married on the 20th of May 1875, at the residence of Rev. I. W. Avent, by Rev. I. W. Avent, Mr. Matthew Wilder and Mrs. Elizabeth E. Mims, all of Harnett co., N. C.

Married by Rev. G. W. Ivy in Caldwell co, N C., May 19th, R. C. Gentry of Alleghany co, to Miss Alice A. Conly daughter of J. M. Conly.

By the same, at Patterson N. C. May 25th, Mr. J. H. Ball of Iredell co. N. C., to Miss Mary E. Clarke daughter of F. F. Clarke.

By the same, May the 6th 1875, A. F. Summers of Burke co. N. C. to Lucy A. Spencer, daughter of J. W. Spencer.

Married in the town of Washington, N. C. May 11th by Rev. A. R. Raven, Rev. James Mahoney, of the N. C. Conference, and Miss Mary E. Patterson, of Washington.

Married at the residence of the bride's father in Columbus co. N. C., on Tuesday evening May 25th, by Rev. W. H. Royall, James A. Briggs, of Raleigh, and Miss Lula E. youngest daughter of J. W. Hall Esq.

Deaths.

Obituary notices of twenty lines are inserted without charge. The excess over twenty lines of extra words is charged for at the rate of 10 cents per line. Count the lines and allow extra words to the line. In this way you may always know the amount to enclose Resolutions of respect are subject to the same rates.

Died in Mecklenburg co. April 3d, Miss Tirzah Davis, in the sixty second year of her age.

Sister Davis was a woman of marked piety. She leaves behind her the rich perfume of a holy life. Generous and amiable, true and tried, simple and kind in a remarkable degree, she was loved by a large circle of friends. Regular in her attendance at church and in the Sunday school, and ready to help every forward in the enterprises of the church she loved, she lives felt a vacancy in our midst which will long be felt, and an example whose lustre will never be lost. She "rests from her labors."

PINEVILLE.

Died, at his residence near Dudley, Wayne county, N C., James Allen Porter, in the 45th year of his age. He was stricken suddenly and violently with Paralysis on Tuesday night about 3 o'clock, April 27th, and never spoke after he was stricken down, and lingering thus in an unconscious condition until Saturday night, May 1st, 1875, when about 10[illegible]o'clock he breathed his last. Thus speechless and helpless for a few days he lingered upon these mortal shores, and then his immortal Spirit took its flight from its clay enclosure and went up beyond stars and skies to dwell in immortal bliss in his "Eden Home," among the Redeemed—the Angels, Jesus and God forever more. Bro. Porter left a wife and three children to mourn his death but they should remember that God has promised to be a husband to the widow, and a father to the fatherless, and though they will never be permitted again to behold his mortal frame, animated with the life current upon these sin troubled shores, if they be only faithful in "overcoming" they will be permitted to "inherit" and spend with him the cycles of Eternity. He was a good husband, a kind father and a much respected citizen. He was born in Johnston co., N. C., and resided there until he grew to manhood, when about 20 years since he moved to this county. In the Fall of 1867 he professed conversion and joined the M. E. Church on the Everettsville Circuit, under the ministry of Rev. Dan'l Guthrein. From then until the day of his last sickness, he was a consistent, zealous, and faithful member, taking great interest in all the enterprises of the Church, never absenting himself from Divine worship when it was possible to attend, and liberal in contributing to the support of the Preacher. He was a faithful member of Dudley Grange, No 60, P. of H., and took much interest in all the movements of that Order. In the highest sense Bro. Porter was a good manand home and everywhere. He will be missed by his family, his neighbors, his Grange, and his Church On Sunday evening, May 2nd, 1875, Rev R P Bibb the preacher in charge of Mt. Olive Circuit, preached Brother Porter's funeral at his late residence, before a large concourse of his neighbors and friends. The sermon was from the 2nd clause, 16 v. 7 chap. of 1 S. b, "I would not live always," and was listened to with profound attention by all, and tear filled eyes by many in that large assemblage. Thus has passed away one who was beloved by all who knew him. He moved gently down into the grave—"that solemn chamber of initiation into the great secrets of Eternity" and his Redeemed Spirit was doubtless caught up on the pinions of an "Angelic Host," and carried in great triumph through the gates into the city of our God to dwell in never ending bliss in the sunlight emanating from the "Glory clad Hills of Immortality," and if we who still linger here below, will but be faithful until death, following Bro. Porter as he followed Jesus, we too will be permitted to enter there.

E. A. W.

Rev Daniel Domb eldest son of Jacob Domb deceased and brother of Rev. David W. Domb and nephew of Rev. Peter Domb D.D., died at his residence in Forsythe county N. C. on the 26th of April 1875 in the full triumphs of faith aged 61 years and 3 days.

Bro. Domb embraced religion at the age of 21 years, and connected himself with the Methodist Episcopal Church, and lived a consistent christian life to the day of his death. He was licensed to preach in the year 1867, and was faithful in his vocation, an able defender of the doctrines of christianity. He was twice married, and was a kind husband, and an affectionate father. He was a true christian gentleman in all the relations of life. He was the author of 6 children two of which preceded him to the spirit land. He leaves a wife and four children and a numerous train of relations and friends to mourn their loss but while they have one life to bind their affections to earth they have one cord more to draw their souls to heaven, their loss is his infinite gain.

A. W. CARTER.

A good woman is gone! Not lost but gone before! Sister Sarah A. Ragland departed this life at the residence of Mr. [illegible] Wake Co. [illegible] on Sunday the 3d of May 1875, for 40 or 50 years she was a member of the M. E Church, South. The writer has been acquainted with her during all these years, and can truly say, I never knew a more consistent christian. I was associated with her in the same class for more than twenty years, and whether public preachings, or class-meeting, or prayer meeting, or Sabbath school, she was always at her post, ready to do and act her part in pushing forward the interests and cause of Christ, and many have been the precious happy seasons enjoyed at Old Buckhorn, Church, together with her and others that have passed on before. In the Providence of God, I have been her pastor at intervals for seven years, and all the time I sustained this relation to her, I was more and more impressed with her deep and uniform piety. Amiable, kind, benevolent, sweet tempered, loved by all, a model christian.

A few days before her death I visited her, and found her worn down by disease and through that night spent there she seemed to be in a stupor, scarcely able to recognize any of the surroundings. When, the next morning, we prayed with her, her consciousness returned, and we asked her if she still trusted in Jesus O yes, she answered, and motioned to be raised up, when her soul seemed not only thrilled, but filled with Jesus—the Hope of Glory" and praised Him with all her remaining strength. About an hour before she passed away she was very happy, and asked her niece to pray the Lord to take her Home. Thus has passed away, one of the best women I ever knew. Old Buckhorn has one more member in Glory. A great many have gone up from her pale within the last fifty years. She has joined them on the other shore. O what a happy meeting, I hope to get there by and by. Glory be to God for the prospect!

Nashville Advocate please copy.

I. W AVENT.

Died at his residence in Carteret co, on the 28th ult., after a lingering illness, Eli W. Sanders, in the 59th year of his age.

It is a painful duty to record the death of so estimable a citizen, so useful a man. His departure will be left and missed. Not only in the business callings he pursued so successfully, but in the extended circle of friendship in which he moved and was so much esteemed, More particularly will he be missed at the dreary hearth-stone of a once happy but now desolate home, where a tender sorrowing wife and stricken children bow under the chastening rod of "Him who doeth all things well." Human sympathy pours out its consoling words to assuage the pang of grief, but the deeply bereaved must look beyond their own darkened portals for a comforter who can give peace to bleeding hearts, when the world's soothing tones seem cold indeed. Dying in the bosom of a strong Methodist family, his last hours were tranquil, and gilded with that christian hope that is both "sure and steadfast" to the fleeting soul. Desiring death from his bed of suffering, he has obtained life and victory on the peaceful shores of immortal existence

A FRIEND.

Letters and Funds.

Rev Dr S M Frost Rev G Farrar papers continued. A H Mathews sell $2,20. J R Sell, self 2,20. J J Garrett self 2,20. W S G Andrews E N Freshman Wash Smith C W Hunt Rev I W Avent G A Belcher self 1 20. Mrs M E Miller self 2 20. Vanduzen & Tift Rev F D Swindell papers continued E N Freshman Rev Jas Wheeler for W Smith 2.14. Rev F B Andrews for H A House 2.20. Col W A Johnston 2 20. Sterling Johnston 2.20. Mrs Randel Allen 2 20. Capt Freeman 2 20. O H Spencer Rev N M Jurney Rev D Brown papers sent. W Turner self 2 20. Prof F J Hohr self 2 20. Rev A W Cralt Mrs M L Nelson self 2,20. Rev W A Harris Dr M J DeRossett Rev J N Mann paper changed. Rev Z Rush for N Hornaday 1.10. J H Wren 2 20 Rev W D Lee Rev P F W Stamey papers continued H W Richart Luther Waugh for Mrs M V Reeves 2. J W Brittingham self 2,20. Rev W B Manees for Mies C F Evans 1 25. Rev A R Raven Rev S R Trawick Rev G W Ivy for B M Tuttle 2. Rev J P Simpson will appear next week. Rev J F Craven for L Lench 2,20. Mrs S A Stagg paper continued Bishop E M Marvin Z H Greene Rev J F Heilman for S W Wright 2,20, Rev H,T Hudson Bishop Marvin Rev Dr Craven J Hillman Rev R H Whitaker J W Sanders for self 25cts. W J Carlton for ad 2,60 Dr R V Pierce for ad 15. Rev E Howland for W C Dry 2.20 postage 60 cents. Rev R A Willis for Dr W S Anderson 2.20. Dr A G Brooks 2,20, T J Meacham 2 20 other papers sent.

Appointments.

SHELBY DISTRICT.

3RD ROUND, IN PART.

Cherry Mountain, Hopewell,	June	19 20
Shelby ct. Sulphur Springs,	"	26 27
Dallas, Sander's Chapel,	July	3- 4
Mt Herford, Pleasant Grove,	"	10 11
Lincoln, Ebenezer,	"	17-18
Shelby District Conference,	"	22-25

L. S. BUCKHEAD, P. E.
Shelby, N. C.

RALEIGH DISTRICT.

3RD ROUND, Q. M.

Granville at Bullocks,	June	5- 6
Raleigh at Person st.	"	12-13
Louisburg station.	"	19-20
Raleigh at Edenton st.	"	26-27
Tar River at Trinity.	July	3- 4
Henderson at Zion.	"	10-11
Roxeville at Oaky Grove,	"	17-18
District Conference at Oxford, Incinsive.	"	22-25
Nashville and Rocky Mount,	August	7- 8
Gary,	"	14-15
Smithfield,	"	21-22
Youngsville.	"	28-29

The Introductory sermon at the District Conference will be preached by Rev. J. E. Thompson.

The District Stewards will please meet me at the Methodist Church in Oxford on Saturday July 24th.

J. P. MOORE, P. E.
Warrenton, N. C.

WILMINGTON DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND.

Magnolia at Bryant,	March	20 21
Wilmington, 5th St.,	"	27-28
Cokesbury at Averasboro,	April	3- 4
Clio on at Andrew Chapel,	"	10-11
Kenansville at Richlands,	"	17-18
Smithville at Bethel,	"	24-25
Wilmington Front Street,	May	1- 2
Cape Fear Miss. { at Deems Chp'l	"	8- 9
Elizbeth,	"	15-16
Whiteville, Fair Bluff,	"	22-23
Topsail,	June	5- 6
Onslow,	"	12-13

The Wilmington District Conference will be held at Magnolia, embracing the 5th Sunday in May, beginning on Wednesday before at 10 o'clock, a. m.

Rev J. Sanford will preach the opening sermon on Wednesday at 11 o'clock, a. m.

W. S. BLACK, P. E.
Magnolia N. C

NEWBERN DISTRICT.

2ND. ROUND.

Straits,	April	3- 4
Beaufort, Wednesday,	"	7
Kinston,	"	10-11
Jones, Shady Grove, Tuesday,	"	13
Carteret, Adam's Creek,	"	17-18
Wayne at Stantonburg,	"	24-25
Newbern,	May	1- 2
Lenoir, Piney Grove, Tuesday,	"	4
Mt. Olive, (Dist Conf.)	"	6- 9
Snow Hill, Ormand's Chapel,	"	15-16
Goldsboro,	"	22-23
Neuse and Swift Creek, Bay River,	"	29-30
Craven, Macedonia, Wed. & Thurs.	June	16-17
Wilson,	"	19-20

The District Conference of the Newbern District will commence its session at Mt. Olive on May the 6th, Thursday morning, at 9 o'clock. The general understanding among the brethren is that all will remain until Monday. Brethren outside of the District are cordially invited, and we confidently expect one or both of the Editors of the Advocate.

E. A. YATES, P. E
Beaufort N. C.

CHARLOTTE DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND.

Pleasant Grove at	April	3- 4
South Charlotte at Fair View,	"	10-11
Concord sta. and Concord ct.	"	17-18
Wadesboro sta.	"	24-25
Pineville ct,	May	1- 2
Wadesboro and Lilesville. { at Pleasant Hill.	"	8- 9
[illegible]ayton st. and Calvary Miss	"	15-16
Albemarle and Stanley	"	22-23
Mt Pleasant, Ansonville,	"	29-30
	June	5- 6

J. S. NELSON, P. E.
Monroe, N. C.

WASHINGTON DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

Roanoke at Enfield.	April	3- 4
Tarboro at White's,	"	10-11
Williamston at Hamilton,	"	17-18
Plymouth and Jamesville, at Plymouth,	"	24-25
Columbia, at Scuppernong,	May	1- 2
Bath, at Hebron.	"	8- 9
Mattamuskeet, at Amity,	"	15-16
Washington and Greenville, at Greenville.	"	22-23
Warren, at Bethlehem.	June	12-13

The District Conference for Washington District will hold its session at Plymouth commencing May 27th at 11 o'clock. Opening sermon by Dr. M. Foy.

The District Stewards will please meet me in Plymouth the 27th of May at 3 o'clock P. M.

WM. CLOSE, P. E.

GREENSBORO DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND.

South Guilford at Friendship.	March	20-21
Thomasville, H. Point, and Trinity station	Fair Grove	" 27-28
Wentworth Carmel,	April	3- 4
Winston sta.	"	10-11
Greensboro.	"	17-18
South Guilford, Bethany.	"	24-25
Randolph, Ashboro.	May	1- 2
Davidson at Mt. Pleasant,	"	8- 9
Madison at Leaksville,	"	15-16
Forsyth at Loves,	"	22-23
Stokes,	"	29-30

N. H. D. WILSON, P. E.
Greensboro, N. C.

SALISBURY DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

Salisbury circuit, Gay's Chapel	May,	1- 2
Alexander circuit, Stony Point,	"	8 9
Wilkes circuit, Be hel.	"	15-16
Yadkinville circuit, Mt. Mariah.	"	22-23
Surry et & S. Mission, Olive Branch	"	26-27
Mt. Airy Station,	"	29-30
Olin circuit, Clark's Berry.	June	5- 6

D. R. BRITON, P. E.
Statesville, N. C

FAYETTEVILLE DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

Carthage, Fairpromise,	March	20-21
Jonesboro, Cool Spring.	"	27-28
Cumberland, Camp Ground,	April	3- 4
Pee Dee, Sardis,	"	10-11
Buckhorn, Holly Springs,	"	17-18
Fayetteville,	"	24-25
Laurinburg, St. John,	May	1- 2
Rowsson, Regan's,	"	8- 9
Rockingham, Green Lake,	"	15-16
Uwharrie, Oak Grove.	"	22-23
Montgomery, Mt. Pleasant,	"	29-30

S. D. ADAMS, P. E.
Carthage, N. C

The Fayetteville District Conference will be held at Carthage, embracing the 1st Sunday in June, commencing on Thursday before at 11 o'clock. Bishop Marvin will preside.

HILLSBORO DISTRICT.

2ND. ROUND.

Flat River, Mt. Hebron,	April	3- 4
Hillsboro station.	"	10-11
Alamance ct. Bethel.	"	17 18
C. H. & Haw River ct. Ebenezer.	"	24-25
Pittsboro ct. Chatham Church,	May	1- 2
Deep River ct.	"	8.. 9
Person ct. Mt. Tirza,	"	15-16
Leasburg ct Concord.	"	22-23
Yanceyville ct. Shady Grove,	"	29-30

L. L. HENDREN, P. E.
Chapel Hill N. C.

COMMERCIAL REPORT.

WHOLESALE CASH PRICES.

Office of CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, June 1, 1875.

REMARKS.

Business continues quiet. Meats and sugars are very firm and quiet.

COTTON.

Transactions in the staple yesterday very light Low middlings 15¾

General Market.

BAGGING, Domestic 2¼ to yd. 13-12@14.
COTTON TIES, 85.
FLOUR, North Carolina $7.50 @
OATS, 90@1 00
CORN MEAL, $1.00
BACON, N. C. hog round, 15.
" " hams 18.
BULK C. R. sides, 11 1-2
" shoulders, 11 1-2
LARD, North Carolina, none.
" Western tierces, 17 1-2@
" kegs, 17@3
COFFEE, Prime Rio, 21 1-2
" Fair Rio, 20 1-2.
SYRUP, common, 40.
MOLASSES, Cuba, 50.
SALT $2.25.
CHEESE, Cream, 18 1-2.
" Factory, 17.
" Dairy, none.
NAILS, on basis for 10d, $4.00.
SUGAR A, 11 1-2.
" Extra C, 11 1-4.
" Yellow, 9@10 1-2.
LEATHER, Sole, 22 1-2@30
HIDES, green, 7@8.
" dry, 18 1-2
TALLOW, 3@3½
POTATOES, sweet 90@1
" Irish, $1.10@$1.25.
OATS, shelled, 85. @90
" sheaf, $2.25.
FODDER, cut, $1.75
HAY, N. C. baled, good, $1.25.
CHICKENS, grown, 25 @30
EGGS, 17 1-2@12 1-2
BUTTER, country, 22 1-2@25.
FISH, Mullets, $7.00.
" Cat Herrings, none.
" Mackerel, new family, $12.00
BEESWAX, 25.
TALLOW, 3
BEEF on foot, 6@8.
" dressed prime, 9@10.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE WILMINGTON

EYE AND EAR INSTITUTE,

WILMINGTON, N. C.

THIS INSTITUTE HAS BEEN IN SUCCESSFUL operation for the past year, and being the pioneer and only one South of Baltimore specially and exclusively devoted to the treatment of diseases of the Eye and Ear, merits the support of the profession and people of the Southern States.

The number of patients applying for relief is large and constantly increasing, and it is the power of the profession to maintain a HOME INSTITUTION where speedy relief may be had, particularly in those cases of disease of the Eye which do not admit of ANY DELAY in operating.

The accommodations are first-class, and the Surgeon in Charge resides in the Institution with his family and is assisted by skilled nurses in his care of patients.

Board from one to two dollars a day, including medicines and nursing. Additional charges for professional services and operations, in accordance with the standard fee table.

Address

DR. M. J. DeROSSETT,
Surgeon in Charge.
P. O. Box 372.

June 2-1.f.

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT

THE WORLD IS IN BLOOM Nature wears her Summer smile. But the victim of Nervous Debility is like a blighted branch in the sunshine. Let him re-vitalize tone and purify his system with

Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient,

and within a week he will feel like a new man.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

June 2 2t

THE TOLEDO BLADE

Of National Reputation as a Family Paper The Largest and Best Weekly in the country. Combines every desirable feature of News, Politics, Science, Domestic, Agricultural and Horticultural affairs. Five Readers 3 months, $2 25, Smith's Bible Dictionary, last edition, price $2 50, (Specimens 10c Illustrations,) and Blade one year, $3 25. all papers postage free. Address J. P. JONES Publishar, Toledo, O.

June 2-4w.

$25 a day guaranteed using our Well Auger & Drills. $100 a month paid to good Agents. Auger book free. Jile Auger Co., St. Louis, Mo.

June 2-2t.

CAUTION.—NOTICE.—

...e GENUINE EDITION,

LIFE AND LABORS OF

LIVINGSTONE,

(Including the "LAST JOURNAL," unfolds vividly his strange adventures, also the curiosities, of 30 Years search of that marvelous country, and is ABSOLUTELY THE ONLY NEW, COMPLETE work Hence it sells; just think 12,000 first 7 weeks. It goes like wild fire 36 pages 100 fine ills only $3 50. Agents wanted. Send for Terms and positive proof of above.

HUBBARD BROS Pubs. 721 Jansom St. Phila, Pa.

PRICE THIS DAY REDUCED TO

40 Cents Per Gallon,

PRATT'S ASTRAL OIL

— WILL NOT EXPLODE. —

Now used in nearly

600,000 Families.

Never an accident directly or indirectly. BUR: S IN ANY LAMP.

Beware of SO CALL'D safety oils.

JULIUS LEWIS & CO.,

Fisher Building,

Raleigh, N. C.

SASH, DOORS, BLINDS, &C.,

At Rock-Bottom Prices.

LARGEST STOCK IN THE STATE.

AND THE GOODS THOROUGHLY SEASONED.

Write for prices

JULIUS LEWIS & CO.,

Fisher Building, Raleigh, N. C.

HARDWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

WINDOW GLASS, PUTTY, OILS, PAINTS, &c.

JULIUS LEWIS & CO.

OLD NORTH STATE FIRE Insurance Company,

OF

WARRENTON, ----- N. C.,

This Company has closed its third year in a condition of GREAT PROSPERITY, and entered upon its fourth year under the MOST PROMISING AUSPICES.

It deserves the liberal patronage which it is receiving because

It is a home Institution.
It has ample Capital and Reserves
It pays its losses promptly.

ASSETS.

Cash on hand and in Bank,	$ 8 621 53
Cash in hands of Agents,	4,994 00
Stock Notes,	43,670 00
Real Estates Mortgage,	39,908 50
Loaned on Collaterals,	7,847 66
Due for premiums,	3,720 63
Interest due and accrued,	914 38
	$130,297 19

LIABILITIES:

All liabilities including full re-Insurance Reserved,	$18,493 81
Surplus,	111,816 38
	$130,297 .9

WM. S. DAVIS, President.
B. F. LONG, Secretary.

NEW ARRIVALS.

FRESH GOODS AT THE CHEAP CASH HOUSE.

—OF—

W. H. & R. S Tucker.

We have just received 5 cases of 4 4 Bleached Cottons, at 10, 11 1-2, 12 1 2, 14 and 15 cents. Greater bargains never offered before Also 8 4, 9-4, 10-4, 11-4 and 12 4 Bleached Sheetings.

W. H. & R S. TUCKER.

GINGHAMS, HONITON AND HAMBURG NETS, the most desirable fashionable and stylish goods for Ladies' Over Jackets and Overskirts, just received at

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

BURT'S CLOTH BUTTON BOOTS FOR Ladies. Burt's cloth Laced Boots, for Ladies. Barts' Buttoned and Laced Kid Boots for Ladies. A full line of this celebrated make of goods always kept by

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

FANS! FANS!! FANS!!!

We have just opened a beautiful and well selected line of Folding Fans, Japs Bamboo, Ribbon Silk Linen and Satin from 10 cents to $10 00

2 000 Natural Handle Palm Fans, three for 10 cents, at the unprecedented low price cash loses of

W. H. & R S. TUCKER.

STUDY YOUR INTEREST!

We strive to increase our trade by giving our customers the best bargains to be had in the city.

PETTY & JONES

LATEST STYLES AND NOVELTIES of FANS, including Centennial, Thermometer, Parisot, Morocco and Silk, just opened and offered at lowest prices, by

PETTY & JONES.

PRINTS! PRINTS!! PRINTS!!

Large quantities latest patterns, at

PETTY & JONES.

REAL LISLE THREAD UNDERSkirts for Gentlemen and Silk Mitts for Ladies, just opened at

PETTY & JONES.

5000 YARDS BEST AMERICAN LAWN, solid and figured—large variety—this season's patterns, this day opened; worth 8 cents, but rapidly selling at 12 1 2 cents, by

PETTY & JONES.

COTTONADES! COTTONADES!

COTTONADES!!!

Several new cases; handsome assortment of patterns and variety, lower than at any time of the season, at

PETTY & JONES.

BELDING BROTHERS SPOOL SILK—best in the market—all colors warranted as represented or money refunded at

PETTY & JONES.

ANOTHER LARGE LOT OF those elegant Grass Cloths, 36, 38 and 40 inches wide. Latest shades in plain and cords, at prices which make them cheaper than calicos. Offered this day at

PETTY & JONES.

WE DO NOT HESITATE TO say that all who examine our stock and prices will be convinced that we keep only new and desirable goods, and sell at lowest prices.

PETTY & JONES.
No. 20 Fayetteville Street.

may 26-tf.

The Diamond COTTON CHOPPER.

IMPROVED & WARRANTED

At once, Deeper, Dirt, Weeds and Stocks. Also, Cotton Planter and Guano Distributer, Also, Cultivator, Also, Planter, Distributer and Cultivator combined. Also, CORN PLANTER attachment. $7.50 extra. All warranted. Agents wanted. Send stamp for illustrated Circular with warranties and certificates.

PETTY & JONES.
Local Agt.

P. C. C. & C. Co., FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., or

may 5-4t.

AGENTS WANTED

for the fastest selling book ever published. Send for circulars and our extra terms to Agents. NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Philadelphia, Pa.

may 26 4-t

FOR SALE.

The House and Lot, in the city of Raleigh, formerly owned by Mrs. R. A. Hostel, on corner of Person and Martin Streets. Six rooms in the Dwelling—Office, kitchen, &c. A well of good water. Also 25 shares in the Paper Mill property, on Neuse River.

May 1st, 1875.

Apply to J. C. BLOUNT, Executor, Goldsboro. or W. H. CROW, Esq., Raleigh.

May 12 4t.

A. G. LEE. Ed. H. L. S. CLE R. LEE.

A STRICTLY COMMISSION HOUSE

A. G. LEE & SONS.

RALEIGH, N. C.

We give our entire attention to handling goods on COMMISSION, and therefore can handle to advantage consignments of

Corn,	Corn Meal.	Chickens,
Hay,	N. C. Flour,	Eggs,
Fodder,	" Bacon,	and all the
Shucks,	or Green Pork,	products of
Oats,	Beef,	the farm
Peas,	N. C. Hams,	or garden.

All of which we sell for cash, and are therefore able to make prompt returns. We solicit consignments from Western North Carolina, and the State generally.

We call attention to our friends in the city and neighboring country to the fact that we have made arrangements with shippers to have a constant supply of CORN on hand, and almost always have consignments of the other articles mentioned above. We have to sell for cash but will give you good goods.—Try us.

Cotton is our Specialty.

We can always obtain the highest market price, and ask our friends who find it inconvenient to accompany their lots to the market to try us. We can beat New York in the nett proceeds of your cotton.

When you bring your cotton to market yourself give us a chance at it. We have orders to fill and can pay the very utmost market price for it. Be sure to call and see us before you sell.

We are the Agents for

The ORCHILLA GUANO and The SOUTH SEA GUANO.

The SCHOFIELD COTTON PRESS, the best invented.

The DIAMOND COTTON CHOPPER—Every one warranted.

A. G. LEE & SONS.
P. O. Box 222, Raleigh, N. C.

march 8-tf

NEW SPRING GOODS JUST ARRIVED.

D. S. WAITT & BRO.,

Wholesale and Retail

DEALERS IN

READY MADE CLOTHING

For MEN, YOUTHS and CHILDREN.

Latest Styles and Prices Low.

The celebrated MANHATTEN WHITE SHIRTS, which are acknowledged the best Goods and most perfect Fit that is made. A full line constantly on hand.

Gents and Ladies Hose, Gloves, Suspenders, Handkerchief, Neckties, B. w and Silk Scarfs. The latest novelties of the Season paper Linen Cuffs and Collars Ladies Leather Belts, Hamburg Edgings and Insertions, Cashe' Ruffings, and Fluttings, Ladies' Neck Ruffs and Collars, Stamped Yokes and Bands, &c.

DOMESTIC AND FANCY DRY GOODS.

PRINTS, PRINTS, PRINTS.

Black Alpacas.

Corded Jackanets, Striped and Figured Lawns, White Piqué, Mul Muslins, Check'd Muslins, Nansook and Linen Lawns, Corsett Jeans, Canvrics and Linens.

HATS, HATS, HATS.

Newest Styles and Cheap.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

Our Stock is complete in this line. Misses and Taylor's Goods just in and speak for themselves. Other brands which also give satisfaction.

To Country Merchants who buy in the City, we would say give us a call and we will sell goods for cash as cheap as any House in the City, or this side of Baltimore and New York.

To our numerous friends and patrons we again return our thanks for past favors and as our stock is much larger than ever before, we feel confident that we are prepared to do the best that can be done in the city.

D. S. WAITT & BRO.,
54 Fayetteville st., Raleigh, N.

mch 17-tf.

ATTENTION HOUSEKEEPERS!

— AND —

Ladies Generally.

Why will you try to cut with dull SCISSORS, and use dull KNIVES when only twenty-five cents will get a perfect sharpener, which will last a lifetime and never get out of order? Every Housekeeper in Raleigh owns one, or has ordered one, and I refer to them for evidence to prove the real value of the articles offered. Young men wishing an agency that will pay would do well to order one for Sample, with price list to agents. All orders should be

Children's Column.

What I Love Best.

I love the blue sky,
Where pretty birds fly,
And morning's bright beauty as well;
I love the fresh air,
That blows without care,
And many more things I could tell.

I love the warm sun,
And busy bee's hum,
And walks up the grassy green hills;
I love the fair flowers,
And sunshining showers,
And water that comes from the rills.

I love the tall trees
That wave in the breeze,
And daisies and buttercups too;
I love open day,
And beautiful May,
And all that light brings to my view.

But something beside,
Quite close to my side,
More lovely and precious I call;
'Tis darling mamma,
And dear, good papa,
I love, and I love more than all.

But oh! there is One
More bright than the son—
More passing fair than the rest;
'Tis Jesus, who shed
His blood in my stead;
Oh! should I not love him the best?

CHILDREN FRIEND.

Answers.

The words "Lo, I come; in the volume of the book it is written of me, &c," are found in the 10th chap. of Hebrews, 7th verse. Geo. E. Prince, Kate McKenzie. Viola Boddie and J. W. Howard, find the same expression in 40th Psalm 7th verse. J. R. Howard.

Christ is called "a well of living water" in the 4th chap. of Solomon's Song, 15th verse. Geo. E. Prince. Viola Boddie, J. R. Howard.

It was the daughter of Herodias who called John the Baptist "John Baptist." Viola Boddie.

Christ is called a "bundle of myrrh" in the 1st chap. 13th verse of Solomon's Song. Viola Boddie. J. R. Howard, Kate McKenzie.

Paul was called a "Babbler" at Athens, as mentioned in Acts 17th chap. 18th verse. J. R. Howard, J. W. Howard, Kate McKenzie.

Melchisedec is first mentioned in 14th chap. 18th verse of Genesis. J. W. Howard.

St. Luke, in speaking of John the Baptist, calls him "John Baptist." Kate McKenzie.

There are 773,692 words in the Bible; 31,173 verses, and 1,189 chapters. Kate McKenzie.

ANSWER TO ENIGMA PROPOSED BY F. F. JONES.

Its 1st is Elnathan; its 2nd is Uzzah; its 3d is Paul; its 4th is Haggai; its 5th, Rome; its 6th Abishai; its 7th Theophilus; its 8th Eutychus; its 9th Sosthenes. Its whole is the river Euphrates, mentioned in the 4th chap. 10th verse of Ezra. J. R. Howard, Kate McKenzie.

ANSWER TO ENIGMA PROPOSED BY MATTIE J. E. FARRAR.

Its 1st is Naaman; its 2nd is Elpaal its 3d is Ham; its 4th Eber; its 5th Magdiel; its 6th Issachar; its 7th Albeel; its 8th Hagar. Its whole is Nehemiah a book in the Bible. J. W. Howard.

ANSWER TO ENIGMA BY NANNIE WOMBLE.

Its 1st is Naomi; its 2d is Elkanah; its 3d Uz; its 4th Cheba; its 5th Hezekiah; its 6th Agrippa; its 7th Delilah; its 8th Naaman; its 9th Abijah; its 10th Zilpah; its 11th Zillah; its 12th Elymas; its 13th Rephidim. The initials of the above by exchanging places of ninth and twelfth letters, form the name (except B which is omitted) of Nebuchadnezzar. J. R. Howard, Kate McKenzie.

Questions.

J. W. Howard asks for the verse containing the words "my son" four times.

George E. Prince asks where in the Bible is found a verse containing the following words: "The Lord will smite with a scab the crown of the head of the daughters of Zion;" and also asks for what cause the Lord will thus smite &c.

BIBLE ENIGMA BY KATE MCKENZIE.

My 1st is where Jacob first met Rachel.
" 2d was the first high priest of the Israelites.
" 3d was the name of the woman whom Peter raised to life.
" 4th the name of a famous mountain where 450 heathen prophets were slain.
" 5th one who was comforted by an angel in the wilderness
" 6th the name of a king, famous for his beauty.
" 7th the mountain on which Moses died.
" 8th the surname of the apostle who at first doubted that the Lord had risen.
" 9th where Jacob saw the face of God.
" 10th the name of a dutiful daughter.
" 11th the name of the woman who destroyed all the seed royal of Judah.
" 12th the third letter in the name of the man who was struck blind for opposing Paul.

My whole is a command given by our Saviour.

Rural and Domestic.

Preventing the Curdling of Milk,

The observation of Schalbe, that the addition of a single drop of oil of mustard to 308 grains of milk will prevent its curdling for weeks, has been fully confirmed by Vogel by exhaustive comparative experiments with fresh milk, with and without oil of mustard, including the determination, from time to time, of the amount of lactic acid present, from which it also appears that this effect of oil of mustard is due to a retarding action upon the formation of lactic acid, its formation being also almost entirely prevented during the first 11 days, and the amount present 14 days later being only one seventh of that in milk not so treated. Oil of bitter almonds and oil of cinnamon were found to have a similar effect but far less in degree, while oil of turpentine, oil of cloves, benzine, carbolic-acid, bisulphate of carbon, and sulphuretted hydrogen were almost without effect, at least when used in the proportion given for oil of mustard. The additional statement by Schalbe; that caseine was converted into albumen by the addition of oil of mustard, and the suggestion that a cheap method for the manufacture of albumen might be based upon this fact were not fully sustained by the experiments of Vogel, since the milk thus treated did not always coagulate on boiling.

The Origin of Typhoid.

A discussion which is going on in New York as to the social aspect of typhoid fever has elicited from an old physician the opinion that there is something wrong about every house where a case of typhoid fever originates and that if a good sanitary condition is maintained nothing like fever of any kind can be generated. In nine cases out of ten it is produced by poisonous exhalations, or by impure water. In the town of 400,000 inhabitants and upwards, all surface water is impure, and that is, water drawn from wells less than thirty-five feet deep, as the water in such wells is affected by drainage or leach of feculent matter near and remote. The water in artesian wells is from reservoirs from one hundred to five hundred feet below the surface, and quite beyond the reach of all surface impurities. A householder may guard his home from all impurities, but cannot protect himself against the impurities found on his neighbor's premises, and is at the mercy of those who may care nothing for sanitary precautions until stricken down by some malignant fever.

While all this is true, however, will some one explain how it is that typhoid fever prevails in the purest mountain atmosphere in the United States; and where the water is as pure as the air?—Balto Sun.

Filling Lamps.

Always fill lamps in the morning, when there is daylight to work by, and lamps and oil are cold. Do not pour oil from a can that has recently been agitated. Do not allow a lamp to stand very long near a stove, or in any other warm place. Always keep the tube of the lamp clean, and trim the wick every morning. Do not extinguish a lamp by blowing down the chimney; blow up from the bottom, or else turn the wick down. Buy none but the best of oil.

An Invaluable Traveling Companion.

Change of climate, water orillet is apt to induce harrassing and often dangerous diseases. The three changes combined are fatal to thousands of emigrants every year. Is it not, then, of the last importance to know that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are an absolute preventive of the hurtful consequences arising from these causes? Travelers, voyagers, and emigrants to new countries cannot be too often reminded of the fact that this agreeable vegetable tonic is the most reliable safeguard against disorders to which they are far more liable than the habitual denizens of healty regions. The primal effect of the newhoteme atmosphere which produces what are called malarious fevers, is to depress and debilitate the system. The body then becomes an easy prey to the malignant principle in the air. It is manifest, therefore, that the surest way to avoid all epidemic and endemic maladies of an intermittent type, is to counteract the weakening tendency of miasmamy artificial invigoration. That Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the surest resuscitant of flagging vigor, is a fact which is best appreciated wherever influences inimical to health exist. But it is not alone against malaria that they protect the system. They are tougher it to endure with impunity extremes of heat and cold to which travelers are often subjected, and they neutralize those elements in unconstrained water or diet which would otherwise beget disorders of the stomach and bowels. The brackish water with which voyagers by sea are often compelled to quench their thirst, is apt to provoke dysentery and other serious complaints, but when the Bitters are mixed with it, it becomes harmless. Truly this great protective is an invaluable traveling companion.

June 24-1m

Agents Wanted for a New Book,

Present Conflict

OF SCIENCE WITH RELIGION;

or Modern Scepticism Met on its own Ground." A book for the times. The vital question of the day. A subject of the most intense and deepest interest. The grand contest. The Bible triumphs glorious! Address, W. ZIEGLER & CO., 518 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

may 5-3t.

AGENTS! Most Magnificent Gift

EVER OFFERED. LOCAL AGENTS wanted everywhere for The Echo, a weekly family and literary journal, of 16 large pages. Subscription, $1.75. With The Echo is given away the magnificent Oil bound quarto volume, entitled American Illustrated, a superb delineation of American scenery. Largest combination. Most beautiful Illustrated Circular free. Address DAVID WILLIAMS & CO., (Box 2717.) 39 Beekman St., New York.

may 3 12m o m

12 Chromos for $1. The grandest chance ever offered agents. We will mail to any address, best gold, 12 beautiful Oil Chromos, size 9x11, mounted, on receipt of $1. Sell for $2 in an hour. Try a Chromo agency. It is the best paying agency out. Everybody loves and buys pictures. We have work and money for all, men and women, boys and girls, whole or spare time, daytime or evening, at home or traveling. Inclose $1 in a letter. Chromos by return mail. They sell at sight.

WANTED Agents for the best selling Prize package ever in the world. It contains 15 sheets paper, 15 envelopes, Pen, Penholder, Pencil, patent Yard Measure, package of Parfumery, and a piece of Jewelry. Single package with elegant prize post paid, 25 cents.

BEST Selling Imitation Gold Watch, in the market. This is a Pure Coin Silver Hunting Cased Watch; English reliefgold plate; sunk Second Dial; Full Jewelled; Expansion Balance; Nickel Movements; beautifully engraved Cases; and is equal in appearance to a Gold Watch that costs from $50 to $100. It sells and trades readily, for from $20 to $60. If you wish a watch for your own use, or to make money on, try this. Price $17 only. We will send this watch C. O. D. subject to examination, if you send $3 with the order, the balance of $15 you can pay the Express Co., if the watch proves satisfactory.

ALL CAN make splendid pay selling our goods. We have other novelties which are a staple as Flour. Send stamp for our illustrated catalogue. Address J. P. GLUCK, New Bedford, Mass.

May 31-y

A. BAUM,

Professional Butcher,

Ilmington St., Opposite East End Market.

Buys the fattest beeves that can be had. No poor or stunted beef in he sense in his shop. Orders for Mountain stock weekly filled by his agents. The best and choicest meats to be had in this Market, butchered in first class style, and sold you at BAUM'S.

apl 23 tf

DR. C. M'LANE'S CELEBRATED

LIVER PILLS,

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis or Liver Complaint, DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder-blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for a rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of wearisomeness and debility; he is easily startled, has cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is not fully aware of it, exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. M'LANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them A FAIR TRIAL.

Address all orders to

FLEMING BROS., PITTSBURGH, PA.

P. S. Dealers and Physicians ordering from us, rather than Fleming Bros., will do well to write their orders distinctly, and take particular pains to Direct Correctly by Pittsburgh, Pa. To those wishing to give them a trial, we will forward per mail, post paid, any part of the United States, one box of Pills for twelve three-cent postage stamps, or one vial of Vermifuge for fourteen three-cent stamps. All orders from Canada must be accompanied by twenty cents extra.

Sold by all respectable Druggists and Country Store keepers generally.

Dr. C. M'Lane's Vermifuge

Should be kept in every nursery. If you would have your children grow up to be HEALTHY, STRONG, and CHOICE MEN and WOMEN, give them a few doses of

M'LANE'S VERMIFUGE,

TO EXPEL THE WORMS.

☞ BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

PLEIS' FIT POWDERS.

These Powders have been tested by over 40,000 cases for the cure of Fits (Epilepsy), Spasms, Convulsions, St. Vitus' Dance, Neuralgia, and all Nervous Affections, some over 40 years' standing.

When you ORDER STATE AGE.

☞ PRICE, $5 CENTS PER BOX; or sent to a part of the United States for One Dollar per Box.—These Powders are prepared and sold only by the proprietor, to whom all orders must be addressed,

JOHN M. PLEIS, Jr.,

561 North Third street, Philadelphia, Pa.

☞ Please mention that you saw this advertisement in THE CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

PHILO ALCOTT. WAYNE ALCOTT.

Excelsior Grocery

AND

COMMISSION HOUSE.

LOOK TO YOUR INTERESTS! MONEY SAVED IS MONEY MADE!

We buy our Goods for CASH!

We are now prepared to fill orders for any goods usually found in a First-Class Family Grocery. For price and quality we defy competition.

Having increased capital and facilities, we intend to make our House second to none. We guarantee satisfaction in price, quality and promptness.

We have made the necessary arrangements with our friends in the Western part of the State, so that we are almost daily receiving on consignment, Chickens, Turkeys, Ducks, Geese, Eggs, Butter, North Carolina Hams, Shoulders and Sides, Beef Hams, Vegetables Hams, Onions, Corn, Irish Potatoes, Dried Fruit, Meal, Oats, Shucks, Hay, Fodder, White, Black-eye, Speckled and Black Peas, White and Mixed Beans, &c.

Will make price current, or keep a specialty, to be received daily as soon as the weather will permit.—We have made the necessary arrangements with our Norfolk house to furnish the best oysters that market can supply.

Again thanking you most heartily for the liberal patronage heretofore accorded, we are determined, by adopting the experience of those that have been successful in business, and knowing that "Success is Merited," to deserve your increased patronage.

Oct 7-12m

1875 1875

GRAND SPRING OPENING.

NEW MILLINERY STORE.

ENTIRE NEW STOCK!!

Having just arrived from the North with a New and Fashionable assortment of MILLINERY GOODS, of all the latest Parisian styles, I take great pleasure in announcing to the public that I will open my new and elegant stock for inspection, at my new store,

No. 57 Fayetteville Street,

OPPOSITE THE MARKET.

ON SATURDAY, 17th APRIL, 1875.

☞ Trusting that a generous public will bestow their patronage on my efforts to please one and all, both in cheapness, style and quality of goods.

I remain, Very Respectfully,

MRS. E. LEOPOLD,
Leader of Low Prices.

Cheapest Millinery Establishment in the City!

CLARKE'S COMMENTARY—

6 Vols. Splendid sheep binding.

$25.00 per set to Ministers.

L. BRANSON,
Raleigh, N. C.

may 8-12m

READ THIS

I will give any one an opportunity to make from $8 to $5 per day to work for me. Work easy and light. A boy 10 years old can fill be bill. Send stamp for particulars. Apply to

E. E. POWELL, Warrenton N. C.

nov. 25 12 m.

A. H. TEMPLE,

(Successor to Lynn Adams,)

Grocer, Cotton Factor

AND

Commission Merchant.

Nos. 5 Martin St. and 5 Exchange Place.

Having succeeded to the business of Mr. Lynn Adams, I am prepared to offer to the public the best inducements in my line and respectfully ask a continuance of the trade hitherto given Mr. Adams, promising to give satisfaction in all cases

In addition to my regular line of goods, I have on hand a full lock of the

STINSON WOOL HATS,

made in Wake county, and adapted especially to the farmer's use.

I have just returned from the North where I purchased a full line of choice groceries and am now daily adding to my stock. I promise those who may favor me with their custom to give them as good bargains as they can get elsewhere.

A. H. TEMPLE.

My friends respectfully ask my former patronage and friends to go to Temple Mr. Temple my successor, who will, I am assured, give satisfaction to all who deal with him.

I will still keep my office, as Cotton Factor in the same building.

LYNN ADAMS

march7 6- m

WANTED.

AGENTS, male and female to sell Pictures everywhere. Fourteen thousand retailed by one. Another writes: "I can make more money in this business than I can on a $10,000 farm, all stocked."

WHITNEY & CO.,
Norwich, Conn.

april 7-3 m.

RESTORE YOUR SIGHT.

Spectacles Rendered Useless.

Save Your Eyes,

RESTORE YOUR SIGHT,
THROW AWAY YOUR SPECTACLES.

Old Eyes Made New.

All diseases of the Eye successfully treated by

Dr. J. BALL & CO.'S

NEW PATENT IMPROVED IVORY EYE CUPS.

Read for yourself and Restore your Sight

Spectacles and Surgical Operations rendered useless. The inestimable Blessing of sight is made perpetual by the use of the new PATENT IMPROVED IVORY EYE CUPS.

Many of our most eminent physicians, oculists, students and divines have had their sight permanently Restored for life, and cured of the following diseases:

1. Inspired Vision; 2. Presbyopia, or Far-sightedness, or Dimness of Vision, commonly called Blurring; 3. Asthenopia, or Weak Eyes; 4. Epiphora, Running or Watery Eyes; 5. Sore Eyes—specially treated with the Eye Cups—cure guaranteed; 6. Weakness of the Retina, or Optic Nerve; 7. Ophthalmia, or Inflammation of the Eye and its appendages, or imperfect vision from the effects of Inflammation; 8. Photophobia, or Intolerance of Light; 9. Overwhelmed Eyes; 10. Muscæ volitantes—moving specks or floating bodies before the eyes; 11. Amaurosis, or obscurity of Vision; 12. Cataracts; Partial Blindness; the loss of Sight.

Any one can use the IVORY EYE CUPS without the aid of doctor or medicine so as to receive immediate beneficial results and never wear spectacles; or, if using now, to lay them aside forever. We guarantee a cure in every case where the directions are followed, or will refund the money.

2,309 CERTIFICATES OF CURE

from honest Farmers, Mechanics and Merchants—some of them the most eminent leading professional and business men, and women of education and refinement, in our country—can be found at our office.

Under date of March 29 Hon. Horace Greely, of the New York Tribune, writes: "J. Ball, of our city, is a conscientious and responsible man who is incapable of intentional deception or imposition."

Prof. W. Merrick, of Lexington, Ky., wrote, April 14th, 1869: "Without my spectacles I pen you this note, after using the PATENT IVORY EYE CUPS thirteen days, and this Morning perused the entire contents of a daily newspaper, and all with the unassisted eye. Truly am I grateful for your noble invention. May Heaven bless and preserve you. I have been using spectacles twenty years; I am scarcely forty-one."

Truly yours, PROF. W. MERRICK."

Rev. Joseph Smith, Malden, Mass., cured of Partial Blindness of 15 years' standing, in one minute, by the PATENT IVORY EYE CUPS.

E. C. Ellis, late Mayor of Dayton, Ohio, wrote us, Nov. 15th, 1868: "I have tested the PATENT IVORY EYE CUPS, and I am satisfied they are good. I am pleased with them. They are the greatest invention of the age."

Wm. Beatly, M. D., Salvisa Ky., writes: "Thanks to you for the greatest of all inventions, my sight is fully restored, after being almost totally blind for 26 years.

Alex. R. Wyeth, M. D., Atchison, Pa., writes: After total blindness of my left eye for four years, by paralysis of the optic nerve, to my utter astonishment your PATENT EYE CUPS restored my eyesight permanently in three minutes."

All persons wishing for full particulars, certificates of cures, prices, &c., will please send their address to us, and we will send our pamphlet on the ILLUSTRATED PHYSIOLOGY AND ANATOMY OF THE EYE(out of one hundred pages, free of charge, by return mail Write to Dr. J. Ball & Co. P. O. Box 957. No 91 Liberty Street, New York City, N. Y.

For the worse cases of MYOPIA or NEAR-SIGHTEDNESS use our NEW PATENT MYOPIC ATTACHMENTS, applied to the IVORY EYE CUPS Has proved a certain cure for this disease.

Send for pamphlet and certificates—free. Waste no more money by adjusting huge glasses on your nose and disfiguring your face.

AGENTS WANTED

Employment for all. Agents wanted, Gentlemen or Ladies, for our New PATENT IMPROVED IVORY EYE CUPS, just introduced in the market. The success is unparalleled by any other article. All persons out of employment, or those wishing to improve their circumstances, can make a respectable living at this light and easy employment. Hundreds of Agents are making from $5 to $20 a DAY. To live Agents $30 a week will be guaranteed.

Send your address for full particulars. Sent free of charge to any address. Write immediately to

DR. J. BALL & CO.,
NO. 91 LIBERTY STREET,
New York City, N. Y.

P. O. Box 957.
Sept 6-12m

SUI GENERIS.

MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS.

UNEQUALED in tone, UNAPPROACHED in capacity and excellence by any others. Awarded

THREE HIGHEST MEDALS AND DIPLOMA OF HONOR, AT VIENNA, 1873; PARIS, 1867.

ONLY American Organs ever awarded any medal in Europe, or which present such extraordinary excellence as to command a wide sale there.

ALWAYS trial Expositions, in America as well as Europe. Out of hundreds there have not been six in all where any other organs have been preferred.

BEST Declared by Eminent Musicians, in both Hemispheres to be unrivaled. See TESTIMONIAL CIRCULAR, with opinions of more than One Thousand (sent free).

INSIST on having a Mason & Hamlin. Do not take any other. Dealers get LARGER commissions for selling inferior organs, and for this reason often try very hard to sell something else.

NEW STYLES ments ever made. New Solo and Combination Stops. Superb Stagere and other Cases of new designs.

PIANO-HARP CABINET ORGAN. An exquisite combination of these instruments.

EASY PAYMENTS. Organs sold for cash; or payments; or rented until rent pays for the organ.

CATALOGUES and Circulars, with full particulars, free. Address MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., 154 Tremont Street, BOSTON; 25 Union Square, NEW YORK; 95 Wabash Ave., CHICAGO.

Apl 12-1 year.

A NICE LOT OF HAMS JUST RECEIVED from Eastern N. C., and for sale especially for table use by A. G. LEE & SONS.

250 BUSHELS WHITE SPRING OATS FOR sale by A. G. LEE & SONS.

A LOT OF FRESH MOUNTAIN BUTTER in kits. Call and examine at A. G. LEE & SONS.

apl 14-1y,

SCHEDULES.

PIEDMONT & AIR-LINE RAILWAY.

RICHMOND & DANVILLE, RICHMOND & DANVILLE R. W., N. C. DIVISION, and NORTH WESTERN N. C. R. W.

CONDENSED TIME-TABLE.
In effect on and after Tuesday, April 20th, 1875

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	MAIL.	EXPRESS.
Leave Charlotte.....	9 23 P. M	8.20 A. M.
" Air-Line J'nct'n	9 30 "	8 50 "
" Salisbury.....	10.19 A. M.	10.02 "
" Greensboro'....	2.35 "	1.32 P. M.
" Danville.....	6.20 "	4.05 "
" Dundee.....	6.30 "	4.18 "
" Barksville.....	11.35 "	8 36 "
Arrive at Richmond..	2.22 P. M	11.17 P. M

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS	MAIL.	EXPRESS.
Leave Richmond.....	1.58 P. M.	3.08 A. M.
" Barksville.....	6.52 "	8.35 "
" Dundee.....	9.44 "	1.17 P. M.
" Danville.....	9.46 "	1.21 P. M.
" Greensboro'....	12.40 A. M.	4.28 "
" Salisbury.....	3.56 "	6.53 "
" Air-Line J'nct'n	7.05 "	8 59 "
Arrive at Charlo,N.C.	7.10 A. M	9.05 "

GOING EAST. GOING WEST

STATIONS.	Mail	Mail.
Leave Greensboro'..	2.15 A. M	Arrive 1.15 P. M
" Co. Shops....	3.58 "	Leave 11.51 "
" Raleigh.....	7.05 "	7.22 "
Arrive at Goldsboro	11.40 A. M	Leave 5.00 P. M.

NORTH WESTERN N. C. R. R.

(SALEM BRANCH.)

Leave Greensboro'.....	4.31 P. M.
Arrive at Salem	6.18 "
Leave Salem.....	9.30 A.M. "
Arrive at Greensboro.....	11.19 "

Passenger train leaving Raleigh at 6.52 P. M. connects at Greensboro' with the Northern bound train, making the quickest time to all Northern cities. Price of Ticket the same as via other routes.

Through freight from points East of Greensboro connect at Greensboro with Mail Trains to or from points North or South.

Two trains daily, both ways.

On Sundays Lynchburg Accommodation leave Richmond at 9 00 A. M., arrive at Burkeville 12 43 P. M. Leave Burkeville 4.35 A. M., arrive at Richmond 7.58 A. M.

No Change of Cars between Charlotte and Richmond, 282 Miles.

Passenger tout have arrangements to advertise the Schedule of this company will please print as above.

For further information address

S. K. ALLEN,
Gen'l Ticket Agent,
Greensboro, N. C.

T. M. R. TALCOTT,
Engineer & Gen'l Superintendent.

CHANGE OF SCHEDULE

RALEIGH & GASTON RAILROAD CO.

On and after Friday, May 22nd, 1874, trains on the Raleigh & Gaston Railroad, will run daily (Sunday excepted) as follows:

MAIL TRAIN.

Leave Raleigh,	9.55 A. M.
Arrives at Weldon,	3.30 P. M.
Leaves Weldon,	9.50 A. M.
Arrives at Raleigh,	5.45 P. M.

ACCOMMODATION TRAIN.

Leaves Raleigh,	5.15 A. M.
Arrives at Weldon,	5.15 P. M.
Leaves Weldon,	2.21 A. M.
Arrives at Raleigh	2.45 P. M.

Mail train makes close connection at Weldon, with the Seaboard and Roanoke Railroad and Bay Line Steamers via Baltimore, to and from all points North, West and Northwest, and with Petersburg Railroad via Petersburg, Richmond and Washington City, to and from all points North and Northwest.

And at Raleigh with the North Carolina Railroad to and from all points South and Southwest, and with the Raleigh & Augusta Air Line to Haywood and Fayetteville.

A. B. ANDREWS,
Gen. Sup't.

RALEIGH & AUGUSTA AIR-LINE RAILROAD.

SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE,
Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 27th, 1873.

On and after Monday, October 27th, 1873, trains on the R. & A. A. L. Road will run daily, (Sundays excepted,) as follows:

MAIL TRAIN.

Train leaves Raleigh,	4.00 P. M.
Arrives at Sanford,	6.25 "
Train leaves Sanford,	6.30 A. M
Arrives at Raleigh,	9.20 "

FREIGHT TRAIN.

Leaves Raleigh,	5.15 A. M.
Arrives at Sanford	10.35 A. M.
Leaves Sanford,	11.09 A. M
Arrives at Raleigh	3.55 P. M.

Mail Train makes close connection at Raleigh with the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad, to and from all points North.

And at Sanford with the Western Railroad, to and from Fayetteville and points on Western Railroad.

A. B. ANDREWS,
Superintendent.

OFFICE SUPT. OF TRANSPORTATION,
Seaboard & Roanoke R. R. Co.,
Portsmouth, Va., Jan. 4th, 1875.

On and after this date, trains of this Road will leave Weldon daily, Sundays excepted, as follows:

Mail train at	4 P. M.
No. 1 Freight train at	4 A. M.
No. 2 Freight train at	8 A. M.

ARRIVE AT PORTSMOUTH.

Mail train at	7 15 P. M.
No 1 Freight at	12 00 NOON
No 2 Freight at	4 00 P. M.

Freight trains have a passenger car at rear of train.

Steamer for Edenton, Plymouth and Landings on Blackwater and Chowan Rivers leave Franklin at 7.10 A. M on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

E. G. GHIO,
Supt. Trans. Station.

STIEFF

GRAND, SQUARE, AND UPRIGHT

PIANOS

Have received upwards of FIFTY FIRST PREMIUMS and are among the best now made. Every instrument fully warranted for five years. Prices as low as the excessive use of the very best materials and the most thorough workmanship will permit. The principle planists and composers, and the piano-purchasing public of the south especially, unite in the UNANIMOUS verdict of the superiority of the STIEFF PIANO. The DURABILITY of our instruments is fully established by over sixty schools and colleges in the South, using over 2,500 of our Pianos.

Sole Wholesale Agents for reveral of the principal manufacturers of Cabinet and Church Organs, prices from $50 to $600. A liberal discount to Clergymen and Sabbath schools.

A large assortment of second-hand Pianos at prices ranging from $100 to $300, always on hand.

Send for Illustrated Catalogue, containing names of over 600 Southerners, who have bought and are using the Stieff Piano.

CHARLES M. STIEFF,
Warerooms, No. 9 North Liberty street.
Baltimore, Md.
Factories, 84 & 86 Camden st. and 45 & 47 Perry st,
Dec 16-12m

AGENTS WANTED FOR

Cross and Crown

THE SPIRIT AND POWER of the religion of Jesus Christ as shown in the Suffering and Triumphs of His followers. A richer, sweeter and more thrilling story is not to be found in the whole range of history. Magnificently illustrated in steel with the best engravings of Sartain and Illman, and splendidly bound in the richest and latest style of the art. The most beautiful and attractive book ever offered to Agents. For circulars, with full description, address NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Atlanta, Ga., or Memphis Tenn.

March 10-6m

FROM

HENRY J. BROWN,

Opposite Masonic Hall,

RALEIGH, N. C.,

UNDERTAKER,

Keeps on hand Fisk's Metallic Burial Cases, Self Sealing Metallic Burial Cases, and Walnut and other Wood Coffins. HEARSE FURNISHED.

Also Dealer in Furniture. Repairing and Varnishing Promptly Executed.

Aug 19-tf

$250 A MONTH—Agents wanted every where. Business honorable and first class. Particulars sent free. Address J. WORTH & CO., St Louis, Mo.

Sept 16-6m

$5 TO $20 per day! Agents wanted! All classes of working people, of either sex, young or old, making more money at work for us in their spare moments, or all the time, than at anything else. Particulars free. Address G Stinson & Co., Portland, Maine,

Sept 16-12m

A NEW BOOK.

Life, Sermons, and Speeches

OF

Rev. N. F. Reid, D. D.

LATE OF THE

NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

BY HIS SONS

James W. and Frank L. Reid.

A handsome volume of 536 pages.
A fine Steel Engraving of Dr. Reid in each copy.

NOW READY FOR DELIVERY.

BE SURE TO GET A COPY.

Price in Morocco, gilt edge, $3 00.
" " Cloth, 2 00.

Agents wanted to whom liberal commissions will be made. Single copies sent by mail, postage paid, on receipt of retail price.

Address, REV. F. L. REID, Lexington, N. C.
or JAS. W. REID, Wentworth N. C.

G. T. LEACH, N. Y. M. T. LEACH

Leach Brothers,

WHOLESALE GROCERS

AND

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

SOUTH-EAST CORNER MARKET, SQUARE, Raleigh, N. C

Again we take great pleasure in presenting our card and returning the ks to the readers of the ADVOCATE for their very liberal patronage during the past few years, and offer them the largest and best bought stock of Groceries ever offered in any market south of Baltimore, and while just now Bacons, Sugars and Lard are very scarce and high, we have made extra effort and feel sure we have succeeded in bringing other goods equally low and intend giving our friends all the advantages gained thereby to counter-balance any advance in the low goods named.

We wish to invite especial attention to our select stock of staple Shoes and Boots bought direct from the Factories and offered here AT FIRST PROFITS.

We have now in store:

5,000 lbs. Rio Coffees,
10 Mats old Gov. Java,
10 Bbls. A Sugar,
10 Bbls. Ex C Sugar,
10 Bbls. B F Yellow Sugar,
20 Bbls. Demarara,
20 Boxes Bulk Sides,
10 " " Shoulders,
50 Kegs English Soda,
1,000 lbs. G. D and Sole Leather,
100 Sides Upper Leather,
50 " Harness Leather,
100 Cases Oysters,
50 " Brandy Peaches,
2,000 Yds. Bagging,
5,000 lbs. Ties,
100 Bbls. Super Flour,
100 Bags Assorted Shot,
50 Bbls Extra Flour,
50 Cases Forrester's Crackers,
50 " Soda Crackers,
60 Boxes Factory and Dairy Cheese,
6,000 W. P. and G. D. Gun Caps,
1 Kegs Burden Horse and Mule Shoes,
200 lbs. Horse Shoe Nails,
20 Doz Best Axes,
25 Boxes Adamantine Candles,
100 Boxes Luxudry and Toilet Soaps.

We offer especial inducements to country and near-by merchants, and invite an examination of our stock and daily competition

Oct 7 12-m LEACH BROS

L. R. WYATT. R. L. BINGHAM.

Wyatt, Bingham & Co.

Wholesale and Retail Grocers,

COTTON FACTORS

AND GENERAL

Commission Merchants,

No. 4 Market St. and No. 5 Market Exchange,
RALEIGH, N. C.

We tender our many thanks to our several customers and friends for their liberal patronage, and hope to merit a continuance of the same by our strict personal and prompt attention to our business, and by offering to them our large and well selected stock of

BOOTS, SHOES, HATS and CAPS,

Staple Dry Goods,
Cotton Yarns,
Sheetings,
Alamance Plaids, and
General Merchandise,

all of which we guarantee to be as recommended, and to sell at the lowest prices.

OUR GROCERY DEPARTMENT

is complete, and we make FLOUR a specialty and guarantee the lowest prices at retail and wholesale, and the quality to be equal or superior to any offered in the market for the price.

BAGGING and TIES,

SALT and NAILS

always on hand and offered at the lowest market prices.

Consignments solicited, which will receive our prompt and personal attention, and the best prices obtained.

Jan 20-tf

THE JAS. LEFFEL Double Turbine Water Wheel,

Manufactured by

POOLE & HUNT,
Baltimore, Md.
7,000 NOW IN USE

Simple, Strong, Durable, always reliable and satisfactory.

Manufacturers, also, of Portable & Stationary Engines, Steam Boilers, Saw & Grist Mills, Mining Machinery, Coal Breakers, Cotton Mills, Flour, Paint, White Lead and Barrel Machinery, Pulleys and Hangers a specialty. Machine made Gearing; accurate and of very best finish. Send for Circulars.

mch 24-6m.

Williams & Haywood,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN

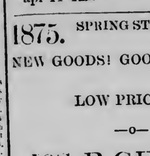
Drugs, Medicines, Paints, Oils, Dye Stuffs, Perfumery,

Fancy Articles, Garden Seeds, Fine Teas, Spices, Flavoring Extracts.

CIGARS, CHEWING TOBACCO &C.

Keep constantly on hand, at lowest market prices, Sperm Oil, Lard Oil, Kerosene Oil, Burning Oil, Lamp Oil, Tanner's Oil, Window Glass, Varnish, &c., &c.

Dec. 23-1y



BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.

Established in 1837.

Superior Bells of Copper and Tin, mounted with the best Rotary Hangings, for Churches, Academies, Farms, Factories, Court Houses, Fire Alarms, Steamboats, Chimes, etc. Fully Warranted.

Illustrated Catalogue sent Free.

VANDUZEN & TIFT,
102 and 104 East Second St., Cincinnati.

apr 14-12m

1875. SPRING STOCK. 1875.

NEW GOODS! GOOD QUALITY!!

LOW PRICES!!!

—o—

JOS. P. GULLEY,

RETAILER AND JOBBER OF

Dry Goods, Notions, Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Trunks, Valises, White Goods, &c., &c.,

RALEIGH, N. C.

My large and carefully selected stock for the Spring and Summer is now in store, and I respectfully invite all in search of good goods and low prices, to call and examine for themselves.

BURT'S GAITERS and BOOTS FOR GENTS.

To those who have bought and used these goods we need only to say that we have a full line of them.—For durability and neatness of fit they are unexcelled.

Also Mile's and Graff's hand made shoes for the Ladies.

PRINTS! PRINTS! PRINTS!

A large stock of the latest patterns, at prices that cannot be excelled

Raleigh Christian Advocate.

Bobbitt & Gray, Publishers. | Published in the Interests of Methodism in North Carolina. | $2.20 Per Annum, in Advance.

Vol. XXI.---No. 23. | Raleigh, N. C., Wednesday, June 9, 1875. | Whole No. 1,061.

Selected Poetry.

The Human Heart

What a sad, sad thing is the human heart!
With its cravings, its hopings, its fears,
How it will tremble and throb, and thrill with feelings
While pleasures surround, or sad fortune
smites down!
But when sobbed away into tears.

What a restless thing is the human heart!
How strange it can never be still!
It hath wishings for home and strivings for power,
And it never seeks wealth, which it lost in an hour,
But which tongueless the world cannot fill

What a happy thing is the human heart!
How it will smile and rejoice!
How quickly it will welcome and kiss suddenly found,
And receive the welcome and long wished for sound
Of a tenderly well-beloved voice.

What a weary thing is the human heart!
How it will ache with sorrow and care!
How we would it find relief
From the load of weight of care, and is bowed in despair
But sinks down in the depth of despair.

What a trusting thing is the human heart!
How, upon faith and love's gloom,
Dwelling upon hope, who, with radiant smile,
Will whisper sweet comforting words all the while
And will brighten the path to the tomb.

What a strong thing is the human heart!
Some will live in the love of the past;
some twine their soft tendrils, like vines in the spring,
Round something to which they can tenderly cling
And fondly love on to the last.

And this human heart, it can hate as well,
And if scorned it can learn to despise;
Aye, slight it, and wound it, and friendship will turn
To a hatred, which fiercer and fiercer will burn
Till low neath earth's green sod it lies.

One day we shall know them, these wonderful hearts,
When we've crossed to the heavenly shore,
And the Lamb's book of life in our sight is unrolled,
And the secrets of all human hearts are revealed,
We shall know them as never before.

—Christian Observer.

Communicated.

For the Advocate.

The Journal of the 38th session of the N. C. Annual Conference, is an instructive exhibit of the operations in detail of the Methodist Church in our State; and is worthy a careful examination by the pastors and laymen of our church. The material of the history of our church in North Carolina, will be in part selected from the reports of our pastors, which are tabulated in the journal of our Conference proceedings. These reports will form the data of our church census. They are an expression of our identity. They represent us before the intelligence of our countrymen in the present age, and they will be the way marks to a future generation of the steps we took in the career of Methodism. Great care should be taken to have the matter of our journal accurately collected and correctly printed. The Conference appointed officer, who superintends this department of our calling as Methodist preachers, is generally succeeded in furnishing a well arranged and complete journal. He is entitled in an eminent degree, to our thanks, which we most heartily vote him. It is, however, a little regretful that the journal of our Conference should not to a greater extent meet the wishes and supply the wants of the preachers and laymen of our Conference. A greater number of copies, with greater accuracy of statement, and of fuller details, would have supplied a great want of both our preachers and our laymen. The low cost and sparse number of the copies issued, have demonstrated the possibility of such a method in putting the proceedings of our Conference before our people. The facts of our progress will never reach our people, if we do not increase the facilities of displaying those facts. We must either extend the present plan or change our policy. The organ of our Conference, we incline to the opinion, is the only means we can employ to ensure success in this department of our vocation. The Raleigh Christian Advocate will furnish all the facilities we need to place our people in direct communication with all the facts of our Conference and of our church.—We hope to see it used in that way. Let us look at, 1st. The statistics of our Church, as they are put down in the tables of the journal before us. The net increase in our membership last year is shown to be seven hundred and ninety-one. This is a curious and significant statement. The past year was one of unprecedented prosperity. More than two thousand accessions to our church were reported to our Conference organ. And the reports of the pastors in the journal have put down at nineteen hundred and eighty. But the net increase is only seven hundred and ninety-one. This is not explained, nor do we know how to explain it. The difference between the accessions reported in the Advocate and the net increase in the journal is very great. The Greensboro' and Shelby Districts only, reported deficiences. The former shows a decrease of seven hundred and ten in '74. Stokes circuit in the table is blank. If we fill that blank, with 350, the number reported in 1873, it will reduce the deficiency to 360 in the Greensboro' District. But it is notably true that that District was blessed with several powerful revivals, and that many of the converts joined our church. To what cause then shall we ascribe this immense falling off in her numbers?

The Shelby District reported a deficiency of four hundred and eighty-nine. For that deficiency we find some sort of a reason in the fact, that there are reported deficiencies in nine charges in that District—one of which reported the erroneous loss of five hundred and twenty members in one Conference year. The gross decrease in the Shelby District was eight hundred and twenty eight. This is reduced by the increase in the other charges in the District to four hundred and eighty-nine net. But since there was a mistake in the adding up of the numbers of that District in 1873, the net decrease is four hundred and ninety eight. If then we put the deficiencies in the two above named Districts together, we find the real deficiency in their pastoral charges amounts to eight hundred and forty-nine.

The following named Districts had an increase in their membership:

Charlotte,	543
Raleigh,	420
Wilmington,	395
Salisbury,	280
Newbern,	149
Washington,	108
Fayetteville,	59
Hillsboro',	36
	1990

Now if we subtract the deficiency 849 in the two Districts before named, we have left a net increase of eleven hundred and forty one souls in the bounds of the North Carolina Conference.

Why these discrepancies we have noticed we cannot explain, nor do we stay to inquire; but we pass on to observe the more encouraging fact, that there was an increase in the membership of eighty one (quite two thirds) of the pastoral charges in the bounds of the N. C. Conference in one year.—The Charlotte District reported the greatest net increase and Hillsboro' the least: and the Mount Pleasant circuit, Charlotte District, reported the greatest net increase of all the pastoral charges in the Conference.

2. The financial exhibit is as interesting, and perhaps curious too, in some of its features as the statistics. We hope our lay brethren, of whom we have so many good and true to our cause, will read these points. And that our pastors too, will not slight them because of their homeliness.

Of 144 charges in our Conference, two overpaid their assessments, and thirty paid them in full for pastoral services: while one hundred and twelve failed to meet their pastors claims. More than 50 paid in full their assessments for the collections ordered by the Conference, while a still greater number did not much more than pay a moiety of their dues. But there are some very encouraging facts in the collections made upon the whole assessment. The laymen of our church paid last year for all causes and objects in our church operations the sum of one hundred and thirty seven thousand eight hundred and ten dollars, an excess of eight thousand dollars upon the year '73.

The banner station is Greensboro', and the banner circuit is Chapel Hill and Haw River. They paid more for missions than any other charges in the Conference.

There is in connection with this subject of Finance a noticeable fact. It is this: The stations (some of them) which pay large salaries to their pastors, do not compare favorably in their missionary contributions with the largest salary paying circuits. For instance, a circuit in a certain District, (one of several cases) which last year paid its pastor less than one thousand dollars, raised 40 per cent more money for the collections ordered by the Conference than the largest station in that District, which paid its pastor a great deal more than a thousand dollars. And there are not a few facts of a like character to be found upon a careful analysis of our Financial Tables. Some of the circuits, even in some Districts, are paying heavy salaries to their pastors, but are not paying in proportion to the other causes of the church, nor in proportion even to circuits, which are paying from seven to nine hundred dollars for pastoral service.

Did we choose to extend these observations upon statistics and finances, we might suggest several other points which are generally passed by: but we are willing to read from others, —we prefer to do so, hence we lay by our pen until we have more time to look a little further into these things. We have not, we trust, reflected upon any one. If we have, we shall regret to know it. Our aim is simply to call attention to some points which can be learned only upon investigation. We write more for our laymen, who we hope will appreciate our poor scribbling. We ask pardon of our Editors for being so prolix. We could not help it. We hope they will not accuse us of anything more than being an

EXAMINER.

Fraternal Camp-Meeting.

Letter from Rev. Bishop E. S. Janes D. D., March, 1875

At the time of the adjournment of the fraternal camp meeting, held at Round Lake July, 1874, all the bishops present, and a large number of ministers and laymen, united in a very ardent memorial to the proper authorities to appoint a similar meeting to be held in July, 1875. The authorities, on the receipt of the memorial, promptly made the appointment as the memorialists desired. In announcing the meeting last year we made the following statements:

"This meeting is appointed by the Presiding Elders of the Troy Conference, within their own jurisdiction, the Round Lake Camp-meeting Association tendering the use of their ground, with all its facilities and conveniences, for such a service. As the resident Bishop, the Presideng Elders have invited me to aid them in superintending the spiritual services of the occasion, and I have consented to do so if my health and official duties will permit. The specialty of the meeting consists in the invitation of all the branches of Methodism in the United States and Canada, by voluntary representatives, to unite in the duties and devotions of the occasion.

"It is not intended at this meeting to consider or discuss the question of the organic union of these Methodistic bodies. That would not be in harmony with the character and services of the occasion. As the assembling will be voluntary, the parties present will have no official authority, and cannot commit the churches to which they belong. For one, I hope the subject will not even be mooted in social conversation on the ground.

"The proposition is for the ministers and members of these different Methodist Churches to assemble and work and worship together as though they all belonged to one and the same Church: not to talk about fraternity, but to enjoy it; not to plan for it, but to practice it; to 'behold how good and pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity.'"

We can appeal to all who were present and engaged in the delightful spiritual services of that meeting to bear witness that these propositions were strictly observed. The representatives of all the branches of Methodism met and worshiped together in the most cordial and christian manner. The invitation to attend the meeting to be held next July is extended to all the Methodist bodies in the United States and Canada, with equal earnestness and affection, and we assure them that the same principles and the same spirit of love will govern the meeting. We have good reason to anticipate a much larger assemblage than that of last year. God was abundant in his mercy to us on the former occasion: Let us, by fasting and prayer, seek a still greater outpouring of the Divine Spirit, and larger spiritual results at the approaching meeting. I invite all who have the heart to do so, to unite with me in observing the previous Friday as a day of fasting and prayer for the success of the meeting.

E. S. JANES.

Valuable Interests Rules.

For finding the interest on any principal for any number of days, the answer in each case being in cents, separate the two right-hand figures to express it in dollars and cents:

Four per cent.—Multiply the principal by the number of days to run; separate the right-hand figure from the product, and divide by 9.

Five per cent.—Multiply by number of days, and divide by 72.

Six per cent.—Multiply by number of days, separate right hand figure, and divide by 6.

Eight per cent.—Multiply by number of days, and divide by 45.

Nine per cent.—Multiply by number of days, separate right hand figure, and divide by 4.

Ten per cent.—Multiply by number of days and divide by 35.

Twelve per cent—Multiply by number of days, separate right-hand figure, and divide by 3.

Fifteen per cent.—Multiply by number of days, and divide by 24.

Eighteen per cent.—Multiply by number of days, separate right-hand figure, and divide by 2.

Twenty per cent.—Multiply by number of days, and divide by 18.

Habits of Writers.

One class has the habit of observing —a very good habit when turned to good account. To notice what is going on, and catch the tendency of events, is a most praiseworthy habit and an essential quality in a first class writer. The best of all methods of education in observation, simply is to note and scrutinize men and things. When an observing man writes, be sure to read.

One other class of writers only meditate. This is not the same as observing. Meditation draws thought out of self, observation catches it abroad. Nothing is better than meditation when one has been also observing and getting material on which to ruminate. But meditation too long protracted, provided with too little observation, becomes impoverished and draws a thread too attenuated. It will feed on itself. The writer who only meditates will weave impracticable theories, unreal, unnatural. Sermons made wholly in the study are seldom adapted to the hearer's wants; and essays drawn entire out of speculative minds are most edifying.

Some writers are very conscientious persons, and write from an impulse of conscience. They are pained at sight of wrong and fly to the pen to correct the wrong, or they are happy at sight of something good, and write to praise and encourage the good. Such writers are always right, as far as human judgment can be, and their writings are pertinent. They do not strain their vision to find something to write about, but their matter is nigh them, even in their heart. Would to God all writers partook more of this characteristic!

Some are vain glorious, and write for notoriety. The chief aim is to see themselves in print. It is useless to say the motive is puerile, and that their writings can usually be told by their impractical, speculative, sporadic, and often erratic nature—sometimes offensively impertinent.

Another is a controversial class. They have no special purpose any way except to contradict. "Debate" is their joy, not knowing in what ugly company the apostle places the word. —Rom. i 29. When this spirit has clearly cropped out in any writer, better dismiss him at once.

Lastly, some writers are moved by sheer ill nature. They are the grumbling, faultfinding, unreasonable sort; sometimes moved by envy, and sometimes by downright malluce. As a general thing they write incognito; for, conscious of contemptible motives, they are afraid to be seen openly. True, some good writers hide behind unreal names from motives of humility; but these ill-natured fellows steal that cloak to hide their meanness in. And what amazing impudence they have! They will ask a gentlemanly editor to allow them in mask to slip up and smite a man who stand out fearlessly in his own name! The creeping incendiary, the mid night assassin, are not more dastardly than such cowards. A man who wants to say a thing so mean that he is afraid to let himself be known as the author, can not be believed, of course.

It would be well, I think, if all writers would subscribe their own proper name to all they publish, except in a few rare instances where improper motives might be attributed if the writer were known, or whose conscious lowliness of station might rob his utterances of the weight they desire having. Let every writer try to combine observation, meditation, conscience and candor. — Pacific Methodist.

G. W. HORN.

A Revolutionary Horn.

MR. EDITOR:—I see from our inestimable Advocate, that the people are sending things, both new and old, to the Vanderbilt University, in the way of curiosities. I have one perhaps you, or some of our good folks, would like for me to send, which I will do with pleasure if you think it worth sending. Doubtless you will take a horn for the Vanderbilt, if not for yourself, when I give you its history. It was taken on a battle field in North Carolina, by a man named Robinson (a relative of our family), during the Revolutionary War of '76, and from the neck of a Hessian, who was killed during the battle. It held just one pound of powder, minus a load, when captured. Mr. Robinson lived in Kentucky a number of years before his death, and used the horn as a powder horn in his hunts during the early settlement of that State. It came into my possession through the family of Morcheads and Buckners. The noble mother of Gen. S B. Buckner gave it me while I was living in Arkansas in 1849. It has on it the British coat of arms—the lion and crown are very plain to be seen—the unicorn is scarcely visible, having been effaced by long and constant use. There are several other very curious devices on it, with the year "1765," showing it to be 110 years old. I am unable to speak any foreign tongue, and I must claim, if you accept the horn, an interpretation of various lines on it. When it reaches you, lest you may be disappointed after so much history, I will remind you it is like the one presented to Ezekiel Brown, of Georgia, by his father-in law, in point of size. The morning after Zeke's marriage, the old gentleman came out with a wine glass full of peach-brandy, saying it was twenty years old. 'Zeke, who was very fond of the article, took it, and before drinking, it was very small of its age. My dear brother, hoping you may think the horn worthy a place in the Vanderbilt, I am your friend and brother, E. C. TURNER.

Talladega, Ala. May 11 1875

[By all means, transmit that horn—the Vanderbilt folks will prize it highly.—ED.]—Nashville Advocate.

Self-Denial.

This point has special bearing on the religious life of the nineteenth century—probably the most artificial era of modern history. If we had to sum up the religion of Jesus Christ in one word, that one word would be self denial, of which our Lord Himself was the fullest embodiment ever known. "Being in the form of God, and thinking it no robbery to be equal with God, He made Himself of no reputation, and took upon Him the form of a servant, and was made in the likeness of man; and being found in fashion as a man, He humbled himself and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross." And all this condescension for whom? For Himself? Nay, but for us men, and for our salvation. He would not command the stones to be made bread to appease his own hunger, though he had fasted forty days and forty nights; but he would multiply the loaves and fishes for five thousand others who had not fasted one whole day. And when he hung on the cross, his enemies taunted him, saying: "He saved others; Himself he cannot save."—Cruel taunt, yet glorious truth! He could not save Himself, because he saved others; if they are saved, he must die. Such incomparable unselfishness the world never saw a second time. And it is this example which gives force to the precept, "If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross and follow me." But what do we know about self denial now-a-day? That it does not abound in the world occasions no surprise, for it has always been a maxim among carnal men to seek their own. But among the followers of the Lamb it surely ought not to be so rare. Yet how few are trained in its practice! It is not that Christians are unprepared to deny themselves in necessaries; nor even that they are reluctant to forego comforts and luxuries. They will not forsake things questionable and injurious. What godly pastor is not weary of being asked if it be wrong for Christians to attend balls, theatres, races, and so-forth? What must the Master think of all this?—Would it have been wrong for him to have remained in heaven, instead of coming to this earth? And, when here, would it have been wrong to be rich and renowned, instead of being poor and despised? Would it have been wrong in him to live, instead of giving himself up to a felon's death? Alas! but, say some, if he had not come and suffered and died, man could not have been saved.—True, say we, and if we do not deny ourselves God will not be honored, our witness will not be effective, and our profession of Christianity will not be true. O if this virtue were practiced by every Christian, how much countenance of evil would be withdrawn; how much treasure, time, and talent would be spared for God, and how soon would the individual interests of men be absorbed in the disinterested love of a universal brotherhood. Such brotherly love is pre eminently desirable. Love is the quintessence of the gospel. God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him. And if believers have all gifts and all other graces, and have not love, they will be profited nothing. It was the love of Christ which constrained Paul, making his laborious mission a labor of love. The love of Christ upheld the martyrs when passing through the fires. The love of Christ, and of immortal souls, has been the grandest stimulus of Christian workers in all ages. And what is needed to-day is that the whole Church be steeped in the love of God and in the spirit of self-denying philanthropy, and passionately resolved, by the power of loving kindness, to subdue the world to Christ.—Savannah Advertiser.

"Well, doctor, its no use, I'm going to die!" "Nonsense," said the doctor, "you're not going to die at all.—No man ever died with feet as warm as yours!" "Ah, yes they did, doctor." "I should like to know who, then?" said the doctor. "John Rogers did," said the patient.

Christianity and Science.

In the current discussions of the relations of Christianity to science, there is one fact that seems to have dropped out of notice; yet it is full of meaning, and desrves, for Christianity's sake, to be raised and kept before the public. Who, or what, has raised science to its present commanding position? What influence is it that has trained the investigator, educated the people, and made it possible for the scientific man to exist, and the people to comprehend him? Who built Harvard College? What motives form the very foundation stones of Yale? To whom, and to what, are the great institutions of learning, scattered all over this country, indebted for their existence? There is hardly one of these that did not have its birth in, and has not had its growth in, Christianity. The founders of all these institutions, more particularly those of greatest influence and largest faculties, were Christian men, who worked simply in the interest of their Master. The special scientific schools that have been grafted upon these institutions are children of the same parents, reared and endowed for the same work. Christianity is the undoubted and indisputable mother of the scientific culture of the country. But for her, our colleges would have never been built—our common schools would never have been instituted. Wherever a free Christianity has gone, it has carried with it education and culture.

The public, or a considerable portion of it, seems to forget this, or has come to regard Christianity as opposed to science in its nature and aims. It is almost regarded, by many minds, as the friend of darkness, as the opponent of free inquiry and the enslaver of thought. The very men who have been reared by her in some instances turn against her, disowning their mother and denying the sources of their attainments, and to-day she has herself forgotten that it is her hand that has reared all the temples of learning, framed the educational policy of the nation, and, with wide sacrifice of treasure, reared the very men who are now defaming her.—Dr. J. G. Holland, in Scribner for March.

How John Bunyan got out of Prison.

Bunyan was in his day quite a controversial writer, and was very severe upon the Quakers until he learned that through the intercession of the Quakers he obtained his release from prison. It is a somewhat noteworthy fact, now well authenticated, that Charles II. liberated Quakers and Puritans from confinement through the personal intercession of the Quakers, among whom was Richard Carver, who was mate of the fishing vessel which conveyed the king to France after the famous battle of Worcester, 1651. This honest Quaker sailor, after twenty years had rolled away, appealed to the king in person in behalf of those who were in prison. When the fugitive king fled for his life, this sailor conveyed him on shore. The vessel was bound for Poole, coal laden, when two passengers, who passed for merchants running away from their creditors, then fugitive king and Lord Wilmot were landed at Fecamp, in Normandy, upon the back of a Quaker, and the vessel recrossed the Channel to Poole.

When the honest sailor appeared before His Majesty, the king expressed astonishment that he had not previously sought some reward. The sailor replied that he mercly had done his duty, and God had rewarded him with peace of mind.

"And now, sire, I ask nothing for myself, but that your Majesty will do the same for my friends that I did for you; set the poor, pious sufferers at liberty, that you may have that peace and satisfaction that always follows good actions." King Charles thereupon pardoned four hundred and seventy one Quakers, and many Independents and Baptist—among them John Bunyan.

What Faith in God Does.

Faith justifies, because the believer's obligations to justice are all canceled by Christ his Surety.

Faith sanctifies, because the believer forsakes his own righteousness, which at best is but as filthy rags, and accepts the righteousness of Christ.

Faith purifies, because it begets hope, and he who "hath hope in him purifieth himself, even as He is pure."

Faith strengthens, because the believer forsakes his own strength, which is utter weakness, and lays hold on the mighty arm of God. "He stays on his God."

Faith gives courage, because it enables the believer to penetrate the darkest clouds and see that they are more with him than against him; it makes him cry out, "Though an host should encamp against me, my heart shall not fear."

Faith gives joy in the midst of sorrow, because it tells the believer that his light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh out for him a "far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory."

Faith gives patience, because it shows the believer that "He is faithful who hath promised," and that in due season we shall reap if we faint not."

Faith gives peace, because it shows the believer that "being justified by faith we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ."

Faith gives rest, not by and by only, but now, here—in this world of toil and sorrow: because it leads the believer, laboring and heavy-laden, to Him who gives him rest.

The Cause of the Tides.

It is beyond doubt that tides are caused principally by the action of the moon, as their periods keep pace with the apparent motion of the moon, and have done so for centuries. We know that the earth and moon are attracted by each other; and on the other hand, we know that these two bodies are not approaching. There must, therefore, evidently exist another force which balances the attraction. It is generally said that the moon rotates round the earth once a month, but in reality both moon and earth rotate round their mutual center of gravity. By this peculiar rotation, a force akin to centrifugal force is produced, which prevents the approaching of the two bodies. Now we see that there are two forces acting between earth and moon, which are in perfect equilibrium in the centers of either of the two bodies. But the attractive force is greater in those parts of the earth that are nearer the moon, and causes an upheaval of water on that side. On the opposite side of the earth the contrary is the case, namely, the attraction towards the moon is less than in the centre of the earth, and that force, which keeps the moon and earth apart, gets the overhand and causes an upheaval of water on that side also. The tidal wave produced by the moon must, therefore, be necessarily a double one. On the side of the earth nearest the sun the attraction is greater, and on the opposite side of the centrifugal force, caused by the orbinal motion of the earth, is gaining on the diminished attraction.

The Chief Evil of War.

Let us then consider the chief evil of war. What is it? What induces us to place war at the head of human calamities? What distinguishes war is, not that man is slain, but that he is slain, spoiled, crushed by the cruelty, the injustice, the treachery, the murderous hand of man. The evil is moral evil. War is the concentration of all human crimes. Here is its distinguishing, accursed brand. Under its standard gather violence, malignity, rage, fraud, perfidy, rapacity, and lust.

If it only slew men, it would do little. It turns man into a beast of prey. Here is the evil of war, that man, made to be the brother, becomes the deadly foe of his kind; that man, whose duty it is to mitigate suffering, makes the infliction of suffering his study and end: that man, whose office it is to avert and heal the wounds which come from nature's powers, makes researches into nature's laws, and arms himself with her most awful forces, that he may become the destroyer of his race.

These remarks show us the great evil of war. It is moral evil. The field of battle is a theatre, got up at immense cost, for the exhibition of crime on a grand scale. There the hell within the human breast blazes out fiercely and without disguise. A more fearful hell in any region of the universe cannot well be conceived. There the fiends hold their revels, and spread their fury.—Dr. Channing.

The Mosquito.

Dr. Samuel W. Francis says that it is his "firm conviction that the mosquito was created for the purpose of driving man out of the malarial districts," and "that no region where chills and fever prevail can be free from the pest." "Now," he adds, "if man will not go after the warning is given in humming accents, then the mosquito injects hypodermically a little liquid which answere two purposes—first, to render the blood thin enough to be drawn up through its tube, and second, to inject that which possesses the principles of quinine." The difficulty with this roseate view of the mosquito family is that it imposes upon the propounder the necessity of explaining why it is that, in hundreds of perfectly healthy localities, the insects appear in swarms, also why the females alone have been constituted the biters, to the exclusion of males, and why, if the fluid in the proboscis quinine properties, it has been known to cause ugly ulcers. We do not propose to accept Dr. Francis' theory so hastily. We decline to admit that the mosquitoes are of any use save to the birds and the bats, to the inventors of patent mosquito bars, to that enterprising Yankee who devised an astonishing machine for capturing them in immense quantities and converting them into manure.

Laughing Powders.

— Singular—to see a garden walk.

— The wandering heiress — the wind lass.

— What holds all the snuff in the world? No one nose.

— Maine has a new town called Skatchawatchickatchie.

— What is it that a poor man has and a rich man wants? Nothing.

"Oh, my dear wife," said John Henry, as he paid the milliner's bill.

— We think it no more than right that men should seize time by the forelock, for the rude old fellow, sooner or later, pulls all their hair out.

— A Cincinnati paper says that recently in that city five women spent two long hours in making a selection of one simple little straw hat.

— "Dear me, how fluidly he talks," said Mrs. Partington recently, at a temperance meeting. "I am always rejoiced when he mounts the nostrils, for his eloquence warms every cartridge in my body."

— An aristocratic New Yorker, on being requested by a rich and vulgar young fellow for permission to marry "one of his girls," gave this rather crushing reply: "Certainly; which would you prefer, the housemaid or the cook?"

— "Well, neighbor Slummidge, how much shall I put you down for to get a chandelier for the church?" Neighbor S——, "Shoo! what we want to git a chandyleer for? The' hain't nobody kin play on ter it when ye git it?"

— A rustic youngster, being asked out to take tea with a friend, was admonished to praise the eatables.—Presently the butter was passed to him, when he remarked, "Very nice butter—what there is of it," and observing a smile, he added, "and plenty of it—such as it is."

— A Providence lady was recently overheard at an evening assembly speaking in high praise of a pretty girl just passing. "Why she is a perfect paregram of a young lady!" "I think you mean parallelogram, do you not?" suggested the waggish gentleman addressed. "I said parallelogram, Mr. ——." exclaimed the lady, with a combination of dignity and indignation impossible to describe.

— Jones gave a lawyer a bill to be collected to the amount of $30. Calling for it, after awhile, he inquired if it had been collected. "Oh, yes," said the lawyer, "I have it all for you." "What charge for collecting?" "Oh said the lawyer laughing, "I'm not going to charge you—why I have known you ever since you were a baby, and your father before you: $20 will be about right," handing over $10. Well," said Jones, as he meditated upon the transaction, "its lucky he didn't know my grand-father, or I shouldn't have got anything?"

LEAF AND FLOWER IMPRESSIONS.—A correspondent of the Scientific American gives the following simple instructions for printing impressions of flowers and leaves: "Take a small quantity of printer's ink, thinly put it on glass, or on the lid of a blacking box, as I did, evenly distributed. The end of the index finger will serve as the printer's ball, to cover one side of the leaf uniformly; then lay it to the exact place where you wish the print to be; lay over it a thin, soft paper, large enough to cover it; then, without moving the leaf, press all parts of it with the end of the thumb firmly, and you will have a perfect impression, that no engraver can excel; and by adjusting the leaves at the proper points, accurate prints can be taken, and, aided with the brush or pen, the stem and whole plant can be shown. I have excellent specimens of impressions of barks of trees, made by slicing the bark; and with a little care the stems can also be taken as well as flowers. I have many such; and when colored with the aniline colors they are like colored engravings.

CARTER'S GREEN GAGE TOMATO.—The Messrs. Carter say of this: "We have much pleasure in offering, for the first time, our new tomato, Carter's Green Gage.' It was exhibited before the fruit committee of the Royal Horticultural Society on Wednesday, October 7, 1874, and awarded a first-class certificate for its very fine flavor and clearly defined and distinct character. It is very prolific, bearing clusters of fruit of a beautiful citron color, irregularly penciled with steel-colored flakes on the upper surface, which renders it very ornamental. In a raw state it has the agreeable acid of an American cranberry, with a fine sugary flavor. This variety, selected by us at our own seed farms from Hathaway's Excelsior, is very early, and ripens readily in our English climate out of doors. It is quite distinct in color, form and flavor from any other tomato."—Gardner's Monthly.

The Christian Advocate.

OFFICE—Corner of Dawson & Hargett Sts

THE ORGAN
OF THE
NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE
OF THE
M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

Rev. J. S. Bobbitt, } Editors.
R. T. Gray, Esq., }

RATES OF SUBSORIPTION:

ONE YEAR, IN ADVANCE, POSTAGE PAID,	$2.20
IN 9 MONTHS, " "	1.65
If payment be delayed six months,	2.70

All letters on business with this office should be addressed to the Editors of the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

RALEIGH, N. C., JUNE 9, 1875.

Bishop Marvin will dedicate Person Street church next Sabbath, June 13th at 11 o'clock, A. M. He will also occupy the same pulpit at 7½ P. M. Our ministerial and lay brethren from a distance are cordially invited to be present. The citizens of Raleigh remember with great satisfaction the Bishop's able and eloquent sermons at our late Conference, and are glad again to be permitted to enjoy his apostolic preaching.

Barren Professors.

In the parable of the vine and the branch, we have a very striking specimen of our Lord's analytical mode of instruction. He formed the human heart, and in consequence of its great apostacy and perfectly understanding its taint and evil, he knew how far a man could go in an outward profession of his name, and yet live and die destitute of regenerating grace. In the parable alluded to, the Saviour goes into a faithful and searching discrimination of character—uncovers the evil to which the human family are exposed—warns of the danger of self deception—distinguishes between the true and the false professor, and describes, in striking and affecting terms, the final state of both: "I am the true vine, and my Father is the husbandman. Every branch in me that beareth not fruit he taketh away; and every branch that beareth fruit, he purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit." In these words of our Lord we have a solemn description of a barren professor. The fact that there can and does exist barrenness among professed Christians, is, perhaps, one of the most indubitable evidences of the deep degeneracy of the human heart, and its natural tendency to self deception. "The heart is deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked." This truth is exemplified in the fact that an individual may approach so near in his external resemblance to a child of God—may look and act so like a believer in Jesus—may appear to be united to him, and still remain among the dead. Of all states this side of eternity, this is most deplorable, yet it is to be feared that this is the state of thousands at the present day. How important then that the ministers of the gospel, called of God to preach the word, should model their ministry as closely as they can after their blessed Lord's? How careful how and what they preach! Their sermons should be discriminating without being harsh—pointed without being personal—searching without being caustic; that no hearer should go away from their ministrations without a faithful delineation of his own character, the voice sounding in his conscience, and following him amid all his windings and his wanderings, "Thou art the man!"

The term barren professors is not confined to any particular branch of the church. It applies alike to all religious sects. As it was in the days of our Lord and during the searching ministry of his apostles, so it is at the present time. The examples given in the Scriptures, of this fact, are numerous. Look at the case of Simon Magus—he was but a barren, fruitless professor. Of him it is said that he had "neither part nor lot in the matter—that his heart was not right in the sight of God—that he was in the gall of bitterness, and in the bond of iniquity." In Paul's letter to Timothy he represents Demas as a barren professor; "Demas hath forsaken me, having loved this present world," is the emphatic declaration of the Apostle. Then the case of Judas Iscariot, with which the Bible reader is familiar, is a forcible and awful instance of a mere external union to Christ. To all who have the mere form without the power of godliness these words are addressed. "When once the master of the house is risen up, and hath shut to the door, and ye begin to stand without, and to knock at the door, saying, Lord, Lord, open to us; and he shall answer and say unto you, I know you not whence ye are. Then shall ye begin to say, we have eaten and drunk in thy presence, and thou hast taught in our streets. But he shall say, I tell you, I know you not whence ye are; depart from me, all ye workers of iniquity. There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth, when ye shall see Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, and all the prophets in the kingdom of God, and you yourselves turnst out." But, if possible, in yet more forcible, awful terms does the word of God unfold the final doom of the barren, unfaithful professor.—"Every tree which bringeth not forth good fruit, is hewn down and cast into the fire."

Solemn, momentous truths! May they burn their way into the heart of the barren, self deceived, Christless professor, until he shall by faith see his way through the mercy seat even unto the cross of the Redeemer of the world.

Editorial Correspondence.

GREENSBORO, N. C., }
June 3rd, 1875. }

This has been a gala week at the fair "City of Flowers"—the name of endearment which partial friends and admirers have given to Greensboro. The town is at all times stirring and active, making progress in everything that constitutes municipal and commercial prosperity and looking forward to yet greater things when projected improvements and railroad connections shall have been realized. It was formerly the terminus of the Richmond and Danville Railroad and of the North Western N. C. Railroad, and a way station on the N. C. Railroad; but since the late coup d'etat of President Buford in the change of gauge, it has by a "right about, face!" movement become a way station on the Piedmont and Air Line Railway and the terminus of the eastern division of the N. C. Railroad. But I learn that a further change of gauge of the N. C. Railroad between this place and Raleigh will make Greensboro a way station on all the roads and deprive it of some of that importance which usually attaches to a Railroad terminus. If, however, it is considered essential that Greensboro' should be a terminus, one golden opportunity lies in the completion of the Coalfields Railroad from Egypt to this place. But however much it may suffer in this respect by a change of gauge, no coup d'etat of Buford, or Scott, or any other railroad dignitary can rob it of its character of a thriving town distinguished in an eminent degree for the hospitality, refinement, intelligence and general morality of its people. Nor can the favor or enmity of railroads affect one of the crowning glories, if not the chief jewel of Greensboro, to wit:

GREENSBORO' FEMALE COLLEGE,

whose annual Commencement exercises have been the attraction of the present week. It is needless for me to enter into a description or history of an institution which is so well known to the people of North Carolina, and especially to the readers of the Advocate. It has for so many years been the fountain from which the daughters of our State have drawn pure draughts of learning, and the training place where so many have been fitted to adorn society and make homes bright and happy, that to sing its praises in the ears of the people of North Carolina, while a pleasant pastime, would be of as little practical use as to extol in the presence of men the virtues of the air they breathe, the water they drink, or the sunlight upon which their comfort, and almost their life, depends. Greensboro College is a cherished institution of North Carolina Methodists, and they have reason to be proud of everything pertaining to it—its buildings and grounds, its officers, its faculty, its high reputation. A College has a body and a spirit, and the ruthless flames which, in 1863, wrapped themselves about the old college buildings and laid them in a mass of charred ruins, only served to warm the hearts of our people toward the spirit of Greensboro' College which still survived, and lived and breathed its sweet influences at Lonisburg, and Kittrell's and Warrenton. At last and with joy it has resumed its home in Greensboro' in a "more glorified body," constructed by the faithful hands of loving men of whom the most are living to enjoy its triumphs, but of whom the devoted Barringer and peerless Reid are dead, leaving their legacy of love and loyalty to its interests.

THE COMMENCEMENT

was ushered in by the meeting of the Trustees who held their first session at 10 o'clock on Wednesday morning, with closed doors, and again on Thursday afternoon, looking into the present affairs of the college, and projecting plans for its future and further prosperity. I endeavored to find Bro. Cunninggim, the efficient Secretary of the Board of Trustees, in order that I might "button-hole" him for a few minutes, not with the pertinacity of the "bore" of whom Horace writes, but with the brief siege of an "interviewer" in the search of items calculated to inform the minds and cheer the hearts of his readers. I did not succeed, however, owing to the great press of people and the continued demands that were doubtless made upon the time of Bro. C., and we must satisfy ourselves with the lively hope that he or the President will furnish us with an early report of the present condition and prospects of the college. I learned that the number of matriculates during the past session was very gratifying, and that the financial condition of the college is good and growing better. The Trustees resolved to reduce the charges for a session's tuition and board from $125 to $100. This will satisfy the complaints that have been made in some directions in regard to the high charges, and will result, we trust, in an increased patronage.—That reduction brings the price of tuition and board to a point at which none can complain and affords the advantages of an unsurpassed college for a sum on a par with most and lower than some first-class institutions of learning. It was resolved, we also learn, to establish a gymnasium and calisthenic department where the young ladies may find that exercise and relaxation from severe studies which are so essential to health and physical development.

THE COMMENCEMENT SERMON, on Wednesday night, was to have been preached by Rev. A. W. Mangum, of Raleigh, but when he learned that Bishop Marvin, the beloved, was, by failure of railroad connections, unexpectedly detained at Greensboro' on Wednesday, he, gracefully and at his own suggestion, invited the Bishop to occupy the pulpit in his stead, modestly considering that his action in so doing would be approved when the Bishop's presence was made known, also urging the fact that he was only partially recovered from a recent attack of sickness. The Bishop as gracefully yielded to the urgent request of Bro. Mangum, and with but a few hours for preparation, preached the sermon before the graduating class. His text was taken from Saint Luke 13th chap, 24th verse: "Strive to enter in at the strait gate: for many, I say unto you, will seek to enter in and shall not be able." The sermon was plain but practical and forcible; without the adornments of mere rhetoric, yet full of unction and the presentation of gospel truths, and abounding in large and lofty thoughts, expressed in the peculiary forcible language and gesture for which the Bishop is distinguished. The sermon, though occupying in its delivery an hour and twenty minutes, was listened to with unflagging interest by the large audience.

COMMENCEMENT DAY.

To day the commencement exercises proper were held. At ten o'clock the large chapel was filled by an audience of several hundred who had come from afar and near to witness the graduation from school-life of the members of the senior class, to listen to the music with which the exercises were interspersed, and to hear the address of Rev. Dr. Granberry, of Richmond, Va., well known to Southern Methodists as an able and eloquent divine.

The graduates were Miss Fannie E. Rountree, Wilson, N. C., the subject of whose essay was "The Proudest Memorials of Time, the Richest Treasures of Art, and Man, with all his Glory, must soon pass Away." Miss Lucy A. Closs, Magnolia, N. C., essay, "Whither are we Drifting?"; Miss Nannie M. Carter, Mecklenburg co. Va.; essay "Before Honor is Humility." Miss Cornie C. Leggett, Wilmington, N. C., essay "Life a Dream;" Miss M. E. Dowd, Charlotte, N. C., essay "What the Moon Sees." Miss Rountree delivered the Salutatory and Miss Carter the Valedictory Addresses. The essays were well written and highly creditable to the cultivated thought and feeling of the writers, and in every instance were read in a clear, distinct voice, yet with a manner full of becoming modesty. The salutatory and valedictory addresses were excellent in matter and manner of reading, and all agreed that the honors were well and worthily bestowed upon Misses Rountree and Carter. At twelve o'clock the was delivered by Rev. J. C. Granberry D. D. of Richmond, Va., In a chaste and beautiful exordium he announced his subject 'a Woman,'—not the 'Woman of the Past,' the 'Woman of the Period' or the Coming Woman; but a concrete, veritable woman who had lived, and amid the flatteries and honors paid her by a king and court whose magnificence and power had never been surpassed preserved her maiden modesty, her loyalty to her self and her God, her love of kindred and her fidelity to the oppressed race whose freedom and safety were the trust committed to her hands. I regret that I have not time at present, or the Advocate space, to permit of a full report, or even an abstract of the beautiful discourse of Dr. Granberry. It was a literary gem, and as I listened to the speaker I could not help reflecting how fortunate and wise was the Board of Trust of Vanderbilt University in selecting him to occupy a professorship in that institution. His forte is description; his tropes and figures are faultless, and his diction and his manner enthusiastic but not vehement. His address evinced wide reading, classical learning, active and forcible thought and a fertile fancy.

LITERARY ADDRESS

MUSICAL CONCERT

To night the chapel was filled to its utmost capacity by music loving people whose expectations of pleasure ran high, and were not disappointed. I have attended many musical entertainments in this and other States, given by amateurs and professionals, but I have never witnessed so grand and brilliant a success as crowned the efforts of Prof. Hahr and the young ladies to night. This is not the language of undue enthusiasm and exaggeration, but the "words of truth and sobernoss." The selections, vocal and instrumental, were from the most noted Maestros and rendered in almost faultless style. I have left me but little time and space to speak of the concert, but I must wedge in a word more: Prof. Hahr is a full grown musical genius. Much as I enjoyed the music, I enjoyed more the sight of his enthusiasm and absorption in the work before him. His fine eye flashed and his close knit form trembled with the pulsations of music. His directing look was over all and he appeared a paladin, a Napoleon, a Caesar in battle. And his violin! I hear its exquisite notes yet, but can't write of them. "I must close." Let us be proud of Greensboro'!

R. T. G.

Visitors to Trinity Commencement will be passed over the roads, going and returning, for one first class fare.

Bishop Marvin passed through Raleigh on his way to Fayetteville District Conference, and spent a few hours with us.

Davenport Female College.

MESSRS. EDITORS: Believing that some account of the Commencement just closed at this college, would interest your readers at large, I propose to tell them through our paper all about it. I had the good fortune to meet brother Yates at Statesville and to make the rest of the trip in his company. Incidents by the way I pass over. Tuesday evening, the 25th, landed us at the college and placed us in the hospitable hands of President Robey and his household. That evening and night following were agreeably filled with resting, talking, laughing, music, croquet-playing, making acquaintances, sleeping and getting ready generally for the next day. Your correspondent did not distinguish himself greatly in the talking, the music or the croquet playing; but in the eating, resting and sleeping he flatters himself that he led the column.

Under a cloud rose the sun Wednesday morning; just as did the prospects of the college under the temporary embarrassment of the change of Conference jurisdiction with the coming in of the present administration. But as the hours passed on the clouds slowly withdrew their bannered hosts; even as now the clouds are withdrawing from the future of the institution and its light is growing and brightening unto the perfect day. The chapel was early filled with an intelligent and cultivated audience; and it was a comfort to know that the admirable sermon of the occasion was not lost or mistimed. A beautiful Voluntary by the college choir, with the selected hymns and opening prayer, prepared the hearts of the audience for the reception of the appropriate and eloquent discourse by Rev. E. A. Yates from John 14, 2. "I go to prepare a place for you." Any report of the sermon would be out of place, besides doing it injustice. Suffice it, then, that the sermon was about heaven, and the burden of it was the presentation of the truth that heaven is a place and that our Lord has gone thither to make it ready against the day of his people's coming. It was a sermon which satisfied both the head and the heart.

Wednesday night the chapel was again filled to overflowing, and the second event of the occasion was the concert. It is not for such a musical illiterate as I, Messrs. Editors, to write or talk about music. I can only enjoy it, and that I did. But judging, as the uninitiated must of necessity judge, I feel safe in saying that very satisfactory evidence was given that this part of the college curriculum is perfect in all its appointments and its work thoroughly done.

Thursday morning the sun rose in unclouded splendor and the world looked altogether radiant That must have been to reassure three badly scared people who were that day to be impaled for the public amusement. An anthem, reading of the scripture and prayer, another of the songs of Zion worthy to have been struck upon shawn and harp, sackbut and psaltry, and the day was opened. Your humble servant then tried the patience of that intelligent audience some forty minutes or so. But patience under trial was well rewarded when the orator gave place to the graduating class and black-clad homeliness was succeeded by beauty white-robed and full of innocence and grace. The graduating class consisted of two only—a not uncommon occurrence in consequence of the high standard and the vigorous system of grading in use at this institution. No one can graduate here unless she is worthy of the diploma.

There was more music, and then Miss Mattie Nicholson read her graduating essay, announcing as her theme "After a Little While."

Again music succeeded and preceded music and Miss Leila Robey read her graduating essay on "The World We Live In."

Both essays were appropriate, well conceived and gracefully written: and both were extremely well read. These were followed by the reading of the honors of the year for the several classes, the "course honors" of the graduating class, and the conferring of the diplomas, and with the benediction the third event of the occasion was happily concluded.

Thursday night was the crowning achievement of the commencement,—the strawberry and ice cream festival for the benefit of the Eclectic Literary Society. This was a great success and netted, I believe, some eighty or ninety dollars. The good people of the village co operated very generously with those of the college in preparing for and carrying on this festival: and I noticed with great pleasure that Presbyterians and Episcopalians were as prominent and as zealous in it as our own people. And I have noticed another thing too, Messrs Editors; and that is that this is one of the most intelligent and christian communities (if not the most so) that I have ever known. Finer social, intellectual and moral influences could not be brought to bear on a young person in the formative period of school-life than are to be found in active operation here.

The college and its inmates have been for some time past greatly annoyed by certain persons trespassing on the premises by night, doing some mischief and threatening more. President Robey made a full report of the matter in a meeting of the trustees at which I was present. On motion of Dr. Burkhead, seconded I believe by Dr. Scroggs, and an aye-and-no vote called for by Mr. Pleasant Moore, it was unanimously ordered that the president of the board prosecute all future trespassers and intruders "to the extent of the law:" and in announcing the vote the president, Col. Harper, declared that he would enforce the order of the board with all the zeal and energy of which he was capable.

In conclusion, Messrs Editors, let me explain that I have written some what at length because our people in the east and centre hardly know that we have such a college, and those who do know that know virtually nothing more than that of it. I wish that more of them would do as I have—that is, come and see for themselves. For one I can say "I have come, have seen, and have been conquered." The college needs money and asks for it in the way of patronage rather than alms not objecting to it though in the latter way. Those seeking education, health, and social and moral culture can here find all their wants fully met.

Begging pardon, Messieurs, for appropriating so much of your paper and pleading in extenuation that I do not trouble you often.

I am very truly yours,
HENRY T. JORDAN.

The Washington District Conference.

The Washington District Conference convened at the Methodist Church in Plymouth, May 27th, at eleven o'clock, A. M., Dr. Wm. Closs, P. E., in the chair. F. D. Swindell was elected Secretary.

The roll of pastoral charges was called and all were represented either by the Pastors or lay delegates except the Warren, Roanoke, and Portsmouth and Ocracoke circuits. A sufficient number of laymen were present to transact the business of the Conference, but not as many as we wished.

I conceive that among the chief purposes of a District Conference is the interchange of modes of procedure in carrying on the work of the Master, and a season of spiritual communion, so that the brethren from all the charges may return home, not only better qualified for their duty by learning of each other, but also with a fuller consecration to God, and fired with a holier zeal in his cause. These purposes fail in part because of the lack of attendance on the part of the laymen. The number present this year was as large as usual.

After the roll of members was completed, the Rev. C. T. Harrison of the M. E. Church, Rev Wm. G. Starr, Pres. of Wesleyan Female College at Murfreesboro, N. C, and Rev. V. A. Sharpe, Agent for Trinity College, were introduced to the Conference.—These brethren added greatly to the interest and profit of the occasion by their presence and preaching. Bro. Starr's father licensed our beloved P. E., Dr. Closs to preach, and when the Dr. welcomed him in behalf of the Conference, he so touchingly alluded to it, that he drew tears from nearly all present.

Bro. Sharpe sold books, participated in the proceedings of the Conference, and worked hard for Trinity.

The reports of the pastors show a healthy spiritual condition of the church on the District. One charge has been visited with a gracious revival this year The attendance upon the ordinances of the church and the preaching of the Word not only very good but increasing.

The social meetings, with one or two exceptions, are not so well attended. The subject of class meetings was largely discussed, and an interest in its importance awakened.

Rev. A. R. Raven stated that at Washington they had the best class meetings he had ever known, and the influence for good was powerful. A resolution to endeavor to establish them at every church was passed.

The reports on the subject of Sunday schools showed that its great importance is felt, and also an increase in the number of schools and scholars.

The general outlook on the District, as gathered from the reports, is decidedly encouraging, and leads us to hope for great things in the name of the Lord, during this year.

Several resolutions were adopted, some of which we give in full. By L. L. Nash the following:

Resolved, That we heartily recommend the Raleigh Christian Advocate to the patronage of our people, and will do all we can to extend its circulation in our different fields of labor.

Another in favor of Nashville Christian Advocate was passed.

Another offered by myself was also adopted:

Resolved; That we cordially recommend to the liberal patronage of our people the Life, Speeches and Sermons of Rev. N. F. Reid, and we will aid in its circulation.

A resolution by W. S. Rone, to encourage and assist in building up day schools under the tutorage and auspices of our church was also adopted.

Resolutions in favor of Trinity, and endorsing the Widow's and Orphan's Benefit Society, and the action of the Trustees of Greensboro Female College, were adopted.

I give the last or 4th one in reference to Greensboro Female College:

Resolved; That the Washington District shal. not be behind any other portion of the North Carolina Conference, in discharging the duty to G. F. College.

The following Lay Delegates were elected to the Annual Conference: T. H. Gatlis, T. C. Williams, B. W. Brown and James Spencer. Alternates, W. B. Mangum, Rev. B. F. Long, Dr. J. J. Garrett and John W. Latham.

Votes of thanks were offered to the P. E. for the courteous and effective manner in which he presided; to the Secretary; to the Railroads and Steam Boats for passing the delegates and visitors for half fare; to the Missionary Baptist for the use of their church: and last but not least, to the people of Plymouth for the hospitable manner in which the Conference was entertained. Never was a Conference better taken care of, I think, and we will be always ready to go to Plymouth.

Warrenton was selected as the place for the next Conference.

The preaching was all good. Christ and him crucified was the center to which it all converged.

Bro. Starr said he had never seen a Conference before where there was so much of the Holy Ghost, and he intended to tell it in other places. I thought like him. All seemed to realize they were there to do good, to get good, and to work for Christ, and in the Conference room and pulpit this object was paramount.

The meeting was in every way harmonious and pleasant, and will, I trust, be productive of good.

F. D. SWINDELL, Sec'y.

Tarboro, June 2nd, 1875.

THE SPELLING MATCH.—On Wednesday evening of the past week there was a spelling match at Metropolitan Hall in this city. It was started by Mrs. Minnie Whitaker, wife of Rev. R. H. Whitaker, in the interest of Person Street Church. An admission fee of 25 cents was charged, and each person was requested to bring a pound of something, which was sold at auction at the close of the evening's entertainment. Twenty-five persons volunteered to enter the contest in spelling. Rev. Mr. Jurney and I. A. Jones, Esq, gave out the words from Webster's spelling book. The contest was lively and interesting. The prize, a beautiful copy of Shakspeare's poems, was awarded to Mr. Andrew Williams, a printer in the Advocate office. The amount realized, after paying all expenses, was $50.95. It is the general desire of all who were present that the evening's entertainment should be repeated at an early date.

We received from our friend W. H. Pace, Esq. Chairman of Committee of Arrangements, an invitation to the pic nic of the 1st Raleigh Baptist Sunday School and a complimentary Excursion ticket to Haywood. The duties of our office prevented us from being with the joyous throng on their pleasant holiday excursion. We learn that a delightful day was spent at Haywood.

MESSRS. EDITORS: The good Lord is still with us on this circuit., pouring out his Holy Spirit by which the Church is brought to seek a deeper work of grace, and sinners brought earnestly to seek the pardon of their sins. I closed a protracted Meeting at "Harlowe Creek" last Sunday, of 9 days continuance. 'Twas a gracious season. 'Twas no spasmodic momentary excitement; but a deep, general, thorough work. The Church received the baptism of the Holy Ghost and sinners were brought earnestly to seek the pardon of their sins. Twenty six souls were converted—22—joined the Church—others will, I think, soon. We are hopeful, and still looking for, and expecting a revival at other places on the circuit. The Lord bless us and make us more useful and successful in winning souls to Christ! To him be all the glory.

JAS. MAHONEY.

New Park, June 8th, 1875.

P. S. The Church at Harlowe Creek worked faithfully and successfully in the revival.

J. M.

To Every Reader of the Advcate.

DEAR READER: When did you send anything to the Orphans at Oxford? They have to eat every day.

A. D. B.

Religious Brevities.

Eighty Protestant Sunday-schools are now reported in Paris.

Five Presbyterian General Assemblies met during the month of May.

A fifth Church, presided over by Dr. Cooper, has just joined the Reformed Episcopalians in Chicago. It is stated that a sixth will soon be organized.

Mr. Washigton B. Cooper has presented the bishops' room at Nashville, Tenn., with portraits of each member of the Episcopal College and of Bishops McKendree, Soul and Early.

Six National Camp-meetings are advertised; Washington, D. C., (Tabernacle,) May 30; Fernwood, near Philadelphia, June 23; Cedar Rapids, Iowa July 8; Urbana, Ohio, July 22; Orchard Beach, Main, August 5; Newburg, N Y., August 25.

At the 59th anniversary of the Bible Society held in Chicago recently the report shows the receipts during the year to have been $577,569 expenditures $533,714. The total number of Bibles distributed was 920,055. This is the first anniversary of the society ever held west of the Alleghany Mountains.

The Missionary Advocate says, "A fine bell has just been forwarded to our Peking Mission, the gift of Mrs. Dr J. P. Newman. It will be hung over our new chapel, dedicated, last Autumn, and we pray that it may ring loudly in the capital of the Chinese empire, and call many to the sanctuary of God."

The Georgia State Sunday-school Convention met at Union Point, on the 21st ult. It is spoken of by our exchanges as an occasion of great interest. The organization was effected only eight months ago. This is the first State convention held in Georgia in which the several evangelical denominations hve been represented.

Messrs. Whittle and Bliss, lay evangelists, are in Memphis, drawing great crowds to their revival services, which are held in the Opera House.

The Protestant Episcopal Convention of South Carolina, after a two days' discussion, refused, May 14, to admit to representation a respectable congregation of colored Episcopalians of Charleston, which has a white pastor.

The Foreign Board of Missions of the Southern Baptists report the receipts for 1874 to be $33 218 35. The Home Board receipts for the same time were $23,478 89.

The Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church reports that the entire receipts of the year have been $456,718—$32,000 less than last year. The debt of the Board, May 1, was $38,282.

The Advance makes a hit when it says: "The devotion of some Churches to raising money by rivaling the theaters, dance halls, and lottery risks, suggests a new name, 'The Church of Holy Amusement.'"

The Western Advocate says: Lafayette, Ind., is fast becoming a Methodist center. It is the head of three districts; and with four English speaking Churches, and one German, besides an African Church, and a populous country in the vicinity, rallies quite a respectable "Preachers' Meeting."

The annual meeting of British and Foreign Bible Society was held in Exeter Hall, London, May 5 The Archbishop of Canterbury presided. Addresses were made by the chairman, by Earl Fortescue, and Dr. W. M. Punshon. Mr. Spurgeon also made a brilliant speech, as did also Dr. Lachlin Taylor, of Canada The reports showed that the receipts from ordinary sources for the year ending March 31 amounted to the sum of £222,062; £102,968 being receipts for Bibles and Testaments. Total net receipts, £222, 191 5s. 9d.; total issues of the society now amounted to 73,750,538 copies.

The best theology—a pure and beneficent life.

The best medicine—cheerfulness and temperance.

The best art—painting a smile on the brow of childhood.

The best education—self government.

NORTH CAROLINA.

The Charlotte OBSERVER has discovered that Col. A. S. Buford, President of the Richmond and Danville Railroad, was once a printer.

The store house of A. Gainey, in Cumberland county, says the Gazette, was set on fire and destroyed with all its contents.

A daily newspaper has been started in Durham, Mr. Richardson Editor.

The Monroe Enquirer, an excellent paper, has entered upon its fourth volume.

Six professors of the State University will be elected at the meeting of the Trustees on the 16th of June.

The citizens of Salem and Winston are endeavoring to have a bridge built across the Yadkin on the Yadkin Turnpike Road.

The Tobacco Plant says that Gen. Johnson surrendered to Gen. Sherman under a cherry tree in Mr. James Bennett's yard about 4 miles from the town of Durham.

There are 229 Masonic Lodges in operation in the State, with a membership of 11,126.

The question of the constitutionality of the usury law as applied to National Banks was discussed last week before Judge Schenck in Charlotte.

Mrs. Minerva Strother, wife of John Strother, living near Perry's Chapel, Franklin county, shot herself in the head with a pistol, the ball passing entirely through, causing instant death. Cause unknown.

Joseph Worth, Esq., and Mr. Neill, have been nominated as the Conservative candidates for convention in Cumberland county.

A special term of the Superior Court for Halifax county will begin on next Monday.

The United States Branch Mint will be closed at the end of the present month. Col. Wheeler is engaged in taking an inventory of everything in the building.

Spartanburg, S. C., has subscribed $100.000 to the railroad to be built from that place to Asheville, N. C.

Hon. Geo. Davis, of Wilmington, is mentioned in connection with the presidency of the University of North Carolina.

A little son of Mr. A. M. McCauley, of Rockingham, fell from a horse and broke both bones of his right arm.

Nathaniel Boyden is to be tried at Statesville Court for forgery, and Chief Justice Pearson is summoned as a witness in the case.

Wesley Davis, who stole a horse from Mr. Jno. Rankin of Cabarrus, has been arrested in Alexander county.

The Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons met in Raleigh last Monday.

A Catholic Church is being built in Greensboro', under the superintendence of Mr. Ashly.

The Rockingham Courier says that Mr. Calvin Kearns, of Hill's Store, Randolph county, while riding along in a buggy on the 15th ult., accompanied by his wife and child, was overtaken by a thunder-storm. A tree under which he was passing, was struck by lightning which communicated with the wheel of his buggy and thence to the shaft and horse. The horse was killed leaving Mr. K. and family uninjured.

A good physician is wanted to take Dr. Houston's practice at Mt. Ulla, Rowan county.

The annual meeting of the Stockholders of the N. C. Railroad, will be held at Greensboro on the 8th day of July.

An agricultural pic-nic was held at New Garden Station in Guilford county on the 29th ult., at which there were about 800 persons in attendance. The farmers were enlightened by the theoretical and practical knowledge of Messrs. Joe Morehead, J. T. Morehead, Jas. Staples, and W. E. Edwards.

The "Guilford Grays" had a reunion in Greensboro' on the 28th ult., at which it was resolved to keep up the organization.

On the 8th inst., at Stinson's Mill, Moore county, the miller, one Mr. Thos. Dawes, was grinding corn when the rock suddenly burst, tearing up the hopper, a piece of which struck Mr. Dawes on the head, felling him insensible to the ground. When he recovered he found the hopper and hopper frame lying upon him.

On the plantation of J. B. Vaughn, of Stokes, two hogs were killed, a horse knocked down and two negroes frightened last week by lightning.

We learn from the Washington telegram that the case of Messrs. Robert and Stephen Douglas, for property seized by the army during the war in Mississippi, pending for some time before the Court of Claims has been decided in favor of the claimants, the court awarding them the sum of $359,000. We congratulate them on their good fortune—Patriot.

The Oxford Leader says: The residence of William Green, Esq., was discovered to be on fire last Thursday morning about 10 o'clock. Mr. Green at the time was at work in the field some distance from the house, and arrived there too late to save more than a bedstead, a few beds and some few other articles of little value. The fire originated from a stove. No insurance.

The Graham Gleaner says: The people of Chatham county celebrated the Centennial on the banks of Haw River. The occasion was in every way pleasant and enjoyable. M. Q. Waddell, Esq., was the selected orator of the day. His speech we hear spoken of as the ablest and most entertaining of his life. No people are more noted for their times of enjoyment and pleasure than those of old Chatham. All the trouble is in getting there; everything is pleasant after that.

The Newbern NUT SHELL says: that Nathaniel M. Gaskill and several members of his family were poisoned a few days ago and barely escaped death. A new and inexperienced cook, employed in the family, had through mistake mixed with the meal cooked for dinner a quantity of rat-poison which was kept in a meal dish in the closet. Dr. Chas. Duffy being called in administered medicines which gave relief.

The Raleigh and Augusta Air line Railway has been extended 10 miles beyond Sanford station; it is claimed that in a month or two the cars will run to Carthage.

The new Jewish Synagogue in Wilmington will cost $20.000.

The Monroe ENQUIRER tells of a cow that gave birth to three calves on the 23d inst., all fine, well shaped and doing well.

The lack of a sufficient membership to sustain a Church in Kinston, has forced the Presbyterians to sell their recently erected Church building to the Episcopalians.

Mr. Geo. W. Harper, who lives on Middle Sound, was attacked and severely wounded by a shot from a pistol in the hands of some unknown person, while he was travelling homeward.

While bathing in Dan River, at Milton, some colored boys discovered a sack of coffee and eight yards of cotton cloth in the bottom of the river. They were supposed to be a portion of the goods lately stolen out of the Depot at Barksdale's.

Mr. James Christopher of Cedar Grove, Caswell county, was instantly killed by being thrown from his horse, near the late residence of Mr. Nicholas Hester, deceased.

THE BLUE AND THE GREY.—The 31st of May was observed in Raleigh as Federal Decoration day and the ceremonies were participated in by many of our confederate soldiers, as well as other citizens of the place. The garrison from the Federal Camp marched to the court House in Raleigh at 4½ o'clock and were joined by the Raleigh Light Artillery, Capt. A. B. Stronach, commanding, and by the Light Infantry, Capt. B. C. Manly commanding. Preceded by the Stanley Brass Band, the procession moved to the Federal Cemetery, east of the City. Prayer was offered by Rev. M. Marshall, of the Episcopal Church and was appropriate to the occasion. Col. I. J. Young read Mrs Finch's beautiful poem entitled "The Blue and the Grey" introducing it by some well timed remarks. Hon. A. W. Tourgee, of Greensboro, was the orator of the day, and delivered an eloquent, sensible and touching address, referring with grateful freling to the commingling of Federal and Confederate soldiers in the memorial exercises, and avoiding any allusion that might be considered offensive to the friends of either section, North or South. After the oration a salute of one hundred guns was fired by the Federal Artillery, and the mounds of the dead were strewed with floral offerings. This is the first instance in which Southern soldiers have joined with the Federals in decorating Federal graves and we trust will have a good effect in proving to the Northern people that in the South no spirit of animosity exists toward the Union.

Recently at New Castle, Delaware, thirteen convicts were placed in the pillory, one of whom received forty lashes, eleven of them twenty and one ten. In addition to the whipping, several of the convicts were compelled to stand in the pillory an hour.

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF RALEIGH EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING.---TERMS $2.20 POSTAGE PAID.

Our Agents.

All the traveling and local preachers in the bounds of the North Carolina Conference are our authorized agents. Any person sending us ten subscribers, for one year, will receive the paper free.

Our Correspondents.

Communications for publication should be carefully written, and on but one side of the sheet. All letters on business should be addressed to the Editor.

How to Remit.

In sending money, all amounts should be sent in registered letter, post office order or check. The cost of registration, or Post office order can be deducted from the amount in hand. If money is sent otherwise than as herein specified it will be at the sender's risk.

INDEX TO NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

We invite attention to the new announcement of A. Creech Esq., who has a large stock of goods which he sells at as cheap prices as can be had in the City.

Messrs W. H. & R. S. Turker greet their large custom with a fresh advertisement of their extensive stock of goods, to which we direct attention.

Dunston and Valentine, excellent Lonsorial artists, vulgarly called barbers, advertise their business in the Advocate knowing that its wide circulation will bring them patrons. Their 'Sidoon,' otherwise 'shop,' is situated on the west side of Fayetteville Street, under the Raleigh Bank where they are prepared, as we know, to give satisfaction to hirsute humanity.

General News.

The Industrial Press Association have accepted the invitation of their New York brethren to participate in an excursion through the latter State.

Jeremiah Hamilton a well known colored speculator, Wall Street, New York City, died suddenly, May 17th. He was said to be the richest colored man in the United States, and was reported to be worth $2,000,000. He had been a slave in the West Indies. He leaves two accomplished daughters.

On the 24th ult. in Memphis the graves of the National and Confederate soldiers were decorated. In the procession were soldiers from both the Federal and the Confederate ranks. The Stars and Stripes and the Confederate flag were carried. Gen. Forest rode at the head of the ex-Confederates.

Miss Jane Semmes, daughter of Raphael Semmes, was married at Memphis on the 5th, to Mr. C. E. Bryan of that city. Bishop Quintard performed the ceremony, which took place beneath the large Confederate flag presented to Semmes by the ladies of Louisville, while commanding the Alabama.

At the recent convention of colored people in Nashville, to consider the question of emigration, resolutions favoring it were adopted. Seven commissioners were elected, who are bound in this work, specially by giving information to the people as to the advantages offered by different States to which they propose to emigrate.

A lumber raft, comprising over ONE MILLION feet, was towed down the Mississippi the other day.

FORGING.--The bearer of an annoymous letter offering one million florins for the assassination of Bismarck has been arrested.

Early in May a series of terrible earthquakes occurred in Boroussia, Asia Minor. 1500 houses destroyed, 1614 lives lost, and 187 persons injured.

A perfect torrent of travel has set in from this country for Europe. The Paris hotels in consequence are completely loaded with Americans.

CURIOUS LITIGATION.--A curious litigation is going on in Bloomington, Ill. About thirty years ago, one Stephen Hilditch had some 1,500 head of cattle and the same number of hogs. Corn was high, stock on the decline, and Stephen, deadly fear of losing all his property, entered into a covenant with God that if he would help him out of the difficulty he would make over all the property he might in future acquire, above enough to support him, to the Lord. During his life he gave away almost $1,000,000 to various religious and charitable institutions. When he died, at the age of eighty, he was thought to be insane, for he had previously conveyed property valued at $150,000 to the Orphan Institute at Flat Rock, Ohio, the Freedman's Aid Society, the Christian Union, the American Bible Society, the Tract, and the Church Extension Society. The conveyances his heirs propose to set aside.

They have formed a factory for the manufacture of animal charcoal at Metz in France which is supplied with bones from the battle-fields of 1870. This product is used in refining sugar.

A British discovering expedition has set out for the Arctic regions, north of the American continent. A Swedish expedition will leave Tromsoe this month and make sail for Nova Zembla.

Every February about 8,000 straw-hat makers start from Belgium and take up their quarters in a suburb of Paris and form a little colony there. Most are married, but all leave their wives and children at home. An experienced man can make at least eight hats a day, and therefore by exercising a little economy, they can easily save thirty francs a week or about 500 francs during their stay in Paris.

Asia Minor has had an earthquake by which about 2000 lives were lost.

Mrs. Robin, the "fat woman" of Barnum's show, died last week, aged 29 years. She weighed 583 pounds was six feet four inches high and the space around her waist seventy inches. She was born in Licking County Ohio.

The French Minister of Agriculture is asking for an credit of $120,000 to repay the expenses of the French Commission to the American Centennial next year.

The Masonic Temple in New York commenced in 1870, has been completed. About $2,000,000 were expended in building, furnishing and decorating the Temple, which is one exception, is the most expensive structure devoted to Masonic purposes in the world.

Hydrophobia is reported as epidemic in Munich and Finland. Not only dogs, but cows and other animals are the victims.

Carl Shurz is managing through the official agency of Berlin, gathering material for a history of the United States which he proposes to write.

An Italian paper says of the Pope who has just entered upon his eighty Fourth birthday, "His step is firm, his arm strong, bright eye, ready and genial voice and unfailing memory all tend to bid the laws of nature have been set aside."

A woman in France who had his foot amputated refused to pay the fee charged by the surgeon and commenced an action against him for damages because the foot instead of being buried, was dissected in the interests of science.

Prof. Reynton in crossing the tides and currents of the English Channel, paddled 1,000 miles.

The grasshoppers have made its appearance in West Florida. One death from it is reported.

Gen. Grant in a letter to the President of the Centennial Commission declines to be renominated for the presidency and that he would accept a renomination except under peculiar circumstances.

Letters and Funds.

Jas W Craig self $2.20. F P Gluck, W L Twitty for Mrs M A Miller 2.20, for "Our L. & L." 3. R V Pierce, Rev J Tillett, Rev J P Simpson. Rev B B Culbreth papers sent. M Blair, E Alden, J C Slocumb for adv 3. Vandunzen & Tait, Rev T A Boone papers sent. Miss Lula Parker, Rev J Tillett, Ed Alden, F B Jones, Rev S Leard for C C Goforth 2. Rev J C Crisp paper sent. J W Howard, W B Owen self 2.20, Rev O J Brent for Mrs Dr Lilley 2 20, Rev B G Phillips for J S Ragsdale 2 20, Rev W H Watkins papers sent, T Simpson self 2 20 Miss W A Carver 2.20, Rev W C Gannon for Rev R G W Neal 1.20, H S Gracie 2 20. C V Lyon, Maggie McCoy, Ed Alden W A Betts F H Matthey self 2 20. Rev A D Betts, Rev T H Rooks, J L Langley for Mr M Langley 2 20 Dr J W Jones, Rev M V Sherrill papers continued. Rev J T Harriss paper continued, H D Guerrant self 2. Col A J Buford G B Watson, self 2 20. Rev E L Perkins, A Moore, Rev F B Andrews papers sent.

Appointments.

CHARLOTTE DISTRICT.

3RD ROUND.

Pleasant Grove ct. at Bethlehem.	June	12-13
Monroe Sta.	"	17
Monroe ct at Liberty Chapel.	"	19 20
South Charlotte at Mill Grove,	"	26-27
Wadesboro sta.	July	2
Lilesville ct at Shiloh,	"	3- 4
Pineville ct at Hebron	"	10-11
Wadesboro at at Bethel	"	17-18
Concord sta. and Concord ct	"	24-25
Tryon st. and Calvary Miss	Aug.	1- 2
Mt. Pleasant, Athemare and Stanley	"	7- 8
Ansonville ct	"	14 15
	"	21 22

J. S. NELSON. P. E
Monroe, N. C

WILMINGTON DISTRICT.

3RD ROUND.

Kenansville at Charity Chapel.	June	20 21
Wilmington 5th St.,	"	27-28
Clinton at Goshen.	July	18-19
Cukesbury at Bethel.	"	25 26
Whiteville at Abbotsburg.	Aug.	1- 2
Elizabeth at Bladen Springs,	"	8- 9
Bladen and Cape Fear Miss.	"	15-16
Topsail.	"	22-23
Magnolia at Harold's Store,	"	29-30
Wilmington Front Street,	Sept	5- 6
Smithville at Smithville,	"	12-13

W. S. BLACK, P. E.
Magnolia N. C.

SHELBY DISTRICT.

3RD ROUND, IN PART.

Cherry Mountain, Hopewell,	June	19 20
Shelby ct. Sulphur Springs,	"	26 27
Dallas, Sander's Chapel,	July	3- 4
Rutherford ct. Pleasant Grove,	"	10 11
Lincoln Ebenezer.	"	17-18
Shelby District Conference,	"	22-25

L. S. BURKHEAD, P. E.
Shelby, N. C.

RALEIGH DISTRICT.

3RD ROUND, Q. M.

Granville at Bullocks,	June	5- 6
Raleigh at Person st.	"	12-13
Louisburg station,	"	19-20
Raleigh at Edenton st.	"	26-27
Tar River at Trinity,	July	3- 4
Henderson at Zion.	"	10-11
Rolesville at Oaky Grove,	"	17-18
District Conference at Oxford, Inclusive.	"	22-25
Nashville and Rocky Mount,	August	7- 8
Gary,	"	14-15
Smithfield,	"	21-22
Youngsville,	"	28-29

The introductory sermon at the District Conference will be preached by Rev. J. E. Thompson.

The District Stewards will please meet me at the Methodist Church in Oxford on Saturday July 24th.

J. P. MOORE, P. E.
Warrenton, N. C

NEWBERN DISTRICT.

2ND. ROUND.

Straits,	April	3- 4
Beaufort, Wednesday,	"	7
Kinston,	"	10-11
Jones, Shady Grove, Tuesday,	"	13
Carteret, Adam's Creek,	"	17-18
Wayne at Stantonburg,	"	24-25
Newbern,	May	1- 2
Lenoir, Piney Grove, Tuesday.	"	4
Mt. Olive, (Dist Conf.)	"	9- 9
Snow Hill, Ormand's Chapel,	"	15-16
Goldsboro,	"	22-23
Neuse and Swift Creek. Bay River,	"	29-30
Craven, Macedonia. Wed. & Thurs.	June	16-17
Wilson,	"	19-20

The District Conference of the Newbern District will commence its session at Mt. Olive on May the 6th, Thursday morning, at 9 o'clock. The general understanding among the brethren is that all will remain until Monday. Brethren outside of the District are cordially invited, and we confidently expect one or both of the Editors of the Advocate.

E. A. YATES, P. E
Beaufort N. C.

WASHINGTON DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

Roanoke at Enfield,	April	3- 4
Tarboro at White's,	"	10-11
Williamston. at Hamilton,	"	17-18
Plymouth and Jamesville, at Plymouth,	"	24-25
Columbia, at Scupernong,	May	1- 2
Bath, at Hebron.	"	8- 9
Mattamuskeet, at Amity,	"	15-16
Washington and Greenville, at Greenville,	"	22-23
Warren, at Bethlehem,	June	12-13

The District Conference for Washington District will hold its session at Plymouth commencing May 27th at 11 o'clock. Opening sermon by Dr. M. Foy.

The District Stewards will please meet me in Plymouth the 27th of May at 3 o'clock P. M.

WM. CLOSS, P. E.

GREENSBORO DISTRICT.

2ND ROUND.

North Guilford at Friendship, Thom'ville, H. Point, and Trinity station	March	20-21
Wentworth, Carmel,	April	3- 4
Winston sta.	"	10-11
Greensboro,	"	17-18
South Guilford, Bethany.	"	24-25
Randolph, Ashboro,	May	1- 2
Davidson at Mt. Pleasant,	"	8- 9
Madison at Leaksville,	"	15-16
Forsythe at Loves,	"	22-23
Stokes,	"	29-30

Fair Grove " 27-28

N, H. D. WILSON, P. E.
Greensboro, N. C.

SALISBURY DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

Salisbury circuit, Gay's Chapel	May,	1- 2
Alexander circuit, Stony Point,	"	8- 9
Wilkes circuit, Bethel.	"	15-16
Yadkinville circuit, Mt. Mariah,	"	22-23
Surry ct & S. Mission, Olive Branch	"	26-27
Mt. Airy Station,	"	29-30
Olin circuit, Clark's Berry,	June	5- 6

D. R. BRITON, P. E.
Statesville, N. C

FAYETTEVILLE DISTRICT.

SECOND ROUND.

Carthage, Fairpromise,	March	20-21
Jonesboro, Cool Spring,	"	27-28
Cumberland, Camp Ground,	April	3- 4
Pee Dee, Sardis,	"	10-11
Buckhorn, Holly Springs,	"	17-18
Fayetteville,	"	24-25
Laurinburg, St. John,	May	1- 2
Robeson, Regan's,	"	8- 9
Rockingham, Green Lake,	"	15-16
Uwharrie, Oak Grove,	"	22-23
Montgomery, Mt. Pleasant,	"	29-30

S. D. ADAMS, P. E.
Carthage, N. C.

The Fayetteville District Conference will be held at Carthage, embracing the 1st Sunday in June, commencing on Thursday before at 11 o'clock. Bishop Marvin will preside.

HILLSBORO DISTRICT.

2ND. ROUND.

Flat River, Mt. Georon,	April	3- 4
Hillsboro station.	"	10-11
Aiamance ct. Bethel,	"	17 18
C. H. & Haw River ct. Boonseer.	"	24-25
Pinsboro ct. Chatham Church,	May	1- 2
Deep River ct.	"	8- 9
Person ct Mt Tirza.	"	15-16
Louisburg ct. Concord.	"	22-23
Yanceyville ct. Shady Grove,	"	29-30

L. L. HENDREN, P. E.
Chapel Hill N. C.

Marriages.

Married in Winston, N. C., at the residence of the bride's father, at 8 o'clock, A. M. on June 2nd 1875, by Rev. H P. Cole, assisted by Rev. J. F. Heitman, Miss Maybelle Gray, daughter of S. Gray, Esq to Thomas Barber, Esq of Danville, Va.,

Married on the 3rd of June at the residence of the bride's mother near Halifax, by Rev. S. B. Andrews Mr. Robt. H Daniel and Miss Lucy Gary, daughter of Mr John R Gary, dec'd.

Married in the Methodist Church South, at Winston N C on the 2nd inst. by Rev H P. Cole Mr. W. M. Hinshaw and Miss Anna White.

Deaths.

☞ Obituary notices of twenty lines are inserted without charge. The excess over twenty lines of short words is charged for at the rate of 10 cents per line. Count the lines and allow short words to the line. In this way you may always know the amount to enclose Resolutions of respect are subject to the same rule.☜

Departed this life on the 28th of April last, in the county of Johnston, our lamented brother Appleswhite Richardson. In the 74th year of his age. Brother R. was a man of great flow of spirits, remarkably fond of pleasantry, in an innocent way, a man of quick temper, and would easily fly into a passion, but soon over, a good citizen, a good neighbor, and an honest man, but unfortunately lived to be old before he embraced religion. Some 7 years ago he became interested on the subject, sought religion, made a profession of the same, and connected himself with M. E. Church South, but he got into a difficulty and believing that he had not the right spirit withdrew from the church, but did not remain out long before he renewed his covenant with God found forgiveness and again connected himself with the same church of which he remained a consistent member until death. The writer went to see brother R. several times during his illness, and conversed with him freely on the subject of salvation. His mind seemed to be stayed on God, I saw him a few days before his death. I asked him if he felt that God was with him, he said he did and felt that his way was clear with regard to the future, and thus passed away. This aged servant of the Lord leaves a christian wife and 17 children to mourn their loss. Some of them are plons and ornaments to Society, others are not christians, we trust that they may become so at an early day, and that this may compose an undivided family in the Lord, 11 of which have passed to the Spirit land making in all 28 children. So our brother, though separated from those on earth has doubtless been greated by those in Heaven. May the blessings of God rest upon the bereaved widow and children of the deceased.

T. B. REEKS.

Mrs Sallie H. Greenlee was born Jan. 11th 1796, and died near Marion N. C., May 26th 1875, in her 78th year.

Sister Greenlee in the early morning of life embraced the religion of Christ, which was an abiding blessing to her through a long life. She was converted at Mt Zion on the Black Mountain circuit at the age of 15 years and joined the Methodist church--for which she cherished the strongest devotion to the day of her death. While she had a high regard for other communions she loved yet more the church of her choice. She belonged to that noble band of pioneers which planted Methodism in this mountain region.

Blessed with native ability and earthly goods she was quick to defend and liberal to support our doctrine and church. Methodism in all its wide range never had a more devoted friend. She loved its preachers. And no where did she weary itinerant find a more cordial welcome than under her roof. Her house was emphatically "the preacher's home." She not only gave of her means to Christ's cause but was herself a great christian worker, and was among the first to establish permanently the Sabbath school in this section. In this department she was a successful and unwearied laborer, both a superintendent and teacher. Many fathers and mothers now remember the pious instructions she gave them in their early youth. In her the poor and unfortunate found a liberal and sympathizing friend. It is may be said of any that they are the children of God because they are peace makers, it may be said of her. She was the happy medium through which contending hearts were brought to peace and love. No one was more regularly found in the sanctuary. She loved to kneel at the altar and hear the word of life and give thanks in song and prayer. But God's purest children are not free from affliction. Death and ill-fortune bereft her of a kind husband, many friends and much goods; age and sickness came in due time. And under such severe afflictions her mind and spirits gave way and this noble christian woman's work was done. But amid all she continually said "The Lord is my shepherd." Her faith and hope were ever the same till death let go her pure spirit to her God and Heaven.

"Farewell, bright soul, a short farewell,
Till we shall meet again above,
In the sweet groves where pleasures dwell,
And trees of life bear fruits of love."

J. T. HARRISS.

Testimony of Respect.

HESPERIAN LITERARY SOCIETY,
Trinity College, N. C.,
May 24th, 1875.

Whereas, It has pleased our Heavenly Father in whose hands alone are the issues of life and death to call from among us our much beloved fellow member, Ellis G. Crawford, therefore,

Resolved. That we have received the tidings of the melancholy event with emotions of profound sorrow, cherishing as we do a lively recollection of his many amiable qualities and great zeal for the success of this Society.

Resolved, That while we bow with humble submission to the decree of the Supreme Governor of all things, we shall ever cherish in our hearts, the sentiments of esteem and friendship, with which his life and character have impressed us.

Resolved, That we cordially extend to the family of the deceased. our sincere condolence and heart felt sympathy in their sudden and afflictive bereavement.

Resolved That our Society, in his death has sustained an irreparable loss, and been deprived of one of its warmest and most zealous members, and that our members wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days.

Resolved That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of the deceased and to the Raleigh Christian Advocate and Salisbury Intelligencer with a request to publish the same and also a copy also be spread upon our minutes.

WYATT A. WILBORN,
J. M. BROWN,
OWEN PARKER,
May 24th.

COMMERCIAL REPORT.

WHOLESALE CASH PRICES.

Office of CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE,
June 8, 1875

REMARKS.

Business continues quiet Meats and sugars are very firm and dull.

COTTON.

Transactions in the staple yesterday very light. Low middlings 14¼@14¼.

General Market.

BAGGING, Domestic 2¼ ℔ yd. 13 @14.
COTTON TIES, Jute
FLOUR, North Carolina $7.50.@
CORN 1s@1 10
CORN MEAL.--$1.00
BACON, N. C. hog round, 15.
" hams 18.
BULK C. R. sides 13 1-2
" shoulders, 11 1-2
LARD, North Carolina, none.
" Western tierces, 171-2 20
" " kegs, 171-2
COFFEE, Prime Rio, 21 1-2
" Fair Rio, 22 1-2.
SYRUP, common, 40.
MOLASSES, Cuba, 50.
SALT $2.25.
CHEESE, Cream, 18 1-2.
" Factory, 17.
" Dairy, none.
NAILS, on leaps for 10d, $4.00.
SUGAR A 11 1-2.
" Extra C. 11 1-4.
" Yellow, 9@10 1-2.
LEATHER, Sole 27 1-2@30
HIDES, green, 7@8.
" dry, 13 1-2
TALLOW, 9@10
POTATOES, sweet none
" Irish, $1.10@$1.25.
OATS, shelled, 85. @90
" sheaf, $1.25.
FODDER, old, $1.75.
HAY, N. C. baled, good, $1.25.
CHICKENS, grown, 20 @30
EGGS, 11 1-2@12 1-2
BUTTER, country, 22 1-2@25.
FISH, Mullets, $4.00.
" Cai Herring, none.
" Mackerel, new family, $12.00
BEES WAX, 25.
RAGS, 2@3
BEEF, on foot, 6@8.
" dressed prime, 8@10

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

GREAT BARGAINS

AT

W. H. & R. S. Tucker.

JUST ARRIVED!

A full assortment of Ladies' Corsets, Franch-woven and American, from 50 cents to $2.50.

W. H. & R. S TUCKER.

ANOTHER CASE OF THOSE

Extraordinary low priced Striped Piques at 14 cents.

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

LINEN LAWNS! LINEN LAWNS!

We have this day received a beautiful lot of Linen Lawns, which we are selling at 18¾ cents. No remnants.

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

TO ARRIVE PER EXPRESS!

The fashionable and much sought after Mackanaw Straw Hats for gentlemen.

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

WE ARE DAILY IN RECEIPT OF

Goods in all the lines of our business, which always enables us to have fresh goods and low cash prices to offer our customers, which accounts for the patronage a liberal public has bestowed on us.

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

BARGAINS.

NOW IS THE TIME.

Just received 3,000 yards Pacific Lawns at A. CREECH'S in short lengths at 12 1-2 cents per yard.

A Great Job,

These lawns are new and good styles and are worth 20 cents per yard everywhere. See the customers daily going to CREECH'S to buy goods They are sensible to the last.

LOOK AT THE PRICES!

Just arrived 3,000 yards 4-4 Bleached domestics at 10 and 12 cents per yard.

A. CREECH.

IN TIME AGAIN.

Just received, 10 p'cs. Imperial White Straw Matting at 30 cts, 10 p'c's Checked Matting at 25 cents.

A. CREECH.

READ THIS!

Just received 3,000 yards plain, striped and plaid cottonnade at 20 cents, well worth 25 cents.

A. CREECH.

JUST RECEIVED.

5000 pieces new and handsome Prints at 6 and 10 cents per yard.

Coats' Spool Cotton at 70 cents per dozen. Common Spool cotton at 11 1-2 cents per dozen, and hope it will be cheaper.

A CREECH.

June 9-2w.

DUNSTON & VALENTINE,

Fashionable Barbers,

Under the Raleigh National Bank. LEFT HAND DOOR as you enter the basement, and the neatest shop in the city.

N. O. DUNSTON, C. H. DUNSTON. J. P. VALENTINE
June 9-tf.

THE WILMINGTON

EYE AND EAR INSTITUTE,

WILMINGTON, N. C.

THIS INSTITUTE HAS BEEN IN SUCCESSFUL operation for the past year, and being the pioneer and only one South of Baltimore specially and exclusively devoted to the treatment of diseases of the EYE and EAR, merits the support of the profession and people of the Southern States.

The number of patients applying for relief is large and constantly increasing, and it is in the power of the profession to maintain a HOME INSTITUTION where speedy relief may be had, particularly in those cases of disease of the Eye which do not admit of ANY DELAY in operating.

The accommodations are first-class, and the Surgeon in Charge resides in the Institution with his family and is assisted by skilled nurses in his care of patients.

Board from one to two dollars a day, including medicines and nursing. Additional charges for professional services and operations, in accordance with the standard fee bills.

Address
DR. M. J. DeROSSETT,
Surgeon in Charge.
P. O. Box 31.

June 2-tf.

$25 a day guaranteed using our Well Auger & Drills. $100 a month paid to good Agents. Auger book free. Jill Auger Co., St. Louis, Mo.
June 2-2t.

THE TOLEDO BLADE

Of National Reputation as a Family Paper. The Largest and Best Weekly in the country. Contains every desirable feature of News, Politics, Science; Domestic, Agricultural and Horticultural affairs. BLADE one year, $2.00; till Jan. 1st, 1876, $1.00.--Five BLADES 3 months, $2 25, Smith's Bible Dictionary, last edition, price $2 50, (800 pages, 175 illustrations,) and BLADE one year, $3.25. All papers post-age free. Address J. P. JONES, Publisher, Toledo O.

June 2-4w.

CAUTION.--NOTICE.--The GENUINE EDITION.

LIFE AND LABORS OF

LIVINGSTONE,

(including the "LAST JOURNAL," unfolds vividly the 31 years' strange adventures, also the outs-kirts, Wonders and wealth of that marvelous country, and is ABSOLUTELY THE ONLY NEW, COMPLETE work. Hence it sells just think 2 000 first 7 weeks. It goes like wild fire 800 pages 100 rare lll's only $2.50 agents wanted. Send for Terms and positive proof of above.

HUBBARD BROS. Pubs. 723 Sansom St. Phila, Pa.

PRICE THIS DAY REDUCED TO

40 Cents Per Gallon,

PRATT'S ASTRAL OIL

--- WILL NOT EXPLODE. ---

Now used in nearly

600,000 Families.

Never an accident directly or indirectly. BURNS IN ANY LAMP
Beware of SO CALLED safety oils.

JULIUS LEWIS & CO.,

Fisher Building,
Raleigh, N. C.

SASH, DOORS, BLINDS, &C.,

At Rock-Bottom Prices.

LARGEST STOCK IN THE STATE.

AND THE GOODS THOROUGHLY SEASONED.

Write for prices

JULIUS LEWIS & CO.,

Fisher Building, Raleigh, N. C.

HARDWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION

WINDOW GLASS, PUTTY, OILS, PAINTS, &c.

JULIUS LEWIS & CO.

OLD NORTH STATE

FIRE

Insurance Company.

OF

WARRENTON, ----- N. C.,

This Company has closed its third year in a condition of GREAT PROSPERITY, and entered upon its fourth year under the MOST PROMISING AUSPICES.

It deserves the liberal patronage which it is receiving because

It is a home institution.
It has ample Capital and Reserves.
It pays its losses promptly.

ASSETS.

Cash on hand and in Bank,	$ 8 421 55
Cash in hands of Agents,	4,984 00
Stock Notes,	53,870 00
Real Estates Mortgage,	59,908 89
Loaned on Collaterals,	7,647 66
Due for premiums,	8,720 63
Interest due and accrued,	944 56
	$180,397 19

LIABILITIES:

All liabilities including full re-Insurance Reserved,	$48,489 91
Surplus,	111,816 85
	$180,397 .8

WM. S. DAVIS, President.
B. F. LONG, Secretary.

A. BAUM,

Professional Butcher,

Ilmington St., Opposite East End Market.

Buys the fattest beeves that can be had. No poor or stranked beef to be seen in his shop. Orders or Mountain stock weekly filled by his agents. The best and choicest meats to be had in the Market, butchered in first class style, are sold you at apl 28-tf BAUM'S.

STUDY YOUR INTEREST!

We strive to increase our trade by giving our customers the best bargains to be had in the city.

PETTY & JONES.

LATEST STYLES AND NOVELTIES of FANS, including Centennial, Thermometer, Turkish, Morocco and Silk, just opened and offered at lowest prices, by

PETTY & JONES.

PRINTS! PRINTS!! PRINTS!!!

Large quantities latest patterns, at

PETTY & JONES.

REAL LISLE THREAD UNDERSHIRTS for Gentlemen and Silk Mitts for Ladies, just opened at

PETTY & JONES.

5000 YARDS BEST AMERICAN LAWN, solid and figured--large variety--this season's patterns, this day opened; worth 8½ cents, but rapidly selling at 12 1 2 cents, by

PETTY & JONES.

COTTONADES! COTTONADES!

COTTONADES!!!

Several new cases; handsome assortment of patterns and variety, lower than at any time of the season, at

PETTY & JONES.

BELDING BROTHERS SPOOL SILK--has in the market--all colors wanted as represented or money refunded at

PETTY & JONES.

ANOTHER LARGE LOT OF those elegant Grass Cloths, 36. 38 and 40 inches wide. Latest shades in plain and cords, at prices which make them cheaper than calicos. Ordered this day at

PETTY & JONES.

WE DO NOT HESITATE TO say that all who examine our stock and prices will be convinced that we keep good and desirable goods, and sell at lowest prices.

PETTY & JONES.
No. 30 Fayetteville Street.

may 26-tf.

The Diamond COTTON CHOPPER.

D. C. C. & C. Co., FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., or to Local Agt.

may 5-tf.

FOR SALE,

The House and Lot, in the city of Raleigh, formerly owned by Mrs. H. A. Husted, on corner of Person and Martin Streets. Six rooms in the Dwelling--Office, Kitchen, &c. A well of good water. Also 25 shares in the Paper Mill property, on Neuse River.

May 1st, 1875.

Apply to J. C. SLOCUMB, Executor, Goldsboro. or W. H. CROW, Esq., Raleigh.
May 12-4t.

THE MENEELY BELL FOUNDRY.

BELLS for Churches, Academies, Factories, etc., of which more have been made at this establishment than at all the other foundries in the country combined. All Bells warranted. An illustrated catalogue sent free upon application to

MENEELY & CO.,
West Troy, N.Y

june 16-12m

THE WORLD IS IN BLOOM. Nature wears her Summer smile. But the victim of Nervous Debility is like a blighted branch in the sunshine. Let him re-vitalize tone and purify his system with

Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient,

and within a week he will feel like a new man.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

June 2-2t

A. G. LEE. ED. H. LEE. CLS R. LEE.

A STRICTLY COMMISSION HOUSE

A. G. LEE & SONS.

RALEIGH, N. C.

We give our entire attention to handling goods on COMMISSION, and therefore can handle to advantage consignments of

Corn,	Corn Meal.	Chickens,
Hay,	N. C. Flour,	Eggs,
Fodder,	" Bacon,	and all the
Shuck,	or Green Pork,	products of
Oats,	Beef,	the farm
Peas,	N. C. Hams,	or garden.

All of which we sell for cash, and are therefore able to make prompt returns. We solicit consignments from Western North Carolina, and the State generally.

We call attention to our friends in the city and neighboring country to the fact that we have made arrangements with shippers to have a constant supply of CORN on hand, and almost always have consignments of the other articles mentioned above. We have to sell for cash but will give you good goods.--Try us.

Cotton is our Specialty.

We can always obtain the highest market price, and ask our friends who find it inconvenient to accompany their lots to the market to try us. We can beat New York in the nett proceeds of your cotton.

When you bring your cotton to market your self give us a chance at it. We have orders to fill and can pay the VERY HIGHEST market price for it. Be sure to call and see us before you sell.

We are the Agents for

The ORCHILLA GUANO and The SOUTH SEA GUANO.

The SCHOFIELD COTTON PRESS, the best invented.

The DIAMOND COTTON CHOPPER--Every one warranted.

A. G. LEE & SONS.
P. O. Box 222, Raleigh, N. C.
march 3-tf

NEW SPRING GOODS JUST ARRIVED

D. S. WAITT & BRO.,

Wholesale and Retail

DEALERS IN

READY MADE CLOTHING

For MEN, YOUTHS and CHILDREN.

Latest Styles and Prices Low.

The celebrated MANHATTEN WHITE SHIRTS, which are acknowledged the best Goods and most perfect Fit that is made. A full line constantly on hand.

Gents and Ladies Hose, Gloves, Suspenders, Handkerchief, Necktiee, Bows and Silk Scarfs. The latest novelties of the Season paper Linen Cuffs and Collars Ladies Leather Belts, Hamburg Edgings and Insertions, Cashs' Ruffings, and Flutings, Ladies Neck Ruffs and Collars, Stamped Yokes and Bands, &c.

DOMESTIC AND FANCY DRY GOODS.

PRINTS, PRINTS, PRINTS.

Black Alpacas.

Corded Jackanets, Striped and Figured Lawns, White Pique, Mul Muslins, Checked Muslins, Nansook and Linen Lawns, Cornett Jeans, Cambrics and Linens.

HATS, HATS, HATS

Newest Styles and Cheap.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

Our Stock is complete in this line. Miles and Taylor's Goods just in and speak for themselves. Other brands which also give satisfaction.

To Country Merchants who buy in the City, we would say give us a call and we will sell goods for cash as cheap as any House in the City, or this side of Baltimore and New York.

To our numerous friends and patrons we again return our thanks for past favors and as our stock is much larger than ever before, we feel confident that we are prepared to do the best that can be done in this city.

D. S. WAITT & BRO.,
54 Fayetteville st., Raleigh, N.

mch 17-tf.

ATTENTION HOUSEKEEPERS!

--- AND ---

Ladies Generally.

Why will you try to cut with dull SCISSORS, and use dull KNIVES when only twenty-five cents will get a perfect sharpener, which will last a lifetime and never get out of order? Every Housekeeper in Raleigh owns one, or has ordered one, and I REFER TO THE FACT to prove the real value of the articles offered. Young men wishing an agency that will PAY would do well to order one for Sample, with price list to agents. All orders should be addressed to

GEO. W. HEPTINSTALL,
Batleld, N. C.

P. S.--The best GLASS CUTTER known can also be bought of me for 25 cts. postpaid. G. W. H.

may 19-tf

NEW MUSIC BOOKS.

GERMAN FOUR PART SONGS. For MIXED VOICES. Just published, is an unusually good collection of entirely new music, by the best modern German composers. Just right for Musical Societies. Price $1.50.

ORIGINAL HYMN TUNES, By H. K. Oliver, the veteran composer of "Federal St." and other favorite tunes, contains 100 Tunes, Chants and Anthems, all original and of the best quality. Price, Boards, 80 cts; Cloth, $1.00.

SEVEN PART SONGS. For Mixed Voices, by J. C. D. Parker, contains new Glees which were successes, when sung by the "Parker Club." Price 60 cents.

PIANO AT HOME, A large collection of Piano forte piece for Four Hands, is full of good and most entertaining music for practice or home recreation, Price $4.50.

☞ Praises of the River of Life, our popular Sabbath School Song Book, come from all quarters, indeed from all who have used it. Sabbath School Men recommend it highly. Price $30 per hundred.

All books sent post-paid, for Retail Price.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston. C. H. DITSON & Co. 711 B'dway, New York.

may 19-tf

J. M. ROSENBAUM,

At Kline's old stand on the corner of Fayetteville and Hargett Streets,

Has received his Spring supply of

Hats, Caps, Boots and Shoes, and everything usually looked for in a

Gent's Furnishing Store.

His stock of

Ready-Made Clothing

(of which he makes a specialty)

For Men and Boys' Wear,

is large and complete, of the latest styles, selected and bought by Mr. Rosenbaum in person, who from long experience, knows what is suited to the Raleigh market. He has also a full supply of the BEST MAKE OF SHIRTS and UNDERCLOTHING. Customers will find whatever they want in the clothing line at and at prices of which they will not find it in their hearts to complain.

ROSENBAUM'S,

Thanking my customers for their past kind and liberal patronage, I trust that they will continue to favor me with their calls and purchases, assuring them that they will get as good bargains from me as they will obtain in any other store in the city.

apl 28-3m

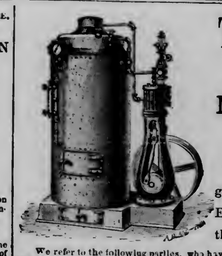
THE GEM

A popular Note Book published at Nashville.--Send for as many dozen as you want.

Price, - - - - - - - 35 cents per copy.

L. BRANSON,
Raleigh, N. C.

pr 8-12m



THE HOPE ENGINE,

MANUFACTURED BY

McCallum, Wyckoff & Hope,

RALEIGH, N. C.

At the N. C. State Fair, 1874, the "Hope Engine" received the GOLD MEDAL, as the best Steam Engine for general use, and the SILVER MEDAL as the best Vertical Engine.

We refer to the following parties, who have our HOPE ENGINE in use: Wm. G. Upchurch, of Williamson, Upchurch & Thomas, Raleigh, N. C., Col. A. W. Shaffer, Raleigh, N. C. Messrs. Farmer & Co., Goldsboro, N. C., S. E. Best, Green county, N. C., Messrs. Dunn, Rieren & Co., Pine Manufacturers, Forestville, We guarantee our HOPE ENGINE equal to the best made North, and we will not

Children's Column.

We trust that our young friends have not lost their interest in the column set apart for their sole and separate use. The questions propounded are not so numerous as they were at first, and of course the answers decreased in due proportion. We cannot believe that the children have learned all about the Bible that it is possible for them to learn and we would urge renewed interest in asking and answering questions. In dividing the domain which we control—the Advocate—into different departments, we, in consideration of the natural love and affection which we entertain for children and in further consideration of two dollars and twenty cents to us paid by the parents and friends of each of the children aforesaid, have given, granted, bargained and sold, and by these presents do give, grant bargain and sell to the children aforesaid, a certain part and parcel of space for reading matter, situated in the Raleigh Christian Advocate, and bounded as follows, to wit: beginning at a point near the top of the fourth page of said Advocate, running downwards to the bottom twelve 'sticks,' thence outward one 'stick;' thence upwards twelve 'sticks' and thence one 'stick to the beginning, containing one column more or less: to have and to hold, together with all appurtenances thereof, to them, their friends and companions, and to their only use and behoof for such time as they shall not tire of its possession. And the parties of the first part do covenant that they are rightly siezed and have full right to convey and that they will warrant and defend the title to said column of space against the claims and demands of any person or persons whatsoever. In testimony whereof, &c., &c., &c.

The above is one deed of donation made of our own free will and accord, and we trust that the gift will be appreciated and used by our little friends.

To set the ball in motion again we will ask how long the Babylonish captivity lasted and for what was it a punishment?

The following answers have been received since our last.

Sudie F. Walker says that the 136th Psalm has 26 verses all of which end alike.

Carrie Evans says that David remembered upon his bed Joab, Shimei, and Barzillai. That Solomon began to reign in the eighteenth year of his age and in the fourth year of his reign which was the twenty-second year of his age, he laid the foundation of the temple and was seven years and six months in building it. Answer to Bible Enigma: Eikanah the father of Samuel.

The Southern Mocking-Bird

The racy editor of the Methodist Recorder, Pittsburg, says: But we must throw aside a handful of botanical specimens, and a page of memorandæ for letter-writing, else we should linger in these Mississippi woods all summer. Hark! "Listen to the mocking-bird!" Yonder on that water-oak, how proudly he balances himself on the swinging bough. Will he sing? Yes. Only hearken. His notes are clearer than the notes of a flute, more shrill and ringing than the falsettos of the most perfect flageolet, endless in variety as if his octaves reached into the ethery skies, and modulated with a grace beyond the range of words to express. He takes up the song of the thrush, the time-beat of the robin, the caroling of some distant swallows too faintly remote for our course ears to hear, the victor-call of the lark mounting into the face of the sun, the chattering of the blue-bird, and a score of remembered cadences from summers that are gone, and—hearken! He transposes them into a new creation. His original variations surpass Gottstalk's grandest liberties with "Home, Sweet Home." He swells his mellow melodies into an anthem; it rises, falls, repents, strikes out, a very blessed babel of confusing, bewitching, captivating song, with notes too quick for pulsing time or quivering heart to tell—a miracle of melody. And all this from the throat of a stray mocking bird, one of a million in the Mississippi woods! If God has so endowed a wild warbler of the forest, what rapturous surprises await us in the eternal morning when the New Song shall strike our ravished ears!

Rural and Domestic.

Uniting Colonies.

It seems to be inherent in the honey-bee to be constantly employed, probably instinctively, in the several avocations that give employment to all the laborers in the hive. While there is honey to gather, in a pleasant fine day for business there will be few idlers found about the hive except the drones. A colony that is favorably located and healthy will generally commence breeding so early in the season as to have a crowded hive by March, April, May or June, depending upon the latitude further north or south. In New England, reckoning from the southern to the northern part of the country embraced in those States, the swarms vary in their commencement from early in May at its southern parts to some time in June at the northern parts.

Divide the colony, when the hive is filled with bees, into three equal parts, placing each part in a hive, giving enough room for full stores for winter, for each of the three colonies, and very little surplus can be secured. Give in surplus boxes the same room that is embraced in the two additional hives, and let the colonies unite in their energies, gathering in one hive, and we obtain a surplus amounting to from seventy-five to two hundred pounds or more, depending upon the field and the season. It is very easily apprehended that three fold energies, put forth in one hive instead of three, give these favorable results in surplus. With such arrangements made that the force from two or even three old colonies may be concentrated into one colony, with surplus boxes equally convenient for storing six hundred pounds of surplus in one hive, why may not that amount be taken from one hive, with the triple force of workers, just as readily as two hundred pounds by one third of the force?

To secure this result it is only necessary to unite colonies in one hive (which is suited to this object, with only room in the breeding apartment for wintering the common product of the queen in the fall season) preparatory to winter. The one or two uniting colonies would be thus reduced by the transfer to one main colony. Might not the plan work favorably? I have so much confidence in it that I think the plan worth a trial. If one colony give two hundred pounds, why may not two colonies, with equal facilities, give four hundred pounds? Or why may not three colonies, thus united, give six hundred pounds? Each breeding department of each hive may go into winter quarters with its winter stores, or be fed if there was any lack, and be ready with full force to enter upon its harvest the next season.—Jasper Hazen, in the Country Gentleman.

WHY CLOVER IMPROVES THE SOIL.—Prof Voelker thus explains the action of clover in increasing the fertility of the soil:

"All who are practically acquainted with the subject must have seen that the best crops of wheat are produced by being preceded by crops of clover grown for seed. I have come to the conclusion that the very best preparation, the best manure, is a good crop of clover. A vast amount of mineral manures is brought within reach of the corn crop, which otherwise remains in a locked up condition in the soil. The clover plants take nitrogen from the atmosphere, and manufacture it into their own substance, which on decomposition of the roots and leaves produces abundance of ammonia. In reality the growing of clover is equivalent, to a great extent, to manuring with Peruvian guano."

Take, for instance, red clover, the best of all green manures. The great English chemist, Prof. Way, of the Royal Agricultural College, at Cirencester, made a perfect analysis of dry red clover, and found every one hundred parts to contain as follows:

Silicia,	0.50
Lime,	22.62
Magnesia,	4.08
Oxide of iron,	0.26
Potash,	25.54
Soda,	10.00
Chloride of potassium,	2.39
Chloride of sodium,	2.53
Carbonic acid,	23.47
Phosporic acid,	6.71
Sulphuric acid,	1.35
	99.45

An Invaluable Travelling Companion.

Change of climate, water or diet is apt in indiscriminating and often dangerous diseases. The three changes combined are fatal to thousands of emigrants every year. It is not, then, of the last importance to know that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are an absolute preventive of the fearful consequences arising from these causes. Travelers, voyagers, and emigrants to new countries can, therefore, confer a favor on their friends by calling their attention to the fact that this agreeable vegetable tonic is the most reliable safeguard against disorders to which they are far more liable than the habitual denizens of fixed regions. The primal effect of the unwholesome atmosphere which produces what are called malarious fevers, is to depress and debilitate the system. The body then becomes an easy prey to the exuberant principle in the air. It is manifest, therefore, that the surest way to avoid all epidemic and endemic maladies is an intermittent type, is to counteract the weakening tendencies of miasm and by artificial invigoration of the digestive and assimilative functions. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a powerful preventive of that loss of the appetite, or imperfect digestion where the necessary arrangements with our friends in the Western part of the State, so that we are almost daily receiving consignments, chickens, Turkeys, Ducks, Geese, Eggs, Butter, Lard, Brown Sugars, Shoulders and Sides, Beef Hams, Venison Hams, Onions, Corn, Irish Potatoes, Dried Fruit, Meal, Hams, Singels, Hay, Fodder, Wheat, Rye, Keg Stock and Black Teas, White and Mixed Beans, &c. &c. We will make this COUNTRY PRODUCE a specialty, to be received daily as soon as the weather will permit. We have made the necessary arrangements with our friends in the West to do this, and guarantee that market can supply.

As to machine not small liability for the Rein per Package purchased and used, we are confident, by adopting the experience of those that have been successful in business, as knowing that "Success to Merit" to deserve your increased patronage.

oct 7-12m

1875 1875

GRAND SPRING OPENING.

NEW MILLINERY STORE.

ENTIRE NEW STOCK!!

Having just arrived from N. York with a New and Fashionable assortment of MILLINERY GOODS, of all the latest Parisian styles, I take great pleasure in announcing to the public that I will open my new and elegant stock for inspection, at my store,

No. 57 Fayetteville Street,

OPPOSITE THE MARKET.

ON SATURDAY, 17th APRIL, 1875.

Trusting that a generous public will bestow their patronage on my efforts to please one and all, both in cheapness, style and quality of goods.

I remain, Very Respectfully,

MRS. E. LEOPOLD,

Leader of Low Prices.

Cheapest Millinery Establishment in the City!

CLARKE'S COMMENTARY—

6 Vols. Splendid sheep binding:

$25.00 per set to Ministers.

L. BRANSON,
Raleigh, N. C.

may 2-12m.

READ THIS

I will give any one an opportunity to make from $2 to $5 per day to work for me. Work easy and light. A boy 10 years old can fill he bill. Send stamp for particulars.

Address
E. J. POWELL, Washington, N. C.

nov. 25 12m.

DR. M'LANE'S

Celebrated American

WORM SPECIFIC,

OR

VERMIFUGE.

SYMPTOMS OF WORMS.

THE countenance is pale and leaden-colored, with occasional flushes, or a circumscribed spot on one or both cheeks; the eyes become dull; the pupils dilate; an azure semicircle runs along the lower eyelid; the nose is irritated, swells, and sometimes bleeds; a swelling of the upper lip; occasional headache, with humming or throbbing of the ears; an unusual secretion of saliva; slimy or furred tongue; breath very foul, particularly in the morning; appetite variable, sometimes voracious, with a gnawing sensation of the stomach, at others, entirely gone; fleeting pains in the stomach; occasional nausea and vomiting; violent pains throughout the abdomen; bowels irregular, at times costive; stools slimy; not unfrequently tinged with blood; belly swollen and hard; urine turbid; respiration occasionally difficult, and accompanied by hiccough; cough sometimes dry and convulsive; uneasy and disturbed sleep, with grinding of the teeth; temper variable, but generally irritable, &c.

Whenever the above symptoms are found to exist,

DR. M'LANE'S VERMIFUGE

Will certainly effect a cure.

The universal success which has attended the administration of this preparation has been such as to warrant us in pledging ourselves to the public to

RETURN THE MONEY

in every instance where it should prove ineffectual: "providing the symptoms attending the sickness of the child or adult should warrant the supposition of worms being the cause." In all cases the Medicine to be given IN STRICT ACCORDANCE WITH THE DIRECTIONS.

We pledge ourselves to the public, that

Dr. M'Lane's Vermifuge

DOES NOT CONTAIN MERCURY

in any form; and that it is an innocent preparation, not capable of doing the slightest injury to the most tender infant.

Address all orders to

FLEMING BROS., PITTSBURGH, PA.

P. S. Dealers and Physicians ordering from others than Fleming Bros., will do well to write their orders distinctly, and take none but Dr. M'Lane's, prepared by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa. To those wishing to give them a trial, we will forward per mail, post-paid, to any part of the United States, one box of Pills for twelve three-cent postage stamps, or one vial of Vermifuge for fourteen three-cent stamps. All orders from Canada must be accompanied by twenty cents extra.

For sale by Druggists and Country Storekeepers generally.

PLEIS' FIT POWDERS.

These Powders have been tested by over 40,000 cases for the cure of Fits (Epilepsy), Spasms, Convulsions, St. Vitus' Dance, Neuralgia, and all Nervous affections, some over 20 years' standing.

When you ORDER STATE AGE.

PRICE, $5 CENTS PER BOX; or sent to any parts of the United States for One Dollar per Box.—These Powders are prepared and sold only by the proprietor, to whom all orders must be addressed,

JOHN M. PLEIS, JR.,

56 North Fairmount street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Please mention that you saw this advertisement in THE CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. may 26-1y

PAULO ALCOTT. WAYNE ALCOTT.

Excelsior Grocery

AND

COMMISSION HOUSE.

LOOK TO YOUR INTERESTS! MONEY SAVED IS MONEY MADE!

We buy our Goods for CASH!

We are now prepared to fill orders for any goods usually found in a First Class Family Grocery, at prices and quality we defy competition.

Having increased capital and facilities, we intend to make our House second to none. We guarantee satisfaction in price, quality and promptness.

We have made the necessary arrangements with our friends in the Western part of the State, so that we are almost daily receiving consignments, chickens, Turkeys, Ducks, Geese, Eggs, Butter, Lard, Brown Sugars, Shoulders and Sides, Beef Hams, Venison Hams, Onions, Corn, Irish Potatoes, Dried Fruit, Meal, Hams, Singels, Hay, Fodder, Wheat, Rye, Keg Stock and Black Teas, White and Mixed Beans, &c. &c. We will make this COUNTRY PRODUCE a specialty, to be received daily as soon as the weather will permit. We have made the necessary arrangements with our friends in the West to do this, and guarantee that market can supply.

As to machine not small liability for the Rein per Package purchased and used, we are confident, by adopting the experience of those that have been successful in business, as knowing that "Success to Merit" to deserve your increased patronage.

oct 7-12m

1875 1875

GRAND SPRING OPENING.

NEW MILLINERY STORE.

ENTIRE NEW STOCK!!

Having just arrived from N. York with a New and Fashionable assortment of MILLINERY GOODS, of all the latest Parisian styles, I take great pleasure in announcing to the public that I will open my new and elegant stock for inspection, at my store,

No. 57 Fayetteville Street,

OPPOSITE THE MARKET.

ON SATURDAY, 17th APRIL, 1875.

Trusting that a generous public will bestow their patronage on my efforts to please one and all, both in cheapness, style and quality of goods.

I remain, Very Respectfully,

MRS. E. LEOPOLD,

Leader of Low Prices.

Cheapest Millinery Establishment in the City!

CLARKE'S COMMENTARY—

6 Vols. Splendid sheep binding:

$25.00 per set to Ministers.

L. BRANSON,
Raleigh, N. C.

may 2-12m.

READ THIS

I will give any one an opportunity to make from $2 to $5 per day to work for me. Work easy and light. A boy 10 years old can fill he bill. Send stamp for particulars.

Address
E. J. POWELL, Washington, N. C.

nov. 25 12m.

A. H. TEMPLE,

(Successor to Lynn Adams,)

Grocer, Cotton Factor

AND

Commission Merchant.

Nos. 5 Martin St. and 5 Exchange Place.

Having succeeded to the business of Mr. Lynn Adams, I am prepared to offer to the public the best inducements in my line and respectfully ask a continuance of the trade hitherto given Mr. Adams, promising to give satisfaction in all cases

In addition to my regular line of goods, I have on hand a full lock of the

STANSON WOOL HATS,

made in Wake county, and adapted especially to the farmer's use.

I have just returned from the North where I purchased a full line of choice groceri s and am now daily adding to my stock. I promise to those who may favor me with their custom to give them as good bargains as they can get elsewhere.

A. H. TEMPLE.

I would respectfully ask my former patrons and friends to transfer their favors to my successor, who will, I am assured, give satisfaction to all who may call on him

I will still keep my office on Cotton Factor in the same building.

LYNN ADAMS

march 17 6-m

WANTED.

AGENTS, male and female, to sell Pictures every where. Fourteen thousand retailed by one. Another writes: "I can make more money in this business than I can on a $10,000 farm, all stocked."

WHITNEY & CO.,
Norwich, Conn.

april 7-3 m.

RESTORE YOUR SIGHT.

Spectacles Rendered Useless.

Save Your Eyes.

RESTORE YOUR SIGHT.
THROW AWAY YOUR SPECTACLES.

Old Eyes Made New.

All diseases of the Eye successfully treated by

DR. J. BALL & CO.'S

NEW PATENT IMPROVED IVORY EYE CUPS.

Read for yourself and Restore your Sight

Spectacles and Surgical Operations rendered useless. The lamentable Blessing of sight is made perpetual by the use of the new PATENT IMPROVED IVORY EYE CUPS.

Many of our most eminent physicians, pastors, students and divines have had their sight permanently Restored for life, and cured in the following diseases:

1. Impaired Vision; 2. Presbyopia, or Far-sightedness, or Dimness of Vision, commonly called Blurring; 3. Asthenopia, or Weak Eyes; 4 Epiphora, Gushing or Watery Eyes; 5. Sore Eyes—specially treated with the Eye Cups—cure guaranteed; 6. Weakness of the Retina, or Optic Nerve; 7. Opthalmia, or Inflammation of the Eye and its appendages, or imperfect vision from the effects of bad or sudden; 8. Photophobia, or Intolerance of Light; 9. Overworked Eyes; 10. Myiodesopsia, or floating specks or floating bodies before the eyes; 11. Amaurosis, or obscurity of Vision; 12. Cataracts; Partial Blindness; the loss of Sight.

Any one can use the IVORY EYE CUPS without the aid of a doctor or medicine, so as to receive immediate beneficial results and never wear spectacles; or, if using now, to lay them aside forever. We guarantee a cure in every case where the directions are heeded, or will refund the money.

2,000 CERTIFICATES OF CURE

from honest Farmers, Mechanics and Merchants—some of them the most eminent leading professional and business men, and women of education and refinement, in our country—can be found at our office.

Under date of March 29 than. Horace Greely, of the New York Tribune, writes: "J. Ball, of this city, is a conclusionless and responsible man who is responsible of intentional deception or imposition."

Prof. W. Merrick, of Lexington, Ky., wrote, April 24th, 1868: "Without my spectacles I can read the note, after using the PATENT by an Extra ordinary Glasses days, and this morning perused the contents of a daily newspaper, and all with the unassisted eye.

"Truly am I grateful for your noble invention. May Heaven bless and preserve you. I have been using spectacles twenty years; I am seventy years old.

Truly yours, PROF. W. KERRICK."

Rev. Joseph Smith, Malden, Mass., cured of Partial Blindness of 18 years' standing, in one minute, by the PATENT IVORY EYE CUPS.

E. C. Ellis, late Mayor of Boston, Mass., says, Nov. 18th, 1868: "I have tested the PATENT IVORY EYE CUPS, and I am delighted with them. I am pleased with them. They are the greatest invention of the age."

Wm. Beasley, M. D., Salvies Ky., writes: "Thanks to you for the greatest of all inventions, my sight is fully restored, after being almost entirely blind for 26 years.

Alex. R. Wyeth, M. D., Alexdor, Pa., writes: After total blindness of my left eye for four years, by paralysis of the optic nerve, I regained its sight with your PATENT EYE CUPS restored my eyesight permanently in three minutes."

All persons wishing for full particulars, certificates of cures, prices, &c., will please send their address to us, &c. We will send our pamphlet on the DISEASES OF THE EYE, PHYSIOLOGY AND ANATOMY OF THE EYEBALL of one hundred pages, free of charge, by return mail. Write to Dr. J. Ball & Co. P. O. Box 957, No. 91 Liberty Street, New York City, N. Y.

For the worse cases of Myopia or NEAR-SIGHTEDNESS use our NEW PATENT MYOPIC ATTACHMENTS, applied to the IVORY EYE CUPS. Has proved a certain cure for this disease.

Send for pamphlets and certificates—free. Waste no more money by ajusting huge glasses on your nose and disfiguring your face

AGENTS WANTED

Employment for all. Agents wanted, Gentlemen or Ladies, for our NEW PATENT IMPROVED IVORY EYE CUPS, just introduced in the market. Very success in unprecedented by any other article. All persons out of employment, or those wishing to improve their circumstances, can make a respectable living at this light and easy employment. Hundreds of agents are making from $5 to $24 a day. To live Agents $30 a week will be guaranteed.

Send your address for full particulars. Sent free of charge to any address. Write immediately to

DR. J. BALL & CO.
NO. 91 LIBERTY STREET,
NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.

P. O. Box 957
Sept 6-12m

ONLY American Organs ever awarded any medal in Europe, or which present such extraordinary excellence as to command a wide sale there.

ALWAYS awarded highest premiums at International Expositions, in America as well as Europe. Out of hundreds there have not been six in all where any other organs have been preferred.

BEST Declared by Eminent Musicians, in both hemispheres, to be unrivaled. See TESTIMONIAL CIRCULAR, with opinions of more than One Thousand (sent free).

INSIST on having a Mason & Hamlin. Do not take any other. Dealers get LARGER commissions for selling inferior organs, and for this reason often try very hard to sell something else.

NEW STYLES with most important improvements ever made. New Solo and Combination Stops. Superb Etagere and other Cases of new designs.

PIANO-HARP CABINET ORGAN. An entire combination of these instruments.

EASY PAYMENTS, for monthly or quarterly payments; or rented and rent pays for the organ.

CATALOGUES and Circulars, with full particulars, free. Address MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., 154 Tremont Street, BOSTON; 25 Union Square, NEW YORK; or 80 & 82 Adams St., CHICAGO.

apl 22-1 year.

A NICE LOT OF HAMS JUST RECEIVED from Eastern N. C., and for sale especially for table use by

A. G. LEE & SON.

250 BUSHELS WHITE SPRING OATS FOR sale by

A. G. LEE & SONS.

A LOT OF FRESH MOUNTAIN BUTTER in kits. Call and examine it.

A. G. LEE & SONS.

apl 14-1w,

SCHEDULES.

PIEDMONT AIR-LINE RAILWAY.

RICHMOND & DANVILLE, RICHMOND & DANVILLE R. W., N. C. DIVISION, and NORTH WESTERN N. C. R. W.

CONDENSED TIME-TABLE.
In effect on and after Sunday, May 30th, 1875.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	MAIL.	EXPRESS.
Leave Charlotte	9 24 P. M	5.55 A. M.
" Air-Line Junct'n	9.32 "	6.01 "
" Salisbury	11.18 "	8.34 "
" Greensboro'	3.01 A. M	10.55 "
" Danville	6.01 "	1.12 P. M.
" Dundee	6.30 "	1.39 "
" Barkville	11.35 "	6.07 "
Arrive at Richmond	2.22 P. M.	8.47 "

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	MAIL.	EXPRESS.
Leave Richmond	1.38 P. M.	5.08 A. M.
" Barkville	4.52 "	8.35 "
" Dundee	10.34 "	1.14 P. M.
" Danville	10.59 "	1.37 P. M.
" Greensboro	2.15 A. M	5.58 "
" Salisbury	5.27 "	8.16 "
" Air Line Junct'n	7.05 "	9.55 "
Arrive at Charlotte	8.05 A. M	10.55 "

GOING EAST.	MAIL.	GOING WEST	MAIL.
Leave Greensboro'	3.00 A. M	arrive	2.15 A. M
" Co. Shops	4.31 "	Leave	12.51 "
" Raleigh	7.5 "	"	9.42 P. M.
Arrive at Goldsboro	10.25 A. M	Leave	6.50 "

NORTH WESTERN N. C. R. R.

(SALEM BRANCH.)

Leave Greensboro'	4.31 P. M.
Arrive at Salem	6.15 "
Leave Salem	8.40 A. M.
Arrive at Greensboro	10.25 "

Passenger train leaving Raleigh at 8.42 P. M. connects at Greensboro' with the Northern bound train; making the quickest time to all Northern cities. Price of Tickets same as via other routes.

Trains to and from points East of Greensboro connect at Greensboro with Mail Trains to or from points North or South.

Two trains daily, both ways.

On Sunday's Lynchburg Accommodation leave Richmond 9.00 A. M., arrive at Burkeville 12.43 P. M., leave Burkeville 4.35 A. M., arrive at Richmond 7.55 A. M.

No Change of Cars between Charlotte and Richmond, 282 Miles.

Papers that have arrangements to advertise the Schedule on this company will please print as above. For further information address

S. E. ALLEN,
Gen'l Ticket Agent.
Greensboro, N. C.

T. M. R. TALCOTT,
Engineer & Gen'l Superintendent.

CHANGE OF SCHEDULE

RALEIGH & GASTON RAILROAD CO.

On and after Friday, May 22nd, 1874, trains on the Raleigh & Gaston Railroad, will run daily (Sunday excepted) as follows:

MAIL TRAIN

Leave Raleigh	9.45 A. M.
Arrives at Weldon	3.30 P. M.
Leaves Weldon	3.50 A. M.
Arrives at Raleigh	4.45 P. M.

ACCOMMODATION TRAIN.

Leaves Raleigh	5.15 A. M.
Arrives at Weldon	5.15 P. M.
Leaves Weldon	2.40 A. M.
Arrives at Raleigh	2.45 P. M.

Mail train makes close connection at Weldon, with the Seaboard and Roanoke Railroad and Bay Line Steamers via Baltimore, to and from all points North, West and Northwest, and with Petersburg Railroad via Petersburg, Richmond and Washington City, to and from all points North and Northwest.

And at Raleigh with the North Carolina Railroad to and from all points South and Southwest, and with the Raleigh & Augusta Air Line to Raymond and Fayetteville.

A. B. ANDREWS,
Gen. Sup't.

RALEIGH & AUGUSTA AIR-LINE RAILROAD.

SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE,
Raleigh, N. C., Oct 27th, 1875.

On and after Monday, October 25th, 1875, trains on the R. & A. A. L. Rail Road will run daily, (sundays excepted,) as follows:

MAIL TRAIN.

Leave Raleigh,	4.00 P. M.
Arrives at Sanford,	6.05 "
Train leaves Sanford,	6.20 "
Arrives at Raleigh	8.25 "

FREIGHT TRAIN.

Leaves Raleigh,	5.10 A. M.
Arrives at Sanford	10.35 A. M.
Leaves Sanford,	12.01 M.
Arrives at Raleigh	3.50 P. M.

Mail Train makes close connection at Raleigh with the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad, to and from all points North.

And at Sanford with the Western Railroad, to and from Fayetteville and points on Western Railroad.

A. B. ANDREWS,
Superintendent.

OFFICE GEN'L SUP'T TRANSPORTATION,
Seaboard & Roanoke R. R. Co.,
Portsmouth, Va., Jan. 1st, 1875.

On and after the date trains of this Road will leave Weldon daily, Sundays excepted, as follows:

Mail train at	4 P. M
No. 1 Freight train at	4 A. M.
No. 2 Freight train at	8 A. M.

ARRIVE AT PORTSMOUTH.

Mail train at	7.15 P. M.
No. 1 Freight at	12.00 Noon
No. 2 Freight at	4.00 P. M.

Freight trains have a passenger car attached.

Steamer for Edenton, Plymouth and Landings on Roanoke river and Chowan Rivers leave Franklin at 7 00 A. M. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

R. G. GHIO,
Supt. Transportation.

STIEFF

GRAND, SQUARE, AND UPRIGHT

PIANOS

Have received awards of FIFTY FIRST PREMIUMS and are among the best ever made. Every instrument fully warranted for five years. Prices as low as the same time on the very best. Second hand Pianos taken in exchange. Monthly or quarterly instalments will be received. Send for illustrated catalogue and price list. Every Piano is guaranteed to be satisfactory or money refunded. Warerooms and Factory, Nos. 20, 22, 24 and 26 Pratt street, Baltimore, Md.

CHARLES M. STIEFF,
Warerooms, No. 9 North Liberty street,
Baltimore, Md.

Factories, 84 to 88 Aisquith st. and 45 & 47 Perry st. Dec 16-2m

AGENTS WANTED FOR

Cross and Crown

THE SORROW AND PASSION of the religion of Jesus Christ as shown in the sufferings and Triumphs of His followers. A richer, more elevated and more thrilling story is not to be found in the whole range of history. Magnificently illustrated on steel with the best engravings of Sartain and Illman, and splendidly bound in the richest and latest style of the art. The most beautiful and attractive book ever offered to Agents. For circulars, with full description, address NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Atlanta, Ga., or New Philadelphia, Pa.

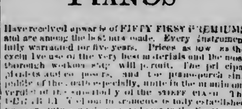
March 10-6m

FROM

HENRY J. BROWN,

Opposite Masonic Hall,

RALEIGH, N. C.,



UNDERTAKER,

Keeps on hand Fisk's Metallic Burial Cases, Self Sealing Metallic Burial Cases, and Walnut and other Wood Coffins. HEARSE FURNISHED.

Also Dealer in Furniture. Repairing and Varnishing Promptly Executed.

aug 19-tf

$250 A MONTH—Agents wanted everywhere. Business honorable and first class. Particulars sent free. Address J. WORTH & CO., St Louis, Mo. Sept 16-9m

$5 TO $20 per day! Agents wanted! All classes of working people, of either sex, young or old, making more money at work for us in their spare moments, or all the time, than at anything else. Particulars free. Address G. STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine. Sept 18-13m

A NEW BOOK.

Life, Sermons, and Speeches

OF

Rev. N. B. Reid, D. D.

LATE OF THE

NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

BY HIS SONS

James W. and Frank L. Reid.

A handsome volume of 536 pages.

A fine Steel Engraving of Dr. Reid in each copy.

NOW READY FOR DELIVERY.

BE SURE TO GET A COPY.

Price in dorocco, gilt edge. $3 00.
" " Cloth. 2 00.

Agents wanted to whom liberal commissions will be made. Single copies sent by mail, postage paid, on receipt of retail price.

Address, REV. F. L. REID, Leasburg, N. C. or JAS. W. REID, Wentworth, N. C.

G. T. LEACH, N. Y. M. T. LEACH

Leach Brothers,

WHOLESALE GROCERS

AND

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

SOUTH-EAST CORNER MARKET SQUARE, Raleigh, N. C.

Again we take great pleasure in presenting our card and returning the ks to the readers of the ADVOCATE for their very liberal patronage during the past ten years, and offer them the largest and best bought stock of Groceries ever offered in any market south of Baltimore, and while just now Bacons, Sugars and Lard are very scarce and high, we have made extra effort, and feel sure we have succeeded in bringing other goods equally low and in end giving our friends all the advantage gained thereby in counter balance any advance in the few goods named.

We wish to invite especial attention to our select stock of stance Sugar and Rarie Teas bought direct from the Factories and offered here AT FIRST PROFITS.

We have now in store:

5 cases Rio Coffee,
10 Mats old Gov. Java,
10 Bbls. A Sugar,
10 Bbls Ex C Sugar,
10 Bbls. B F Yellow Sugar,
20 Bbls Demarara,
20 Boxes Bulk Sides,
10 " " Shoulders,
50 Kegs English Soda,
1,000 lbs. G. D. and Sole Leather,
100 Sides Upper Leather,
50 " Harness Leather,
200 Cases Oysters,
50 " Brandy Peaches,
5,000 Yds. Bagging,
6,000 lbs. Ties,
100 Bbls. Super Flour,
100 Bags Assorted Shot,
50 Bbls Extra Flour,
50 Cases Forrester's Crackers,
" " Soda Crackers,
60 Boxes Factory and Dairy Cheese,
10,000 W P. and G. D. Gun Caps,
1 Kegs Burden Horse and Mule Shoes,
200 lbs. Horse Shoe Nails,
20 Dozen Best Axes,
50 Boxes Adamantine Candles,
101 Boxes Laundry and Toilet Soaps.

We offer especial inducements to country and nearby merchants, and invite an examination of our stock daily competition

Oct 7-12 10 LEACH BROS

L. B. WYATT. B. L. BINGHAM.

Wyatt, Bingham & Co.

Wholesale and Retail Grocers,

COTTON FACTORS

AND GENERAL

Commission Merchants,

No. 4 Market St. and No. 5 Market Exchange,

RALEIGH, N. C.

We tender our many thanks to our several customers and friends for their liberal patronage, and hope to merit a continuance of the same by our strict personal and prompt attention to our business, and by offering to them our large and well selected stock of

BOOTS, SHOES, HATS and CAPS,

Staple Dry Goods,
Cotton Yarns,
Sheetings,
Alamance Plaids, and

General Merchandise,

all of which we guarantee to be as recommended, and to sell at the lowest prices.

OUR GROCERY DEPARTMENT

is complete, and we make FLOUR a specialty and guarantee the lowest prices at retail and wholesale, also the quality to be equal or superior to any offered in the market for the prices.

BAGGING and TIES. SALT and NAILS always on hand and offered at the lowest market prices.

Consignments solicited, which will receive one prompt and personal attention, and the best prices obtained.

Jan 20-tf

THE JAS. LEFFEL Double Turbine Water Wheel,

Manufactured by

POOLE & HUNT,
Baltimore, Md.
7,000 IN USE AT THIS Simple, Strong, Durable, always reliable and satisfactory.

Also manufacturers also, of Portable & Stationary Engines, Steam Boilers, Saw & Grist Mills, Mining Machinery, Coining for Cotton Mills, Flour Mills, Lead and Oil Mill Machinery, Hydraulic and other Presses, &c. Shafting, Pulleys and Hangers a specialty. Machine made Gearing. Catalogue of very best finish. Send for Circulars.

mch 24-6m.

Williams & Haywood,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN

Drugs, Medicines, Paints, Oils, Dye Stuffs, Perfumery,

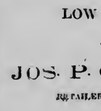
Fancy Articles, Garden Seeds, Fine Teas, Spices, Flavoring Extracts

CIGARS, CHEWING TOBACCO, &C.

Keep constantly on hand, at lowest market prices, White Lead, Putty, Kerosene Oil, Linseed Oil, Lamp Oil, Tanner Oil, Window Glass, Varnish, &c., &c. Dec. 2-1y

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.

Established in 1837.



Superior Bells of Copper and Tin, mounted with the celebrated Rotary Hanging, for Churches, Academies, Factories, Court Houses, Fire Alarms, Farms, Steamboats, &c. Fully Warranted.

Illustrated and Catalogue sent Free.

E. A. MENEELY & SON,
Troy, N. Y.

apr 14-12m

1875. SPRING STOCK. 1875.

NEW GOODS! GOOD QUALITY!!

LOW PRICES!!!

JOS. P. GULLEY,

Dry Goods, Notions, Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Trunks, Valises, White Goods, &c., &c.,

RALEIGH, N. C.

My large and carefully selected stock for the Spring and Summer is now in store, and I respectfully invite all to search of good goods and low prices, to call and examine for themselves.

BURT'S GAITERS and BOOTS FOR GENTS.

To those who have bought and used these goods we need only to say that we have a full line of them.—For durability and neatness of fit they are unexcelled.

Also Mile's and Graff's hand made shoes for the Ladies.

PRINTS!
PRINTS!
PRINTS!

A large stock of the latest patterns, at prices that cannot be excelled.

Respectfully,
JOSEPH P. GULLEY,
Corner Fayetteville and Market Square.

oct 7-1y

PROGRESS THE WATCHWORD

Merit and Success Hand in Hand.

BROOKLYN LIFE

INSURANCE COMPANY,

NO. 141 BROADWAY,

NEW YORK.

Assets- - -$1,500,000.00

CHRISTIAN W. BOUCK, President.
D. P. FACKLER, Actuary.

Wm. M. COLE, Secretary
DANIEL AYRES, M.D., LL.D., Med. Director

POLICIES VALUABLE IN LIFE, AS WELL AS AT DEATH!

The BROOKLYN LIFE is the only Company in America which guarantees

DEFINITE CASH SURRENDER VALUES,

In case a Policy is forfeited for nonpayment of Premium.

THE BROOKLYN LIFE enjoys the highest reputation for judicious investment, economy of management, and care in the selection of risks—combining all elements of administration the security of a Life Insurance Corporation depends.

The laws of New York compel Companies in that State to calculate the cash value of their Policies, each and every year, and in a certain legal standard of reserve and accumulation to be held by the Companies to meet all their liabilities.

Insurers in looking around for Companies in which to insure, should carefully see to this important safeguard. IT WILL BE FOUND IN THE BROOKLYN LIFE.

WM. LITTLE, M.D., MEDICAL EXAMINER.

A. W. LAWRENCE,

General Agent for North Carolina,
Office at Raleigh.

may 18-tf

MOSELEY'S CONFECTIONERY

RALEIGH, N. C.

Is the Place to Buy

French and Plain Candies,

Foreign and Domestic Fruits,

RAISINS, NUTS, etc.,

Fine Cigars, Smoking Tobacco, Chewing Tobacco, Fine Cut Chewing Tobacco, Fancy Good, Childrens' Toys, Carriages for the Little Folks,

CROQUET SET,

BASE BALLS AND BATS.

Marbles, Tops, and Kites,

All at MOSELEY'S

INSURE AGAINST FIRE!

*In PESCUD & SON'S

Raleigh Christian Advocate.

Bobbitt & Gray, Publishers. | Published in the Interests of Methodism in North Carolina. | $2.20 Per Annum, in Advance.

Vol. XXI.---No. 24. | Raleigh, N. C., Wednesday, June 16, 1875. | Whole No. 1,062.

Selected Poetry.

THE FISHER.

Sorrow and strife and pain
Have crushed my spirit with relentless hand;
Long have I toiled, O Lord, and wrought in vain,
But still at thy command.

Into the wide blue sea,
Clinging to thine own word, I cast the net;
Thy covenant was made of old with me,
And I will trust thee yet.

Lord, it is hard to stand
Waiting and watching in this silent toil,
While other fishers draw their nets to land
And shout to see their spoil.

My strength fails unawares,
My hands are weak; my sight grows dim with tears;
My soul is burdened with unanswered prayers,
And sick of doubts and fears.

I see, across the deep,
The moon cast down her fetters, silver bright,
As if to bind the ocean in his deep
With links of living light.

I hear the roll and rush
Of waves that kiss the bosom of the beach,
That soft sea voice that ever seems to hush
The tones of human speech.

A breeze comes sweet and chill
Over the waters, and the night wanes fast;
His promise fails; the net is empty still,
And hope's old dreams are past.

Slow fade the moon and stars,
And in the east the new dawn faintly shines
Through the dim gray shadows, flecked with pearly bars,
And level silver lines.

But lo! what form is this
Standing beside me on the desolate shore?
I bow my knees His garment's hem to kiss!
Master, I doubt no more!

"Draw in thy net, draw in."
He cries: "Behold the straining meshes break!"
Ah, Lord, the spoil I toiled so long to win
Is granted for Thy sake!

The rosy day blooms out
Like a full-blossomed flower; the joyous sea
Lifts up its voice; the winds of morning shout
All glory, God, to Thee!

—SUNDAY MAGAZINE.

Communicated.

For the Advocate.

REVIVALS--NO. 4.

Do revivals leave any permanent effects behind them? One would suppose this a useless question, were it not for the fact that just at this time the newspapers in England and America (many of them) are predicting that the mighty onward sweep of the revival spirit will be like the keel of a ship upon the ocean, that displaces the waters for a moment, but leaves no track upon the sea.—Some of the English papers have been very abundant in such predictions, and the sentiment has been echoed back and forth, from all quarters, whose skepticism and formalism prevail. If it be true that revivals leave no permanent effects behind, then revivals are of no benefit to the religious world. But all the facts are against such conclusions.

That many should turn back to their former ways is natural, and just what we are to expect. Christ in his parable of the Sower prepared our minds to expect such results. Some seed will fall upon hard, unbroken ground, some on stony places, some among thorns; these all fail to mature, but those in good ground give permanent results. This is Christ's picture of the work. According to this, three classes out of four are unreliable.—But the fourth class prove abundantly good, and the results are multiplied most encouragingly.

With such a picture before us, drawn by Christ, who knew what would result, we are not to expect fidelity in all, and yet we have reason to expect grand results.

The practical workings of revivals give us precisely the results indicated in the parable referred to. In every revival there are results to be traced that point back to their origin when many long years have passed away. Under the preaching of Luther, Malancthon, LeFevre, Farrel, Zwingle, and others of the great reformation, many thousands rushed into the work. In some instances a week's work would change the determinations of a whole town, and hundreds were often brought into the work by a single sermon. What was the final result? Although many turned back, yet the great structures of Protestantism to-day attest the permanency of the work. Bad men and formalists then, as now, were arrayed against it, and often hunted it down, in blood and fire; yet its march has been onward, so that to day Protestant Christianity is the intellectual lever that throws the nations heavenward in the path of time.

When the Wesleys began their ministry, and the great awakenings under them attracted public attention, formal churchmen wrapped their gowns around them, and cast a cold look of scorn upon "field preaching," and "undue excitement." Others twittered at "baby-baptism." The mob raged with thirst for blood, and often pelted the preachers and people away with stones. The preachers sometimes went with their faces gashed and bleeding to their rooms to escape the violence of their brutal persecutors. High Church dignitaries chuckled among themselves at the prospect of a speedy downfall of the movement. It was pronounced "evanescent." More than one hundred and thirty years have passed away since then, and the results are before the world. These revivals have swept on, wave after wave, until scarcely a mount or vale in Christendom has been free from the echo of the songs of joy, that bear the soul heavenward as on the pinions of hope and love. The isles of the sea have heard the shout and caught up the melodious strains, and the nations afar off, that sat in all the ignorance of barbarism, are beginning to tremble and rejoice under the soul-lifting songs of revival meetings. The work goes on.

Revivals are always a source of annoyance to bad men, whether within or without the pale of some church organization, and their only consolation is to predict "no permanent results." The Pharisees did the same for Christ. But the proper way to view the matter is, to notice the aggregate results of the entire work; not to judge of one case or of one locality. The grand outline spreads, and bids fair to encompass the earth. It shows the hand of the mighty God in his own works. E. L. P.

The First Decade Revival.

Dr. Lovick Pierce wrote the following interesting letter to the Rev. Albert Hunt, D. D., of New York. It was published in the New York Christian Advocate. Such a shaking in the valley of dry bones of the present period would be a blessing. Perhaps it may come.

DEAR BRO. HUNT: I will now write of the great revival during the first decade. It was a great phenomenon, about which many conjectures were put forth. It was a confounding sight to infidels; for, after all that science could do or say, the phenomenon could not be woven into either epilepsy or catalepsy. To the old predestinarian professors—and they made up nearly all who professed religious affections or affinities—it was a provoking mystery, but was Methodist sorcery. The Methodists had first entered that part of our State—South Carolina—in 1801, and in 1808 this astounding phenomenon took place, at our preaching-place and my father was the first subject of it in the congregation. Many others were also made subject to it. But it was set down as Methodist enchantment, because no such diabolical visitation had ever fallen upon the people until after the Methodist preachers came into the country.

To place the case into the hands of legerdemain anyhow, on that very day Rev. Thomas Darby, then our circuit preacher, said, when he got up: "If my feelings do not deceive me, you will see strange things here to day." And so we did; but it made him a magician sure. But the bitterness of the pill was mainly in this: that to acknowledge this to be a work of God was to acknowledge that these Methodist preachers were ministers of Christ: and this they could not be, because they were pulling down the old Calvinistic castle and building up a new something. They even held that one of these supposed elect could fall from grace. So they denounced the whole as a grand heresy. The falling down was all affected, and the shouting was all wild fire and fox-fire, etc., So we agreed that at their next monthly meeting we would close up and worship with them, to show them we were brethren. And so we did.

The minister preached; and, as his wont was, opened the door for the giving in of experience. My brother Reddick, full of faith, not understanding what the invitation meant, and always having something to say for the Lord, rose up in one corner of the house and commenced an exhortation in Methodist style, and in thirty minutes I could have walked over the floor on those slain of the Lord. Such a religious uproar had hardly anywhere come off before. The minister stood in his pulpit, tears streaming. At last he came down crying, and said: "What is this? I never felt so before. I feel as if the big end of my heart was up:" and no doubt it was up.

The same thing came off again in another of his churches, under a sermon from the same Darby, who was considered the magician in this reign of frenzy. Thus did God open his own way.

As to the case alluded to by Stevens, in which I am mentioned, it is substantially true. It was in 1806 at a camp meeting six miles from where I am now writing. The congregation was so large we had to preach at three stands. I was mounted on a table three feet square, with an immense crowd around me. I took for my text Romans vi, 6. I am astonished now at my presumption. But the power of God came down and the people fell in piles. The noise of crying for mercy and praising him for salvation became so overwhelming that I could not be heard, and I sat down cross legged upon my table and looked on upon the mighty power of God It was a day never to be forgotten. I never knew how many were converted.

And now, as to the phenomenon itself. I can only give it to you as I saw it, perhaps in a thousand instances. Occasionally it was preceded by a singular rigor, but generally the first that was seen was a simple tumble from the seat as if dead—often without a groan of mental anguish, sometimes with a dreadful shriek, as if death's arrow had pierced them. This condition was evidently for the purrpose of making all men see that it was supernatural. It fell upon all classes. Its results in different grades of life were all alike. There was nothing like life in it except heart, pulse and breathing. They were as rigid in their joints as death. Raise them up by the head, they came up like a corpse—stiff. Most of them were never heard to utter a moan, a groan or a prayer while in this state.

The first change we could see in them was an opening in the muscles of the face, like the beginning of a very rich smile; when, bounding to their feet, they most generally commenced with a loud shout, followed by exhortations of the most extraordinary pathos and eloquence I have ever witnessed. Very few of them ever turned back. I cannot from memory say any of them did. Their new living and good living was proof of its divine order. I saw eleven of this class fall at once under one of my brother's exhortations. But multitudes got religion then just as they do now, only with a hundredfold more anguish for sin than now. This is my unsolved problem.

LOVICK PIERCE

SPARTA, GA., March 3, 1875.

Engineering Two Thousand Years Ago.

Perhaps some of the most remarkable remains of ancient engineering are those which were discovered by excavations made some ten or twelve years, since, a short distance from Rome, and near the ruins of the ancient city of Alatri. This city was surrounded by massive walls, and located on a mountain of elevated point, and ill provided with water. About 150 years before Christ, as we learn from a Roman inscription, an immense aqueduct was built to bring water from a neighboring mountain better supplied with that element. We are furthermore told that this aquednct was 340 feet high, supported on arches and provided with strong pipes. The topography of the country, moreover, assures us that the water supply could not have been conducted into the city, even over such high supports, except by pipes—an inverted syphon—the lowest point of which must have been some 340 feet below the point of delivery, or under pressure of at least ten atmospheres. The excavations already alluded to show that the aqueduct must have been of large size, as the piers of the arches are not less than five feet nine inches in breadth, while the total length of the syphon must have been between four and five miles. The question naturally arises—How, and of what material, was this syphon built? As iron pipes of large dimensions, if of any dimensions at all, were not known at the era, we can only look to masonry or woodwork for the material of such construction. Possibly a clue has been fonnd to the mode of their construction by a subseqnent discovery, near the same locality, of a field, supposed to have been the site of an ancient parade ground, near this once walled city of Alatri. A complete system of underground drainage has been revealed at a depth of about seven feet below the surface of the field, effected by a well-constructed system of pipes made of fire-clay, each about eighteen inches in diameter. It is possible that such a pipe, of larger dimensions, and strengthened on its exterior by a strong and massive bulwark of masonry, may have been the means of conveying the water into the city. But, however that end might have been attained, the work was certainly a most wonderful feat of engineering, considering the condition of the mechanic arts of that early day. The excavations and discoveries thus brought to light, and so fully confirming the trnth of the ancient inscription, were conducted by order of the present Pope, and under the immediate supervision of the well-known Italian scientist, Father Secchi.—Brooklyn Journal of Education

The Important Question.

A sceptic once asked the late Dr. Nettleton, "How came I by my wicked heart? "That," he replied, "is a question which does not concern you so much as another, namely, how you shall get rid of it. You have a wicked heart, which renders you entirely unfit for the kingdom of God; and you must have a new heart, or you cannot be saved; and the question which now most deeply concerns you is, how you shall obtain it." "But," said the man, "I wish you to tell me how I came by my wicked heart." "I shall not," replied Dr. Nettleton, "do that at present, for if I could do it to your entire satisfaction it would not in the least help you toward a new heart The great thing for which I am solicitous is, that you should become a new creature, and be prepared for heaven." As the man manifested no wish to hear anything on the subject, but still pressed the question how he came by his wicked heart, Dr. Nettleton told him that his condition resembled that of a man who is drowning, while his friends are attempting to save his life. As he rises to the surface of the water, he exclaims, "How came I here?" "That question," says one of his friends, "does not concern you now. Take hold of this rope." "But how came I here?" he asks again. "I shall not stop to answer that question now," replies his friend. "Then I'll drown," says the infatuated man; and, spurning all proffered aid, sinks to the bottom.—The Student's Handbook to Scripture Doctrines.

Both Sides

A man in his carriage was riding along,
A gaily-dressed wife by his side;
In satin and laces she looked like a queen,
And he like a king in his pride.

A woodsawyer stood on the street as they passed,
The carriage and couple he eyed;
And said, as he worked with a saw on a log,
"I wish I was rich and could ride."

The man in the carriage remarked to his wife,
"One thing I would give if I could—
I'd give my wealth for the strength and the health
Of the man who is sawing the wood!"

A pretty young maid, with a bundle of work,
Whose face, as the morning, was fair,
Went tripping along with a smile of delight,
While humming a love-breathing air.

She looked on the carriage; the lady she saw,
Arrayed in apparel so fine,
And said, in a whisper, "I wish from my heart
Those satins and laces were mine."

The lady looked out on the maid with her work,
So fair in her calico dress,
And said, "I'd relinquish position and wealth,
For beauty and youth to possess."

Thus it is in the world, whatever our lot,
Our minds and our time we employ
In longing and sighing for what we have not,
Unthankful for what we enjoy.

Beyond Comprehension.

When Daniel Webster was in his best moral state, and when he was in the prime of his manhood he was one day dining with a company of literary gentlemen in the city of Boston. The company was composed of clergymen, lawyers, physicians, statesmen, merchants, and almost all classes of literary persons. During the dinner, conversation incidentally turned upon the subject of Christianity. Mr. Webster, as the occasion was in honor of him, was expected to take a leading part in the conversation, and he frankly stated as his religious sentiments his belief in the divinity of Christ, and his dependence upon the atonement of the Saviour. A minister of considerable literary reputation sat almost opposite him at the table, and he looked at him and said: "Mr. Webster, can you comprehend how Jesus Christ could be both God and man?" Mr. Webster, promptly and emphatically said: "No sir, I can not comprehend it. If I could comprehend Him He could be no greater than myself, and such is my conviction of accountability to God, such is my sense of sinfulness before Him, and such is my knowledge of my own incapacity to recover myself, that I feel I need a superhuman Saviour."—Bishop Janes.

To young men the road up the hill may be hard, bnt at any rate it is open, and they who set stout hearts against a stiff hill shall climb it yet. If young men would deny themseves, work hard, and save in their early days, they need not keep their noses to the grindstone all their lives as many do. Let them be teetotalers for economy's sake; water is the strongest drink; it drives mills. It is the drink for lions and horses, and Samson never drank anything else. The beer money would soon build a house—C. H. Spurgeon.

Passages from Mr. Moody's Sermons.

The reports of the labors of Messrs Moody and Sankey in London now reach to near the end of the second month. During the greater part of April, says the Christian World, services were conducted daily in each of the four divisions of the metropolis. Messrs. Moody and Sankey divided their labors almost equally between the East and the West ends—officiating at her majesty's Opera-House in the Haymarket at the daily noon prayer meeting, and also at an afternoon Bible reading, while in the evening they were generally present at the service in the Bow Road Hall. On two evenings of each week they returned to the Agricultural Hall, Islington

The Christian World has published sixteen of Mr. Moody's sermons in full. We find them abounding in homely illustrations and touching anecdotes.

A SUDDEN CONVERSION.

